The great mid-western states—in which some of the biggest industries of the country are located, great mining communities and centers of transportation—will be on the Communist ballot in this election, and the workers and exploited farmers who have grown tired of the misleading propaganda and false promises of the capitalist parties will this year have an opportunity to protest against the capitalist system by voting for the national Communist candidates, Foster and Gitlow; for the state candidates, and for the Communist program.

In a report made by Jack Stachel, organizational secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, to the Central Executive Committee, after a tour of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kentucky and Tennessee, he declared that every one of these states would be on the ballot—Michigan and Pennsylvania are already on—in the November elections.

Enthusiastic Response.

Stachel reported that the members of the Workers (Communist) Party everywhere found a ready response to their requests for signatures to place the Communist ticket on the ballot. Shaffer, campaign manager, reported that in Cleveland, Ohio, alone 10,000 signatures were collected and 1,800 in Youngstown.

Pat Devine of Minnesota reported to the organizational secretary that nearly the required number of signatures were on hand and that both the national and state tickets would be on the ballot. The farmer-labor party of Minnesota, once a strong organization, is now demoralized and dominated by reactionary elements, who are playing hide-and-go-seek with the interests of the workers and poor farmers and flirting with the republican and democratic parties.

Good Opportunity.

In Wisconsin it is not possible to proceed with the task of collecting signatures until after the primaries, but there is no doubt about the ability to collect the required number and get the national and state tickets on the ballot.

In Indiana, a great coal-mining and manufacturing state, once a socialist stronghold and in recent years one of the states controlled by the political apparatus of the Ku Klux Klan, the Communist petitions are in circulation, and enough signatures to put the Party on the ballot will undoubtedly be collected.

Stachel reported that the comrades in the various districts were enthusiastic over the campaign and realized what a splendid opportunity it presented to reach the workers with Communist propaganda. "An

Y. W. L. MEMBERSHIP MEETING TUESDAY

Tomorrow there will be a general membership meeting of the Young Workers League of District 2. Matters of great and immediate importance will be taken up at this meeting.

The meeting will be held in the Workers' Center, 28 Union Square. Every League member must be present.

FORM NEW MINE UNION SEPT. 9 AT PITTSBURGH, PA.

Committee Warns That Vital Meet Is Only Week Away

Must Stop Lewis Dues

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 2.—With the day only one week away when the rank and file coal miners from every mining region of the United States will send delegates to Pittsburgh to participate in a convention for the purpose of building a new miners' union in place of the wreckage of the United Mine Workers left by John L. Lewis and his machine, the National Miners Arrangement Committee has issued the following appeal:

"The most important task before you at this moment is to elect delegates to the National Miners Convention to be held in Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 9-16, 1928.

"Only one week remains until this important convention takes place.

"Make it your duty to have your local union represented! Hold your local union meeting, get into action today!

"On to the National Miners Convention! Build a new, powerful, honest and militant national miners union.

Break with Lewis Machine.

"Sept. 9 will mark a new milestone in the history of the American coal miners. We will break away from the betrayers of our many strikes, from the tools of the operators who have smashed our once powerful organization district by district. We will break with the contemptible and criminally corrupt Lewis machine, that has just completed the most vicious betrayal of all—the abandonment of the Jacksonville Scale, the surrender of the National Agreement, and instructing each district to go to the operators and beg for what pittance they can get.

"The United Mine Workers of America was once a strong, powerful organization. Today it consists of nothing but the corrupt Lewis machine and a handful of supporters. Even Lewis will soon turn his back upon it. To save his big salary he is now trying to have the coal operators join him in a traitorous company union scheme, to secure the check-off as the rake-off for the Lewis machine.

"Stop paying dues to the Lewis machine! Why pay dues to those

SOVIET YOUTH IN GIGANTIC RALLIES

Kellogg Pact Shown Supported on Guns

MOSCOW, Sept. 2. (UP).—Twice within the last 24 hours, Moscow has witnessed demonstrations reflecting on the Briand-Kellogg outlawry of war treaty which has been adhered to by the Soviet Union.

Every boy and girl who could be recruited here today marched in a gigantic parade celebrating International Youth Day. Among the many banners and floats which passed along the streets of the capital, those satirizing the anti-war pact predominated.

One elaborate float showed the treaty supported upon cannon and bayonets.

The first public move against the Briand-Kellogg pact had been made Saturday night at the closing session of the Congress of Communist International. A manifesto was issued attacking the "pacifist lies," such as the anti-war treaty and warning against the "treachery" of social democrats.

The manifecto summoned workers, farmers, soldiers and sailors of the world to support of the Communist revolutionary activities and to the work of supporting the Soviet Union. The Congress also approved methods used toward Russian and other oppositionists.

Ex-Governor Puts His O.K. On Lynching

(Special to the Daily Worker)

JONESBORO, Ga., Sept. 2.—In a speech in which he warmly supported the candidacy of Al Smith for president, Ex-Governor Tom Hardwick of Georgia upheld the lynching of Negroes here Friday night.

Hardwick, who has posed as a "liberal" and a friend of the socialists, said it was alright to lynch Negroes if the public thinks they are guilty of a crime. Appealing to every traditional prejudice of his audience, Hardwick declared that Tammany Hall is the friend of the property owners of the South and called on them to vote for Al Smith. "I'll vote for Al because I am a white man," he blustered.

While inciting the whites of Georgia to launch a terror against the Negroes in the name of Al Smith and Tammany Hall, the former chief executive of the state at the same time took pains to dispel any anti-catholic prejudices among his hearers by pious appeals for "religious tolerance."

MILL STRIKERS MARCHING TODAY

Fakers Working Hard to Betray Struggle

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 2.—With all decks cleared for the mass demonstration of strength which the textile strikers here are to exhibit in the huge Labor Day parade tomorrow, rumors of unofficial negotiations between the officialdom of the reactionary Textile Council and the mill owners flood the city.

Leaders of the New Bedford Textile Workers Union of the Textile Mill Committees are issuing emphatic warnings to the masses of strikers to beware of any attempts at a betrayal of the strike.

Finishing touches on parade preparations were made by the union leaders this afternoon. Weisbord, William T. Murdoch and Jack Rubinstein will lead the column coming from the north end. Fred E. Beal and Eli Keller will head the south end division and James P. Ried and S. Weissman will march at the head of the Fall River strikers' contingent.

Fraternal and sympathetic organizations will participate in the parade, marching as separate divisions. The New Bedford sections of the Workers (Communist) Party and Young Workers (Communist) League are to march under their own banners.

Police Charge Strikers.

The police charged a crowd of about two hundred strikers besieging a store on Nash Road, where a scab, Manuel Camara, was seen entering last night. Following a report rendered at the Block Committee, which includes the Paige Mill to the effect that Camara was scabbing there, strikers volunteered to investigate the case. At 6:30 Camara was seen entering the store by members of the Strikers' Children Clubs and it was only until 10:30 that Camara was finally escorted home by police in an automobile.

SOVIETS REPORTED SET UP IN INTERIOR CHINA; RED ARMIES SWEEP ON

Nanking Rushes 20,000 to Fight the Worker-Peasant Advance

Communists Gain Honan, Kiangsi; Distribute Land

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2.—With the area of virtually two provinces under the government of Interior Chinese Soviets, the Nanking government is rushing 20,000 picked troops, which participated in the capture of Peking, against the steady and relentless advance of the Worker-Peasant army at Honan and Kiangsi.

The spread of Communism to the entire Sixth Army is reported to have given an acceleration to the advance of the Worker-Peasant forces which cannot be overestimated.

Soviets Established.

Nanchang lies directly in the path of the advancing Worker-Peasant troops and its capture by the armies is believed to be a question of days only.

Reports from the interior confirm the rumors that the Kian and Yunghsin districts, the most fertile in the province, have elected local governments and are proceeding with the distribution of land immediately.

Land Distributed.

Three mou of farm land is the maximum distributed to all male peasants between the ages of 18 and 40 according to reports reaching here. The mou is equal to about one-fifth of an acre.

As the armies advance increasing forces of peasantry are being liberated by the Interior Soviets and the newly recruited forces are said to be among the staunchest supporters of the workers' and peasants' government.

The entire northern frontier of the Honan and Kiangsi provinces are protected by natural formations, and the poor roads make the advance of the counter-revolutionary Nanking armies a difficult task involving weeks. This has given rise to the belief here that Nanchang and several other towns will have fallen before the invasion from Peking becomes menacing.

YOUTH CONGRESS STRESSES TASKS AT WORLD MEET

Plans Now for Underground Organizations

Special Cable to The Daily Worker

MOSCOW, Sept. 2.—Concentrating on the present situation of the working youth throughout the world, and laying special emphasis on the tasks of the Young Communist International, the third plenary session of the Y. C. I. opened here yesterday under the chairmanship of Mehring.

Gorkitch made the report for the Executive Committee of the Young Communist International on the organizational situation. He said:

Greek, Swedish Leagues Strong.

"The Yonug Communist Leagues of Sweden and Greece are the only ones that are growing steadily. The membership of the large leagues in various countries are at a standstill, and the small leagues are diminishing. Illegal leagues are making fine progress in spite of their subjection to the white terror.

"The Young Communist Leagues' strength, compared to the strength of the Communist Parties, is insufficient, with the exception of the Swedish league, which makes up 84 percent of the Swedish Party's strength. The Young Communist Leagues in capitalist countries are not yet mass organizations.

New Leagues Formed.

"The following new leagues have been formed since the Fourth World Congress of the Young Communist International: Australia, Palestine, South Africa, Indonesia, Persia, Honduras, San Salvador, and India. One of the most important links is the formation of Leagues in Central and South America.

"The children's movement is progressing. Twelve new organizations have been formed since the last Congress. Individual countries, however, are losing in membership as a result of wrong methods. The

ZOGU IS KING; SEE BALKAN WAR

Fascists Now Masters of Country

VIENNA, Sept. 2.—The kingdom of Albania was formally established yesterday by the Albanian Constituent Assembly, while a delegation of deputies waited upon Ahmed Zogu to inform him of his elevation to the throne, according to a dispatch from Tirana. With the assumption of the kingship by Ahmed Zogu is seen the final triumph of Italian influence in Albanian and hence in Balkan, affairs.

Experts here regard the establishment of the kingdom of Albania a fraught with the gravest consequences of war if the Italians continue their policy of gradual interference in Balkan affairs, and there is no probability that they will cease.

While there is every indication that the Jugo-Slav government anxious to avert war, at least until it is stronger nationally and through further alliances, it is believed that the Italian dream of turning the Adriatic sea into a Roman lake with Italy controlling both shores will be sufficient to bring on open hostilities in the not distant future.

GERMAN TAILORS FIRM

40,000 Now in Second Week of Strike

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Policies and tactics of the rank and file and not of the union officialdom is about to be crowned with success in the big general strike of 40,000 tailors, who are fighting for a ten per cent wage increase, according to admissions in the employers' trade journals here.

With the strike barely two weeks old, the employers' associations are already beginning to apply to the workers organizations for conferences to settle the strike which has successfully tied up the entire industry. News items carried in the trade papers alluded to, admit that the strike will not be of long duration due to the big Liepzig Fair, now in progress.

Reformist leaders of the mens' clothing workers' unions had refused to obey the workers' demand for an immediate strike at the time em-

ecruits at Fort Hancock and Plattsburgh Get C. M. T. C. Bulletins Through Ma

EN AID YOUNG ORKERS LEAGUE GET NAMES

uthorities Baffled by Distribution

Three hundred and thirty recruits at the Citizen's Military Camp at Fort Hancock and 500 at Plattsburgh received copies of special bulletins issued by young Communists in both camps.

Delivered to the recruits through the mails, the Fort Hancock army authorities were completely taken by surprise when they discovered that the bulletins had flooded the camp. It has since been learned that they tried to stop the letters in which the bulletins were contained from reaching their destinations, but were unable to find a legal pretext to do so.

Reports received by the Young Workers (Communist) League in this city declare that the young workers and students were intensely interested in the contents of the bulletins and its expose of capitalist militarism, the dangers of a new imperialist war and the role which they will be expected to play.

Many of the recruits wanted additional bulletins to take home with them, it was found.

The bulletins, which were mimeographed, contained pointed and instructive articles. The following is typical:

"This is what the C. M. T. C. offers: (1) Training for cannon fodder for Wall Street; (2) Anti-labor teaching and strikebreaking; (3) Anti-Soviet propaganda; K. P. duty; hard drill; (5) Service to the boss class.

"Some fighting points of the Young Workers (Communist) League: (1) Against all capitalist wars; (2) For organizing young workers into labor unions; (3) For defense of the Workers' Soviet Union; (4) Four weeks' vacation with pay for all young workers; (5) Abolition of child labor; (6) Unemployment relief; (7) Loyalty to the working class."

In addition to these the recruits were urged:

"Resist the capitalist C. M. T. C. propaganda; fight, not for the bosses, but for the working class; rally to the defense of the Workers' Soviet Union; join the Young Workers (Communist) League.

No word has as yet been received as to the reaction of the authorities at Plattsburgh to the publication of the bulletin.

At Fort Hancock stickers have been found pasted up repeatedly. Three times girl members of the Young Workers (Communist) League distributed leaflets.

CHICAGO FACES MUSICIAN STRIKE

Defy Writ; Get Backing of Movie Operators

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Union musicians involved in the dispute over the "minimum orchestra" issue tonight were advised not to return to work Monday notwithstanding the federal injunction restraining a walkout from Chicago moving picture theatres. Acting with the musicians, the operators union will cease work if any non-union music is installed either by devices or organists.

While the walkout here would affect only 52 outlying theatres, the controversy admittedly is part of the nation-wide movement of musicians against the "talking pictures."

The musicians union is demanding a minimum of four players in each theatre orchestra.

The old contract expires at midnight tonight. The exhibitors Saturday obtained a federal injunction from Judge James H. Wilkerson restraining officials and members of the Chicago Federation of Musicians from taking part in a strike.

Clarence Darrow, attorney for the musicians, following a lengthy conference with union officials today advised the men they did not have to continue work, declaring every citizen had the right to refuse to work "for any reason."

Force Leguia to Tell of American Oil Grant

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 2.—By a request made in the Peruvian senate, that the government make public the details of an immense oil concession granted by the government to Americans, it is revealed that the Pittsburgh oil capitalists, M. L. [illegible] and J. C. Trees, had obtained a concession of a territory of [illegible] acres (about 5,000,000 [illegible]) in the Andean territory. The senate adopted a resolution requesting the government to give details concerning the extent of the concession.

[illegible] even the well-selected Peruvian senate appears to feel uncomfortable at the rate at which the [illegible] Leguia is giving away Peruvian resources to American cap-

British Imperialism Entertains Tool

Persecution of Communists By Colombia Reactionaries

By ALBERT MOREAU.

The ruling class of the Republic of Colombia that has its mercenary representatives in the senate of that country, is enacting a bill of "heroic laws" which, if passed, will constitute a serious menace to the existence of the labor and Communist movements in that country.

The class in power finds itself at present before a dilemma almost impossible to solve. The workers of Colombia are organizing themselves into strong revolutionary unions and into a Communist party to fight the aggressiveness of the penetrating American finance capital which enslaves them economically and politically.

The so-called people's representatives are acting under Wall Street's orders which aim at the complete control of the natural resources of the country and the assurance of a positive profitable investment of capital, which means more exploitation of the native workers. As a consequence of that, the labor movement has recently taken an aspect which is menacing the very life of the national bourgeoisie, thus endangering Wall Street's capital.

The Communists are the vanguard in this struggle.

The senate is acting in favor of the "fat fellows" that speak through the White House. As usual, the conservative and liberal members of the senate unite against the rising proletariat. This is the case here. The senate in Colombia is coming to the rescue of the Morgans.

Raped by U. S. Imperialism.

The influence exercised by the Washington government in Colombia is well known to us. Early in 1903, the Colombian army brutally attacked the population of Panama that was resisting American interference in the Canal Zone. The senate then acted under the orders of the American financiers, for the Panama Canal was absolutely essential for the commercial and military supremacy over the two continents and the Pacific.

Today, the Colombian senate is fighting its own people, and both conservatives and liberals are instruments of American finance-capital.

On the other hand, the masses, today, no longer limit themselves to a passive hatred against foreign capital that accentuates exploitation, but, led by the Communists, they are preparing against the future military occupation as witnessed in their neighbor country, Nicaragua.

Bill Against Communists.

The bill of which we speak is intended to crush the influence of the Communists . Senator Dr. Gomez Recuero does not hide it. He says: "I heartily endorse the bill that suppresses Communist propaganda, a law which protects our country against this world danger that aims at the destruction of our sacred civil liberties."

Dr. Recuero knows well that the Communists constitute a danger to the interests of the class to which he belongs. Senator Montalvo, one of the most responsible authors of the bill, says:

"The government is right in enacting such a law that suppresses Bolshevism. Even if it does not exist in a strong, organized form, we must strive to cut it down at its roots."

What is the famous bill that the reactionary senate calls "Bill of heroic laws"? All organizations that aim at the following are prohibited:

1. To propagandize against the idea of fatherland.
2. To attack the legitimate right to private property.
3. To be disrespectful to the Roman Catholic religion, stated by the constitution to be the national religion and an essential element of social order.
4. To agitate in the army or police force against military discipline.
5. To provoke or help "illegitimate" strikes.

Communists Lead Against Capital.

The bill principally aims at the Communists who are the deadly enemy of private property and capitalist order of society. The bourgeoisie is interested in having the masses respect religion and the fatherland that keep them in obscurity, thus making certain that they will not fight private property, the heart of capitalism.

But suppression will not do away with the internal antagonism of capitalism and also of imperailism. This bill will teach the workers of Colombia to double their energy and fight until the internal and external enemies of the working class are annihilated.

Makes Analysis of Loewenstein's Nerves

PARIS, Sept. 2.—A chemical analysis of the nerves of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian millionaire, who died mysteriously in a drop of 4,000 feet from his airplane on July 4, has been made by Dr. Kohn-Abrest in an effort to determine Loewenstein's mental state at the time of his fall. Dr. Kohn-Abrest will shortly make a report of his findings to the Boulogne Court.

Fascists Fail to Bar Workers Party from Getting on Ballot

With the placing of the State of Pennsylvania on the Communist ballot, the Workers (Communist) Party election campaign has gotten into its stride, and there is every prospect that not only will the original goal of thirty states be reached but the National Election Campaign Committee expects to exceed it.

The Communist ticket is now on the ballot in sixteen states, two more than the number on in the 1924 campaign. In addition to Pennsylvania, the other states are Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Texas, Michigan, Illinois, Montana, South Dakota, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Arizona, New Jersey, Arkansas and New Mexico.

Stachel Reports.

In a report made by Jack Stachel, organization secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, to the Central Executive Committee on his return from a tour of the Middle West, he states that Ohio, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and Minnesota will be on the ballot in the November elections. In several of these states the necessary signatures have already been secured, and as this article is being written Communists in three of the states mentioned in Stachel's report are preparing to file the petitions with the state authorities.

Five of the six New England states are almost certain to be on the ballot, according to a report by Alexander Trachtenberg, after a tour in District 1, with headquarters in Boston, and District 15, with headquarters in Connecticut.

Hard Fight in Vermont.

The state of Vermont alone, where the Party has no connections, will be left out in the cold. It will require a hard fight to put the Party on the ballot in Maine, but the National Election Campaign Committee has wired instructions to Alex Bail, district organizer, and Bloomfield, campaign manager, to throw all necessary forces into Maine and get that state on the ballot.

For the first time Communist propaganda has broken into the south and the Rocky Mountain states on a large scale. The success of the Party in those sections is giving the capitalist government serious concern, and with the aid of fascist organizations like the American Legion in many of the states where the Communist ticket is on the ballot, the authorities are doing everything possible to throw the Communist ticket out.

This is being tried in Kansas, Nebraska and Texas, and no doubt other states will follow suit. The Workers (Communist) Party, however, is not surprised by this action; it is only the expected happening. The Communists are citing this policy of repression to demonstrate to the workers that the Workers (Communist) Party is the only political party that is feared by the bosses.

Oehler Arrested.

In Kansas members of the Communist Party known to the authorities are being arrested on sight. Hugo Oehler, district organizer, and several other comrades have been arrested and charged with a violation of the Criminal Syndicalism Law of the state. The International Labor Defense has issued a rousing call for a fight against the criminal syndicalism law in Kansas, which is now being utilized in an attempt to crush and drive out of existence the Workers (Communist) Party.

In the states already on the ballot the Party organizations are putting their energy into the second phase of the campaign drive, touring speakers and distributing campaign literature.

Nearing on Tour.

Scott Nearing, candidate for governor in New Jersey, is touring that state, and his schedule calls for several meetings in Ohio and in other states.

Benjamin Gitlow started on a nation-wide tour September 1 with a meeting in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania. This tour will take two months, winding up on the eve of election day.

William Z. Foster, Communist presidential candidate, will start his national tour in New Haven on September 6. Both candidates will visit the important industrial centers from coast to coast. The comrades throughout the country are enthusiastic over the prospects for a rousing campaign, and are confident that the Foster, Gitlow and Nearing meetings will be well attended in view of the intense interest displayed this year in the election campaign.

Outside of the Communist Party activities in the election drive, one of the chief pieces of news was the desertion of the socialist candidate, Norman Thomas, by the Nation, owned and edited by Oswald Garrison Villard, the millionaire liberal.

Villard Deserts.

Until recently the Nation supported Thomas editorially, but in the issue of August 29th a full-page editorial evidently written by Villard came out for Al Smith on the basis of his attack on the "water power interests" and his criticism of the invasion of Nicaragua without congressional sanction. Smith, evidently, would have had no word of criticism of the war on Nicaragua, had the constitutional requirements for a declaration of war been complied with. It should be noted, however, that hitherto neither Smith nor the Tammany delegation in congress had a word of protest against this crime. Furthermore, Woodrow Wilson, who is held up as the patron saint of the New Tammany, made war on the Soviet Union without congressional sanction, when he sent an expeditionary force to Archangel in a vain effort to crush the Russian Revolution and maintain the bourgeoisie in power in that country.

Smith's statement that he favored a policy of peace with Mexico can be discounted in view of the fact that the Knights of Columbus, a semi-secret Catholic organization which is supporting Governor Smith, last year raised a million dollars to foment a civil war in that country in an attempt to overthrow the Calles government because of its hostility to the Catholic feudal hierarchy in that country.

Blow to Socialists.

The defection of Villard is a severe blow to the socialist party campaign, which based its election strategy on the capture of the La Follette vote of 1924. In handing out sops to catch the liberal vote, Thomas could not go farther than Al Smith, since the socialist party, having repudiated the class struggle, is no longer even ostensibly a party of labor but caters to small business and the intelligentsia.

The great majority of the labor fakers will be on the Smith bandwagon. Even tho the executive council of the American Federation of Labor declared for a non-partisan policy, the New York State Federation of Labor voted almost unanimously to endorse Smith, the three exceptions being two republicans who declared for Hoover and Lefkowitz of the Teachers' Union, who said he would vote for Thomas, tho he preferred Smith to Hoover. The inroads made by Smith into the socialist support in the right wing needle trades unions can be gathered from the fact that neither Sigman nor any of the other bureaucrats who have been supported by the socialist party in their war on the left wing opened their mouths for Thomas at the state convention of the New York Federation of Labor, but were included in the number that voted to endorse Tammany Al.

Wall St. Twins.

The Hoover and Smith managers are making claims and counter-claims that their respective candidates will get a majority of the electoral votes. Wall Street is divided on the two candidates, which proves that the capture of the democratic party by the northern or Wall Street elements in the party has put the "democracy" on a par with the G. O. P. in the eyes of Big Business and that the fight between Hoover and Smith resolves itself into a contest between the two parties for the most favored position in the affections of Wall Street.

Bert Martin, the national secretary of the Farmer Labor Party, which has not been heard of much in recent years, resigned his office and called on all other officers of the organization to follow suit. The secretary came out for Hoover in an open letter issued from his office in Chicago.

With the socialist party floundering between the devil and the liberals and all former reformist opposition parties to capitalism gone the way of all flesh, the Workers (Communist) Party has a splendid opportunity in this election campaign to plant the seed of Communism in almost every state in the union and bring the program of the class struggle to the wide masses thruout the nation.

"AIR RAIL" SERVICE STARTS.

nounced by Emery Balint, secretary of the Anti-Horthy League. Loud boos greeted this announcement. Balint declared that the Anti-Horthy League intended to fight with every weapon at its command against this organization.

He also announced that the complete fraudulence of the recent Hungarian delegation to this country would be exposed at a mass meeting September 15 at the foot of the Kossuth monument on Riverside Drive. This monument, unveiled several months ago at solemn ceremonies at which city officials were present, is in a state of collapse, Balint said, because of the poor materials used, proving conclusively that the monument was merely camouflage for the real aim of the delegation—the securing huge loans to permit Horthy to continue to murder and imprison Hungarian workers and peasants.

Other Speakers.

Other speakers of the meeting were Dr. Samuel Buchler, of the Anti-Horthy League; Morris L. Ernst, of the American Civil Liberties Union, and John Biro. Hugo Gellert, acting as chairman, denounced as lies the recent statements of Bethlen concerning the "glorious" conditions prevailing in Hungary.

The resolution adopted, in addition to demanding the release of political prisoners, demanded the right of free speech, free assemblage, free press and the right to organize, a farmer-labor government in Hungary and issued the slogan of struggle against imperialist wars.

MILITARISTS WILL HOLD 'WAR SHOW' IN PHILADELPHIA

Transit Bosses Aid Fascists

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, (By Mail).—The veterans of foreign wars, reactionary militaristic organization are "in again".

Conditions in this city are getting worse daily, and this organization is attempting to benefit by these sad circumstances.

At this particular time they are being aided by the notorious scab concern, the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co.

In all of the subway and elevated stations, as well as in the trains, surface cars and buses of this company, have recently appeared large placards with the following announcement:

> War Shows by Veterans of Foreign Wars. For the benefit of needy veterans, and orphans.

The government of Andy Mellon & Co., which is capable of relieving the plutocrats of this country of hundreds of millions of dollars yearly by decreasing their taxes, is not capable of spending a much smaller amount for needy veterans, their widows and orphans, men who died to pile up tremendous profits for these same plutocrats.

Instead, to raise an insignificant sum, so small that the "relief" will be used up in a few days, "war shows" will be held by an organization, one of whose chief purposes is to propagate more wars.

These war shows will show the public in an untruthful, sentimental and romantic way the "glories" of war. Their purpose is to create a new crowd of needy veterans, widows and orphans.

But many workers in this city who suffered during the last war in more ways than one, are awakening to these shams and it is up to every class conscious worker in this city to show up this organization, "The Veterans of Foreign Wars", to their fellow workers for the enemy that it really is, while it pretends to aid the needy.

Bukharin's Speech in Reply to Discussion on the International Situation

III. The War Question Is the Central Question

The first and second sections of Bukharin's speech in reply to the discussion on the international situation at the Sixth Congress of the Communist International were Published in Saturday's Daily Worker. Those sections were: I. "The Positive and Negative Sides of the Discussion," and II. "The Stabilization of Capitalism and the Controversy over the 'Third Period.'"

I come now to the second fundamental question which gave rise to an even more lively discussion than the first one. It is a pity that only a few comrades spoke on this point. First of all, however, I would like to put the following preliminary question: What is demanded of an E. C. C. I. reporter? Must he travel over the whole globe and then come back and report that in Mexico the situation is so and so, in the Argentine it is a little different, in Nicaragua it is altogether different; in the Co-operative Movement so and so and so and so is going on? Must he report about absolutely everything; about the Co-operative Movement, about the Mexican government, etc., etc.? Were he to do that, he would no doubt satisfy the wishes of all the comrades without exception. Had I done that, Comrade Murphy, for example, would have been completely satisfied because I would have spoken about the Co-operative movement (laughter). The Mexican comrades would have been satisfied with the last few words I would have said about Mexico. Perhaps this would be a very good method, because all the comrades would be pleased with the fact that I would have mentioned "their" Movement. For a Marxist, however, the important thing is to indicate the main tendencies out of the sum of facts and on the basis of these tendencies to lay down the principal tactical line. That is what I considered my task to have been. What is the pivot of the present situation? We have taken note of the great changes that have taken place in the world situation in many directions; but what is the pivot of the world situation, what is the key to our tactics? In my report I replied to this question quite openly and clearly. I said: the pivot of the whole whole situation is the war problem. The war danger—this is the core of the situation. In my opinion the war danger is the most characteristic symptom of the present situation as a whole.

Imperialist and Social Democratic Comments.

I will take it upon myself, comrades, to "discuss" with the enemies of the proletariat, the imperialists and the social democrats. In their press they have commented on the speech I delivered here. First of all I will deal with the Polish imperialist press. "Epokha," the official Polish organ, in a leading article entitled "Soviet Loyalty," says the following:

"Bukharin's speech shows that the Comintern and the Soviet government is one and the same thing. Up till now the Soviet government has dissociated itself from the Comintern and this formula was accepted by those states who desire at all costs to maintain normal relations with the U. S. S. R. Poland is one of these states. Now, however, it turns out this formula is unsound. The Soviet government cannot disavow Bukharin, who is a member of the Political Bureau, i. e., the supreme organ of power in the U. S. S. R. The fact that Rykov is a member of the Presidium of the Comintern Congress (Bukharin: Apparently they have confused Rykov with an American or an Indian) and that Bukharin's report is published in all the Soviet newspapers indicate that the Soviet government no longer dissociates itself from the Comintern and has removed its mask. Now we know that the Soviet government and the Comintern is one and the same thing, that the Soviet government is preparing for war against Poland and that in this war the Polish Communists must act as spies and create diversions in the rear."

Another Polish newspaper, "Polska Zbroina," the organ of the ministry for war, writes:

"Bukharin's statement concerning the role of the Polish Communists in the event of a Polish-Soviet war is not an unexpected one. However, what deserves attention is the bold, one may say, the insolent tone in which this statesman, who occupies a number of high posts in the Camarilla that now governs Russia, speaks of the possibility of war with Poland and the fact that he does not think fit to conceal his plans and prospects. All that we wish to point to, however, is the senseless and destructive demoralization which the mere fact of the existence of the so-called Communist system introduces in internal and foreign relations and the manner in which it is tolerated. Bukharin's declaration will compel those who up till now have demanded the legalization of Communists to hold their tongues. For, the Communists are the enemy. The most dangerous enemy of the Communist system is Pilsudski, around whom all those who are opposed to Communism must rally."

Comrades, you understand perfectly clearly what all this talk means. It is by no means an accident that the point in my speech about the war danger is precisely the one that is selected for comment.

The social democratic press has also commented on my report. "Vorwaerts," the central organ of international Social Democracy, in its issue of July 27, writes:

"This political belief in miracles is dictated by well-formulated theories at the Congress of the Communist International in Moscow; its prophet is Bukharin. The political belief in miracles has already taken many forms in the Comintern. The miracle was first expected to come from Germany, then from the Balkans and then from the Pacific Islands. Now Bukharin swears by China, by the antagonisms between America and Europe, but above all he swears by war."

Then comes the following "comment":

"Again we get a rehash of the old vulgar-Marxian theory: the growth of productive forces under capitalism leads to the struggle for markets; the struggle for markets leads to war—this prospect is inevitable and without any possibility of evasion. . . . As sure as the sun will rise tomorrow, so sure will war break out—soon and even very soon, for Bukharin says: war is the question of the day. If war breaks out then further consequences will inevitably follow: Imperialist war will give rise to civil war, to world revolution, to the victory of the Soviet system throughout the whole world! Long live the world revolution, or rather, as this is only the second act, long live war!"

(Bukharin: So it turns out that our slogan is "long live war!") "And so they believe in miracles; they believe that the continuity of development and the continuity of the activities of social democracy in the sphere of practical politics in the interests of Socialism will be interrupted. History commences all over again from the year 1914. A new 1914 this is the illusion that is held out to the Communist Parties of the world in order that their eyes may be closed to the cheerless perspective and the hopelessness of the position that confronts them; and they cheerfully return to the thesis: War is the beginning of all beginnings."

Permit me comrades to comment on these comments. First of all in regard to the Marxian theory. It is enough to read the last resolution passed by all the congresses of the social democratic parties immediately before the war to realize how thoroughly the social democrats have destroyed the Marxian theory which at one time determined their attitude towards war. I was present at the Chemnitz Congress of the social democratic party. As far as I remember it was held in 1912 or in 1913. Haase delivered a speech in which these vulgar-Marxian theories were employed in order to define the position of German social democracy on the question of war. Take the resolutions of international socialist congresses, these too were based on this "vulgar-Marxian theory."

Marx, Engels and Lenin on War and Revolution.

Let us see what Marx, Engels and Lenin had to say on these questions. For example, the "vulgar Marxian" Karl Marx, in an article in the New York Tribune of February 2, 1854 entitled "The European War" wrote;

"But we must not forget that there is a sixth power in Europe which at a definite moment will establish its domination over the other five so-called 'Great Powers' and make every one of them tremble. This power is revolution. After a long period of calm and restraint it is now again called to the field of battle by crises and the phantom of famine.

"At the required signal the sixth greatest European power will come forth in shining armour, sword in hand. . . .

"That signal will be the threatening European war. . . ."

That is how the "vulgar Marxian" Karl Marx appraised the situation. And another well-known "vulgar Marxian," Friedrich Engels, in 1887, in a preface to Siegesmund Borheim's pamphlet whote:

". . . . For Prussian-Germany no other was is possible except a world war, and this world war will be of a power and magnitude hitherto unparalleled. From eight to nine million soldiers will be hurled against each other, and Europe will be laid desolate to a degree that no swarm of locusts has ever desolated a land. It will be the desolation caused by the Thirty Years War compressed into three or four years, and over the whole continent of Europe will rage famine, starvation, the brutalization of the troops as well as the general population, acute poverty caused by the hopeless chaos in the artificial mechanism of trade, industry and credit—all this will end in universal bankruptcy; in the collapse of the old states and their routine political wisdom, a collapse so complete that crowns will roll in the gutter in dozens and no one will think it worth while to pick them up. No one can foresee how all this will end, and who will emerge the victor. But there is one result about which there is absolutely no doubt whatever: General exhaustion and the creation of the conditions for the final victory of the working class.

"This is the prospect, when the system of mutual competition in armaments carried to the extreme, finally brings its inevitable fruits. It is to this, O Kings and statesmen, your wisdom has brought old Europe! and if your only alternative is to commence the last war dance, we shall not weep (uns kann es recht sein). What if the war does push us into the background for a time; what if it does rob us of a few of the positions we have already captured? If you unleash the forces which later on you will be unable to control them, no matter what turn events may take, at the end of the tragedy your power will be reduced to ruin and the victory of the proletariat will either have been achieved or at all events (doch) will be inevitable."

I have quoted this long passage in order to show what the "vulgar Marxians," Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels thought about the connection between war and revolution. But it may be objected: These forecasts have partly come about already. What you have quoted may be a very good argument against the social democrats. But can it serve to explain the present situation? Now here I would like to quote the opinion of another "vulgar Marxian," Comrade Lenin. He thought that the revival of capitalism after the first world war was possible. He thought and wrote about the prospect of the further development of the revolution. What did he say on this subject? Comrade Lenn wrote:

"We do not wish to ignore the deplorable possibility of humanity experiencing—at the worst—a second imperialist war if, notwithstanding the mass ferment and the numerous outbreaks of mass discontent and notwithstanding our efforts, revolution fails to spring out of the present war." (Vol. XIII, p. 455. Rus. Ed.)

As a result of the war, revolution was victorious in a number of countries. In the U.S.S.R. the proletarian dictatorship is already established. But even after the victory of the proletariat in the U.S.S.R. Lenin foresaw the possibility of another imperialist war. In his last work written a little while before his death he again emphasized this perspective. He spoke and wrote about a second series of European wars, of a second series of great revolutions, and I think that in this he carried on the traditions of Marx and Engels and of all those who were really capable of understanding the world situation.

What Makes the Imperialists and Social Democrats Irritable?

Now I ask you, comrades, what makes the imperialists so irritable when the question of war is discussed? Why is there so much irritation in the Social Democratic camp direct reaction to my reference to precisely on this question? Why is there such a sharp, sudden and this question in my speech? Ponder over it. Why is the thesis on the forthcoming world war primarily subjected to criticism? Why are the other protests I referred to, made against my "insolent conduct" and against my "insolent speech"?

It is because objectively, the war danger is the pivot of the world situation. That is why our opponents react so fretfully to our analysis.

And this is easily to be explained. We expose their criminal work, we tear down the veils that conceal them, we destroy their screens, we openly speak the truth and say that the imperialists are preparing for war and that they are already conducting war. Many comrades completely forget that war is actually going on in Eastern Asia. How can a fact like that be eliminated? Should we say that, as this war is being carried on against an "uncivilized" people,—against Chinese, it does not exist as far as we "highly civilized" Europeans are concerned. Only the blind can fail to see that war is already going on in China. Only the blind can fail to see that the Japanese-American conflict has become more acute. Also it is perfectly clear that it is to the interests of the imperialists, to the interests of the Social Democrats and of all those who desire to support the world capitalist system to obscure this thesis by all the trickery they can muster. Imperialism is in action, it is maneuvering, it proposes all sorts of "pacifist" pacts, for example, the Kellogg Pact; it is carrying out excellent maneuvers, for example, the recent note addressed to the Nanking Government by the United States. It resorts to a number of other tricks; it organizes Conferences of the League of Nations, it shouts about peace. In a word it is exerting every effort to obscure the fundamental fact—its own criminal work. And the Social Democrats? What is the principal role of the Social Democrats today? It is to throw a veil over this fundamental fact of present-day development, to ideologically obscure it and remove it from sight. That is why they shout from the house-tops that the capitalist states are craving for peace, that it is only the "cursed" land of the proletariat that is disturbing the peace. That is why they sing the praises of the League of Nations and all other pacifist inventions. Is not all this clear? We have said this a thousand times before. There is only one state which is really carrying out a peace policy, and that is the U. S. S. R. There is only one State that has made a serious proposal for universal disarmament, and that is the U. S. S. R. There is only one state that is not interested in the partition of the globe, is not interested in colonies and "mandates" and that is the U. S. S. R. And it is precisely for this reason that the imperialists and their lackeys try to turn the facts upside down.

YOUTH CONGRESS STRESSES TASKS

Must Prepare Now For Underground Days

reorganization proceeded slowly until the end of 1927, when an organizational conference revived the work among the children.

"One of the big mistakes is that the Communist Parties do not give sufficient support to the Young Workers Leagues, and when they do, it is only formally.

Must Correct Errors.

"Several departments of the executive committee of the Young Communist International are working poorly. The work in mass organization is insufficient. As regards work among non-party, sport, peasant and cultural organizations must be strengthened. The German Jungstorm, a non-Party organization, is successful; similar organizations must be formed in other countries.

"Illegality is threatened to the Young Communist work in the near future, and the leagues must prepare for this time both organizationally and iedologically. Organizational questions must be made the chief interest of the whole organization."

After prolonged applause, and greetings from the White Russian delegation and the presentation of a banner to the Congress from the Polish Young Communist League, the session was adjourned.

Miners' Paper Builds New Union In Kansas

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 31.—S. T. Wakefield of Mulberry, Kansas, knows that the Coal Digger is the best speech-maker and means for bringing more and more miners into the new miners union. Kansas is a big state, and organizers haven't enough money to pay train fare or big gas bills. So Wakefield lets the Coal Digger do the work where the organizers can't.

Miners Sentenced As Progressives; After Scab Assaulted Them, Correspondent Says

the lying propaganda of the ist was spread through the Nebraska is suggested by llowing lines from a letter ce M. Davis, former power ust propagandist revealed in the federal trade commission records:

"President of state federation of women's clubs was in today and gave me a wide-open indorsement of utility public speaking for clubs comprising something more than 20,000 women in Nebraska.

"But what the hell am I going to do about it? Wish I had 20 clever women speakers scattered geographically over the state."

His difficulty passed and he flooded the state with propaganda. Which shows that the bourgeois woman can do a man's job any day in the gentle art of corruption.

In Print Again

Above Al Smith is shown demonstrating his fitness to be President of the United States by riding in a tally-ho at Sea Girt, New Jersey, even though he has already proved his superiority to Herbert Hoover by auctioning off a bale of cotton. Al has told the working class, on his honor, that if he is elected president he will pass a lot of laws to help them out of their difficulties at the expense of the rich even though the millions of dollars now being raised for his campaign are coming entirely from his intended victims. This sort of idiocy sounds like good sense to the remarkable brains of the A. F. of L. officialdom and the New York State Executive Committee has endorsed him. Above Al had just taken off his hat to cool himself when, by good chance, he happened to drive by a group of newspaper photographers.

Bruce Reynolds, who describes himself as a writer, has just returned from Russia where, he says, he bought, "old greasy clothes from a citizen," and lived the life of the proletariat for as long as three weeks. After this elaborate study of life in the U. S. S. R., Bruce returned to the U. S. and says that Russia is a country "Upside down, standing on its head." It's a country upside down all right compared to capitalist countries but it's the one country that's standing on its feet.

Duke Minus Dukedom

This snapshot shows the "Grand Duke Alexander of Russia" in an embarrassing moment. The "Grand Duke" had just speared a snipe on the beach at Biarritz, France, when who should walk up but Mme. Letel-[illegible] to whom he is shown explaining that he always did have a habit of dropping things. He dropped everything in Russia one day and skipped himself out without leaving a forwarding address. Even today he is better off than most of the [illegible] who scurried off like flies before a flyswat. He's managed to borrow a little from his friends, for instance the cap and pants he got from a pal who had a big pull with the Salvation Army. He also makes a few dimes by selling interviews he has had with the dead czar by spirit communication. The czar tells him he'll be back in Russia in a couple of weeks, now, when the U. S. S. R. will break up. The czar says that such madness as the workers running their own government and getting what they produce certainly can't last forever.

SOLE EVIDENCE CAME OF BOYS WHO SAW FIGHT

Men Given Workhouse for Defending Selves

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (By Mail).—A few months ago in West Brownsville Mike Mattey and his father, while acting as pickets, the younger Mattey and his father tried to stop George Harbody from entering the mine of the Lilley Coal and Coke Company as a scab. When they approached the scab and appealed to him not to take the bread out of the mouths of the miners and their families he struck at one of them with his dinner bucket and tried to attack the other by assaulting him with his fists. In this encounter the scab got the beating of his life. He then went before squire H. L. Swartz at Centerville, Pa., and had warrents sworn out for five miners, three of whom happened to be passing by at the time and who had nothing to do with the fuss at all. The squire heard only the evidence of the scab and upon his lone evidence held the five miners for the grand jury in Washington, Pa.

When the case came before the grand jury the only evidence the grand jury had was the evidence of two boys who happened to see the scab get beaten up and did not know anything as to the reason why he was beaten as they did not know or hear Mattey and his father make the plea to the scab not to be breaking the strike and helping the coal companies to smash the miners' union.

Judge Erwin Cummins of Washington, Pa., when he was passing sentence on the five miners told them that "the Save-the-Union movement is part of the Communist scheme to steal union organizations and make them Communist," the judge declared. "It is closely allied with the Third International Sunday schools where Communism is being taught to children are being held regularly in parts of Washington County.

"I have in my possession literature used in these schools that teaches hatred of the American government and seeks to overthrow American institutions."

This was the burden of his charge in passing sentence. He thus showed in an unmistakable manner that it was not for beating up the scab in self-defense that he was sending them to the workhouse but by reason of the fact that they were reported to him as members of the Save-the-Union movement. —H. H.

Kentucky, Washington Want New Mine Union

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 2.—Organization work in Kentucky is booming. Powderly, Browder, Hillside, Beech Creek, are already lined up with the movement to build a new miners union. When William Duncan, Lewis' local "boss" comes to the mass meetings with armed gangsters, with the handles of knives sticking out of their belts and draped on their fat stomachs, the men simply laugh at him and go on with their plans for more and more mass meetings, organizing more locals, electing delegates.

"You've done your share, Duncan!" they tell him. "You've wrecked what was left of the U. M. W. of A. in Kentucky. Now we're doing this job. We are going to build an honest, militant miners' union, and a thousand Lewises and Duncans can't stop us!"

Even in far off Washington the men are on the job. "You bet we'll have delegates at the National Miners Convention next month!" they write. "Just try and keep us away!"

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2.—"The men in West Virginia sure are behind the New Miners Union!" one organizer says.

"I asked one fellow how things were, and he told me that the boys earn enough to buy bread, but they got to send to the old country for enough to buy meat! It's about time they had a fighting union!"

AUSTRALIAN UNIONS FACING BIG TASKS

By J. RYAN

Several matters of importance to the working class of Australia have occurred recently. The most important are: (1) the passing of the anti-trade union act by the federal government; (2) the marine cooks' strike; (3) prosecutions against prominent trade union leaders; (4) cleavage between Australasian Council of Trade Unions and bureaucracy of the Australian Workers' Union; (5) campaign of capitalist press in alliance with A. W. U. bureaucracy against the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Secretariat, and (6) the All-Australian Trade Union Congress.

Towards the close of last year the federal government introduced an amending arbitration bill into parliament. This bill proposed that strikes, boycotts, picketing, incitements to strike, etc., be made illegal, and that the unions be compelled to accept any wages and conditions for their members that the arbitration court judges cared to give them. Parliament ratified the measure and it is now law.

Marine Cooks' Strike.

A dispute between the Marine Cooks' Union and the ship-owners over an additional cook for one ship resulted in a general strike of marine cooks, thereby throwing thousands of other marine workers out of work. Because the cooks ignored other unions and played a lone hand in the dispute, there was much disorganization; eventually the cooks were defeated.

The secretary of the Brisbane branch of the Seamen's Union and the secretary of the Brisbane Waterside Workers' Union were prosecuted and heavily fined for engaging in a strike. In New South Wales, J. S. Garden, secretary of tho Labor Council of N. S. W., was arrested and charged with incitement to murder because he made the following statement regarding the marine cooks' strike:

"The new methods adopted in strike strategy are different than the old methods. The old method was that once a thing was declared 'black' the trade union movement should dissociate itself from it. Tactics now are different insofar as if scab cooks man the vessels our tactics may change, and we may supply union men even though scab cooks are aboard. Accidents, however, occur in the best regulated families. The new cooks will not be very good sailors, and will have to go to the railing occasionally. They may lose their balance, in which case the water is damp, the sea is deep, and dead men tell no tales."

The case was postponed until next week. It is probable that Comrade Garden will be jailed, meanwhile the Labor Council has distributed thousands of leaflets and stickers in order to prepare the workers to take action to procure his release.

For a considerable time the bureaucracy of the Australian Workers' Union, which has become divorced from the rank and file of the union, has been fighting the Australasian Council of Trade Unions. The A. C. T. U. made overtures for peace and unity, but its efforts were scornfully rejected on the excuse that the A. C. T. U. is affiliated with the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Secretariat and is therefore dominated by foreigners. The real reason is that the constitution of the A. C. T. U. will not permit the A. W. U. officials to control the organization.

An intense and scurrilous campaign has been, and is still being waged against the P. P. T. U. S. by the capitalist press and the A. W. U. officials.

A special All-Australian Trade Union Congress was convened by the A. C. T. U. in order that the above mentioned questions could be discussed and a common policy arrived at regarding future action. The congress met on Monday, July 16, and was the largest congress that has yet been held. A determined effort was made by the capitalist press to coerce the delegates into attacking the left wing, but fortunately the campaign was not successful.

Congress in Discussion.

Congress discussed the anti-trade union Act, and decided to assist in every way possible any section of the trade union movement that fell foul of its many penal clauses.

A long and acrimonious discussion occurred when the marine cooks' dispute was reviewed. There were charges and counter-charges of scabbery and cowardice. Congress finally decided that the cooks' demands were justified, and complimented them on their splendid fight, but considered they were in error in not conferring with other unions or with the central body—the A. C. T. U. So that a similar situation shall not arise in the future congress adopted resolutions that will compel craft and sectional unions to confer with kindred organizations before embarking on strikes, and if the dispute be of a national character, with the A. C. T. U.

Delegates were so incensed against the reactionary officials of the Australian Workers' Union that, by an overwhelming majority, they decided that the time had gone by for overtures. It was decided to conduct an energetic campaign among the rank and file of the A. W. U. so as to unmask its leaders.

By an overwhelming majority (92 to 36) congress endorsed the affiliation of the A. C. T. U. to the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Secretariat. This is particularly gratifying in view of the vicious propaganda of the capitalist press and the A. W. U. bureaucrats. An attempt by the right wing to throttle the "Pan-Pacific Worker" (which is published by the A. C. T. U.) was also crushingly defeated.

Unemployment is exceptionally prevalent in Australia at present. According to the government statistician the percentage of workers unemployed is 11.2, which means in round figures about 180,000, out of a total population of six and a quarter millions. Unemployed demonstrations are taking place in every State, particularly in Western Australia, where the police were called out to protect the "Labor" premier from the wrath of the workless a few days ago.

Because the Labor government of Queensland has exposed itself as a willing tool of capitalism — railway workers' lockout, building workers' lockout, etc. — the Communist Party has decided to oppose it with Communist Party and left wing candidates at the next state elections. The Communist Party has sent two organizers to Queensland and hopes to send more soon. It is too soon as yet to forecast results.

READING WORKER TELLS "JOYS" OF "SOCIALIST" RULE

Union No Stronger; Wages No Higher

(By a Worker Correspondent)

READING, Pa., (By Mail).—The workers of Reading needn't worry any more. Their low wages, long hours, insults from the bosses and foreman and others, means nothing in comparison with the fact they have elected a "socialist administration". The workers of Reading should feel happy. Mr. Stump is a mayor; Mr. Maurer is a councilman. The yellow Forward should immediately proclaim to the world the victory of "socialism" in the U. S.

Chase Me—I'm a "Socialist"

Why all that stuff about Revolution, class struggle, strikes, civil war? Who wants all that? Who needs it? (Certainly not Hilquit.) Who in the world discovered all these words?

It's all these damn Bolsheviks that want all that. Respectable "socialists" don't need all that. "Socialism" can be achieved in America through peaceful means. How? Very simple; by the ballot. The only thing the worker need do is vote the "socialist" ticket, and "socialism" will be here.

A fact? Why look at Reading, the "socialists" tell us. Look at what we have achieved there, without all that nonsense of class-struggle, etc. Don't we have a "socialist" administration in Reading? Who is the mayor, if not a "socialist"? And Mr Maurer, the councilman? All this is very fine. But are the workers of Reading satisfied with their conditions? Do the workers feel any difference between the old democratic administration and the present so-called "socialist" one? Have the number of trade unions increased since the "socialists" took office? Have their conditions been bettered? What about unemployment?

No Class Struggle, O No.

But let's hear what the workers themselves have to say. In questioning a worker of the P. and R. shops of Reading as to what they have gained from the "socialist" administration, he looked at us and replied: 'Gained? like hell, we have! They (the "socialists") never promised us anything and don't give us anything. What do we make in the P. and R. shops, working like hell? he continued, Working at fifty cents per hour. And when work slows down, we work three to four days a week, but they keep running steady the gang of loyal slaves. Where are the "socialists"? Why don't they organize us? Why dont they see that the work is divided equally among the workers? Why dont they stop the prosecution against those who mention unionism in the shops?

They claim as a government they have to protect the property and interests of the employers as well and, therefore, cannot interfere in the business of the boss, we tried to explain to the already excited worker.

"What", he shouted. "They have got to protect my boss? How the devil can they protect me then? They can't protect both of us, can they? Is that why we voted the "socialist" ticket, to protect the boss? Do they protect the boss in the Soviet Union? What we need to do." he shouted, "is to kick the hell out of the bosses as they have done into the U. S. S. R., and not promise him protection. These guys here in Reading are too darned polite in dealing with the bosses". The worker was all excited. We gave him a copy of the Daily Worker, and promised to come to see him the next day.

Another example of how the workers feel and live under the "socialist administration" is a letter of a woman, a workers wife who tells her story in the Reading Unionist, of July 15.

A Machinist's Wife.

She writes: Would you like to know how it feels to be a poor man's wife? Maybe, other people would like to know too.

"My husband is a machinist and earns fifty-two cents an hour. It amounts to a few cents over $28 per week, when he works full time. This week was a holiday, and sometimes there is a sickness, so then the pay is smaller.

"Apparently he is 'lucky' that he is earning just fifty-two cents. During the winter the industries of Reading and West Reading have been laying the 'higher' priced machinists off, sometimes in bunches of fifty, and employ the next day new men at from forty to fifty cents per hour.

"Since he cannot get any extra, no night (which he should not be compelled to do after a hard day's labor) the only thing left to do is for me to get a job.

"But how can I go to work when I have two boys of three and five years of age to care for?

The Right fo Live.

"We want justice. We want a living wage for a man who puts his five days a week in any shop. We want wages to house, eat, dress in comfort. We would like, too, an inexpensive car, so we could see something of our country. But what have we? Not even a living wage. We have appalling debts and the fear of what should happen to us if the wage-earner should ever become real sick."

Many more examples could be cited, but the above mentioned will do for today.

And what does our "socialist" administration do to improve the conditions of these poor workers. Nothing. Absolutely nothing. They feed the workers with the illusions of "Elect us and we will give you everything".

But you cannot fool the workers all the time. The workers of Reading demand deeds and not words. They demand organization. The workers of Reading demand the "socialist's" action. They are beginning to realize that the Stumps and Maurers and the rest of the bunch are too cowardly to put up a militant fight for the workers.

The workers of Reading will have to make a step further and understand that their emancipation can come only through the doing away with the present capitalist system of society, and the establishment of a Communist one, as the workers have done in the Soviet Union.

Hopkins "Heavy Traffic" at the Empire Thursday

"Heavy Traffic," a new play by Arthur Richman, will be presented by Charles Frohman at the Empire Theatre on Wednesday. Mary Boland plays the featured role. Other players include A. E. Matthews and Reginald Mason.

At the Hammerstein Theatre, "Good Boy," a musical comedy with book by Otto Harbach, Oscar Hammerstein 2nd and Henry Myers and music and lyrics by Herbert Stothart, Bert Raimer and Harry Ruby, will open on Wednesday night. The cast is headed by Eddie Buzzell, Borroh Minevitch, Helen Kane, Dan Healy, Barbara Newberry, and Sam Hearn.

"Machinal," a drama by Sophie Treadwell, opens Thursday evening at the Plymouth Theatre, produced by Arthur Hopkins. Principals in the cast are: Zita Johann, Jean Adair, Clark Cable, George Stillwell and Charles Kennedy.

George Kaiser's newest play "The Phantom Lover," ("Oktobertag") will open Tuesday at the 49th Street Theatre. The cast includes: Edith Barrett, Louise Mackintosh, Romney Brent, George MacQuarrie, David Newell and Cameron Clemens

CLARKE SILVERNAIL

Is back in the cast of "The Silent House," playing his old role of wily Ho-Fang, in the melodrama at the Shubert Theatre.

CHOPIN OPERETTA BASED ON LIFE OF COMPOSER

Sigurd Johannsen's play, "Chopin," which will be known here as "White Lilacs," was adapted from the German by Harry B. Smith. It adheres to facts in all the more important phases of the story. Johannsen drew his information chiefly from George Sand's novel, "Lucretia Floriani," which she based on her experiences with the composer, "George Sand, sa Vie et ses Oeuvres," by Wladimir Karenine, and "Frederic Chopin as Man and Musician," by Frederick Niecks.

The score by Karl Hajos is interspersed with many of Chopin's composition, including the Nocturnes in C Sharp Minor and E Flat, the Waltzes in C Sharp Minor and A Minor, two ballades and the Second Scherzo. In the instrumentation of Chopin's piano pieces Hajos has adhered carefully to the composer's score in harmony and rhythm. The period of "White Lilacs," which opens at the Shubert Theatre Sept. 10, is about 1857, the year Chopin met George Sand.

Whitewash I. R. T. in Bronx Crash Saturday in Which Four Workers Were Hurt

MAY TAKE SAME ACTION IN TIMES SQUARE WRECK

17 Still in Hospitals After Aug. 24 Crash

A complete whitewash of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. in the collision in the Bronx Saturday was yesterday made by District Attorney Banton. The collision occurred on the East 180th St. branch of the subway at the Jackson Ave. station. Four workers were injured, one of whom may die. The smash occurred when two work trains collided, showering a passing northbound passenger train with glass. Hugh McDevitt, motorman of a work train, was yesterday in a serious condition in Lincoln Hospital, suffering from internal injuries and a fractured leg. The collision came a week after the Times Square disaster, in which 17 workers were killed, and over 100 injured, many critically. District Attorney Banton, conducting an "investigation" into the Times Square wreck, has indicated that the Interborough would be whitewashed, and that William Baldwin, I. R. T. maintenance worker and two other workers would be made the goats for the company. Seventeen of the workers injured in the Times Square wreck still remain in hospitals. District Attorney Banton reported yesterday that there were no further developments in the "inquiry."

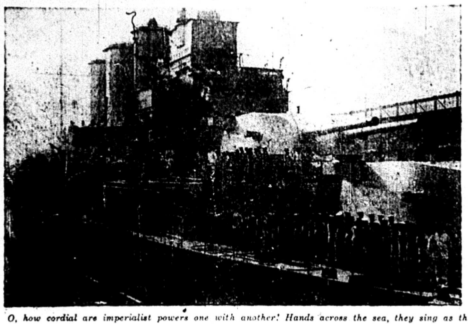
"We're lining up the locals here," writes Dan Slinger from Belleville, Illinois. "I am enclosing credentials sent to our office by mistake." West Virginia is humming with activity. So is Kentucky, as well as every other state where there are coal mines. "On to Pittsburgh, and the National Miners' Convention!" is the cry everywhere.

A Threat; British Imperialism Makes a Gesture



O, how cordial are imperialist powers one with another! Hands across the sea, they sing as the mail fists clank together in the imperialist handshake. At present it is the British government which has sent a hint in the form of the big guns and armored sides of H. M. A. S. Australia now in New York harbor where its officers are being feted by their colleagues while it is wondered on both sides how soon they will be at war.

Jack Stachel Reports On Progress

election campaign reaches into every working-class nook and cranny in the country. It is then that the workers are intensely interested in politics, due to the efforts of the capitalist parties to win their votes and the millions of dollars spent by the rival bourgeois politicians on newspaper propaganda," he said.

The National Election Campaign Committee is planning to bring the election fight into the factories. In Chicago the stockyard workers will be propagandized with literature and speakers will appear before the gates at noon to explain the program and policy of the Party. The same method will be followed in Detroit, Cleveland, and other large cities. In this way the Communist campaign will penetrate into the mills and mines and wherever the workers toil for a master.

Saving Signatures.

An interesting sidelight on the utility of signature-collecting is the fact that the comrades are copying the names of those who sign petitions and keeping them with a view to soliciting these workers for Party membership later on and for use in other election campaigns.

The National Election Campaign Committee plans, according to Stachel, call for the sending out from each district rank and file organizers to sell literature and carry on propaganda in sections where there is no Party organizations. There are thousands of industrial centers throughout this country where the word Communism has never been heard. Automobiles will be used in this work. The Party intends to call for 1,000 volunteers for this task.

Foreign-Language Workers.

Foreign-language organizations will be drawn into the campaign more than hitherto, Stachel declared. In all the great industries of the nation there are hundreds of thousands of foreign-born workers who are persecuted by the authorities and under constant threat of deportation for activity in strikes or for belonging to a militant working-class party like the Workers (Communist) Party.

The importance of building the Party in this election campaign cannot be over-stressed. It will be made clear to the workers that the Communist candidates are not asking the workers merely to vote Communist, but to become a part of the great emancipating movement of labor that has its roots in every country in the world and to join the Workers (Communist) Party, the only political party in the United States that aims to overthrow the brutal robber system of capitalism and establish in its place the Socialist system.

who have wrecked your union, who have openly admitted that they cannot better your conditions, nor shorten your work hours, nor uphold your wage scales, and who have agreed that hundreds of thousands of miners must be chased out from the industry?

"If the corrupt hangers-on of the Lewis machine refuse to call a local membership meeting to elect delegates, then the progressives should call the local union meeting and, over the heads of the corrupt officials, elect their delegates. Let nothing stand in your way, you must be represented!

"Remember, one delegate for each local union or mine, and an additional delegate for every 100 members is your quota. We are enclosing credentials which you will make out and send immediately to the National Miners Convention Arrangements Committee, 119 Federal St., N. S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Organize! Make the convention a huge success! Speed the work for the new union!

"The task of bringing all the delegates to Pittsburgh will be a hard one. The cost of bringing the delegates to the convention and their upkeep while here will be tremendous. Get your local union to send all funds it can afford. Collect as much as you can and send it to the Pittsburgh headquarters, to pay the expenses of the convention.

"Throw all your energies into the fight to build the new, powerful, honest and militant National Miners Union.

"Affiliate with the new union! Send for charters and dues cards!

"The U. M. W. A. is dead! Help build the new miners union!

Remember, on Sept. 9, in Pittsburgh, Pa., a new day will dawn for the miners of America! Your delegates wil help bring this about!

YANKS SHUT OUT; GIANTS WIN, 5 TO 2

The Yankees' lead was reduced to one and a half games yesterday, when Marberry of the Washington Senators shut the league-leaders out with but 4 hits. Marberry's slants puzzled the so-called "murderers' row." Zachary, ex-Washington and St. Louis hurler, started for the Yanks, but was removed for Moore.

The Giants—strange to relate—yesterday won another game. They beat the Boston Braves, 5 to 2. Cantwell of Boston was unable to repeat his victory over the Giants of the other day, and gave way to Clarkson. Benton, Giant star pitcher, held Boston, although the Braves got 10 hits.

Brooklyn won an 11-inning battle from the cellar Phillies, 6 to 5. McWeeney, Elliott and Clark pitched for Brooklyn and Melligan for Philadelphia.

The Cubs beat Pittsburgh, 3 to 2, and kept pace with the leading St. Louis Cards, who won from Cincinnati, 5 to 3. distributed at the camp Tuesday. Apparently they came to learn more of the League slogan raised: "Learn Whom to Fight While Learning How To Fight." About 700 workers were present.

Arrest Cowl.

At the anti-war meeting held here Saturday night Carl Cowl, League speaker for the evening, was arrested and charged with inciting to riot. The opening speech of Comrade Pat Devine, District Organizer Dist. 9, drew the attention of the audience to the extensive war preparations carried on by the Imperialist powers in face of the hypocritical pretence of inaugurating World Peace Pacts. "President Coolidge acting for the big capitalists has laid plans for the building of the biggest military machine in the world. Secretary of State Kellog at the same time is throwing dust in the eyes of the country by his alleged Peace Proposals which in reality are a cloak to hide the ever-growing war danger" he stated.

Cowl, an ex-member of the National Guard, a Y. C. L'er now, took the platform to deal with the CMTC and the National Guard. He said: "We do not oppose U. S. Militarism on pacifist grounds. We believe in fighting for the working class against the employing class.

MILL STRIKERS MARCHING TODAY

On the way out he declared: "I ain't gonna work any more."

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 2. Finally compelled to yield, Governor Fuller yesterday announced he will see the committee of strikers Tuesday and the New Bedford Textile Workers' Union of the T. M. C. is preparing to send a committee of 40 textile workers to Boston then.

James P. Ried and Fred E. Beal, leaders of the Fall River and New Bedford mill committees will head a committee composed of 40 men, women and children in the two strikes. They will demand of the state officialdom an immediate investigation of police brutality and will also demand that all the huge sums allotted to the mill owners several months ago as tax rebates, be turned over for use by the strikers as relief.

Although they put up these and other demands for action by Fuller, not one of the striking workers or their leaders have any illusions as to favorable action on them by a man who was directly responsible for the murder of labor's martyrs, Sacco and Vanzetti. During all these months of struggle the governor-appointed judges and police, both state and city, have been carrying on a campaign of terrorization that continued even after a 6-year-old child and an expectant mother in Fall River were killed. The strikers nevertheless demand an audience with Fuller directly in order to expose him as personally responsible for the strikers' sufferings.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 2.—As a sign of appreciation for "services rendered" by the police in the Fall River strike, these "services" being the most vicious sluggings and beatings administered to picketing strikers, resulting in the death of a six-year-old boy and a pregnant woman, the American Printing Company officials presented the Fall River Police Association with a check for $500 to go toward their fund. This became known yesterday when the police heads granted the association permission to accept the "gift."

NEW YORK CITY STAGE HELP MAY WALK OUT SOON

Seek Wage Raise and Better Conditions

A theatrical tie-up in New York City loomed, when over 1000 stagehands, members of Local 1 of the Theatrical Protective Union yesterday announced their determination to stand firm on their rejection of an agreement arrived at between the heads of the union and the International Theatrical Protective Association, the vaudeville bosses' league. A 2-year agreement between the union and the bosses expired Saturday. The workers demand an increase in wages and better working conditions, a changing in working hours, a crew of seven men in theaters alternating weekly with musical and dramatic attraction, and $8 a performance for "grips," who now get $6.

Labor Day, the Reds and the Yellows

Forty-four years ago, two years after the Central Labor Union of New York had begun celebrating the first Monday in September as "Labor Day," the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions of the United States and Canada, which later took the present name of American Federation of Labor, resolved:

> "That the first Monday in September of each year be set apart as a laborer's national holiday and that we recommend its observance by all wage earners irrespective of sex, calling or nationality."

Two years later, in 1886, on the first day of May the great 8-hour movement was launched in action with the strike in the McCormick harvester works. The attack of the police upon the strikers' meeting on May 3 at Haymarket Square, and the killing of the police, followed by the murder of the Haymarket martyrs by the State of Illinois, fixed for the whole world the genuine Labor Day as May 1.

There came a rivalry between the two Labor Days. The September day became the favorite of the timid and corrupt trade union bureaucracy, and in 1894 the United States Congress made the first Monday of September of each year a national holiday.

Prior to the World War the September Labor Day was generally the occasion for parades of the trade unions—modest parades, meek processions for the most part, in this country, and still more timid speeches on the smaller detail of reform demands, and proposals of "industrial peace" often heard from the mouths of capitalist politicians.

But even this form of Labor Day celebration has virtually passed out of existence since the beginning of the World War. Parades were abandoned as giving too much spontaneous expression to the masses of workers in the trade unions. The September Labor Day in the hands of the Gompers, the Greens and the Lewises, has become only a day for obtaining extra well paid advertisements from big open-shop corporations for the dry and lifeless "labor journals" of trade union bureaucrats, and for issuing statements to the capitalist press on the benefits of class collaboration and semi-company-unionism. William Green's "Labor Day Message" is a pitiful example. Labor Day is, he says, "a respected national institution." "We have made progress," he declares—perhaps meaning progress in totals of private bank accounts and investments of himself and his associates. He certainly could not say that the membership of the American Federation of Labor has increased during the past eight years. It has decreased almost steadily since 1920. Is the degree of the organization of the workers increased? No. Have wages and conditions in the important sectors of industry improved? No. All Mr. Green can say is, "We find the principle of organization of employes finding increased acceptance," showing by his context that he means "acceptance by the capitalists. What a ludicrous lie—even for Green! Not a word does he say on behalf of the need for struggle of the workers against the capitalist offensive which has long been eradicating unionism, with Mr. Green's help, in many fields. A whine about "such industries as coal and textiles that have failed to keep pace with efficient practices." And the struggling coal miners and textile workers can go to hell as far as he is concerned. Then an open approval of the bar association proposal of a national anti-strike law in the guise of "legislative relief for the abuse of the injunction," and a hint for the working class to vote for the capitalist Tammany candidate for president.

Mr. Green says that the trade unions are not looking "for domination over other groups in industry and society,"—and by this he means that he and his kind are opposed to the victory of the working class in its struggle with the capitalist class.

This Labor Day marks even more sharply than ever the shameful bankruptcy and corruption of the official leadership of the American trade union movement.

But there is another side to the picture. If the corruption of class collaboration has swamped as never before the official circles of trade unionism, there is nevertheless a process which works in the opposite direction. Mr. Green speaks of "progress" to be marked on this Labor Day, but we, the Communists, are those who can speak truly of progress. If the vast resources of American capitalism are still able to corrupt the trade union misleaders and to keep masses of trade union membership in sluggish inaction, nevertheless the contradictions of this capitalist system have brought considerable sections of the working class already to the elementary consciousness that they must struggle or go down to extinction. Already the exposure of the fact that the bureaucracy is willing only to fight for the employers against the workers has been accompanied by the rise of new leadership of big struggles. If there has been no big strike action in the past several years in which the officials of the trade unions have not betrayed the workers, it is also true that there has been no big strike struggle for several years in which the Workers (Communist) Party has not come to the front in the role of the fighting leader of the workers. The Green bureaucracy is not organizing the unorganized workers—but the Communists are.

Mr. Green can mark no progress this day. But the working class can mark progress in the fact that it has in certain sections already learned how to fight without the help of the Greens and Lewises, McMahons and Sigmans, and to fight shoulder-to-shoulder with the Workers (Communist) Party.

A Camp for Workers' Children

By PHILIP FRANKFELD.

For us, as Communists, we must be clear just why we participate and engage in certain kinds of activities. Ideological clarity is especially important if the field of work is a new one. The first question that therefore comes to mind is: What are our purposes? What is our conception of all of our camp work?

In the first place, we must always remember that we must carry on all of our work as Communists. That means that we do not conceive the camps to be an end in themselves; we do not conceive the camps to be mere "havens of rest." We do not want those workers and workers children that we attract to merely "go back to nature for rest and recuperation." Our purpose is: to raise the prestige of the Party, the League, and the Young Pioneers with the workers and children who come to camp. We want them to carry away with them the message of Communism. We want to make many new Party, League, and Pioneer members as a result of our work in the camps.

The W. I. R. camp is a working-class childrens camp located in Wingdale, N. Y. The Camp is located right near Camp Unity. Anyone who has ever been to the camp can't help being impressed by the beauty of the surroundings. Mountains enclose the camp like a fortress. The place abounds with trees. There is a beautiful lake a bit from the camp. The Childrens Camp, at the same time, is not too near the adult camp—altho the W. I. R. camp enjoys all of the improvements of Unity.

Composition Of The Camp.

There are 99 children in WIR camp, with the present group 90 to 95 per cent children of workers. These children have been attracted to the camp because of the fact that the WIR Camp is the only workers childrens camp in the city. They have heard that the camp follows a working class policy; they have heard (both the parents and children) that the Pioneers are helping out greatly in the work of the camp. They have heard that the rates are pretty low—$8 a week—and that the food, activities, educational program, are all very good.

This group of 99 children contains several Negro children of Negro workers. The WIR Camp does not recognize any distinctions in race, sex, nationality, etc. It is a workers children's camp, and its policies will, are, and continue to be based on the working class movement.

This article will briefly outline a days activity of the children in the WIR Camp. This will not require any detailed comment on the part of the writer to convince anybody that the leaders in the camp have been able to work out a well balanced day's activity for the children.

In the morning, on rising, the children get out on the field and the red flag is raised. The children then give the pledge to the working class and sing the International. This is followed by the morning exercises for all of the children. Breakfast follows.

After breakfast, the children themselves make up their beds. The leaders then conduct an inspection of the tents. Classes are then held in American History, on working class struggle, and in literature. After classes—sports work—then wash—then dinner.

After dinner, there is a rest period for 1 hour. Later in the afternoon the children have rowing, swimming, etc. Supper follows. After supper, there is group activities for 1½ hours. In this hour and a half of group work, there are discussion on the arts and crafts; supervised reading; sports work; dramatics; singing; and social. From 8 to 9:15 P. M., on certain days, there is a class in science, camp fires, and indoor sports.

The ministers' committee for support of the Reverend Norman Thomas will now get busy to rally the proletariat for the socialist party.

Thomas Advises Mine Fakers

By FRED BRILL

The "Socialist" Candidate Shows Himself a Friend of John L. Lewis

Norman Thomas, Socialist Candidate for President of the U. S. A. has approached the miners' problems: he has spoken in mining towns of West Virginia. In the New Leader of August 11th, he writes his views.

He is for fighting the Communists, but he begins to realize that merely fighting Communists is not enough. He advises the A. F. of L. bureaucracy as well that something more is needed. He writes: "Neither we Socialists nor the A. F. of L. leaders can afford to spend most of our time, energy and thought merely fighting Communism." No?

Than what is your fight, Reverend? Perhaps against the capitalist class? No. Thomas proclaims that "Our big fight is against the apathy, stupidity and hopelessness among the workers which American capitalism so successfully cultivates." No. It is not a question of struggle against the capitalists, so as to rouse the fighting spirit of the working class and draw them into the struggle against capitalism. No. The socialist fight is to dispel apathy, stupidity and hopelessness. How? By telling the miner to vote the socialist ticket.

What about cleaning out the fakers in the labor movement? The Greens, the Wolls, Lewises, etc? How about a change in policy in the labor movement? No. All that is necessary is for the A. F. of L. to join the Amsterdam International, as Thomas argues, "without diminishing desirable national autonomy," which is the same offer made by the Amsterdam fakers and repeatedly rejected by the American labor bureaucrats. Joining Amsterdam without admitting international responsibilities — this is Thomas' solution.

An Ally of Lewis.

Who is to blame for the present conditions in the mining industry? Evidently, the Communists. The labor fakers? They are only partly to blame, and even then, only a part of them. Here are Thomas' own words: "Part of the tragedy must be charged up to the union leadership. Some of Lewis' henchmen have utterly lost the confidence of all sorts of workers." And then Thomas offers as a solution the laying on of socialist hands, as follows: "These rank and filers haven't turned Communist, but have drifted into a state where discontent is temporarily smothered by a dull hopelessness. One of the best of the mine leaders put it in a nutshell last night at Clarksburg when he said: 'We made a big mistake when we forgot the power of socialist ideals to hold our union together.'"

Sigman Tactics.

But haven't the Lewises and Fishwicks followed the same tactics as Sigman and other socialists in the needle trades, as former President Johnston in the Machinists? Of course they have. Haven't they adopted governor's commissions, reorganization of the industry in the bosses' interest; haven't they betrayed strikes and expelled militants? Of course they have. They are following the example of the socialists already—and the result is destruction of the old United Mine Workers of America.

In the New Leader of Aug. 4th, Thomas admits the weakening of the U. M. W. A. by the Indianapolis decision, and that failure to organize West Virginia and Kentucky brought about the present condition. As a solution, Thomas offers the class collaboration policy: "The first fight of the union perhaps will have to be to find a way aiding decent operators who cooperate with it to get business." He proposes "some sort of genuine industrial democracy which, of course, involves recognition of the union . . . nationalization and operation under a public authority representing producers and consumers."

Reformist Slogan.

Thomas' solution is nationalization and federal control of the mining industry under the capitalist system. Tinkering with federal control and ownership is a reformist slogan. Nothing but the abolition of the capitalist system and the establishment of a Workers and Farmers Government will solve the coal miners' problem.

Vote Communist.

A gigantic struggle is being waged in the mining industry for the establishment of a New Miners Union. On the one side are the coal operators backed by Wall Street, and the labor fakers in the U.M.W.A. and in the A. F. L. generally. On the other side are the rank and file members who voted Lewis out of office, and attempted to save the union from destruction, and found that the only way to save the union for the membership was to start a New Miners Union.

The Communists support the new union. The I. W. W. attempts in its small way to make capital for itself, with no result. The socialist party attacks the new Miners' Union; its candidate for president puts most of the blame for the disastrous condition of the mining industry on the Communists; he exonerates most of Lewis' henchmen, blaming only a "part of them." In doing this, it lines up with the reactionaries in the miners union.

The socialist party appeals to the miners for votes in the coming election. But the militant miners will not be caught by this vote catching bait. They know that the Socialist Party is a reformist party, not one of struggle, but of surrender to the bosses. They know that the Workers (Communist) Party is the party of the class struggle, fighting the battle of the exploited worker, and they will support the Workers (Communist) Party in the coming November elections.

Dutch Imperialism Enslaves Indonesia

Brutality, Deportation of Native Workers Has Brought Awakening of Class-Consciousness

But this is not all! The conciliatory policy of the Governor-General De Graeff towards the right wing of the nationalist movement has thoroughly alarmed the Dutch colonial capitalist group. They fear that the shifting of the majority in the Volksraad from the Dutch to the Indonesians will weaken the dominant position of the Dutch in Indonesia. They are afraid that the Volksraad might then pass resolutions detrimental to the Dutch colonial capital; such measures would, of course, hurt the economic position of the Netherlands in the world. It is, therefore, not very difficult to understand why the imperialist capitalist group commenced a strong campaign against the Governor-General De Graeff.

At the head of this group was Mr. Tripp, president of the Java Bank, who, because of his semi-official position ought to have refrained from any political action against the government. It is the opinion of this banker that vital Dutch interests are at stake, so he organized a protest movement among the Dutch colonials and severely criticized the political attitude of the government. He even succeeded in getting not less than 12,995 signatures of leading citizens, petitioning the governor-general to postpone the partial reorganization of the Volksraad.

The government replied that it did not want to bear the responsibility of the "serious consequences which would arise if the reorganization were delayed." Also the government drew the attention of the European citizens to the fact that "the country is affected by a serious economic crisis, which has unduly influenced a large portion of the population while at the same time a foreign power (meaning Soviet Russia) is doing its utmost to undermine the country and to overthrow the social order, for which purpose it utilizes every possible means of propaganda." Finally, the government warned everybody not to act against its policy, for "he who knowingly hampers the evolution of the country is breaking the branch upon which it is seated."

This policy of the Governor-General De Graeff caused nearly all Dutch citizens to take up a hostile attitude towards him. The reactionary campaign became stronger and stronger. Mr. Staal, formerly Dutch Consul-General at Calcutta, wrote a pamphlet about the colonial question, putting forth precisely the imperialist point of view. His thesis was that Indonesia must be kept at any cost as a Dutch possession, because the vital interests of the Netherlands depend upon it. "The loss of this colony," he said, "would do irreparable injury to the Netherlands and would reduce the prosperity of the Dutch to a critically low standard." For that reason the government must not entertain the question of Indonesian independence. Mr. Staal winds up his pamphlet by saying that the best security for the interests of the Netherlands is "a government which resolutely believes in its own strength, which meets the natives half way in minor points as a righteous and gentle friend, but which does not hesitate to show in unmistakeable terms who the master is as soon as the vital interests of the Dutch are endangered."

Another strong attack on the liberal colonial policy comes from the "Ondernemersraad"—Dutch Employers' Association—whose chairman and propagandist is Mr. Treub. Their principal thesis is that the Netherlands would be degraded to the rank of an insignificant nation, if Indonesia became independent.

It is beyond the scope of this article to point out all the shades of the reactionary Dutch imperialist propaganda with regard to Indonesia, but the above is sufficient to throw light upon its character and power.

All this sharp, strong reactionary agitation finally succeeded in influencing the attitude of the governor-general towards the nationalist movement. A former Dutch official of high position in Indonesia recently said: "Though Mr. De Graeff came to Indonesia with the best of intentions in regard to the rapid political development of the country, he is unable to escape the powerful influence of the reactionary group which really runs the colony." The Governor-General De Graeff's speech at the opening session (May 15) of the Volksraad shows clearly his change of front and that he is now working hand in hand with the Dutch colonial capitalists. With regard to the uneasiness displayed by the Dutch imperialists both in the Netherlands and in Indonesia, De Graeff said that the question of altering the position of the Dutch in Indonesia is not within the sphere of practical politics, and that "the Dutch leadership in this country will continue for a long while yet." At the same time he split the nationalist movement into the evolutionary nationalists, who can depend upon the sympathy of the government, and the revolutionary nationalists on whom the government is ever keeping a watchful eye. He tried to keep the two "sections" apart by arguing that there was a fundamental difference between them and by warning the so-called "sound nationalists" against the "destructive nationalists."

In the Explanatory Memorandum of the Provisional Report of the Volksraad, the government's attitude has been precisely defined in the following sentence:

"Only on the basis of the maintenance of the leadership of the Dutch will the native popular movement get the hearing or sympathy of the government."

It is no wonder that such a declaration gives satisfaction to the Dutch citizens of Indonesia. The most reactionary newspaper "Het Neiws van den Dag van Ned. Indie" eulogizes the utterance of Dr. Graeff in which he categorically states that Dutch leadership in Indonesia is indispensable for many years to come, while the "Java Bode" joyfully declares that the words of the governor-general can be likened to a bomb thrown into the ranks of the nationalists. Yet another reactionary newspaper "Het Soerabajaasch Handelsblad" wrote the following: "The words of the governor-general do the Dutch heart good, and will contribute very much towards reestablishing the contact between the governor-general and the Dutch people. These words will inspire confidence in the Dutch people who are much concerned regarding the guiding principles of the policy of the colonial government."

Told You So

NO matter how cleverly imperialist powers succeed in preventing the government of the Soviet Union from getting its revolutionary propaganda across at given moments, they only succeed in whetting the public appetite for what Russia has to say later on. The U. S. S. R. has a very revolutionary program for world peace. It actually suggests that the capitalist powers agree to drop their dirks, the Soviet Union of course doing likewise and simultaneously. This program is anathema to the imperialist statesmen who are kidding the masses with peace drivel while their respective governments are arming for another war.

T. J. O'Flaherty

THE Soviet Government was not included among the governments originally invited to sign the Pact of Paris, which was conceived in Washington and delivered by "Nervous Nellie" Kellogg in the city of joy. Perhaps Kellogg feared that Litvinoff would shake things up again as he did at Geneva with the famous disarmament proposal. Anyhow, Russia was not invited with the first batch of powers, but was permitted to come in later on with Siam and Albania. It was alright anyhow. The Soviet Government hasn't a swelled head. So Maxim Litvinoff, assistant foreign minister had the great honor to write a long letter to the French ambassador telling why his government would sign the pact, tho it was of the opinion that it did not amount to a tinker's damn. And this letter appeared on the front page of every big newspaper in the United States and no doubt in all other countries.

THE Daily Worker pointed out a week ago that Kellogg had a political reason for visiting the Irish Free State and passing up England. Now, all the capitalist papers are discussing the incident at length. They conclude that it is a gesture against England. That is just what it is. The approach of the United States to Egypt for an arbitration treaty was another gesture. Both Ireland and Egypt are hardly nominally free. But they are free enough to have the right to receive tourists. So, immediately after Kellogg signed the peace pact in Paris with Lord Cushendon of England, the American secretary of state proceeded to renew the diplomatic war against England by visiting Ireland, where British imperialists are as popular as rationalists at a Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton service.

A HORNET was turned loose at a League of Nations session in Geneva when the Colombian representative made a speech branding the Monroe Doctrine as an instrument of oppression and supporting the demand made by Costa Rica, that the League Council give an interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine. The Chilean and Cuban members of the council took the same position as the Colombian and it is believed that the League Council will state its position on the question. It is not stated in news dispatches that Great Britain, the owner of the League of Nations took steps to block the discussion. Perhaps Britain wants to let Kellogg do a little worrying while he is playing golf in Ireland.

THE international figures who have often been down but never down and out met in London a few days ago. The two gentlemen are, James Joseph Tunney, the big sock and syllable man, and Edward P., the Prince of Wails and horse-falls. Gene expressed surprise over the prince's knowledge of boxing. Whether the prince inquired how a pugilist can win a fight by staying a discreet length of time on the floor after he gets knocked out before assuming a perpendicular position, we do not know. Such information might come in handy to the prince the next time a horse puts him standing on his neck. If the prince could come up reading a book instead of jiggling a collar bone, he might be given the decision that has hitherto gone to the horse.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST may be for Al Smith or against him for all we know after reading his cable to the Brooklyn Eagle. It is true that on the face of the message one unacquainted with Willie would conclude that Al was on his black books. But then with a few exceptions, there is no record of anybody supported by the publisher getting far. The exceptions are ex-Mayor Hylan and a well-known actress.

THERE is yet time for Hearst to declare for the democratic party, the republican party, the socialist party or for William Randolph Hearst. It will not make much difference which party the publisher supports. The party with the biggest contingency fund on election day will get the electoral votes.

British "Labor Leaders" Appeal for Police Protection Against Starving Welsh Miners

EXPEL SEAMEN'S UNION FOR HELP TO COAL MINERS

Jobless Men March Past Hall; Hold Open Air Meet in Park

Crocodile Turner Cries

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Fear of the officials of the sixteenth annual convention of the British Trade Union Congress which opened here today that a large delegation of unemployed Welsh miners would try to invade the hall and present their case to the conference caused them to appeal to the police for protection and heavy guards were held in readiness to repel the starving workers.

The miners, however, marched quietly past the Congress building and held their meeting in a park.

Following the appeal to the police, Ben Turner, president of the Congress, said: "Unemployment is a perpetual nightmare of the workers. It is breaking down the physical standards of the nation."

MORGAN GRIP ON MEXICO TIGHTENS

Control of National Railways Looms

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 3 (UP).—Rehabilitation of the National Railways cannot be accomplished unless they are administered as a private enterprise, Luis Montes De Oca, secretary of treasury, said in his annual report to congress today. He urged that statutes be changed so that the railways could progress comparably with those of other countries.

The recommendation of Luis Montes De Oca, Mexican secretary of treasury, that the railways of Mexico be taken out of state control is regarded as a maneuver designed to place the Mexican railways under control of J. P. Morgan and Co., thus more effectively tying Mexico to the apron-strings of American finance-capital.

Last year when Mexican finances were in an unusually low state, an international bankers' committee headed by Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan and Co., considered some method of settlement of Mexican debts to them. It was unofficially reported that one of the recommendations of the committee was that the railroads become a private instead of a state monopoly. The report of the Mexican secretary of treasury to congress is thus in compliance with the wishes of this Morgan-controlled committee.

GREEN ORATES IN CLEVELAND

Labor Fakers Fawn Before Bosses

(Special to the Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3.—After [illegible] insisting that International May Day, the true American Labor Day, is "entirely European in origin and character," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, delivered himself of his annual Labor Day oration at Genuga Lake Park here by thanking the American capitalist government as "having done something fine and noble when it honored labor by creating a national holiday and designating it Labor Day.

Completely unmindful of the "insignificant" fact that the working class creates all and should therefore feel less humble at receiving such "overwhelming honors," the

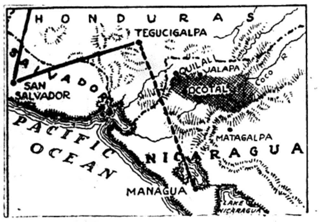
TUNNEY IN PARIS.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, arrived here tonight.

Stronghold of Army of Independence



The Sandino Nationalist army has slowly and steadily lured the marines back into the jungles and the torturous Nicaraguan valleys. The armies are "still advancing." In the opinion of military experts, the marines will be "still advancing" until the end of time at their present rate. Experts contend that it will take many more thousand marines than the United States now has in Nicaragua to subdue the army of independence while it has a friendly population to feed it and to recruit from, and a rugged, defensive country to campaign in. The map shows the scene of the latest operations, the Coco River country, fever-swamp and jungle.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE FOR MILL STRIKERS

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—A call rallying all working class forces in New England for a conference to build up substantial machinery for the defense of the hundreds of victims of the court and police terror in the bitter New Bedford and Fall River textile strikes, was issued by the New England District of the International Labor Defense over the signature of its Secretary-Organizer, Robert Zelms.

All of that organization's locals, branches and affiliated bodies, all trade unions and other sympathetic societies are called upon to send delegates to the conference which will be held here Sunday, Sept. 23, at 10 a.m., in Paine Memorial Hall, 9 Appelton St.

The appeal broadcast and the instructions it gives are in part as follows:

"The records of the New Bedford police already show more than 500 arrests in that city alone in their

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 3.—Simultaneous with the extensive preparations that were being made during the last few days for the textile strikers' parade today, special attention was being paid to plans for strengthening the picketing of mills, and particularly homes, beginning with tomorrow. Reliable reports have it that the mill barons intend to launch an intensified drive to build up a "sizable" nucleus of strikebreakers by sending special agents to the homes of mill operatives.

Never was an army of tens of thousands of strikers more unanimously adamant in its refusal to keep out of the mills. This and the fact that Labor Day has already been reached without any sign of

MINOR TO SPEAK AT RIDGEWOOD

Election Rally Called by German Conference

Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and Communist candidate for the U. S. senate from New York state, will be the principal speaker at the election rally of Brooklyn and Queens to be held at the Queens County Labor Lyceum, 785 Forest Ave., Ridgewood on Friday, Sept. 7, at 8 p. m. Joseph Berg, well-known German speaker will deliver an address in German, and Erich R. Saenger, secretary of the German Language Bureau of the Workers (Communist) Party will be the chairman.

This election mass meeting is being called by the German Election Campaign Conference, organized some time ago by the German Language Bureau of the Workers (Communist) Party. Several Workmen's Sick and Death Benefit branches, German singing societies, the Arbeiterbund, the German branch, Ridgewood, of the International Labor Defense, and the German Language Bureau will participate in the conference.

NEGRO AIDS NEW UNION

Miner's Wife Will Attend Convention

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 3.—The Indiana Women's Auxiliaries will be represented at the National Miners Convention by Mrs. Ora Boyce, of Clinton. Mrs. Boyce has been doing excellent work in both Kentucky and Indiana, speaking at mass meetings and union meetings for the new union.

Mrs. Boyce, who is a Negro sister, has been especially useful in organizing the miners of her race into locals for the new union, and their women-folk into auxiliaries.

"We must not allow the same mistakes the U. M. W. A. officials made," Mrs. Boyce says. "The new union is not discriminating against any miner. The Negro miners are all rallying to the new union because they know they will get a square deal. In the delegation coming from Indiana, the Negroes will be represented. We will take part in building our union."

SPEED ELECTION OF DELEGATES TO MINE MEET

Arrangement Committee Issues Appeal to All Locals

Convention 5 Days Off

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 3.—As every day brings the National Convention to build a new Miners Union closer, the speeding-up of the elections of delegates to participate in the momentous rank and file meeting is requested by the Convention Arrangements Committee. Over the signatures of John J. Watt, chairman and Pat Toohey, secretary the following appeal has been issued:

To all Local Unions and Progressive Groups:

Dear Brothers:

When you receive this letter there will be only a few days left before the National Miners Convention convenes in Pittsburgh, Pa. We expect that you have already made the fight in the local unions to secure delegates to this convention and made a successful fight. However, should you have failed in these efforts, due to being blocked by the remnants of the reactionary machine, it is essential that your progressive group immediately get together in a regular meeting and select your delegates.

Secondly, make all arrangements possible for collection of finances for your delegates as well as arrangements for transportation by automobile, bus or whatever is convenient and cheap.

Thirdly, please remember that we are already now in the process of building the New National Miners' Union in the place of the one which has been wrecked by the joint efforts of the coal operators and the corrupt Lewis machine. It is therefore necessary that we go to work immediately to prepare to have all your local unions affiliate with the new union. Make arrangements to have your local union go on record for securing charter and dues cards from the New National Miners Union.

HILLMAN HOLDS FAKE ELECTIONS

With annual monotony the New York Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union will hold its election farce today and tomorrow in several sections of the city in order to put the "democratic seal" on the reactionaries appointed by the Hillman-Schlossberg machine at the last national convention of the union.

Disregarding the mass demand for the elimination of Beckerman, Joint Board czar, from the ranks of organized labor—this demand coming even from workers not professedly left wing—Beckerman and his entire coterie of henchmen are on the ballot to fill positions of manager, assistants, trade managers and business agents. This despite the fact that the largest locals in New York voted overwhelmingly not to allow Beckerman on the ballot.

Militants Ruled Off.

Left wingers, progressives and all other workers who have courage enough to openly manifest opposition to the sell-out policies of Beckerman and Hillman were arbitrarily ruled off the ballot. If the workers'

TRAINMEN VOTE SOLID FOR STRIKE

Officials May Prevent Walk-out

CHICAGO, Sept. 3 (UP).—Trainmen and conductors of 55 western railroads have voted almost "one hundred per cent for a walkout," A. F. Whitney of Cleveland, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, announced tonight.

"The complete tabulation has not been made," Whitney told the United Press. "The result will be close to 100 per cent for a strike, however."

Whitney arrived here today to meet with E. P. Curtis, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and other officials and members of the "Strike Committee" to tabulate the vote and to consider the tentative proposal the railroads have offered for mediation.

The committee, numbering between 115 and 120 men, will consider the proposal of the roads at a meeting Tuesday and will vote whether or not to accept it. In event the committee would vote to accept the proposal the strike vote would be set aside, Whitney said.

A strike, if called, would affect 70,000 men. The controversy over which the men threaten to strike has been waging for several months. The workers originally demanded increases of from 10 to 18 per cent. The roads offered to meet the wage demands in part but sought to have certain working conditions included in the agreement.

The men refused the offer and the strike vote resulted.

Young Worker League Dist. 2, Meets Tonight

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The rank and file of the other textile unions, headed by labor reactionaries, have joined the strike of textile workers in Northern France, which was called by the Communist textile union which delivered an ultimatum to the Northern France Textile Syndicate demanding more wages and threatening a general strike on September 2 if their demands are not met.

Because William L. D'Olier, president of the Sanitation Corporation of 420 Lexington Ave., whose body was found near the Mt. Zion Cemetery in Maspeth, L. I., with a bullet through his temple Sunday morning "knew too much" about graft in Queens sewer contracts, he is now dead.

During the past 24 hours three things have been established—that an autopsy substantiates the belief that D'Olier did not meet his death by suicide; that the .32 caliber revolver, with one discharged cartridge, in his right hand was not his own. Finally, that although the body was found with the head resting in sharp rocks, as though it had

To Report On Needle Trades at Meets of Party Sections 2, 3

The membership of Sections 2 and 3 of the New York District of the Workers (Communist) Party will attend special section meetings tomorrow evening at 7.30 to hear Charles S. The reports will be delivered at the section headquarters, 101 West 27th St., after unit meetings will have been held. All units will close their meetings promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

According to a statement issued by the sections' industrial organizers the reports by Zimmerman and Potash are of the greatest importance at this vital moment in the struggle of the needle trades workers, and therefore to the entire Party membership in these industrial areas.

NEW DRIVE ON TAXI MEN

Yellow Cab Has Aid of Tammany Hall

Actively co-operating with the big open-shop taxi corporation, the Tammany police has begun a new campaign to drive independent taxi drivers out of existence. The campaign has taken the form of a gradually widening edict whereby public hack stands are being abolished. This is in addition, of course, to the systematic persecution and intimidation of cab drivers by the police.

Taxi drivers report that bans have been placed on a number of the most profitable hack stands. One of the latest to be abolished has been the stand on Seventh Ave., between 33rd and 34th St., in front of the Pennsylvania Hotel, which has been the favorite hack stand for more than 100 taxi drivers since the hotel was built.

20,000 SIGNATURES ARE COLLECTED BY WORKERS IN BIG OPEN SHOP STATE

William Patterson, Labor Veteran, Heads Ohio Ticket

1,000 Volunteers to Be Sent Thruout State On Agitational Tours

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 3.—For the first time in its history, the Workers (Communist) Party has qualified for a position on the official ballot in the great mining, manufacturing and agricultural state of Ohio.

The placing of the Communist ticket on the Ohio ballot is a big factor for the Workers (Communist) Party and a tribute to the enthusiasm with which the members of the Party in the Ohio District faced the tremendous task of collecting the 20,000 signatures necessary to comply with the terms of the law.

Mine, Steel Workers Aid.

Of the 20,000 signatures, 10,000 were collected in Cleveland alone.

In the mining and steel regions the workers not only signed the Communist petitions willingly, but assisted in the securing of signatures.

This willingness is attributed to the active part played by the Party in the great coal strike which raged in Ohio for over a year. The Communists stood with the left wing in the United Mine Workers Union against the operators and the Lewis machine which deliberately sought to break down the morale of the strikers and send them back to work on the employers' terms. When the strike was finally broken and the union destroyed, the Communists took the lead in fighting to bulid the new union.

Open Shop State.

This is a state notorious for its open shop drives, as the birthplace of the infamous "Ohio gang" including Warren Gamaliel Harding, Harry Daugherty and Jess Smith, unofficial head of the bribe-collection section of the department of justice.

Ohio has contributed more capitalist presidents and presidential candidates to the nation than any state in the union. It threw up Mark Hanna, the man who put electioneering on a gold basis, and John D. Rockefeller, the oily king of gasoline got his start there. Norman Thomas, who is now leading what is left of the socialist party back to Jesus, first saw the light of salvation in Marion, O., the late Gemaliel's home town.

The district organizer, I. Amter, and the Campaign Committee of Party District No. 5, with headquarters in Cleveland, under the direction of N. Schaffer, mapped out a plan for all sections of the state and assigned quotas to each Party organization in the district.

Workers Remember.

The steel workers of Youngstown, Warren and other cities remembered the great steel strike which was led by William Z. Foster, candidate for president on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket this year. They know that today only the Communists are actively engaged propagandizing the workers in all industries for militant trade unionism, the reactionary leaders of the A. F. of L. and the socialist party having gone over bag and baggage to the employing classes.

Ohio was the first state to send a revolutionist to jail for opposition to the war. Charles E. Ruthenberg, late executive secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, delivered a speech against the war shortly after it was declared in the public square of Cleveland and was sent to jail in Canton prison for one year.

Revolutionary Traditions.

It was in Canton that Eugene V. Debs was arrested for his famous anti-war speech and sentenced to 10 years in Atlanta.

The left wing of the socialist party of Ohio was expelled on the eve of the socialist convention in Chicago in 1919 with the entire state of Michigan. Ruthenberg, who was secretary of the Cleveland section of the socialist party, was the leader of the left wing in Ohio and was

FIND NEW PLOT AGAINST USSR; MANY ARRESTED

G. P. U. Seizes Heads of Four Moscow Factories

War Danger Is Seen

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 3 (UP).—The C. P. U. announced today that they had arrested the directors of four large Moscow factories, several technical chiefs, officials of various trusts and private traders, accused of bribery.

It was charged that raw materials, of which there is a shortage, were imported for government use and were diverted to private channels.

KOENIGSBERG, East Prussia, Sept. 3.—An unconfirmed dispatch from Moscow today states that directors of four of the largest factories in Moscow, and a number of technicians in various industries, have been arrested by the G. P. U. The prisoners are charged with participation in plots against production and for the overthrow of the Soviet government.

Similarity of the present arrests and charges to those in the celebrated Shakhta trial of several months ago have been pointed out and rumors that the present conspirators were financed by enemies of the Soviet Union outside the country have been made.

New clouds of war hovering on the horizon were freely discussed today following disclosure of the arrests.

IV. The External and Internal Contradictions of the Capitalist System

Thus, the imperialists say: We don't want war, the U. S. S. R. wants war. Pilsudski says: I don't want war, the U. S. S. R. wants war. Meanwhile, all of them are feverishly preparing for a war of aggression against the U. S. S. R. and for war among themselves. I do not wish to assert that this war will break out for certain within the next few months. No one can say in what month, or even in what year war will break out. But the point is not whether war will break out within a year or two or three. The point is that the danger of war is growing from month to month. I think that this is perfectly clear. It is to the imperialists' interests to obscure this thesis and the social democrats are interested in the same thing. But there is no reason why we should conceal this fact. Hence, I cannot agree to the significance of this fact being diminished in any form, even in the form of separating external contradictions from internal contradictions.

Several comrades, as it were, keep internal contradictions in one pocket and external contradictions in another. There were several comrades of our delegation who adopted the same attitude, but they received no support. Is this attitude correct? No, it is not. It is the reflection of an underestimation of the war danger. From the objective point of view it is the reflection of right wing dangers in the Communist International. The principal danger that threatens us is the under-estimation of the war danger. In view of the fact that this question is by no means a simple one, on the contrary, it is a very complicated one, I think it is my duty to explain it in the most elementary manner possible, in order to avoid any possible misunderstandings and in order to obtain a clearest possible picture of it.

First of all, are there any persons in the Communist International who under-estimate the war danger? Undoubtedly there are. Comrade Thorez, Semard, Ercoli and many other comrades referred to it. All of us have said and emphasized, for example, that the Chinese revolution and Japan's war against China have not been sufficiently reflected in the work of the Parties affiliated to the Communist International. Therefore, the objective situation reveals a continuous increase in the war danger, if the position of the imperialists and social democrats is absolutely clear, then we must take the under-estimation of the war danger seriously into consideration. This under-estimation of the war danger follows from the fact that the war danger is regarded as an ordinary problem, as one of many equally important problems. We do not link up the war danger with other questions in such a way as to subordinate all our other tasks combatting approaching war. And this is precisely what we must do if our actions are to correspond to the objective situation and to our tasks of the day. This is why I would like to enlarge on this thesis.

You know, comrades, that in his article on the Hague Conference, Lenin wrote, that in time of war or immediately on the eve of war a section of the Communist press will undoubtedly disgrace itself. Of course, it may be said that Lenin was a "pessimist." But the fact is, we have these words written in black and white by Lenin. Shall we say that this was an "incautious" expression to use? I do not know whether this forecast will be realised, but I do know that such a danger exists in view of the under-estimation of the war danger. I ask you what other danger is there to compare with this one? Almost none, for this is the fundamental question of the whole situation.

How the Question of External and Internal Contradictions Should be Presented

I ask you to verify the question as to whether this is the fundamental question or not. If you decide that this is the fundamental question then it will be easy for you to draw the necessary conclusions. In my opinion, attempts to transfer the center of gravity from the question of the war danger to that of the internal contradictions or to some other, imply a failure to understand the seriousness of the situation. This question is closely connected with the under-estimation of the intervention which has already commenced in China. I think also that it is connected with what I referred to in my speech: the inadequate internationalism of our Communist Parties.

The question of the internal contradictions and the connection these have with the external contradictions is a very complicated one.

I have already pointed out that some comrades, as it were, put the internal contradictions in one pocket and the external contradictions in the other. Such an attitude does not correspond to the objective state of affairs and must inevitably lead to erroneous tactical conclusions. Let us examine the question. First of all I ask you: is revolution possible without war? This is quite a legitimate question. The answer is: of course it is possible. It would be absurd to suggest that an immediate revolutionary situation can arise only in connection with war. It is true that history shows that in a majority of cases revolutions have been connected with war. Examples of these are: the Paris Commune, which arose during the Franco-Prussian war; the first great revolution in Russia in 1905, which broke out immediately following the Russo-Japanese war; the February and October Revolutions of 1917 in Russia and a number of European and Asiatic revolutions, which broke out in connection with the world war—all these revolutions were closely connected with wars. But can it be asserted that in our times an immediate revolutionary situation in countries like Germany and Czechoslovakia can arise only in connection with war? Such an assertion would be absurd and from the practical point of view it would imply that we must "wait" for war to break out, and that we must take into account only one single perspective in our work. The question is: must we, as subjective factors, as a definite force, prepare for revolutionary situations under all circumstances? Of course we must. I repeat, it would be absurd to propose any other tactics. But, speaking generally, the degree of probability of revolution in either of these cases are not the same. I would formulate this in the following way: immediate revolutionary situations are possible, and perhaps even probable in Europe say, even without wars; but it is absolutely inevitable in the event of war. In the event of war revolution is historically inevitable; wars will be inevitably accompanied by revolutions. Thus, it would be radically wrong to deny the possibility of an immediate revolutionary situation arising as a result of the development of internal contradictions alone.

Rejecting as I do the eclectic point of view of the comrades who isolate internal from external contradictions I must deal with the mutual relations of these contradictions.

What are the mutual relations between these two categories of facts, where is the function point, which is to serve as the starting point or the conclusions we must draw? In my opinion, world economic contradictions, the great world conflicts are of first class importance in this respect. Take England for example. Are the internal contradictions becoming more acute there? Of course they are. The growth of those contradictions in Great Britain are connected with the process of decline of the British Empire. But has not the process of decline of the British Empire its roots, in the majority of cases, in the international sitation? Is it not due to the competition of the United States, to the centrifugal tendencies of the British Dominions and partly also of the colonies, and a number of other international factors? Picture to yourself a different international milieu for British capitalism, and the results will be altogether different.

Now take another example, the internal contradictions in Germany. Who does not know that it was American capitalism that facilitated the stabilization of Germany. Can we in this case draw a sharp line of demarcation between internal and international factors? Just imagine for a moment America refusing to supply credits to Germany (a prospect that is held out by the Economist, Paish)—and internal collapse is inevitable.

Now take another category of factors. Why should we deal only with economics? I have in mind politics and, partly also economic policy. We talk about "industrial peace," "Mondism," about the treachery of social democracy and of how it is becoming merged with the state apparatus, etc. All this is 100 per cent true. But try and explain these processes merely from the point of view of the growth of internal contradictions. You will not be able to explain them. What is "peace in industry?" It is the most sharply expressed form of the class truce—the best form of war preparations. Those who fail to understand that, lose sight of the very essentials of the question. Why was the Trade Union Act passed in Great Britain? Is it possible for us to understand this "internal" act if we ignore external problems and completely lose sight of the preparations for war? If we ignore this point, in this way we shall be incapable of carrying on any agitation whatever against this act. Does not the new orientation of social democracy towards the internal question of class truce intensify the treacherous role of social democracy in foreign politics? Is this not clear to every infant? Is there anyone so foolish as to deny the connection that exists between Paul Boncour's military law with the internal situation in France as well as with its foreign relationships? I could quote numerous examples of a similar character. But the examples I have already quoted are sufficient to convince us that all other problems are subordinate to the central problem of the war danger, to the problem of war. This applies to the problems of internal politics and to internal contradictions. Any other approach to the question of internal politics and to the tactical problems connected with them are unsound and certainly not revolutionary.

The Fight Against the War Danger Must Permeate All Our Day to Day Work.

We all start out from the point that it is necessary to intensify our day to day mass struggle. Several Parties are limping along very badly in this respect. But everyone is agreed with the theory of it. What then is the difference between our day to day work and the day to day work of the social democrats? There surely must be a difference. What is this difference? The difference is that Communists must link up the day to day questions of so-called "high politics." Take a British Communist for example. What sort of agitation must he carry on among the masses when, for example, he has to lead, say, a small strike? The fight against restriction of trade union rights in any form must be linked up with the fight against the Trade Union Act. In its turn the fight against the Trade Union Act must be linked up with the fight against "Mondism" and with the fight against war. The fight against war must be linked up with the fight for the dictatorship of the proletariat. If he does not act in this way he is not a Communist. The broad masses of the proletariat who took part in the last world war know the "price" and know the incalculable suffering that the imperialist bourgeoisie inflicted upon humanity. In our day to day work we must point to the danger of war in connection with every day to day question of any importance. We could quite easily give up this trump card, but it would be a very silly thing to do from the political point of view. I want to put this question very clearly before the comrades and ask them to ponder over it. In my opinion we may make two estimations of the situation, and from each of these, different tactical orientations will follow. One orientation is that which does not co-ordinate general problems with everyday problems, and the other orientation which certainly does link up every day to day demand with the problem of war—the problem which in our day is the central problem. In their tactics Communists must unfailingly link up every minor, everyday problem with the big general problems. It goes without saying that this calls for considerable ability. High-sounding phrases are not enough. We must employ astute methods of propaganda and agitation; not isolate but co-ordinate them and subordinate all problems to the problem of war. In criticizing the social democrats (rights as well as "lefts," who are the most subtle and most pernicious deceivers of the working class) we must emphasize that "industrial democracy" and arbitration are not only of economic significance, but that they are also means for the preparation for war. We must open the eyes of the proletariat and the poor peasants to this fact. This is how we must carry on our propaganda, this is the direction towards which we must orientate the whole of our tactical line. We do not want a jumble of numerous facts; but from all the facts, from all the developing tendencies we must bring out the central point, the central problem of the war danger. In co-ordinating our partial demands with the problem of war, with the struggle against war, we must also link them up with the propaganda for the dictatorship of the proletariat. It may so happen, of course, that the immediate struggle for the dictatorship of the proletariat will come to the forefront even if there is no war. But we must note the fact that the coming war is already casting its evil shadow before.

Thus, I have analysed the mutual relations between internal and external problems. I have emphasized that an eclectic approach to this question is impermissible. This analysis has brought out the necessity for a firm and determined line and the necessity for concentrating attention on the problem of war; the need for linking up this problem with all other problems, the need for special propaganda and agitation in order to prepare the proletariat for the struggle against the bourgeoisie and against social democracy. Such is our fundamental tactical line. It is the only possible line for the Communist International.

a break in their ranks are the cause for frenzied attempts to marshall scabs, strengthen the police terror and call in federal "conciliators" of the strikebreaking Wood type.

In spite of the rumors of rallying scabs, two of the most important mills here, the Potomska and the Kilburn, were compelled to announce to their office force, minor superintendents and other petty foremen, that the mills are compelled to dismiss them until further notice.

Charles Wood, federal labor commissioner, announced that he is intensifying his efforts for a settlement. Surprisingly little attention is being paid to his efforts by the workers, who are determined not to permit their inspiring struggle to be betrayed by a fake settlement Wood and the Textile Council officialdom may reach without taking into consideration the Textile Workers Union of the Textile Mill Committees, who are the real representatives of the strikers. Wood said he had applied to Secretary of Labor Davis for two more members of the commission to be sent here.

The removal of the governor-appointed judges who have sent hundreds of strikers to jail, donation to strikers' relief of the sums returned by the authorities to the mill owners as tax rebates on their property and the immediate termination of the police terror against mass picketing, are three of the outstanding demands to be made of Governor Fuller when the committee of 40 strikers go to Boston to keep their appointment with him.

Although by no means Utopian enough to believe that Fuller will concede these justifiable demands, the leaders of the textile strikers take this step in order to further expose the governental machine and show that even the higher officialdom are directly responsible for the oppression of strikers in Fall River.

effort to break up the mass picketing. Many of the workers have been arrested numerous times and their sentences total, in some cases, as high as two years. Their fines run into thousands of dollars. The bail that is now posted with the courts amounts to more than $250,000, involving security running up to $500,000.

"In Fall River 82 workers have been arrested for their strike activities. Their sentences amount to many months in jail and heavy fines. The judge has just handed down a ruling that is practically without precedent, deciding that the bail posted for an arrested striker is to be forfeited if the striker is again arrested! The bail put up for the Fall River strikers amounts to $35,000.

"The International Labor Defense, a national, non-partisan, working-class organization, whose aim is to defend all workers, irrespective of their opinions or affiliations, from attacks, arrests and imprisonment, or deportation at the hands of the capitalists and their institutions, has been busily engaged in the strike of New Bedford and Fall River, just as it is engaged in every similar struggle. It has furnished lawyers and legal defense to all the arrested workers, seen to it that bail was obtained, and helped to rally workers in other parts of the country to the aid of the strikers.

"The main defense work for the New Bedford and Fall River strikers has been conducted by the New England District Office of the I. L. D., at enormous expense. All the strike cases have been appealed and will come up for trial by jury at the next session of the Superior Court, while additional new cases come up almost daily. All available financial and moral support must be mobilized for the defense of the textile strikers.

"For this reason it has been decided to call a special conference of the International Labor Defense of New England District.

"All sections of the militant and conscious labor movement, regardless of differences between them, must be mobilized for this fight.

"The representation at the Special District Conference will be as follows:

"1. Each branch of the I. L. D. is entitled to send two delegates.

"2. Each local organization of the I. L. D. (in cities having more than one branch) is entitled to send two delegates, one of whom is to be the local secretary.

"3. All trade unions, co-operatives, workers fraternal societies, clubs and other organizations sympathetic to the aims of International Labor Defense, are entitled to two delegates each.

"4. Former class-war prisoners, influential individuals interested in labor defense, and members of the District Committee of the I. L. D., are invited to attend the conference as fraternal delegates.

"5. The expenses of all delegates attending the conference are to be paid by the delegates themselves or by the organizations they represent.

"It is the aim of the International Labor Defense to make this conference of New England an imposing demonstration of the unity of all progressive elements in the labor movement for the defense of New Bedford and Fall River strikers and for support of all persecuted workers and their families and for organized resistance to capitalist persecution in America and throughout the world.

"All organizations which favor this idea are urgently requested to send delegates to the conference. Credential form enclosed herewith. Please notify the District Office as soon as your delegates are elected.

ECTRICAL WORKER, DAILY WORKER READER, SAYS MEN ITCHING TO FIGHT BROACH

a Worker Correspondent)

Daily Worker of Aug. 7, deal[illegible] the electrical industry and [illegible] with H. H. Broach and [illegible]ainly was an eye-opener to thousands of electricians of New York and vicinity.

The members of local 3, as well as the unorganized electricians, are finding out who their friends and who their enemies are. Mr. Broach, who tried to railroad a $24 increase in dues was miserably defeated, although he succeeded in railroading an increase of $21.

Right was Mr. Solomon when he got up at that meeting, red and full of perspiration, and stated that the members have voted down the increase of $24 because of the "Red Page" in the Daily Worker.

Yes, Mr. Solomon, we have realized that it is the Daily Worker with its "Red Pages" that is fighting for the interests of the workers and not you who are getting $115 a week of the workers' sweat and blood.

In a recent copy of the Daily Worker appeared a letter signed by a brother, K. V. W., stating that "Little Caesar" did not answer the questions put to him by the Daily Worker. Of course not. Don't you know that he has nothing to say on the accusations. He knows that the membership is discovering his betrayals and that he can't bluff them any more.

The members of local 3 will have to put up a bigger fight than they have done until now, for Broach will not give up without a battle. Many of us are now determined to fight to a finish.

I, too, am a reader of the Daily Worker. I hope that all members of the local will get wise to themselves and begin to read the Daily.

More power to the Daily Worker.

CANTON WORKERS MASS PICKETING DESPITE POLICE

Mill Bosses Import Gamblers, Spies

(By a Worker Correspondent)

CANTON, O. (By Mail).—The strike of 500 chippers and grinders of the Central Alloy Steel Corporation, now in its fourth week, is still gaining strength. The strikers are more enthusiastic and hopeful of gaining their demands than at any time since the strike. News has reached the strikers that of the 600 scabs imported into the mill, from Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Youngstown, etc., only 150 remain in the mill. The scabs are being sheltered and fed inside the mill. The company has put into use the barracks which were used in 1925 to break the strike.

Spy-Ridden.

Production is at its lowest, despite the growing number of scabs taken in. Where prior to the strike men turned out one ton of steel every four hours, as an average, the scabs' average is 26 hours. Importation of scabs has been a total failure from the point of view of production. The mill is ridden with spies, men are not allowed to talk to one another. Gambling and booze are encouraged by the company. Two professional gamblers were brought in the mill last week, and after skinning all the scabs of their earnings they quit.

There is growing hostility of the men in other departments towards the scabs, and the company. Possibilities of spreading the strike are better today than ever before. The mill committee has formulated a systematic plan of reaching all the workers in the mill. Speakers are being sent to all fraternal organizations to explain to the men that this fight is their fight. If the chippers and grinders lose, they will next be the target for wage cutting and speed-up by the company. The workers are predominantly of foreign birth: Greeks, Spaniards, Italians Portuguese. It is hoped that the response from the organizations for relief of the strikers will be liberal, insofar as they are closely related and all are concentrated in the same mill, same neighborhood, and same fraternal and benefit organizations. The mill committee will in the next week or ten days exert all efforts to reach the other workers and if successful in signing up a substantial number of the men into the mill committee will issue a call for a general strike of all departments and formulate demands for the entire shop.

Strikers Parade.

As a result of speeches made by Joe Judson, a mill worker from Lorain, O., who together with many others came into town in search of a job and subsequently joined the strikers, the spirit of solidarity and enthusiasm of the strikers is greater than at any time since the strike. Banners appeared for the first time on the picket line Friday, stating the demands of the strikers and asking support of the men on strike by those inside and the workers outside.

The strikers, numbering 200, in military formation paraded the neighborhood and passed the workhouse where three of our brothers are serving a sentence of ten days on trumped up charges. The strikers received a favorable response from hundreds of workers gathered on the sidewalks. The line was greeted by cheers and applause by the workers in the shop.

Judson denounced the city authorities and police force who were getting their instructions from E. C. Smith, assistant superintendent of the Central Alloy Corporation. On numerous occasions the police were seen in conference with Smith.

Friday, at 5 p. m. when the parade appeared the police and Assistant Superintendent Smith were astounded at the growing picket line and the discipline of the strikers. Smith was running wild back and forth, urging the police to tear down the banners, but not knowing the law, they abstained from molesting the parade, which after covering a couple of miles of the mill district peacefully disbanded. The strikers promise a greater picket line on Saturday with many more banners.

KANSAS COMMUNISTS FIGHT BOSSES DRIVE

(By a Worker Correspondent)

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (By Mail).—Tuesday morning, at half past eight, comes up the trial of Hugo Oehler, Ed. Eastwood, Nelson, Stocum, Sam Kassis, Matthew Cushing and others on their second set of charges which are vagrancy. To be sure Hugo Oehler and M. Cushing have been arrested twice and both times were charged with vagrancy in addition to Hugo Oehler's indictment for alleged violation of the criminal syndicalist law. It is expected that more charges against Cushing will be brought up in court and also against other packing house workers. Cushing was arrested at first together with Oehler when they were addressing a meeting of the Armour workers at the gates of the plant at noon. After the meeting was broken up by the police and both of them arrested Hugo Oehler was beaten up and when brought to jail hypocritically charged with vagrancy.

Captain Beatty admitted to the local newspaper reporter that the arrests were made following complaints of the Armour Company, that two "Reds" were agitating the workers frequently appearing at the gates. A policeman who arrested Hugo Oehler said that he did so because Hugo Oehler wanted to organize the workers against the bosses.

Many spies in the past months have been trying to enter the Party. Even now spies are all over spying on Party members and workers in general. The company officials of Armour are anxious to find names and information. When the arrested were brought to the police station they were thoroughly searched and while this was done a company official stood by greedily looking for "names." Almost the entire capitalist machine the courts, police, detective agencies, stool pigeons, spies, including the word-heelers of both parties, have been mobilized to stave off the Communists. All these visit neighborhoods and homes of workers suspected of radical or Communist leanings and these are being threatened in an underhand way. One politician approached one worker whom he suspected of sympathizing with the Communists and said, "Did you hear of what the government is doing to them Reds, the troublemakers? Kansas is a tough state and we will clean out all the Reds."

Negro communities are also visited and are told for the sake of the preservation of the Negro race to stay away from the Communists and remain good American citizens and support the "Dems. and Reps." In other words, the Negro workers should not fight for their emancipation but should be thankful and kiss the hands of their exploiters and lynchers like willing slaves.

It is clear that the attack against the Party was undertaken because the Communist Party has come out openly in this election campaign and challenged the rule of the imperialists, Wall Street bankers and their tools, the republican and democratic parties. Every state in the southwest has been invaded and workers in important industries approached. The Communist Party was not only satisfied with appealing for votes but also called upon the workers to organize and fight for the economic improvement of their conditions, to fight against the evil of unemployment, danger of war, etc. Everywhere Communist organization was set up and the Party begins to grow by leaps and bounds.

In the west particularly, is the growth noticeable and it is keenly felt by the American ruling class. It constitutes the reserve force of imperialists. From this section of the country will be mainly recruited the cannon fodder for the next imperialist war and therefore to imbue the youth with the spirit of class struggle and to organize the workers industrially is to give a serious blow to the imperialists.

This is the reason for the attack upon the Party and it must also be the reason why the workers must support the Party and beat back the attacks of the bosses.

'Eva the Fifth' at the Little Provides Fair Entertainment

THE trials and tribulations of a road company playing a version of Uncle Tom's Cabin suited to the standards of the state of Kansas, said trials consisting of the badgering of a harassed manager who finally leaves his troupe stranded on a siding, the effort of a go-getting hick undertaker to take unto himself in marriage the leading lady and the emotional disturbance brought to her thespian lover by the ambition of the solvent mortician, bring laugh from a perspiring audience in the Little Theatre where "Eva the Fifth" is on the boards.

The story begins in Little Eva's dressing room at a one night stop in Kansas. The box office contains everything but money and the troupe has not enough of the coin that cheers between them to buy castor oil for Little Eva's lesser sister, whose fondness for candy is her chief business in the show. The manager at his wit's end to make things go, dug up a wealthy business man, and immediately saw wings sprouting from the yokel's shoulders. Badly in need of an angel he broadly hinted that Little Eva, (Claiborne Foster) should treat the hick with tact and courtesy, in other words, string him along for the sake of the business.

Tho embarassed by a jealous lover, Little Eva did the best she could, but being obviously virtuous, as is the rule in plays produced by Mr. John Golden, it is reported, Eva frightened the wary gold finch away with her realistic description of the show's financial condition. This lack of business acumen angered the show manager so he left the troupe to its fate on a siding.

It was then that the entire troupe with but a single thot for food and transportation urged Little Eva to accept the attentions of the kiking hick who followed her from town to town. Finally she offered herself up on the matrimonial altar for the sake of her comrades. But two things happened that saved her from a fate worse than death. Her thespian lover—a squint-eyed critic could see from the start that he was first in her affections—established his leadership over the troupe by staging a show in the little town that brought in coffee and doughnuts for the troupe and the lesser Eva learned that the wealthy hick was an undertaker and not a furniture dealer as he led her big sister to believe.

IN "SKIDDING."

Everything ended happily, without bloodshed or much hard language. In fact the only violence in the play was when the bloodhound, or what looked like one, put in a busy ten minutes scratching the best organized collection of fleas that ever appeared before an audience.

The gags in the show are as mossy as a speech by Charlie Curtis, but they are the kind that could be printed in the late Warren Gamaliel Harding's "Marion Star." Why one laughs at them is hard to explain, but human nature is sometimes inexplicable.

Claiborne Foster, Buford Armitage, Lois Shore and Philip Barrison get away with the lion's share of the applause. In fact all the roles are played as competently as the author could expect.

Sixty-five per cent interesting.

IMPERIALISTS BUILD AIRPORTS FOR FUTURE WAR

U. S. Will Have 2,000 by Next Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (UP).—Airports are being established by municipalities at a rate that will give the United States about 2,000 well-equipped fields next year, reports to the aeronautics branch of the commerce department showed today. Henry Ford is reported cooperating heavily in a movement to increase the port.

The aggregate present investment by cities in airports is estimated by the department at between fifty and sixty millions, which includes value of grounds, buildings and equipment. A score of airports now existing cost more than $1,000,000 each to construct and plans are proposed for many more of this type.

Virtually every large city has an airport, either built or proposed, and an average of 1.10 cities a month are notifying the department of intention to build airports. Cost of these airports averages $100,000, but the total runs to $3,000,000 and more for some of the largest. Chicago expects to spend about $4,000,000 on its municipal airport, according to the department's information.

Ralph Easley, Labor-Baiter, Calls for New Series of Raids Against the Militants

ALLY OF WOLL URGES FEDERAL SYNDICALIST LAW

Wants 'Stronger' D. of J. Action

By LAURENCE TODD,
Federated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Ralph M. Easley, formerly secretary and now chairman of the executive council of what remains of the National Civic Federation, has circulated in the capital, for Labor Day reading, a suggestion that congress begin a new persecution of labor radicals. He advances this Bismarckian scheme as a prelude to one of his appeals for harmony between anti-union employers and the conservative element in the American Federation of Labor. The American labor movement, he says, "is not only the one labor movement in the world which is not Red but that is militantly anti-Red."

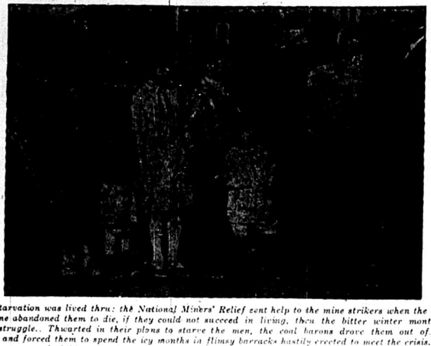
Urges New Drive.

"Strange as it may seem," he says, "one of the reasons why the A. F. of L. has so much trouble with the Communists in this country today is that, under our federal laws, the U. S. government at Washington is without power either to investigate or check the venomous propaganda of the Communists and other subversive forces which are striking viciously at the vitals of our national life and attempting to undermine the American labor movement. Therefore the Communists say openly to their members: 'Go the limit! The federal government can't do anything and the state governments don't know anything.' And unfortunately they are right in both instances.

"When, in his splendid challenge of Aug. 20 to the Communists, Mr. Matthew Woll pointed out that the Soviet government of Russia is sending its money in here to finance Communist activities, he is describing a condition of affairs which every other civilized government in the world would deal with most summarily. . . . The anti-syndicalist laws are state laws, and the Department of Justice cannot use funds as now appropriated to aid in the enforcement of state laws. The only way to remedy this disturbing situation is for congress to make a specific appropriation which will enable the Department of Justice to keep itself informed with respect to the activities of these destructive elements. This will call for much educational work since, naturally, all the radical forces will oppose the granting of such power. Until this is accomplished, the Bureau of Investigations of the Department of Justice will remain padlocked as it has been for over two years."

The final two sentences seem to point to a need for funds in the office of the National Civic Federation, which would, of course, conduct the elaborate—and expensive—"educational work" to secure from congress an appropriation for terrorization of radicals. They seem also to indicate that Easley has had a quiet talk with Chief Hoover of the Bureau of Investigations, who inspired the Red raids of 1919-1920. They are not satisfied with the deaths of Sacco and Vanzetti.

For a New Miners' Union—Remember Evictions!



Starvation was lived thru: the National Miners' Relief sent help to the mine strikers when the Lewis machine abandoned them to die, if they could not succeed in living, thru the bitter winter months of their struggle.. Thwarted in their plans to starve the men, the coal barons drove them out of their homes and forced them to spend the icy months in flimsy barracks hastily erected to meet the crisis. Here men, women and children lived, more children were born in this suffering and the weakest and oldest died, but the miners persisted unflinchingly in their grim struggle for the right to have a union and to live. John L. Lewis wrecked that union and the rank and file is determined now to build a New Union. They meet for this purpose in Pittsburgh, Sept. 9-16.

imposter who claims to speak for American labor then begged the rulers of this country not to "abuse" the anti-strike injunction weapon. He, as well as Frank Morrison, Federation secretary, hastened to assure the employers that they "by no means" advocate the abolition of this vicious weapon. As Morrison said, "The injunction process is necessary. Labor does not ask its abolition."

"We will continue to agitate," said Green in advocating the policy workers should pursue in destroying this strike-breaking power of the bosses' courts.

Leading up to the main point in his speech, Green spoke about the growing masses of workers who are permanently displaced from industry by the increasing installation of new machinery. Both Green and Morrison admitted the misery of the unemployed and then as a climax offered as a remedy, not a general struggle for the forty-hour week, but the necessity of careful examination of this "phenomenon" by the efficiency engineers. After citing figures showing that over 3,000,000 wage earners, the support of 15,000,000 persons are at present unemployed, Morrison declares, "The unemployment situation, intensified by the increased use of machinery, challenges the attention of efficiency experts."

Not that the forty-hour five-day week was not mentioned. It did receive the usual lip service. Green pointed out eloquently—that the employers ought to hand this tremendous concession to the workers, completely disregarding that the only real forty-hour concessions made in an industry were made only after general strikes led by the left wing had compelled capitulation by the employers. Shorter work weeks voluntarily conceded in other industries are nothing more than part-time production standards for the workers.

The A. F. of L. will also enter the political field in the fall, Green declared, explaining that they will advocate the usual policy of supporting either of the boss parties.

WORKERS PARTY GOES ON BALLOT IN OHIO

secretary of the Communist Party of America, which was organized in Chicago that year.

Ohio State Ticket.

In addition to getting the national Communist standard bearers, Foster and Gitlow, on the ballot, the Ohio Communists have nominated a complete state ticket, headed by William Patterson of Toledo, 60 years old, a member of the Knights of Labor until that organization petered out and now a charter member of the Longshoremen's Union.

Patterson joined the Knights of Labor when he was 16 years old. In 1920 he joined the Longshoremen's Union as a charter member and has worked in that industry and been a member of that union ever since. He joined the socialist party in 1900 and was always with the left wing and opposed to the reformists. He has helped the workers in every struggle from the days of the Knights of Labor until today.

Patterson joined the Communist Party when the split came in the socialist party in 1919 and has been an active member ever since.

Call Volunteers to Work.

The District 6 Campaign Committee has called for volunteers to go out into the industrial sections of the state on agitational tours, making new contacts for the Party and selling Communist literature.

The Central Executive Committee of the Party is calling for 1,000 members for this work. Ohio has already started by sending out members who are hitch-hiking from town to town, speaking and selling literature.

Not only has District 6 performed the task of collecting 20,000 signatures to put the Party ticket on the ballot in Ohio, but Party members were released for work in Tennessee and Kentucky, where the job of getting the Party ticket on the ballot is nearing completion.

Membership Participates.

N. Schaffer, in a letter to the National Election Campaign Committee, 43 E. 125th St., reports that:

"On the whole the Party membership with very few exceptions participated in this important work, as a result of which the Party made valuable contacts and promises to make a substantial gain organizationally.

"We are now touring in the district Sadie Van Veen, a prominent Party member and Lil Borer, of the Young Workers (Communist) League, also a member of the District Bureau, to capitalize the growing sentiment for the Workers (Communist) Party.

"We are opening our campaign in Cleveland with a mass meeting on Sept. 9, at 2 p.m., at the Bricklayer's Hall, 2105 E. 21st St., at which Benjamin Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate, will speak.

"A record-breaking attendance is expected."

Commenting on the success of the members in placing the Party ticket on the ballot in Ohio, Alexander Trachtenberg, chairman of the National Election Campaign ommittee of the Workers (Communist) Party, declared that "the proletarian protest vote in Ohio this year will go to the Communist candidates on the ticket of the Workers (Communist) Party, which is the inheritor of the revolutionary traditions of the American labor moveemnt, the only party pledged to fight for everyday demands of the workers and for the final emancipation of labor from the slavery of capitalism and the establishment of a workers and farmers government."

Communist Candidates.

Here is the roster of the Communist state ticket in Ohio:

William Patterson, governor; Carl Hacker, lieutenant governor; Bruce Smith, secretary of state; Sarah Vervin, treasurer of state; Edwin Blank, attorney general; Joseph Coope, state auditor; Israel Amter, United States senator; Joseph Willnecker, United States senator; John Foley, congress, Cleveland; Frank Sepich, congress, mining section; Carl Guillod, congress, Canton; Sadie Van Veen, state senator; N. Schaffer, state senator; Milosh Boich, state senator; Christopher Kraven, state senator; John Fromholz, state senator; A. Bonati, state assembly; Gustave Ecke, state assembly; Abraham Eleff, state assembly; G. Theodore, state assembly; S. Czolgosz, sheriff; Thomas Bradley, commissioner.

TWO LOST ARCTIC FLYERS RESCUED

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 3 (UP).—Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, who disappeared two weeks ago while attempting to blaze a new air trail from here to Stockholm, have been found safe and well.

Advices received by the Rockford Chamber of Commerce from Mount Evans, Greenland, said that the fliers have been picked up by members of the University of Michigan-Greenland expedition after they had landed on the Sukkertoppen ice arm.

SEEK TO FORCE OUT TAXI MEN IN NEW YORK

Police in New Move to Aid Corporations

asked to explain th action, they declared that modern hotels and apartment buildings were no longer permitting hack stands outside their buildings and they had decided to keep up with the fashion. The fact, however, that directly across from the Pennsylvania Hotel, at the entrance to the Pennsylvania Station, the Yellow Taxi Corporation has its cabs is considered to have had more to do with the abolishing of the public hack stand than changing fashions in hotel exteriors.

On the south side of the hotel a Fifth Ave. bus stand is also located—further reason for abolishing the hack stand. At least 500 taxi calls leave the hotel daily and these are now being gathered in by the Yellow Company.

Close Down Other Stands.

Stands in Harlem and the Bronx are also being closed down to make room for busses of the Surface Transportation Corporation, a subsidiary of the Third Ave. Railway. The latest to go has been the West Farms stand, at 177th St. and Boston Rd.

The police are also actively aiding the big corporations in Coney Island. Since the opening of the summer season taxi drivers have been forbidden to cruise for fares on the main streets, including Surf Ave., by order of Traffic Inspector Kuhne. Cab drivers caught cruising on the main streets are haled into court for "obstructing traffic" or for "hacking other than from a public hack stand."

The large bus corporations, such as the Greeley, Luna, Knickerbocker and the Rialto are cleaning up fortunes as a result of the no cruising order, hackmen declare.

Ferry Traffic.

The Yellow Taxi Corporation is also reaping the harvest of the ferry traffic which is unusually heavy at this time of the year. On the waterfront, at the West 23rd St. and West 42nd St. ferries, police, with the aid of officials of the company, are on the watch for independent drivers.

The open favoritism shown to the big taxi corporations serves another purpose in helping to divide the ranks of the exploited taxi drivers, setting up the corporation wage-slaves against the independent hackmen, it is pointed out. Despite this and the constant browbeating and persecution of taxi men by police and fleet owners, the organization drive of the newly formed Taxi Chauffeurs Union is growing in dimensions and hundreds of cab drivers are being enrolled daily.

A taxi driver would appreciate this copy of The DAILY WORKER.

YANKS BREAK EVEN; GIANTS WIN TWO

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (UP).—The upward rush of the Philadelphia Athletics came to an abrupt halt today when the Philadelphia club dropped both games of a double-header to the Washington Senators and lost a full game in their pursuit of the league-leading New York Yankees.

As for the world's champions, themselves, they are not particularly happy over the outcome of the Labor Day ball games, for the best they could get was an even break with the Boston Red Sox, and it took four pitchers and a lot of luck to bring about the single Yankee victory.

The Senators won two games, 6 to 1 and 5 to 4, and dragged the Athletics back to a place two and one-half games behind the league-leaders.

The Yankees gained a full game by their even break with the Red Sox, and needed it. Bill Carrigan's crew battered four New York pitchers for fifteen hits in the opener, yet were beaten, 8 to 7. In the second game, Ken Williams' homer in the ninth and the relief pitching of Morris, who was rushed in to stem a belated Yankee rally, gave the Sox a 4 to 3 victory.

The St. Louis Cardinals were given a setback in the National League race Monday when the Cincinnati Reds rallied behind Eppa Rixey and Adolph Luque to win a double-header, 6 to 5 and 8 to 2.

By winning a double-header from the Philadelphia Phillies, 4 to 3 and 9 to 3, the New York Giants advanced to within four and one-half games of the Cardinals.

The Pittsburgh Pirates routed the Chicago Cubs in two games, winning 16 to 1 and 6 to 3, dropping the Cubs to four and one-half games behind St. Louis.

Cincinnati ended a five-game losing streak by winning from St. Louis, 6 to 5, in an extra-inning contest. A single by Critz and a double by Purdy produced the winning run with two out in the eleventh inning. In the second game the Reds scored six runs in the sixth inning after an early lead to cinch the game. Luque went the route, giving up 8 hits.

Four runs in the first inning accounted for the Giants' 4 to 3 victory over Philadelphia in their first game Terry hit a home run with two on bases and Lindstrom's single scored O'Doul. Joe Genewich pitched the Giants to a 9 to 3 win in the second. Terry added his second homer of the day and a double in this contest.

KOREA FLOODS KILL HUNDREDS

510 Known Dead; Many More Expected

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 3 (UP).—Five hundred and ten persons were known to have drowned in floods along the Yalu River Basin, the governor of Kankyonando province reported today.

Seven hundred houses were destroyed as the great torrent of water swept down through the valley.

It was feared there would be additional casualties.

The report added that bridges and roads were damaged as the flood waters, which came after heavy recent rains, washed over them.

Relief measures already have been started through the district, where the suffering is reported most serious. A government investigation also has started.

Counter-Revolution in Only 6 Mexican States, Calles Says

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 3 (UP).—Religious rebellions continue in only six states, President Calles announced today, and operations even in these districts, he said, were confined to smallest villages and to ranches.

"The executive is confident the rebellion is dying rapidly, and that the beginning of the new administration December 1 will find the country completely peaceful," the announcement added.

A White Worker Who Hates Negroes

To the Editor of the Daily Worker:

Your paper is wonderful always helping strikers and trying to get the workers together in one big body. I read your paper every evening I enjoy it very much. But one thing your paper gives me a pain. That is about the poor negroes. I wish you would ride on Lenox car line to 146 st. and Lenox ave and see for yourself how the blacks behave. They have never got the fare ready, always looking for trouble. The N. York railroad Co. hires hundreds of men all year and every one off them goes away with a different i-dear in regards to colored people. I have been through a few strikes and 4 free speech fights out in the western country In other words I have been through hell But still I say get the white people together The colored people will be the last in the world to wake up. The colored people think to much of there color. And they don't know what there rights are. I hope you rebels won't throw this letter in the waste basket, And here's hoping that some colored people read this letter in your paper, And act a little human.

Yours for big Change in america

J— K—

The writer of the above letter appears to be a member of one of the most exploited sections of the working class. Undoubtedly he thinks himself quite a radical person, perhaps a revolutionist, and certainly he considers himself a loyal fighter for the working class.

But we are of a different opinion. His letter convinces us that Mr. K— represents one of the most pitiful examples of that type in the working class that has been completely saturated with the views which his masters want him to hold in order to keep him and his kind in slavery and in condition to be used as a tool against his own and our class.

His experiences in strikes and free speech fights does not deter us from saying that if he continues to hold a contemptuous view of those members of our class whose skins are darker in color than his own, he will finish up as a strikebreaker and perhaps as a hired gunman against the working class when a decisive struggle is on. For Mr. K— is already a complete mental slave of his boss. For him it is enough to make him hate his brother worker of the Negro race when a Negro passenger on a streetcar is not quick enough in complying with the insolent demands of the big corporation that the passengers "step lively," "move up front, there!" and "have the fare ready," and generally act as well-trained human sardines in packing themselves together for the greater profit of the traction millionaires. It does not occur to him to insist that the wealthy labor-exploiting corporation should be made to supply better accommodations and hire bigger crews. If K— had any real rebel working-class spirit in him, he would rejoice when Negro workers show themselves self-respecting enough not to jump to the commands of the traction corporation. But he seems instead to be reacting automatically as a trained flunkey of his boss. And he tries to justify himself by hating a section of his brother-workers for being Negroes.

And in hatred toward those brother-workers who are Negroes, he again shows himself merely a petty intellectual slave of the ruling class. All talk about "helping strikers and trying to get the workers together in one big body" is nothing but a dirty and reactionary lie unless it includes an active struggle for the equal rights of the Negro workers with the white workers and to get all workers organized together absolutely regardless of race or color. The Daily Worker and the Workers (Communist) Party for which it speaks are fighting and will continue to fight without compromise for the full economic, political and social equality of the Negro workers with the white workers as an inseparable part of the struggle of the working class for freedom. When we fight for the dictatorship of the working class in the form of the Soviet Republic, we mean precisely what we say—that the working class, Negro and white workers alike and equally, must make themselves the ruling class for the suppression of the capitalist class and the capitalist system and for the socialization of industry and finally the establishment of the Communist society. This involves the complete and ruthless sweeping away of all privileged positions and class distinctions in the whole of society; and first of all it involves a merciless eradication of all racial and other division between sections of the working class. That is one thing that is meant by "trying to get the workers together."

Mr. K—'s idea is particularly dangerous because he wants to solve his problem by compelling the Negro masses to reform themselves to the twisted Jim Crow ideals which he seems to entertain in his own head. We say flatly that the trouble is not with the Negroes, but with the whites. About the Negro masses we say only that they give in too much to the Jim Crow treatment that a white capitalist system imposes upon them, often through such little tools as Mr. K—. What we should do is not to preach at the Negroes to "act a little human," but to conduct a crusade among the white workers to eradicate the race hatred that divides the working class and thus makes it weak before its real enemy, the capitalist class. Furthermore the Communist movement, the working class movement, is an international movement, and to think of it otherwise would be nothing but a farce. Mr. K—'s idea, carried out logically, would have to include hatred of the Chinese workers and peasants and consequently a treacherous, counter-revolutionary attitude toward the great Chinese revolution. It would have to include hatred on an international scale against the hundreds of millions of our oppressed brothers of dark skin in Africa, Indonesia, India, etc.—in fact the major portion of the human race which is of non-white color. In short, it is the ideology of imperialism, the ideology of reaction and capitalist domination.

The Communist Party always and everywhere takes sides first of all with the most exploited sections of the working class. In United States among other countries this means first of all the Negro workers, the most exploited of all. We want all of our class regardless of race to stand shoulder to shoulder for our common cause; but let us tell Mr. K— frankly that if it comes to a struggle between the Negro workers and white workers holding such views as Mr. K—, we shall fight to the last ditch for the Negroes.

And so, Mr. K—, we would like for you to change your ideas, but as long as you think as you do we are glad we "give you a pain."

The Night Camp Fire.

On Saturday nights camp fires are lighted, and programs arranged for the evening. Last Saturday night we had an opportunity to observe the children themselves at play. It was in the evening, after supper, after a day of sports activity, swimming, baseball, etc. The children were relaxing—and enjoying themselves. The fire was started, wood was added to the slow flame, and in a short time there was a large bright fire. The children were seated on benches. They opened the program by reciting the pledge and singing the International. Following that, an entirely impromptu program took place. Some children recited poems, others danced, there was mass singing. Comrade Erie Burroughs, a leader in the WIR Camp, then sang some songs and did some dancing.

Relations With Camp Unity.

The real life and punch of Camp Unity is the WIR Childrens Camp. They lead the singing, cheering, and everything else in camp. The activities of the children are all conducted in English. Certainly W. I. R. camp can teach many adults who claim to be experts in the childrens movement a thing or two about childrens work.

The children carry on their activity independently of the Unity Camp. There is no interference, no conflict at all—in fact there is co-operation between the two. For the adult workers it is a real education to watch the WIR Camp at work; and the fact that the children have their baseball games with the adults affords both a mutual interest and good relationship between the two.

The Disarmament Comedy in Brussels

By WALTER STOECKER (Berlin).

The disarmament comedy of the Geneva League of Nations has found a worthy continuation in Brussels The social-democratic press reports on the "unanimity" with which the disarmament resolution was passed in Brussels. In reality it was precisely in this question that the national antagonisms of the separate social-imperialistic parties collided most violently with one another. To speak of actual unity here is simply ridiculous. The sole "unity" observable among the delegations in Brussels consisted of a mutual willingness to come to a decision placing no obligations on anybody, and giving the separate socialist parties a free hand for the continuation of their imperialist policy.

Submit Resolution.

The Executive submitted to the Congress a resolution on the disarmament and military question in full accordance with this standpoint, a mere string of empty disarmament phrases, expressly demanding "equal freedom in the choice of their army system" for all nations, and containing nothing further than a few pacifist demands which do not bind the parties to anything. There was naturally no mention of any description of proletarian fighting action against the war danger. The Swiss social democrat, Reinhardt, observed very truly that the acceptance of the proposal for free choice of the army system could only mean that the labor parties of the conquered states should demand better and more effective armies, in other words, renewed armament.

The disarmament commission in Brussels, after a lengthy consultation, laid before the Congress a resolution practically identical with the draft already submitted. This is all that the public has learned up to now about the "unity" of the Congress.

Internal Fights.

How did this resolution come to be accepted? We hear from reliable sources that violent disagreements took place in the disarmament commission. The British Independent Labour Party opposed the Executive resolution by one of its own, beginning with an approval of the disarmament proposal of the Soviet government:

"The Labour and Socialist International declares that the experiences gained by the Disarmament Commission of the League of Nations, and the failure of the Anglo-Americano-Japanese naval disarmament conference, have clearly emphasized the impossibility of arriving at disarmament by means of partial measures which do not completely exclude war. It congratulates the Russian Soviet government on its proposal for complete disarmament. In its opinion partial disarmament can only be of slight value for removing the danger of war."

Pacifist Slogan.

A further paragraph of this resolution demands the closing down of the key industries, and adds to the pacifist slogan of refusal of war service the further refusal to manufacture munitions:

"The time has come for the International socialists to take up a relentless attitude against war, to join forces all over the world in the struggle for complete disarmament, and to organize the working class to resist every threatened war, even by means of resort to the closing down of the key industries and the refusal of war service and the manufacture of munitions."

A final paragraph demands increased pressure on the governments and the refusal of all military credits:

"Meanwhile the socialist parties should invariably vote against all credits for the army, navy, and air force."

The British Labour Party, of which the Independent Labour Party forms only a small part, found itself obliged, under the pressure exercized by the British working class, to bring forward demands falling but little short of those of the Independent Labour Party. It supported the motion for congratulating the Soviet government on Litvinov's disarmament proposal, and proposed the following supplementary motion to the resolution submitted:

"The Congress not only appeals for socialist peace policy, but calls upon the workers to make it clear to their governments that they will meet every danger of war, whether defensive or offensive in name, by the organization of a general resistance, including the refusal to bear arms, to manufacture means of warfare, or to lend any material aid whatever. It demands that steps be taken for organizing, with the utmost rapidity, a world conference of the socialist, trade unionist, and co-operative internationals, in order to prepare for unanimous action on this basis."

It is characteristic that the Labour Party did not support the motion for the refusal of all military credits.

More Alterations.

The Swiss Social Democratic Party moved numerous alterations intended to give the resolution of the Executive a somewhat more Marxist touch, but without actually changing anything essential. The sole step in this direction was the demand that the paragraph be struck out which provides for equal free choice of the army system for all countries. The following paragraph of the Swiss motion is of interest:

"The development of war technics involves the necessity of small barrack armies in place of the great unwieldy masses of a field army; mechanized war replaces the fighting mass army. These small professional armies are replaced by illegal army bodies and strictly organized masses of industrial workers in the countries themselves. The militarists are endeavoring to make us believe that this change in technics is disarmament, whilst in reality the disarmament conferences, in Washington and other places, have simply been veiled agreements for increased armament. The working class will not allow itself to be misled in this manner, but will take up the struggle against these new forms of armies with utmost energy."

European experts point to the British-French participation in the exercises for the world war dead who fought for imperialism in 1914-18 as an indication that the two countries are formal allies again by secret terms in the Anglo-French naval accord. The alliance not merely directed against the United States indicating the sharpening of the struggle between the imperialist powers, but is also directed against the Soviet Union. Above, the French Generals Petain, Gouraud, Waygand and the British general Hamilton, participating in the militarist rally.

Further motions from Julius Deutsch, and from the American and Dutch parties, were of little importance.

The Commission debate proved extremely interesting. The proposals of the I. L. P. were more than disagreeable to the assembled reformists and anti-Bolshevists. Renaudel Breitscheid, Julius Deutsch, and the representatives of Polish and Czech social democracy joined forces for a violent attack upon the British proposals, and in part upon the Swiss. To these gentlemen it appeared as something monstrous to be called upon to congratulate the Soviet government on its sincere and real peace policy. And they were even more indignant at the thought of paralyzing the key industries and the manufacture of munitions in the case of war. And on top of that the demand for the refusal of war credits! This proposal was almost unanimously condemned as "nonsensical" and "irresponsible," for a "State" cannot be refused the means for its "defense." A principle which formed a natural part of class war policy in the Socialist International before the war—the refusal of all military credits—is merely "irresponsible" in the eyes of the "statesmen" of the Brussels Congress.

Withdraws Motion.

After a few somewhat violent clashes the British Labour Party withdrew its motion, which it had not taken very seriously in any case, and the sub-commission then appointed incorporated a few of the radical phrases contained in the motions of the I. L. P. and the Swiss party, omitting, it need scarcely be said, any mention of concrete fighting measures.

The congratulation of the Soviet government on its disarmament proposal was rejected!

The demand for the organization of the resistance of the working class against war was rejected, as also the demand for closing down the key industries and the manufacture of munitions!

Back Down.

The demand for the refusal of all military credits for the army, navy, and air force was rejected!

The demand that the passage on the free choice of the army system for all nations should be struck out of the resolution was rejected!

The proposal that a world conference should be called of the socialist, trade unionist, and co-operative internationals against war danger, was rejected!

And then followed a tragi-comedy! The Left heroes of the I. L. P. and the Swiss party climbed down, and agreed to the resolution submitted, although all concrete demands had been abandoned!

These negotiations of the disarmament commission, as also the motions of the parties and the votes upon them, were secret, and intended to be kept secret. We have, however, every reason to bring them to the notice of all social democratic workers.

Social Imperialism.

The resolution, in this crippled form, was naturally passed without difficulty by the Congress. This disarmament resolution is a typical document of reformism and social imperialism. A series of pseudo-radical phrases conceal the fact that this resolution accords every single national labor party perfect freedom, and places it under no obligation whatever, either now or at the moment of war danger, to undertake any proletarian action again imperialism. The resolution reeks of League of Nations cretinism and sickening disarmament chatter.

The clouds of verbosity spread by the imperialist bandits in Geneva, for the purpose of concealing increased armaments behind the shield of disarmament, have been efficiently imitated by their assistants in Brussels. Even where they speak of political measures at all, not one of the parties dreams of executing them. One example suffices. The resolution demands:

"Restriction of financial expenditure for army and fleet" and states further:

"The Labour and Social International emphasizes the necessity of accelerating disarmament action. Apart from the struggle for the international disarmament agreement, the socialist labor parties will continue to fight in order that every State will previously, of its own will either cease or limit its armaments."

On the very same day upon which Breitscheid, Crispien, and Löbe were expressing their agreement to this principle in Brussels, Herman Muller and Hilferding were voting for the building of the new armored cruiser, Henderson and MacDonald, Renaudel and Boncour, Hilferding and Breitscheid, to say nothing of the Polish and Czech social democrats, who have hitherto granted practically all the means required for increased armaments, have not the slightest intention of adhering to this resolution. They know very well that paper is very patient. Boncour's military law, MacDonald's air fleet, and the German armored cruiser, are striking evidence of the revolting disarmament hypocrisy of the reformists assembled in Brussels. How little these gentlemen take their talk of disarmament seriously may be further seen from the fact that they rejected the British motion for the convocation of the disarmament conference before the end of this year, substituting the non-committal formula: "The disarmament conference is to be convened as soon as possible."

The "left" social democrats point out that the resolution really does demand revolutionary measures against warring governments. Is this really so? The passage in question reads:

"The Labor and Socialist International demands that all international conflicts be subject to the decision of obligatory arbitration or some other process of peaceful settlement. The strongest possible pressure of the masses, even in the most revolutionary form, is to be exercised against any government which, in the event of an international dispute, refuses to submit to arbitration award and proceeds to war."

Boncour's Militarism.

Quite apart from the fact that the national defenders assembled at Brussels will certainly side with their own fatherlands when the next war breaks out and have purposely invented a vague formulation for the passage on arbitration, this passage is further a deliberate support to anti-Bolshevist war agitation, for it may easily be interpreted to give opportunity to capitalist powers to pronounce an arbitration award against proletarian Soviet Russia.

The whole passage on the "democratization of the army," is on the one side a confirmation of Boncour's incredible military law, and on the other a formula that the other social imperialist parties will simply laugh at. The resolution demands the removal of all barriers dividing the army from the people, the securing of civil rights for the soldiers, etc. All these are demands which the German social democrats, for instance, have already trodden under foot dozens of times. With the aid of a formula stating that the army must not be politized, they have rejected every motion brought in by the Communists for the suffrage and coalition rights of the Reichswehr soldiers.

The Brussels resolution is an empty and non-committal social imperialist document, evidencing only too plainly the nationalist spirit of this II. International, a document taken seriously by nobody, and only fit to be stowed away in the League of Nations disarmament commission archives. It is characteristic that the resolution meets with the approval of the Austro-Marxists, as well as of the left phrasemongers of the I. L. P. and the Swiss Social Democratic Party.

The bourgeois press has readily recognized the real character of the Brussels disarmament resolution, and takes it no more seriously than it does the disarmament resolutions of the League of Nations. The actual effect of the Brussels resolution is therefore to favor and promote imperialist war danger, for it confirms the bourgeoisies in their faith that they may confidently rely on their social-imperialist accomplices. In spite of all phraseology, the Brussels Congress has therefore actually been a congress for the preparation of the next imperialist bloodbath.

For their own sake, for the sake of their struggle for emancipation and their international war against war, the class-conscious working class have every reason to defend themselves energetically against the Brussels disarmament comedy. At the same time they call to the social democratic workers and class comrades: "Give up all hope in this pseudo-international, and join the one and only proletarian international, the Communist International!"

Dutch Imperialism in Indonesia

The change of front of the governor-general has its consequences. His speech is indeed a bomb thrown into the midst of the moderate nationalist party, "Budi Utomo," which at this moment is in opposition to the non-co-operators, and attaches value to collaborating with the government for the attainment of Indonesian independence! Soon after De Graeff's speech, "Budi Utomo" publishes a manifesto, addressed to all nationalists, urging them to a "Union sacree" with national liberty as their goal and to make a strong stand against the attempt of the governor-general to divide the nationalists into two camps. This demarcation between the evolutionary and revolutionary nationalists is denounced as artificial and must be rejected by every nationalist whether he be for co-operation or non-co-operation. The manifesto reiterates that most of the Indonesian nationalist organizations have been united and consolidated in the P. P. P. K. I. (Concentration of Indonesian Nationalist Political Parties.) The rejection of Dutch leadership by "the Indonesian nationalists of all shades" is called natural. And the manifesto ends with the slogan: "By an indissoluble united front we march towards Indonesian Independence."

The remarkable thing about this manifesto is that it was issued by "Budi Utomo," the extreme right wing of the nationalist movement, whose members are mostly government officials. This seems to be a good sign for the Indonesian cause of Independence, for with that manifesto "Budi Utomo" enters the radical-nationalist movement. Mr. Singgih, a non-co-operator and now secretary of the "Budi Utomo," made the following statement in an interview with a correspondent of the newspaper "Mataram":

"The confidence in the capacity of the government to translate into action what the governor-general said he would do upon entry into office, has been changed into one of distrust. In these circumstances co-operation with the government is impossible."

Told You So

OFFICERS of British ships touching at Soviet ports are returning home those days with terrible tales of Communist attempts to extract whatever germs of imperialism remain in the systems of the British sailors. Apparently the Bolshevik propaganda is having some effect, as the officers complain that the sailors are not near as docile on their return trip as they were when outward bound.

IT appears that as soon as a British ship docks in a Soviet port, officials of the local seamens' club visit the rank and file of the vessel and offer them the freedom of the city. The sailors are treated with traditional proletarian hospitality and made to feel at home. And at home they surely are, for the Soviet Union is the Fatherland of all workers. British sailors as well as the sailors of all countries are treated with honor in Russia while in their home ports they are more used to the policeman's club than to an official welcome. And instead of the key to the city they usually hear the grating of jail keys turning in the locks from the outside.

It is not Al's friendliness for the foaming flagon that tempted Frank, but the good and welfare of the people. Frank has always been an altruistic cuss. He worked for the miners until he wrecked their organization with the aid of John L. Lewis. Then, in disgust he accepted a $25,000 a year job from the Peabody Coal Company. Should Frank give a year's pay to the Smith campaign fund he could prove Arthur Mushbrain's contention that there are no proletarians in this country—that they are all capitalists.

PHILADELPHIA bottleggers have set a good example in thrift to the rest of the country by parking $10,000,000 in the savings banks of the Quaker City last year. This is no reflection on the prohibition director of Philadelphia or on Wet Vare, the G. O. P. Republican boss, who supported the arid 'Oover at Kansas City. It merely goes to show that bootleggers like actors are not the reckless spenders they were believed to be. A political boss with a solvent rum ring is more to be envied than pitied those days. This is surely a spiritual nation.

AS a local capitalist sheet that is willing to do anything to increase its circulation observed, the I. R. T. wreck at Times Square last week has degenerated into a mystery. Mayor Walker, District Attorney Banton and half a dozen other celebrities started so many investigations that they succeeded in casting doubt on the authenticity of the wreck. "Who is who and what is what?" is the big question agitating the public mind today. In the meantime the dead have been buried and the wounded have not the wherewithall to pay their hospital bills. And Frank Hedley, president of the I. R. T. is playing golf and Mayor Walker is planning another vacation.

THIS is not a dirty slam at the ministerial profession, but it must be commented on as a part of a columnist's duty. Clinton S. For twelve years Mrs. Carnes kept the secret of her husband's shame from their two sons. While he was in Atlanta she assured them that he was serving his country. Whether he was or not, many of those who are "serving their country" in Washington ought to be serving time in Atlanta.

THE officials of the United Mine Workers of Illinois have agreed to accept a reduction in wages for the Illinois mine workers. But the officials will not accept a reduction in their own salaries. The wage slash has the sanction of John L. Lewis international president. At the 1924 convention of the international union in Indianapolis, Lewis boasted that he never accepted a wage cut and never would. And he was right. He had his salary raised from eight to twelve thousand dollars a year.

MINE LEADER MURDERED!

OFFICIALS MEET TO PLAN SELLOUT OF RAIL STRIKE

Aim to Ignore Vote of 70,000 Workers for Walk-out

Consider "Peace" Plan

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Committees of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors met today to consider a mediation proposal which may avert a strike among 70,000 employes of 55 Western railroads.

Although the majority of trainmen and conductors have voted to strike, the walkout will not be called if the peace plan drawn up in Washington last week by representatives of the railroads, brotherhoods and the federal board of mediation should prove satisfactory to the brotherhood committees now in session.

High officials of the two organizations said it might be two or three days before the committees could reach an agreement on the mediation proposal. Until then they are withholding the final result of the strike vote.

The strike vote resulted from failure of previous conferences which lasted over a period of several months. A 7½ per cent wage increase was asked by the trainmen. The railroads offered to meet the salary demand in part, but held out for working conditions which the unions were unwilling to grant.

DRESS WORKERS MEET IN PHILA.

Sigman Rushes There to Save Henchmen

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—Waist and dressmakers here will rally at a mass meeting to be held tonight in Garden Hall, Seventh and Morris Sts., for the purpose of establishing a local branch of the National Organization Committee of Cloak and Dressmakers. Louis Hyman, Joseph Borochovich, Rose Wortis and B. Kaplin, leaders of the National Organization Committee, will come here from New York to address the workers.

Careful preparations were made, the committee arranging the meeting declares, to assure the assembled workers that no organized squad of right wing hirelings can disturb the meeting. A similar mass meeting held last week was ordered to disperse by the police who were openly doing the bidding of right wing officials. The Sigmanites first began a disturbance in order to provide the police with an excuse for breaking up the meeting.

Sentiment among the workers runs so high since the interrupted meeting last week, that the right wing officials have sent a hurry call to New York for Sigman to come to Philadelphia.

Reliable information received states that Morris Sigman and Julius Hochman, the discredited heads of the defunct International left yesterday for Philadelphia, where the waist and dressmakers are to hold a mass meeting under the auspices of the National Organization Committee.

BRITISH MISLEADERS BLESS COLLABORATION

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Complete endorsement of the Lord Mond plan of class collaboration by the officialdom of the British Trade Union Congress characterized the sessions of that body which opened two days ago, a report from Swansea, Wales, states.

It is understood that a measure empowering the General Council to collaborate with employers' organizations in setting up a so-called National Industrial Council with authority to regulate industrial support is to be rammed through the congress.

The gesture of the congress officials in excluding the reactionary Seamen's Union whose officials, headed by Sir Havelock Wilson, have for years betrayed the men and gained especial notoriety by his strikebreaking actions during the British General Strike, has been more than compensated by the alarm with which the march of the Welsh miners to Swansea has affected the congress heads.

The officials appealed to the police for protection and the starving men were met by a phalanx of po-

TRAIN KILLS BRAKEMAN.

Hopping from a moving New York Central train yesterday morning at 125th St., Edwin Gingras, thirty-five, a brakeman for the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, fell under the wheels of a car. His legs were severed and he died almost instantly. He is survived by his wife, Mary, and a daughter, Kathleen, who dances in vaudeville as Hillie Kalua. He lived at No. 223 Alexander Ave., the Bronx.

First Reports About Injuries Meagre

BULLETIN

(By United Press)

A speeding passenger train entering New York City was derailed at 150th Street in the Bronx shortly after 11 p. m. last night and a hurry call was sent for all available ambulances in the district.

First reports indicated that two coaches, neither of which contained any passengers, had been turned on their sides. How the accident occurred was not at first established, but one report indicated the wrecked train collided with a freight train.

One report said one man had a leg amputated and was believed to be dying, but the report lacked confirmation.

The passenger train was understood to have been a "special" which was being brought into the Grand Central Station without passengers.

State Attorney General Ottinger, who as assistant in the Department of Justice to the notorious Harry Daugherty aided in the great oil looting during Harding's administration, has been chosen as the republican candidate for governor of New York, it was learned on reliable authority yesterday.

The selection of the oil-smeared Ottinger instead of some ostensibly "purer" candidate thus continues the link of the republican machine of the state with one of the most corrupt administrations in the history of the United States.

In addition to his Teapot Dome connections, Ottinger was also a member of the Water Power Commission which in 1926 succeeded in putting thru a bill which would have turned over all the water power in the state to the Pioneer Power

WORLD CONGRESS ADOPTS PROGRAM IN FINAL SESSION

Seven New Parties are Admitted to the International

Elect New Executive

MOSCOW, Sept. 4.—In a speech reporting the work of the Program Commission of the Communist InterNational Bukharin officially brought to a close the forty-sixth and last session of the World Congress of the Communist International, held here today under the chairmanship of Remelle. The program, in its final form, was unanimously adopted by the Congress.

"The Program Commission," Bukharin said, "has completed its very good work. The smaller program commission dealt with 600 proposals for amendment. The most important addition to the program was the chapter dealing with capitalist development and concerning the general family and social relations under capitalism. Another passage was adopted concerning the evolution of state power under monopolist capitalism and dealing with the general crisis in the capitalist system.

"Great improvements were made in the colonial question. Great alterations were made in the chapter dealing with the strategy and tactics of the Communist International.

30-DAY TERM FOR POOR MRS. KNAPP

But G. O. P. Embezzler May Not Even Serve

ALBANY, Sept. 4.—Convicted of grand larceny and embezzling funds in her administration of the state census of 1925, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former republican secretary of state, was today sentenced to serve 30 days in jail.

Mrs. Knapp, who was until quite recently dean of Home Economics at Syracuse University, had hoped to avoid even this light jail sentence by feigning illness. This she may yet accomplish, her lawyers feel confident, when they will attempt to obtain a certificate of reasonable doubt with bail pending appeal from Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley on Saturday.

Mrs. Knapp was convicted on a specific charge of embezzling $29,500, but testimony during her trial revealed the fact that huge sums, entirely unaccounted, were stolen under her administration as a result of padded payrolls and other methods of graft. Numerous of her relatives were on the state census payroll, the majority of them not even having been assigned to jobs. A step-daughter of Mrs. Knapp testified that a check for several thousand dollars made out in her name was not even known to her, Mrs. Knapp having endorsed it and pocketed the proceeds.

Mrs. Knapp was taken to the women's detention room in the Albany County jail, where she will remain today. She will be assigned to a regular cell in the women's section tomorrow, it is announced.

3 Ford Slave Ships Reach Brazil; Start Rubber Tract Work

PARA, Brazil, Sept. 4 (UP).—Three Ford ships arrived at the mouth of the Tapajoz River today with engineers, material, machinists and physicians to begin development of Henry Ford's vast rubber concession on the Amazon River.

Ford's concession for months has been subjected to a severe attack by newspapers throughout Brazil, many of them charging the governor of Peru with giving the automobile manufacturer privileges which were withheld from local industrialists.

CALL FURRIERS TO BLOCK MEET

Workers in All Shops Get Appeal

All furriers working on West 27th St. in the shops of the Associated Fur Manufacturers, as well as those in shops of the left wing New York Joint Board, are urged by the union to come to a block meeting in its headquarters, 77 E. 22nd St., Thursday evening immediately after work.

This is the second of a series of meetings called for those employed on individual blocks in the fur manufacturing district as part of the Joint Board's drive to unionize the trade and thereby give the final death-blow to the disintegrated right wing Joint Council of the A. F. of L.

The first of these meetings called, instead of being merely a meeting of workers in a particular industrial section, developed into a mighty demonstration in support to the left wing organization drive. Workers quit promptly at 5 o'clock and marched to the union building en masse.

The statement issued by the union calling the meeting pays particular attention to the workers employed in the Associated shops, the owners of which are particularly vicious in their sweat shop exploitation, because they are ostensibly controlled by the Joint Council.

These, as well as workers employed in the open shops (which have greatly increased since the A. F. of L. began their union destruction) are called upon to destroy their membership cards of the scab union and sign up with the Joint Board. Hundreds of workers at the last meeting demonstratively tore up their right wing cards as they stood before the windows signing up.

POLICE ATTACK MILL STRIKERS

Had Come to Boston to See Gov. Fuller

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 4.—The committee of forty textile strikers, on their way through the Boston Commons to the State House to keep their appointment with Governor Alvin T. Fuller, Sacco-Vanzetti murderer, were yesterday attacked by a squad of police who injured many by their onslaught. The strikers were singing strike songs and were displaying banners demanding an end to the New Bedford and Fall River police terror.

After the workers were slugged by the police, an announcement was made public that the committee "came too late to see the governor, but that he would be willing to hear them Wednesday morning.

Foster Leads Straw Vote at Harvester Co.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 4. — The workers of the International Harvester Co. have expressed themselves overwhelmingly in favor of William Z. Foster, Workers (Communist) Party candidate for President. In a straw vote taken at the plant on the question of which candidate the workers would prefer to address them Foster came out on top with close to 120 votes. Hoover, Smith and Thomas each received only about a dozen votes.

The Harvester company workers, as well as the workers of other trades in Milwaukee, will have an opportunity of hearing Foster next Monday night when he will speak at Bahn Frei Hall, 1120 North Ave. Hundreds of workers are expected to hear the militant message of the Communist presidential candidate.

The meeting at which Foster will speak will also inaugurate Red Week in this city. House to house collections for the election campaign fund will be made and the workers' press and literature will be brought to thousands of wage-slaves.

KENOSHA LABOR SPY EXPELLED

Warn Units Thruout U. S. to Shun Bugna

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept, 4.—John P. Bugna, former secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, local Kenosha, has been expelled from the Party, charged with being an industrial spy. It has been discovered that he was known as Q-170 in the employ of the Corporation Auxiliary Co., one of the largest industrial spy agencies in the country.

In a statement issued by Samuel A. Herman, field organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League in Kenosha, branches of the Party throughout the country were warned against Bugna.

ADMIT D'OLIER VITAL WITNESS

Commissioner Says "He Knew Much"

Police yesterday continued to shadow-box in the "investigation" of the mysterious death of William L. D'Olier, sewer engineer, whose body was found in a lonely spot in Queens Sunday morning.

First considered a suicide, it has now become increasingly clear that D'Olier was murdered. The specific reason was casually suggested yesterday by former Commissioner Shearn, who had charge of the second Queens sewer investigation. The connection between the Sanitation Company of which D'Olier was president and the $29,500,000 Queens graft situation was "very important and D'Olier knew all about it, admitted Shearn yesterday.

Connolly Speaks Up.

At the same time Maurice Connolly, deposed borough president of the Queens, who up till now has maintained an extremely discreet silence on the probable cause of D'Olier's death, volunteered the information that the dead sewer man had been "keenly disappointed by the failure of negotiations to close a $15,000,000 paving contract in Kentucky."

The "suicide" theory is being strongly advocated by the Queens graft ring, whose most conspicuous practitioner is Connolly, and all others who had business relations with Connolly during his efflorescent administration.

This group received a serious jolt when it was definitely established that D'Olier's brief case, which he carried when he left his home in Pelham, N. Y., Saturday afternoon, was not found with his body.

Refute Police.

A number of Queens residents who saw D'Olier's body when it was discovered insist that there was virtually no blood on the ground under the body, and disagree fundamentally with New York detectives who claim the contrary.

Yesterday the theory gained ground that D'Olier might have been shot in an automobile and his body then carried to the spot where it was found.

TO FLY TO SHANGHAI.

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 4 (UP).—Dr. Tien Lai-Huang, Chinese aviator, announced today he would take off from San Francisco, probably within two weeks, on an attempted two-stop flight across the Pacific Ocean to Shanghai.

PLAN BIG PRESS BAZAAR

Daily Worker Affair on Oct. 4, 5, 6, 7

Militant workers thruout the country are expected to make the Daily Worker and Freiheit Bazaar on October 4, 5, 6 and 7 one of the biggest affairs yet held in the militant working class movement. The bazaar will be held at Madison Square Garden. Labor and fraternal organizations and units of the Workers (Communist) Party are making preparations for the bazaar.

The committee in charge has requested that all material for the bazaar be sent to the Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee, 30 Union Square.

It is also urged that workers begin now to gather names for the Red Honor Roll and that labor organizations and Workers Party nuclei send ads for the souvenir program.

FIVE BULLETS TAKE LIFE OF FRANK BONITA

Lewis Machine Seen as Real Murderer of Progressive

Brother of Sam Bonita

Shooting on Eve of Big Mine Meet

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Sept. 4.—On the eve of the National Miners Convention to build a new union, the bloody corpse of Frank Bonita, brother of Sam Bonita, now in the penitentiary on framed charges, has been thrown down as a challenge to the coal miners of the country.

Five bullets from the revolver of a man alleged to have been an agent of the Lewis machine, now under arrest, struck down the progressive leader with a calculated ferocity reminiscent of the murders of Thomas Lillis, Pat Reilly and Alex Campbell; his fellow progressives.

Veil of Secrecy

Ross Nilo, alias Roasario Chiodo, Bonita's alleged murderer, and Joe Mogentale, a boarder in Bonita's home are in the Mid-Valley Hospital with wounds in the hands and thigh. Paul Schellegis, another man, also suspected with the killing is under arrest.

In spite of the curious veil of secrecy which invests the affair and which the authorities have so far done little to dispel, the bloody and devasted dining-room of the Bonita home is mute evidence of the terrific battle which the progressive leader made for his life as well as of the determination of his murderer to "get" him at any cost.

SIGMAN'S THUGS COLLECT "DUES"

Agents of Scab Union Forget Receipts

A squad of "dues collectors," made up of underworld thugs, sent to all the cloak and dressmakers' shops by the right wing Sigman company union, yesterday collected their real due from the workers in the dress-manufacturing shop of Bellard Cloak Co., 130 W. 25th St.

The workers in the shop were occupied at their various tasks when the door was suddenly pushed open and the squad of Sigman agents entered.

When one of the pressers answered the thugs' gruff demands for money with the statement that he did not intend to pay any more dues to the Sigman union, one of the strong-arm men suddenly pulled a knife. This was a signal for the immediate rising of the other workers from their machines to the defense of their fellow-worker. The arguments presented by the workers against dues payments did not subside until after police came and arrested four of the invaders.

'COLLABORATION' PLAN IN MINES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—A new plan to hog-tie the miners of Colorado by means of a class collaboration scheme was revealed today by the National Catholic Welfare Conference, which was instrumental in the scheme.

The collaboration scheme, whose object is to bind and deliver the miners to the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company, resembles in some respects the notorious Baltimore and Ohio plan. It is the outgrowth of the wrecking of last year's strike in the Colorado fields by the opportunist leadership of the I. W. W.

Hylan, Graft Expert, Says Police Department Is Linked With Phila. Graft Ring

$15,000,000 IN 'HUSH' MONEY A YEAR IN N. Y. C.

Higher-Ups Involved in Graft Ring

That the police force of New York is putrid with graft and corruption and definitely linked with the rum ring and graft-ridden police force of Philadelphia, whose $10,000,000 graft activities were exposed two days ago, was yesterday revealed in a statement issued by former Mayor Hylan of New York.

Hylan, whose own city administration was shown several times to be a hotbed of corruption, speaks authoritatively on the graft situation, admitting that he was himself offered a bribe to participate in the graft activities. This offer, the ex-mayor vows, he declined to accept.

Situation Bad.

"The situation in this city as regards official countenancing and aiding, directly or indirectly, all sorts of illegality, including bootlegging, gambling and other vice, is extremely bad," Hylan said. "And it is going from bad to worse, aided by the unwillingness or inability of the local authorities to check it."

Hylan's statement charged that the rum-ring of Philadelphia, which had been able in a single year to deposit graft profits to the extent of $10,000,000 in the banks, was definitely connected with the New York police force and city administration, reaching out to several high officials of New York City.

Protection graft given to the New York police force by speakensies and other illegal businesses in New York has reached a total of almost $15,000,000 annually, it is charged. In this matter, the entire force is implicated, led by the highest police officials, who lead the entire force in corruption and graft.

Recent disclosures of graft among the members of the narcotic squad of the New York police department, the ex-mayor interpreted as a sure indication of graft higher-up and an attempt to cover up existing rottenness among the higher officials of the department.

Speaks From Experience.

"You can make up your mind pretty quickly," said the former mayor, under whose administration the graft and corruption at the hack licence bureau on West 57th St. under Commissioner Drennan was shown up in the winter of 1924-25, "that when cops are getting razzed, there's something to be hidden among the higher-ups. When a little man is 'broken,' particularly when there's a lot of public ceremony about the process, you can be sure that a neck a whole lot more important than his is being saved."

TO PICK CALLES SUCCESSOR SOON

Provisional President to Serve One Year

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4 (UP).—Congress is expected to select a provisional president to succeed President Calles in two or three weeks, instead of waiting until November, as originally planned.

It was indicated today that the provisional president would serve for one year, when an election would be held.

Among those prominently mentioned as possibilities for the office are War Minister Joaquin Amro, General Jose Gonzaler Escobar, Governor Manuel Peres Trevino and Minister of the Interior Emilio Portes Gil.

French Flyers Forced Down in Morocco Town

LE BOURGET FIELD, France, Sept. 4 (UP).—The Yellow Bird landed at Casa Blanca, Morocco, at 4.40 p. m. today, it was announced here this evening.

The plane, in which Sergeants Jean Assolant and Rene LeFevre started a long distance flight at 7.05 o'clock this morning, was forced down by a leaky oil pipe, a message said.

Cal to Return to "Labors" Next Week

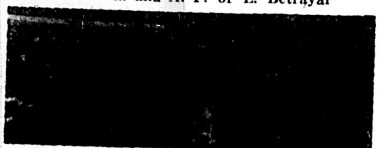
SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 4 (UP).—President Coolidge will leave the Summer White House for Washington the first of next week, it was announced at the executive offices today.

While the exact date was not given out, it was learned on good authority that the president will be in Washington not later than the middle of the week.

SEARCH HERRICK FOR LIQUOR.

Myron T. Herrick, United States Ambassador to France and James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, were among the 1714 passengers of the S.S. Ile De France, who were searched by customs officials for liquor, when the liner docked here today.

Militarism and A. F. of L. Betrayal



The complete sell-out of the officialdom of the American Federation of Labor has seldom been more graphically portrayed than in the above picture of "Labor Day" celebrations at Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn! The celebration was held under the auspices of the Central Trades and Labor Council, the cabinet of reactionary labor tsars who have consistently betrayed the workers of New York City to the bosses, and who have grown, in many cases, enormously rich in doing so.

BIG SECTION 1 MEET SATURDAY

Banner Ceremonies to Be On Program

The ceremonial banquet which will accompany the awarding of the first District 2 Election Campaign Banner will be held at the headquarters of the Downtown Workers Club, 35 E. 2nd St., this Saturday at 8 p.m.

The banner will be awarded to the members of Section 1 in recognition of the good work of members of that section in putting across the first assembly district in the city,—the Eighth Assembly District of Manhattan.

For the occasion, 35 E. 2nd St will be festively decorated and a banquet will be given by the Section Campaign Committee, of which A. Gussakoff, District Literature Agent, is in charge during the absence of S. Milgrom. An unusually fine musical program has been arranged, to be followed and preceded by refreshments of a substantial nature.

A nominal charge of fifty cents is being made for admission, to defray the cost of the music and food. The banquet is not restricted to members of Section 1. All members of the Workers (Communist) Party and progressive workers throughout the city are invited to attend. Should the attendance be large enough, the receipts above the cost of the banquet will be given to the Communist campaign fund.

The work of members of Section 1 has been characterized by a splendid attention to the propaganda work which accompanied the securing of signatures to put the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot. According to the report of the Section Campaign Director, party platforms and other literature were sold to fully half of the workers who attached their signatures to the petitions.

A special effort is being made by the Communist campaigners of the downtown section to complete the Sixth Assembly District by the time the banquet will be held, thus making the occasion a doubly festive one.

Co-operative Branch of Bronx to Mobilize for Final Signature Drive

In a statement issued last night by Spencer, campaign director of Branch 6, Section 5 of the Bronx—known as the Co-operative House Branch of the Workers (Communist) Party—all Bronx Communist campaigners and members of Sections 2 and 3 are urged to report at 2700 Bronx Park East for participation in the signature drive.

The members of Branch 6 have already obtained 1,000 of the 1,800 signatures required to put the Communist candidate in the Sixth Assembly District on the ballot. This work is to be especially commended in view of the fact that the Sixth Assembly District is the largest in the city, and many sections of it are very sparsely populated.

Splendid work has been done in the matter of selling party platforms by the members of the branch.

According to a report made by Spencer, the branch has received very little assistance from the members of Sections 2 and 3, who are supposed to participate in the signature drive in the Sixth Assembly District. This has been largely due to the Red Sundays these sections have been arranging in other sections of the city.

In his statement Spencer declares that "unless all comrades of the Co-operative Branch, comrades of other Bronx branches and those comrades of Sections 2 and 3, who are supposed to report at the Co-operative Branch, unite for one concerted effort, there is danger that the Sixth Assembly District may not be put across. This we must not allow. The next two weeks must finish our drive in the Sixth Assembly District, and with the co-operation of all of us this can be easily accomplished."

The Co-operative headquarters is open every evening, with Spencer in charge. All members are urged by the District Campaign Committee to co-operate with Branch 6 in its signature drive.

SYDNEY POSTAL STRIKE.

The secretary of the Amalgamated Postal Workers' Union (Mr. E. F. Murnane) stated that the mail branch at the General Post Office, Sydney, was seething with discontent, and that apparently the present superintendent of mails was not inclined to give consideration to Union representations on behalf of the employes affected.

Sections 2 and 3 Plan Red Sunday in Harlem on Sunday, Sept. 9

The members of the Red Squads of Sections 2 and 3, in line with their splendid work in the Bronx and Brownsville, will mobilize for the third time on Sunday, Sept. 9, for campaign work in Harlem.

The two Red Squads will meet at 9 a. m. next Sunday at the Harlem headquarters, 143 East 103rd St., and will make a gallant effort to put across the seventeenth, eighteenth and twenty-first assembly districts.

According to Bessie Gussakoff and H. Bydarian, campaign managers of Sections 2 and 3, special registration is being taken at every unit meeting of volunteers for the Red Squads. It is expected by the campaign managers that the Red Squads which will report in Harlem next Sunday will greatly outnumber the squads that worked in the Bronx and in Brownsville.

It has been proposed by Bessie Gussakoff that a special banner be awarded to the Red Squads of the two sections in recognition of their work in the signature drive thruout the city, and the proposal is being looked on with favor by Rebecca Grecht, district campaign director.

Should the work of the Red Squads in Harlem equal that done in the Bronx two weeks ago it is certain that no opposition to Gussakoff's demand will be met.

PLAN BIG FRENCH TEXTILE STRIKE

Delay Date to Make Walk-out General

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Due to the sympathetic interest shown by non-union textile workers and even by the rank and file of the reformist unions toward the strike action proposed by the revolutionary textile unions, the latter have announced a postponement of the general strike call from September 2 till the 23rd, in order to mobilize all the mill workers for a big general struggle.

The original demand put forward by the left wing organizations, a wage increase for women textile operatives, met with such unanimous approval that the militant unions decided to rally the membership of right wing unions as well as the non-union workers around a larger list of demands, before the strike is put into effect.

'DAILY' SUB DRIVE EFFORTS URGED

Agents Must Intensify Work in All Cities

In a letter distributed throughout the country by the committee in charge of the Daily Worker Election Subscription Drive, Daily Worker agents were advised to participate more strenuously in the big campaign. The letter follows in part:

"To all Daily Worker Agents:

"This is the first week of the Election Subscription Campaign to get ten thousand new readers for the Daily Worker. All the necessary material has been sent and should be in your hands by this time. The success of this campaign will depend on the amount of organization done by our agents in the various districts, cities and units.

"The Daily Worker Agents should work to fill their quotas not only for the various prizes that are being given to the cities and district but also as a means to build the Party press.

"The various city agents should sub-divide the quotas among the units in their cities. You should arrange to have a bundle of Daily Workers (at the special price of $6 per thousand) at all meetings and for the purpose of getting new contracts and new subscribers to the Daily Worker. You should take steps to organize systematic distributions in front of the large shops and trade union meetings. Visit the various fraternal and sympathetic organizations in your city and see that their members subscribe to the Daily Worker."

RED CANDIDATES TO TALK IN BRONX

Banquet Is Scheduled for Sunday

A Bronx Communist Campaign Banquet at which all the local Communist candidates will be present, will be held at 2075 Clinton Ave., the Bronx, at 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 9.

The banquet will celebrate the placing on the ballot of the candidate running on the Communist ticket in the Fifth Assembly District of the Bronx, and, if a final drive this week can do the job, will also celebrate the putting across of the Fourth Assembly District of the Bronx, for which only three hundred additional signatures are needed.

The Bronx banquet, at which elaborate food and musical programs will be given, will be the first affair of its kind to be held in the Bronx during the present campaign, and should be attended by all Bronx members of the Workers (Communist) Party as well as other progressive workers who recognize in the election platform of the Workers (Communist) Party the expression of their own political and economic demands.

The banquet will be filled with militant needle trades workers who have recently endorsed the platform and candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party, since the Bronx may be called the home of these militant left wing needle trades workers who have fought the reactionary policies of the socialist party misleaders consistently.

All of the Communist candidates running in the Bronx will be present at the affair. While the details of the musical and other entertainment to be provided have not yet been divulged, the banquet will be an affair long to be remembered in the minds of those workers who will be present, according to Jacob Yakovleff, organizer of Section 5, the Bronx.

Workers of Panama Score Democratic Anti-Alien Plank

PANAMA, Sept. 4.—The General Syndicate of Workers of Panama has sent a letter to the Daily Worker protesting against the resolution incorporated in the democratic platform providing that only American citizens be employed in positions in the Canal zone above the rank of messenger. The resolution was proposed by Canal zone democrats and is regarded as part of the campaign against foreign-born workers, especially those of radical sympathies, in the Canal zone.

The letter is signed by Charles R. Mendoza, executive secretary, and Jorge R. Brouwer, Jr., foreign secretary of the General Syndicate of Workers of Panama.

I. L. D. APPEALS TO WORKERS FOR MORE SUPPORT

Urges Branches to Intensify Work

With the conclusion of the summer season, the New York Section of the International Labor Defense, 799 Broadway, is planning to intensify the activities of all its branches. An appeal, signed by Rose Baron, secretary of the New York Section, has been issued to the branches and to all class-conscious workers, urging more active co-operation and aid in order that the I. L. D. may be able to continue its work. The appeal states:

"The summer months, always difficult months financially for the International Labor Defense, have this year been unusually hard upon us. Our annual outing, which is usually a source of considerable income, fell far below expectations because of postponement and rain. Throughout the summer money was constantly being paid out to defray the expenses of the many cases that we handled, while very little was coming in.

Without Funds.

"Thus the I. L. D. now finds itself actually without sufficient funds to go on with the defense of workers under attack by the capitalist courts. But this work will not and must not stop. The only weapon which the workers have in their fight against the frame-up and the other devices of the boss courts—the International Labor Defense—must not be crushed because of lack of support.

"The I. L. D. appeals to all branches to intensify their work immediately, to start membership campaigns, to arrange affairs of various sorts and to do everything possible to enable the local office to continue its indispensable work in behalf of workers caught in the legal machinery of the capitalist courts.

Autumn Revel.

"The I. L. D. also appeals to all class-conscious workers to join in this work by becoming members of the International Labor Defense and supporting it to the utmost.

"All branches and all workers should also make preparations for our Autumn Revel, which will be held Saturday, Oct. 27, in Webster Hall, 119 E. 11th St. Branches and other workingclass organizations are requested not to arrange affairs for this date."

Grab Levine Plane for Non-Payment of Taxes

PARIS, Sept. 4 (UP).—Police seized Charles A. Levine's new Junkers plane, Queen of the Air, at Cherbourg today.

Levine, who had intended to sail for New York today aboard the Leviathan of the United States Lines, arrived at Cherbourg flanked by gendarmes nad his plane was put under seal.

The plane was seized because Levine, piloted by Bert Acosta, left Le Bourget Field without the authorization of customs officials, who previously had ordered the plane to stay on the ground until the taxes on it were paid. The plane was built in Germany and imported by Levine.

New Job for Hughes?

GENEVA, Sept. 4 (UP).—The assembly of the League of Nations will elect a successor to John Bassett Moore as judge of the world court Saturday, Herluf ahle, president of the assembly, announced today. The election of Charles Evans Hughes was regarded as certain.

Painter Has Narrow Escape in Fall

Manuel Martin had a narrow escape yesterday when he fell from a scaffold at 245 Degraw St., Brooklyn, and dropped three storys to the ground. He suffered bruises only. Falls from scaffolds are frequent occurrences among painters.

BURKE TO LEAVE ON TOUR TODAY

Will Cover 10 Towns on Trip

Preparatory to the election campaign tour for the Workers (Communist) Party to be made by Robert Minor, Communist candidate for U. S. Senate and Lovett Fort-Whiteman, Communist candidate for Comptroller, which is scheduled to start at Poughkeepsie on Sept. 4, Donald Burke, Red campaigner, today begins his upstate tour, covering each of the cities at which Minor and Whiteman will later speak.

Burke's first stop will be Poughkeepsie, at which he will speak today. The rest of his itinerary includes: Troy, Sept. 6 and 7; Albany, Sept. 8; Schenectady, Sept. 9 and 10; Utica, Sept. 11; Syracuse, Sept. 12; Rochester, Sept. 13 and 14; Buffalo, Sept. 15, 16 and 17; Jamestown, Sept. 18, and Binghamton, Sept. 19.

Besides making preparations for the Minor-Whiteman tour, Burke will hold open-air meetings on the platform of the Workers (Communist) Party and wherever possible will speak at factory gates at noon.

Burke is already a familiar figure in many upstate localities due to his fine work during the Red Essex tour, during which he and George Pearlman accounted for putting fourteen upstate counties on the ballot for the Workers (Communist) Party. The expenses of the tour will be paid by Burke himself out of collections to be taken at the various meetings, and he confidently expects to raise sufficient funds to considerably swell the Communist campaign fund after paying the costs of his tour.

To Protest Porter Jailing at Meet in Milwaukee Sept. 16

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 4.—International Youth Day will be celebrated in Milwaukee with a mass meeting protesting against the vicious sentence meted out to John Porter, young textile strike leader, who has been condemned to two and a half years at hard labor by the federal military authorities.

The meeting will be held on the evening of Sept. 16 at Liberty Hall, Eighth and Walnut Sts., under the auspices of the Young Workers League. Minnie Lurie, a member of the District Executive Committee of District 8 of the League, will be the chief speaker.

Kroger Grocery Trust Swallows Competitor

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 4 (UP).—Announcement was made today by the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. of the purchase of the Eagle chain of 115 stores in Pittsburgh which have been owned and operated since 1922 by Benjamin Chait, Joseph Goldstein, Joseph Porter and Meyer Weinberg.

Banquet of Progressive Delicatessen Clerks in Red Campaign Friday

The progressive group of Local 302, Delicatessen Countermen's Union, will have a banquet and concert this Friday, Sept. 7, at the United Workers Co-operative Restaurant at 2731 White Plains Ave., the Bronx, for the benefit of the election campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party. The banquet is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m.

The banquet will be one of many courses and a fine musical program has been arranged. Owing to the fullness of the program, only two speeches will be made, Rebecca Grecht, district campaign manager, will speak on the importance of the 1928 elections to workers and link up the splendid fight of the progressive delicatessen clerks in ousting the right wing leaders from the union with the political fight of the workers, and P. Yuditch, labor editor of the Freiheit, Jewish Communist daily, will review the struggles of the militant, left wing members of the union against the reactionary officials of the United Hebrew Trades Council, with which the union is affiliated.

The workers who have arranged this banquet in support of the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party have made a reputation for themselves by the spirit with which they combatted all right wing leadership in their union. As delegates to the United Hebrew Trades meetings, several of these workers have taken the floor in opposition to the concerted reactionary forces marshalled by the corrupt leaders and have often run a gauntlet of blows after their militant speeches. According to I. Himmelfarb, one of the leaders of the progressive group, this group is extending its influence widely thruout the union with fine results in drawing the membership away from the misleaders.

WORKERS WAGES ADVANCE.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 4. — Wages are advanced and better work conditions secured under a new contract signed by employers of Electrical Workers No. 175 here.

MILL STRIKER'S WIFE COMES TO THE "BIG CITY"

Slaved 22 Years in Textile Mills

After twenty-two years in the gray textile mills of New Bedford, a thin, undernourished little striker's wife, Mrs. Stella Correia, left her husband and three little children and came to New York yesterday to help raise funds for the fighting, hungry New Bedford strikers. This is her first time in this city. As Fred Biedenkapp, national secretary of the Workers' International Relief, brought her from the Grand Central station, the noise and bustle of the traffic and the glittering shop windows on Fifth Avenue left her a little breathless.

"How is it possible," she asked, "that while our people are working for starvation wages in New Bedford that there is so much wealth in New York?"

Mrs. Correia will attend union meetings for the purpose of raising funds for the textile strikers and on Saturday, September 15, at 1 p. m., she will address the Workers' International Relief Conference at Irving Plaza Hall.

At the offices of the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square, Mrs. Correia told a pitiable tale of hunger and suffering among the textile workers of New Bedford and Fall River. She also told of how she and her children have taken part in all mass picketing demonstrations and how on several occasions she and her oldest girl, Mary, were arrested and brutally manhandled by the New Bedford police. Her youngest child, Charlie, she said, is a chronic victim of pleurisy, contracted during a winter when the family could not afford coal.

When her husband and herself are at work they both make $21.45 for a full week's work, Mrs. Correia said. The children are left with neighbors and have to shift for themselves as best they can.

"When are you going back to work?" a reporter asked.

Mrs. Correia stiffened and snapped back: "When we win the strike."

Bukharin's Speech in Reply to Discussion on the International Situation

Bukharin's speech in reply to the discussion on the international situation at the Sixth Congress of the Communist International began in Saturday's Daily Worker. Those sections already published are: "I. The Positive and Negatives Sides of the Discussion, "II. The Stabilization of Capitalism and the Controversy over the 'Third Period,'" "III. The War Question is the Central Question," and "IV. The External and Internal Contradictions of the Capitalist System."

V. Problems Connected With the Work of the Communist Parties

I now want to take up certain separate problems, which in my opinion are very important. Permit me first of all to say a few words about our trade union tactics and our trade union work, which was discussed here. The Executive of the C. I. constantly emphasizes in its resolutions, circulars, letters, and other documents, the necessity for persistent trade union work in connection with the united front tactics. Everybody knows this. The world situation, which I have analysed and described here makes this problem more acute than ever and brings the task of winning over the masses more and more to the forefront. In the present situation winning over the masses is the condition precedent for our struggle against the dangers of war, and against war as such. The masses cannot be won over unless we work inside the trade unions. From the point of view of our international relations we must repeat what we have already said, namely. that strenuous work in the trade unions is absolutely essential.

We must not lose the initiative in the struggle for trade union unity. In the present situation we stand particularly in need of strongholds among the masses. That is why an intensification of trade union work in general, and an intensification of Profintern work in particular, is now one of the major tasks in the work of the Communist Parties. In the course of the discussion of the trade union question a number of tendencies were revealed. Some comrades spoke of the necessity to organize the unorganized, to create independent organizations in opposition to the reactionary unions, and, under certain definite conditions, to link up with the Profintern unions those trade union organizations which have been captured from the reformists. This is the policy which we advocated and which was generally adopted by the IV. Congress of the R. I. L. U. However, in the discussion reference was made to tendencies to resist these decisions, to the absence of an independent Communist line in trade union work, to complete surrender to Reformism out of fear of expulsion from the trade unions. But another tendency was also revealed in the course of the discussion, namely, a tendency to deny the necessity for working in the reactionary unions, and attempts were even made to develop a theory for the purpose of justifying this attitude. Sometimes this tendency is observed among the rank and file and arises from the difficulties which work in the reactionary trade union encounters. It is true that we are being expelled from the reactionary unions and for that reason greater firmness and a strong belief in our own policy is necessary to be able to work under such difficult conditions. The tendency to leave the reactionary unions is fostered also by the fact that large numbers of workers in many countries are still unorganised. This is the case in the United States and also in France. Comrade Thorez pointed out in his speech that only a negligible section of the French workers are organised. It is absolutely clear that the task of organizing the unorganised is one of the main tasks at the present time. But this is no reason why we should abandon our work in the reactionary trade unions, even in countries where dual unions exist. Some comrades try to prove theoretically that it is impossible to capture the machinery of the reformist labor organizations, trade unions, etc. They draw an analogy between the trade union and the governmental machinery. The slogan: capture the bourgeois state machine, they claim, must not be taken literally. They point out that Marx and Engels, and later Lenin in his "State and Revolution" explained that capturing the state means destruction of the state machine and its displacement by another; that this was the process of capturing the state.

The comrades apply this argument to the trade union question. There, too, there is a firmly organized bureaucratic machine similar to that of the bourgeois state machine. They say that it is impossible to capture that huge machine, it must be destroyed; but it is possible to destroy it only when the bourgeois state apparatus is destroyed. From this they conclude that it will be impossible to capture the reactionary trade unions before the capture of political power. On these assumptions it is easy to arrive at the conclusion that it is not necessary to work in the trade unions now under a Reformist leadership. However the argument that it is impossible to capture the reactionary unions cannot be proved. True, it is a very difficult task and it is probable that a final victory all along the front will be scored in many countries only in the process of the Social Revolution and after the capture of power. We have had cases like that in Soviet Russia, but we never abandoned our work in the Menshevik trade unions. To say that it is impossible to capture the unions is to take too pessimistic a view of the situation. The bourgeois state apparatus does not consist of workers. But the trade union machine is so constructed that only its upper layer consists of the so-called bosses while the lower strata consists of the masses of organized workers. If it is possible to "capture" the entire machine, it is possible to capture the rank and file, the factory committees and certain separate parts of the machine. Having broken through the front at one point it will be possible to proceed further. With the help of the masses it will be possible to break through the trade union front at several points. Can this be called breaking up the machine? In a certain sense, yes. By removing a reformist leader and placing our own man in his place, we are reorganizing the apparatus. The capture of any part of the machine means the "cleansing" and reorganizing of that machine. This is clear. To make a theoretical comparison between the trade unions and the state is unsound.

In his famous pamphlet "Left Wing Communism—an Infantile Sickness" Lenin very bluntly raised the issue of the necessity for working in the reactionary unions. The arguments he used are generally known. We must not go from one extreme to the other. We must combat the opposition to the decisions of the IV. Congress of the Profintern. Abominable facts were related here of what occurred in the Germany Party on this point. But we must also fight against the slogans of workers' control of industry and the like if they are advanced at a moment when there is no revolutionary situation (such slogans are pregnant with most serious dangers). Certainly we must combat these what are in fact right wing tendencies; but we must not fall into the other extreme and deny the very possibility of fruitful work in the reactionary unions.

The proposition we advanced in the discussion on the Youth question fully applies also to trade union work. We demanded from the Youth that they carry their mission into all mass organizations where workers are to be found even if these organizations are non-Communist or non-revolutionary. In this epoch of intense struggle against social democracy (we can make no headway without such a fierce struggle) and the prospects of war, our penetration into the masses of the proletariat is an absolutely necessary pre-requisite for success. Without creating this pre-requisite our existence as a Communist Party is generally impossible. To hope optimistically for the growth of our influence is not enough. We welcome this growth but the disproportion between the influence of our Party and the organizational consolidation of that influence is notorious. In order to remove this disproportion we must carry on strenuous work in the trade unions and other mass organizations. Comrade Willi Munzenberg quite correctly said that we must devote serious attention to the mass organizations. The forms of these organizations are multifarious but nevertheless we must take our positions in them. By the way, Comrade Munzenberg unjustly rebuked me for under-estimating the significance of the Anti-Imperialist League. In my report I argued precisely against the liquidatory tendencies of some comrades in relations to that League. Attempts are being made to give a theoretical basis to these liquidatory tendencies. The followers of this tendency say that they are not purely Communist organizations, that they are not even proletarian organizations; they contain many intellectuals and many representatives of the national revolutionary movements who may betray us tomorrow, etc. The opponents of participation in these organizations fear that these amorphous non-Communist organizations will "displace" the Communist Parties. These organizations include the Anti-Imperialist League, the Unity groups, the labor and other delegations to the U. S. S. R. with and without participation of intellectuals, etc. Some comrades are afraid that the Communist Parties will be crowded out by these organizations. Of course to assign to these organizations a role by which they would displace the Communist Parties would be a betrayal of Communism. This is a self-evident fact. But who assigns to them such a role? We do not regard these organizations as substitutes for the Communist Party, but as a means for spreading our influence among the broad masses. Comrade Munzenberg said that Comrade Bukharin, perhaps because he is insufficiently informed, has failed to note the great actions of the League in Mexico. Comrades, it is true that I did not mention this point. But does Mexico atone for all sins? For instance, I do not think the League has done sufficient positive work in connection with the Chinese question. In this connection it has done very little. Comrade Munzenberg knows better than anyone else the organizational weaknesses of the League. I mention the shortcomings of the League not because I propose to deprive it of our support, but because I want it to be supported. Willi Munzenberg alone is not to be blamed for this; we are all to blame. We gave very little assistance to the League, we did not supply the League with adequate forces. Our parties did not sufficiently co-operate with it. Such are the unembellished facts, on the basis of which we must draw our conclusions.

The problem of mass organizations is one of the most important problems and the next Plenum will have to work out a series of practical measures for its correct solution. The line is clear, but our experience is inadequate. We have already adopted many resolutions on this question and have debated on it many times. We have resolutions to show but our deeds do not correspond with these paper resolutions. This is a fact.

Unemployment.

The unemployment problem was touched upon, and quite rightly. Several comrades spoke on the question and particularly Comrade Hannington from Great Britain. This question must be elaborated in the theses and the most serious attention must be paid to it.

The unemployment problem was discussed here yesterday in connection with the special problems appertaining to America. Comrade Lominadze raised several objections to the case presented by Comrade Vargn. He said on the one hand that Varga revises the fundamental principles of Marx by speaking of a decline in the number of workers employed in industry. He thinks this is not the case nor can it be. On the other hand Comrade Lominadze says that he does not agree with me when I say that this is the first time anything of this kind has occurred, for Marx has given numerous examples of such cases.

I think one must choose one of these two propositions. Either something of the sort has existed and exists now or nothing of the kind can exist. (Lominadze: There is no law of development).

Quite right. There is no law of development. (Lominadze: I said this against Varga). But you are arguing also against me.

The second proposition excludes the first. But Comrade Lominadze wants to have it both ways.

How does the matter actually stand? Is a reduction in the number of workers employed in industry possible or not? It is possible. It is possible as were the various cases which Marx cited in volume I of "Capital." Not a "certain" but a fairly well known French economist, Ganil to whom Comrade Lominadze referred, developed a whole theory on this subject as follows: as capitalism develops, the number of workers employed declines, and the number of capitalists increases. Hence, the workers become capitalists! Marx said that this was nonsense, that it was a ridiculous and worthless theory. But is this the point involved in the "American" case? Did Varga express his agreement with Carver (and Ganil)? Did Varga say that the workers become capitalists? God forbid! Varga said that they become unemployed. There is nothing in this to suggest Ganil's theory. Hence, Ganil must be left to lie in peace. Further, Marx cites several cases of individual factories in which the number of workers employed declined. Is it possible for the same thing to happen now (for the first time!!) in a whole country, at least for a certain period of time? I think it is possible. A certain country may occupy an exceptional position in world economy, may be distinguished by certain specific features of development just as certain individual factories or districts of Great Britain were distinguished in the days of Marx. It would be imprudent and wrong to advance a new "natural law" of capitalist development at the present time. Firstly we have too little empirical material with which to make such generalizations, but it is quite permissible to speak of positive facts. There is a country that occupies an exceptional position in world economics and that country is the United States. It is quite reasonable to suppose that a country with such enormous economic resources and where technical progress has made such rapid strides should not develop along the general, average line but should develop in leaps. That is exactly what is happening in America.

What does that mean? For our analysis as a whole it means the following: We see various processes giving rise to growing unemployment. These are—growing unemployment caused by depression and crisis; growing unemployment as a result of rationalization, and finally a spasmodic reduction in the absolute number of workers employed in industry due to the very rapid technical development that is taking place in the United States.

I absolutely disagree with the argument advanced here by many comrades to the effect that the internal possibilities of American imperialism have been "exhausted." They have not yet been exhausted and in general I am on principle opposed to this point of view. It is wrong both in theory and principle, it is the Luxemburg theory (Voice: This is what Varga said!). Yes, Varga said it but I disagree with Varga on this point. It is wrong, it is a reiteration of Rosa Luxemburg's theory. What is true is that under the present market conditions in a country like the United States, consecutive investments of capital are not as profitable as for instance in South America. And this problem is not as simple as some comrades think. It is a very complicated one. Our general deductions are as follows. There are now various causes of unemployment and these causes must be analysed. There is the unemployment that arises in time of depressions; there is unemployment called forth by the process of rationalization, even in the period of the upward trend of development; there is a rapid growth of unemployment at the time of a marked upward trend of development accompanied by extremely rapid technical progress. Take for instance unemployment in Great Britain and in America. These are two different types of unemployment. It goes without saying that we as Communists regard all the types of unemployment as a product of the development of the contradictions in capitalism. We utilize these contradictions with the object of sharpening the class struggle.

The Peasant Problem.

Now a few words on the peasant problem. The critical remarks made on this question by Comrade Kolarov, by the Italian, Balkan, South American, Persian and several other comrades I think are absolutely justified. But in my turn I can hurl the reproach at all these comrades for not having said a word about the agricultural proletariat. As a matter of fact this problem is one of the most serious problems in the capitalistically developed European countries.

How does the peasant problem as a whole stand at the present time? I think the formulation we adopted in 1925 still holds good. With the beginning of partial capitalist stabilization, work among the peasantry in the highly-developed West-European countries has become objectively more difficult for us.

The broad masses of the peasants—not the pauperized peasants of the Chinese, Russian or Roumanian type, but the "middle" and "lower middle" West European type (Germany, France, Czechoslovakia, etc.)—became restless when considerable disturbances took place in the entire capitalist system. No analogy can be drawn between the Chinese peasants and the German middle peasants. They represent totally different social categories, they are quite different types of peasants. Lenin spoke of this at the second congress, and strongly emphasized this distinction. In times of war and great disturbances in Western Europe, these sections were also moved. But under the present conditions of stabilization, work among the peasants in the large capitalist countries will in my opinion be very difficult.

All the more reason therefore, why we must stress the significance of our work among the agricultural laborers. In a number of countries at the present time an offensive on the agricultural proletariat is observed all along the line. At the same time in a number of countries of a different type, the agrarian problem is becoming accentuated—the events in the Balkan countries and particularly in Roumania have shown us that this problem is assuming special significance and we must therefore regard it as the most important issue for us in these countries. The same thing applies to those colonial countries in which an immediate revolutionary situation may be expected in the near future. For instance, the peasant problem in China is now an urgent and the central problem of the revolution. Special attention must be devoted to the peasant problem in the South-American countries. The structure of the state in almost all South-American countries is of a peculiar type (big landowners and owners of latifundia are at the helm). In some of these countries we find latifundia on which a mixed regime of capitalist exploitation and feudal relations exist. We find similar conditions in some colonies with their plantation systems, where extraordinary laws exist, for instance, against the Negroes, etc. The peasant problem in Indonesia, India and South Africa (where the natives are being divorced from the land) plays an enormous and even a decisive role. For our Parties in those countries the peasant problem is the chief and principal problem. In Poland — I come now to European countries—this problem is also of the utmost importance.

However, the comrades who spoke on this question made almost no concrete proposals as to what is to be done. Of proposals that were made I will mention only one, which reduces itself to the suggestion that we should revise the point of view we adopted in 1925 in regard to the peasant parties. The comrade who made that suggestion believes that under the existing objective conditions (the extraordinarily importance of the peasant problem in several countries) we ought to organize peasant parties.

I do not agree with that and I believe that there is no reason to accept the suggestion. The arguments advanced in its favor are not convincing enough. We are told that since we must devote more attention to the peasant problem, particularly in the various colonial and semi-colonial countries, in the South American countries, etc., it naturally follows that we must organize peasant parties. Why? We have already discussed this question and decided that it was necessary to organize peasant leagues, to gain influence in them and to control them through our fractions. It seems to me that this position was absolutely correct and that it holds good also today. Why are separate peasant parties necessary? What does it mean to create a new party in the light of the prospect of development of bourgeois national revolutions in the colonies and their transformation into social revolutions. It means that we would set up parties to compete with the Communist Parties of the proletariat. We cannot say: up to a certain point we "favor" such parties, but after that we "eliminate" or liquidate them without ceremony. No, comrades, such parties would grow and eventually would compete with the Communist Parties. Of course, in cases where peasant parties already exist we must seek to win them over and to bring them under our influence. But wherever the question of organizing a peasant party is raised for the first time it seems to me that it would be much better for us to organize peasant leagues, because by doing so we shall be able to organize broader sections of the peasantry and create a surer means by which to lead the toiling sections of the peasants. Such a form of peasant organization may attract a larger membership and will be much easier to bring under the influence of the proletarian Communist Party. All these political considerations argue against this proposal. We decided this question in this spirit before and gave the same motives for this solution. There is no reason whatever why we should relinquish this position.

The Importance of Work in South America.

Allow me to deal with a few other questions.

First of all I want to lay stress on the problem of the South American countries. We have already mentioned the fact that this is the first time that the South American Parties are so well represented at our Congress. Of course, this shows that our movement has extended to the South American countries. These countries are now particularly important for us as they play a very important although peculiar role in world politics. We have already pointed out the growing aggressiveness of North American capitalism in South America; we have also pointed already to the war of liberation Nicaragua is waging against the imperialist invasion of the U. S. We are all perfectly well aware of the great importance of Mexican resistance and we also know that such resistance and a powerful popular movement against North American imperialism is now developing in several countries in South America. We know perfectly well that this problem is interwined with certain internal problems in the respective countries, particularly with the agrarian problem and the struggle against fascism. On the question of tactics in the South American countries there are various currents among us. I cannot deal now with all the controversial points. I would like, however, to emphasize the point that from the viewpoint of the development of powerful national revolutions and powerful agrarian revolutions,—which most likely will reveal the tendency to become transformed into social revolutions, the whole gamut of South American problems is assuming increasing significance from day to day.

The Negro Problem.

I want to stress the importance of the Negro problem. The Comintern has already passed a number of resolutions on this question. Nevertheless, it is a fact that the Parties concerned have not yet paid the necessary attention to this issue. Almost all Negro comrades say in addition, that the survivals of race prejudice are still to be observed in some parties. I do not deny this fact. If on minor national issues, there is friction within the Communist Parties, for instance in Western Europe, what reasons have we to believe that great cultural and radical distinctions leave no traces upon the Communist Parties? Even on the Commissions of the Comintern a wrong note is detected when questions concerning the Negro problem are discussed. I myself noticed this during a discussion on the South African question. We must put an end to this once and for all. In our theses we must declare in the name of the Comintern that it is the duty of all our comrades to adopt a correct policy on this question and fight mercilessly against the slightest manifestations of race prejudice. The Negro problem must not be studied merely from the point of view of the situation in North America, but also from the viewpoint of the situation in South Africa, etc.

The Situation in India.

A few words on India. Some Indian comrades raised some points against me and I must reply. For instance, Comrade Rasur objected to my description of the present economic situation in India. He regretted that I did not say something about the industrialization of India. I must state here that in elaborating their theory of the "de-colonization" of India the Indian comrades sought support in a statement I made in the course of which, while I made no reference to the de-colonization of India, I nevertheless, pointed to the large investments of foreign capital to be observed in India.

Is it true that I made no reference to the industrialization of India in my report? I may not have employed the term industrialization. But I spoke of big capital investments during the war and post-war periods; is that no industrialization? However, this is not a decisive factor in analyzing the present situation in India. A decisive element is the following: Has the policy of British imperialism changed in regard to India or not? Is there any change to be observed in the economic policy of British imperialism? I think the flow of capital to India has greatly diminished of late. We no longer observe the feverish investments of capital; there is no longer an upward curve of large investments as we saw before. That is why the surging process of economic development that was observed some time ago is not observed now. Hence, the impoverishment and pauperization now in progress which is converting the peasants not into urban workers on all sides, but semi-beggars on the land, robbed and enslaved on all sides. This retards the development of the home market and therefore the development of industry which has to contend against bitter competition, which is made all the more severe by the "preferences" Britain is able to secure for herself by the privileged position she occupies in the country. Such are the peculiar features of India today. Comrade Rasur said that Britain is trying to bribe the upper strata of the peasantry. This is true. But it seems to me that Comrade Rasur somewhat exaggerates this process. In reality we see the process of further pauperization and this is a basis for the coming revolutionary battles. This is also a basis for bourgeois maneuvers against British imperialism. In regard to the tactics that must be applied in India, I have dealt with them already.

The Vienna Insurrection and the "Left" Social Democracy.

In dealing with the smaller Parties I think a few words must be said regarding the Austrian question. Some comrades asked me whether the fact that I did not mention the July insurrection in Vienna is to be taken as indicating a change in our opinion on this question. As you all know we discussed the Austrian question some time ago and expressed ourselves very strongly against the position of the Austrian Party. In the resolution we adopted it is pointed out that the Vienna uprising was a powerful revolutionary mass movement and that our Party should have advanced the slogan of Soviets and should have led the insurrection under this slogan. No doubt all of you are familiar with that resolution. It seems to me that there is no reason why we should depart from the opinions we expressed at that time. It is another question as to whether that movement was not isolated somewhat at the stage which it had reached. The masses of the German and Czecho-Slovakian proletariat could not be called out for a general strike and no decisive mass action could be effected then. From this point of view the Vienna uprising was to a certain extent isolated. However, with the further development of events we might have attained a different situation. That was quite possible. Who can say that if the events had developed further we would not have had great ferment in Germany and Czechoslovakia? Such a possibility was not entirely out of the question. The argument that the rising was isolated, or rather, relatively isolated cannot be brought in as an argument against our revolutionary tactics in Austria. Did the Austrian Party at that time have the opportunity to develop the movement? I think it did. The Party made a mistake in not helping to create mass organizations in the form of Soviets. It had the opportunity for doing that, but it committed a grave mistake in not acting in the right way in the right time. I think the resolution of the Plenum of the E.C.C.I. was absolutely correct. It is another matter as to how far similar events are possible in the existing situation. I do not consider such a prospect very likely. But this is an entirely different matter.

The Austrian events emphasized with particular force the correctness of the thesis on the role of the "left" social democrats when it says that they are the most dangerous enemies of the revolutionary proletariat.

Everyone seeking admission to the congress today was closely scrutinized in order to prevent the entrance of miners and other militant elements. The congress has definitely refused to receive a deputation of miners.

In spite of Ben Turner's address of pacifism in which he declared pensioning all those engaged on naval and military work "until the time comes when they could be making ploughshares" would be better "than to continue the unholy preparations for war," the most serious topic before the congress, after discussion of the Mond plan, was the decline in trade union membership during the past year.

It is believed that figures revealing a decline of 280,000 by no means tells the whole story of the decay in British unionism under the existing leadership.

A resolution making unemployment a national and not a local charge was passed by the congress following discussion in which the officials advanced the opinion that the miners are solving their unemployment suffering by marching afoot to the cities where they swell the large populations of unemployed persons.

STARVING CAMP OF MEN, WOMEN FOLLOWHARVEST

Brutal Capitalism of West Crushes Them

(By a Worker Correspondent)

SAN JOSE, Calif. (By Mail).—Californians Inc. has raised a million dollars to advertise the state of California. This organization is composed of real estate sharks, bankers and big corporations who want the state flooded with a surplus of labor so that the industries can be run more cheaply.

A true picture of the exploited fruit slaves of the Santa Clara Valley in which the city of San Jose is located, is furnished by this account I am sending you. This and similar incidents happen all during the fruit season.

In the canneries this year there is less work. Workers are speeded up as never before and compensation less also for the slave mart is glutted, thanks to Californians Inc. The warehouses are full of unsold fruit yet workers who produced that fruit cannot afford to purchase it for the price is prohibitive. The canneries charge us 30 cents for a commercial quart of fruit which costs them exactly 3 cents to produce. How is that for frenzied finance?

Squatted on her haunches, a dark-faced woman with a baby in the crook of one arm, sits, stirring something cooking in a battered iron kettle over an open outdoor fire. She might be 25 and might be 45—there is no telling from her unwashed, stolid face, and fat, formless shape.

Nearby play four children, all under 10 years old. A man sits smoking on the runner of an old Ford truck parked nearby. In the bed of the truck and scattered on the ground are several bundles of ragged bedding, a wash tub and board, and dented tin kettles and plates.

Multiply this scene by 200—and you have—no, not Mexico—but the bank of Coyote Creek along Brokaw Road, near the Oakland Highway, at 5:30 o'clock of an evening.

Coyote Camp.

"We come to pick prunes," explains a friendly man with flashing teeth and long mustache.

"Our home? Our home is where we stop. Yes, we have all our belongings with us. Where do we come from? Well, from Imperial Valley, I do. The rest? Oh, Imperial, Pasadena, Mexico, all over South."

The squalor and lack of sanitation of the camp, and the meagerness of the possessions of the people who have brought their all with them are unbelievable to one who has not been out to see this camp on the bank of the Coyote.

The majority of the people in the camp are right on the borderline of starvation. They all live in hope—hope of a job on a prune ranch—tomorrow.

No one knows exactly how many families there are camped there—300 last week, it was estimated by the State Free Employment Bureau—perhaps 200 tonight, perhaps more or less tomorrow night, for they are coming and going every day.

The camp is made up of 150 to 300 Mexican families who have come up from Southern California and Mexico for the prune picking harvest in the Santa Clara Valley.

In Ford trucks, so shaky that it is a wonder they do not fall to pieces, in old Packards and Cadillacks, once bosses of the road, but years discarded by their original owners and now decrepit and wheezing, in cars and trucks of various makes, alike only in the particular that they are all old, the Mexicans have been arriving in San Jose for the last two weeks.

Some of the men apply at the State Free Employment Bureau where many of them have been placed during the last two weeks by Tom Graham of that bureau. Others drive from ranch to ranch, hunting work. If they are successful, they stay where they are to work. If not, they come back to the camp to spend another night.

Along towards the late afternoon the unsuccessful ones begin to straggle in for the night. There are fewer at night this week than last because many of the families have procured jobs on the prune ranches. But it was estimated last night that there were in the neighborhood of 200 families camped along the creek. And "famny" means "family" among these Mexicans—an average of about five children to the family besides the parents, and an occasional grandmother or grandfather.

Two hundred families—figure out for yourself the number of individuals camped between the creek and road without any sort of central organization or any sanitary conveniences.

The barest necessities of life, food, water, fire, shelter, are pressing problems to these campers. Food is hard to get. Neighbors report that under cover of darkness children with pails are frequently seen surreptitiously crossing the fields to milk cows grazing nearby. Water is procured nearby where it has been piped from a neighboring ranch. It may be had for the carrying a block or two—and the wives are glad to get it for that little labor. For fire, there must be wood. Shelter is the easiest problem to solve. There are a few fairly decent family tents. Other families sleep huddled in the beds of their trucks. A few have made rough shelters of brush such as one sees in pictures describing the life and habits of primitive peoples.

But the hardships of their lives do not seem to appall these people. They are of more resistant fiber than the average American. An empty stomach until they find work—they can stand that—draw their belts a little tighter—and hope for tomorrow. Are they cold at night under their thin, dirty blankets, in their brush and canvas shelters? But they are used to sleeping cold! The sun will shine tomorrow.

Socialists in Minnesota Will Not Aid Coal Miners

DULUTH, Minn. (By Mail).—At the recent state convention of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor which was held at Winona, Comrade William Watkins who was a delegate of the Switchmen's Union of St. Paul was not seated for the reason that he is a Communist. The next day, in the Duluth Herald, a capitalist sheet, the following editorial, headed, "Labor and the Communist" appeared:

"The Minnesota State Federation of Labor, in convention at Winona, resolutely clings to its position of sturdy resistance to Communism and the Communists.

"In that, of course, it is right. Communism is no less the enemy of craft unionism than it is of capitalism.

"Communism is out to destroy both, and it feels that it has to destroy trade unionism first because, by improving as it has the lot of labor in this land, unionism is making itself a formidable obstacle to the cause of Communism.

"Indeed, the Communist who fights organized labor, and the union man who fights Communism, are both showing very much more intelligence than the conservative citizen who fights unionism, not seeing that it is a mighty bulwark against destructive radicalism.

"Organized labor would be admitting a Trojan horse if it let Communists into its deliberations, and it shows no disposition to be foolish. If capital were as intelligent as that, it would support unionism instead of fighting it, as it sometimes does."

The editor is right when he says that the present trade unions, and we might as well include the "socialist" party, are a mighty bulwark against the establishment of a cooperative commonwealth, but he is altogether off the track when he says that the present trade unions are improving the lot of labor. There was a time when the trade union movement did to some extent help improve the conditions of the workers, but today under a corrupt leadership the trade union movement has become the tool of the bosses. It meekly consents to lengthen the hours of labor, lower the wages of the workers, and intensify exploitation. It is the present trade union leadership that the Communists are out to destroy, and not the trade union movement. I mentioned the "socialist" party as playing the part of the betrayer.

Let me prove that to you. As secretary of the International Labor Defense of Duluth, I invited the "socialist" party local to take part in a tag day for miners' relief. I also asked them to take part in the Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting which was held August 22, and was attended by several hundred workers. The "socialists" refused to cooperate with us in the tag day nor did they take part in the memorial. The trade union leaders of this city, working hand in hand with the "socialists," not only refused to help us raise money for the strikers, but went out of their way to call up the police commissioners and the city council to whom I had applied for a tag day permit, told them not to grant such perm[illegible] cause the Communists will use the money for propaganda purposes inst[illegible] of sending it to the miners. I was forced to go before the commissioners and the city council and expose the rotten gang of would-be labor leaders and hypocritical "socialists." The permit was granted and we collected a couple hundred dollars which money was immediately forwarded to the National Miners' Relief at Pittsburgh.

Of course, it is only a matter of a short time when the rank and file of the trade union movement will find out who are their true friends, and instead of the labor fakers ousting Communists from the trade union movement, the trade union movement will be ousting the labor fakers and their allies, the "socialists."

86 YEARS OLD, HE FIGHTS FOR PARTY

Ohio Worker Is a Labor Veteran

"In my eighty-sixth year I feel as young in spirit as a man of twenty. I am now ready as well as I ever was to fight for the overthrow of the capitalist system and for the workers' rule. Tell the comrades in New York that I don't intend to die so soon, and am ready to take active part in the present election campaign of the Party and all the Party activities, for I recognize that the Workers (Communist) Party is the only political force in the country at the present date, that will eventually lead the working class to a final victory." These are the words of W. H. Aggus, 75 Benedict Ave., Norvalk, Ohio.

W. H. Aggus is 86 years old. I met him in Norvalk, Ohio, on the Daily Worker tour. It would encourage everyone to spend some time with this old-young labor movement veteran.

Aggus has been in the socialist party since 1905. Always a good fearless fighter, in 1913-19 when the socialist party adopted the policy of cowardness and betrayal, Aggus left the S. P. just as every revolutionary fighter did. During the war he made speeches in his small 100 per cent Yankee town of Norvalk, O., declaring his opposition to the war. In 1919 the American Legion and all the jingoes in Norvalk put the Boy Scouts to smash his windows and to stone him. He was compelled to leave town and went to Cleveland.

At the end of 1921 Aggus returned to his home, which was an old broken shack. He was friendless and deserted by his relatives. One thing remained to him—the revolutionary movement.

Aggus' property now consists of a small wooden shack. In the front of the small wooden "house" there is a plumbing shop where he is still at work. In the back there is a wooden bed and a very rich library. He turned over many books to comrades and to the Public Library. This is his life's savings.

"Well, comrade," he said, "I tell you I have more than I need because I can use for myself very little. Anything I have more than I can use belongs to the movement and so he paid for a yearly sub to the Daily Worker and also sent a contribution to the Election Campaign Fund. "The job we are faced with most is how to fight the influence of the church in the provincial towns, for the church is directly part of the capitalist class and its rule."

When I left Aggus bade me goodbye, saying that the comrades are to keep up the fight because they have a very big task to perform. I told him that I will acquaint the comrades with the old-young Pioneer.

MUST FIGHT FOR NEW MINE UNION

Militant Workers Must Aid

By FRED BRILL.

I mean you, reader of the Daily Worker. What are you doing for the new Miners' Union?

I have just been through the mining field of Illinois—where organizers are in the field, doing their damnedest to get delegates elected to the Sept. 9th Convention.

These organizers have been in the field for some time, damned glad if they get enough money for a bite to eat and to get to the meetings in the different towns. They are still plugging away, getting results. They're doing their share.

What are you doing for the new Miners' Union, militant worker in the various industries of this country?

The new Miners' Union will benefit all workers—it will not only fight for the miners' interest. A strong Miners' Union means a better defense of workers everywhere, a strong ally of fighting workers throughout the country.

You needle trades workers, building a new union; textile workers, building a new union. You will need support. You auto workers fighting Smith's campaign manager, Raskob, of the General Motors need support from the fighting miners. Workers in all industries, about to engage in struggles, will need support from several hundred thousand courageous, militant miners.

Now it is the miners who above all need support. They have passed through a long strike in Pennsylvania and Ohio. In other sections they work part time. They have little money to get by on.

Green has launched an attack on the new Miners' Union. He has called for a house cleaning of the "reds," of those progressives in the labor movement who support the new Miners' Union.

Now is the time to speak up! Defend the new Miners' Union from attack by the fakers in your local union! Speak up in your fraternal organization! Collect funds for the National Convention!

Do your duty as a militant worker!

Clever Propaganda in "Money Lenders" at the Ambassador

FIRST it must be understood that "Money Lenders" at the Ambassador is a good play, from a technical standpoint, close, well knit, crisply working up to its climax, and that it is well and deftly acted, by a well trained cast that specializes in making what might be merely "types" into something rather human appearing, for the time. It is an English play, written by Roy Herniman, and is said to have had a success in London.

The story is that of a daughter, Lillian Luttrell (Katherine Standing), of an aristocratic ex-army officer who turns loan shark, in secret, and preying even on his equally aristocratic relatives, amasses a small fortune. He operates through a Jew, Samuel Lebi (Herbert Clark), a young and ingenious business man. He dies and wills a million dollars to his daughter if she marries Lebi, and to either of them willing to marry, if the other refuses. The play turns around the difficulties of these two, each in love with some one else.

The relatives of the girl, aristocrats, not business men, are shown to be as futile, grasping, cowardly, petty and compromising as any of the pawnbrokers of fiction. The relatives of Solomon Levi are mocked in the usual way, but gently, and praised as good business men—not as good as the neat young loan shark, of course.

Lillian is willing to go through with the bargain, but the two finally split on the question of religion, the man in the case cleverly accentuating his orthodox Judaism, and insisting that any children they may have shall be brought up in that faith. The honor of the Church of England is finally the stiffening which causes Lillian to refuse Solomon Levi, and forfeit the million, a consummation which he has been working toward all the time.

It is an ending to which the audience's prejudice is skilfully fished for by a continual development all through the play of the theory that the chosen people are "not our people," just as good, of course, admirable, and all that, but "their men are not for our daughters," or the other way around.

Now this, I think, is the best piece of capitalist, as distinct from religious, or professional class, or genteel propaganda for racial segregation that I have ever seen. Every trick is used. The old trick of the young English bourgeoisie, of concentrating the hated qualities of capitalism in some Shylock, not without dignity, or the trick would be seen through, and thus deflecting class hatred into the channel of race prejudice, is used here. The antagonism of capitalist for aristocrat, a side issue of course compared with other fights, is here, in properly subdued form. Religion, which makes for eternal separation of Jews from Christians, is exalted, as a thing to sacrifice for. Even Zionism, in the form of Solomon's bearded rabbi uncle, Jacob Dacosta (George Farren) is approved of, because it adds another barrier. "The Jew bars us, so we must bar the Jew"—the argument used by California against Japan.

And the final trick of it all, the insistence that races must not intermingle in marriage, though one is of course as good as the other: how is this essentially different from the Jim Crow laws of Southern states, which proscribe equally that the blacks shall not ride in the white sections of street cars, and that the whites shall not ride in the black sections? This is the equivocal pretension of fairness about all Jim Crowism, and makes the unthinking to overlook the fact that any segregation necessarily means that the subject race gets the worst end of the street car, and everything else.

But it is to the credit of our party that if the theory taught in this piece of wonderful propaganda were ever to prevail over it, about half the happy marriages in it would be smashed. And I offer this not as an idle observation, but as proof of the fact that this play is capitalist propaganda, dealing in sentiments and needs of capitalists, that do not naturally occur to the working class, that the capitalist class hopes the workers wil learn by example from the capitalist class, and which the most class-conscious section of the working class healthily rejects.

Workers Party and Young Workers League in Joint Youth Celebration, Sept. 14

ANNIVERSARY TO BE TURNED INTO ANTI-WAR MEET

Speakers and Excellent Program

The Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League, District 2, will hold a joint mass meeting in Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Place, on Friday, Sept. 14, at 8 p. m.

This year's celebration will contain many new features. It will be an All-Youth Program. It will include prominent youth speakers, will present for the first time the Youth Chorus of New York and will include Sarah Nemser, a talented violinist, and a youth sports' club will perform as well.

The thirteenth anniversary of International Youth Day will be turned into an anti-war demonstration by the League and the Party. Members of the Communist Youth League have been very active in the Citizens' Military Training Camps this summer. The Young Workers (Communist) League has learnt how to carry on work against capitalist militarism both inside of the very institutions of capitalist oppression, and outside of them among the masses of youth, a statement announcing the meeting says.

OTTINGER NAMED BY REPUBLICANS

Former Daugherty Aid Heads State Ticket

Co., a subsidiary of the Morgan-controlled General Electric Co. H. Edmund Machold, the new head of the state republican machine, was also a member of this commission.

Ottinger, who is a Jew, is being groomed to corner a large part of the heavy Jewish vote usually obtained by Gov. Smith. It is considered possible that the selection of Ottinger as the republican gubernatorial candidate may cause a change in the plans of the democratic machine. Col. Herbert Lehman, millionaire banker, another Jew, may be chosen instead of Senator Wagner who is at present slated to head the democratic ticket. Lehman is a member of the banking firm of Lehman Bros., and a director in the Studebaker Corporation, the Pierce Oil Corporation and the Morgan-controlled Coal and Iron National Bank.

Phila. Underworld Dives Quiet as Fake "Clean-up" Starts

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4 (UP). —A quiet Labor Day was spent by Philadelphia's underworld after police had been assigned the herculean task of "cleaning up the town" in 24 hours, and the city generally awaited today further revelations by District Attorney Monaghan in his extensive investigation of prohibition violations.

FRANK BONITA IS MURDERED

Lewis Machine Seen in Action

walls told part of the story of the courageous fight of Frank Bonita to overpower his assailants.

Blood-stained steps reveal the path by which Ross Nilo, whom the police believe to have done the killing, dragged his thigh, pierced by a wound self-inflicted in the heat of the struggle.

According to the story told by the police, Bonita was visited by his companions, his murderers among them, and in order to allay his suspicions they engaged him in a game of cards. Suddenly one of the men declared that he had been cheated and fired upon Bonita. The miner defended his life, but was mortally wounded. Fearing capture, the assailants fled.

Pool of Blood.

Hearing the shooting, neighbors notified the police, who found Bonita lying in a pool of blood. One bullet had entered his head just over the left eye. Another had torn through his stomach. Another entered near his nose. Two others were near his heart and in one thigh.

While concealing their moves and reluctantly giving any information, police admit that the murder is the probable result of decision by his enemies that Bonita knew too much and must be "knocked off."

In this connection they cite knowledge he had of the Lillis, Campbell and Reilly murders.

Lewis Machine?

The union men many of them on the eve of departing to participate in the building of a New Miners Union in Pittsburgh, are convinced that the murder was paid for and engineered by officials of the John L. Lewis group, driven to frantic measures by the final decay of their monster graft machine.

In the house at the time of the shooting were Bonita's wife, Susie, and his two baby daughters, aged three and one.

Frank Bonita was secretary of his local of the United Mine Workers and represented District 1 on the delegation which that district sent to the Save-the-Union Conference in Pittsburgh on April 1.

Sam Bonita, the younger brother of the murdered man, is serving a ten-year term in the Eastern penitentiary on framed-up charges involved in the shooting of Frank Agati, who attacked him at a meeting.

Admit New Parties to International

New chapters were adopted concerning cooperative socialism and Austrian Marxism. A new chapter was also added dealing with the tasks of the cultural revolution.

"The program is not an ideal one, but it can be adopted as a great historical step forward, and I recommend that the Congress adopt it unanimously."

Report On Colonies.

Protracted applause greeted Bukharin at the conclusion of his report. The program was adopted, as Bukharin had advised the Congress, unanimously, and without any reservation.

After the Internationale had been sung by the delegates present, Kuusinen rose to make his report on the Colonial Commission.

"Great improvements have been made," he said, "particularly in the case of the Chinese revolution and the revolutionary movements of Indonesia and India. The Commission adopted the original idea concerning the character of imperialist colonial policy, but dealt more clearly with such questions as capital exports which increase the tempo of industrial development but simultaneously increase the enslavement of the colonies."

The theses were unanimously adopted.

A resolution, read by Thaelmann concerning the situation in the Soviet Union and the problems of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, was unanimously adopted.

Kolarov reported for the Appeal Commission, and the Congress unanimously ratified the expulsion of the Trotzkyists and rejected the requests of Trotsky, Radek, Sapronov, etc., for reinstatement. The reinstatement appeals of Maslov and Fischer were also rejected, simultaneously with a declaration that the way back into the ranks of the German Communist Party was open to all workers who break with the Maslow Fischer group. The appeals of Suzanne Girault, etc, and the Dutch Vynkoop group were also rejected.

After Humbert Droz had spoken on the formation of new Communist Parties in the colonies, the Congress accepted the Communist Parties in Corea, Cuba, Ireland, New Zealand and Paraguay. The Socialist Parties of Ecuador and Columbia were also accepted as sections of the Communist International, and the Executive Committee of the Communist International was instructed to give organizational instructions to these parties in order to make them into real Bolshevist parties.

The congress then unanimously elected the new Executive Committee of the Communist International and the International Control Commission.

Bukharin then made a speech closing the Congress. "The Congress," he said, "has presented a review of the world revolutionary forces. The adoption of the program of the Communist International is a great historical task which alone would have justified the convening of the congress. The adoption of this program proves the external and internal growth of the Communist International. The Congress declared that the war danger was the axis of the present situation. The rejection of the appeal of the Trotzkyists means their political death. The Communist International represents an historical class with a great mission with only its chains to lose and a whole world to win . . . the proletariat!"

Great applause greeted him at the end of his speech, and he read the proposed manifesto of the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International to the workers of the world. The delegates sang the Internationale.

Filing slowly through the great hall, the delegates from all parts of the world, singing revolutionary songs and shouting enthusiastically passed out, ending the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International.

GIANTS SPLIT TWO; ATHLETICS WIN 9-2

(By United Press)

The Chicago Cubs gained a half game on the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday in the National League race by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9 to 8, while the Cardinals were idle. The Cubs are now within four games of the league leaders. The New York Giants split a double-header with the Philadelphia Phillies, winning the first, 9 to 4, and losing the second 8 to 7.

Connie Mack's Athletics advanced within two games of the New York Yankees by winning from the Washington Senators 9 to 2.

Charlie Hargreave's wild throw in the ninth in attempting a double-play allowed Stephenson to score and gave the Chicago Cubs a 9 to 8 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates found Nehf, Bush and Blake for thirteen hits and Fussell, Blankenship and Hill allowed ten. Adam Comorosky, Pirate outfielder, hit a home run and two singles, driving in six runs.

State Labor "Leaders" Try to Dodge Issue

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 4. —Widespread unemployment in the state is one of the problems which progressive will try to force to the fore at meeting of the Connecticut State Federation of Labor which opened here yesterday.

Among the important problems facing the convention are the organization of 98 per cent of the workers of the state, the prevalence of child labor, the fight against company unionism, the serious unemployment situation.

In addition to these problems, militants will try to bring the Mooney-Billings case and the recognition of the Soviet Union before the attention of the convention.

POSTPONE MILL STRIKE PARADE IN NEW BEDFORD

March Next Saturday; Rain Causes Delay

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 4. —A driving rain that continued thruout the day caused the calling off of the textile strikers' parade scheduled for yesterday by the Textile Workers' Union of the Textile Mill Committees, and its postponement till next Saturday afternoon. The reactionary Textile Council leadership, which also planned a parade yesterday, when asked whether they too will issue another call for a parade, said they "will take it under advisement."

Enthusiasm High.

The continuous rain did nothing, however, to dampen the tremendous enthusiasm shown at the mass meetings held later. Leaders of the strike here and in Fall River, Albert Weisbord, and other leaders of the National Textile Mill Committees addressed the assembled workers.

The strike, now in its 21st week, presents to the owners of the 56 fine cotton goods manufacturing mills, a front as solid and formidable as did the original walkout of the 30,000 workers.

Rumors persist, despite denials, that Batty and Co. are conducting secret negotiations with representatives of the mill owners looking toward a fake settlement of the strike.

☭ ☒ WORKERS (COMMUNIST) PARTY

For the Party of the Class Struggle!
For the Workers! Against the Capitalists!

The "Unionism" of Al Smith.

Every time the spokesmen of the big capitalist political parties open their heads on what they call the "labor question," the growing intimate relations between the heads of the great open-shop industrial kings and the heads of the American Federation of Labor become clearer.

It seems that all capitalist leaders are "for labor" in this election campaign, and certainly the reactionary trade union bureaucrats are for capital.

Here are a few words from the Labor Day address of Al Smith's running mate, Senator Robinson:

> "The employers of laborers in large numbers have long applied business methods in their enterprises ANALOGOUS TO COLLECTIVE BARGAINING. While the present system is not perfect in its operation, it is nevertheless deemed essential to the carrying on of the nation's business, as well as to the best interests of employes."

We have put into capital letters the words "analogous to collective bargaining." What does this strange expression mean? What is the method "analogous to collective bargaining" which "the employers of laborers in large numbers" have long applied?

Evidently by "the employers of laborers in large numbers" Mr. Robinson can only mean the great industries such as the Steel Trust, the monster automobile manufacturing corporations, machine manufacture in general, corporations such as those of the Rockefellers, with perhaps some large railroads, etc. And he speaks, not of collective bargaining, but of "methods analogous to collective bargaining,"—and not of trade union methods applied by the workers, but of "business methods" which the employers "have long applied."

If Mr. Robinson means anything atall he means to suggest that the democratic party platform has in view company unionism as the utmost that the democratic party wants to promise the workers—a system "analogous to collective bargaining," but "applied" by "employers of laborers." (And of course even these are empty words—for Mr. Raskob and Mr. du Pont will decide for themselves whether they can best suppress "their" workers with or without company unionism.)

Some careful thinking ought to be done by any workers who may be under the spell of the Tammany "friend of labor." Robinson, the crude politician of the West, said what Smith, the slicker politician of the East, has had in mind in all he said about "collective bargaining," something "analogous to collective bargaining,"—the Rockefeller Plan of scab company unions, in other words.

Take Robinson's words a little further. He speaks against "abuse of injunctions" in labor disputes. This means absolutely nothing unless it means that he is in favor of injunctions in labor cases, except where they can be adjudged (by a capitalist court) to be an "abuse" of injunctions. And he explains exactly what he means:

> "In other words, the process has been abused in labor disputes by the granting of injunctions in PRETENDED emergencies." (Our emphasis)

He means injunctions in labor disputes must be granted to employers against the workers only when there is a real emergency, and not merely a "pretended" one. The employers must have injunctions, he says in effect, only when they need injunctions in order to beat the workers. He cites the democratic platform to prove it.

Why, then, is this criminal anti-labor platform of the democratic party supported by trade union bureaucrats? Because there is a very real and fundamental agreement between the views of such men as William Green, the trade union bureaucracy generally, and the anti-labor views which Robinson expresses. (And of course there is no real difference between the democratic and republican positions on the subject.)

Is not the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor now doing everything in its power to crush out every spark of resistence in the working class against the employers' offensive? Is not their openly expressed policy of "partnership between labor and capital" only another name for a system "analogous" to company unionism? And have they not already given their creative support to the infamous bar association project for a national anti-strike law which would practically universalize the power of injunction against all workers' organizations?

The closer Al Smith comes to that company unionism "analogous to collective bargaining," the closer the betrayers of labor headed by William Green will come to Al Smith.

Vote Communist!

There is a great necessity for a workers children's camp in N. Y. Why? Because there are dozens of children's camp owned, controlled, and run by outright capitalist institutions, (Boy Scouts); by the settlement houses; by religious groups (Zionist); and then the so-called non-partisan camps; "socialist" (Pioneer youth); and the Workmen circle camps. None of these give the worker's child a working-class understanding and training during their stay at camp. Of course we must recognize a distinction between the various types of camps mentioned above. The outright capitalist camps, scout and settlement houses, are different from the non-partisan camp, but a workers children's camp is in direct contradiction to all of them insofar as it openly utilizes this opportunity to carry on educational work along working-class lines.

The class conscious section of the working class must realize the importance of combatting the capitalist controlled camps. Communist and left-wing workers must give the utmost support to an English speaking working-class, children's camp. And that is what W. I. R. Children's Camp is. The policies of the Workers Children's Camp must be a definitely class line. Whenever petty bourgeois and bourgeois elements manage thru one means or another to get their children out to a workers children's camp—there must not be a question at all but that after proper notification, these children will have to be returned to their parents.

Need Aid.

If any worker is really interested in seeing and feeling a real living, throbbing movement of workers children—let him visit the WIR Childrens Camp.

If any class conscious worker is interested in developing a class movement amongst the children and combatting the influence of the capitalist controlled camps—he must support the WIR Camp.

What can be done immediately?

1) Send books fit for children (between the ages of 9 to 15). There is a library in Camp. But not enough. Send books to WIR Camp, Wingdale, N. Y.

2) Send money to Workers International Relief. There is going to be a deficit—that is to be expected especially in the beginning of a workers children's camp. Let every worker who is concerned with the future of the movement, interested in developing new forces for the working class movement let him and her show it by supporting, morally, and financially the Workers International Relief Camp. Address—1 Union Sq., City.

Even Maurer Means Nothing

By I. AMTER.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—Jim Maurer, vice-presidential candidate of the socialist party, was booked to speak in Cleveland on August 19. The picnic at which he was to speak was arranged by the Jewish "branch" of the socialist party in Cleveland. Socialism is so respectable that the picnic was announced at the meeting of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, one of the most reactionary central labor bodies in the country, which prides itself on knowing how to deal with the militants and progressives. Notices were in the "Cleveland Citizen," edited by that old-time socialist, Max Hayes. What more could one want! Surely a respectable crowd would gather at Lakeland to hear Jim Maurer.

Did not Jim have enough of the [illegible] about him to attract even the [illegible], the Communist? Had he not been in the Soviet Union and made fine speeches over there—and [illegible] here when he returned? [illegible] Maurer had not yet been in Cleveland. Surely a good crowd would gather to hear him—the "future vice-president" of the United States.

But it was all miscalculated. To be sure Jim did not come. Perhaps some of the gang knew that he would not appear, but for the sake of success, the upper guys would not divulge it. How would it look if the picnic grounds were empty—although Jim Maurer, one time president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor and socialist candidate, was announced to speak! Surely in Cleveland there is enough "socialism" to make a successful picnic.

But it didn't work. The "masses" did not know that Maurer was not coming—but the masses didn't care whether he came or not. Two hundred people gathered at Lakeland and sat around disgusted that Maurer did not appear. Probably even the management of the picnic did not know that he would not come to Cleveland, for they provided no other speaker.

Earlier in the season the socialists had a picnic, and Sharts, candidate for governor, spoke. He bored his audience, till at the end of his speech hardly a handful was listening.

Thus the "message" of the socialist party attracts and interests the workers. The socialist party is played out as far as the working class is concerned.

Czar of Pressmen's Union Waxes Wealthy On Continued Betrayals of Workers

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.

THE symbol and outstanding instance of everything corrupt and reactionary in the printing trades is Major George L. Berry, President of the Pressmen's International Union. He is peer of the worst labor fakers ever developed in the entire history of the American labor movement. European labor men, unacquainted with the prevalent reaction in our unions, marvel that such a figure can pretend to be a labor leader and is able to hold on to his official position.

October Strikers.

Berry, a former prize-fighter and ex-army officer, is one of the most blatant Chauvinists in the entire labor movement. He is a high official in the American Legion and a prominent politician in the Democratic Party. Berry's methods are without parallel. He has become a wealthy capitalist by the misuse of his official position. We shall reserve for later a description of his czaristic tactics in controlling his union and his scandalous system of plundering his rank and file. Here let us cite only a few of his strikebreaking exploits.

Under Berry's leadership the Pressmen's Union carries on a policy of crassest craft betrayal. When any of the other unions in the industry strike the pressmen are ordered to stay at work. And if the local pressmen, outraged by this union scabbery, nevertheless go out in support of the strikers, Berry immediately enters into active collaboration with the employers and fills their places with scabs. He follows the same strike-breaking policy when any of his local unions strike over their own grievances, regardless of their justificiation, unless they get his specific permission. Berry has broken many strikes this way. One of his most infamous exploits was breaking the 1919 New York "vacationist" strike. Recently he sent professional scabs in to break the pressmen's strike in the Cuneo Co.'s plant in Chicago. Such scabherding comes easy to Berry as he himself was originally a strikebreaker in St. Louis, where he was given a card in the union to induce him to quit scabbing.

Broke Pressmen's Strike.

The strike of the New York web pressmen illustrate the methods of Berry. In 1921, under influence of the great post-war drive against labor, Judge Manton, arbitrator in the New York pressmen's dispute with the employers, made an award conceding all the employers' demands including wage reductions and drastic worsening in working conditions. Although enraged, the web pressmen fulfilled the award's terms until the agreement expired in 1923. At this time Berry, arbitrarily taking charge of the situation, dallied and delayed for weeks, maneuvering with the employers to force the workers to accept unfavorable terms.

Finally the pressmen struck, tying up all the big New York papers. Berry outlawed the strike and ordered the men back to work. He also issued a call to all his locals in the U. S. and Canada to furnish scabs at $20.00 per day and he opened an office to recruit strike-breakers. The Burns Detective Agency worked with him recruiting scabs. The strike lasted 11 days. The men were driven back to work under conditions but little better than those of the Manton award, in the name of the sacredness of contracts. The employers praised Berry extravagently, and so did the labor reactionaries.

Congratulated by Gompers.

Gompers wired congratulations to Berry, and when the latter appeared at the Portland convention shortly afterward he was given a wild ovation, and the delegates rising tumultously to do him honor. Mr. Gompers said:

"We will suspend business to hear from one who has engaged in a tremendous contest in the interest of the honor and integrity of the American labor movement."

The Pressmen's Home.

THE notorious Pressmen's Home in Watkins County, Penn., about 12 miles from Rogersville and about 100 miles from Knoxville, cost the union originally about $11,000 and Berry, the President of the Union, has since squandered about $2,000,000 of union funds upon it. Berry owns several thousand acres of farming and stock-raising lands, much of which lies adjacent to the Home. Its value has been greatly enhanced by the proximity of the latter institution. Berry owns the "Rogersville Review," the Clinchfield Mercantile Co., the Clinchfield Land and Lumber Co., and the Clinchfield Hydro-Electric Power Co. He sells farm products and various other commodities to the Home at fancy prices. The Home, supposedly for the benefit of disabled pressmen, is situated conveniently for his own ends and Berry loses no opportunity to profit by it. Hutcheson of the Carpenters Union, no doubt inspired by Berry's success, is beginning the development of a big Home for carpenters at Lakeland, Florida. Already it smells badly of graft.

Swiped $165,000.

In connection with the Pressmen's Home, Berry proceeded to develop his own concern, the Clinchfield Hydro-Electric Power Co., with union funds. For this purpose he misappropriated $165,000 upon the false pretense that the company was owned by the union. Disbelieving this, Chicago Pressmen's Union, 3, a local in Berry's International, took the matter to court. The court ruled that the company in question belonged to Berry and his friends personally and it ordered them to pay back to the union the $165,000 which they had misappropriated. Things looked black for Berry. But the employers, of whom Berry is a valuable servant, came to his aid. With their assistance he was able to terrorize the Chicago local into dropping the case, by the threat that if they did not do so their pending demands upon their bosses for better conditions would be categorically rejected. Hence Berry, althrough convicted in court, was never compelled to pay back the $165,000.

How Wealthy.

The ultra-patriotic Major Berry is now a rich man. He is reputed to be worth half a million dollars. When he was elected President of the International at the Brighton Beach Convention in 1907 they had to take up a collection to pay his expences from San Franicsco. Now, in addition to his large properties in Tennessee, he sports, when in New York, a suite in the Waldorf-Astoria. A few years ago he narrowly missed securing the Democratic nomination (tantamount to election) for Governor of Tennessee. When he put up a fight for Democratic nomination for vice-president of the United States in 1924 he had the support of wide sections of the capitalist press, Republican as well as Democratic. At that time he had in New York practically all the national organizers of the union, at the union's expence, wearing "Berry for Vice-President" buttons and working for his nomination.

American Capitalists Live in Luxury

By GEORGE PADMORE.

Coolidge "Prosperity" Applies Only to the Exploiting Class; How Other Half Lives

There has never been a president of the United States who has been so fond of boasting about the prosperity which the capitalists enjoy as Mr. Coolidge. This gentleman, who owes his position as chief executive of the most powerful and richest nation in the world to the servile way in which he serves the interests of the American bourgeoisie, can well prate about the great wealth which the owning class of America controls.

There is no doubt about it. America is the banker of the world, due largely to the last war when the workers fought and the exploiters remained at home and fattened on war-time production. A partial examination of this idle chatter of the president reveals the fact that when Coolidge talks about prosperity he means the prosperity of the bankers, industrial capitalists and corrupt politicians. True, there is prosperity in America for the Mellons, Rockefellers, Fords, Schwabs, Hoovers, Al Smiths, Raskobs, du Ponts, etc., etc. But there is not even the full dinner pail for the workers, poor farmers and the oppressed Negro race. Whatever little these groups once enjoyed is today a thing of the past.

In this age of trust, monopoly, syndicates and cartels, the middle class of America is fast disappearing into the ranks of the proletariat, which grows bigger and bigger under the oppressive weight of big business. Marx was truly right when he said: "In proportion as the bourgeoisie is developed, in the same proportion is developed the proletariat, the class of modern workers who live only so long as they find work, and who only find work as long as their work increases capital."

How Capitalists Live.

In order to illustrate how utterly false and bankrupt this swan song of Coolidge prosperity, as far as the workers are concerned, we publish a partial list of the report of the Park Avenue Association which should be compared by American workers who are today confronted with one of the most acute economic depressions in the history of the nation.

"The most characteristic example of American luxury may be found in the record of expenditures on Park Avenue, New York City, as estimated and officially stated by H. Gordon Duval, late president of the Park Avenue Association, published in the New York Times and World, Jan. 28 of last year.

"The 4,000 families who live on this avenue between 34th St. and 96th St. spend a total of $280,000,000 or $70,000 per family during the year. They spend for women's clothing $50,000,000 a year, or $192,000 a day; for liquor, according to the reporter, $15,000,000. They spend $26,922 a day for yachts, $11,538 a day for flowers. A father spends $25,000 for a single debutante daughter. The women and girls in this section on average each spend yearly $6,250 for clothing, $2,000 for furs, $500 each in beauty shops, $900 for hats. The paltry five millions that these four thousand families give to "charity" is only one-tenth of what the women spend on clothing alone. And a large proportion of these people are professing Christians."

Women's wear	$50,000,000
Rent	18,000,000
Furs	16,000,000
Traveling	15,000,000
Art Galleries	15,000,000
Restaurants	10,000,000
Automobiles	10,000,000
Millinery	7,000,000
Yachts	7,000,000
Amusements	5,000,000
Beauty Shops	4,000,000
Total for 4,000 families	$280,000,000

"The Other Half."

On the other hand, there are over five millions of able bodied men and women walking the streets of "prosperous" America—the paradise of the capitalist class—the hell-hole of the workers, who are willing to work, but are unable to get employment. Thousands of working class families merely live above the starvation margin. Women and children are driven into industry. Homes are broken up; family life disintegrated.

It is estimated that there are over 25,000 fatal accidents in industry yearly, not including more than 2,000,000 daily disability. Of the 28 million children between the ages of 5 and 18 in America today only 16 millions are regularly at school, while 12,000,000 are compelled to go to work to help the family income. There are more than 8 million persons over 10 years of age who can neither read nor write and it is estimated among conservative educators that only one child out of every 60 gets a chance to attend high school or college, and this opportunity, when it presents itself is either for the sons of the rich or petty-bourgeoisie.

In the face of these facts it is no wonder that the class struggle is growing sharper and sharper daily. Hundreds of thousands of coal miners have recently been betrayed by the fake leadership of men like John L. Lewis, Bill Green and Matthew Woll. Over 30,000 textile workers are putting up a heroic struggle against their bosses and in the face of police terrorism, to avoid a ten per cent cut in their starvation wages; bread lines begin to increase as the winter season approaches; and starvation and grim poverty stalks the land from coast to coast. This is the lot of the American workers, the producers of wealth and plenty for the capitalist parasites.

Truly, what America needs is a revolution.

Told You So

IT is not safe to take too much money out of the sewerpipes of New York in a year sanctified by the candidacy of a Tammany sachem for the presidency. Tammany braves die; they never squeal. If they don't die willingly, they die anyhow. Philips, the big Queens County boss, charged with having taken millions of dollars out of the sewer business was bumped off in Atlantic City some months ago. Since then his son has been shooting his father's loot over the green baize tables of Long Island gambling joints. Last Sunday, William L. D'Olier, another big sewer man, was found dead on a lonely road with a bullet through his head.

T. J. O'Flaherty

IF there is any choice between democratic political grafters and their republican competitors it is in the way they pass out rather than in the way they take their loot. The republican go-getters seem to have more confidence in justice. They await the rap as a rule, and the rap seldom comes. The only exception in recent years is Jess Smith, Harry Daugherty's pal. But then there is a suspicion that Jess was assisted to Valhalla.

IT IS reported that workmen have abandoned search for Tammany relics on the site of the old wigwam on 14th Street. If they were looking for the vault in which Boss Tweed kept his loot, they must be an optimistic and naive gang. It would not be like Dick Croker and Charlie Murphy to spend decades in the Tiger's lair without making a thoro investigation of the premises.

HERE are a few epigrams from the lips of a Presbyterian divine on Labor Day: "Luxury can only justifiably come into existence when honest penury has vanished and when each person has his daily bread." "Wealth does not release the possessor from the obligation to work." "Lack of wealth does not justify the poor in voluntary idleness." This particular divine is not a bad egg, as clergymen go, but he is full of steak. The poor are lacking in wealth because the rich rob them of the fruits of their labor and should the idle poor insist on the right to a job without the consent of the idle rich they would land in a police cell for their pains.

THE divine would do worse than consult young Alfred Doss, a young German who jumped ship to seek his fortune in this country. After working at odd jobs for a while Doss ran into hard luck and a few nights ago a policeman found him sleeping in a doorway and on being informed that the lad had no money, the cop arrested him for vagrancy.

BERT MARTIN, the national secretary of the Farmer-Labor Party threw up his job and declared for Hoover. Had he not done this, Martin would be unknown outside of his wife and family and the installment furniture dealer. The existence of a national Farmer-Labor Party has been something of a mystery for the past four years. Martin hopes that in four years time the "progressive forces" will be able to get together and build anew. Hope deferred maketh the heart sick. In the meantime intelligent workers will work and vote for the Communist ticket, strengthen the Workers (Communist) Party and join it for a real fight against capitalism and to organize the masses for the struggle which will end when the workers and poor farmers of this country overthrow the robber system and set up a Workers' and Farmers' Government.

J. C. PENNY, the department store magnate, is for Hoover. Penny is a democrat. Now, what we would like to know is: who is Robert Dollar going to support? This does not look like an election campaign, but a tit for tat game.

"Miners' Convention Sept. 9 To Be Biggest Historical Turning Point," Says Gitlow

SPEAKS AT BIG ELECTION RALLY IN ANTHRACITE

Charges Lewis Machine Wrecked Old Union

Scores Labor Fakers

Tells Diggers New Union Only Hope

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 5.—"The National Miners' Convention to be held at Pittsburgh on the 9th of this month will be the biggest historical turning point in the history of the mining industry," declared Ben Gitlow, Communist candidate for vice-president of the United States, in his speech here Saturday as a part of the national political campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The keynote of Gitlow's speech was the struggle of the miners. Reporting on the smashing of the union and the wage-cuts taking place in the bituminous fields, the Communist vice-presidential candidate called upon the hard-coal miners to organize themselves under the banner of the new union to resist the coming attack of the coal operators.

Fakers Accept Wage-Cuts.

"In Ohio the officials accepted a $2.50 wage-cut a day, in Illinois wages were cut to $6 a day. It is definite that when negotiations will be started in the anthracite tri-district, the operators will demand the reduction of wages, further speed-up and the elimination of union control. The United Mine Workers bureaucracy will betray the miners here too, and the rank and file must turn for leadership to the new union which will be organized in Pittsburgh at the Sept. 9 convention. The Workers (Communist) Party gives full support to the rank and file in building this new union."

Blames Lewis."

"John L. Lewis and his policies," declared Gitlow, "are responsible for the collapse of the coal strike which leaves the coal diggers at the mercy

OBSERVE YOUTH DAY NEXT WEEK

Young Worker League to Hold Many Meets

While the capitalist countries of the world are gathering their forces for a new imperialist war, the working-class youth of this country is preparing to demonstrate against imperialist war in celebration of International Youth Day, which will be observed this year during the week of September 16. Numerous open-air meetings and demonstrations, as well as indoor meetings, will be held throughout the country during this week under the auspices of the Young Workers (Communist) League.

International Youth Day has been celebrated annually by the working-class youth of the world since September 3, 1915, when the historic conference of youth to fight the imperialist war was held at Berne,

Police Terror; But New Bedford Textile Pickets Fight On

In spite of the terrorist methods with which the New Bedford police have attacked the picket lines of the textile strikers, the lines are larger and firmer today than at any time in the history of the strike. Above, three policemen seizing one woman picket during a recent raid of the authorities.

SIX MORE HURT IN NEW I. R. T. WRECK

Traction Barons Refuse to Repair Equipment

Two accidents on the transit lines of New York City yesterday added to the toll of workers' lives injured and endangered in recent catastrophes here. The first occurred on the Williamsburg Bridge and the second on the Third Avenue elevated line of the Interborough Rapid Transit.

Six persons were hurt in both crashes. John Lamb, a worker, was nearly thrown off the Williamsburg Bridge in a rear-end collision of one-man surface cars. Two of the six injured were children. Lamb, who is employed on the Williamsburg Bridge as cable repairman, managed to clutch a cable just as he was hurled over the side of the bridge.

Another subway disaster was narrowly averted when trainmen discovered a warped rail on the tracks near the Canal Street Station of the B.-M. T. They immediately held up the train and hurried repairs on the rail, tying up traffic for more than twenty minutes. Had the warped rail not been discovered, workers afterward said, the rail would have cracked under the strain of the crowded train, causing a disaster as bad as the recent Times Square I. R. T. wreck.

The I. R. T. officials have come to the point where they no longer bother about repairing out-of-date equipment and machinery in their subway and elevated lines, using the archaic equipment as a maneuver for the campaign to get an increase in fare.

Knapp 'Nearly' Goes to Prison; "Life Ruined"

ALBANY, Sept. 5.—In a gray, tiny cell in the county jail here the wife of a jobless Albany worker is serving a nine-months' term, following her conviction on a charge of stealing some clothes to keep herself warm last winter.

In a large, airy, sunny and comfortable room with wide windows overlooking great lawns—in the home of County Sheriff Henchey—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former republican secretary of state sobs ostenstatiously because she will have to spend 30 days in these comparatively congenial surroundings.

CALL DELEGATES TO RELIEF MEET

Weisbord Will Speak at Conference

Albert Weisbord, leading figure in the spectacular Passaic textile strike and now national secretary of the Textile Mill Committees, will be the principal speaker at the Workers International Conference, Saturday, Sept. 15, at 1 p.m. in Irving Plaza, 15th Street and Irving Pl. The conference will also be addressed by Fred Beidenkapp, national secretary of the Workers International Relief and by many militant workers who are now struggling on the New Bedford and Fall River strike fronts, Harry Silverman, who issued the call for the conference, said yesterday.

The call reads in part:

"Organized labor must respond to the New Bedford and Fall River strike with 100 per cent support. The stirke has been on for five months. The need is great. Immediate and continuous relief must be sent into New Bedford and Fall River. The Workers International Relief has responded to the strike from the very beginning of the struggle.

"We count on organized labor and its sympathizers in New York to show its solidarity with the New Bedford striking workers. Help us win the strike."

The appeal called upon unions to discard red tape and to elect or appoint delegates to the conference either by executive boards or by executive members and to forward names of such delegates to the offices of the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square.

BRITISH UNION "LEADERS" OUST ALL COMMUNISTS

Could Not Answer Red Attacks; Exclusion Is Result

Thomas Kills Union

Officialdom Drives 2 Million From Union

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Unable to answer the charges of leaders of the British minority movement and of the Communist unionists, the officials of the Trade Union Congress, meeting at Swonsen, Wales, yesterday demanded and forced thru a resolution excluding the progressive leaders from participation in the further proceedings of the congress.

The move had a two-fold aspect designed, on one hand, at silencing criticism of the officialdom and, on the other, to direct public attention away from the congress officials and towards the Communists and minority members as responsible for the tremendous decrease in union membership during the last year.

Figures disclosing the falling off in members continue to point to the appalling decline of rank and file confidence in the officialdom as the leaders while totals continue to reveal wider losses and the progressive consciousness of the British workingman that the present congress heads are bent on leading him to the destruction of the trade union movement.

Loss of 2,000,000 members was again cited today, this time by J. H. Thomas, former cabinet minister, and now secretary of the National Union of Railway Men. Minority leaders taunted the officials from the floor on the increasing lack of confidence betrayed in their leadership by the decrease totals.

The most significant action of the congress, after the exclusion of the progressives and Communists, was the stifling of a plan for the formation of a Government Workers' Union, comprising workers from the Woolwich arsenal, which John H. Thomas quashed before it could gain momentum.

SEWER GRAFTER 'KNOWS NOTHING'

Connolly Called for Questioning

Former borough president of Queens, Maurice E. Connolly, who resigned under fire during the investigation into the notorious $29,500,000 sewer graft scandal, was yesterday called to the district attorney's office in connection with the death of William L. D'Olier, wealthy sewer sub-contractor. The body of D'Olier was found near a cemetery in Maspeth, L. I., Sunday morning, a bullet having been put thru his temple.

Takes No Chances.

As was expected, Connolly gave little information of a tangible sort which would trace the murderers of D'Olier. He did, however, succeed in involving himself in several contradictions and inconsistencies some of which might prove embarrassing to him should the authorities do a surprising thing and penetrate into the actual basis for D'Olier's death.

Connolly swore on his dubious honor, when closeted with the district attorney, that he met the dead contractor only once, when the latter was introduced by Robert E. Moore of the electrical contracting firm of Fishback & Moore. At that time, he said, D'Olier was trying to interest Moore in a $15,000,000 road-building venture in Kentucky.

This statement by Connolly was flatly contradicted by Walter G. Lowe, a taxi driver, who positively identified pictures of the dead man as a man he had seen in conversation with Connolly in front of Connolly's office in Long Island City, the afternoon of August 16. Lowe said that

POLICE BEAT UP MINER

Victim Is Slugged, Fined and Jailed

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 5.—Hundreds of miners are appealing to the International Labor Defense for aid against the onslaught of the operator's courts. Rudolph DiPiazy brought a black-jack which he declared a coal and iron policeman broke in two over his head, to the court with him. His case against the coal and iron policeman was dismissed nevertheless. Court costs, amounting to $63 were demanded, but when the miner, who had not drawn wages in more than 16 months, could not pay the costs, he was sent to jail in lieu of payment.

The coal and iron policeman ran away immediately after he and three of his fellows had beaten up DiPiazy in the heart of the town of Bentleyville before many witnesses. However, when DiPiazy filed a complaint against the policeman, he re-

COMMUNIST PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE TO SPEAK AT MEETS IN DETROIT, FLINT

Ford, General Motor Slaves to Get Election Message of Party

Tour Will Include Chief Industrial Centers of Country

Invading one of the leading exploitation centers of the United States, William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for president, will start the first leg of a tour that will take him into every industrial section of the country when he speaks at two meetings to be held in Detroit and Flint, Mich., Sunday.

Foster will speak in Flint in the afternoon and in Detroit in the evening at the Danceland Auditorium.

The cities of Detroit and Flint are dominated by the Ford Motor Company and General Motors, respectively. Both giant corporations are business rivals, but they are in thorough accord on the question of the open shop and the speed-up system.

Ford Backs Hoover.

Ford is a staunch supporter of Hoover for president, and General Motors is divided in its support of the two Wall Street parties, Alfred E. Sloan, president of General Motors, being for Hoover, while John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of the corporation, is putting his money and his organizing ability behind the candidacy of Al Smith.

Ford has consistently fought every effort to organize the slaves of "The Belt," as his system of producing automobiles is known. The bureaucrats of the American Federation of Labor, after making several threats to organize the Ford plants, did not move a muscle. But the Detroit district of the Workers (Communist) Party, through shop bulletins and open-air meetings, has brought the message of trade unionism to Ford's slaves despite the opposition of the Ford-controlled police and city government officials.

Flint Strike.

The workers in the Flint plant of the General Motors Corporation recently went on strike against a wage cut at the very moment that John J. Raskob was lining up a committee of A. F. of L. misleaders to support Al Smith, under the direction of the notorious strike-breaker, George Berry, president of the pressmen's union.

Thousands of workers in the Ford and General Motors factories are awaiting with keen interest what Foster has to say on the situation in the automobile industry. Foster is known to millions of workers in the United States as the outstanding figure in the struggle against the bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor. He organized the packing house workers of Chicago and the slaves of the Steel Trust, bringing 400,000 of the steel

ADAM MOLESKI FIGHTS FRAME-UP IN COURTS

Sam Bonita, Mendola, Innocent, But Jailed in Same Case

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Sept. 5.—Under the shadow of the murderers of Frank Bonita, the same Luzerne county courthouse that witnessed the frame-up proceedings against the latter's brother Sam will see the further frame-up of Adam Moleski on similar charges, Sept. 13. Moleski is one of a trio of miners, including Sam Bonita and Steve Mendola, framed-up in a conspiracy which resulted in the death of Frank Agati, Lewis lieutenant, when he attacked the three progressives after a local meeting last spring.

Mendola and Bonita have already been railroaded to jail and are serving terms varying from six to ten years of hard labor.

Moleski will take an appeal to fight his conviction in a higher court.

The trial of Moleski and the jailing of Bonita and Mendola is the outcome of the fight against the Lewis-Cappelini machine and the contractor system in the anthracite.

With the opening of the National Convention for the building of a new union four days off, the coal miners from all over the United States are watching with the most intense interest the outcome of the struggle for his freedom which the innocent miner is waging in the Luzerne County courthouse.

Miners Throughout West Virginia Fields Respond to Call for New Militant Union

BITTNER, PAL OF LEWIS, FAILS TO DUPE DIGGERS

Freeman Thompson Leads Militants

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 5.—Now that locals have been organized throughout West Virginia under Freeman Thompson's direction, "hundred per cent" Van Bittner is ballyhooing through the state with an equippage of armed thugs, state police and company "yellow dogs," attempting to smash the miners' locals affiliated with the new union, and revive the extinct U. M. W. A. district.

The trouble with Bittner's "mass meetings," is that they are totally lacking in masses. When the gang arrived in Rivesville, Bittner sent his thugs out to round up the miners for a meeting. But the coal diggers of West Virginia have been betrayed too often to be duped by Lewis' henchmen, and refused to come. A handful of men did, however, gather several hundred feet away from the hall, to watch the show. While state police and "yellow dogs" looked on, Bittner's lieutenants tried to herd the men into the hall. The first man who refused the invitation was viciously punched in the face. The police did not interfere.

Loud Speakers Used.

In Monogah, Bittner used other methods. There always were a few curious enough to watch the spectacle from a distance, or others unfortunate enough to live in the neighborhood of the "mass" meetings. To reach them, Bittner bellowed into loud speakers. Even at that his gang was not successful in getting more than a small handful close enough to take a picture for the U. M. W. Journal, which reports great triumph.

Since Bittner is so openly protected by the same police who have always sided with the operators and fought the miners, it is commonly believed here, that Bittner's scheme is to trick the men into a company union and break the rapidly growing new Miners' Union which is recognized as a menace to the operators.

A strong delegation is coming to the National Miners' Convention in Pittsburgh, September 9th, to help build the new union. Wages are as low as $3.50 a day. In many places, the companies pay wages in company-coined counterfeit "scrip" money, which is exchangeable only in company-owned stores, at from [illegible] to 35 per cent loss.

SECTION 7 IN ELECTION DRIVE

To Gather Signatures Beginning Sunday

The Election Campaign Committee of Section 7 of the Workers (Communist) Party, located in Boro Park and taking in Bath Beach, Coney Island and the Brighton section, is preparing for an intensive signature drive starting Sunday, Sept. 9, and lasting for one week. There is a growing determination in the section to put the ninth assembly district on the Communist election map by September 16.

A special call has been sent to the Jewish Workers' Culture Clubs of Boro Park, Coney Island, Brighton and Bath Beach to participate in the signature drive. The Boro Park Jewish Workers' Culture Club, confident of its ability to outstrip the other clubs in the signature race, has issued a challenge to these clubs.

The signature work in the Boro [illegible] interesting experiences met with by the Red campaigners. A one-page leaflet issued by the Section 7 Campaign Committee, called "The Lighter Side of Signature Gathering" contains droll and serio-comic anecdotes related by the Communist campaigners.

Section 7 was the first section to swing into line on the signature drive, and hopes to be the first to complete its job. D. Weitz, section campaign manager, has sent communications to every unit of the section urging participation in the intensified drive of next week, and looks forward to considerably increased signatures as a result of the drive.

The workers' clubs who will also take part in the drive have resolved to obtain more signatures than the members of the section themselves.

Meet Their Waterloo.

The last attempt on the part of the fascist Post to attack the Communist open-air meeting in Jamaica was frustrated by the attendance of over 1,000 workers from Astoria, Long Island City and other industrial centers.

The first radio talk delivered under the auspices of the Tammany gang was made by Harold Lord Varney, a renegade I. W. W. and stool-pigeon, who proudly described himself as "a personal labor aid" to the late lamented oil-smeared Warren G. Harding. Referring to the militants in the American unions, Varney said: "It is time for our patriotic and veterans' organizations to take the offensive against this disloyal force at work in the heart of the nation."

BUTCHER UNION CHIEFS OUST 6

Militants on Committee to Delve Finances

The right wing officialdom of the Jewish Butchers' Union pried themselves out of a highly uncomfortable position just before the rank and file committee elected by the membership had an opportunity to probe the finances of the union. The officials came to the union membership meeting and railroaded through the expulsion of six left wingers, several of whom were at the same time members of the rank and file committee which was to investigate the treasurer's accounts.

The six left wingers, Sam Sivak, Eli Werner, M. Malamud, M. Teitlebaum, Sam Marcus and S. Portnoy, were the leaders of a struggle against the union leadership, which has been active in the support of the campaign of the United Hebrew Trades to destroy any Jewish union showing signs of militant policy against the employers. When these left wingers were also elected to delve into the accounts of the organization, the socialist chiefs decided they must get rid of them and thereby the danger of a public report of the union's income and expenses.

The investigation committee was elected at the meeting before the expulsions took place, the expulsion meeting having been held Monday night in the Forward building. The election was brought about when the officialdom came to the members with the demand that they pay increased dues hereafter.

GUNS TO PROTECT FASCIST MEETING

Seipel's Challenge to Be Met by Workers

(Special to the Daily Worker)

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 5.—Chancellor Seipel, fascist dictator of Austria, today announced his intention of protecting the provocative demonstrations of the fascists scheduled to be held Oct. 7 in the industrial town of Wienerneustadt, against the counter-demonstrations of Austrian workers.

Seipel's statement declared that he would protect the fascist demonstrations "with all the means within the power of the state."

In spite of the demonstration of the fascists, which the workers know will be "protected" by the presence of thousands of armed soldiers, the workers are rallying strongly and will attend their own demonstration in large numbers as an answer to the Chancellor's reactionary decree.

STAGE WORKERS MAY STRIKE SOON

Demand Increase of $10 Per Week in Wages

Over two thousand stage hands in New York City theatres may go on strike this Saturday, tieing up the productions on Broadway just as the new theatre season is beginning to get under way. This was revealed yesterday, when Local No. 1 of the Theatrical Protective Union, composed completely of workers employed in the heavy work behind the scenes, refused to accept the agreement of the theatre owners under which they have been working for the last few years.

The agreement between the International Theatrical Association and the union of stage hands expired last Sunday. At the expiration of the agreement, a new one was submitted to the union by the theatre bosses. But all indications point toward the refusal of the union to accept the new proposed agreement of the theatre bosses.

The stage hands, who received $48 a week under the old agreement, now demand an increase for each worker of $10 a week.

A meeting of representatives of the bosses and workers was held yesterday with no results. Another is scheduled to be held at 1 [illegible].

One of the leaders of [illegible] when asked yesterday whether a strike would be declared if the demands of the union are not granted, replied:

"Oh, we won't be able to hold the boys back after Saturday."

SIGMAN AGENTS IN WILD DASH

As Forward Says, 'They Get Warm Reception'

After enduring for two years the terrorization of reactionary union-wrecking officialdom of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the workers in the cloak and dress manufacturing trades are demonstrating their determination to drive the agents of the employers out of whatever control they still possess. Again the workers in a right wing shop defied the Sigman dues collectors and drove them out of the shop.

The "Collectors" Arrive.

A business agent from the company union, reinforced by the usual "dues collecting" underworld committee, came to the shop of Skwirlsky and Son, West 22nd St., to extract tribute from the workers. After the business agent and his committee refused to obey the order of the workers that they leave, the workers rose from their machines and drove them out. The Sigman agent then went to the 30th Street Police Station and came back with a detective to arrest those he claimed had "beaten him up." No arrests were made, however.

This shop had been under right wing control for many months, the employer himself paying for the company-union membership books, because the workers had refused to do so. The employer, seeing the public disintegration of the right wing union, had notified the scab union that he would no longer pay his workers' dues. This led to the visit of the "dues" committee.

"Warm Reception."

While events like this are registered in the cloak market every day, workers see much irony in stories appearing in the right wing Jewish Daily Forward announcing: "Cloak and Dressmakers Give a Warm Reception to the Union's Campaign for Dues." The cloakmakers comment sardonically that the Sigman organ is understating its case, and vouch that the Sigman campaign is being received with even greater heat.

liam W. Weinstone, District Organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party, will officiate as chairman.

The rally will be held immediately after the completion of the upstate tour of Robert Minor and Lovett Fort-Whiteman, whose last meeting will be held at Binghamton on Sept. 25.

Workers clubs and fraternal and benefit associations throughout the city are cancelling whatever other activities were scheduled for the night of the meeting and are expected to attend the Red Campaign Rally in a body. Increasing unemployment, drastic wage-cuts, lay-offs, and the growing reactionary policies of the socialist party misleaders aimed at all progressive workers which have characterized the past four years and especially the past year, have taught the workers of New York that their industrial and economic demands cannot be separated from their political affiliations, and as a result the huge rally of the Workers (Communist) Party on the 28th of this month will assume an unprecedented mass character.

FLAY SOCIALISTS ON YOUTH WORK

World Youth Congress Raps Reformists

MOSCOW, Sept. 5.—Reports by Chitarov and Gorkitch yesterday opened the Fourth Plenary session of the Young Communist International. Young acted as chairman for the day. The following participated in the discussion and business of the session:

Blenkle of Germany; Rust of Great Britain; Botte of Italy; Mehring of the Executive Committee of the Young Communist International; Fuernberg of the Executive Committee of the Young Communist International; Grossen of Roumania; Pionier of China.

Blenkle pointed out that the role of young workers in industry was increasing steadily and that young workers are continually replacing adults. "The chief enemy of work among the youth," Blenkle said, "was the Socialist Youth International, which still had some influence in workers' mass organizations. The participation of young workers in the recent German elections, with their own program, proved the great possibilities that exist for youth work.

Rust declared that the British delegation was in agreement with the policies of the Executive Committee of the Communist Youth International. The British Young Communists, he declared, had made progress and extended its influence. The left wing of the British social-democracy is joining in the Young Communist movement.

The delegates to the congress honored the memories of the victims of the International Youth Day in Berlin, Warsaw and Shanghai.

LaFollette Candidate Beaten in Primary

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 5.—Although Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, so-called "insurgent" leader, won the senatorial nomination by an overwhelming vote in Tuesday's primary, conservative republicans gained a victory when Walter S. Kohler was chosen nominee for governor.

Practically complete returns tonight gave Kohler a lead of approximately 21,000 over Joseph D. Beck, "insurgent" candidate, who had the backing of LaFollette. Gov. Fred Zimmerman, who had a small progressive following and was endorsed by the anti-saloon league, ran a poor third.

POLICE AS SHOE STRIKEBREAKERS

Fail as New Workers Walk Out

Not even the use of police as strikebreaking agents has helped the owners of the S. Lieberman Shoe factory break the determined strike of the 73 workers normally employed in that shop. This was demonstrated yesterday when the sergeant and patrolman on strike duty near the Hope St. Brooklyn shop, escorted almost a dozen men up past the picket lines and into the plant. This tactic, however, failed to get strikebreakers, for every one of the men taken in walked out of the plant in about 15 minutes.

Hitherto, applicants who came to answer the employers advertisements for shoe makers were met at the street corner by the striking workers and were told that the shop is strikebound. They then immediately went home, a few of them even joining up with the Independent Shoe Workers Union which was only recently formed thru an amalgamation of several craft unions. Seeing that he would never get a man to go near the plant the employer told the police to escort applicants up.

The strike grew out of the employers' discrimination against active unionists, and the dismissal of the general chairman.

Czech Immigrants Starving in Sydney

SYDNEY, Sept. 5.—Several hundred immigrants to Australia from Czechoslovakia are starving and penniless in Sydney.

They say they were misled by immigration agents who told them at Prague there was plenty of work in Australia at $30 per week, and all they would have to do was to walk off the steamer and tumble into jobs.

But they found record unemployment. Since government immigration agents misled them, they want their fares paid back to their homeland.

YOUTH TO HOLD HUGE MEETING IN NEW YORK

Frankfeld, Perilla and Gordon Outline Tasks

The Young Workers (Communist) League of New York held a very successful membership meeting. Over 275 members were present at the Irving Plaza Hall.

The order of business was a report on International Youth Day. Frankfeld, acting district organizer, reported on the history of International Youth Day, the struggle against the social chauvinists in the Second International on the part of the revolutionary youth movement, spoke about the present war danger facing the working class, discussed the role of the fake Kellogg "peace pact" as an instrument in the hands of the imperialists to fool the masses, the struggle against capitalist militarism on the part of the League, and the immediate tasks of the League during this period.

Must Increase Work.

"What is most important for the League is to develop a real Bolshevik understanding and ideology during this period of war preparations. The League must increase its work right within the very institutions of capitalist militarism. At this moment, we can report that we have sent as many comrades into the Citizens Military Training Camps this year as we did last year plus the year before. We must expose the National Guard, we must show the real class character of the army, the navy, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, etc., to the masses of youth, both inside and outside of these organizations." Frankfeld concluded his remarks by reporting on the joint mass meeting arranged by the Party and the League for International Youth Day for Friday, Sept. 14.

Gordon Outlines Tasks.

David Gordon spoke next on the election campaign. He criticized the League members for not responding energetically enough to the election campaign. He showed that while the League had collected 1,000 signatures to date, that it was not sufficient. "The quota for the New York League is 5,000 signatures, and the League must go out and get them," said Gordon. He outlined the immediate tasks of the League in the election campaign.

Perilla spoke next on the Working Youth Conference. He reported that the League had put out 23 leaflets, eight bulletins and two general leaflets. More than 250,000 leaflets had been distributed by the Working Youth Conference Committee, together with the League. "Now the big job is to begin to get trade union endorsements and the election of delegates. The bigger task is to begin to organize shop committees in large and small factories. We must have in mind," said Perilla, "that this conference will be only a beginning. The fakers will never organize the youth; the progressives have shown their inability to do so, and only the Communists and left wingers will do the job." Perilla, in conclusion, called for still greater efforts to put the Working Youth Conference over, the conference date being set for September 29 and 30.

A discussion followed in which many members spoke. Frankfeld read a cable to be sent to the Congress of the Young Communist International now in session in Moscow. The cable was greeted with applause, and a collection of $17 was taken up to send the cable there. It was also announced that a former member of the Young Peoples Socialist League, Joe Freedman, had joined the League. Freedman was one of the leaders in the Brownsville Y. P. S. L.

The New York membership of the League was very well mobilized for the International Youth Day campaign which is now in progress.

Section 2 Campaign Conference to Take Up Important Work

The first enlarged Election Campaign Conference of Section 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party will be held tonight at the section-headquarters, 101 West 27th St., at 8 o'clock, according to Bessie Gussakoff, Campaign Director of the Section.

In a statement issued last night, Gussakoff urged the attendance of all unit and subsection campaign committees of Section 2. The statement reads in part as follows:

"It has long been known that Section 2 is the backbone of every campaign that the party undertakes in the New York district and the election campaign is no exception. This is proven by the work of the section's Red Squad, which is participating in signature drives throughout the city. In the last few weeks of the election campaign it is of especial importance that the campaign committee of our section be more firmly knit and work more closely together. Many important issues have to be discussed and it is vital for the whole election campaign in the city as well as for our section that every member of every unit campaign committee be present at this conference."

The Daily Worker agent, the Agitprop Director and the literature agent of every unit is the unit's campaign committee, according to Gussakoff, and these functionaries should lay all other business aside tonight and be present at the conference.

A special request has been made by Bessie Gussakoff that the unit campaign committee of every unit be excused at 8 o'clock from whatever unit meetings are in progress at that time tonight. A special registration of attendance will be taken.

Arrest Taxi Driver On Framed Charge

Issac Cohen, taxi driver, of 80 Allen Street, was arrested on a trumped-up charge of disorderly conduct and given a summons to the traffic court, because he had stopped on the corner of 29th Street and Fourth Avenue for a prospective passenger.

Cohen was proceeding south on Fourth Avenue and was behind a police truck when he saw a passenger signaling him. Cohen says the truck was traveling at a low rate of speed and that he passed it and when in front of the truck signaled the driver to come ahead. He pulled his cab up near the curb to pick up his passenger, when a cop who was in civilian clothes, jumped from the truck and gave him a summons for traffic court. Cohen turned to his passenger and told him that he did not think he deserved a summons and would battle the case in court. This irritated the Tammany cop, who half drew his "gat" from his holster and ordered the driver to proceed to the police station. There his hack license was "picked up" and he was thrown into jail. In the evening he was taken to night court where he was given a suspended sentence.

Returning to the police station he discovered that his cab had been stripped by the cops and that his license had been sent downtown to the hack license bureau. In the meanwhile, Cohen is out his license, which means out of a job.

Bukharin's Speech in Reply to Discussion on

VI. Tactical and Inner Party

This is the final section of Bukharin's speech in reply to the discussion on the international situation at the Sixth Congress of the Communist International, which began in Saturday's Daily Worker. Those sections already published are: "I. The Positive and Negative Sides of the Discussion," "II. The Stabilization of Capitalism and the Controversy over the 'Third Period,'" "III. The War Question is the Central Question," "IV. The External and Internal Contradictions of the Capitalist System," and "V. Problems Connected with the Work of the Communist Parties."

Comrades, now a few words about inner Party affairs. It is quite clear that now, after the defeat of the Trotskyist opposition, which represented a bloc of the right and ultra-left, the chief danger is undoubtedly the right wing danger. This danger is fairly serious both from the standpoint of current tasks as well as from the standpoint of the future. This danger has been frequently referred to from the standpoint of current affairs, in regard to the German Communist Party in connection with activity in the trade unions; in regard to the Czech Party in connection with the Red Day; in connection with the opposition against our "new tactics" in France, and so forth. The right wing danger is a fact, a dangerous fact not only from the standpoint of the present situation, but also from the standpoint of tomorrow. We must not lose sight of this.

Take the Czech question. The Party tried to mobilize its forces, but proved incapable of accomplishing this. The result was a poor rehearsal on the eve of future events. The diagnosis of the internal ailment has been made; the disease proved to be fairly serious. Now we must calculate quite calmly. I am not a particular believer in alarms about the right danger and left deviations. I believe that during the last year the Communist International has effected a big change,—mind you, a big, not a little change—primarily in regard to the British and French Parties. Comrade Lominadze was quite wrong when for some reason he thought fit to assert that only a slight change has been made towards the left. It seems to me that a big change towards the left has been made particularly in regard to the British Party. Any one who knows the inner life of the British Party will realize that we have broken with all the old traditions of the British labor movement which exercised great influence upon our Party too. (Voice: "The same in France!") Yes, in France as well. But I cannot speak about two countries at the same time. The strongest traditions in the British working class was that of the unity of "organized labor." Such "unity" has been a big trump in the hands of the reformists: by deceptive use of this slogan they were able to combat revolutionary ideas, the revolutionary Party, and so on. This "unity" (of the revolutionary workers with the reformist wolves) proved to be the most formidable obstacle to the emancipation of the proletariat from the influence of the reformists who have openly resorted to the outrageous policy of expulsions and splits. On the one hand they enjoyed the protection of the police, and on the other hand they shielded themselves by cries about unity. This tradition is so deeply rooted among the British proletariat that some of our best comrades could not conceive of a fight being waged simultaneously against the Baldwin government and the Labor Party. The chief danger, they said, was the Baldwin government against which a united front of the whole working class was to be formed; but the whole working class was in the grip of the Labor Party, consequently, the Baldwin government could be overthrown only with the help and support of the Labor Party. Such was the original position. Hence the slogan adopted at the congress of the British Party, of "a Labor government under the control of the executive of the Labor Party." Then our British comrades, not without the influence of the E. C. C. I., made a sharp turn. How is it possible to fail to appreciate the importance of so important a change for the whole life of the Party? We effected this change without a lot of noise, and without bandying epithets against each other, effected it by conviction and frank and open discussion. This will render it all the more durable, notwithstanding the friction that must inevitably arise. This change in tactics constitutes a big event in the history of the British labor movement.

All of us have known all along that in the French Party here were also deeply rooted parliamentary traditions. Only a few months ago the parliamentary traditions were revealed, for instance, on the question of loyalty towards the state (the question of the arrests). Was this a mere accident? Was this merely a surface phenomenon? No, these tendencies were deeply ingrained in the ranks of the Party. And yet, within the short period of two months or so we took a sharp turn and hurled forth the slogan of "class against class," the slogan of Don't vote for the Socialist Party, this implies not a little, but a big change in the tactics of the French Party. Here again the change was effected without superfluous noise, by relying upon the rank and file by comradely reasoning with those who hesitated, and stern combat against those who were stubborn. These tactics have not been carried out without friction, not without internal conflicts, not without internal difficulties; nevertheless, the change effected by the French Communist Party is one of principle. It is a change which relates to principle to a larger extent than any change effected in the French Communist Party since the time of its foundation. I do not mean to say that the French Communist Party, the British Communist Party and the Communist International, have accomplished a great "feat." However, looking at this question objectively, don't you find that a big change has been effected in the tactics of both of these big Parties. I believe that is the case. And does not this change constitute a decisive blow to the right danger? Of course, it does. Does not this tactical change help us to focus the light upon the hidden danger from the right? Of course it does. This very fact accounts for the opposition from the right, this explains the misgivings expressed as to the correctness of these tactics. This accounts for the fight which has been waged against these tactics. The best means of combatting the right tendencies both in the French and in the British Parties is the consistent application of the so-called "new tactics."

As I have already said, the right danger may grow in the future. Why? We must expect the phenomenon referred to by Comrade Lenin in the article which I quoted, namely, that a section of our press may not prove equal to the task. Such a possibility is not at all excluded. Another question is, to what length may the wrong position be carried? It is not merely a question of the press, but also of Party organizations. Where is the guarantee that at a period of immediate danger of war, when we shall have to decide upon still another change in our tactics, that some 'deviations' will not be discovered? A number of changes will be required in our tactics, on organization questions, in our attitude towards legal and illegal work, and upon many other issues. Where is the guarantee that there will be no schism in some parties, no facts and phenomena resembling a crisis? Such things are quite likely to happen. They will come, naturally first of all, from the extreme right circles in the different parties. And for this reason, if we thoroughly analyze the existing situation and the outlook, we must arrive at the conclusion, as regards the question of our inner Party policy, that we must hit at the right wingers all over the front, all along the line.

Inner Party Questions.

Breaches of discipline, in which the right danger is hidden, certainly cannot be tolerated. Against this we must wage the most strenuous fight. Nevertheless, I must say: the task of conducting a vigorous struggle against the right wing danger within the Party by no means removes the tasks of internal Party unity, the task of reasonably conducting given campaigns and of developing a sort of inner Party tactfulness. In Germany we have a right danger. We propose in the theses to wage a vigorous fight against this right danger. In the theses we propose to combat systematically any conciliatory attitude in regard to right dangers. Yet, at the same time we must by every means in our power rally all the comrades who stand on the platform of the Essen Party Congress, of the decisions of the Comintern and who promise to wage a relentless fight against the right danger. (A voice: "This is what we are doing.")

I am instructed by the delegation of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union to declare—in so far as the German Party is concerned—that we are opposed to any atempts to oust Comrade Ewart from the Party leadership. I must say, however, that leading German comrades have no intention of doing that. At this Congress we wish to create the pre-requisite conditions for a situation which will make even the slightest fissure in the leading bodies of the Party impossible. All the comrades must act upon the basis of the strictest discipline, the strictest subordination of the minority to the majority. Without such a pre-requisite condition it will be impossible to carry on a political fight. Further splits, further schisms either in the leadership or within our Parties, would lead to the most fatal consequences. I take it therefore that the essential pre-requisite for our successful activity should be discipline. We have seen how actually the question stands in Poland. Consolidation, unity, and discipline are absolutely essential for the victorious development of revolutionary events. Lately we have had moments of crisis in the Comintern. Such critical moments, experienced by some of the Parties, have a highly detrimental effect upon the masses of the workers. It is possible to get rid of such crises only by pursuing a firm and definite political line. This constitutes the fundamental postulate to the whole of the subsequent development. For instance, among the minority of the German Party there is a striving towards effecting a change in the leadership. I believe such aims to be improper. We must do nothing of the kind, as this would lead to internal strife in the German Party. The E. C. C. I. fully and entirely supports the historically formed nucleus of the Polbureau of the C. C. with Thalmann at the head. I believe that questions like that of inner Party democracy, for example, questions of the new cadres of the Party, of raising the theoretical level of the Parties, of livening up the rank and file groups, of mass activity, etc., should be raised as big Party questions. The Parties should learn to live more of a real political life, and eschew all politics without principles.

Take the Polish Party for example. There are no great political differences in that Party and yet a furious factional strife is raging in it. Or take the American Party. Quite lately, at least so it seemed to all of us, the American Party appeared to be overcoming the internal friction; but now we find that the controversy is flaring up again. The internal Party struggle has "revived" to such an extent that attempts are being made to utilize the present conjuncture for the purpose of continuing the struggle in the acutest form. Are there any really big political differences in the American Party? No, they are petty. Are these differences so important as to warrant the formation of factions? I believe they are not. For instance, take the question concerning the attitude of American imperialism. Some say that American imperialism has grown stronger; others claim that their opponents, i. e. those who say so, are advertising American imperialism. Such an expression should not be used. No good can come of it, and it does not help clear up the question. I must confess that I do not entertain hopes of a revolutionary situation arising in the United States in the near future. I say this quite frankly. In no country in the world is capitalism so strong as it is in the United States of America, where it has reached its zenith. Is it a terrible thing to say that there is little likelihood of an immediate revolutionary situation? It is, if this is used to contradict the argument that there is positively no ground for activity among the American masses. As far as I know, however, no one has made such an assertion. Unemployment is a fact; changes in American industry are also a fact and so is also the growing discontent among the unskilled workers. Is there any ground for the growth of the Communist Party? Yes, there is. Does this furnish any justification for an acute factional struggle? Of course not. All steps must be taken to avoid such a struggle.

It seems to me that the Czechoslovakian Party presents the most difficult problem. Perhaps we are not yet in possession of the necessary data for a correct analysis of the situation and for drawing up the proper measures; nevertheless, the case of Red Day is highly symptomatic. Something is wrong in the Czechoslovakian Party, not only among the leaders, but also among the rank and file, and the Party as a whole; there is something wrong from the standpoint of the political line, of the fundamental orientation of the Party, and of grave social democratic survivals. It is essential therefore after this Congress, or during the Congres for the Executive Committee to ta up the Czech question specially order to frame the necessary m ures not only in regard to the le ing bodies, but also in regard to orientation of the whole Czech P ty. Lately the Czech Party c ted a series of mistakes in tion with the Factory C Bill, for example in the p for Massaryk in the election, and in a whol other questions which passive attitude of th now we are witnesin thing more than m This imposes upon thoroughly analysi and of taking measures.

Obregon Investigation.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 5.—The hidden power of the Catholic Church to alter the testimony of witnesses was revealed as the government's investigation of the Obregon assassination plot, adjourned from Monday, continued today with conflicting statements before the authorities of the part alleged to have been played in the plot by Mother Superior Concepcion.

Elugio Gonzalez and Maria Elena Manzano, who had confessed that they planned to kill Obregon by sticking him with a poisoned pin while dancing, retracted their statement that the nun joined them in the conspiracy.

In spite of damaging testimony, Mother Concepcion again denied any knowledge of the plot, or of the manufacture of bombs to be used gaainst Obregon and President Calles.

Fake "Farmer-Labor" Meet Names Nominee for the Presidency

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 5.—The executive committee of a fake convention calling itself the "Farmer Labor Party" today named Frank Eldridge Webb, of San Francisco, as its presidential nominee. The convention is said to be part of a plan to split the farmer-labor party in this section. The committee in charge of the convention stated that it would attempt to get Senator James A. Reed of Missouri to run as vice-president. If Reed declines, it was said, L. R. Tillman of Georgia, nephew of former Senator Tillman of Georgia, would probably be named.

Ex-Hillman Flunkey Fined for Bootlegging

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 5.—After forsaking the "labor" business for more lucrative fields, Samuel Lavitt, of this city, has run afoul of the police. Lavitt, formerly a business agent for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and ex-flunky of other corrupt union machines, was today fined $200 and costs in city court for keeping and selling liquor at the Lincoln Hotel, of which he is the proprietor.

Three of Lavitt's assistants were fined, and five frequenters of the place, which was raided by police a week ago Sunday, forfeited $50 bonds.

The policeman was released after the costs amounting to $46, $17 less than the costs imposed upon the miner, were paid by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at whose mine the private policeman was stationed. DiPiazy is still in jail. Funds must be raised immediately to free the miner.

Early today a rumor gained ground that Mrs. Knapp would actually be transferred to the regulation prison cell, but it was quickly dissipated when the county sheriff, qualifying suddenly as a medical diagnostician, announced that "it would not be safe to place her in a cell at this time due to her delicate condition."

From a Good Family.

"The cell block is noisy," explained the solicitous sheriff, "and for a woman of her breeding and delicate health I think it would be more than she can stand."

Mrs. Knapp's dainty constitution did not prevent her, however, from consuming a rather substantial supper last night. The sheriff's wife and a well-equipped restaurant in the neighborhood collaborated in the preparation of the meal which consisted of steak, mashed potatoes, corn on the cob from the sheriff's own garden, sliced tomatoes, sliced peaches, fruit cake and coffee.

"Life Is Ruined."

Despite the mildness of the sentence imposed upon the lady embezzler in an effort to sustain the pretense that "justice will be done," Mrs. Knapp has been whining shrilly since she arrived at the sheriff's home.

"My whole life is ruined," she told friends today. "What is there left after this? What difference does air and sunshine make to me after serving 30 days in jail?"

France Fears Austro-German Unity Move

PARIS, Sept. 5 (UP).—France has become greatly alarmed over the possibility of a closer relationship between Germany and Austria, it was learned today.

While Germany has shown increasing signs of worry because consideration of Rhineland evacuation at the League of Nations Assembly has been delayed, French statesmen have seen a menace to European peace in the "Anschluss" demonstrations among peoples of the two former allies. It is known that Foreign Minister Briand said as much to Chancellor Ignaz Seipel of Austria at Geneva Monday night.

"The automobile workers for years were among the best paid workers in the United States. But recently their wages have repeatedly been cut, they have been speeded up enormously; unemployment has borne down on them; in short, their former relatively favorable conditions have been taken from them to such an extent that a growing spirit of resistance is spreading among them, in Canada as well as in the United States. . .

"The automobile industry has been held up, not only in this country, but all over the world, as a most decisive achievement of American capitalism, as the industry in which American capitalism with a formula of mass production and high wages had laid the basis for a contented working class. Yet we see that under the wage-cuts, speed-up, unemployment and generally worsened conditions, the privileged automobile workers are being forced down to such a position that sentiment for organization and struggle is rapidly developing among them."

Foster will speak in the principal cities of the country, touching Spokane, Washington, in the northwest and going down the coast to Los Angeles. He will travel east as far as Chicago, then south through Kentucky, Alabama and Georgia. He will finish his tour at a monster mass meeting in New York on November 4.

YOUNG WORKERS FROM MILLS LAY DOWN POLICIES

Child Labor Delegate Reports

(By a Worker Correspondent)

The textile youth conference held at New Bedford was one of the most successful conferences ever held in the textile industry in Massachusetts. It was a very successful step towards the organization of the youth in the textile industry.

At this conference there were 51 delegates, representing 25 mills, in which 50,000 textile workers are working for the most miserable wages. Twenty-five to thirty per cent are young workers.

There were representatives from Fall River, New Bedford, Lawrence, Rhode Island, Revere and Malden knitting mills. The bulk of the delegation were from New Bedford and Fall River. Due to the bitter struggle that is being carried on in New Bedford and the beginning of an intensive fight against the mill owners in Fall River the young workers are beginning to understand the class struggle and the need for organization, and this was pointed out by the report of the T. M. C. organizer, Keller.

The conference was a very constructive one. Very little time was spent by all the reporters and participators in discussion in generalizing things. Analysis of local situations and concrete proposals to start work were discussed and plans laid for further activity.

Keller Reports.

Keller, the first and general reporter on the T. M. C. and strike leader, reported on the situation in the textile striking regions and the betraying role of the Batty crowd. He further pointed out the role of the T. M. C. and youth activity in the T. M. C. and in the strike. At the end he called upon the conference to send delegates to the National Convention to form a new National Textile Union, which is to be held September 22, 1928.

Edith Slaff, youth organizer in the textile industry, reported on the youth in the textile industry and the need of the youth to organize and fight side by side with the adults to organize and improve their conditions.

E. Donelly reported on child labor in the textile industry. She pointed out the relation of the exploitation of child labor and public school education. At the end she called upon the youth conference to help to organize the children and win them for the working class.

Winn, fraternal delegate of the Young Workers (Communist) League, pointed out the role of the young worker in the struggle against capitalism, with all its educational and military institutions. He promised 100 per cent assistance from the League to organize the youth and make soldiers of the working class. In conclusion, he analyzed the program and the aim of the conference, and then the main thing—to carry on the work after the delegates return to where they came from.

Terrible Conditions.

Very interesting were the reports of the young textile delegates. You could notice the exploitation and speed-up system of the youth in the textile industry, the low wages, long hours, speed-up system and work in danger, expecting to get injured any minute from certain machines.

A child labor delegate of F. R told of the wages the children get and how early they have to come in. At the end he told the delegate that he is a member of the T. M. C. and that he is going to get all the children from his department into the union. The reports and discussions were typical, interwoven with anxiety to find a solution. Spontaneous desire from the delegates to discuss and report on the conditions in their mills was a surprising one. Every delegate wanted to speak and this proves the awakening of the youth in the textile industry.

Resolutions were passed on the organization of the unorganized youth, on Porter, on the youth demands, on textiles, on the new union and on child labor.

What can we learn from the conference? First of all it is clear that the struggle in the textile industry against the low wages and the speed-up system has created a basis to organize and mobilize the youth against the mill owners for organization and improvements in conditions. Secondly, it demonstrated quite clearly that the existing union in the textile industry not only failed to recognize the necessity to organize the entire industry, but deliberately ignored the mass of unorganized textile workers, among whom there are thousands of young textile workers, in the most favorable situation.

It is important to note that for the last five months of bitter struggle in New Bedford the youth played a very important and militant role.

The A. F. of L. has never attempted and never will attempt to carry on organization work among the young workers. Their policy is known to every militant worker as a misleading policy. The role that they play at present in New Bedford and Fall River is a submissive stand to the bosses, and a bitter attack against the militant union of the T. M. C. The A. F. of L. and its branches in the various towns show bankruptcy and gradual decay. A very good example is the Central Labor Union of Boston. At its last meetings we noticed the fear of the state officials. Speaking on the textile situation they all raised the "cry" of the militancy of the T. M. C. against the A. F. of L.

The Central Labor Union of Boston shows its decay in not doing any work at all, members do not attend the meetings and there is no interest. Myers of the Cigarmakers Union, a rank and file delegate, speaking at the Central Labor Union, at its last meeting, pointed out that the A. F. of L. and the Central Labor Union are not carrying on any activity on behalf of the workers, and that is ~~why~~ there is discontent. He further pointed out the role of the "socialist" party in the unions and he exposed them as the worst betrayers of the workers.

The above illustrations need no comment, they are self-explanatory. The only ones that carry on the strugle for the workers, and carry on organizational work among the adult workers and also realize the necessity to organize the youth, are the T. M. C.

The Young Workers League has given full support to this work of the T. M. C. The program of the League in organizing the unorganized youth, in spite of all obstacles from the state and the labor fakers, is a correct one.

The conference was a good beginning, but the work has to be continued or else the energy spent up till now will be in vain. The executive committee that was elected must carry out the decisions of the conference and lay additional plans. Among the chief things for the executive to do are: 1. The popularization of the textile youth conference among the young textile workers in all textile centers. 2. Local conferences and youth mass meetings to be called and have T. M. C. assistance. 3. Build local youth committees. 4. Intensifying the activities of the youth in the strike regions, such as picketing and participation in all committees. 5. Mobilizing the youth for the support of the New Bedford strike.

Arm in Arm With the "Law;" Mrs. Knapp

Mrs. Florence Knapp is on the third day of the thirty-day sentence imposed on her for grand larceny in administering the $1,200,000 census fund. O, capitalism takes care of its own. Under the Baumes laws a person can be held for the theft of a few cents. Mrs. Knapp is in the Albany County Jail, not in the common jail, but occupying a room in Sheriff Henchey's quarters where she is served specially prepared meals. Capitalism takes care of its own. She is said to be indignant at receiving a thirty-day term (which she probably will not complete) when she expected a suspended sentence.

PUTTING PARTY ON BALLOT IN OHIO

By N. SHAFFER.
Campaign Manager, Workers (Communist) Party, Ohio District.

In order to put the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot in the municipal elections in the City of Cleveland, in 1927, it was necessary to have in the four districts into which the city is divided, some 800 signatures in a district. We started the campaign for signatures rather early, and yet when we were approaching the date for filing the petitions, we found we had not enough signatures in any of the four districts to put the Party on the ballot.

In the 1924 presidential election, we did not even make an attempt to put the Party on the ballot in Ohio.

With this experience in mind we entered the national election campaign of 1928.

Organize Drive.

Many comrades, when they heard we need 20,000 signatures in order to put the Party on the ballot, shrugged their shoulders. "It is impossible," they smiled to themselves, but dared not say it aloud in face of the political importance.

We organized the campaign for signatures according to territory. Each section elected a campaign committee with a responsible comrade for manager of the section. We did the same thing in each local outside of Cleveland. We placed the question of securing signatures at every meeting of the nuclei, fractions, section, and even fraternal organizations.

During the three months the campaign for signatures lasted, our major work was signatures—always keeping in mind that 20,000 were needed in order to put the Party on the ballot.

Now after the campaign for signatures is over and we were able to get the necessary amount of signatures, it is necessary to point out some of the drawbacks with which we weer faced in the signature drive.

We will take as our object a comrade who refused to go out for signatures, advancing the following reasons for it: "Do you mean to tell me that if Foster and Gitlow are elected and they go to Washington and get $75,000 a year, they will remain Communists?" He added, "I don't believe in this election bunk, where the Party is going to spend $100,000 for nothing, when we can take this $100,000 and spend it for the hungry miners, striking textile workers, etc."

We argued with the comrade, we asked him: "Are you in favor of the Party conducting meeting?" "Yes," he said. "Are you in favor of the Party distributing pamphlets, books, increasing its circulation of the Press?" "Yes." "Are you in favor of the entire membership being mobilized for this work and not only a few comrades?" "Yes." "Then," we argued, "why not utilize this political situation in the country, when the workers are thinking moremore politically than at any other time during the year, and speak to them through meetings, leaflets, etcetera, on the issues with which they, the workers, are concerned, from a Communist viewpoint?" "Yes," he said, "but if Foster and Gitlow are elected and get $75,000 a year, will htey remain Communists?"

Get Signatures.

To prove our contention we will point to only a few comrades at this time:

Comrade Moskogianes, a Greek, who does not speak a clear Enclish was able to get more signatures during this drive than the whole membership during the 1927 elections.

Comrades Sisco, Pyotsia, H. Levine, Vranovsky, Bonati, are a few comrades in this district who were able to get hundreds of signatures and at the same time sell many Party Platforms and make connections for the Party among the American and foreign-born workers despite their handicap.

TAXI "BUCKERS" ON WATERFRONT WORK WITH COPS

Yellow Cab Co. Hogs Depots, Ferries

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Altho no ban has been made on cruising taxicabs on the waterfront from South Ferry north, taxi drivers complain that cops stationed along West Street have, for the past three weeks, been chasing them into the side streets. This despite the fact that hundreds of people who want cabs are unable to get them and are forced to ride in the cabs run by "buckers," who operate the high-rate cabs. These "buckers," drivers say, work hand in hand with the traffic cops, whose palms are "greased" to keep independent drivers and those working for fleet owners away from the ferries and boat lines.

This discrimination on the part of the Tammany cops has been going on now for a number of years. Inside the depots the open shop Yellow Taxi Corporation is strongly entrenched and outside are the "buckers" who work off the public hackstands. Altho the stands, which are established by the city are theoretically for all cab drivers to work from, drivers of low rate cabs who try to work these stands soon find themselves surrounded by a gang of hostile "buckers" who demand that the stranger leave the stand. If the drivers don't move quick enough, the tires on their cabs are "needled" and oftentimes the driver is given a beating by these gorillas, while the cop takes a walk.

Cops Helps "Buckers."

At the Hudson Day Line pier, at the foot of Desbrosses Street, the traffic cops stationed there are said to be very active. In fact the drivers say these cops actually exerted themselves. These cops, in order to please their "bucker" friends, picked up the credentials of a number of drivers. This, of course, means that the drivers will be unable to provide for their dependents until fourth deputy police commissioner in charge of the hack license bureau sees fit. This may mean days, weeks and perhaps months. Other drivers were summoned to the traffic court for "hacking other than a hackstand," or "obstructing traffic." This to serve as a warning to other drivers for more drastic action.

Not only do these "Buckers" hold full sway over the waterfront but on the hackstands in front of hotels and apartment houses and the night clubs. Altho it is against the hack regulations to maintain a "closed line" on pain of revocation of license, these fellows for obvious reasons are able to get away with it. In front of the night clubs, where no hackstands are established, and where these "buckers" work hand in hand with the doorman of the night club, who oftentimes is a well-known gangster, and who also lends his hand in slugging up of taxi drivers who try to pick up passengers who hail them from in front of these clubs. The only "calls" outside taxi drivers are allowed to pick up are the fares who are going a small distance or are obviously sober.

It is estimated that there are about 500 fifty-cent pieces which are paid nightly, and about 6 gorillas on the receiving end. The doormen get paid by the week. Each "bucker" donates his bit of one dollar. About twenty-five men work a night club. Not a bad racket.

THE PARIS VISIT OF THE VAKHTANGOV THEATRE

By A. V. LUNACHARSKY
Commissar for Education and Fine Arts.

THE SOVIET THEATRE represents an exceedingly interesting phenomenon. Its general trend, which has become fully observable now after ten years existence, is characterized in regard to its content by a gradual approach to the theatrical illustration of the basic phenomena and fundamental problems of our post-revolutionary realities. In order to be able to make full use of theatrical art achievements and traditions of the past in carrying out this task, we are so solicitous about preserving the heritage of our theatrical past.

On the other hand, the Soviet theatre has been looking for a form which would enable the fullest and most flexible representation of the new and tremendous content engendered by the Revolution.

Now we have already the first manifestations of the splendid synthesis in which the fundamental notes of social realism are richly blended with various methods of stylization, fantasy, hyperbolic treatment, etc.

Genius of Vakhtangov.

In the path-seeking of our post-revolutionary theatre a quite exceptional role was played by the genius of Vakhtangov. His death prevented him from completing those profound lines which could be discerned in his fundamental productions. This remarkable man was constantly engaged in seeking for new lines towards evolving a profoundly artistic and at the same time essentially popular theatre. The unusually graceful and whimisical "Princess Turandot," composed of the elements of fantasy, naturalism, and the grotesque; the Maeterlinck play "St. Anthony's Passion"; the mystico-poetical and eerie play of "Hadibuk," and a number of other plays produced by him, have served as one of the chief sources for the further development of our theatrical innovations.

Example of Creative Liberty.

Fortunately for our theatre, the death of Vakhtangov did not mean the end of his efforts. His young and talented disciples did not become scattered like a flock of sheep after the death of the shepherd. They continued his work with the greatest success, and in a number of plays they have portrayed our contemporary life, taking first rank among our social theatres. At the same time they did not give up the cultivation of the art achievements of the past, reaching at times a stage of real virtuosity, whilst at the same time imparting to their play the breath of modern realism. The young Vakhtangov Theatre has a tremendous diapason, and may therefore be considered to a large extent a characteristic representative of our theatre in general. The play which the theatre is now taking to the West, "Princess Turandot," like any other play taken by itself, naturally reflects neither all the nuances of the Vakhtangov Theatre nor all the original features of the contemporary Soviet Theatre; nevertheless this old Italian play, conceived in the form of free myth and jesting, was transformed by Vakhtangov and his able assistants into an unusually brilliant example of creative liberty and unrestrained originality in enjoying the art of theatrical presentation in genial and humorous vein. Perhaps, it is characteristic to show this splendid jest by one of the most serious masters of our serious theatre in order to show thereby how far we are from pedantism of any kind, and how little we are trammelled by tendency. We believe that Europe will yet have the opportunity to become introduced to our more serious productions, not quite so readily appreciated by the spectator, which are at time impregenated with the art portrayal of the great and strenuous life of our serious and infinitely glorious epoch.

Three Die, One Injured, as Ten Families Are Trapped in Harlem Tenement Fire.

STRUCTURE WAS A TINDER BOX; BABY IS VICTIM

Injured Man, Skull Fractured, May Die

A mother, her five-months old baby daughter, and a Porto Rican worker were burned to death yesterday when a fire starting on the ground floor of a flimsy tenement in Harlem spread like prairie-fire thru the house.

The mother, Mrs. Melise Rutledge, 40, a Negro, and her young child were trapped on the third floor of the match-box structure and were suffocated.

Alonzo Gomez, a young worker who arrived here only several days ago from Santo Domingo, was found dead on the fifth floor. Most of the inmates of the building managed to escape before the flames enveloped the archaic structure.

Walter Miller, another Negro worker, was taken to the Harlem Hospital suffering from a fractured skull he sustained as a result of the blaze.

The lives of ten families escaped complete annihilation only through the timely aid given by workers living in the neighboring houses, who came to the aid of the trapped families and guided them down to the streets.

N. J. MISLEADERS OF LABOR MEET IN CONVENTION

Ignore Main Tasks; May Endorse Smith

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 5.—The New Jersey State Federation of Labor opened another annual convention here today. Important matters affecting the workers in this state, such as fighting the powerful open-shop corporations in this state and relief for the many thousands of jobless, were ignored in today's session.

The reactionary officialdom of the state federation is expected to table these matters should they come up. The convention will probably be devoted entirely to the question of endorsing one of the capitalist presidential candidates. Since the corrupt Hague democratic machine is closely allied with the labor misleaders, Al Smith is expected to receive the officials' endorsement.

At the last annual convention of the state federation, Hilfers, treasurer, was forced to admit that he had received $100,000 from a combination of the largest open-shop firms in the state. Nothing has been done about this matter by the officialdom, who have many times been accused of similar charges, but on a larger scale.

A leader of the corrupt ring dominating the state federation is Theodore Brandle, wealthy insurance man and building trades official, who has sold out many strikes.

FIGHT TEXTILE STRIKE SELL-OUT

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 5.—Efforts are increasing to put over a sell-out in the brilliant struggle of the textile workers as the strike nears the end of the 21st week.

Tonight the advisory committee of the Cotton Manufacturers Association is to consider the request made by the Citizens Mediation Committee, asking that conferences be held with the officialdom of the American Federation of Labor Textile Council. The Citizens' Committee will submit a "peace" plan which concedes the mill owners the right to enforce an intense speed up system in return for their withdrawal of the wage cut notices.

The plan of the mediators is based on the notorious "Labor Extension Plan" offered as a settlement plan by the officialdom of the Textile Council. The Textile Mill Committees denounce this offer as an intolerable speed-up system which is even worse than the ten per cent wage cut.

The T. M. C. union also launches a sharp attack on the A. F. of L. fakers for being so eager in making concessions to the employers when even the local press is carrying daily stories refuting Sullivan's pretenses of unanimity among the mill owners. These reports show that the ranks of the mill owners are fast disintegrating. Rumors reported by the press state that many mill owners are ready to capitulate to the brilliant anti-wage cut struggle and resume operations.

YANKS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL WITH SENATORS

By United Press.

After giving Connie Mack's pennant aspirations a jolt Monday, the Washington Senators split a double-header with the New York Yankees at the Yankee Stadium Wednesday. Washington won the first game 3 to 1 and the Yankees won the nightcap 8 to 3. As the Philadelphia Athletics were idle Wednesday, the Yankees maintain a two-game lead in the American League race.

The New York Giants gained a half-game on the St. Louis Cardinals by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 14 to 3. The Cardinals were idle and still hold a four-game lead on the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs.

Sad Sam Jones held the world's champions to six hits in the first game to win the 3 to 1 decision. Huggins used Pipgras, Moore and Thomas on the mound but the Senators pounded out nine hits. Lefty Heimach pitched the second game for the Yankees and was saved in the first inning with a fast double-play with the bases filled. Goose Goslin's hitting was the feature of both games.

The New York Giants obtained twenty-two hits off Walsh and Willoughby to give the McGrawmen a 14 to 3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. Mel Ott, New York outfielder, hit two home runs and accounted for four of New York's scores. Klein, Philadelphia outfielder, hit his fourth home run in as many games.

GITLOW RALLIES MINERS AT MEET

of the blood-sucking operators unless the miners rally courageously to meet the situation. The criminal misleadership of the Lewis bureaucrats has brought the mine workers to wage cuts of as much as $3 per day. Betrayed by the Lewis henchmen and left at the mercy of the operators, some miners have settled for $5 per day. The Illinois settlement for $6 with full permission for the unrestricted use of loading machines is the result of the same treacherous policy which has brought ruin and devastation everywhere in its trail.

"The anthracite coal operators," continued Gitlow, "are determined to take advantage of the ruin that Lewis has wrought in the bituminous coal regions, to strengthen their attack against the miners in the anthracite region.

"The only forces that fought against the Lewis policies leading to this debacle, were the left wing and progressives in the union. And they are expelled by the Lewis gang from the union. Now these militant fighting coal miners are being drawn together. The rank and file have taken the initiative and are in the act of establishing a powerful national miners' union.

"Unite with Soft Coal Miners."

"You coal miners of the anthracite must unite with the rank and file of the bituminous miners for the great convention at Pittsburgh on Sept. 9, which will be the biggest historical turning point in the history of the mining industry. For there will be gathered the real fighting elements of the mine workers from all points of the country to give the final knockout blow to the treacherous Lewis gang that has been throttling the coal miners of this country. The coal miners will build a great new union not afraid to fight for the interests of the mine workers."

Scores Mayor.

Commenting on the local political situation, the speaker paid special attention to Congressman John J. Casey and to Mayor Hart, both belonging to the so-called "friends of labor" category of the A. F. L. "Casey is a democrat and the president of the State Federation of Labor," Gitlow said. "He is fully upholding the destructive policies of the republican John L. Lewis, a member of the party of the strike-breaking Mellons and of Governor Fisher."

"Mayor Hart," Gitlow declared, "tried several times to stop the miners' meetings by sending down the police and the American Legion. He will not succeed, however, in this job. Faced with always worsening conditions and with the betrayal of the labor bureaucracy, the hard-coal miners will turn more and more towards the Workers (Communist) Party for leadership and will support their candidates during the coming elections."

Papcun Speaks.

Besides Gitlow, George Papcun, secretary of the tri-district National Miners Convention, Arrangements Committee, spoke about the situation in the union, exposing both Boylan and McGarry, the regular and "insurgent" presidents of District 1, who are both supporting the policies of Lewis and who will both be eliminated by the rank and file of District 1. "The hard-coal miners will join hand in hand with their brothers in the bituminous fields in building their union," said Papcun.

Emil Gardos, subdistrict organizer, acted as chairman at the rally.

The breaking up of the Workers Party Endorsement Conference, and threats of the police and reactionary union officials and the presence of spies and hecklers could not prevent hundreds of hard-coal miners from attending the campaign rally which was held at Sans Souci Park.

TEXTILE COUNCIL FAKERS TRYING TO SELL MILL STRIKE

Gov. Fuller Threatens Reid, Mill Leader

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 5.—Mistaken about the identity of the committee of forty New Bedford textile strikers who, "he thought," were members of the A. F. of L. New Bedford Textile Council, Governor Fuller, in keeping his appointment with the delegation yesterday betrayed the fact that Batty, reactionary council leader, had met the strike by offering the mill own- the strike by offering the mil owners an opportunity to install a speed-up system in return for their recall of the wage cut. The committee he was speaking to were members of the Textile Workers' Union of the Textile Mill Committees.

When the notorious Fuller discovered he was talking to honest trade unionists, who not only refused to sell out the 21-week old struggle of 28,000 textile workers, but who denounced the traitor Batty, he openly threatened to have James P. Reid, the 70 year old committee spokesman, thrown out of the building.

Batty's proposal to the mill owners via the governor, that a vicious speed-up system be installed in the mills, in return for the recall of the ten per cent wage cut, was sharply attacked by Reid and Keller as a sell-out that is a bigger wage slash than the 10 per cent cut.

Fuller not only refused to listen to the demand for an unconditional recall of the wage cut, but he even refused to hear the complaints of the strikers against the brutal police terror and the sending of hundreds of workers to jail for picketing.

☭ ☒ WORKERS (COMMUNIST) PARTY

For the Party of the Class Struggle!
For the Workers!
Against the Capitalists!

The Red Presidential Campaign.

Do workers closely sympathetic to the Communist Party—do even all of the members of the Workers (Communist) Party itself realize the importance of the nation-wide campaign now getting under full speed with the speaking tours of Foster and Gitlow?

Already scores and even hundreds of thousands of American workers have a friendly acquaintance with the Workers (Communist) Party. They have learned by experience that this is the party which can always be found on the picket-line side-by-side with the workers in any struggle, large or small, with the employing class, the state or the treacherous bureaucrats which so often attack their organizations "from on top."

In short, many thousands of workers know the Workers (Communist) Party as a "strike" party, so to say.

But with the getting of the national political campaign under full steam, these workers will have the chance to see the same fighting party in a broader light. Not that the Communist Party shows a "different" side to the working class in an election campaign from that shown in a strike. On the contrary, the Communist Party is unique in exactly this fact, that it is and remains consistently the militant party of the class struggle at all times and under all conditions.

The great audiences which will hear Foster and Gitlow in scores of cities and towns throughout the United States will witness a kind of political campaign that is conducted by no political party other than a Communist Party. Not obsequious soliciting of the largest possible number of votes from all classes alike by softening the sharp discords between the classes, but conducting a a straightout propaganda and agitation of class struggle on the part of the working class against its enemies, is the Communist method. Not to make a separation between what is called "politics" and the fights of the workers for wages and conditions, but to link together all phases of the struggle of the workers for the smallest demands and for the largest. To show the working class that every class struggle is a political struggle, and to lead the workers always more and more consciously to unify their forces and their struggles. To politicalize the struggles of the working class in the true sense of the word—to direct the struggle into broader and deeper channels in which the whole combined struggle appears more clearly as the struggle of all exploited classes and peoples for emancipation against the capitalist class and against the capitalist class state.

Much can be done in this election campaign struggle to make vast numbers of American workers for the first time see the connection between their economic struggles and the necessary political struggle. Foster and Gitlow and the many other candidates on state and local tickets can bring many to understand that they must vote as they strike. Holding always before the working class the essential character of the Workers (Communist) Party, its revolutionary purpose to be realized not in capitalist "democracy," but in the revolutionary struggle for the overthrow of capitalist society and the establishment of the dictatorship of the working class, the Communist candidates will stand in sharp contrast to the opportunist vote-snatchers of the socialist party.

"Socialist" party election activity is a blind to draw the workers away from class struggle and into "political activity" in the pettiest and most sordid sense of capitalist politics. Communist election activity is a broadening and clarifying of the struggle, so that it becomes political in the sense of being unified and strengthened and deepened into a conscious struggle for power.

The working class ticket before the workers is the Communist ticket, and the manner of conducting the campaign can make the workers understand this essential truth.

Members of the party and sympathizers must see the tremendous significance of this campaign, and act accordingly in sparing no labor to make the meetings big and successful.

Communist election activity is revolutionary activity.

Expose C. M. T. C. Vacation

The "vacation" promised young workers who go to the Citizens' Military Training Camps is exposed in a letter from one of the recruits to the Young Workers (Communist) League.

"Unharness the mules before cooping them" was the spontaneous demand of those who had been led to join the camps by the war department, the letter reports. "Whether he is a Catholic or a Communist, there is a curse on each pair of lips."

The letter follows:

Fort Snelling, Minn.,
August 5, 1928.

Dear friends.

It is a good thing that at last one organization is fighting for the interest of the boys in the C. M. T. C., and is willing to publish the truth. I will tell you something of my own experiences here.

The C. M. T. C. at Fort Snelling started on Wednesday, August 1. First of all we went through something that was supposed to be a physical examination. We were rushed through such a machine-like process that it brought a picture of a Ford factory. A fellow stepped in with his civilian clothing on—he came out clad in full uniform. During this transition period we got a taste of crankiness that is quite popular amongst those in the officialdom of the army. Then a wave of protest went through the barracks. Some felt like leaving for home. When we got organized into platoons we had to march out on parade and take the C. M. T. C. oath.

Lecture on Patriotism.

The lieutenant gave a speech on "citizenship" emphasizing the importance of patriotism, but he didn't tell us who got the profits while the young workers die in the trenches.

At six o'clock Wednesday night we had our first army meal. It consisted of white bread, water, potatoes, meat and brown gravy. One could see at once that some of the boys were disappointed because the food was not as good as they expected. The next day the meat was a great deal worse than before. Some of the boys were yelling that army mules should be at least unharnessed before they are served on the table. However, it isn't as bad as starving like so many unemployed workers in this country of "prosperity." Many join the army because of hunger.

Bawled Out.

The appearance of your clothes and beds has to be "just so." All buttons buttoned, shoes shined and hats the right way. For the least mistake the student officer will bawl you out. The bunks are examined daily and everything has to be placed correctly to an inch.

Conditions in the dormitories and where washing is done is terrible. Water is fed through one pipe which at any one time wil be icy cold or boiling hot. Yet we are expected to take baths as often as possible. Also, we are expected to be ready for reveille on time, washed up. Also the barracks are supposed to be swept "under the beds"—a room consisting of from 20 to 40 beds and only one broom is given. But beds must be ready in twenty minutes and the room swept.

All came here for a nice vacation, but whether one is a Catholic or a Communist there's a curse on each pair of lips.

C. M. T. C. Tool of Bosses.

You may be sure that the officers will try their best to prevent the facts presented by the Young Workers League from reaching the boys here, but it is easy to see that the "so-called" vacation we get is to make us tools of the bosses so that we are ready to fight and die to defend the investments of the capitalists.

Speaking for myself and some others here, I wish to say that the war department has another guess coming. We'll endure this "vacation," and when the time comes we'll use our military knowledge on the side of the working class.

All success to you.

A C.M.T.C. ROOKIE.

P. S. If you print this please don't use my name.

Higgins Renews Graft Investigation in New Pre-Election Move

Commissioner of Accounts Higgins, on his first day back in New York after his vacation, renewed his "investigation" of graft in the Department of Street Cleaning of New York City. The charges made by the Commissioner included vague assertions concerning graft and inefficiency and payroll padding in the department, but made no definite charge against any of the city officials involved in the graft.

The sessions on the graft situation which Higgins announced had been held on his return, were held behind closed doors.

The continuation of the so-called investigation, which before his vacation had resulted in many bombastic and self-covering accusations but very few sentences, is seen as a padded move on the part of the Commissioner, who is utilizing the rottenness of the New York City official graft, to inflate the pre-election Tammany campaign.

Indict Bankers in Fraud Scheme

BOSTON, Sept. 5 (UP).—Seven Middle Western bankers were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of conspiracy to defraud New Englanders of $1,500,000 in a bogus farm loan scheme. Fraudulent use of the mails was charged against Guy Haston, John Huston, John Boyles and Harold A. Smith, all of Chicago; Orin F. Schee and Vernon Sigles of DesMoines, and Walter Cravens of Kansas City.

Labels on Empty Bottles

The Terms "Democratic" and "Republican" Mean Same; Both Dance to Wall Street

By BERT MILLER.

> "The party term Republican isn't definitive any more. It isn't even descriptive. No more so is the party term Democrat. They are labels on empty bottles, signs on untenanted houses, cloaks that cover but do not conceal the skeletons beneath them. . . . There are no genuine issues between them, no authentic differences of policy or performance."
> —Samuel Blythe, Saturday Evening Post, March 25, 1922.

The frequency and agility with which the highest representatives of American capitalism have assumed and discarded political labels, in the election campaign of 1928, and the similarity of the interests represented on both sides, are convincing evidence of the closest identity of the two major parties as instruments of the ruling class.

John J. Raskob, for instance, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was formerly a member of the republican party, a member of the Union League Club and is reliably reported as one of those who called on Calvin Coolidge, to ask him to run again. Mr. Raskob is at the same time one of the leading figures of the General Motors Corporation, a Morgan firm, notwithstanding the fact that Dwight Morrow, of Morgan & Co. is one of the right hand men of Coolidge.

Both Generous.

Simultaneously we find that Mr. DuPont, also of the General Motors Corporation supports Al Smith with a generous contribution of $50,000, while his associate in the same firm, Mr. Durant, supports Herbert Hoover.

Mr. W. H. Woodin, head of the American Car and Foundry Company, who contributed heavily to the republican war chest in 1924, gives $25,000 without the slightest hesitation to Al Smith's fund in 1928.

George B. Cortelyou, former Secretary of Commerce under Roosevelt, and ex-Chairman of the Republican National Committee, has recently become closely associated with Nicholas F. Brady, multi-millionaire "angel" of Tammany Hall, through the merger of the Consolidated Gas Company of which Cortelyou is the head, and the Brooklyn Edison Company headed by Mr. Brady. The Mellon interests are involved in this merger.

Senator Robert L. Owen and Professor Irving Fisher, close associates of Woodrow Wilson, have just leaped over the fences into the republican camp.

There can be no better example of the political acrobatics now taking place, than the struggle within the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, regarding the indorsement of candidates. Contrary to long established precedent, this body of capitalist henchmen did not indorse the democratic nominee as usual, but could arrive at no decision in the present campaign.

Dollar Twins.

These occurrences and similar ones which take place daily in the present campaign, indicate clearly that the hand of the controlling group of Big Business is securely and simultaneously at the throttle of both major political parties. But there is even more convincing proof of the closer approximation of both of these parties with each other in the path laid down by the dominant big business interests of the country. This can be seen in tracing the development of the two party platforms, hypocritical and deceptive as they are.

In 1844, and for a long period thereafter, the democratic platform assailed the evils of federalism. It demanded "a form of government springing from and upheld by the popular will," declared "that the Federal Government is one of limited powers," and insisted upon the rights of the various states. Yet we find that the World War during the administration of President Wilson, "increased the power of the Federal Government tremendously, centralizing it to an unheard-of degree. The president, above all, was given almost unlimited power" over the industrial life of the nation, the railroads, telephones, telegraphs and the press. "The rights of the separates states were subordinated to the desires of the Federal Government." (See "For a Labor Party," by John Pepper P. 25). In the last gubernatorial election in New York State, Al Smith came out for increased centralization of the state government and a four year term for governor. In spite of the fact that the democratic platform still contains a mild demand "that the rights and powers of the states shall be preserved in their full vigor and virtue" and opposes "bureaucracy and the multiplication of offices and office holders" to placate the Solid South, the democratic Party has already given full assurance of its ability and readiness to strengthen the centralized power of the government as a necessary asset of American imperialism.

A study of past platforms of the two major parties discloses the fact that each of them have at times fulminated more or less against the trusts, monopoly, etc. The democratic platform of 1900 declares: "We pledge the democratic party to an unceasing warfare in nation, state and city against private monopoly in every form." Yet the fact remains that following a few phrases, intended for the consumption of the petty bourgeois, small merchant and manufacturer, about "sinister monopolies formed for the purpose of wringing from the necessaries of life an unrighteous profit," we find in the democratic platform of 1928, the following assurance: "Honest business, no matter its size, need have no fears of a democratic administration."

More Pap.

In 1900 under the leadership of William Jennings Bryan, the democratic platform declared: "No nation can long endure half republic and half empire" and further, "We are unalterably opposed to seizing or purchasing distant islands to be governed outside the constitution, and whose people can never become citizens." Yet Wilson's platform of 1916 declared: "But the circumstances of the last two years have revealed necessities of international action which no former generation could have foreseen. We hold that it is the duty of the United States to use its power, not only to make itself safe at home, but also to make secure its just interests throughout the world," which constitutes a clear and unequivocable defense of the acts of American imperialism.

The record of the two parties brings into much sharper relief their approximation toward the line set down by American imperialism. No distinction can be drawn between them as far as the use of injunctions and police violence in labor disputes, the passage of legislation favorable to business, such as the Federal Reserve Act, reduction of taxes, etc.

Raditch's Death and the Yugoslav Crisis

By GEORG.

The events preceding the death of Raditch illustrate the profound nature of the state crisis. We will recall the most important: on May 30th a demonstration was held in Belgrade against the government's intention to sign the Nettuno Treaties with Italy. Bloody fights ensued between the demonstrators and the gendarmerie and numerous wounded bestrewed the barricades. Thereupon followed weeks of the highest tension and an obstruction fight of the opposition against the government. The leader of the obstruction was Raditch. The government party of the Great-Serbian bourgeoisie answered this obstruction with threats to murder the leaders of the opposition, and then very soon carried out the threat. On June 20th the government deputy, Ratchitch fired a number of shots in open parliamentary session from the government benches at Raditch, killing Raditch's brother Pavel, and two other members of the Croatian Peasant Party and severely wounding Raditch and several of his friends.

The Croatian Peasant Party answered this murderous attack by withdrawing from parliament and setting up in the Croatian capital, Agram, a sort of opposition parliament. The news of the murder in parliament called forth tremendous indignation throughout Croatia. On June 21st endless processions of peasants were formed. Barricades were erected in Agram and dead and wounded lay around. Raditch himself, who appeared to be recovering from his wound, tried to exercise a pacifying influence, but passions had been aroused. At the beginning of August the editor of the Serbian journal, which had given incitement towards the murder of Raditch, Ristovic, was shot down in the streets of Agram, the act meeting with popular approval.

The Croatian territory, populated chiefly by poor peasants, belonged before the war to the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy and was incorporated in Hungary. Under the Habsburg Monarchy the country was administered as a colony. As was the case with all the suppressed nationalities of the Habsburg Monarchy, the Croats, too, lived, as far as the broad masses were concerned, in complete national, social and cultural enslavement. After the war the Habsburg Monarchy collapsed. One of the chief gainers by this new formation of states was Serbia, which was selected by France as an outpost in connection with French plans for supremacy in the Balkans and became a big state. Among other territories to be incorporated in Yugoslavia was Croatia.

Once more Croatia was treated as a colony, oppressed nationally and exploited economically; this time by the Great-Serbian bourgeoisie. The result of this Great-Serbian policy was general impoverishment of the Croatian population, and more especially of the peasant masses. Naturally, this national suppression was felt most by the poor working masses. The well-to-do strata, so set at a disadvantage by the Serbs, used the dissatisfaction of the masses in Croatia for their own purposes. They formed a separatist movement, which often bore upon its banners radical slogans of complete severance of Croatia from Serbia. But the petty-bourgeois leaders of the Croatian movement were themselves afraid to take revolutionary measures, for their chief purpose was to gain satisfaction for the Croatian upper classes, which object was best to be achieved through a compromise with the Serbian bourgeoisie and through participation in governmental power.

In addition to these domestic causes the State crisis in Yugoslavia is aggravated by the outside interference of the big imperialist powers. French imperialism is equipping Serbia as its guard in the Balkans against Italy. As far as the Croatian question is concerned, French imperialism has an interest in the Belgrade policy of the "mailed fist" in order to make the country ripe for war.

On the basis of the Anglo-French rapprochement against the Soviet Union, the Belgrade Government is compelled to draw closer to Italy by ratifying the Nettuno Treaties and opening Dalmatian and Croatian territories to Fascist penetration. The resistance of the Croatian parties to these intentions of the Belgrade Government was strengthened when it became known that, as a price for the signing of the Nettuno Treaties, Belgrade was to receive from England a fifty million pound loan, accompanied by English financial control, exclusively to serve the economic interests of the Great-Serbian bourgeoisie, which would signify the Croatian upper classes once more at a disadvantage.

Told You So

Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state for New York, was sentenced to a thirty-day term in prison for grand larceny. It appears that Mrs. Knapp, a republican party leader, took unto herself several thousands of dollars that were intended for use in counting the heads of the inhabitants of New York state. Had Mrs. Knapp been a poor working woman, who, seeing her children hungry, took a bottle of milk from a wealthy neighbor's doorstep, her punishment would be more severe. As it is, Mrs. Knapp is said to be shocked at the sentence.

Al Smith may be gracious enough to pardon Mrs. Knapp, even though her sentence could not be milder had she stolen a gander. This would touch new levels among the liberals and even some hard-boiled republicans might take the gesture as a sign that with Al Smith in the white house legitimate grafters would not fare so badly. It would be nice, you know, if a gentleman's agreement could be reached between the republican and democratic parties to share the loot on a percentage basis, the lion's share going to the party that polled a majority of votes in any national, state or city elections.

Former Judge Jacob Panken, of the Municipal Court, returned from the International Socialist Conference in Brussels, is fully convinced that the imperialist "anti-war" treaty of Senator Kellogg will prevent "big wars." The ex-judge apparently is not much concerned over little wars, like the war on Nicaragua or the continuous punitive expeditions sent against the peoples of India, Syria, and other peoples, by the imperialist powers that enslave them with the sanction of the League of Nations.

Many readers of the Daily Worker believe we are indulging in excessively severe condemnation of the socialists when we class them as allies of imperialism. Yet Panken's and Thomas's views on the fake Kellogg peace pact proves our contention. The imperialist powers, while preparing for war to defend the loot already in their possession or in order to grab off more spoils, are continually drugging the mass mind with pacifist illusions. Side by side with the building of battleships, bombing planes and the production of poison gases goes the production of peace propaganda designed to lull their own cannon fodder as well as to throw their imperialist competitors off the scent.

Here is where the socialists come in handy. Of course the American socialists do not play as important a role in this game of bluff as do the European socialists. But they take exactly the same position on this question of war. Wars between big powers, or "big wars," as Brother Panken says, the socialists are against. Such wars are liable to put too big a strain on the capitalist system and result in a nasty revolution. But little wars to punish subject peoples for daring to demand freedom, though Panken might send a fervent prayer aloft to Jehovah, and Thomas an earnest supplication to Jesus, to make the milk of human kindness flow more freely in the breasts of the ruling classes.

The socialists do not object to imperialism conquering other peoples, stealing their land and natural resources and putting them to work as wage slaves. This is what they call preparing the world for the social revolution. But they don't like to have to kill Nicaraguans and others who resist this "civilizing" process. They sometimes protest, little less vehemently than the imperialist political acrobat Al Smith it is true, but still they protest against the "unconstitutional" killing of subject peoples who fight for their freedom. But just as soon as any subject people is having reasonable success in returning shot for shot, they always find some darned excuse for jumping on the defendants and threatening them with socialist displeasure unless they lie down and confine their activities to writing letters to The Nation or the World Tomorrow.

When the polecat produces attar of roses instead of the perfume by which he has hitherto won recognition if not favor, imperialism will become an agent of world peace. Socialist leaders know this. They are not political idiots, any more than Smith, Hoover and Company. They have cast their lot with the capitalist system in conjunction with William Green, George L. Berry, John L. Lewis, and the rest of the labor fakers. They have a stake in the capitalist system. They are engaged in the business of fooling the masses. And no greater disservice can be rendered the workers of the world today than to give them the impression that the Kellogg peace pact will or can prevent big wars. Lack of space prevents me from touching on incidents that have transpired since the signing of this fake treaty in Paris, which would convince anybody that the Kellogg pact is the joke of the century as a peace instrument.

Jim Reid, Textile Leader, Denounces "Executioner" Fuller in the Governor's Office

A. F. L. PLANNING TO BETRAY BIG TEXTILE STRIKE

Strike Ranks Stiffen

Workers Demand Boss Capitulation

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—Jim Reid, leader of a delegation of textile strikers to demand from Governor Fuller the immediate termination of the police and court terror, yesterday denounced the murderer of Sacco and Vanzetti in Fuller's own office, when the latter began to upbraid the delegation for putting forward a demand for a wage increase in answer to the New Bedford mill owners' wage cut.

"We came here to talk and not to listen to a lecture," Reid shot back at Fuller when the governor embarked on an oration in which he criticized the delegation for not being ready to make a concession to the bosses in order to end the strike. The session with the mill owners' agent in the State House ended soon after he had shouted to the workers' leader: "I'll have you put out of my office."

The score of strikers' representatives, poorly clothed, presented a striking contrast to the creased slickness of the Governor of the State of Massachusetts, and to the waxed mahogany fittings of the office. With quiet dignity the spokesman of New Bedford's and Fall River's workers began to talk of the struggle against the wage cut. The atmosphere soon underwent a rapid change as Fuller began to assert his fear and hatred of labor.

Confident beforehand that the millionaire manufacturer, Fuller, would never take any step toward ending the vicious terror of the police and troopers in the strike area, the delegation of leading strikers nevertheless decided to seek an appointment with him in order to expose further the strikebreaking role of the city and state authorities.

The first clash between Fuller and the delegation came after Reid had described the unbearable sufferings of the 28,000 strikers. Fuller kept interrupting insolently. Reid then calmly told the governor that he was "worse than Chief of Police Feeney of Fall River," whose vicious attacks of picketers was responsible for the drowning of a six-year-old child driven into the river to his death by a trooper.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 6.—Feverish preparations are now being made by the mill owners to lash out in a renewed offensive against the 28,000 strikers through the medium of a fake settlement which they are trying to reach with the officialdom of the reactionary United Textile Workers Union. Although denials of intentions to "settle" the strike are still forthcoming from the president of the manufacturers association, the employers' trade journals print predictions that the strike will be "settled" in about ten days.

These "predictions" and rumors of settlements are merely a new strikebreaking maneuver of the mill owners, leaders of the Textile Workers Union of the Textile Mill Committees declare. They also warn the workers that the bosses are now desperate enough to consider using the American Federation of Labor union as the chief agency for smashing the strike.

Batty Sell-Out.

As evidence in support of this contention they point to the fact that Batty & Co., the U. T. W. leaders here, are the real sponsors of the plan to grant the mill owners the "Labor Extension System," which is one of the most vicious speed-ups ever devised. The Citizens Media-

Norway Discontinues Search for Amundsen

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 6 (UP).—The Navy Department decided today to discontinue the Arctic search for Roald Amundsen. The search along the Norwegian coast for further traces of his plane, a pontoon of which was found last week, will be continued.

Freed; Heroes of the Soviet Republic of Bavaria

After a long and difficult struggle the German working class finally forced the release of its class war prisoners by the Amnesty Act. Among those freed were leaders of the Soviet Republic of Bavaria shown above. They are top row, left to right, Rudolf Greiner, a leader of the Bavarian Soviet in 1919, sentenced to 15 years imprisonment, released after eight and a half years in jail. He was charged with "terrorism." Gustav Streidl, sentenced to 12 years for high treason for his activities in the Bavarian Soviet government; he was jailed seven years. Georg Huber jailed on the same charges as Greiner. In the front row left to right, Georg Lermer, also jailed on the same charge as Greiner. Alois Lindner, who, enraged at the murder of Kurt Eisner, made an attempt on the life of Erhard Auer, leader of the right wing Bavarian social democrats. He was sentenced to 14 years in prison. Next to him is Johann Kick sentenced with Greiner on the same charges.

Urges Workers to Aid "Daily" Affair

A call has been issued by the dressmakers' section of the Trade Union Educational League to all dressmakers to supprot the great Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar to be held in Madison Square Garden Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7. The call states:

"The Daily Worker and the Freiheit are the only two newspapers in English and Yiddish that serve faithfully the interests of the workers and take the leading part in all the struggles in which we are engaged, both with the bosses and the trade union bureaucrats.

Look to Workers' Aid.

Banquet to Celebrate Opening of Progressive GreekCenterTomorrow

The Greek Workers Progressive Center, situated in the heart of the fur and millinery district at 27 W. 28th St., will be the scene of a big banquet tomorrow evening, held in celebration of the official opening of the center.

The program of the evening will include music, dancing, a big meal for all those present, and many new features that are being held secret until the time of the banquet and dance.

The Greek Workers Progressive Center, it is expected, will be the gathering place for the many millinery and fur workers who toil all day in the vicinity.

Civil War Vet, 81, Strong for Foster, Gitlow

HAYS, No. Carolina, Sept. 6.—A veteran of the Civil War, 81 years old, is actively supporting the Communist election campaign and the candidates for president and vice-president, William Z. Foster and Ben Gitlow.

He is I. Milas Crouch, father of the young Communist ex-soldier, Paul Crouch, who was sentenced to serve 40 years at Alcatraz following his conviction before a court martial on a charge that he and Walter Trumbull organized the Communist Youth League among U. S. soldiers stationed in Hawaii. Wide protests resulted in their sentences being commuted.

"Workers and farmers who support Hoover and Smith are voting for the capitalists and for a continuation of their own enslavement," the elder Crouch says.

"I hope that the Workers (Communist) Party will soon succeed in getting on the ballot in this state so that the exploited workers and farmers can vote for the Communist program and candidates," he said.

RUBBER WORKERS STRIKE.

SYDNEY, Sept. 6.—About 25 employes at the Barnet Glass Rubber Company, Ltd., at Melbourne, ceased work on Monday as a protest against one of their number being transferred to another department in the works, and his wages reduced by 18 shillings per week.

COOK ATTACKS MOND SCHEME

Reformists Endorse Collaboration

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Dramatically denouncing the class collaboration plan of Herbert Mond, which officials of the Trades Union Congress in session at Swansea, Wales, yesterday forced thru the congress, A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain fainted from emotion and had to be carried from the hall.

Cook's denunciation and the taking of the vote on the Mond plan were the high points in this session of the Congress.

Speaking to an assemblage that had presumably been denuded of Communists and minority movement leaders as a result of the expulsion proceedings of the officialdom two days ago, Cook's voice crying "Halt!" to the ruinous policy of the Congress heads had a profound affect upon the convention and deeply stirred the hall.

In the midst of pointing out the path of destruction to which the present leadership is directing the trade union movement, Cook fell unconscious from the effort he was making.

Following passage of the resolution accepting the Mond plan, Ben Turner, president of the Congress, reverted to the unemployment situation in Great Britain which he called a "perpetual nightmare." Practical measures for combating this situation were not brought by Turner before the Congress.

"DAILY" SUB DRIVE ON

Pittsburgh Responds With 14 New Subs

"Your subscription drive is a wonderful idea, and although the quota for the district is high, you can rest assured that District 5 (Pittsburgh) will be on the top when the Daily Worker Election Campaign drive for 10,000 new readers throughout the country ends."

Thus does A. Kaspar, Daily Worker agent now engaged in procuring subs in the big Pennsylvania industrial center answer the call sent out by the Daily Worker a few days ago for one of the most extensive drives in the history of the paper, in a letter sent to the Daily Worker Subscription Campaign Manager.

Accompanying the letter is a package containing fourteen new subscriptions, gathered among the workers of Pittsburgh. Kaspar insists, however, that this is merely a beginning, and the subscriptions that he expects to send before the campaign is completed, will far exceed the quota set for Pittsburgh.

TO USE GUNS ON FRENCH WORKERS

Jingoes Plan to Stop Anti-War Meet

PARIS, Sept. 6 (UP).—Government officials have perfected plans to prevent an anti-militaristic demonstration scheduled to be held in the suburb of St. Denis next Sunday.

Continuing their anti-labor policy of throttling and persecuting workers throughout France, the reactionary and imperialistic French government officials, who arrested more than a thousand Communists in the last demonstration held several weeks ago, has issued a statement to the French capitalist press indicating that the anti-militarist demonstration scheduled to be held next Sunday will be prevented at the point of guns.

WATT, TOOHEY ISSUE APPEAL TO DISTRICT 1

Big New Union Meet to Open on Sunday

New Boss Offensive

Build Union Wrecked by Lewis Machine

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 6.—With the National Miners Convention for the purpose of building a New Union in the American coal industry but three days away, an open letter has been addressed by the Convention's Arrangements Committee to the membership of District 1, the anthracite region, as well as to the officials.

Bearing the signatures of John Watt and Pat Toohey, chairman and secretary, respectively, of the committee, the open letter calls on the miners to make a final effort to establish a new and powerful nation-wide Miners Union beside the wreck of the old United Mine Workers.

The letter further calls on McGarry, Hermanson and Harris to aid in the move to build the new organization and demands that they cease playing into the hands of the operators by imploring recognition from John L. Lewis.

The text of the open letter follows:

"In order to place once more before you the seriousness of the present condition of the United Mine Workers of America, we declare that the great fundamental principles once established by the rank and file membership of that organization has been flagrantly violated and completely abrogated by the officials, who, by hook and crook have managed to maintain themselves in control. However, these great principles have again come to life and are embodied in the movement for the New National Miners Union.

"The justified dissatisfaction that prevails in your district is the inevitable result of the wrong policies and corrupt practices of the Cappellini machine, acting for Lewis and the coal operators, the vicious and abusive contractor system, the increased speed-up system which is now made worse by the appearance of machines and mechanical devices and the omplete refusal of the Conciliation Board, an instrument of the operators, to remedy any of the industrial ills from which you suffer.

"In face of these facts and against such opposition as the operators, aided by Lewis and Boylan, the business men and city officials, are you going to continue to beg recognition from Lewis, who has destroyed the union in the bituminous fields? Or are you going to do the only sensible thing, under the circumstances, and join in with the progressives in the soft coal fields and help to build the New National Miners Union!

"The anthracite operators are now beginning the same process that the soft coal operators followed to increase their profits and weaken resistance of the miners by crushing their union. The first step is to close the so-called uneconomic mines,

7 Midwestern Bankers are Arrested, Charged With Farm Loan Fraud

BOSTON, Sept. 6 (UP).—Investigation of an allegedly bogus farm loan scheme has caused issuance of warrants for the arrest of seven Midwestern bankers on charges of using the mails to defraud New Englanders of approximately $1,500,000.

Federal Grand Jury indictments were returned yesterday against Guy Huston, John E. Huston, John L. Boyles, and Harold Smith, all of Chicago; Walter Gravens, Kansas City, Mo.; and Oran F. Schee and Vernon U. Signer, both of Des Moines, Ia.

The alleged fraud was in the sale of stock of the Farms Company of Massachusetts, the Missouri-Kansas Farms Company, and the Farmers Fund of Illinois.

Militarists Try to Keep Workers Party From Ballot in Six States

Taxi Chauffeur Illumines Sewer Graft

Former chief of the borough of Queens, Maurice Connolly, says that the last time he saw William L. D'Olier, mysteriously murdered sanitation engineer, who figures in the same case, was July 3. Walter Lowe, taxi driver, however, is sure he saw D'Olier and Connolly together Aug. 16. D'Olier is the third man whose death in the sewer scandal points to murder because "he knew too much." Above, Lowe with his machine.

USSR SIGNS KELLOGG PACT WITH CRITICISM

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 6.—Sharply criticizing the imperialist powers, the Soviet government today announced officially its adherance to the Kellogg "peace" pact. The note of adherence was handed M. Herbette, the French ambassador by Assistant Commissar for Foreign Affairs, Maxim Litvinov, together with a note containing the criticism of the pact by the Soviet government.

The criticism impugns the motives of the major signatories in drawing up the treaty and indicates that the document is a new maneuver for disguising the militarist plans of the powers.

RIDGEWOODHEARS MINOR TONIGHT

Will Present Program of Class Struggle

Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and candidate for senator on the Workers (Communist) Party will be the main speaker tonight at an election rally at the Queens County Labor Lyceum, 785 Forest Ave., Ridgewood. The rally has been called by the German election campaign conference of Brooklyn and Queens. Several prominent German speakers will also present the class struggle program of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Section 2 Daily Agents in Bazaar Meet Today

A Daily Worker agent bazaar conference of all agents of Section 2 who are at present engaged in work for the success of the Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar to be held at the beginning of October, will meet today, at 6 p. m., at 101 West 27th St.

Plans will be formulated for activity in the bazaar work, and all Daily Worker agents of Section 2 have been urged to attend this meeting without fail.

ASSERTS SEWER GRAFTER ALIVE

Phillips Not Buried, Says Doctor

While the district attorney and Tammany police officials are persisting in their refusal to consider the "mysterious" death of William D'Olier, sanitation engineer, as one of deliberate murder, another name, that of John M. Phillips, has again come to the fore.

Phillips, involved deep in the $29,500,000 Queens sewer graft, was reported to have died of "acute alcoholic poison" in Atlantic City on July 2.

The startling declaration was made yesterday by Dr. Louis H. Taylor that he believes Phillips is still alive, and that another body had been substituted at the time of the funeral services in Long Island City. At that time he had noticed the body did not resemble his friend, Phillips, and had communicated his belief to others present at the funeral.

Exhumation of the body presumably that of the Queens graft czar, may be made as a result of the present disclosure.

The belief recalls the activities of the Queens sewer contract gang which manipulated contracts for work in that district and whose personal was carefully herded and guarded by Phillips who was careful to prevent inquiry into the workings of the "ring."

D'Olier's Rib Fractured.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Newcombe yesterday continued his listless "investigation" of the death of D'Olier.

The most impressive evidence which brings additional support to the murder theory was uncovered yesterday, with the discovery on D'Olier's body of a fracture of the cartilage connecting the eighth rib to the breast bone. This, it is pointed out, reveals clearly that a struggle must have taken place before death.

Jail Leaders, Break Up Open-Air Meets in Kansas

S. P. Is Not Molested

Mill Barons Back Anti-Communist Drive

Having succeeded in placing seventeen states on the Communist ballot and with the probability that no less than thirty-five will be put in the red column in this election campaign, the Workers (Communist) Party is now fighting in several states the attempts of the black forces of reaction to throw the Party off the ballot in their effort to prevent the only revolutionary political party in the field to bring its program of militant class struggle before the exploited masses and organize them politically and industrially for the fight against the capitalist system and their political instruments.

Alexander Trachtenberg, chairman of the National Election Campaign Committee, in a report to the Political Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party yesterday stated that in the states of Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire, fascist organizations and employers, working in co-operation with the authorities, are using every possible means at their disposal to prevent the secretaries of state from accepting the Communist petitions.

Thousands Sign Petitions.

Trachtenberg called attention to the fact that, whereas in 1924 the Party ticket was on the ballot in fourteen states only, this year it is already on in seventeen states, the great majority of them for the first time. A small army of organizers was sent out by the National Election Campaign Committee into sections where the masses never had an opportunity before to hear the Communist message, and thru the activity of these organizers thousands of workers and poor farmers signed their names to the Communist petitions and gave other valuable assistance to the election campaign.

Trachtenberg, in his report, pointed out that in no place has the socialist party been interfered with, for the good reason that the platform on which Norman Thomas, the Socialist Party candidate, is running is a petty-bourgeois platform, which stands fundamentally for the perpetuation of the capitalist system and favors the major policies of world imperialism, including the League of Nations, the World Court, and the imperialist Kellogg "anti-war" treaty.

While the socialist Party platform and its presidential candidate, Norman Thomas, would only clip the claws of the capitalist beast and trim the Tammany Tiger's whiskers, the ruling classes of this country are aware that the Workers (Communist) Party aims to abolish the capitalist system root and branch and build a socialist society on its ruins under the direction of a Workers' and Farmers' Government.

"Socialist" Cities.

The socialist candidate holds up as an example of the courteous treatment the capitalist system would receive under a socialist administration in Washington the municipalities of Reading, Pennsylvania, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Immediately after the election of the socialist ticket in Reading the new administration announced that the police force of the city would be at the service of the employers. In Milwaukee, strikebreaking on the part of the "socialist" police force is traditional, and in no other city are the employers given more privileges than in "socialist" Milwaukee.

In view of these facts it is not surprising that the American Legion, the World War Veterans, and other reactionary auxiliaries of the

BLAST KILLS MINERS

1 Will Die; Other's Hands' Blown Off

ADENA, Ohio, Sept. 6.—When a charge of dynamite exploded prematurely, two miners at work in the Somners mine near here, were seriously injured. Alex Jack, 24-year-old miner, is not expected to live according to reports received by the National Miners Relief Committee. His left hand was completely blown off, his right hand badly injured, and there are severe lacerations about his face and abdomen. Charles Brown is suffering severe body injuries.

"Who'll be next?" grim-faced miners ask one another as they step into the man-trap, to be carried hundrews of feet down into open-shop mines.

In union mines, pit committees demand safety precautions. Speaking of the extreme lack of safety precautions in open-shop mines, one miner said, "They fire you if you complain about no air circulation, but what's a coal-dust explosion matter to them? It ain't their kids that'll be orphans and go hungry!"

arly Morning Fire in Twenty-five Cent Hotel Endangers Lives of 150 Workers

LICEMEN CLUB ANY WHO STAY O GET CLOTHES

tructure Was Ancient Variety

A fire which destroyed the top floor of the Hotel Annex, a 25-cent-a-night lodging house on the corner of Fulton and Clinton Sts., early yesterday morning drove 150 men, mostly unemployed workers forced to resort to the abominable conditions imposed on them by the squalid "hotel" management, into the street.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 2 a. m., when most of the workers, tired from their long day of seeking jobs, were fast asleep. A lodger on the third floor discovered the fire. Other lodgers, roused by the fire, ran to the nearest alarm boxes and turned in three alarms.

Meanwhile the workers, by this time all awake, were running around frantically, scantily dressed in the early morning cold, trying to gather their few personal belongings. Each one went for his clothes, practically all he owned.

They were progressing very calmly, and in a few moments would have had their entire belongings under their arms and safe from the fire, when policemen, running into the building, began to strike right and left among the workers with their clubs, prodding the shivering men into the street. Many of them had their tattered clothes, which were safely clutched in their hands, grasped by the police, who used their clubs and blackjacks on the workers.

When finally driven into the street by the frenzy of the police, many of the workers were attired only in their night clothes. Others had bed sheets around them trying vainly to keep warm.

Although the tinderbox hotel was only slightly damaged almost the entire possessions of the unemployed workers were lost.

COLOMBIA YIELDS TO OIL MAGNATES

Native Indians Revolt Near Barcos Tract

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 6 (UP).—Secretary of Industry Montalvo told the United Press today that he was submitting to the senate a new oil law based on "the open door nationalization policy."

The new law, it was hoped, would meet the objections of foreign oil interests that the revised Colombian oil policy was confiscatory.

The government was investigating today reports that oil men had invaded the former Barrcos concession territory, entering from the Venezuelan border. The Barrcos concession to American oil interests recently was ordered invalidated by the government. Border garrisons will be reinforced.

It was reported from Cucuta today that 200 natives of the Motilone Indian tribe were within a few miles of Puerto Villamizar on the Barrcos concession and were hostile.

Bert Miller Speaks at Jersey Meet Sunday

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 6.—Bert Miller, organizational secretary of District 2, Workers (Communist) Party, will speak on "The History and Records of the Republican and Democratic Parties" at a special New Jersey sub-district conference to be held at 93 Mercer St., Newark next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. All Party and Young Workers League speakers and functionaries are requested to attend. The meeting will open promptly, it is announced.

SUPPORT BAZAAR, DRESS TUEL CALL

struggle, they must constantly depend on the support of the class-conscious workers. Upon us falls the burden of aiding and maintaining our press.

"Affairs are the chief source of income for our proletarian press. The annual Daily Worker-Freiheit bazaar is the greatest of all these undertakings and upon it the financial security of the two papers depends to a large extent.

To Have Booth.

"This year the bazaar will be held Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7 in Madison Square Garden. Less than four weeks remain to prepare for this colossal undertaking. The Daily Worker and the Freiheit are our newspapers and the bazaar is our bazaar. We must by all means make it so overwhelming a success as to give our enemies little joy.

"The dressmakers' section of the Trade Union Educational League calls upon all dressmakers to join actively in the work for this bazaar. The dressmakers must have a booth with the best dresses and for this it is necessary that every dressmaker sew at least one good dress for the bazaar.

Get Busy!

"A great many tickets must be sold. Many greetings and names for the Red Honor Roll must be secured. No time must be lost; intensive activity in behalf of the bazaar must be started immediately.

"Get busy sewing dresses, collecting names for the Red Honor Roll and selling tickets. Everybody on the job for the bazaar of our Daily Worker and Freiheit."

Delicatessen Clerks' Progressive Group Plan Election Feast Tonight

The long and carefully prepared-for Red Election banquet of the progressive group of the Delicatessen Countermen's Union, Local 302, will be held today at 8 p. m. at the United Workers Co-operative Restaurant, 2731 White Plains Ave., the Bronx.

According to I. Himmelfarb, one of the leading members of the progressive group which is arranging this banquet for the benefit of the Communist election campaign, the spread to be offered at the festive board will be exceptionally appetizing and satisfying. There will not be a preponderance of delicatessen food, according to Himmelfarb.

The two speakers at the banquet will be Rebecca Grecht, campaign manager of District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party and candidate for assembly from the Fifth District of the Bronx, and P. Yuditch, labor editor of the Freiheit, who will speak in English.

Relief Contributions for Textile Strikers Pouring Into W. I. R.

Contributions for the relief of the New Bedford and Fall River textile strikers continue to pour into the offices of the New York local of the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square, Harriet Silverman, local secretary, said yesterday. Branch 421, Workmens Circle of Paterson, donated $166.57; D. Leibowitz collected $25 from some Peekskill campers over the week-end and the Co-operative Trading Association gave $50 yesterday, Miss Silverman said.

U. S. PLANS ARMS ALLIANCE NOTE

Struggle With Britain Is Sharper

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (UP).—When President Coolidge returns here state department officials will being preparing a note setting forth the American attitude toward the Anglo-French naval agreement, it was said in an authoritative quarter today.

Published London reports that England is about to denounce this agreement because it has offended the United States are not credited here. Whether or not these reports are true, it was intimated that a communication on the subject would be sent to London or Paris and perhaps to both.

Minor to Speak at Big Finnish Workers' Celebration Sunday

Thousands of Finnish workers from New York City and vicinity will throng to College Point Field, College Point, L. I., to attend a huge all-day picnic and celebration that has been arranged by the Finnish District Committee of Workers Clubs for this Sunday.

The picnic will open at 10 a. m with an athletic program in which some of the leading Finnish working class athletes will take part. Many other entertaining numbers will also be included in the day's activities, as well as liberal refreshments.

One of the features of the affair will be the appearance of Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and Workers (Communist) Party candidate for United States Senator. Minor will speak at an election campaign rally that will be held at the picnic and will call upon the Finnish workers to support the program and candidates of the Workers Party.

SHOE STRIKERS PUT UP DEMANDS

Recognition of Union Is Chief Requirement

Swinging into an offensive, the 73 strikers who have completely paralyzed the shoe factory of the S. Liebermann Co., Hope St., Brooklyn, for over a week, yesterday put forward three main demands the employers will be compelled to accede to before they will resume work in the shop. Recognition of the Independent Shoe Workers Union, reinstatement of general chairman A. Mershon, and the return of the 6 per cent wage cut enforced several months ago, are the demands unanimously voted for at the strikers' meeting yesterday morning in Arcadia Club, Hope and Rodney Sts., Brooklyn.

From the beginning of the strike, the craftsmen, who comprise 100 per cent of the plant's working force, had simply asked the firm to reinstate the general chairman, whose dismissal for union activities had first precipitated the walkout. Since the firm stubbornly decided to challenge the workers organization, even indulging in a vain attempt to replace the strikers by scabs, the workers decided to increase their strike demands.

The Joint Council of the Shoeworkers Union, which had formulated the demands at its meeting Wednesday night, which it later presented for adoption to the strikers' meeting, also announced a series of activities which will mobilize their membership for support of the Liebermann strike as well as for a general recruiting drive the union is about to begin.

Section meetings of union members employed in all sections of Greater New York will be held in the next few days, with the first scheduled for this Sunday afternoon. This will be the Coney Island section, which will meet at 2:30 p. m. in the Workers House, 2901 Mermaid Ave., Coney Island. The organizer and president will deliver a report. A general membership meeting of the entire city will also be held the coming Tuesday night, with the meeting place still to be announced.

A call was also issued yesterday to all members of the organization committee to attend a meeting tonight in the union headquarters, 51 East 10th St. Matters pertaining to the Lieberman strike and plans for the union membership drive will be discussed at tonight's meeting.

2 TRAIN WORKERS KILLED

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 6 (UP).—Two men were killed when a passenger train of the Southern Railway line ran into a washout three miles north of here today. The train was bound for Columbia from Greenville. The dead are D. B. Moore, engineer, and J. F. Rateree, fireman.

5,000 CHILDREN MOVE TO HELP MILL STRIKERS

Plan for Relief for the Textile Workers

More than 5,000 workers' and farmers' children throughout the country, members of organizations affiliated with the National Workers' Children's Relief Center, 799 Broadway, are being enlisted for intensive relief work for the embattled textile strikers of New Bedford and Fall River, Ann Thompson, secretary of the Center said yesterday. The Center is affiliated with the Workers International Relief, which is doing the relief work in the textile strike zone. Robert Dunn, writer and labor economist, is chairman of the executive committee.

Young Pioneers of America, school children, Relief Scouts and children's clubs are now mobilized for textile relief work, according to Miss Thompson. Pledges are coming in from all parts of the country and 10,000 textile meal-ticket relief books are being prepared for distribution and sale, Miss Thompson said. It will be remembered that members of the Relief Center raised more than $4,000 for relief during the miners' strike.

During November workers' children conferences, affairs and mass meetings will be held in many cities to speed up children's textile relief work.

GITLOW TO SPEAK IN YOUNGSTOWN

Hundreds Expected to Attend Meeting

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Sept. 6.—The Workers (Communist) Party of this city has arranged a mass meeting for Sept. 10 in the Rayon Wood Auditorium, at which Benjamin Gitlow, candidate for vice-president on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, will be the principal speaker.

Workers of this city have for a long time been awaiting the visit of the militant working class leader, and extensive preparations have been made for his arrival. The Rayon Wood Auditorium, one of the biggest halls in the city, has been procured for the occasion.

Every class-conscious worker in Youngstown is expected to attend the mass meeting, at which Benjamin Gitlow will set forth the platform of the class struggle to the exploited workers of the big industrial city.

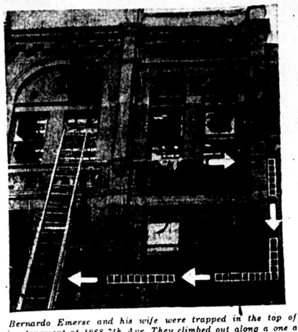
Camp Wocolona Raises $164 for Benefit of the Red Election Campaign

Among the 250 guests and 30 employees of Camp Wocolona, Monroe, N. Y., over $500 was raised during Red Week for the Communist Election Campaign, the Daily Worker, the striking miners, the striking textile workers, and for the general expenses of District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party, in a wind-up drive.

The collections were as follows: Red Election Campaign, $164; Daily Worker, $166.50; striking miners, $118.41; striking textile workers, $61.20; District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party, $19.96.

The wind-up drives at Camp Wocolona were made in accordance with the general policy of the camp to encourage collections among the vacationists for the benefit of workers on strike and for the campaigns of the only working class party in the country. During the season over $3.500 was raised at the camp by the class-conscious workers who spent their short vacation periods there.

Where Three Lost Lives in Tenement Fire



Bernardo Emerse and his wife were trapped in the top of a blazing tenement at 1968 7th Ave. They climbed out along a one and one half inch ledge and reached, she, the next building, and he, a fire ladder a floor below. The arrows in the picture show the route taken by the Emerses in escaping. Three less fortunate were burned in the fire-trap.

DREAD MINE DISEASE; MINERICH BEGS RFLIEF

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 6.—According to Dr. G. A. Parker, who has made a medical survey of twenty typical mining towns, the dread Pellagra and beri-beri may be expected if the lack of essential food continues.

The National Miners Relief Committee appeals to all sympathizers to send as much as possible to its headquarters at 611 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., to meet this desperate situation.

"Relief committees! Your task is not over," is the appeal of Anthony Minerich, secretary of the Relief Committee. "Hunger, disease, extreme hardships are being suffered in the mine fields. Babies are born, but doctors refuse to attend because there is no money. There is no bread for the children.

"In the open-shop mines accident after accident occurs. Over 1,200 miners were killed in the first half of this year. Only in union mines are there pit committees that have the right to demand safety precautions. Thousands of miners are still fighting for such committees. Our relief helped many hold out until this demand was won. Remember, our task is not over! Call your committee together, tell them about the great need, and help all you can!"

FIVE INJURED IN MANHOLE BLAST

2 Badly Hurt, Taken to Hospital

A gas explosion which sent a manhole cover at Ninth Ave. and 53rd St. up into the street last night injured four men and a woman who were on the street at the time. Two of the men were injured so seriously that they had to be removed to the Roosevelt Hospital. The other three injured were taken home.

The four men, all workers, had just emerged from a lunch room nearby when the blast hurled the manhole cover into the air on the street. All four were knocked to the pavement and badly bruised One of them, Fred Wenzel, of 848 11th Ave., was hurled by the explosion into the manhole itself, and had to be lifted out with ropes by workers employed in the vicinity.

The woman, Mrs. Mathilda John, 85 years old, of 835 Ninth Ave., fell into a manhole across the street from the explosion. It had been removed to let air into the subterranean passage. She was badly bruised and cut, and was sent home.

The manhole cover was hurled into the air with such force that it struck the elevated structure twenty feet above the street level. It narrowly missed hitting several passersby as it fell back to the pavement.

Plan Freiheit Gesangs Verein Picnic Sunday at Pleasant Bay Park

The annual picnic of the Freiheit Gesangs Verein will be held this Sunday, Sept. 9 at Pleasant Bay Park. The Freiheit Gesangs Verein, under the direction of Lazar Weiner, will render a program of songs. The Freiheit Mandolin Orchestra will give a program of classical numbers. The Russian Workers' Balalaika Orchestra, "Lapotniki," will also be a feature.

Harry Fox at Speakers Conference Tomorrow

The weekly speakers' conference of District 2, Workers (Communist) Party, will be held at the Workers Center, 26 Union Square, tomorrow at 2 o'clock. Harry Fox, of the Daily Worker, will talk on "How to Put the Daily Worker Over at Open-Air Meetings."

All Party, Young Workers League and Pioneer speakers are urged to attend and participate in the discussion.

Plan Picnic for Il Lavoratore Sunday

Italian workers in New York and vicinity will hold a picnic for the benefit of Il Lavoratore, Italian Communist weekly newspaper, on Sunday, September 9, at Zeman's Park, Union City, N. J.

The picnic will start at 10 a. m. Games, and music by an eight-piece orchestra will be the feature.

RED CONVENTION OF ESSEX COUNTY TO OPEN SUNDAY

Jersey Campaign on in Many Cities

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 6.—The Essex County Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party will open here on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the Workers Progressive enter, 93 Mercer St. All labor and fraternal organizations are invited to send three delegates each to the convention.

A county campaign committee will be elected at this time, and ways and means of conducting the campaign will be the order of business. A speaker from District 2 will outline the national policies of the Communist campaign. This is the first of a series of city and county conventions to be held throughout New Jersey.

Irving Freiman will talk on "The New Jersey Issues and the Campaign" at the semi-monthly Speakers' Conference at the Newark Workers Center, 93 Mercer St., next Sunday, Sept. 9, in the morning at 10 o'clock.

TCHICHERIN ON VISIT TO BERLIN

(By United Press)

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—George Vassilievich Tchicherin, Soviet People's Commissar of Foreign Affairs, is visiting Berlin to recover from his recent illness, but political speculation tonight centered on a report that the Soviet minister is seeking an interview with Foreign Minister Stresemann.

The possibility that Russo-German relations may be greatly strengthened by such a meeting has created a friendly interest in Tchicherin's visit which otherwise might have passed without incident.

Philly Bootleggers Buy Up Arsenals

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6 (UP).—Six bullet-proof vests and three hand-operated machine guns were among the articles of gangland haberdashery purchased from him by Max "Boo Boo" Hoff, alleged head of a $10,000,000 alcohol ring, Edward Goldberg has admitted, Assistant District Attorney Schofield said today.

His direct linking of Hoff, nationally known as a fight promoter because of his connection with the Philadelphia Dempsey-Tunney battle, with the recent gang warfare overshadowed other developments of a sensational day in the vice investigation. These included the indictment of 182 persons for prohibition offenses by the federal grand jury and the holding of Goldberg on a perjury charge.

Biedenkapp to Leave Today for Fall River

Fred Bcidenkapp, national secretary of the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square, will leave tonight for Fall River, Mass., to attend the opening of an additional relief station.

TEACHERS WIN PAY RAISE.

ATLANTA, Sept. 6.—Teachers in Fulton county schools secured a pay raise.

LINK FULLER, KELLOGG AT FRENCH MEMORIALS

PARIS, Sept. 6. — In three great meetings held on successive nights in working class districts of Paris, thousands of workers met to honor the memory of Sacco and Vanzetti. L'Humanite, French Communist daily paper, founded by Jean Jaures and now possessing a quarter of a million circulation, devoted three columns of its front page to news, editorials and pictures concerning the martyrdom of the two Italian labor organizers, done to death in Charlestown state prison to appease Massachusetts' anti-labor hysteria.

At the Parisian meetings, addressed by the fiery Vaillant-Couturier, editor of the labor daily and member of parliament, the anniversary was made the occasion for protests against the Kellogg pact.

"You cannot be against Fuller and with Kellogg," said Vaillant-Couturier, in exposing pacifist pretensions of Kellogg. "The same laws which command one to kill Sacco and Vanzetti command the other to shoot down the workers of Haiti and Nicaragua while awaiting bigger game."

Hundreds of young sailors and soldiers, he said, are in military prisons, under conditions of amazing brutality and workers and their representatives in parliament are constantly being harassed by the French police and the government. The Sacco-Vanzetti case is a reminder to French workers, Vaillant-Couturier summed up, that France also has hundreds of workers in jail, framed up for their loyalty to their class. He called for a world-wide struggle against the Fullers, Thayers and Kelloggs of all nations.

Surrender of Mexican Oil to U. S. Interests Seen in Statement of Commerce Sec'y.

FINAL SELL-OUT TO U. S. FIRMS SEEN IN MOVE

All Facilities to Be Granted Investors

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 7.—American oil investors and corporation heads are rejoicing today over the decision of Dr. Jose Manuel Puig-Casaurane that henceforth in its dealings with the American and other oil companies the Mexican government will consider oil as a public utility.

The oil interests interpret this as an end to the petroleum war between the government and the forsigners which the Mexican supreme court in a number of rulings had already gone far to decide in favor of the Americans. They further see in it a virtual surrender of the petroleum resources of Mexico into the hands of the powerfully entrenched American exploiters and a complete abandonment of the principle of the right of the American people to the sub-soil products around which the entire struggle revolved.

Secretary Puig-Casaurane made precise explanation of a number of points involved in the present ruling. He declared that in lieu of submitting oil claims, drilling permits, or pipe-line franchises or other petroleum company documents to a rigorous examination, his department will "accept company documents without reservation, considering them legally drawn up." He stated further that if they were not so drawn it was the business of the courts to decide. Prompt action in granting favors to American corporations was also promised by the secretary, and he assured them they would be accommodated with all legal facilities.

Approximately 100 applications for confirmatory concessions are reported to be pending at the present time.

PAPER WORKERS WIN.

STOCKHOLM (FP).—Victory after two months of strike has come to workers in Sweden's paper industry. Aggressive tactics used by strikers from the start are given credit for the success.

COMMUNISTS FIGHT JINGO ATTACK

capitalist government should regard the socialist party as a patriotic, law-abiding political party and the Workers (Communist) Party a "subversive" party inimical to the interests of the capitalist class. These fascist organizations are working under the direction of the big capitalists and enjoy all the privileges of the regular forces of the state.

Fascists Active in Nebraska.

In Nebraska the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars are leading the fight to throw the Workers (Communist) Party ticket off the ballot. The Communist petitions were filed after a convention held in Omaha on Aug. 19, which wa sattended by the required number of citizens, and the required number of signatures were collected. Six hundred and Eighty-three persons signed the roll, which was 183 more than was necessary according to law. Tho the law says that 500 persons must be present at a meeting to launch a new party, a supreme court decision of 1912 held that all of them need not be physically present at the gathering and that if they sign the rosters of members subsequently, that is sufficient.

The Sun, of Omaha, carried a news story on August 27 which declared that in default of a protest filed within five days, Secretary of State Marsh would have no other recourse but to accept for filing the petitions of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars at Lincoln then protested to the secretary of state, and at the Legion convention, held in Grand Island on Aug. 29, R. A. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Americanization Committee of the Legion, spoke on the "menace" of Bolshevism and declared that a grave danger confronted the Legion.

This attack followed on the heels of Governor Adam McMullen's warning that Communist propaganda was making great inroads among the youth of Nebraska.

"Here in Nebraska," Kirkpatrick said, "for the first time we have the Workers Party on the ballot. Also 16 other states have this party to deal with politically this year."

Spy System.

Kirkpatrick declared that the Legion was carrying on an extensive espionage campaign, boasting that Legion stool-pigeons attended several Communist meetings during the year and furnished reports to the Department of Justice in Washington.

In the State of Kansas the war on the Communists was not confined to an attempt to throw the Party off the ballot. Leading members of the Workers (Communist) Party were arrested, including Hugo Oehler, District Organizer for District 10, who has done splendid work in getting the Party ticket on the ballot not only in Kansas, but in neighboring states. Oehler was arrested with others and charged with a violation of the criminal syndicalism law, their particular offense being conducting open-air meetings in front of the Cudahy Packing Company's plant in Kansas City.

In Texas, the assistant secretary of state ruled the Party off the ballot on the ground that "it is not shown that the Workers (Communist) Party is a state political organization, having polled in the last election more than 10,000 votes and less than 100,000 votes for its nominee for Governor of Texas."

Texas Discrimination.

That the Workers (Communist) Party is being discriminated against in Texas is shown by the fact that the steps taken by B. H. Lauderdale, chairman of the Party State Executive Committee, were the same as those taken by the American Party, organized by former Governor Ferguson in 1920. Of course, the American Party was not a working-class party, while the Workers (Communist) Party is.

In Springfield, Mass., the local authorities refused to accept Communist petitions for filing, and the election committees everywhere in the state are protesting a high percentage of the signatures. This compels the Communists to collect three or four times as many signatures as the legal requirement.

In Manchester, N. H., the head of the local inspectors of the voting lists is the head of the employment office of the Amoskeag Mills as well as a state senator who works in the State House at Concord in the interests of the Amoskeag textile barons. He divides his time between the Amoskeag office, the Manchester City Hall, and the State House, but all that time is well spent in the interests of the Amoskeag Mills.

The 800 signatures were collected in Manchester alone—the requirement for the whole state is 1,000—the politicians, the police, and the entire city administration is controlled by the Amoskeag Mills, and the election inspectors are challenging the signatures wholesale.

The action of the New England authorities in trying to keep the Workers (Communist) Party off the ballo tis a reflex of the New Bedford and Fall River strikes and the activity of the Party and its membership in these bitter labor struggles. The Communists in both cities have given leadership and encouragement to the militant rank and file in the fight against the mill bosses. As in other states the authorities are not interfering with the socialist pary, which is supporting the reactionary bureaucrats of the Textile Council of New Bedford, who enjoy the protection of the police in their policy of betraying the strikers.

In the election campaign conducted by the Workers (Communist) Party thruout the country, Trachtenberg said, the mask is being torn from the ugly face of capitalist democracy. In violation of their own laws, the capitalists are attempting to keep the Communist ticket off the ballot, lest the exploited workers should be able to vote for a Party that stands for their real interests. The difference in attitude of the employing classes towards the revolutionary Workers (Communist) Party on one side and the purely parliamentarian, pacifist socialist party, on the other, is a tribute to the progress being made by the Communists in mobilizing the workers for the class struggle.

The prospect of a well-organized political party of revolutionary labor, with a program that calls for the organization of the unorganized and the radicalization of the organized workers, as well as the organization of the militant workers into the Workers (Communist) Party, is giving the ruling classes attacks of nerves. The attempt to keep the Party off the ballot will only have the effect of increasing the activities of the members, Trachtenberg said, and making them more determined than ever to fight to put the Party ticket on the ballot, to keep it on until election day, and to wage a militant election campaign between now and November, with the object in view of strengthening the Party for the struggles ahead.

Big New Union Meet Opens Sept. 9

create keen competition for jobs and make for the deterioration of union conditions, after which will come the direct attack. The job of the operators to destroy the union there will be much more effective now, since they have succeeded in completely wrecking the U. M. W. A. in the soft coal fields. Although they are united nationally, they have been content to smash the union piecemeal in one district at a time, as the procession through Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, Maryland, West Virginia, Washington, Canada, Pennsylvania and Ohio will show. No section of the union can fight these attacks alone, as the destruction in the above mentioned fields will show.

"What are you anthracite miners going to do in this situation?

"What will you do, McGarry, Hermanson and Harris? Your election is the result of the determination of a majority of the local unions of your district to get rid of Cappellini and fight against the infamous contractor system and the rotten Conciliation Board.

"Your continued effort to beg recognition from Lewis will play into the hands of the operators and betray the confidence the men have placed in you. This the miners are bound to realize. Think this over, decide to line up with the union and help to make it what it should be, but this union must be the New Union.

"You know that the change from Cappellini to Boylan was planned by Lewis and that the corrupt policies will remain, that the conditions about which you so justly complain will remain, and, while you fight against the recognition of Boylan, you fail to fight these rotten conditions and surrender your right to strike, because of threats of the business men and city officials.

"You know you cannot make peace with Lewis unless you surrender to his demands and that would mean betrayal of the trust of the rank and file who expect you to fight for them. You have appealed to the Lewis machine that a special district convention or election be held. This you have done in face of the fact that you know full well that it is the common practice of the Lewis machine to pack conventions with delegates of nonexisting locals who represent the corrupt Lewis machine only. You also know full well that an honest election cannot be held with Lewis playing a leading role in such election.

"We submit to you that in view of this situation, which is well known to you, there is only one step you can take which will be to the best interests of the men you have been chosen to represent, which will actually reestablish union conditions and forever do away with corruption, and that is to join with the men in the soft coal fields in the building of a new, strong and powerful National Miners Union.

"Send delegates from your local unions to the great National Miners Convention to be held in Pittsburgh, Pa., September 9 to 16, 1928.

"We invite all coal miners to join this great movement.

"Fraternally yours, National Miners Convention Ararngements Committee. (Signed) John J. Watt, chairman; Pat H. Toohey, secretary."

Amnesty Prisoners to Rest in U. S. S. R.

BRAZIL WORKERS DENOUNCE FORD DUTYLESS CARGO

Local Capitalists Also Envy Rubber King

PARA, Brazil, Sept. 6.—Considerable resentment is being expressed here over the duty free admission of materials for Henry Ford's rubber concession into this country. Protest has been unofficially made by a number of labor and other organizations.

The duty free clause was inserted into the concession granting Ford the huge rubber concession.

Representing a solid section of public opinion, even the liberal newspapers are attacking the Ford grant and the arrival of the first cargo without customs payment. In this they also have the backing of local industrialists, who, for their own interests, allege that the contract with Ford grants privileges to the American industrialist not granted to them.

The immediate planting of the Ford concession will be deferred, representatives of the company announced yesterday, pending preliminary operations, principally of a sanitary and construction nature.

Transportation facilities are occupying the attention of the Ford engineers, who are laying out a number of roads. Ford's rubber will be shipped by boat down the Amazon at small cost, but for quick handling of the latex; rubber base in the camp, a network of roads has been planned in the concession.

DAILY WORKER 'SUB' DRIVE ON

14 New Readers Gotten in Pittsburgh

Further enthusiasm for the ultimate success of the Daily Worker Election Campaign Drive for 10,000 new readers is shown in a communication from Anna Herbst, Daily Worker Agent in District 15, Connecticut. Sending 15 new subs for the militant daily, Anna Herbst, also insists that this is "only a beginning," and that she expects to have many more before her tour over the state of Connecticut is completed.

Throughout the United States, the machinery of the huge Daily Worker drive is being oiled. Committees are being formed, and the definite work of procuring subscriptions for the Daily Worker is definitely getting under way. Although several big cities, including Boston and Cleveland have not as yet been heard from, new subs are expected before the week is over.

In New York City, that campaign will definitely get under way with a Daily Worker agents meeting tonight at the Workers Center.

Fight Against Black Reaction!

In New Bedford, Mass., 30,000 textile workers are out on strike since April 16th of this year, against wage reductions and the speed-up system. The strike has spread to Fall River where several thousand more textile workers have entered the strike.

Under the leadership of the militant Textile Mill Committees the strikers are carrying on an heroic struggle. Police clubs, bayonets in the hands of the militia, wholesale arrests of pickets, heavy fines and long prison sentences have not been able to break down the fighting spirit of the striking textile men and women.

Thousands of strikers and their children go hungry waiting for help from their fellow workers and friends. More than seven hundred strikers have been cast into jail and put under heavy bail. In Fall River, in addition thereto, they are also placed under heavy peace bonds, which is a new invention of the boss owned courts.

PLUMBERS HELPERS TO MEET AT LABOR TEMPLE IN MASS MEETING, SEPT. 15; ALL MUST RALLY

(By a Worker Correspondent)

It is my object to put before the labor movement the case of a plumbers' helper, an acquaintance of mine. It can be taken as an example of what is happening every day in the trade. The plumbing bosses don't give a damn what happens to tion with the Red Day; in connec- the helpers as long as they are assured that the helpers are not strong enough to resist exploitation.

The shop this helper was working in is Harry L. Mensher's in the Bronx. The helpers in this shop are continually forced by the boss to hurry up, hurry up all the time. The day's work starts before 8 a. m., for the helper must have hot lead so that the mechanic can use it immediately upon starting to work. All day long the boss is on the job driving the helpers crazy with his hollering, hurry up, hurry up.

On the sixth floor the boss can be heard in the street shouting at the helpers hurry up, hurry up.

Then when the boss wants overtime done he pays single time and he stands behind the helpers afraid that the helpers may take a little time off to take a breath and light a cigarette.

The day's work may end after 5 p. m., if the boss does not want a certain piece of work done. Such is an example of the day's work of a plumbers' helper. It is a cinch according to the boss to carry heavy pipe all day long. The boss occasionally sticks to the fact that helpers are not well organized, by saying, "You are not union men so what can you expect."

As a reminder to the bosses we must strengthen our organization. The American Association of Plumbers' Helpers is going to have a mass meeting Sept. 15 at the Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Ave., and by coming to the meeting and organizing shop committees, the plumbers' helpers will show the bosses that in union there is strength.

Hundreds of Miners from All U. S. Coming to Build New Union, Correspondent Says

HANdOuTS

When one capitalist nation draws its sword and proceeds to cut the throat of another, the League of Nations, theoretically, is supposed to rush in, snatch the swords of both the aggressor and the defender and hurl them into the dustbin, not failing to reprove them both for barbarity. Actually the league would find itself taxed to settle a dispute between a housewife and a fish peddler. Costa Rica was beginning to think the United States was using the Monroe Doctrine as a cloak for anything from wholesale robbery to driving a car without a tail light and asked the League of Nations just what the Monroe Doctrine was supposed to be anyway. The League got out of the way of this one with its usual hop step and jump. The handful of words that was handed Costa Rica, if they are found to have any meaning, won't throw any more light on the Monroe Doctrine than the U. S. wishes.

Gems of Learning

Raymond Leslie Buell, Research Director of the Foreign Policy Association:

"The European has solved the conflict by making the natives work. Forced labor has three forms: First, for porterage, or the transport of goods upon the heads of human carriers; second, natives are obliged to travel hundreds of miles down the Congo to work on railways on the West Coast; third, in many territories, notably the Portuguese, French and Belgian, and indirectly in some British territories, natives are being compelled to work for private enterprise. Thousands, if not millions are annually obliged to submit to this type of servitude."

This is imperialism building up the country for the "inferior" races.

Mexican Congress for Successor for Calles

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 6. — Congress is expected to select a provisional president to succeed Plutarcho Elias Calles within the next fortnight.

The selection of a candidate for one year, pending the new elections, was indicated as the deputies planned to name the next executive almost immediately instead of waiting until the last of November when President Calles' term will expire.

New names have been placed in the spotlight since President Calles' opening address to the congress Saturday in which he predicted the end of military rule in Mexico.

Elmira Machinists Strike Is Still Firm

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The machinists who went on strike June 18 at the American LaFrance and Fomite Corporation plant, this city, are standing firm.

The corporation, which manufactures fire-fighting apparatus, has been unable to obtain skilled mechanics to act as strikebreakers, and production has practically ceased.

OPEN-SHOP MINES SEND DELEGATES TO HUGE MEET

See Rapid Growth for New Union

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (By Mail).—A new national miners union, with fighting policies and organized bodies of coal miners in every section of the industry to start with, is an assured fact. Despite all the terrorism and intimidation of the Lewis machine and the lack of funds for an intensive campaign by the progressives, tens of thousands of mine workers have elected delegates to the National Convention, Sept. 9-16, at Pittsburgh, Pa., which will organize the new union, liberating the miners from the traitorous leadership which has wrecked their old union.

At least 600 delegates will gather in Pittsburgh for this historic task, judging by the large number of credentials that have already reached the headquarters of the National Convention Arrangements Committee, according to Pat H. Toohey, Secretary of the Committee.

The credentials already received show the following number of delegates from the various coal fields: at least 40 from the states west of Illinois, 45 from Indiana and Kentucky, about 75 from Illinois, over 50 from Ohio, about 150 from the Pittsburgh District, about 20 from District 2, Central Pennsylvania, 50 from the Anthracite, about 100 from West Virginia and 70 from the unorganized counties of Pennsylvania. No doubt there are additional delegates whose credentials have not arrived yet.

The large delegations from the formerly unorganized territories are of particular significance. In the short time that the National Convention Arrangements Committee has carried on organizing work, and despite the lack of funds, it has succeeded in organizing a large number of locals and has established hundreds of groups in the formerly unorganized coal fields. The miners everywhere have responded with enthusiasm to the call for the new, fighting National Miners Union, and will gather their forces for the struggle to regain the losses suffered through the betrayals of the Lewis machine and to re-establish union conditions in the industry. Every indication points to a rapid growth of the new union. Sept. 9 will usher in a new day for the miners of this country.

American Sailors in Life Boat Races

The crew of the S. S. President Harding put up a stiff fight in the international lifeboat races on Labor Day. They won third place, British sailors taking first and Swedish second. But not the seamen who rowed the race were given the prize. By a kind of thinking possible only to the bosses, the men were shoved to one side as soon as the applause was over, and the prize was handed to the capitain of the President Harding. USE DEPORTATION THREAT IN OHIO

Break Up Sacco Meet in Martins Ferry

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Local authorities fearing a possible "October Revolution" as a result of the activities of the "reds" have called federal authorities to Martins Ferry, O., to scare workers from attending meetings by threatening them with deportation. This action of the police is the result of the breaking up of the Sacco-Vanzetti Memorial Meeting, August 25, when six speakers were arrested and held for a grand jury trial. Those arrested were classed as "aliens" and "foreigners" (all residents outside of Martins Ferry are aliens) and charged with rioting and holding meetings which are a menace to public safety.

The police of Martins Ferry attempted to scare the workers from attending the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting by making statements in the local papers that "there will be no meeting tonight" and that "patriotic organizations would come to the aid of the authorities to drive the 'reds' from the city."

Patrol wagons and riot guns were on hand at the meeting and the speakers were not given an opportunity to say much when they were hustled to the waiting patrol. Several hundred of the crowd followed the police to the city jail and police fearing trouble gave the arrested men a speedy hearing and ordered them sent to the county jail at St. Clairsville. An armed escort of many machines was necessary to bring the men to the county jail because their "Communist friends" might try to rescue them en route.

The bail of the arrested men was fixed at $1,000 and although the hearing was speedy yet their release was delayed to three days because the judge was out of town, (playing golf at a country club), and besides "the men were better locked up than free." The arrested men sang solidarity songs and local papers stated that they were a group of "radical foreigners" who (learned this from the songs) have been planning a revolution for October in Martins Ferry.

The workers of eastern Ohio showed their solidarity and friendship to the arrested speakers who fought for free speech by sending them greetings and food to the jail.

STINNES IN HUGE WAR BOND STEAL

In 40,000,000 Mark Swindle

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—Fraudulent manipulation of German war bonds totalling billions of marks has been uncovered by the ministry of justice in an investigation that started several days ago with the arrest of Hugo Stinnes, son of the late German industrialist, it was said today.

After consultation with his lawyers, Stinnes said he had been the victim of "agents provocateurs" who enticed him into making false claims for the redemption of war bonds. Officials claimed the investigation revealed that the banks in Germany, France, Rumania and Holland were implicated.

The fraud consisted of buying up war bonds and claiming the full redemption value allowed only to original holders. Thus claims have been entered for 40,000,000 marks in war bonds ostensibly in the hands of original holders, whereas the government had estimated only 20,000,000 were so held.

Chicago Militants to Hold Big Picnic

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 6.—A boost for labor unity and a rallying of militant unionists in Chicago will mark the annual Trade Union Educational League picnic at Kolze's Electric Park on Sunday, Sept. 16. These annual outings have been an event among progressive trade union circles in Chicago for seven years.

All tickets sold in advance will be accompanied by a month's subscription to Labor Unity, the national organ of the TUEL. Kolze's Park, at 6353 W. Irving Park Blvd., is a well known amusement center with unusual opportunities for recreation in addition to the games, dancing and refreshments arranged by the picnic committee.

The Park can be reached by any car north to Irving Park Blvd. and transfer west to Kolze's Park.

KAROLYI SAME OLD "LIBERAL" WORKERS FIND

Innocuous Statements Charm Wall Street

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Count Michael Karolyi, first president of the Hungarian bourgeois republic, left the United States. Since three years he has been barred from this country by the state department. His latest arrival marked a change of heart on the part of the officials of Wall Street in Washington. Karolyi was allowed to come in for two days. The capitalist papers more warmly greeted him than formerly. The conversation of Karolyi with the state department aroused hopes in Karolyi about lifting up the ban.

What caused these changes?

Karolyi proved, partly by his silence, partly by his statements, that he is not dangerous to capitalism.

Karolyi had his first opportunity to state his views after his arrival, Sept. 1, at the Wall and South St. mass meeting. But what happened?

He had nothing to say, no program to offer, not a word in the interest of the working class.

He received a cool reception, in contrast with Louis Kovess, Editor, Uj Elore Hungarian Communist Daily, who spoke in the name of the Party, despite the chairmen and police officers, who tried to stop him. A five minutes demonstration followed the appearance of the speaker, a demonstration of the Communist Party, for the Communist Internationale. So the "reception for Karolyi" turned to be a demonstration for Communism. Even police brutality could not stop the workers from marching through Wall Street and singing the revolutionary hymn.

At the Central Opera House there was another demonstration for the Workers Communist Party.

And here, Karolyi once more proved that he has no program for the workingclass. His statement about "his Jeffersonism" proved that he is still the liberal he was at the time of his presidency.

The demonstrations at Wall St. and the Central Opera House proved that the Hungarian workers see their only leader in the Communist Party.

Hopkins Play Opens Tonight; "Luckee Girl" Here Sept. 17

ARTHUR HOPKINS will bring his first production of the season, "Machinal," a play by Sophie Treadwell in two parts and ten scenes, into the Plymouth Theatre this evening. The production, designed by Robert Edmond Jones in modernistic style is eagerly awaited by the first night element who look upon a Hopkins production as an event. This one has caused much comment along Broadway the past month.

The cast of twenty is headed by Zita Johann, Jean Adair, Clark Gable, George Stillwell and Charles Kennedy. Mr. Hopkins staged the play.

The premier of "Luckee Girl," the French musical farce, which the Shuberts are sponsoring, will take place at the Casino Theatre Monday evening, September 17. Gertrude Purcell adapted the book from "Un Bon Garcon," Max and Nathaniel Lief wrote the lyrics, Maurice Yvain the score. The cast is headed by Billy House, Irene Dunne, Irving Fisher, Harry Puck, Josephine Drake, Doris Vinton and Frank Lalor.

"The New Moon" which begins the second week of its fornight run in Cleveland today, will play the Alvin Theatre, Pittsburgh next week instead of coming here. It will open at the Imperial Theatre on September 18, instead of the 11th, as previously scheduled.

Hamilton MacFadden has acquired a new comedy titled "Hell on Wheels," by Maxwell Anderson, Jack Niles, and Douglas Moore. Rehearsals will start in three weeks. Mr. Anderson was author or part author of "What Price Glory," "Outside Looking In," and "Saturday's Children."

John T. Doyle, who plays the lead ing masculine role of "The Great Power," did such good work at the opening performance of that play in Philadelphia, that Myron C. Fagan, author and producer of that drama, will have him co-featured him with Minna Gombell, when the play opens at the Ritz Theatre Tuesday.

Walter Folmer, who has not been seen on Broadway since his appearance in "Dancing Mothers," will play the role of Polverino in Horace Liveright's comic opera, "The Jagger and the Rose."

"The Silent House" will be transferred from the Shubert to the Sam Harris Theatre on Monday to make room for the premiere of "White Lilacs" at the Shubert.

Union Officials Move to Avert Strike of 2,000 Stage Workers Set for Tomorrow

SENTIMENT OF WORKERS FOR A WALK-OUT

Wage Raise and Better Hours Is Demand

Panic stricken by the threat of 2,000 stage hands in New York City to go on strike tomorrow if their demands are not met, the labor committee of the International Theatrical Association, the bosses league, attempted yesterday to avert the strike by conferring with officials of Local 1 of the Theatrical Protective Union. Sentiment among the stage hands is overwhelmingly for the walkout if all the demands are not met by the bosses.

The International Theatrical Association is the organization of theatre managers, whose agreement with the stage hands expired last Sunday. The agreement was not renewed at once, since the members of the stage hands' union refused to agree to work for $48 a week.

Demands of the stage hands include a weekly wage of $100 for department heads, of whom three are required in each theatre—property man, carpenter and electrician. Assistants to department heads now receiving $65 a week are asking $90. Department heads are now paid from $75 to $100.

The union is also asking a change in working hours and a crew of seven men in theatres alternating weekly between musical and dramatic attractions. Ordinary stage hands want $85 a week. The old agreement was made two years ago.

More than two thousand stage hands in New York are members of the union and if a strike is called Saturday virtually every theatre in New York will be affected.

RED CAMPAIGN IN OHIO, KENTUCKY

Speakers Will Cover Industrial Cities

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 6.—The Cleveland district of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League is at present engaged in a strenuous effort to bring the influence of the Communist election campaign into the shops and factories of Ohio and Kentucky. Speakers are preparing tours throughout the district, concentrating on the unorganized industrial towns. Communist literature and leaflets will be distributed before factory doors. The Daily Worker will be placed in the hands of workers who for years have seen no genuine labor literature.

Two speakers are already out on a campaign tour. Sadie Van Veer and L. Bover, representing the Workers (Communist) Party and Young Workers (Communist) League respectively, have held meetings before factory gates in Dayton and Middletown. At Dayton the meeting was held before the Delco-Remy Light Co.—a General Motors controlled plant. A crowd of 500 workers were present at the meeting.

In Middletown the speakers addressed a crowd of workers employed in the Beech-Nut Tobacco plant. They were enthusiastically received by the workers, who until that time had come in contact with no workers' movement whatsoever.

Into these cities, as well as all the cities of Ohio and Kentucky where the workers are forced to slave for starvation wages and under horrible speed-up systems, the Communist election campaign speakers will bring the message and platform of the class struggle.

French Teachers Union Aid Workers, Peasants in Political Campaign

PARIS, Sept. 6 (FP).—Propaganda against the French Teachers' Union, which has 80,000 members and is affiliated with the General Confederation of Labor, has this year run its usual course in the press controlled by the organized employers. Threats to secure legislation forbidding the teachers to belong to a trade union have been met by the union's counter-attack on the big business groups of which Premier Poincare is the spokesman.

BIG GAIN IN USSR FOREIGN TRADE

July Turnover Is 38% Above Last Year

The foreign trade turnover of the Soviet Union for July across European borders, amounting to 150,000,000 rubles, was the largest this year and was 38 per cent greater than the turnover for July 1927, according to cabled reports received today by the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the principal firm engaged in Soviet-American trade. Imports totaled 87,700,000 rubles, 21 per cent in excess of the June figure and 66 per cent greater than the imports for July last year. Exports at 62,300,000 rubles registered a gain of 4 per cent over June and 12 per cent over July 1927.

The July output of coal, 2,628,000 metric tons, and of oil, 1,032,400 tons, was somewhat greater than in June. Pig iron at 268,200 tons, steel at 310,600 tons and cotton cloth at 173,100,000 meters registered slight decreases.

Mill Barons Aim at Fake Settlement

tion Committee is the official body proposing that conferences be held between the bosses and the U. T. W. on the basis of considering the adoption of the speed-up plan. In return for this proposal, which the U. T. W. is endorsing beforehand, the employers will be asked to rescind the wage cut.

"Even if the wage cut is recalled," T. M. C. leaders declare, "the institution of the speed-up plan will mean a bigger wage cut than before, in addition to an inhuman exploitation of the mill operatives."

Expose Settlement.

The Textile Mill Committees organization has been preparing the strikers for the coming betrayal for the last few weeks, by exposing any fake settlements the Batty gang may arrive at. Even statements made in the local capitalist press admit that the overwhelming majority of the strikers will not go back to work unless the employers capitulate completely. Nevertheless some sort of fake settlement will be made with the U. T. W. as a first step toward splitting the said ranks of the strikers.

As counter measures to ward off the detrimental effects of the coming strikebreaking moves of the A. F. of L. officialdom, the Textile Workers Union again put forward their demands for a twenty-five per cent wage increase, the forty hour week, etc. The T. M. C. also announces that preparations are in full swing for the immediate resumption of huge daily picket lines at the mills. Plans for the organization of Block Committees among the broad masses of strikers is already well under way, the strike leaders declared. The immediate goal for this work is the establishment of at least 50 block committees.

These organizational measures are being entered into now in order to prepare for the police terror that will be aimed at the Textile Mill Committees as soon as the U. T. W. publicly announces its betrayal of the 21 week old struggle.

CARDINALS BEAT PIRATES BY 4 TO 3

(By United Press)

The St. Louis Cardinals gained a half game on the contenders in the National League race by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3, in a ten-inning game. The Cardinals now lead the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs by four and one-half games.

In the American League the Chicago White Sox won from the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 1. All other games scheduled were postponed on account of rain.

A home run by George Harper in the last of the tenth inning with one runner on base gave St. Louis Cardinals their victory over the Pirates. Chick Hafey put the Cards in the lead with a home run with one on in the fifth, only to have Paul Waner hit for the circuit in the ninth, with L. Waner on base, to tie the score. The Pirates threatened in the tenth, when Scott singled and was sent home by a long single by Grimes, only to have Harper decide the situation in the Cards' half of the inning. Grimes allowed six hits, while Mitchell was touched for seven.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

American League

Chicago, 2; Cleveland, 1.
No other games; rain.

National League

St. Louis, 4; Pittsburgh, 3.

SWIMMING MARATHON NOT TO BE RESUMED THIS YEAR

TORONTO, Ont., Sept 6 (UP).—The failure of any of the contestants to finish in the 15-mile Wrigley swimming marathon in Lake Ontario yesterday appears to have sounded the death knell of another such event in September.

If the event is renewed in 1929 it probably will be much earlier in the season, as the water is entirely too cold in September.

The management of the marathon announced today that the prize money of $35,000 this year would be distributed among the leaders.

SWEDISH IRON MINERS STILL ON BIG STRIKE

Russian Unionists Send $8,000 Aid Weekly

STOCKHOLM (FP), Sept. 6.—Locked out last January because they refused to take a wage cut, 4,000 iron miners are still on strike in central Sweden after eight months of conflict.

Wages underground equal 16.2 cents in American money, a 50 per cent reduction in a few years. When the 1927 agreement ended, bosses sought to write a further 10 per cent cut into a new agreement to run for two years. A strike and lockout followed simultaneously.

The Russian Miners' Federation, which concluded a mutual aid pact with the Swedish miners last autumn, has been sending the strikers about $8,000 a week in relief.

The Textile Workers Meet the Murderer of Sacco and Vanzetti

Alvan T. Fuller, capitalist governor of Massachusetts, is one of the principal murderers of Sacco and Vanzetti. Many thousands of workers in all countries of the world know him as such.

But not all of the working class has understood that the capitalist governor of Massachusetts is the consistent murderer of Sacco and Vanzetti—that is, they have not understood that Fuller, as the representative of the capitalist state would always use every weapon of force, violence and trickery against the working class under all circumstances. Many workers, especially in America where the majority of the working class is still within the capitalist political parties, do not yet understand that the capitalist government of the United States and that of the states, including Massachusetts are class organizations existing for the purpose of suppressing the workers. To put it in dramatic form, Massachusetts workers in tens and hundreds of thousands knew Gov. Fuller was the murderer of Sacco and Vanzetti, but they did not yet know that he is also the murderer of Johnny Madeiros, the striker's boy that was killed by a trooper in Fall River. They did not see that behind every private thug of the mill owners and behind every policeman's club is the capitalist class' political power.

That is because the working class generally does not yet know the connection between the capitalist state and the capitalist class including the textile mill owners. They have not yet understood that the government of a capitalist country is only the executive committee for managing the common affairs of the capitalists. And to manage the affairs of the capitalist class in Massachusetts means among other things to use the police power, the military, the courts and all other public powers to break strikes of the textile workers.

The workers have been slow to understand the nature of the capitalist state.

But the visit of a delegation of New Bedford and Fall River strikers to Fuller's office and the courageous conduct of the delegation's spokesman, Jim Reid, did something toward showing the workers that Governor Fuller or any other capitalist official of the capitalist State of Massachusetts represents, not "the people," but the capitalist class and the mill owners. When Fuller learned by the strike demands they made that the delegation was composed of real representatives of the striking textile workers, he flew into a rage and threatened to have his flunkies throw the leader of the delegation out of his office.

Did Governor Fuller consent to withdraw the armed forces controlled by him from their strikebreaking jobs at Fall River and New Bedford?

Absolutely no. He could not. He represents the mill owners as much as does any private guard or any superintendent of the mills.

Fuller's business is breaking strikes for his masters, the capitalist class including the rich mill owners. His business is killing Saccos and Vanzettis and—and Johnny Madeiros. Of course Fuller and all of the capitalist politicians (including the "socialists") would deny this. They pretend that they are representatives of "all the people." In this way they deceive millions of our class into trusting our enemies.

The delegation of forty textile workers that visited Fuller was apparently composed of workers experienced enough to know that Fuller is an enemy of our class and could do nothing for us. But by visiting Fuller and compelling him to say that he would not withdraw the armed thugs of the state from the strike situation, the delegation compelled Fuller to expose himself to many more thousands of workers who had not yet understood that they can place no reliance in the capitalist government.

These workers will continue to learn more clearly by every experience of the strike that the enemy that faces them is the capitalist class and its state organization. They will learn that every class struggle is a political struggle.

The textile workers of Massachusetts must learn to connect their struggles on the picket line with the political struggle in order to make themselves and our whole class powerful enough to defeat our enemies. They must vote in this election, not for the political parties of the mill owners' class, but for their own class party—the Workers (Communist) Party. They must leave the political parties of the mill owners' class and join their own Workers Party.

And strengthen the picket lines! Don't put your faith in agents of the capitalist class!

Why did Fuller, while practically throwing out of his office a delegation representative of the striking workers, show such a friendly attitude toward Mr. Batty, Mr. Binns and other "labor" fakers? Because Batty and Binns and their kind are professional tricksters engaged in strikebreaking for the bosses and in trying to prevent the organization of a powerful Textile Union that will fight for the workers. The mill bosses (and their little governor) hate the Textile Mill Committees because the Textile Mill Committees, formed by the workers themselves, are fighting bravely and effectively to keep the bosses from cutting wages. Batty, Binns and company are trying to prevent the formation of the new Union, and therefore are on friendly terms with the bosses and Fuller.

The oppressed and exploited textile workers of the entire country should hasten their preparations for the great Textile Convention on September 22. All textile workers must see to it that their delegates are elected and that this great conference results in building a powerful national union that will fight effectively.

And the working class everywhere must give generously to the support of the textile workers through the Workers' International Relief. The textile workers are fighting not for themselves alone, but for the entire working class, and we must help them.

CAMPAIGN CORNER

The drive to sell 100,000 copies of the Platform of the Class Struggle is now well under way. The Jewish fraction of the Workers (Communist) Party has published an edition of 15,000 copies and a Finnish edition has already ordered 1,000 copies.

To offset the influx of G. O. P. stalwarts into the ranks of the democratic party two big Tammany sewer pipe grafters had their brains blown out. At least they were found shot through the head. It would even things up considerably if the "oily" republican grafters went and did likewise.

Benjamin Gitlow has started on a nationwide tour in behalf of the Communist election campaign. Gitlow, the Communist vice-presidential nominee started on Sept. 1 with a meeting in the anthracite region. Foster opens his tour on Sept. 9 in Detroit.

With seventeen states already on the ballot the comrades are enthusiastic over the prospect of getting the thirty states originally planned by the National Election Campaign Committee on the Communist ballot. By the time this appears in print other important industrial states will be filed and the stories carried in the Party press.

The Ohio comrades did splendid work in collecting 20,000 signatures in a comparatively short time. This huge task was accomplished by voluntary effort, the comrades working at it in their spare time. What has been accomplished in Ohio can be done in every other state.

Campaign fund contributions keep pouring in. The piles of blanks with contributions from twenty to one dollar bills are coming in every day. Members of the Workers (Communist) Party and Communist sympathizers have contributed generously to relief for the striking miners and textile workers, but they realize that the election campaign offers the Party the best opportunity it ever had for establishing itself throughout the United States as the only party of the workingclass, a party that leads and fights with them in their everyday struggle and organizes them for the final struggle against capitalism and for the organization of a Workers and Farmers Government.

The comrades in Utah are well on the road to success in putting the Communist ticket on the ballot there. Utah is a hotbed of reaction and the authorities are placing many obstacles in the way of getting the Communist ticket on the ballot. But the more opposition the harder our comrades in Utah work.

The slaves of Ford and General Motors will have an opportunity to hear the message of the class struggle when William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for president, speaks in Detroit on Sept. 9, in Danceland Auditorium and later on in Flint. Foster will have some interesting things to say about the "benevolent" open-shopper, Ford, who is supporting Hoover and the open-shop General Motors Corporation which is split between Smith and Hoover.

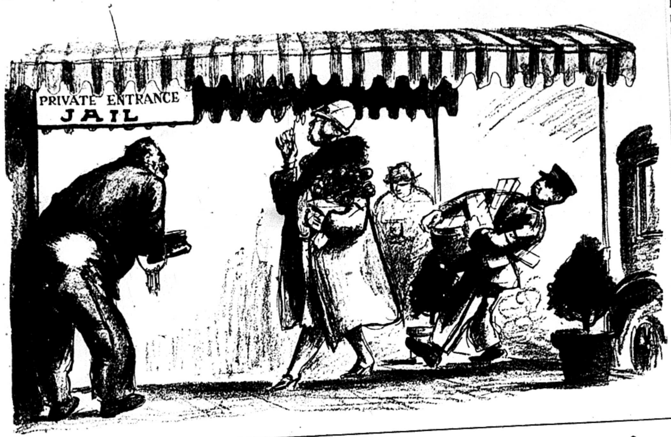
MRS. KNAPP GOES TO JAIL



Lovestone Dissects U.S. Empire

Defends Bukharin's Thesis at Sixth Communist World Congress

The following speech was delivered by Comrade Jay Lovestone at the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International.

Comrades: I believe the American Party owes an explanation to the Congress for the impermissible performance of some comrades of the delegation that has come here. Allow me to assure you comrades that I do not intend to air the inner questions in detail as has been done. I merely propose to analyze the economic situation prevailing in the United States, not only from an American angle but particularly insofar as it involves the present status of international capitalism.

The comrades in the opposition of the Workers (Communist) Party are confusing the immediate economic situation with the fundamental trend of economic developments of American imperialism. We reject any schematic concept as utterly un-Leninist.

The American Party's opposition say that they accept the main line of Comrade Bukharin's theses but they have seven reservations; one, they want an elaboration of some sections; second, an emphasis on other sections; third, they say that the rate of decline in the growth of production is already clear. Then they say that the rate of increase of exports is already declining. Fourth, our opposition demands a "new emphasis" on America. Fifth, according to our opposition the thesis of Comrade Bukharin fails to show clearly the interpendence of the class struggle within the imperialist countries and the contradictions between the capitalist countries. Sixth "it is necessary that the Congress should work out a more concrete perspective or America," said Comrade Foster. Seventh, all in all, our opposition, in accepting the theses of Comrade Bukharin, say that they want "a new word" on America. Otherwise our self-styled left wing which the Comintern has repeatedly criticized for its right errors, accepts the theses of Comrade Bukharin.

Comrade Bukharin says that American imperialism is still on the ascent; that the very prowess of American imperialism is the basis of rationalization in Europe. The Central Executive Committee maintains that American imperialism is still on the ascendant. Our comrades of the opposition charge that we advertise American imperialism because we recognize as an objective, though objectionable fact, the existing prowess of American imperialism. For instance, the other day in our July 4 demonstrations, when our comrades were arrested for anti-imperialist acts, we were "salesmen" of Wall Street. And look at this piece of advertising that has been put into the theses of Comrade Bukharin—advertising American imperialism—in the language of our opposition:

"The general social and economic basis of this fact is the slow rate of development of the crisis of capitalism in the course of which one of its principal component parts is on the upgrade while others are undergoing a process of relatively slow decline. This includes the growing consolidation of the positions of the United States as the world exploiter, creditor and usurer (the 'prosperity' of the United States. . .)"

Now, what does the opposition say? I quote from their documents as follows:

"An analysis of the degree of ripeness of these contradictions will show that American capitalism is about to reach the apex of its growth."

This is taken from the Bittelman-Foster thesis. Secondly, "The present economic depression must inevitably become the forerunner of a deep-going crisis." Third, before the Presidium of the Comintern, Comrade Dunne declared:

"Furthermore, our Party and in this all of us are involved, but of course most of the responsibility rests on the majority of the C. E. C.—have under-estimated the rapidity of the development of the class struggle in America, underestimated the tempo both of the decline of the American national economy and the will and the desire of the masses to struggle."

A few words about the present economic situation in the United States. Yes, there is an acute depression in the United States today. Basic features of this depression are shown in mass unemployment, arising first of all from the depression itself and secondly from the tremendous rationalization process which is producing an army of virtually permanently "disemployed" workers. Secondly:—the mass production which has been the very boast and pride of the development of American imperialism is bringing on sharp contradictions in its course. Thirdly: the credit situation—with America as the leading world creditor—is in a crisis, because of the terrific plethora of capital. There are also crises in different industries. But these crises are not elements of decay, elements of decline, but on the other hand are symptoms of growth of rationalization in these industries. For examples, I mention coal, oil, textiles.

Are there contradictions in American imperialism? I refer you to the fact that at the February Plenum of our Central Committee the thesis presented to the Central Committee and voted for by the opposition pointed out very sharply a number of contradictions in American imperialism. Merely to enumerate these are: 1. The large excess productive capacities as indicated in the "over-development" of certain industries. 2. The deepening fundamentally critical condition of agriculture. 3. The superabundance of credit. 4. Intensive installment buying which really should be called over-buying or over-selling. To a large extent American prosperity is based on installment buying. This mortgage on the future purchasing power of the workers and farmers which may for a time defer an economic depression, will become an aggravating force of an economic crisis, once it sets in. 5. Derangement of certain basic industries. This is due for the time to insufficient rationalization and being appendage industries, like coal to steel and rails, and like coal and oil being more subject to distributing conditions of the world market than other industries. 6. The rapid development of great international cartels in Europe indicates a growing capacity of other imperialist powers not only to challenge but also to undermine the supremacy of American imperialism. 7. American imperialism is dependent on other imperialist powers for certain basic raw materials, as rubber, nitrates, oil, tin, nickel, etc. 8. The increasing export of capital creates for American imperialism a problem in the final repayment of commodities.

We have elaborated and emphasized the contradictions developing in American imperialism and the opportunities for work for our Party growing out of the conditions arising from these very contradictions. Are there already visible elements of decay? Yes! And we have pointed out very emphatically such elements of decay in American imperialism as the development of a rentier class, the narrowing domestic market hitherto largely the very base of American prosperity.

But we must not overlook its certain strength and special reserve powers.

However, when we look at this reserve power we do not become pessimistic. We say that in this very aggression of American imperialism we find the basis for the increased militarization as well as the certainty of America being involved in the coming imperialist war. In appraising the role of American imperialism we must not over-estimate the strength of American capitalism. There are forces gnawing at its very vitals despite the outward substantial signs of prosperity. Above all, we must keep in mind the fact that international capitalism is now in its last stage—the decadent stage of imperialism.

Comrades, our opposition sees only either the contradictions or strength. They cannot see, at the same time, that the very strength of American imperialism brings about contradictions and hence increasing opportunities for our Party's working.

Now I want to examine some of the criticisms made of Comrade Bukharin's theses by our opposition.

The vitality of American imperialism is not to be measured by mere figures of the value of commodities produced in certain years, but by the whole system of rationalization, particularly by the productivity status of the individual productive unit, that is, by the productivity per man per hour.

The number of persons engaged in industry for the product of one hundred men in 1914 is as follows:

Year	Number of Men (approximately)
1919	102.2
1921	99.6
1923	80.5

Up to 1919 employment and productivity had increased simultaneously. Now the trend indicates continued increase in productivity but, particularly in the last three years, a marked decrease in the number of men employed in the manufacturing industries. The average work- of men employed in the manufacturing industries increased about 45 per cent in 1927 above 1914.

The second point. Comrade Bittelman says that there is a decline in the rate of increase of exports. It is silly to compare the present years with the war years, as Comrade Bittelman has done. First of all, the war and immediate post-war years are an unusual period. Secondly we must examine the values in pre-war dollars and not stop at mere superficial dollar value. In order to have correctness in this respect, we should not take the years of 1919-21 for they are not the proper base to take. The United States is not living in a vacuum. We must look at it in relation to other imperialist powers. The question is: is the United States still beating in the world market all other imperialist powers? We say, yes. It is this that indicates the present strength and prowess of American imperialism. On this basis American exports are still expanding despite Bittelman's figures.

But why does Comrade Bittelman leave out the question of the trend in the export of capital which is the very key to the present international situation? These facts show that American imperialism is still on the upgrade. We herewith produce the following table:

American Export of Capital.

Year	Amount
1923	$ 414,000,000
1924	878,000,000
1925	1,031,000,000
1927	1,377,000,000

These figures are exclusive of refunding loans and are the net amount of additional new capital exported within these years.

For the last six months of 1928 America has exported $1,053,164,000: This compared with $794,277,000 in the first half of 1927. It is a fact that American capitalism is investing in foreign securities and in domestic securities for export and at home, a thousand dollar per business second.

Now Comrade Bittelman's main argument to prove his fallacious theory of the decline of American imperialism is that the percentage of national income received by the workers is decreasing. Comrade Bittelman cites this in order to show the increasing misery of the American workers. He forgets that though it is absolutely true that the rate of exploitation of the American workers is increasing, this fact in itself does not mean that their condition is getting worse. A smaller share of a bigger national income is bigger than a larger share of a smaller national income. To prove our point we herewith indicate the constant rate of increase in the growth of the national income of the United States:

1922	65,567,000,000
1923	76,769,000,000
1924	79,365,000,000
1925	86,461,000,000

Here we have an increase of $28,-000,000,000 in seven years—a pretty rapid decline!

Comrade Varga is correct when he states that the American standard of living is not going down. The fact of the matter is that the real income has been increasing 7 per cent every year. What the opposition confuses is real wages with the rate of exploitation.

Now from this fallacious income analysis Comrade Bittelman comes to his most "damaging" conclusion against the theses proposed by Bukharin. He says: "The theses do not bring out sufficiently the dependence between the outer and inner conflicts of imperialism." Comrade Bittelman wants to create the impression that Bukharin's theses tried to explain the conflict among the imperialist powers without a class basis, without linking them up with the relations of the classes in the various countries.

It goes without saying that this is a ridiculous charge which, if it were true, would challenge the whole Marxian basis of the theses proposed by Comrade Bukharin in behalf of the Russian delegation.

Congratulates Moore on Expose of Randolph

From Seattle, Wash., has come a letter congratulating Richard B. Moore, national organizer of the American Negro Labor Congress and Communist candidate for Congress for his expose of the misleaders of the Pullman Porters Union. The letter, written by John W. Carr, follows:

"Dear Comrade Moore:

"I have read with genuine gratefulness your 'Open Letter to Mr. Philip Randolph' on page 11 of the 'Negro Champion' of Aug. 8. I am a member of the Communist Party and International Labor Defense, and moreover, being a member of the Negro race, I am watching every advance movement.

"Please send me full information regarding the American Negro Labor Congress. How may I become a member? And how may a branch be established in Seattle?

"Also permit me to bid you success in your race for Congress.

"Earnestly yours, my dear comrade,
"JOHN W. CARR."

Told You So

IT has been reported to me that all doubts as to my nationality have been dispelled by the photo published at the head of this column, but I am going to risk reviving those doubts by becoming a salesman for the day. If I succeed in convincing a goodly number of the readers of the Daily Worker that they should do as I suggest, they may come to the conclusion that I am too good a salesman to come from the Emerald Isle and if I don't, the business manager will come to the conclusion that no other country would produce me. Like the presbyterian, I am damned either way.

ANYHOW a fellow is always taking chances unless he is stowed away comfortably in a nice quiet graveyard, so here goes. Those of you who read the Daily Worker, from front to rear, including the advertisements, have noticed that we have started a subscription drive. This drive will last for the duration of the election campaign. The Workers (Communist) Party of which the Daily Worker is the central organ, is the only political party in the United States that combines a subscription drive with an election campaign. One is complementary to the other.

THE big difference between the attitude of the Workers (Communist) Party and capitalist parties towards election campaigns is mirrored in this subscription drive. The capitalist parties are out for votes, and we include in this category the caricature of a socialist party, headed by Norman Thomas. The Communists are in the campaign to make revolutionists by agitation and propaganda, to help in the organization of militant industrial unions and to bring all class-conscious workers into the Communist Party.

CONVINCING workers to vote the Communist ticket is an extremely important duty. Getting those voters to subscribe to the Daily Worker is doubly important. The speeches made by Communist speakers during an election campaign may be quickly forgotten by thousands of workers on whom they made an impression at the moment. Even workers who vote for the Communist ticket as a result of those speeches may become lost to the movement afterwards unless they are kept constantly in touch with the activities of the Workers (Communist) Party. But when you get a worker to subscribe to the Daily Worker, there is a strong possibility that he will become a convinced Communist and a member of the Party.

SHOULD the Communist ticket poll 100,000 votes in this election campaign and secure 10,000 new readers for the Daily Worker and 5,000 new members for the Workers (Communist) Party, this would be considered by the Central Executive Committee of the Party a more successful election campaign than if the Party ticket polled 250,000 votes, but failed to secure any subscriptions to the Daily or any new members for the Party. Such a campaign would be hardly worth the time and energy expended on it. It would be only a bubble, like the campaigns of the socialist party which always put the emphasis on votes. This is not the kind of a campaign that the Communist Party is making.

THERE are wonderful possibilities for realizing the goal of 10,000 new subscribers for the Daily Worker between now and voting day in November. Every worker who signs his name to a Communist petition is a prospect for a sub. In the state of Ohio alone the comrades collecte 20,000 signatures. Ten thousand o those were collected in Clevelan If only one out of every twenty o those signers could be induced subscribe to the Daily Worker would be a great accomplishme and a guarantee for broadening t base of the Party in Ohio. This plies to every other state.

OUR readers must not come to t conclusion that the subscripti list is closed to members of t Party. They should be the first subscribe. The business mana will tell you that papers sold on newsstand are a financial loss, the Daily Worker Publishing Co pany. It is better that the p made by the distributor and news-agents should go where it do most good, in the coffers of Daily Worker, tho everything sh be done to encourage newsst sales. A revolutionary newsp is usually published at a loss. big business advertisers that en the capitalist newspapers to large editions with all kinds of tures would not give a Polish to the Daily Worker, which dep almost entirely on subscription contributions from the worker

WORKERS PARTY ON BALLOT IN 2 MORE STATES

Kentucky, Tennessee Have Candidates on Red Ticket

Rally Negro Workers

Foster and Gitlow Will Tour South

The Communist Election Campaign has scored another great triumph in the hitherto solid south, having succeeded in placing its national and state tickets on the ballot in the open-shop mining states of Kentucky and Tennessee, bringing the total number of states on the Communist ballot up to 19, five of which are below the Mason and Dixon line.

The Workers (Communist) Party ticket is now on the ballot in the following states: Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, South Dakota, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, Kansas, Arizona, Montana, New Mexico, Texas, and Arkansas. This is five more than the total on the ballot in 1924.

Open-Shop Mine Center.

Kentucky, known as the Blue Grass State, is a great open-shop mining center in which the United Mine Workers of America never succeeded in making much headway, because of the failure of John L. Lewis to send capable organizers into the state and the semi-feudal conditions that prevail there.

The output of the open-shop coal mines in Kentucky helped considerably to break the great bituminous strike that raged in Pennsylvania and Ohio for over a year, ending with the surrender of John L. Lewis to the coal operators.

The advent of the Workers (Communist) Party in Kentucky is certain to give fresh impetus to the work of organizing the non-union miners in that state. Already organizers have been sent into Kentucky by the arrangements committee of the New Miners Union, whose national organizing conference in Pittsburgh opens tomorrow. The miners in the Blue Grass State are anxious to join a union that will fight for their interests, but they refuse to have anything to do with the U. M. W. A., officered by reactionary tools of the republican and democratic parties.

No Party Organization.

There was no Party organization in Kentucky and only a few Party members when Comrade Judson of the Cleveland district was sent into the state a few months ago to organize the campaign for placing the Communist ticket on the ballot. Through the few Party members he was able to make contact with several sympathizers who joined the organization after consenting to act as electors. Several more have joined the Party since then.

Tennessee is also bidding for further fame by having a Communist ticket on the ballot for the first time in history. Like Kentucky, Tennessee is an open-shop coal mining state. The president and only official of District 19 of the U. M. W. A., William Turnblazer, has a post-office box address at Jellico, but, though his name sounds hot, that gentleman has done little or nothing to bring the coal diggers inside the ranks of organized labor.

Pioneer Work.

Judson, who organized the drive to put the Communist ticket on the ballot in Tennessee, had to do pioneering work. Outside of a few Communists and sympathizers, there was hardly any party organization, but the sentiment for the program of the class struggle was so strong in that open-shop, low-wage state that within a few weeks he had succeeded in holding a state convention and complying with the legal requirement for getting the ticket on the ballot.

The National Election Campaign Committee is now working to line up Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi, and several organizers sent from headquarters in New York are busily engaged collecting signatures and lining up Communist sympathizers.

KENOSHA WRIT NOW PERMANENT

Scabs Still Planting Bomb Frame-ups

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 7.—The temporary anti-picketing injunction in force against the striking hosiery knitters here since last March was declared permanent by a ruling made yesterday by Judge Gieger in Milwaukee. In the strike, which began last February when the Allen-A Company tried to enforce a speed-up system, the knitters defiantly violated the strikebreaking writ, despite sentences meted out for "contempt of court."

In addition to granting permanence to the injunction, Federal Judge Geiger awarded the company permission to sue for legal costs and damages allegedly suffered by the hose mill owners. A new batch of strikers, who are charged with "injunction violation," were ordered brought to trial at an early date by Geiger. It is expected that the workers will be haled into court early in October.

Although unsuccessful as yet in putting across a successful frame-up of strikers for "bombing" the homes of strikebreakers, agents of the employers still continue to ar-

D'OLIER FEARED MURDER ATTEMPT

Brother Charges Sewer Grafters Responsible

William L. D'Olier, important witness in the Queens borough sewer graft investigation who was found shot to death under mysterious circumstances last Sunday, was "marked for death," according to two witnesses before the grand jury investigating the $29,500,000 sewer scandal.

Gilbert C. Waldron, long a business associate of D'Olier, and Henry D'Olier of Bridgeport, brother of the dead man, were responsible for the assertions that gunmen hired by sewer grafters killed the witness rather than that he had taken his own life.

Waldrop said that D'Olier told him Saturday night before the shooting that he was afraid. It also was pointed out that D'Olier had purchased a revolver—which was not used in the shooting—for the purpose of protecting himself.

BRITISH UNION CHIEFS REJECT LABOR UNITY

Defeat Move to Resume Relations With USSR Unions

Men Condemn Decision

Effect of Cook Speech Is Profound

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Officials of the British Trades Union Congress in session in Swansea, Wales, today succeeded in defeating the desire of the overwhelming majority of the rank and file unionists to resume relations with the Soviet trade unions.

Leaders of the Congress who two days ago were active in expelling Communists and members of the minority movement from the hall in an effort to silence criticism of their policies today fought the proposal to resume relations.

Following close on the heels of this wholesale flouting of trade union opinion, the officials blocked proposals to convene a world conference to discuss the formation of a single, all embracing international trades union.

The collapse of A. J. Cook yesterday while making a single handed onslaught on what he characterized as policies of betrayal has had a profound affect upon the membership of the unions, and today's action of the officials has met widespread condemnation in many quarters.

TO RENEW POWER TRUST HEARINGS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP).—An open session of the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the power industry will be held Sept. 13 when documents on utilities propaganda will be offered, the commission announced today.

Witnesses will be called on Sept. 17 to testify regarding documents presented at the initial hearing. Most of these are already in the commission's possession without having been formally entered in evidence. In earlier hearings, the commission developed that utilities placed their propaganda in schools, the press, the theatre and elsewhere.

No date has yet been set for hearings on propaganda work in West Coast states. After this phase is ended, the commission will have hearings on the financial aspect of the utilities organizations.

Plan Freiheit Gesangs Verein Picnic Sunday at Pleasant Bay Park

The annual picnic of the Freiheit Gesangs Verein will be held tomorrow at Pleasant Bay Park.

The Freiheit Gesangs Verein, under the direction of Lazar Weiner, will render a program of songs and classics, many of which have heretofore never been performed by the organization.

To reach the picnic grounds, the I. R. T. Lexington Ave. train should be taken to the 177th St. station. Then change to the Grand Union car to the end of the line, where a bus will take the picknickers to Pleasant Bay Park.

FOSTER BEGINS TOUR

Interview With Communist Candidate

William Z. Foster, presidential candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party, left late last night for Detroit and Flint, Mich., where he will open his nation-wide campaign tour on Sunday. He will speak in Flint in the afternoon and in Detroit in the evening.

Just before he left on the tour which will take him into a large number of important industrial centers, including as far west as Spokane, Wash., and as far south as Alabama and Georgia, Foster met reporters from a number of capitalists newspapers, outlined the issues which he will emphasize on his tour. The interview took place at the national headquarters of the Workers (Communist) Party, 43 E. 125th St.

In response to questions Foster told of the energetic campaign now being conducted by the Party.

Foster answered questions on the

11 Indictments Against Knapp To Be Dropped

ALBANY, Sept. 7.—Eleven remaining indictments against Mrs. Knapp in connection with the embezzlement of thousands of dollars of the 1925 million-dollar census funds, will be dropped, it was revealed today.

Mrs. Knapp

At the same time lawyers for the former republican secretary of state announced that she has definitely decided to abandon all legal moves to secure her release from a theoretical sentence of 30 days in the Albany County Jail. Mrs. Knapp was sentenced on Monday, and until today she rested leisurely in the private home of the county sheriff. Today, evidently as a result of the ridicule heaped upon the authorities because of their obvious efforts in coddling the G. O. P. embezzler, Mrs. Knapp has been transferred to the "hospital" of the jail. Here, it is believed, she will receive the same lavish attention that has been bestowed upon her by the prison authorities since she arrived here.

STANDARD OIL MAN FOR SMITH

Democrats Get $500,000 in One Month

Edward S. Harkness, financier and high official of the Standard Oil Company yesterday announced his support of Tammany Al Smith. He accompanied his endorsement with a check for $10,000, which, democratic campaign leaders hope will be but a prelude to larger sums before the presidential election takes place in November.

Coincident with the announcement of Harkness' contribution, the "official" monthly report of donations received was made by Col. Herbert H. Lehman, director of finance of the National Democratic Committee. Contributions totalled almost half million dollars—$438,919. 15 were formally reported to have been obtained by the committee in the single month of August. This is one-sixth of the goal set by the committee for the entire campaign.

The contribution by Harkness is one of a long list of substantial donations made by powerful American industrialists to both twin parties of Wall Street.

RUMOR BRITAIN MAY VOID PACT

LONDON, Sept. 7.—With the objections of the United States made unmistakably clear, the British Cabinet is planning to nullify its arms pact with France, according to rumors widely circulated here.

The rumored action on the part of the Cabinet in no way lessons the hostility between Great Britain and the United States, according to well-informed opinion. It merely means if the rumors are correct that the British government finds it inadvisable at the present stage to carry thru its pact. The terms of the treaty leaked out in spite of every effort on the part of the British and French governments to keep them quiet.

It has also been suggested that the rumored Cabinet decision may be a blind for carrying the treaty into effect.

MILL STRIKERS MASS PICKETING SELL-OUT PARLEY

Many March Around New Bedford Hotel as Police Rally

UTW Men Join Pickets

"Only T. M. C. Can End Strike," Signs Say

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 7.—Hundreds of striking workers now gathering in picket formation around the New Bedford Hotel where representatives of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association and the officialdom of the A. F. of L. Textile Council are meeting in conference to sell out the 21 week old anti-wage cut struggle of the 28,000 mill operatives.

Thousands of pickets are expected to arrive while the police are busily massing reserves nearby. Interspersing the crowds of Textile Mill Committee members are also members of the A. F. of L. union who are joining in the struggle against a betrayal of the strike.

Those picketing are carrying numerous placards denouncing Batty and his henchmen as strikebreakers. Some of them read: "No Compromise!, No Sell-Out!" "We Demand Rank and File Negotiations!" "A Settlement Without the T. M. C. is a Sell-Out!" "The T. M. C. Led the Picket Lines, the T. M. C. Will Settle For Us!"

The employers had signified their willingness to meet Batty early this afternoon and the conference for the betrayal were quickly arranged for the same evening, having begun at 7:30 this evening.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 7.—Acting informally until today in all their strikebreaking attempts to grant the speed-up system to the mill owners, Batty and Co., leaders of the A. F. of L. Textile Council yesterday publicly conceded the vicious "Frieder Plan" system to the bosses in accepting an invitation to confer with them on the ending of the strike. The invitation was tendered to the Textile Council and to the cotton manufacturers by the Citizens Mediation Committee. Eager acceptance to confer is expected from the employers momentarily.

The traitorous step of accepting the invitation to the conference with an endorsement of the speed-up system, was taken by the A. F. of L. officials at a time when the capitalist press was compelled to print stories heralding an imminent break in the ranks of the mill owners' association.

In granting the employers the advance privilege of installing an "efficiency system" that would mean a bigger cut than the ten per cent that precipitated the strike, Batty declared, "The Council believes that the interests of the workers, stockholders, consumers, and the community is more secure where the industry is scientifically and efficiently operated. We understand that a truly scientific plan for operating the industry is impossible without our co-operation. . . . We sincerely hope that the conference will accomplish its object in the greatest possible degree."

The "fly in the ointment" of both the manufacturers and the labor betrayers is, however, that any sell-out pact reached by them will not result in any wide-scale reopening of the 56 mills closed down for the last 21 weeks. Conclusion of a fake settlement will not result in a return of the workers to the mills, but the mill

Bronx Young Workers in Big Signature Drive

The members of all the four units of the Bronx section of the Young Workers (Communist) League will meet tomorrow, at 9 a. m. at the Section headquarters, 2075 Clinton Ave., to rally for the big signature drive to put the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot in the Bronx.

Each young worker will be expected to report promptly, because the work is the most important to the Party at the present time.

2 on Verge of Death When Lewis Stool Pigeon Fires as Bentleyville Miners Back Move For New Union

Militants Rally to Build New Union Despite Terror by Reactionary Lewis Machine; Hundreds to Take Part

Delegates From Kansas, Pennsylvania Arrive; Kentucky, Missouri, Illinois, West Virginia, Maryland Miners Due Today

(Special by Long Distance Phone to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—Hardly had the riddled body of Frank Bonita, mine militant, been buried in Wilkesbarre, when two more progressive miners, delegates to the National Miners' Convention which opens here Sunday, were shot by a Lewis stoolpigeon at a local meeting in Bentleyville.

MINERS DEFY LEWIS MACHINE.

In spite of the terror, miners throughout the country are going ahead with the fight to build the new national union. Delegates continue to pour into Pittsburgh for the convention opening tomorrow which will begin the construction of the new organization.

Headquarters of New Bedford Strike Relief

Above the headquarters of the Workers International Relief in the south end, New Bedford, Mass. The W. I. R. has been giving aid to thousands of striking textile workers now in the twenty-first week of their walk-out. This work requires the greatest possible assistance from all workers thruout the United States and they are requested to send contributions and clothing to the Workers International Relief, 49 Williams St., New Bedford, Mass.

Progressives Dying.

George Moran and Frank Kovac are now lying at the point of death in a hospital and Kovac's young son is seriously wounded as a result of a bloody attack made on the progressive miners by Louis Carboni, who for a long time has posed as a progressive while undermining the work of the progressives in the building of a new national miners' union.

Immediately after the shooting, Carboni fled to the hills and is now being sought.

Rank and File Back Militants.

The shooting followed a heated discussion on a motion pushed by Carboni, who was chairman of the meeting, that the delegates chosen to attend the convention should not attend. When the motion was overwhelmingly defeated by the rank and file, Carboni approached the progressive delegates and opened fire.

Frantic at the determination of the miners to form a new union, Lewis has been rounding up all his paid thugs and henchmen for a campaign of terror against the militants. Rank and file miners throughout the country are answering this attack with added determination to oust the corrupt Lewis terror-machine and build on its ruins a new fighting organization.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—With the arrival of Tom Wakefield and the first delegation of 10 rank and file miners from Kansas yesterday the National Miners Convention to build a new union was launched, though its sessions do not officially open until tomorrow.

Tom Wray with part of the delegation from McDonald, Pa., where the Pittsburgh Coal Company has been open shop since 1925 and where Lewis last month withdrew the pickets, brought another note of militant enthusiasm to the gathering men.

The intense atmosphere, in which for the past weeks have been made the final arrangements for receiving the hundreds of delegates, who will tax the facilities of the convention,

PICKET STEEL MILL DESPITE INJUNCTION

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 7. — A march to the picket line such as has not yet been witnessed in the progress of the Canton steel strike was the men's answer yesterday to the Central Alloy Steel Corporation's attempt to serve injunctions on the strikers.

Following the success of the corporation in securing an injunction specifically mentioning eighty strikers by name and permitting only four men to picket the mill at one time, the 500 chippers and grinders who are in the fifth week of their struggle against the powerful steel interests, crowded an overflow meeting. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Central Alloy Steel Mill Committee.

At the same time, the scabs are leaving the mill and many are joining the ranks of the strikers. Estimates of from 900 to 1100 have been put on the number of scabs imported by the steel corporation to break the strike, but with few exceptions

Greek Workers Center Opening Is Postponed Until Next Saturday

The Greek Workers Progressive Center, which was originally announced to be opened tomorrow, has postponed its opening celebration one week until Saturday, Sept. 15. On that day, a huge banquet and dance will be held at the new Center, which is located at 101 West 28th St. in order to open the activities in a fitting manner.

At the banquet next Saturday, dancing to the music of a five-piece professional jazz band will begin immediately after the workers have packed the luscious feast away. New features are also promised, but the nature of them will not be revealed until the festive night.

SUPPORT BAZAAR, CALL

Communist Party Appeals to Workers

An appeal to all units of the Workers (Communist) Party and all sympathetic organizations to rally behind National Bazaar Week, Sept. 10 to 17 was issued last night by the Central Executive Committee of the Party. National Bazaar Week will mobilize all forces for the great Daily Worker-Freiheit bazaar in Madison Square Garden, Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7.

The appeal follows:

"The Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party considers the Joint Bazaar arranged for the benefit of the Daily Worker and the Freiheit for Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7 at Madison Square Garden in New York City an event of highest national importance. At this particular moment, when large sections of the American working class are engaged in bitter struggles against the bosses, of betrayal of the workers by the labor bureau-

JINGOES ATTACK BAY RIDGE MEET

An open-air meeting, arranged by the Workers (Communist) Party at 50th St. and Fifth Ave., Brooklyn, was last night attacked by a group of 15 American Legion jingoes. The police, as is usually the case when Legion attacks on Communist meetings are planned, were nowhere to be seen in the vicinity.

The meeting opened shortly after 8:30 p. m., with Schwatzberg of the Young Workers (Communist) League acting as chairman. The first speaker, Reice, was comparatively unmolested, although the jingoes shouted and shoved and disturbed the meeting in many other ways. It was when I. Zimmerman took the platform to speak that the Legionnaires began to shove forward until they had completely surrounded the rostrum.

WORKER, FACE BLOODY AND SWOLLEN, TELLS I. L. D. STORY OF BEATING BY COMPANY POLICE

His face swollen and blue, Michael Intravator, an American-born worker of Italian descent, stood in the office of the New York Section of the International Labor Defense, 799 Broadway, yesterday, an eloquent witness to police and boss brutality against all workers suspected of radical sympathies.

Intravator told the following story:

He had been employed as a cleaner at the Pennsylvania Railroad and had been laid off some time ago, but was told by Superintendent Tracy that he might come around from time to time to see if there was any work. On Wednesday Intravator came to the office again and asked for work. He was told by Moloney, another member of the department, to report at 1 a. m. for work on the night shift.

Overjoyed at getting a job again, Intravator reported promptly at 1 a. m., ready to start work. Near the Pennsylvania Railroad office a Pennsylvania Railroad policeman stopped him and began talking in a threatening manner to him. Soon two plain-clothes men came along and the three of them began dragging Intravator away. Superintendent Tracy and Moloney watched the proceedings, but did not interfere.

The three guardians of "law and order" dragged Intravator to a dark room in the Pennsylvania station and began beating and abusing the worker mercilessly. While they were beating him they kept asking him what nationality he was and to what organization he belonged. Intravator told them that he was an Italian and that he was not a member of any organization, but this had no effect on the three officers, who continued to beat him until he was nearly unconscious. Then they threw him out of the room.

Intravator has a brother, Jack Intravator, a member of the Workers (Communist) Party, and this fact is believed to have been responsible for the brutal police attack on him, made with the sanction of the flunkeys of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The New York Section of the International Labor Defense has started an investigation into the case.

Expelled Progressives Lead Members in Launching a New Butcher Workers Union

UNITED HEBREW TRADES FAKERS SPLIT OLD UNION

Militants Will Begin Organization Drive

A large section of the membership of the Jewish Butcher Workers Union, which is affiliated with the reactionary United Hebrew Trades, revolted against the union wrecking tactics of their socialist officialdom, and called upon the six progressives expelled from the old union several days ago, to form a new and genuinely democratic organization which will conduct an honest fight for the betterment of working standards. This was formally accomplished yesterday when the establishment of the Progressive Butchers Union was announced.

When the campaign of disruption carried on for the past few months by the right wing leaders of the old union reached its climax by the expulsion of the six progressive workers at a membership meeting early this week, a large section of the membership decided to call a halt to the reactionary policies of the right wing leaders.

But when the expulsion of the six workers was followed up by attempts at removing them from their jobs, by threatening violence to the militants involved, two reactions took place. One was the driving away of the right wing official who came to order the dismissal of the militant from his place of work, at 14 Rutgers place and the other was the crystallized decision to cut away from the nest of grafters that compose the decayed United Hebrew Trades Union.

With the beginning of the new week the leaders of the new union movement declare thy expect to have enrolled more than half of the present membership of the old union. In a few days, the progressive leaders announced, the new union will choose permanent officers for the prosecution of the contemplated organization drive. The ousted workers were expelled because they were chosen as a committee to investigate the finance accounts kept by the socialist bureaucrats.

In taking this step the butcher workers become the second organization to launch an open struggle against the United Hebrew Trades. The first was the Retail Fruit, Grocery and Dairy Clerks Union, whose bitter struggle with the U. H. T. thugs ended in their gaining complete control of the industry.

Taxi Chauffeurs Plan Big Mass Meet Here

Plans for a mass meeting of all taxi drivers throughout New York City and vicinity were discussed at a meeting of the newly formed Taxi Chauffeurs Union, held at the Labor Temple, 84th St. and 3rd Ave. last night.

A number of new members were taken into the union, which is now conducting an organizational drive.

FRAME FASCIST FOES

Zamboni Is Sentenced to Thirty Years

ROME, Sept. 7.—Mammolo Zamboni and his sister-in-law, Virginia Tabarroni, both on "trial" before a special fascist tribunal in connection with an attempt on the life of Mussolini in October, 1926, were today sentenced to 30 years each. Ledovico Zamboni, son of Mammolo, was acquitted.

The sentence ended a long story of personal persecution on the part of the fascist premier, dating from one of a series of "attempts" on his life in Bologna in October, 1926. Anteo Zamboni, young son of Mammolo, was lynched by a mob of blackshirts immediately after the attempt, altho his "guilt" had never been proved. The Zambonis were enemies of the fascist regime.

Considerable doubt has been expressed as to the authenticity of the series of "attempts" on Mussolini's life, and prominent labor leaders have charged that the affairs have been pre-arranged so as to offer an excuse for the fascist terror.

No injury has resulted in any of the attempts, but immediately after each severe repressions have followed, in which thousands of Italian workers were killed, injured and jailed.

The trial of the elder Zamboni and his sister-in-law was a farce, in which many witnesses were overawed who testified as to the absence of the accused from Bologna on the day of the alleged attempt. A few witnesses against the accused, all fascists, were sufficient to frame the Zambonis.

Japanese Workers Suffer in Heavy Tokio Floods

Hundreds of workers in Tokio, Japan, have been left homeless as the result of heavy rains which have inundated the streets. Above, a partially submerged quarter. Some of these sections stretch for blocks and blocks.

CAMP UNITY GOES OVER THE TOP FOR "DAILY"

From an isolated, ramshackle farmhouse in the Berkshire hills to a modern, well-equipped proletarian rest home able to accommodate nearly 1,000 workers during the sweltering summer months—this is the achievement of Camp Unity, at Wingdale, N. Y.

Place of Beauty.

Nestling in the soft, cool hills, the camp has grown phenomenally in one brief year. "When we came here," Morris Rifkin, manager of Unity reported, "we found practically nothing but scenery." Since that time a spacious, comfortable, sunny dining hall has been constructed able to accommodate one thousand guests.

Built on beautiful Lake Ellis, Camp Unity is one of the beauty spots of southern New York and a pride to the thousands of militant workers who come here each summer to refresh themselves for increased activity in the class struggle.

Recently "Daily Worker Week" was observed at Unity. More than $1,300 was contributed to the fighting daily by both camp workers and guests during that single week. From the workers alone, on jobs in the kitchen, on construction work and in the office, the sum of $501 was collected, each one donating at least one week's wages to the campaign of the "Daily."

Ingenuity Used.

Unique methods, curiously enough enjoyed by the workers present, were devised for building the fund for the Daily Worker. Various games were arranged. "Prohibitions" were the most lucrative source of revenue for the energetic directors of the campaign.

Certain activities and luxuries were prohibited in the camp, and all those indulging in these had to pay a tax to the Daily Worker. Judges were chosen and from their decisions there could be no appeal. Saturday William Abrams, member of the staff of the Communist Yiddish daily, "The Freiheit," was the field-marshal in the drive. His ingenious mind and enthusiastic spirit dominated the entire campagn.

Nucleus Active.

Primarily responsible for the success of the Daily Worker Week was the active nucleus of the Workers (Communist) Party at Unity. Bass the unit organier, was here, there and everywhere during the entire seven days of the campaign. Sam Daicksel, the sprightly social director, helped not only with his effective and eloquent announcements at dinner-time, but with concrete suggestions for adding to the "fines and punishments" of the campers.

Comrade Siegel, secretary of the co-operative which conducts Unity, made himself into a popular hero by his ingenuity in gathering funds for the Daily. Not only did the Communists at the camp throw all their energies into the campaign, but the non-Party members, many of them working at the camp, brought much enthusiasm into the drive.

Nathaniel Buchwald, dramatic critic of the Freiheit, brought his famous pipe along with him, and his fruitful and witty mind aided the campaign enormously. M. Sultan, Harry Fox, promotion manager of the Daily Worker, Dave Lyons of the W. I. R. camp, Sam Dassa, Celia Samorodin, Sophie Kniznick, Comrades Feldman and Berkowitz—all these threw themselves might and main into the campaign.

A Soviet.

Camp Unity has a Workers Council. It meets each week and takes up not only the relations of the camp employes with the management, but also recommendations for the improvement of the camp. The Workers Council was in the forefront of the campaign.

Nearly $70,000 was expended in improving the camp this year, according to manager Rifkin. A large number of workers, many of them from the native community, helped in the construction.

"In spite of the low wages generally paid in this section," said Rivkin, "these workers received the union scale. We hired no contractors, whatever. Interesting, isn't it, but many of these workers from the communities joined the Party and are now active.

No Special Privileges.

No attempt is made to create a utopia for the camp workers, the manager said. "It is unsound for an employe to expect to get special privileges here just because we are a workingclass camp. On the contrary, because we are a workingclass camp, he should be even more conscientious—he must show the true proletarian spirit."

Two thousand workers co-operate in the management of Camp Unity and in addition to the camp there is also a residence for working women at 110th St. and Seventh Ave. Here 240 girls and women find congenial homes. "The spirit there," the manager was careful to point out, "is not the Y. W. C. A. spirit." Here he said the atmosphere is one of proletarian democracy.

30 UNIONS JOIN STRIKE AID MEET

W. I. R. Textile Relief Call Answered

More than thirty New York unions and fraternal organizations have signified that they will attend the textile relief conference called by the Workers' International Relief for Saturday, Sept. 15 at Irving Plaza, according to Harriet Silverman, secretary of the New York Local of the relief organization.

In a letter addressed to those unions which have not been heard from, immediate action is asked of militant union members to see that delegates are elected or appointed at once and the names and addresses sent immediately to Local New York Workers' International Relief, 1 Union Square, New York City, room 604.

The conference will start the drive for 100 per cent support for the textile strikers and their wives and children. Prompt relief means victory for the strikers. All workers in shops and factories should also have delegates appointed to represent them.

THE DAILY WORKER IN TEXTILE STRIKE

By ALBERT WEISBORD.

The Daily Worker has proved to be of really inestimable aid to the textile strikers in New Bedford and Fall River. In Fall River the capitalist press simply rotted with venemous poison against the workers. In the very first day of the strike there appeared a special editorial to the citizens of Fall River, telling them to be steady, that the red flag of Communism would never fly in Fall River and the strikers would soon be crushed. This open filth was peddled daily and appeared in every news line concerning the strike.

In New Bedford the papers, played a more clever role. In many subtle ways by boosting the labor bureaucrats, by innuendoes against the T. M. C. organizers, by playing up the strikebreaking role of the socialist party and such persons as Powers Hapgood and Mary Donovan, the New Bedford press has done its bit all too well to break the resistance of the workers.

In this situation the only paper the workers could turn to was the Daily Worker. The Daily Worker came in big bundles to the strikers and were distributed free to them. This became one of the features of the strike meetings. Almost in no time the bundles would disappear. The Daily Worker became the strikers' paper, and because of the fact that no strike bulletin could be issued in the field, became the strike bulletin of the textile strikers in the field. Already hundreds have given their names for permanent subscription. Because they have seen that only the Communist press, only the Daily Worker could be relied on day in and day out to give the correct news and to rally all forces for the defense of the strike.

Suppose there had been no Daily Worker? I can safely say that the loss of the Daily Worker to the strikers would have been a deep and telling blow which might have had the most serious effects upon the strike as a whole.

All the comrades working in the field have felt the great support the Daily gives them in mobilizing the masses and wiping out the poison that their enemies daily try to spread in the ranks of the workers.

The Party and left wing is moving along in mass work. Its effects are being felt more and more. Now more than ever we need the Daily Worker. It is up to the workers—textile and others in the various centers in the U. S. to get behind the Daily Worker campaign for 10,000 new readers.

ISSUE CALL FOR WORKING YOUTH MEET IN N. Y. C.

Unions, Clubs Will Be Represented

The Provisional Committee of the Working Youth Conference, which will be held in New York City on the 29th and 30th of September, yesterday sent out thousands of letters to young workers throughout the city and vicinity, calling upon them to attend the conference.

The call, which is sent out to all unorganized as well as organized young workers, to all local unions, and to all working youth clubs, reads in part as follows:

"A General Working Youth Conference will take place Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 29 and 30, at the Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Ave. The conference will get started Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

"The purpose of this conference is to help in the organization of the unorganized young workers in New York City. The purpose of the Working Youth Conference is to lay the basis for drawing the young workers in this city into the ranks of the general labor movement. The conference will help to prepare and mobilize the young workers for struggle in order to better their working conditions; to fight against wage-cuts; to abolish the speed-up system; and for the unionization of the youth.

"This Working Youth Conference will help unite the young workers with the adult workers in the common struggle against the bosses; will help prevent the bosses from employing the young workers at lower wages than the adult workers and from using the youth as scabs and strikebreakers in times of strikes. The Working Youth Conference will help to bring the young Negro workers together with the white young workers; and will fight against the double discrimination of the young Negro workers—first as young Negroes and then as young workers.

"Please read this call at your local meeting, at the youth club meeting, at the meeting of workers in the organized shops, and at the meeting of the shop committee. Please read the enclosed resolution. Send in the names and addresses of the delegates elected to the Working Youth Conference."

FOSTER LEAVES ON U. S. TOUR

Is Interviewed on Eve of Departure

Kellogg "peace" pact, the socialist party, unemployment, the Negro, prohibition, the present plight of the impoverished farmers, the new miners' union, the New Bedford strike.

The Communist candidates are now on the ballot in 19 states, including several backward southern states, Foster said. In response to a question from one of the reporters as to whether or not he expected to win any of the states, Foster replied:

"Our program is based on a larger perspective than just that. We have no illusions about our ability to win states just at this time. We will nevertheless carry on an energetic campaign of propaganda and organization among the masses of the workers and farmers thruout the United States."

Kellogg Pact.

Discussing the Kellogg "peace" pact, Foster told the reporters that it was a fake gesture, forced by the proposal made by the Soviet Union at Geneva for complete scrapping of armaments. Unmasked by the comprehensive proposal of the U. S. S. R. Foster said, the world imperialists are now backing the Kellogg scheme in an effort to hide their preparations for a new bloody war.

Primarily, Foster said, the Kellogg pact is intended as a move against the Soviet Union. "The utter insincerity of the scheme," he said, "was conclusively revealed in the statement which accompanied Soviet Russia's adherance to the pact."

Its Greatest Support.

The candidates and platform of the Workers (Communist) Party will get their greatest support in the coming election, Foster said, in those sections where the Party has taken an active, and often a leading role in the industrial struggles. Foster cited the activity of militants in the mine, needle trades and textile struggles.

"Thousands of farmers," the Communist candidate said, "bankrupt and impoverished, and convinced of the futility of expecting genuine aid from the capitalist government, will rally to the banner of our Party."

Declaring that most of the so-called leaders of the discontented farmers have been repeatedly bribed in one form or another, Foster cited the case of the McNary-Haugen bill. "Curious, isn't it," Foster said, "that McNary, the co-author of the bill, immediately after President Coolidge vetoed the bill, suddenly announced his support of Coolidge."

In response to another question, Foster said that no issues existed between the republican and democratic parties. "They are both parties of business," he said. Foster cited the fact that many powerful corporations are investing in the campaign funds of both parties. "Insull of Illinois, who made handsome contributions to both parties, is only one of the gang," he said.

Work Among Negroes.

Foster told of the campaign tours being arranged by the Workers Party throughout the United States. "Our speakers will reach every important industrial and farm center of the United States."

Asked about work among the Negroes, Foster said that for the first time in the history of the Party, speakers are being sent into the backward southern states, and an energetic campaign conducted.

One of the reporters seemed especially concerned about the Communist campaign among the Negroes. "Do you have some special reason for making an appeal to the Negroes?" the gentleman of the press asked.

Party of Workers.

"Our Party is a party of the working class," Foster replied. "The Negroes, being among the most viciously exploited of the American workers, we, of course, put special emphasis on our campaign among them."

The interview ended, the Daily Worker representative happened to descend the stairs of the National Office with a bland young man from the New York Times.

"He's a mild-mannered fellow, isn't he," suggested the gentleman from Times Square, "but he's sure been raising an awful lot of hell all over the country."

WORKER, AGED 73 HELPS TEXTILE MILL STRIKERS

Urge Aid for Starving Fighters

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 7.—"I am now in my seventy-third year having been a 'Jimmie Higgins' in the labor movement for more than twenty years. I cannot bear to see the suffering of the textile strikers so I sent five dollars. Sorry I cannot indulge the passion for giving as much as I would like, but I am a worker and nearing the scrap-heap." So writes W. N. Patterson, aged worker of Zanesville, Ohio, in response to an appeal for funds for the relief of the hungry New Bedford and Fall River strikers issued by the Workers' International Relief, 1 Union Square.

Heart-rending and pressing calls for food continue to pour into the offices of the W. I. R., Fred Biedenkapp, national secretary, said yesterday. "The New Bedford and Fall River textile strike will end in victory if only we can feed the women and children," he said.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Completing a three weeks' tour in the state of Connecticut, for the relief of the textile strikers, Jeannette D. Pearl, field organizer for the Workers' International Relief, visited the strikers' zone in New Bedford and addressed two open-air meetings arranged by the T. M. C. for the strikers. Miss Pearl reports a remarkable labor spirit. The W. I. R. maintains two soup kitchens in New Bedford. More are needed. A drive is now to be launched for shoes for the picket line.

The W. I. R. is launching an active campaign in Boston and vicinity for shoes, clothing and food. The drive will be conducted by the field organizer, with headquarters at 38 Causeway St., Boston, Mass., Organizations are urged to cooperate.

British Government of India Introduces Law to Deport Labor, Peasant Organizers

OFFICIALS ARE ALARMED OVER MASS MOVEMENT

Fear Growing Strike Wave and Peasants

BOMBAY, Sept. 7.—Fear of the growing revolutionary movement in India and intention to take drastic measures against it characterize legislation now under consideration by the government of India. The proposed laws will enable the government to deport British and all organizers which it may see fit to call foreign.

The measure is aimed specifically at Communists and comment attending its consideration openly denounces the alleged formation of a powerful Communist Party in the Indian peninsula.

It is understood in official circles that in event of the rejection by the legislature, the viceroy will certify the bill.

Increasing militancy of the peasants, together with the wave of strikes which are tying up the country, are believed to be the immediate causes of the present legislation.

British troops, summoned to repress successive strikes, are not sufficient to hold the Indian masses in check, is the opinion of British authorities, and they believe the time has come when it will be necessary to crush the strikes and peasant disturbances as they arise. The new measure is designed to effect this purpose.

Failure of the British troops to do more than curb the peasant movement in the Bardoli district is also reported to have caused a situation verging on panic in certain official circles and emphasis on the deportation measure at this time is in some part attributable to the government's failure in northern Bombay presidency.

cracy and of the growing war danger and the menace against the Soviet Union, the maintenance of our Party's central organ, the Daily Worker and our Party's largest mass paper, the Freiheit, becomes most vital to our Party's prestige and influence.

"The bazaar has been arranged to supply much needed funds for our two Party organs. The Central Executive Committee has therefore decided to set aside the week of Sept. 10 to 17 as the National Bazaar Week. We ask all units of the Party throughout the country as well as all sympathetic organizations, to lend every effort to make the bazaar a success.

"The bazaar committee reports that they are in need of articles for sale, of names for the Red Honor Roll, for the Souvenir Program and advertisements. In view of the fact that this bazaar is of national character, it becomes of the utmost significance as a demonstration of our ability to mobilize the entire forces of the Party in one supreme effort for a big enterprize of this kind. We are confident that the entire Party will respond to this call enthusiastically and that it will do everything in its power to make the bazaar not only a success for our two Party organs, but also a real achievement for our Party.

STRIKERS PICKET SELL-OUT PARLEY

barons hope, the T. M. C. leaders state, that this move will break the back of the strike.

An official statement issued by the T. M. C. yesterday denounces the Frieder Plan sell-out and declares: "Batty's treacherous acceptance of the Frieder Plan, which is merely a high-sounding name for a slave-driving speed-up system and which was formulated by a mill owner, is a trick to nullify the gains made by the 28,000 strikers in 21 weeks of struggle and suffering. That the whole thing is a planned sell-out is further proven by the fact that the T. M. C., the real strike leaders, were not invited to the conferences."

The T. M. C. statement then appealed to all the members of the Textile Council to join the Textile Workers Union in the sharpest attack against the sell-out of the strike, yet planned.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 7.—Today the thousands of textile strikers will march in the parade which was postponed from Labor Day due to the rain.

Two huge columns of marchers will come up from either end of the city, the North and South Ends. When both lines reach Linden St. they will merge to march to the grounds arranged for a big mass meeting where they will be addressed by their local and national leaders.

The United Textile Workers Textile Council will also hold a parade at the same time. Interest runs high, since the two parades will be public tests of strength. The Textile Mills Committees eagerly awaits the opportunity to prove the weakness of the A. F. of L. union's following.

The T. M. C. union also announces the parade as a demonstration against the open attempts of the Batty leadership to betray the strike by agreeing to concede the bosses a speed-up system.

MUELLER TRIES TO JUSTIFY WAR CRUISER PLANS

Sees "Peace All Over" as Nations Brew War

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—In a disarmament plea which is viewed as an effort to explain the huge appropriations for cruisers recently sanctioned by the "socialist" German cabinet, Chancellor Hermann Mueller today told the Assembly of the League of Nations that Germany could not continue disarmed indefinitely while the other nations were building powerful war machines.

Chancellor Mueller's statement is regarded as an attempt to silence the storm of workingclass protest, led by the Communist Party, that broke loose in Germany when the social democratic cabinet approved the cruiser appropriations.

Speaking to representatives of countries that are feverishly engaged in building bigger and bigger armies and navies and with wars of oppression being carried on in various colonial countries, the "socialist" chancellor declared that never in the history of the world have conditions been so favorable for peace. Loud applause greeted this statement, increasing when he told the Assembly that the German government would continue the imperialist policy of Gustav Stresemann, secretary of foreign affairs.

Mueller voiced approval of the Kellogg "peace" pact and of the secret Anglo-French naval agreement, which is believed to be directed against the United States.

PARTY ON BALLOT IN KENTUCKY, TENNESSEE

The Negro workers comprise the majority of the population in most of the states below the Mason and Dixon line, but though "freed" by the Civil War and given the franchise, they are not permitted to vote by the democratic party, which hitherto has held undisputed sway in the south.

Negroes Sympathetic.

Communist organizers report that there is strong sentiment for the Workers (Communist) Party among the Negroes, who are beginning to realize that the republican party has been cashing in on the Civil War in order to hold the votes of the Negroes who have settled in the north. The action of the National Women's Campaign Committee of the republican party in refusing to associate with a Negro committeewoman at a political feast in Washington, the segregation of Negroes in government offices in the national capitol, and the consistent refusal of the republican administration to take the necessary steps to stop the lynching of Negroes, has opened the eyes of hundreds of thousands of Negro workers to the sham claims of the republican bosses that the G. O. P. is the protector of the Negroes.

The attempt of some Negro politicians to line up the exploited and persecuted members of their race behind the banner of Al Smith in the north is not making much headway. Negro workers in the north as well as in the south are not so weak in memory that they have forgotten the lynching of a Negro at the gates of Houston on the eve of the democratic convention there, and hardly a week passes without the lynching of a Negro in some southern state, without even a protest from Al Smith or any prominent member of the democratic party.

For the first time in history the Negro masses of the south will have an opportunity to hear the message of racial equality, of freedom for the Negro as well as the white worker, freedom from the slavery of capitalism, a freedom they all must fight for shoulder to shoulder. The Negroes will be told by Communist speakers that the white workers and black workers have the same enemy to fight, the ruling class of this country. They will learn that the Workers (Communist) Party alone, a section of that great world revolutionary organization, the Communist International, has the program and the policy around which workers of all colors can rally in the common struggle for a society where the producers of wealth will no longer be mendicants begging for a share of what they create, but masters of their own political and industrial lives.

Foster and Gitlow, the national standard-bearers of the Workers (Communist) Party, are scheduled to speak in Kentucky, Alabama, New Orleans, Atlanta and Virginia early in October during their nation-wide tours in behalf of the Communist Election Campaign.

CHARGE BRUTAL TREATMENT IN WHEAT HARVEST

British Unemployed in Canada Jailed, Killed

WINNEPEG, Sept. 7.—Disclosure of a system of unemployment amounting to virtual peonage gave the exponents of transportation of jobless British workers and their employment in Canadian harvest fields a rude jolt today. The alleged murder of harvesters and the imprisonment of others in an underground cage have been charged by Thomas Johnson, m. p. from Sterling, Scotland. He is a member of the United Kingdom delegation of the Empire Parliamentary Association and is now traveling in Canada.

Not only has one of the harvesters deported from England for the purpose of working the Canadian fields been mysteriously slain en route, but a number of others have on various occasions been employed by the officials as strikebreakers.

Johnson further stated that he had seen harvesters imprisoned in an underground cage at a railroad station here while police and soldiers stood guard over them.

Substantiating his colleagues' charges, David Kirkwood, also a member of parliament traveling in Canada, declared that he had record of instances where the transported men had been forced to act as strikebreakers and, that, further, one had been found hanged.

Hundreds of the men are returning from the harvest fields with stories of slave driving that are almost incredible. The government has refused to assume responsibility for placing the workers declaring that that is the business of the railroad companies.

Canadian officials show a disposition to hush the matter up.

FIGHT TOGETHER

New Bedford strikers declaring the Solidarity of All Workers They paraded and were arrested

South Side New Bedford Workers International Relief Station where daily five hundred striker families receive food

In New Bedford, Mass., 30,000 textile workers are out on strike since April 16th of this year, against wage reductions and the speed-up system. The strike has spread to Fall River where several thousand more textile workers have entered the strike.

Under the leadership of the militant Textile Mill Committees the strikers are carrying on an heroic struggle. Police clubs, bayonets in the hands of the militia, wholesale arrests of pickets, heavy fines and long prison sentences have not been able to break down the fighting spirit of the striking textile men and women.

Thousands of strikers and their children go hungry waiting for help from their fellow workers and friends. More than seven hundred strikers have been cast into jail and put under heavy bail. In Fall River, in addition thereto, they are also placed under heavy peace bonds, which is a new invention of the boss owned courts.

E "TRANSFORMATION" OF ALEX HOWAT: THE STORY OF A MINE LEADER WHO LEADS NO MORE

By CHARLES MILLS.
(Secretary, Tri-District Committee.)

Industrial struggles between labor and capital always produce new leaders of the workers and brings with new experiences of our class with lessons that can be used in future battles. Such is the case of the miners' struggle of six years ago in Kansas when the organized workers fought the Kansas Industrial Court Law, the operators, and the Lewis betrayal. In this battle the militant miners of Kansas were the shock troops of the American workers.

Out of this struggle, from the unknown to the known came Alex Howat, leader of the Kansas miners, President of District 14, a man who was big, rough and ready, yet one who was always good to his friends. One who trusted too many. The miners defied the state. Howat led the fight. And then the miners defied the treacherous Lewis and again Howat led the fight. Howat's name was read from coast to coast. Such opportunities to men come seldom and even less do men realize these opportunities. A chance as a leader to do the working class great good or great harm; an opportunity to reach millions where in the past one spoke to and was heard by hundreds. The good they can do depends upon their loyalty to the workers and their theoretical development in the class struggle.

A Year in Jail.

The result of the Lewis sell-out was a defeat of the Kansas miners even though they beat the law as a law. From the standpoint of the workers this defeat was practically a loss but theoretically it was only one of the many dress rehearsals for future struggles. To Alex Howat it was more than that, a year's sentence in jail, removal from office as president that kept one fairly well, a slap in the face by Lewis and a year to think it over; to dwell on the fact that although right he gets the worst end.

Naturally when this man was released he spoke bitterly against Lewis and his machine. Had not he lived through and felt this betrayal? Had not experience taught him the truth. His tours that followed were such and although more subjective than objective we can say with all the shortcomings his speeches were basically correct because he fought the octupus of the miners bureaucracy. After years of fighting the Lewis machine, after touring all over the East, Alex Howat came back to Kansas thinking that he did not get the proper response. Many miners in the East had not had the experience Howat had had and although the masses supported him he still had the machine to buck.

Howat Changes.

But this did not last long. With the years, day by day other miners in other districts experienced similar sell-outs and they too began to respond to the left wing slogans. Soon district after district was betrayed! District after district revolted. Such was the period prior to and after the April First Pittsburgh Conference. Like wildfire the revolt spread. Like a new day the miners took up the battle cry. Conditions determine our order of business and today masses could be mobilized while six years ago only a portion of the miners responded.

At last the chance had come. Six years ago Howat preached revolt, told how he was crucified by the Lewis machine, how he was ready to fight to the end. The time had come but Howat was not ready. Years changed conditions and men. Alex Howat could not see the time had come. Alexander Howat would not act. First he voiced his sympathy with the left wing revolt. Hundreds of thousands of miners were in movement, hundreds of thousands looking for a voice for their feelings but Howat could not be that voice.

Excuse after excuse was given for not going East and taking up the battle. The time had come for leaders to recognize their place and lead but Alex had spoken six years ago and not all miners responded and now when they responded Alex could not hear. Alex had passed away.

At first Howat took a position of verbal support to the left wing. Then he went to a position of neutral and neutral inevitably means helping the strongest force in a fight and this meant helping Lewis. Actions speak louder than words.

The Turning Point.

At the Arma mass meeting called by the Burr Skahan machine when the revolt in the district was gaining, when the July 1st convention was a few weeks off, the machine put Alex up as speaker for a mass meeting, the only speaker to be put up. Howat fell for the trap of the machine. His speech by the words of his old time followers was the worst he ever made. In a period when the storm rages he did not even mention the Lewis machine one way or the other. His militancy and fire was gone. He tried to skip the issue and in doing such he helped the machine again. It was the turning point. He drifted further. Or [illegible] someone is just learning a few things?

Alex Howat went to Kansas City to collect relief for the miners, only for the Kansas miners. The National Miners Relief had a station at [illegible] but Howat turned his money over to District 14 machine, to the Lewis machine, to the fakers who were living good while the miners were starving.

Aids G. O. P.

During the primaries Howat was campaigning for the republican candidates. Campaigning for Winters for County Attorney, a man who is a cousin of Burr, the District Secretary Treasurer who was ousted by the July First Convention. Burr, a Lewis man; Burr who had helped stop Howat and all things progressive; Burr, the bosses' agent. Howat also supported other reactionary candidates and while the State Federation was drumming up business for democrat shysters, Burr was using stationery for Hamilton for governor on the republican ticket. Any one who went through Howat's experience should have known the A B C of the class struggle of political action. A labor party of the county could be a power but when men like Howat hinder its development, they sabotage it. Errors may be committed by revolutionists in an attempt to build a labor party, but errors corrected and work renewed for such is consistent in policy and does not justify excuses of such action as support of any old party candidates.

THE LIFE AND DEATH OF NIKODIM PAVLICH

Our teacher's name was Nikodim Pavlitch, and his surname Kostiuk. He was employed in our village during twenty-two years, and almost all those who could read and write in our village had been his pupils. My uncle, Danila, has already five children, his son Gritzko is of my age. Sometime ago I asked Danila: "Uncle Danila, who had taught you to read and write?" He replies: "Nikodim Pavlitch."

The old men relate that Nikodim Pavlitch came to our village when he was quite young—he was not even twenty years old. And when I entered school he was already bald and his face was covered with wrinkles.

Fives times, if not more, gendarmes came from town and searched the lodging of our teacher; once they beat him with canes till he bled, but they could not arrest him, for Nikodim Pavlitch did his work carefully and referred always to laws which existed.

For us, village children, Nikodim Pavlitch was like an elder brother.

Nikodim Pavlitch did not die a natural death; he was martyred to death by Polish gendarmes. That's how it happened.

After the war against Germany, the Soviet Power did not remain long in Western White Russia. The Polish lords declared that our country is under their rule and that they will rule over us according to their laws.

The Polish authorities issued a decree, according to which children were to be taught in all schools in the Polish language, and that they had to learn from those books, in which the rule of the Polish lords was praised. The Polish lords issued this decree in order to confuse the minds of the pupils and in orde, that the children should become faithful servants to the lords.

When Nikodim Pavlitch received the decree of the Polish authorities, he gathered us together and asked us:

"Who of you children knows the Polish language?"

The children say that they do not understand Polish, and only the priest's son Basil and the saloon-keeper's nephew Pavlo bragged that they could read and write Polish.

Then Nikodim Pavlitch thought and said:

"Well, children, look here, I know the Polish language and shall teach you in the afternoons to read and write Polish. And in the day time we will learn the White Russian language."

"And from which books?" asked the priest's son, Basil.

"From White Russian ones," answered the teacher. "We have no other books."

"It's not allowed to learn from White Russian books," said Basil. "The authorities have forbidden to learn from White Russian books, and he who does not obey the authorities, commits a mortal sin."

"Well, then, shut up! It's not your business!" shouted the children to the priest's son. "You are not an instructor for us."

In the evening Nikodim Pavlitch sent a declaration to the authorities. In this declaration he stated that the children do not understand the Polish language, and that in the evening he will teach us to read and write Polish, and in the day-time White Russian.

This paper he sent, and our life went on as usually.

When the priest and the kulaks (rich peasants) got to know, that Nikodim Pavlitch teaches us from old books, they also sent a declaration to the town authorities. In this statement they said that the teacher goes against the authority of the Polish lords, tells the children about Lenin and about the Soviet system and that it is necessary to arrest him.

One morning, when we had a lesson in arithmetic, three gendarmes entered the school. They had fierce faces and round their belts hung revolvers and in their hands they held whips. One of them, the chief one, approached Nikodim Pavlitch and shouted to him:

"You, are you Nikodim Pavlitch Kostiuk?"

"I," said our teacher.

"What are you doing here?"

"I teach the children," answered Nikodim Pavlitch.

"Show the book."

The teacher handed the arithmetic book over to him. The gendarme saw that the problems are written in White Russian language. His face grew quite red. He lifted his whip and struck Nikodim Pavlitch heavily on the face.

The children screamed, jumped from their seats, ran towards the gendarme, weeping and shouting:

"Don't hit him! Why do you beat Nikodim Pavlitch?"

And Tanka Krivtchuk got hold of the gendarme's sleeve, weeps, bites and screams with all her might:

"Brigand! Brigand!"

She suffered very much for Nikodim Pavlitch and was deeply humiliated. The gendarme lifted her with both hands and hit her head against the edge of a desk. Tanka died on the spot. At first convulsions shook her body twice. The brain poured out—so died Tanka. And the other gendarmes locked the door and beat the children with whips. They beat their faces, their backs, their chests; they beat them so mercilessly that the shirts and trousers of many children were torn to pieces and the whole body was in stripes and bled.

They they locked us up and led Nikodim Pavlitch away to some place.

We were released only in the evening. It was already quite dark.

When we came home to our huts we were told that the gendarmes had already left. I asked my mother:

"And what happened to Nikodim Pavlitch?"

And mother weeps, kisses me and between sobs says:

"He is on the square, our martyr. They have killed him, killed, the brutes."

My whole body bled. Every touch caused pain. I couldn't move, but when I heard that Nikodim Pavlitch lays on the square, I forgot all about my pains and ran to the square.

There I saw him lying near the church fence. His shirt was torn off, his chest was stabbed in many places with bayonets and on his forehead were two bullet wounds.

Next day the whole village buried Nikodim Pavlitch and Tanká. And after another day the new teacher—a Pole—arrived, who taught the children only in Polish, from Polish books, and according to these books the rule of the Polish lords is the most just on earth and established by God.

And life becomes in our village more and more unbearable. The people sigh, being plundered by the lords. Little children die during the winters from hunger.

We read the false books of Polish lords, we think of the graves of Nikodim Pavlitch and Tanka and our eyes fill with tears.

Our life is hard, very hard!

'The Phantom Lover' by G. Kaiser, a Poetic Phantasy

At the Forty-ninth Street Theatre they are playing Georg Kaiser's 1928 play, "Oktobertag," under the title "The Phantom Lover." I do not know how closely the translation follows the original, but some of the super-sentimental passages which mar an otherwise clever dialog may be due to too close adherence to the German, a language in which you utter extraordinarily sweetish phrases without sounding like The Family Magazine.

To be brief, the situation is this: Lieutenant Jean-Mare Marrien (acted by David Newell) is summoned, with threats if he does not come, to appear before a perfect stranger, Monsieur Coste. The fact that everyone on the stage pronounces the lieutenant's first name differently, is not a part of the play, and is not what causes his handsome sulky face to fill with displeasure. The trouble is that Coste accuses him of being the father of a child recently born to Catherine, Coste's niece. Jean, etc., offers proofs to the contrary in the way of an alibi, but admits being in the city on a day in October.

Finally it appears that Caterine saw the lad on that day, looked with him into a jewelry shop at marriage rings, knelt with him at prayers in church, and sat in the same box with him at the opera, all without his knowing it, though she thought this constituted a marriage with ring, blessing, and celebration with music. In a loyal attempt to consummate the marriage, she opens her door that night, and grasps out into the hallway to lead her husband in, the lieutenant at that identical moment being miles away and utterly ignorant of her existence. The baby came about by the fact that when Catherine so grasped into the darkness she accidentally got hold of the butcher boy, who was sneaking into the house quietly to visit one of the maids.

Now though Catherine never knew the difference, this maid did, and presumably, partly out of motives of revenge, urged on Leguerche, the butcher boy (played by Romney Brent, the best actor in this production) to blackmail Coste for the price of a meat shop.

Marrien, having met Catherine, falls most romantically in love with her, and so far adapts himself to Catherine's delusion and her preceding paranoid state (the mystic marriage, etc.) that he murders Leguerche to protect himself against any interference with the delusional system which he now shares with Catherine. This seems to be the only way to explain the cutting down of Leguerche, for Coste was willing to buy him off, and the boy wanted only to become a capitalist, in a way not morally different from that followed by other capitalists, and therefore, presumably approved of by playwright and audience.

However, in spite of the fine acting, especially of Brent, who is real enough, the whole affair has an air of mystic fairyland about it, and much is left unexplained. You don't know quite whether half the actors are meant to be crazy, or whether Kaiser is kidding you. Or maybe a German is having a little fun with the French army again.—V. S.

A Novel of "Poor Whites" By a Literary Ku Kluxer

STRANGERS AND LOVERS. By Edwin Granberry. The Macaulay Company. $2.00.

Reviewed by EDWIN ROLFE.

THIS book falls within the category of the might-have-been-good novels. That is to say, the author, at the very outset of his work, had a story of gigantic possibilities in his hand: the life of a girl belonging to the "poor white" class in the south. But, confronted with several methods with which to attack the story, Granberry, it seems, chose the worst, that of treating his central characters in a decidedly snobbish and supercilious manner.

There are many prejudices revealed in the book which definitely stamp the author, who has been given a place "in the front rank of our younger novelists" by bourgeois critics, as a follower of the decadent literary school of the Dial and the now defunct Little Review groups.

There is, to mention one of these prejudices, a loftly contempt for the Negro, whom he treats not sympathetically or understandingly but in a way that is sure to lead the unwitting reader, who imagines that Granberry knows all about the south of which he writes, to adopt a similar race-prejudiced stand against the Negro. Then there is the difference in his treatment of Millie, the girl of the poorer class, and Mrs. Boynton, a member of the southern aristocracy. This difference is subtle; so subtle in fact, that were it not for a close scrutiny of the novel, this false and narrowly aristocratic stand of the author would not be discernible. But one can see that there is condescension in his descriptions of Millie and a fawning humbleness in those of Mrs. Boynton.

There are some moments in the volume when the author's intense preoccupation with the simon-pure aesthetics of writing result in several beautiful (albeit artificial) effects. But these moments are so scattered and unfrequent in their presence that they do not on the whole affect the hopeless mediocrity of the book.

Stowkowski to Present Music of New Russia

(By United Press)

LEOPOLD STOWKOWSKI, Philadelphia orchestra conductor, with his wife and daughter, returned from Europe yesterday after an 18 months' tour, during which he made a study of Oriental music.

Stowkowski said he had brought back several Russian scores which he would play for the first time during the winter season in Philadelphia.

The conductor kept what he called a travel book, in which he made notes each day of what he had seen and heard.

"The book will never reach the public," he said. "I kept it so that I could bring back at will many of the experiences of our trip."

Ten Are Injured When Bronx Bus Crashes Into Building; Brakes Are Blamed

SAY COMPANY KEPT BRAKES IN DISREPAIR

Worker Killed in Truck Accident

A Bronx bus, early yesterday morning, turning sharply to avoid hitting a sand truck proceeding up the street toward it, crashed into the plate glass front window of a store at 556 E. 187th St., the Bronx, injuring ten passengers. Mrs. Mollie Sigmori, 235 Prospect Ave., the Bronx, and her child, Ralph, 2, were taken to a hospital, suffering with serious injuries. The accident was laid to faulty brakes, which the company failed to repair, it is said.

Frederick Estreve, 55, a French seaman and former roomer at 228 E. 42nd St., was killed today by an American Railway Express Co. truck in Lexington Ave. at 42nd St.

The truck parked in front of 303 E. 22nd St. It weighed five tons.

"Watch," said Patrick Mancay, 9, of 223 E. 22nd St., climbing into the driver's seat.

George Kelly, 11, of 319 E. 23rd St., was busy inspecting the cowl and engine.

Suddenly the engine started and the truck lurched forward. George screamed and tried to escape, but was crushed between the truck and a coupe. At Bellevue Hospital he was believed to have received internal injuries.

An unidentified woman about 65 was killed by an automobile truck today at Pennsylvania and Blake Aves., Brooklyn.

Scabs Still Planting Bomb Frame-ups

range new cases of bombings and other "acts of violence." The mill bosses raised a new hue and cry when a bomb exploded near the home of Mrs. Chauncey Pitts, a strikebreaker. This is the thirteenth bombing planted by strikebreaking hirelings, who are ready to sacrifice one of their own number in order to enmesh some striker in a frame-up.

The day before the company officials tried to arrest several leading strikers on the charge of having burned up a company automobile. The "story" offered by those pressing the charges were that the driver of an automobile conducting scabs to and from the mill had been waylaid, ordered out of the machine, tied to a tree and compelled to watch the burning of the car. One of the reasons for the great difficulty encountered by the bosses in framing strikers is that the population of the town is overwhelmingly in sympathy with the strikers who are conducting the bitter struggle.

WEISBORD PLANS ANTHRACITE TOUR

Will Speak at Principal Industrial Cities

WILKES-BARRE, PA. Sept., 7.—Three meetings have been arranged for Albert Weisbord, militant textile leader and candidate for Senator from New Jersey on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, in the Anthracite region, in connection with his tour in preparation for the National Convention on Sept. 22, 23.

He will speak in Wilkesbarre on Friday, Sept. 14 at Concordia Hall, 91 So. Washington St., in Nanticoke on Wednesday, Sept. 12 at 128 So. Ridge St., and in Old Forge on Thursday, Sept. 13, at Columbus Hall. All three of the meetings will begin at 7 p. m.

While Weisbord's tour is especially addressed to the workers in the silk mills, mostly young girl workers receiving from $5 to $15 a week, it is expected that all workers in the cities which he will visit will avail themselves of the opportunity which Weisbord will present of hearing a report about the struggle of the New Bedfrod textile strikers from the leaders of the strike.

Says Philadelphia Is One of Biggest Bootleg Centers

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7 (UP).—Philadelphia was advanced today as a rival to Chicago in the alcohol "racket."

To disclosures regarding vast underworld activity, District Attorney Monaghan added the statement that Philadelphia had become one of the nations chief distributing centers for bootleg liquor.

Even New York, Monaghan said, was receiving supplies from a $10,000,000 bootleg ring with headquarters in the small but active underworld section here.

NATIONAL MINE MEET TO START WORK TOMORROW

Hundreds of Miners to Take Part

was keyed still higher when the Kansas delegates strode into the arrangements committee.

Hundreds Expected.

Expected tonight are hundreds of delegates from Pennsylvania, and southern and western districts, including many miners from the unorganized fields whose credentials have been pouring into the office for days past.

Delegates from Avella, Charleroi, Harwick, Renton, Pennsylvania mining villages which withstood the bitter winter of semi-starvation and Lewis betrayal, will arrive in this city at about the same time as delegates from Indiana, the Kentucky anthracite, Missouri, Maryland, Illinois, and West Virginia. Six hundred and seventy-five delegates are reported to be not far outside Pittsburgh tonight. Most are traveling by auto caravan.

Destitution.

The Kansas delegates have fired the pre-convention atmosphere with stories of a betrayal more vicious if anything, than what the Lewis machine perpetrated in any other coal area.

Declaring that only almost total destitution, following a long period of unemployment, prevented the Kansas delegation from being double and triple its actual number, the delegates relate how the Lewis group signed the state on the 1917 scale with the proviso that the mines were to open Sept. 1, though practically none did.

Looting of the miners through the checkoff is another outrage of which the men have countless examples to tell though the Lewis machine is using all the methods at its disposal to suppress the indignation of the miners and reports of the wage steals.

Blacklist Threat.

Threat of the blacklist was held over the heads of all miners who attend the National Convention by district president of the United Mine Workers, James Scahan, in an outburst at the rump district convention he called together at Pittsburgh, Kan., on Aug. 30.

Few Lewis locals have been left functioning in Kansas, the delegates report. Even Dan Coffee, Lewis district board member, in the course of an argument against the new miners union before two locals in Arma, Kan., announced that the Lewis machine is desperately weak in that state.

The Lewis crowd in Kansas is in mortal fear of a stampede of the Kansas miners to the new union and the delegates declare that there is nothing more likely to take place.

MINER CRUSHED BY CAR

Food Is Crying Need as Babies Starve

WEST BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 7. Jabez Allen was fatally injured when a mine car jumped the track in the open shop Vesta No. 5 mine near Vestaburg, and crushed to the South Side hospital, and died of internal injuries soon after.

Thousands of miners are still striking in Western Pennsylvania, demanding the recognition of pit committees, Destitution, disease and hunger have never been so extreme in all the seventeen months of hardship and struggle.

The National Miners Relief Committee is unable to take care of more than a fraction of the pleas for the barest necessities of life reaching its headquarters. A little flour to make bread, a little canned milk to dilute with water and feed the babies — such appeals are made every day at 611 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., by white-faced mothers, grim-faced fathers.

ATHLETICS TIE THE YANKS FOR FIRST

(By United Press)

The long, uphill fight of the Philadelphia Athletics which began two months ago at a time when they were trailing the New York Yankees by twelve games was crowned with success today when the Mackmen went into a tie for first place with the world's champions.

Two victories over the Boston Red Sox at Fenway Park while the Washington Senators were administering two crushing defeats to the Yankees at New York put the Athletics, for the first time this season, on even terms with their rivals.

No uphill struggle in the history of baseball, not even the drive of the Boston Braves, the "Miracle Men" of 1914, from the bottom of the National League to the top, exceeds in drama the rise of the Athletics of 1928.

Two months ago, the American League pennant had been conceded to the Yankees by every critic of baseball, while Connie Mack seemed to be left with another expensive collection of relics on his hands.

Slowly and at first almost imperceptibly, the Athletics set out to overtake the over-confident world's champions. Only within the past few weeks has it seemed likely that they would make the grade.

The day's double-headers demonstrated the present superiority of the Mackmen over the Yankees. The "A.'s" had no easy time beating the Boston Red Sox. "Lefty" Grove, Connie Mack's southpaw ace, had to pitch his head off to win the first game at Fenway Park, 1 to 0. Grove held the Sox to four hits, while Ruffing allowed the Athletics six.

In the second game, the Mackmen got away to a fast start, scoring six runs in three innings off MacFayden and Griffin. They needed the lead, for the Red Sox found Earnshaw and Orwoll for a ringing round of base-hits, and it was not until Ed Rommel took a hand that Carrigan's young men were safely subdued, the Athletics winning, 7 to 8.

Yankee ambitions were rudely shattered in the first game, when Hadley let them down with three hits and the Senators won, 11 to 0. "Goose" Goslin, who is taking great pleasure in assisting in the discomfiture of the Yanks, contributed a home run with one on during a seven run rally in the eighth. Tom Zachary was the victim of the assault.

100 Attend Workers Party Election Meet in Spite of Police

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 7.—More than a hundred people listened to Evelyn Blacher and Leroy speak on the militant program of the Workers Party at an election rally in spite of the presence of a large number of police.

Much campaign literature was sold to the workers, and despite the evident animosity of the police, who had previously broken up two open air meetings, the speakers continued for almost two hours.

FEAR BETRAYAL OF CARPENTERS BY MISLEADERS

Officials Confer With Bosses on Strike

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 7. —Alarmed by the solidarity of the 250 carpenters on strike in Westchester county, the Building Material Men's Association, the bosses' league, sent a telegram to William L. Hutchinson, of Indianapolis, reactionary president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, asking for authority to settle the mill workers strike by arbitration.

The carpenters went out 11 days ago, demanding a 5 day week with the same pay they have been getting for 5 and a half days. The bosses yesterday conferred with the county officials of the carpenters' union. The carpenters are on the alert, fearing an attempt by the union officials to sell them out.

N. J. MISLEADERS ENDORSE SMITH

Jobless, Unorganized Workers Ignored

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 7. —The New Jersey State Federation of Labor today passed a resolution endorsing Al Smith for president.

The resolution was rammed thru the convention by the misleaders in charge of the federation, who are closely allied with the corrupt Hague democratic machine. All important issues affecting the workers of this state were ignored or tabled. A few words were spoken about the severe serious unemployment in the state, but the matter was thereupon forgotten by the officialdom.

The problems of organizing the unorganized, who comprise the huge majority of the workers in this state, was, as customary in the anual federation conventions, not even mentioned.

The Miners' National Convention at Pittsburgh.

Sunday marks the opening at Pittsburgh of the most important trade union convention in the United States in many long years.

It is the convention which must mark the definite foundation of the national union of the bituminous and anthracite coal industry in the United States.

The United Mine Workers Union was in its day the backbone of the American trade union movement. The corruption of the bureaucracy of that once-great union, its collaboration and conspiracy with the mine owners against the vital interests and needs of the workers, culminating in the most brazenly open betrayal by the Lewis machine during the crisis in the industry, when Lewis and his henchmen in all districts deliberately starved out and broke the strike—has resulted finally in the downfall and hopeless destruction of the union..

Upon the pitiful fragments of a Union which, when it lived, had been the greatest mass organization that trade unionism in this country had been able to produce,—upon the wreckage of the United Mine Workers Union, sits a discredited, unmasked and desperate gang of strikebreakers headed by John L. Lewis and calling themselves still by the meaningless name of the dead union. This wreckage is transformed into nothing more than a machine for strikebreaking and the prevention of the organization of the coal industry. Those who control the machine of this union are but gunmen and strikebreakers in the virtual, and sometimes literal pay of the coal operators. Lewis' only bid for survival is a bid to the coal operators to make use of him and his machine as instruments for the strangling of the movement for organization in the industry.

Within the eight years of the power of John L. Lewis over the union, the employers with his assistance have beaten the organized section of the workers in the industry down from the position where they once held 70 per cent of production, down to where even the most charitable have ceased to claim 30 per cent of production as unionized.

Never fully organized, the coal mining industry required, from the point of view of the workers, above all the organization during this crisis of the unorganized fields which were being used as a lever to crush the unionized workers. With the shrewd ingenuity of a specialist in strikebreaking, Lewis and high-salaried bureaucracy went into this situation, not with the necessary energetic drive for the organization of the unorganized fields, but with the slogan borrowed from the scab mine operators to squeeze out of the industry a quarter of a million coal miners. When in spite of the Lewis bureaucracy the unorganized miners of Western Pennsylvania formed their own locals, applied for admission to the international union and joined the strike of 1922, the Lewis bureaucracy cut the throats of these miners by making a settlement without their inclusion. In the struggle of 1919, the bureaucracy of the United Mine Workers betrayed the mine workers. In 1922 again the "leaders" sold out the strike. In [illegible] again. And in the long and bitter struggle of 1927 and 1928 Lewis and his district lieutenants deliberately played the [illegible] within the union of wrecking the organization in order to defeat the strike.

The national nominating convention of the Workers (Communist) Party last May said in its platform:

> "District after district was lost for the United Mine Workers under the leadership of the Lewis machine. In 1919 the miners' strike tied up 70 per cent of production; the present strike only 20 per cent. Lewis and the operators have broken up the U. M. W. A. The Lewis machine criminally neglected the necessary preparations for the strike. It sabotaged the organization of the unorganized. It has signed up individual agreements. It has betrayed the cause of a national agreement. It has split the movement by ousting everybody from the union who wants a militant struggle. It is cutting off relief from every striking miner who dares to criticize it. It is trying to enforce a yellow dog pledge of starvation. The last vestiges of democracy have been eradicated from the union. Lewis stole the elections. The Lewis machine is not a leadership set up by the rank and file, but a leadership set up with the aid of the bosses over the rank and file. From June to December, 1927, while the striking miners were starving on a dollar or two a week relief, Lewis drew $11,093.66 in salary and personal expenses."

This is a ghastly picture, but coal diggers who have been in the struggle know that it is a plain picture of the facts.

After having carried the struggle against the mine workers to the point where it appeared to the anti-union experts that a touch of the hand would cause a complete collapse of unionism in the industry, John L. Lewis himself suddenly announced that the strike was over, that the Jacksonville scale must be abandoned for a drastic lowering of all standards, and that every district should desert the struggle for a national agreement, each making what scab arrangements could be made with individual bosses or in separate fields.

By the hand of John L. Lewis the United Mine Workers of America is dead.

But the will of the mine workers to fight for their rights as men, is only brought to its final strength by this blow of treason.

From all over the United States are gathering in Pittsburgh the representatives of the most militant fighting mine workers of all parts of the country.

These men are going to form the nation-wide Union of the coal industry.

They bring with them all the heroic traditions of the old Union. They bring with them the sacred cause of our class, and they bring the courage and they will generate the power to defend the cause.

The Union they form will become the backbone of the trade union movement during the next period. But it will be something more than the United Mine Workers Union was, for these are different times and different conditions. As the old union was the backbone of the organized trade union movement—but even at that the backbone of a hunchback, of a dwarfed and stunted trade union movement—the new National Miners' Union will be the backbone of a finer, greater, stronger trade union movement.

The coal mining situation is not alone in a vacuum. The whole labor movement of the world, including particularly the United States, is now undergoing the most ferocious attacks for its destruction. News from England today is enough to show that not alone here but also throughout other countries, the trade union bureaucracy is engaged in helping the capitalist class in the effort to force the whole of our class on its knees. Opportunist trade union "leaders" and "socialist" leaders are in the fight which can only result in the destruction of the unions or the destruction of themselves by the workers.

The present convention in Pittsburgh will not only build a great, fighting union for themselves, but in the same act they will build a fighting front for the working class against the bosses and against the traitors who are butchering the labor movement from within.

The coal miners of the entire country must rally to this convention. To pay dues any longer to John L. Lewis' national and district organizations would be only to supply the sinews of war against the mine workers.

All support the new National Miners' Union!

Lovestone Dissects U.S. Empire

Defends Bukharin's Thesis at Sixth Communist World Congress

This is the second instalment of Comrade Jay Lovestone's speech at the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International.

A few words about the role of American imperialism. The Central Committee declares that the growing aggressiveness of American imperialism today is based on its growing strength. This is the special feature of the present world situation. Our opposition says that the growing aggressiveness is based—on "the diminishing reserve power of American imperialism." This is false and is a wrong "elaboration" of the theses. The opposition cannot see that the growth and aggressiveness of American imperialism can go together. Here is where they get their criticism of the Party in certain fields. They believe so firmly in their false conclusions that American imperialism is about to decline, that they charge that the C. E. C. policies towards Anglo-American and Japanese-American conflicts are based on a supposed notion attributed to the C. E. C. of America being the tail to British and Japanese imperialism on China.

Let us examine some facts. I read from the estimate of the Anglo-American relations made by one of the "theoreticians" of our opposition. Comrade Dunne in estimating the Anglo-American relations has declared:

"If American imperialism really desires peace for herself and the imperialist world (we consider in this article only the inner imperialist conflicts and not the general struggle of imperialism against the Soviet Union), the requisite procedure seems quite simple. It would be sufficient for immediate purposes for the two most powerful imperialist nations—America and Great Britain—to sign a treaty against war and agree to move jointly against any other imperialist nation or nations, which disturbed the peace. The combination of forces would be too powerful for any possible grouping of capitalist nations to challenge."

The Central Committee rejects this opportunist non-Leninist estimate of the Anglo-American conflict, and maintains that the Anglo-American conflict has displaced the Anglo-German conflict of pre-war days.

Now let us see about the Japanese question. Our Central Committee maintains that the Japanese-American imperialist conflicts are developing and are bound to sharpen. But particularly because of the strong persistent anti-Japanese propaganda of American imperialism and the propaganda of Wall Street that the United States is a friend of China—it is necessary for us to expose this propaganda by making clear the concrete, aggressive role of American imperialism. American imperialism is today temporarily giving Japan, to a certain extent, some freedom because of the greater common danger of a revolutionary China. Do we deny the sources of conflict between Japanese and American imperialism? We do not deny any of this. What we do deny is that it is our work to hide the role of American imperialism in this connection as an active co-operator with Japan in crushing China. The basic line of the policy of the Party must be founded not on the differences among the imperialist powers, but on the concrete role of the so-called home government, the United States government, which oppresses the American workers.

Is there a radicalization process going on in the United States? The Central Committee says, yes. The volume of radicalization today is greater than at any time since the LaFollette movement was at its height. We say, furthermore, it is increasing, but if it were of a national and deep-going character there would be some mass political expression of it. There would be many economic struggles of the workers. There would be a wave of strikes. But Green, Woll and the reactionary trade union fakers and the capitalist politicians still have the overwhelming majority of the working class following their policy.

The error of the opposition on the question of radicalization is that they maintain that radicalization in the United States today is already national and involves the bulk of the working class. This is due to the fact that they think radicalization can come only when capitalism goes down and that American imperialism is already going down. They fail to see that the developing strength of American imperialism itself develops contradictions which are a source of radicalization.

Briefly about unemployment: America with its mass unemployment and with its consequent developing unrest affords increasing opportunities for our Party. Our Party has responded well.

Much has been said here by our opposition about the fight against the Right danger. The American Party has consistently fought the Right danger for a number of years. Our opposition is making a caricature of the fight against the Right danger.

Comrades, I want to give you a brief survey of the development of our Party.—In the first stage we made errors mainly of an ultra-Left character. For instance, Comrade Cannon, now parading here as one of the Left, had a shortcut method of fighting the ultra-Lefts by proposing to expel 5,000 workers from our Party. We fortunately rejected that method.

In the second period of our Party our orientation was largely a Right Wing orientation, that was in 1924 and 1925 with Lore-Foster-Bittelman constituting the heart and head of our then Party leadership. Let us briefly look at the line of our Central Committee at that time.

1. Labor banking, which everyone denounces today, was officially endorsed in the Labor Herald, edited by Foster, the official organ of the Trade Union Educational League.

2. The convention in which the Foster-Bittelman-Lore-Cannon group were the majority, was greeted by Lore in the "Volkszeitung," his paper, as the victory of a majority for Trotskyism. And when we tried to repudiate this, we were defeated in all our efforts.

3. The convention sent a request to the Comintern that the E. C. C. I. decision to reorganize the Party on the basis of shop nuclei should not be applied to America.

4. Our efforts to secure a repudiation of Trotskyism as soon as it raised its head, were defeated. It was not until instructions came from the Party representative in Moscow at the Fifth Congress that Trotskyism was first renounced by the then majority of our Central Committee led by Foster and Lore.

5. The whole of the trade union work was then based upon the skilled workers, the labor aristocracy. The sole attention was paid to the amalgamation of the existing trade unions. All our efforts to push the organization of the unorganized (1925 Convention) were rejected.

6. Lore, who was then the real ideological leader of the Foster majority, has since been expelled. At the Fifth Congress, special instructions were given to our Party to have the then majority of Foster break with the Lore forces, now outside the Party, and unite with the followers of Ruthenberg.

7. The C. I. further declared at its Fifth World Congress that: "The comrades gathered around Comrade Cannon have made a number of declarations which have shown that in their efforts to secure influence on the petty-bourgeoisie they have failed to maintain the Communist position."

8. What was the policy of these self-styled Left Wingers of today on the Negro work at that time? I read from a speech delivered at the Third Comintern Congress by Comrade Dunne of the opposition:

"That the black workers are not organized is not to be explained by race antagonism, but by the fact that the American workers in general are not organized. In those branches of industry in which Negroes work, they are accepted in the trade unions as members on a basis of equality. If we are against dual unions in general, we cannot be for dual Negro unions. Race prejudice exists, it is true, but the best means of struggle against it will be the acceptance of white and black workers in one organization, and for the mobilization of the Negroes on one side of the barrier and the whites on the other."

"If Comrade Losovsky insists upon the organization of separate Negro unions in America, then we invite him to come to America and try to occupy himself with this question for at least a year. I am convinced that at the next Congress he would demand the head of that comrade who might propose such a solution of the Negro problem."

Our Central Committee has put forth a totally different policy, without Comrade Losovsky's assistance on this question.

Then let us come to the present period of our Party, beginning with the close of 1925.

We now see the beginning of the development towards a Bolshevik Party, with the present Central Committee leading the Party.

1. We organized the Party on a Bolshevik basis of shop nuclei.

2. We raised the ideological level of the Party.

3. We have driven the Party into mass work. Today 47 per cent of our members are in the trade unions, as against only 32 per cent when we took over the Party leadership.

4. We began the campaign to organize the unorganized. When we raised it concretely on the Passaic question, the organization of the unorganized textile workers and famous Passaic strike, the opposition resisted it and branded it as dual unionism. (December, 1925, C. E. C. Plenum.)

5. We have made considerable headway in the unification of the Party, ideologically as well as organizationally.

6. We have laid the beginning of mass work among the Negroes.

7. We have conducted the fight against opportunism, continuing the fight against Lore, and the fight against the ideologically damaging effects of American imperialism on the working class and even on certain sections of our Party—the present opposition.

Comrade Swabeck, one of the leaders of the opposition, declared there was pessimism in the Party because the Russian Revolution is no longer a source of inspiration to the American workers.

This comrade saw a conflict between the ideals of the proletarian revolution in Russia and the objectives of the Party in active participation in the every-day struggles of the working class. We rejected this theory vigorously as an example of the most dangerous opportunism.

And when Comrade Foster developed the theory that the trade union bureaucracy is invincible, and that the savings of the workers in America have "dynamic possibilities," we rejected it as another evidence of the dangerous effects of the strength of imperialism on the ideology of our Party.

Our Party is engaged primarily in the work of organizing the unorganized. The Trade Union Educational League has been so organized as to provide place for the unorganized workers in its structure. In mining, textile, needle trades, boot and shoe, and rubber, we are engaged in organizing new unions. In textile, mining and the needle trades we already have new unions organized. The Party is in the center of every strike in the country. The Passaic strike and many others, the Sacco and Vanzetti movement, the fight against the American imperialist war in Nicaragua, the struggle against the oppression of the colonial masses—in all these our Party has been the leader. Today our Party has the complete hegemony over the Left Wing.

Comrade Cannon spoke here critically about our election campaign. I can only refer to an article of his in the "Daily Worker" (June 5, 1928) before he came to Moscow, in which he wrote the highest praise of our election campaign.

With reference to the Negro work, we have made many errors, but we have made a definite beginning in this work.

In the organization work, our Party apparatus is centralized. We have brought in more than 1,000 new members in the mining campaign: we have more than 15,000 members in the Party today, with an average monthly increase of 600 members for 1928. We now have 28 factory nuclei papers with a circulation of over 60,000.

Rivers Continue to Mount in South

ATLANTA, Sept. 7.—The overflowing of rivers in Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina today was causing great destruction to highways and crops. Hundreds of square miles of farmland were reported inundated in North Carolina. The Cape Fear River rose 13 feet above its banks at Fayetteville.

Told You So

TAMMANY politicians are so crooked that they won't even die straight. Thus it has come to pass that the big pipe and plumbing king, John M. Phillips, who was supposed to have died recently is now suspected of having pulled off another fake. Phillip's family physician, Dr. Louis H Taylor, asserts that he doubts that the body buried in Old Calvary Cemetery was the carcass that once encompased the spirit of Mr. Phillips; in fact that what was buried must have been a couple of other fellows.

THE story is well-known to our well-informed readers, which means all of you. However, we pick up a new reader now and then who may not be acquainted with the history of the Queen's sewerpipes, (not by Dumas but just as good) so we propose to devote a few lines to the famous tale. Phillips was, and probably still is, a leader of the democratic Party in the borough of Queens. He was, and perhaps still is also a philanthropist and being concerned with the health of the borough, he decided to go into the sewerpipe business. In this charitable work he amassed an enormous fortune which is usually the reward of virtue according to the pulpit.

BE that as it may, jealousy was born in the breasts of divers other democratic philanthropists who failed to pipe the dough in the sewers. The upshot of the whole thing was that Phillips and several of his fellow philanthropists got into the toils of the law. Fearing that his conduct might be misunderstood, Phillips is alleged to have come down to Atlantic City, parked a keg of booze near his bed, attached a tube to the bung hole and sucked himself to death.

FOLLOWING the alleged demise of Phillips, a couple of other democratic leaders took off for Valhalla, under suspicious circumstances. Under ordinary conditions the death of a Tammany leader would not incite the public to make exhaustive investigation of the cause of their demise, a feeling of relief rather than sorrow being the rule rather than the exception. But now, all the tabloids and some of the more dignified newspapers are demanding an investigation and no doubt the statement of Dr. Taylor will mean overtime for the gravediggers.

"THE trick wouldn't be beyond him," observed Dr. Taylor when he broke the story to the press. Should the doctor's doubts be confirmed we are faced with the possibility of having a new religion on our hands. If the late Mr. Phillips is found running a night club or should it be learned that he is one of the recent millionaire bolters from the democratic to the republican party, it would be just like him to claim that he arose from the dead and is a brand new Jesus with a mandate to found a new religion. We await the result of the possible investigation of the Phillips coffin with as much interest as an old professor would the rummaging of a Pharaoh's grave.

WHILE touching on the subject of religion it is interesting to note that Aimee McPherson, the four-square evangelist, did the square thing by the Los Angeles judge who sat on her kidnaping case or rather sat on those who prosecuted Aimee for pulling off an alleged fake. The upright judge received the sum of $2,500, but he assures us that it did not affect his judgement in the slightest. He would have freed the red-headed girl if she had only given him a nickel cigar.

THE thirty-day sentence imposed on Mrs. Florence Knapp will just about give her time for a good long sleep. Instead of a headline reading: "Short Rap For Knapp," "Brief Nap For Knapp" would be more appropriate. However, Mrs. Knapp is lucky she did not steal a pound of corned beef. Even a cop would be liable to lose a week's pay for stealing a banana.

THERE is a good story going the rounds in Wall Street these days of a cop who in being shifted to a new beat walked into a restaurant and asked the cashier for a cigar. The girl gave him the weed, then reached into a drawer and handed the officer a sealed envelope. The cop decided not to express any surprise until he got into a nearby alley. Fancy his embarrassment when he found a fifty dollar bill and the word "Thanks." That cop is now a regular customer.

Great New England Labor Rally Held

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. Sept. 9—Establishing beyond all doubt, the unchallengabe leadership of the Textile Mill Committees in the great textile struggle here 20,000 striking textile workers, amid scenes of indescribable enthusiasm marched for three hours thru the main streets of this city, poured into the town Commons, and held a monster mass demonstration against the strike sell-out now being prepared by the American Federation of Labor officialdom and the mill owners.

When the marchers at the head of the huge parade swung into the Commons for the mass meeting, they were greeted by a roar of cheers by a mass of 15,000 strikers and sympathizers who were already packed into the huge square.

Red Banners.

Three bands of thirty pieces each, played strike and march songs for the line of marchers who, tho marching six abreast, stretched two miles long. Salvo on salvo of thunderous applause by the tightly packed thousands overflowed from the sidewalks greeted the parade as it passed thru the city. Red banners, bunting scarves and ties gave this normally quiet city a festive and rebel air.

MILL BOSS HEAD IS INTERVIEWED

Says Batty Begged for Chance to Sell Strike

By CHARLES YALE HARRISON.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 9.—"William M. Batty, secretary of the New Bedford Textile Council, came to me last week and pleaded that if we took down our wage-cut notices, he would agree to have his union accept the Frieder Standardization Plan," said John Sullivan, president of the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers' Association, Saturday in an exclusive interview with the writer today. This news coming after the conference between the diehard Sullivan and Batty is authoritative proof that the American Federation of Labor officials are frantic at the growing strength of the Textile Mill Committees.

When interviewed Batty declared that he would work to put thru the Frieder plan. Admitting the plan to be a speed-up system, Batty declared that it is the only way out of the situation.

"We favor the Frieder Efficiency Plan but it all depends on the workers. I fear that some workers view this plan as a speed-up system, but if accepted prospects for a settlement would be bright," said Batty to the questioner. Batty manifested great nervousness at the continued spread of Textile Mill Committees influence.

When questioned by the writer on the duration of the strike Sullivan said, "Approaching winter and hunger will drive them back to the mills."

The workers here are mobilized to fight the sell-out, and when the [illegible] this interview was announced to them from the platform in the Commons after today's parade, they greeted the reiteration of the Textile Mill Committee strike policy of no surrender, with a mighty roar of approval.

New Bedford Textile Strikers Fight On, Their Ranks Unbroken

The New Bedford textile strikers concluded their 21st week of heroic struggle with one of the greatest demonstrations of solidarity since the strike started when 35,000 workers took part in a parade and demonstration Saturday that was at the same time a repudiation of the betrayal policy of the Textile Council. Above is a picture of a recent strike meeting addressed by leaders of the Textile Mills Committee who are recognized by the workers as their real spokesmen.

C. E. C. OF WORKERS PARTY ENDORSES UNRESERVEDLY THESES OF COMINTERN

Approves Declaration of Lovestone for American Delegation

Rejects Johnstone Statement in Behalf of Minority

The Political Committee of the Central Executive Committee at its session on September 5th, endorsed unreservedly the political thesis of the Communist International on the report of Comrade Bukharin, as adopted by the Sixth World Congress.

The Political Committee approved the declcaration of Comrade Lovestone in behalf of the American Delegation to the Congress. Comrade Lovestone had made the following declaration:

> "The majority of the Workers (Communist) Party Delegation approves unreservedly the political theses presented by the delegation of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.
> "The unanimous adoption of the theses disproves the accusations of the minority against the majority of the Workers (Communist) Party concerning the alleged right wing policy, and means that the Communist International supports the present leadership. The best method to fight against the undoubtedly existing right wing dangers is for the minority completely to accept the theses, abandon fractionalism and subordinate itself to the majority."

The Political Committee rejected the stand of the minority of the American Delegation which took exception to sections of the theses and as expressed in the statement of Comrade Johnstone as follows:

> "The minority of the Workers Party Delegation agrees with the political theses except for the passage concerning the United States which fails to stress the United States imperialist contradictions and the progressive radicalization of the American workers and which also fails to condemn the right wing policy of the majority of the Central Committee of the Workers Party, particularly regarding the non-application of the decisions of the Fourth Congress of the Red International of Labor Unions and Negro and anti-imperialist work."

The Political Committee of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party is in complete agreement with the theses and the report of Comrade Bukharin, including the section of the theses dealing with the analysis of American imperialism and the estimation of the work of the Party.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 9.—Two strikers who violated the anti-picketing injunction obtained by the Central Alloy Steel Corporation in its frenzied attempt to break the five-week walk-out of the 500 chippers and grinders, will be sentenced here Tuesday, having been convicted. Thirteen other pickets who were arraigned at the same time received suspended sentences.

The court room was packed with strikers, including members of the mill committee and Joe Judson, militant picket leader. Conspicuous in the court were also a large number of spies of the steel corporation and Superintendent Smith and W. H. Selden, chipper boss, whom the strikers insist be removed as one of their demands.

When Judson entered the court room Smith was seen in whispered conversation with the chief of police and prosecutor, and a few minutes later he was arrested and held on a charge of "suspicion." Judson was later released under $100 bond.

Over 100 Delegates Are Arrested After Miners Drive Back Army of 200 Gangsters and Detectives

Freeman Thompson, Tony Minerich Among Scores Taken in Police Dragnet; All are Held Without Bail.

Frank Sepich, Tony Calmari Severely Beaten Up; Delegates Carry on Convention Despite Fascist Terror

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—Evading the raiding parties of Pittsburgh police and an army of Lewis thugs and coal operator detectives, several hundred mine delegates from every section of the organized and unorganized fields are holding a closed session in another hall, hastily secured for the purpose.

By JACK LEE.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—Fighting for their own lives as well as for the establishment of a new miners' union, hundreds of mine delegates smashed through the combined attack of two hundred Lewis gangsters assisted by the Pittsburgh police here today to hold the second session of their historic convention.

The first session was broken up this morning before it could begin in an exhibition of American fascism in action, the equal of which has as yet not been seen and which offers a grim foretaste to the American working class of what it must prepare for in the future.

Planned In Advance.

Pittsburgh city police, carrying out an evidently well-planned program and cooperating with over two hundred thugs recognized by miners as members of a permanent army of paid attaches of the Lewis administration, rode rough shod through the meeting of the mine delegates at the Labor Lyceum Hall, swung clubs indiscriminately, laid numbers of coal diggers low, broke heads, knocked some unconscious and ended by arresting thirty-five of those present among whom are some of the best known leaders in the fight for a new mine union.

"We want the leaders," was the cry with which the fascist army led by the police drove into the attack. "Get the leaders," the slogan was repeated. In the round-up, Freeman Thompson, Anthony Minerich, Frank Sepich and other prominent progressive mine leaders were included. Tony Calmari of Charleroi and Sepich were blackjacked. Calmari is now in Passavant Hospital still unconscious four hours after the vicious slugging. Severe lacerations of the head and serious abdominal injuries are casting his life in doubt.

Police Refuse Bail.

The police refuse to grant bail to those arrested because "it is Sunday."

The cops spent the afternoon today in driving from one hotel to another arresting all delegates whom they could lay hands on. Their first act after the raid on the Labor Lyceum was to proceed to the Monongahela Hotel at three o'clock at which place they arrested all members of the delegation present. At the hotel at which the West Virginia delegation was registered, Lewis gangsters made a wholesale attack on members who were outside of the entrance. Following this the whole delegation was arrested.

Another delegation of thirty-five members who arrived at the Labor Lyceum this afternoon, ignorant of the raid this morning, were immediately pounced upon by the police and dragged off to jail.

Information which came to the National Arrangements Committee for the new union of the Lewis plans to break up the convention caused the four hundred delegates who had already arrived last night to take possession of the meeting hall during the night in order to hold it. About nine o'clock this morning the Lewis gangsters, some of whom have come from as far as West Virginia, drove up in taxicabs. Among them were many recognized as coal operator detectives. All wore red, white and blue badges

FUR WORKERS IN GENERAL MEET

To Decide Question of Registered Furriers

What to do to facilitate the entrance of fur workers who were registered members of the right wing Joint Council of the A. F. of L. into their newly applied for membership in the left wing Joint Board, will be the chief point for discussion at the general membership meeting of the Joint Board, which is to be held tomorrow evening, immediately after work in Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Place.

The meeting was decided upon by the leaders of the Joint Board as the best method of settling this problem, which becomes more pressing each day due to the increasing influx of furriers working in the shops of the Associated Fur Manufacturers, Inc. These shops have "agreements" with the right wing union and refuse to recognize the Joint Board.

The registered members reapplying for union admission owe large amounts of money in dues. The Joint Board therefore wants to take up with the membership the question of lessening their indebtedness.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—News of the shooting by a Lewis machine henchman of George Moran and Frank Kovac, two mine delegates from the Bentleyville local union to the Pittsburgh miners' convention spread like fire among the members of the various delegations. Today's raids upon the convention and upon the hotel headquarters of the delegates by the combined forces of the Lewis gangsters and the Pittsburgh police are seen here as the last act of desperation in the terror and murder campaign of the Lewis machine.

SOVIET UNION CELEBRATES TOLSTOY CENTENARY

Workers, Peasants Join Honoring Great Writer in Observances Thruout Week

MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—Tomorrow 146,000,000 people, occupying one-sixth of the world's surface, will join in paying tribute to one of the greatest writers that Russia has produced, Leo Nicolaievich Tolstoy.

Beginning tomorrow and lasting thruout the week, memorial meetings, concerts, performances of Tolstoy's plays and various other celebrations will take place, under the direction of the Soviet Government, in observance of the 100th anniversary of the birth of the great writer. The observances will center in Moscow and in Yasnaya Polyana, the village where Tolstoy spent most of his life and where practically all of his great works were written. Special exhibits will be on view at his home and in a number of museums.

The Commissariat of Education, which is in direct charge of the Tolstoy centenary, has invited various cultural organizations to participate in the Moscow celebrations. These include the Academy of Arts, the Academy of Sciences, the Union of Literary Societies, the Society of Former Political Prisoners, conservatories and all the theatres.

At Yasnaya Polyana thousands will march in a procession to Tolstoy's tomb, which will be followed by the dedication of the three new memorial buildings built by the Soviet Government, a high school, a large hospital and an agricultural experimental station for the improvement of peasant economy.

To Present Plays.

The peasants of Yasnaya Polyana and of the neighboring village of Telyatina, the home of Tolstoy's friend and chief disciple, Chertkov, together with their children will

Determined Miners in Old Flivvers Make Way to Pittsburgh to Build New Union

ELEGATES FROM LL OVER U. S. ARRIVE HOURLY

Many Come From the Open-Shop Territory

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—The Kansas' miners' delegation has forced its way in well-worn Fords, the first of the auto caravans across country, to be on time for the National Miners Convention, which will launch a new miners' union, a fighting, incorruptible organization of the rank and file on a national scale to win back a living wage and decent conditions in the industry. Other delegations are arriving hourly from the anthracite, Central Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, West Virginia, and other fields.

A hundred and fifty delegates from the Pittsburgh district are in town. You see these rugged workers around on the streets and in the offices of the Convention Arrangements Committee; they are men that hunger and the 17 months' struggle against operators and police and state troopers and the gangsters, and the starvation policy of International President Lewis and his minions have not been able to break. The advance guard arrived Saturday from McDonald, from Avella, from Harwick, from the Portage section and other towns scattered about the district.

From Open-Shop Territory.

Tom Wray and his brother delegates come from the territory of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., which has locked out its miners since 1925, and whose open-shop policy, they report, was recognized a few weeks ago by Lewis when he calmly withdrew pickets from those mines.

The Indiana delegation had a little road trouble. The first cars, which contained among others Mother Bloor, active organizer for the Save-the-Union Movement in Indiana, and one of the only three women members of the old United Mine Workers of America, also some active Negro delegates, were stalled at Englewood, Ohio. Mother Bloor and some of the others came on by train, and the whole caravan came on into Pittsburgh in time for the convention.

Ready to Walk.

"If the tires had given out," Thomas S. Wakefield, white-haired delegate in the Kansas group, said of his caravan, "we would've walked! You see, the locals back in Kansas are waiting for charters from the new union, and we promised to bring them back. The Kansas district has been shot to pieces ever since Lewis threw out our officers and put in a 'provisional' set, and whenever we put a progressive on the slate to oppose them at election time, they just cross the name off."

Wakefield was a member of the Knights of Labor and helped to organize the United Mine Workers of America. Now that he has seen it wrecked by the Lewis gang he is helping to organize another union. He has proved himself a good union man.

New Locals.

Wakefield told of the organization of new union locals in some towns, where they only await their charters to begin to take everything over, and of the refusal of the Lewis local officials to permit any meetings of their few remaining locals for fear that if they ever meet they will join the new union.

The Lewis district administration has signed up the state on the 1917 scale, much under the Jacksonville scale, but even so, the mines do not open as they were expected to on Sept. 1. The Kansas delegation thinks that this is because the operators are not certain that the reactionary district president, Skahan, has anything to sell to them that he will be able to deliver.

Threaten Blacklist.

Dan Coffee, district board member for the old union, appeared at meetings of two locals in Arma, Kansas, the center of the coal industry there, and in the course of his argument with the boys of 46 and 3350 pleaded with them not to join the new union, "because the United Mine Workers is terribly weak in Kansas."

Another tactic of the machine in Kansas is the blacklist. An open threat to blacklist any miner who went with the new union was made at the U. M. W. A. district convention during the last week of August by district officials on the platform there—but the miners refused to be terrorized. They do not believe the Kansas machine has any sting left. "I don't believe the gentlemen," said Wakefield when he was told that all the progressives would be expelled, "but I wish they would kick out the two or three that are left. They'll find themselves in good company."

Fat Salaries.

This Lewis district convention, Wakefield believes, started a move to return to the officials' exorbitant salaries which the miners of Kansas had begun to cut down. The delegates were hoodwinked or bulldozed into creating a special fund under the direct charge of the district officials, which will surely be used to provide them with a softer living.

At present the reactionary officials in District 14 of the U. M. W. A. (Kansas) are living on the loot they collect from the few miners who were signed up before the strike, mostly strip miners, steam shovel men, etc. One of these men announces that out of his last check of $114, the company checked off for Lewis officials $15 in so-called dues, special and district assessments. Another strip miner with a check of $96 was held up in the same way for $12.20.

The Kansas delegation could have been three or four times as large, the delegates here said, if it were not for the expense of transporting delegates to Pittsburgh. As it is, the locals which could not send their own men will be represented by those from other locals.

Tammany Authorities Refuse to Seek Murderers of D'Olier, Witness

With inescapable evidence proving that William D'Olier, sanitation engineer, was murdered by henchmen of Queens sewer grafters, the district attorney still refused to seek the men higher-up who instigated the killing because D'Olier knew "too much" about their grafting activities. Photo shows Thomas Grims (left) who was with John M. Phillips, sewer-pipe king, when he died in Atlantic City under extremely suspicious circumstances; Francis Phillips, his son and heir to millions, shown hiding his face from photographers while walking from a recent grand jury hearing with his lawyer, and (extreme right), Peter Campbell, a contractor who has been doing "business" with some of the big boys.

ELECTRICIANS STRIKE IN PHILADELPHIA, PA.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Despite the opposition to a fight for the 40 hour week on the part of the union officials who brought in the head of the Contractors Association to "convince" the workers against striking for this demand, local 98 of the electrical workers of Philadelphia voted 519 to 65 to go on strike at its meeting last Tuesday. The remaining shops, including those of the out-of-town contractors and 5 local contractors settled at once with the union.

The issue was over the question of the 40 hour week. Last May the union carried a resolution going on record for a 40 hour week, for the same pay that the workers received for the 44 hour week. Nothing was done during the summer months as the electrical workers worked only 5 days a week for the last few years, during the summer.

Members Insistent.

At the close of the summer the electricians were faced with a 5½ day week with the same pay as for the 5 day week. The union membership insisted on putting through its demand for the 40 hour week. They demanded a 5 day week and $1.25 an hour.

The contractors claimed that they were in favor of the 40 hour week through their representative W. B. Panghorn, head of the Contractors Association, a former member of Local 98 who was invited by the officials to speak at the meeting when the strike vote was taken. However, he claimed that the time was not "ripe." The membership overwhelmingly rejected the proposal fo the contractors.

Workers Must Fight.

The workers are confident of winning. With the Association split, and with the out of town contractors conceding to the demand of the workers, it is only a matter of days, in their opinion, to the settlement of the strike.

No strike-breakers have been brought in, and the strike is being conducted according to the best theory and practice of the A. F. of L.—"peace in industry."

This was evidenced by the calling in of the head of the Contractors Association, the worst enemy of the union, to confuse and terrorize the workers. Otherwise, the proposals of the contractors would never have gotten 65 votes.

the Shop Delegates Conference for Miners' Relief, will be the occasion for rallying the workers of New York and vicinity not only to support the new Miners' Union, but also to intensify relief activity in behalf of the thousands of miners and their families whom the long 17-months' strike has left in a condition verging on starvation.

A number of other leaders of working class struggles will be among the speakers. They will give a graphic account of the desperate fight of the miners against starvation, eviction, police brutality and betrayal and will bring a message of solidarity with the needle trades workers, the striking textile workers and the whole of the progressive labor movement. The mass meeting is expected to be the starting point for a new campaign among the workers of New York for all possible support to the heroic miners and to their efforts to build a new and powerful union under a militant rank-and-file leadership.

U. S. Bankers Have Further Hold on Peru

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 9.—City revenues have been pledged by the Peruvian government as a security for the loan of $7,500,000 for public works which has been arranged by a New York syndicate, headed by E. H. Rollins and Company.

The first part of the loan, totaling $3,000,000 will be used to refund the city debt. The bonds will bear 6½ per cent interest and will mature in 36 years.

BEN GOLD BACKS BIG YOUTH MEET

Calls for Support of Conference

Ben Gold, manager of the Joint Board of the Furriers Union, in a statement issued Saturday, calls for the most energetic support to the efforts of the young workers to organize themselves.

"The Working Youth Conference which will be held September 29 and 30, deserves the greatest support on the part of every class-conscious worker in the furriers trade," Ben Gold said. "The young workers generally are not organized; but we found at the time of the furriers strike, that those young furriers in the union were most active and militant on the picket line, in getting out scab shops, and in battling for the rights of the workers."

"It is most important," continued Gold, "for the entire militant labor movement to see these exploited young workers trying to do something for themselves and to become organized. At this time when we are building our new strong, powerful union in the furriers trade, every furrier must see to it that the young workers in the trade are organized into the union. As a step in that direction, young workers in the shops must be sent as delegates to the Working Youth Conference where they will hear the message of militant unionism.

"All support to the young workers. All support to the Working Youth Conference."

Mohegan Colony Aids Mine, Textile Strikers

The Mohegan Colony has raised during the summer $175 for the striking textile workers in New Bedford and Fall River and $148.50 for the miners.

Various affairs and two one-act plays were given in the building of the Mohegan Modern Co-operative Association, at which collections were later taken up for relief purposes. The response to these efforts was very good on the part of those located in the colony.

A member of the Executive Committee of the Youth Conference for Miners and Textile Relief helped to arrange these affairs and brought the money to the Youth Conference to be forwarded to Pittsburgh and New Bedford, respectively.

Besides the money already raised, money will still be forthcoming for relief.

WORKERS GIVE FUNDS TO RED ELECTION DRIVE

Food Workers Hold Big Dinner Rally

At a Red Banquet held [illegible] night by the Progressive Group of Local 302, Delicatessen Countermen's Union at the United Workers' Co-operative Restaurant, 2731 White Plains Ave., the Bronx, $150 was raised for the Workers (Communist) Party Election Campaign. Of this amount $100 was collected from the food workers present by Rebecca Grecht, campaign manager of District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party, and $50 was netted above the expenses of the banquet.

Labor Editor Speaks.

Paul Yuditch, labor editor of the "Freiheit," Jewish Communist daily, spoke on the exploitation of the food workers and the bitter struggle the progressive workers in the food industries are waging against the misleaders of their unions, and against the socialist party leaders of the United Hebrew Trades.

Rebecca Grecht, candidate for assembly on the red ticket from the fifth Bronx assembly district, spoke on the role of the republican and democratic parties as the instruments of big business and on the labor-betraying role played by the socialist party, which has openly repudiated the class struggle and is definitely the instrument of the petty bourgeoisie.

Meeting Is Enthusiastic.

The spirit and enthusiasm of the food workers present were exceedingly high. Those present represented all branches of the food industry, including waiters, and the speeches of Paul Yuditch and Rebecca Grecht were received with prolonged applause by them. Especially did enthusiasm run high when Rebecca Grecht spoke on the platform of the Workers (Communist) Party in the election campaign, and tied up the industrial and economic demands of the workers with their political affiliation.

Among those who contributed were M. Berkowitz, I. Himmelfarb, I. Dreazin, M. Zimmerman, M. Chorover, I. Ruditch, M Budesky, A. Bederson, Fox, Miller and Gordon.

This banquet marks the opening of an intensive election campaign among the food workers, leading up to the Food Workers' Election Mass Meeting which will be held at Manhattan Lyceum, 66 E. Fourth St., on Sept. 21 at 8 p. m. Prominent Communist speakers will be present.

Workers' Camps Contribute.

Camp Unity, through the Workers (Communist) Party unit there, has contributed to the Red Election Campaign the sum of $36, through the sale of Vote Communist stamps and buttons, $11.95 as a donation apart from the sale of buttons and stamps, and has also donated $11.95 to the general expense fund of District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party, is was announced yesterday.

As a result of a visit to Camp Nitgedaiget of Arvld Osol, representing District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party, $104.66 was collected from among the workers there for the propagation of the Communist platform in the election campaign. This was part of the Red Week activities which were held during the weeks of August 19th to September 3rd.

Trumbenick Gives $25.

The initial donation made by the workers of Camp Trumbenick was $20. Beside this $5 worth of Vote Communist stamps and buttons were sold among the vacationing workers.

At all these camps funds were raised for workers' causes thruout the entire season, among those who benefited being the striking miners of Pennsylvania and Ohio, the New England striking textile workers and the Chinese trade unions.

Camp Wocolona, it was learned has raised during the season over three hundred and fifty dollars for various causes, the amount of $164 being raised during Red Weeks for the Red Election Campaign.

THE YELLOW TRADE UNIONS IN CHINA

Wherever the counter-revolutionaries do not succeed in breaking up the labor movement, they strive to corrupt the revolutionary unions. In some cases the old name of the union is retained, but hirelings are put into the leading positions as for instance, in Hupeh and Kwangtung, while in other cases the name of the union is changed and the unions themselves are converted into heterogeneous organizations united by inter-union committees, or into unions differentiated according to craft (the United Union of Shanghai, the United Unions in other Provinces, etc.) Thus is the centralization of the forces of the working class being destroyed.

The yellow trade unions now existing in China may be divided into two groups: those which existed before the coup d'etat of Chiang Kai Shek, and those formed by the Kuo Ming Tang since that event.

Canton Unions.

To the first type of yellow unions belong the Kwantung Labor Federation and the Mechanic's Union of Canton. These unions have embraced and are embracing several thousands of organized workers in China, having but insignificant groups outside of Canton. Both these organizations rely upon the aristocracy of labor or upon the existing guilds and countrymen's organizations like the Kwantung Federation of Labor. Owing to their connections with the merchants and compradores of Canton, these unions have always been outspokenly reactionary, taking an active part in the struggle against the revolutionary trade unions. Thus, in the crushing of the Canton revolt in December 1927, armed detachments of the Mechanics' Union aided the government troops in the fight against the revolutionary workers.

The yellow trade unions formed by the Kuo Ming Tang government after the Chiang Kai Shek stroke, represent organizations of the semi-fascist type. These reactionary unions, with the help of the troops, have suppressed the revolutionary trade unions in Shanghai, Wuhan, Canton and elsewhere, having killed the revolutionary leaders and the militant members of the trade unions. At the head of the yellow—or as the Kuo Ming Tang leaders called them, "reorganized"—trade unions were placed the agents of the generals who had nothing in common with the working class.

Compulsory Arbitration.

The aim of the yellow trade unions is to substitute compulsory arbitration for strikes, but in reality they do not carry out even this. In the majority of cases they act as the simple agents of the bourgeoisie, ignoring entirely the demands and interests of the workers. Only in such cases when it is a fight against a foreign manufacturer, particularly where the native bourgeoisie is not firmly tied up with the imperialists, the yellow trade unions sometimes wage a fight against foreign capital. Such was the case during the strikes of the printers in the Japanese printing shops in Shanghai, during the strike of domestic servants in foreign families at Fushow, and so on.

At the same time the reactionary trade unions do their utmost to suppress every movement of the rank and file. Thus, in August 1927, the yellow "Joint Committee" of the Shanghai trade unions disbanded the Council of Chairmen of the Factory Nuclei, and in June 1928, it dissolved the union of employees of second-hand merchandise shops for having declared a strike on its own initiative. In some cases strikers were arrested by squads from the yellow trade unions and handed over to the police.

Workers Indignant.

Such flagrant reactionary work of the yellow trade unions has naturally aroused tremendous indignation among the workers. The latter have answered the treachery of the leaders of the yellow trade unions by assassinating them. This has caused the bourgeoisie to decide upon a new reform of the trade union movement and to create in Shanghai the so-called "Workers' Federation," an organization which resembles the trade unions of the reformist type. The new Federation, composed of Chiang Kai-Shek adherents and connected with the commercial and industrial bourgeoisie, immediately on being formed, began to fight the old rival organization, the "Joint Committee," consists of the Kwangsi group. This rivalry strongly undermines the position of yellow organizations.

Fascist Methods.

What are the elements of the workers ranged behind these yellow trade unions? Firstly, the aristocracy of labor, the masters and foremen, the highly skilled and well paid workers, who hope to gain by striking a bargain with the bourgeoisie; secondly, the backward mass semi-lumpen-proletariat which was already previously under the influence of the native bourgeoisie and has served it in various semi-bandit organizations; thirdly, the workers of those localities where there were previously no trade unions at all and to whom the existing yellow organizations constitute a considerable step in advance as compared with their past position.

The fascist methods of the Kuomintang are carried out through the yellow trade unions and are accompanied by white terror in regard to the revolutionary workers and the revolutionary movement in China. Nevertheless, it is equally certain that the yellow trade unions will not succeed in capturing the labor movement. The revolutionary spirit of the Chinese proletariat and its living and working conditions serve as the best guarantee against this menace. The first revival in the revolutionary movement will spell the doom of the yellow trade unions.

Underground Work.

The revolutionary trade unions are carrying on their work underground. In Shanghai these underground unions still unite 50,000 workers. In Canton the Red Trade Unions have three to four thousand members, and there are two or three thousand members in Hankow and other parts of China. The active members of these unions penetrate into the yellow unions for the recruiting of workers. In order to guarantee the conquest of the masses in China, the system of shop committees is now being practiced. This movement will undoubtedly have great results.

The Chinese working class has fighting experience, which has been gained during several years; it has a firm basis, which can never be destroyed by the white terror, despite the whole series of defeats of the working class. All over China the peasant movement is growing stronger day by day. Everywhere peasants are seizing the lands, driving the landlords away, and forming their village councils. This is of colossal help to the city proletariat, and in the end the working class will win out.

Appeal for Aid.

The Chinese working class is waging a stubborn and difficult struggle. It relies upon the help of the international proletariat, for the struggle of the Chinese workers is at the same time the struggle of all workers. The Chinese working class appeal to the international working class with the following slogans, "Down with the blue and white flag (of the Kuomintang), the flag of white terror! Down with the Kuomintang. We will set up a government of the Workers and Peasants."

Fellow workers! Help the Chinese proletariat to victory in our great common cause!

VARIED PROGRAM BEING PLANNED FOR YOUTH DAY

To Hold Mass Meet in Irving Plaza

The Young Workers (Communist) League of New York has arranged a whole series of activities in connection with the International Youth Day celebration, which will begin today and wind up Sept. 16.

Beginning Monday night, the League will hold many open-air meetings throughout the city. The subject will be "International Youth Day and the American Young Workers." Dozens of youth clubs will be visited during the week by members of the League. All Workers Party units will be visited this week and a discussion on the role of the Communist Youth League and the Young Pioneers will be lead by League speakers.

Friday, September 14, a joint mass meeting of the Party and the League will take place in Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Place. The program, as announced by the committee in charge, will be an all-youth program. The New York revolutionary labor movement will hear for the first time the Youth Chorus, which, singing in English, will render the International, the Young Guardsman and Red Cavalry. The graduation of 20 Young Pioneers into the ranks of the League will be held. J. J. Ballam, acting district organizer of the Party, is scheduled to speak at the meeting. Carl Winters will act as chairman; Frankfeld, acting district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League; Comrade Welsh, candidate of the Workers Party in the Twenty-first Assembly District, and in charge of Negro work in the Y. W. L., District 2; Comrade Yusem, N. E. C. representative, and a Young Pioneer, will speak. Sarah Menzer, League member, will render a number of violin selections.

The program will wind up with a young workers sport club performance.

Tickets sell for 35 cents each and this will include a free three months' subscription to the Young Worker.

Wall Street 'Al' to Go on Tour in Car of Big Contractor

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 9 (UP).—A special train of eleven cars will leave New York a week from today, carrying Governor Alfred E. Smith westward for a two weeks speaking tour.

Besides the governor the train will carry a corps of clerical assistance, friends and a heavy consignment of baggage. Thirty-six reporters will make the trip, in addition to camera and movie men who will record the campaign in picture.

The governor and his party will travel in the private car St. Nocholas, owned by William F. Kenny, close personal friend of the candidate. An observation car also will be provided for their use.

Issue Instructions for Red Election Campaign Workers in District 2

All Workers (Commmunist) Party speakers, section election campaign directors and committee members are requested by the district agitprop to carefully read the announcements of open air meetings appearing in the Daily Worker every day.

Election campaign directors are also requested to send in complete reports of meetings in their sections to the district agitprop, 26-28 Union Square.

U. S. S. R. to Consider Further Plans for Jewish Colonization

MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—All organizations here devoted to the colonization of unemployed Jews on the land in Siberia and Southern Ukraine will hold a conference on December 1 at which they will present their plans for common discussion to the Comzet, the government department for Jewish colonization states.

Imperialists Build New Fortifications Across Europe in Preparation for Next War

FRANCE BUILDS ARMAMENT OVER PRE-WAR SCALE

German Reformists in Aerial Preparation

PARIS, Sept. 9.—In order to prepare for a large-scale war, plans for complete fortification of the eastern frontier of France, that will provide for a series of fortifications stretching from the North Sea to the Mediterranean, will be put into effect at a conference to be held next week at Metz, which will be attended by Paul Painleve, minister of war, and the foremost generals of France and members of the senate and chamber army commissions.

The plan was drafted by the war marshal, Petain, and provides for an extension of the French fortifications beyond the 1914 status. The line of armaments cutting across Europe from north to south will consist of forts, batteries, trenches, railroads, underground communications and shelters.

The old fortification system will be modernized and offer second, third and fourth lines of armaments. Besides the old fortifications a tremendous amount of work will be expended in building new roads, communications, long-distance batteries, airdromes and other armaments of the latest type.

A first appropriation of 200,000,000 francs has already been granted in this year's budget and in the course of seven years the strongest line of fortification that Europe has yet seen will be completed.

Besides these inland fortifications the French government has already begun to build a series of airplane stations all along its coast, which will temporarily be used for passenger and mail purposes, but which can easily be turned into effective war bases.

Reformists Also Prepare.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—In line with its policy of keeping on hand as large an armed force as possible under the terms of the Versailles treaty, and providing a still larger reserve force by the simple expedient of training more men in shorter periods, the German "socialist" reichstag is considering a plan to give exhaustive aviation training to young men.

The course in aviation will not only provide training in flying but will also train young men in the principle of airplane construction on the most modern lines. Frankfort-Main will have a course this winter and similar courses will be instituted in other leading cities.

The aviation plants are also being kept on the peak of efficiency and are experimenting in the production of monster planes.

HONOR TOLSTOY IN SOVIET UNION

Observe Centenary of Great Writer

present three of Tolstoy's plays. Huge crowds are expected for the Yasnaya Polyana celebrations and they will be quartered largely in railroad cars on a siding.

In all the high schools of the Soviet Union Tolstoy's works will be studied and discussions held on such subjects as "Tolstoy and the Revolution" and "Tolstoy and the Peasant." The Commissariat of Education has also ordered his picture displayed in the high schools and presentations of his plays and readings from his works by the students.

Complete Works.

The State Publishing House is issuing a complete edition of Tolstoy's works, numbering many volumes. This will also include almost everything that has been written on Tolstoy by writers thruout the world. During the past few years the circulation of Tolstoy's works among the masses has increased by leaps and bounds and the issuance of his complete works is expected to further increase the interest in Tolstoy.

Famous foreign writers and thinkers, including Romain Rolland and Mahatma Gandhi, have been invited by the Soviet Government to visit the Soviet Union on the occasion of the centenary.

Masses To Take Part.

Thruout the week the leading theatres will present Tolstoy's plays and three films produced by Sovkino and based on Tolstoy stories—"The Cossacks," "Polikushka" and "Father Sergey"—will be shown.

In all the celebrations the masses of the workers and peasants will be drawn in and both the virtues and faults of Tolstoy, as well as his social significance, will be pointed out by leading writers and critics of the Soviet Union.

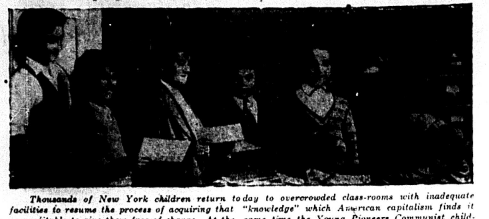
MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—All prisoners who have been sentenced to a term of one year or less will be freed by a decree of the Soviet government. This means that twenty per cent of all present prisoners will be liber-

Mental Doping Starts Today: New York Schools Open Doors



Thousands of New York children return today to overcrowded class-rooms with inadequate facilities to resume the process of acquiring that "knowledge" which American capitalism finds it so profitable to give them free of charge. At the same time the Young Pioneers Communist children's organization, resumes its intensive activity among the workingclass school children, designed to counteract the mental doping which aims to convert them into obedient servants of the capitalist class. Photo shows a group of children registering at Public School No. 3, Grove and Hudson Sts., a section inhabited largely by poor workers.

35,000 TEXTILE STRIKERS PARADE

out of the north and south ends of the city toward a common junction in the center, the leaders of the Textile Council of the United Textile Workers Union stepped to the head of a "parade" which generous estimates place at 1,000 participants. The would-be betrayers of the strike then led their meagre group of followers away from any possible contact with the T. M. C. parade, directly to the outskirts of the town to a short disheartened meeting in Buttonwood Park.

The masses collecting since one o'clock in the afternoon at either end of the city received the signal to march at 2:30, and after reaching the center, merged themselves into a single column. They then paraded into Pleasant St. which is flanked by City Hall, swank hotels, clubs and the Textile Council's headquarters. The streets echoed the crashing and blaring bands and the cheering throngs, in what is admittedly one of the greatest labor manifestations in the history of New England.

Minor in Parade.

At the head of the parade marched Robert Minor, Editor of the Daily Worker, William T. Murdoch and Fred E. Beal, strike organizers; Fred Biedenkapp, the Workers International Relief; Tony Samieras, Eli Keller, Ellen Dawson and Jack Rubinstein, union organizers. After them came the members of the strike committee consisting of about 100 workers. A special division of 500 prisoners composed of strikers who were arrested, jailed and are still facing trial for their picketing activities, then followed. A huge banner, shaped in the shield of International Labor Defense, was carried by a striker leading this division of honor. Then came pageants of hundreds of Portuguese and Polish women strikers dressed in the costumes of their native countries. Bouquets of roses and other flowers, woven into the initials of the T. M. C. were born on the shoulders of marchers.

Then came the main body of the parade. Looking far down the length of the parade column, the marchers were divided off into sections made up of the operatives in each of the 56 mills tied up by the strike. Each section carried a placard indicating that this is the Mill Committee of their particular factory.

Police Threats.

Police officials, leading the completely mobilized city force, halted the parade several times with threats to disperse it if the divisions of Young Pioneers, a Communist childrens' organization, was not ordered to quit the parade. A police ukase issued yesterday had forbidden children under 14 to participate. Not in the least daunted, the Pioneers, leading the hundreds of strikers children formed their own parade again and again despite repeated dispersals by the police. Harrassed to the point of exasperation, the police were completely occupied with trying to keep the swarms of dodging and jeering children from singing strike songs, also "verbotten" by the cops.

Despite a special police order that the Young Workers' (Communist) League members refrain from carrying their own banner, the banner was repeatedly raised thruout the entire line of march.

At the mass meeting on the Commons, immeasurable enthusiasm reigned. Minor, Biedenkapp, Rubinstein, Murdoch, Beal, Keller, Dawson, Robert Zelms of the International Labor Defense; Alex Bail of the Boston District of the Communist Party; S. Weisman, Figarato, of the Young Workers League and a marvelous Portuguese orator Samaras, spoke to the tremendous throng from two corners of the huge platform simultaneously. Warnings to fight the sell-out now being attempted by the A. F. of L. fakers, Batty and Co., was the main theme of the speeches delivered.

When Robert Minor called upon the workers to "support the workers representatives in the coming election, the Communist presidential candidates, William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow, all speaking had to be suspended for ten minutes before the ovation quieted down.

MINE CONVENTION IS ON DESPITE TERROR

of the discredited Lewis group. Blocking the streets, entrances and hallways, the army of gangsters proceeded to club all delegates who approached the hall. Calmari, who was one of the early arrivals, had his head broken and was dragged unconscious down a side street, where he was beaten up still further. At the head of the gang of Lewis thugs, and directing its activities, was John Buzzarelli, international board member of the discredited Lewis organization.

The fascist gang then proceeded to invade the hall.

Delegates Repulse Gang.

When the delegates rallied and repulsed the thugs, the Lewis henchmen called upon the police. The gangster army in the meantime occupied itself with throwing rocks at the hall from across the street. Notwithstanding this and the fact that the delegates were all sitting quietly in the hall, the police raided the meeting room, ordered the miners to remove their convention badges and drove them from the building. Several minutes later a patrol wagon was backed up and thirty-five delegates, all the wagon could hold, were jammed in and placed under arrest, charged with rioting.

They are now being held at the Center Ave. police station. Martin Abern, representative of the International Labor Defense, is working with officers of the American Civil Liberties Union to secure bail for those imprisoned.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

Cannot Stop New Union.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—Characterizing the attack by Lewis gangsters upon the convention of the mine workers as "the last act of desperation of a dying and corrupt organization united with the police and coal operators," John J. Watt, chairman of the arrangements committee and one of the leaders of the rank and file, declared here today that the attempt to terrorize the delegation would fail. "Nothing can or will stop the convention or the organization of a new mine union which will fight for the interests of the coal diggers," Watt said. "The corrupt and treacherous Lewis gang clearly reveals its fear and desperation of the rising spirit of the rank and file. By this last act they confirm their own bankruptcy and the widespread determination of the coal diggers to fight for a real union."

Acts of Fear.

The fear and desperation of the Lewis machine has caused it to resort to widespread terror and even murder in an attempt to prevent the holding of the convention. Last Friday a Lewis henchman carried out a murderous attack on George Moran and Frank Kovac, delegates to the convention from Bentleyville. The attack and shooting was made by Louis Carboni, who for a time posed as a progressive. Approaching the delegates after a local union meeting Carboni opened fire upon them. They are now at a hospital on the point of death.

Last week Lewis henchmen carried out a similar attack in the anthracite region, as a result of which Frank Bonita, another progressive mine leader, was brutally murdered. Bonita is the brother of Sam Bonita, who was railroaded to prison by the combined Lewis, police and coal operator forces in District 1. The Lewis-Cappellini machine of this district earlier carried out its murderous campaign leading to the shooting of Alexander Campbell, Peter Reilly and Tom Lillis.

Notwithstanding all this, the sentiment of the miners for rank and file control of their union has been steadily rising. Section after section and district after district threw off the corrupt and treacherous Lewis hold on the organization, culminating in the calling of the present conference for a new miners union under the leadership of the progressives.

RELIEF MEET TO HEAR WEISBORD

Conference Saturday to Plan Aid

The struggles and sufferings of 30,000 textile workers in New Bedford and Fall River will be graphically described by Albert Weisbord, national secretary of the Textile Mills Committee, and other speakers at the great city-wide conference for textile relief, to be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at Irving Plaza, 15th St. and Irving Place. The conference has been called by the workers International Relief, which is in charge of relief activities in behalf of the textile strikers.

More than 30 trade unions and fraternal organizations have already accepted the invitation to send delegates to this conference. Labor organizations that have not yet chosen representatives are urged to do so and to communicate with Harriet Silverman, local secretary of the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square, Room 604.

On Saturday evening two movie performances will be given for the benefit of the mill strikers, one at 8:45 and the other at 11. The Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Ave., has donated its auditorium for this occasion. The movie to be shown will be "The Crowd," a film on a workingclass theme written by John V. A. Weaver, novelist and poet. Weisbord will speak at both performances.

FULLER SPIELS BEFORE ELECTION

Blows Glorified Hokum Into Jingo Ranks

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Sept. 7.—Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts addressed the state convention of the American Legion here today.

Fuller, whose jingo prejudice and bigotry are now known throughout the world as a result of his cold-blooded complicity in the murder of the two innocent workers, Sacco and Vanzetti, hypocritically placed before the jingo convention such deliberate bombast as "We must not allow our politics to be torpedoed by prejudice," and such hokum, in the light of his own acts, as "The right of every citizen to worship as he pleases . . . must be preserved and maintained inviolate."

The Legionnaires, of Fuller's own breed, gave the judicial murderer an ovation after he completed his lengthy spiel. It was from among their element that the governor received the backing for the blackest judicial murder on record.

FASCIST TREATY AIMS AT FRENCH COLONIAL TRADE

British Also Hit by Abyssinia Pact

ADDIS ABBABA, Abyssinia (By Mail).—Important concessions to the Italian government and intensified conflict between Italy and France for North African trade are seen here as the result of the treaty signed between Italy and Abyssinia on August 2 and further clarified here recently.

The treaty provides that Abyssinia have a free zone at the port of Assab, with free commercial traffic across the Italian colony of Eritrea. In return Italy is granted certain concessions, the most important of which is the building of a railroad from Assab, a Red Sea port, to the Abyssinian town of Dessie, and later further south to Addis Abbaba. The new line will open trade with central Abyssinia and when the Dessie-Addis Abbaba extension is completed Italy will be in active competition with the French interests for trade in the south.

A year and a half ago Ras Taffari had complained to the League of Nations that England and Italy had each attempted to gain a dominating position in Abyssinia. The matter had been dropped when both governments denied the charges, but later it was revealed that they had attempted to gain concessions in Abyssinia.

British interests were eager to dominate Abyssinia because of its strategic position in regard to Egypt and the Sudan, and France is mainly concerned over her African colonies and trade.

SUPPORT URGED FOR 'DAILY' DRIVE

state, has been carried to the point where in the needle trades we are ready to launch a New Union.

The campaign of murder now being carried on by the I. R. T. officials in order to terrorize the workers of New York into yielding to the granting of a seven-cent fare has been exemplified by the series of so-called accidents which have occurred recently on the elevated and in the subway, with scores of working class victims, through the deliberate negligence of the traction millionaires to maintain adequate safety appliances and repair their equipment. Traction workers must be aroused to the significance of these acts and organize into a militant union.

On September 22 the New Union of Textile Workers will be launched, in which the silk workers of Paterson, with their background of militant struggle, and the Passaic textile workers, who conducted the heroic struggle successfully against the textile barons, will participate.

In all these struggles of the workers the Daily Worker has been the organizer and leader and has mobilized the workers generally in support of these militant struggles. Every member of the Party in District 2 must make it his first Communist duty to get new readers and subscribers for the Daily Worker. During the election campaign every worker who attends our meetings must become a reader of the Daily Worker. Only through the columns of the Daily Worker can we combat the anti-labor, capitalist propaganda issued by the two big parties of Wall Street and the little socialist party of the petty-bourgeoisie.

The Daily Worker devotes its pages to the workers' side of the class struggle, and the election campaign waged by the Workers (Communist) Party to rally the masses for the struggle against capitalism.

Every Communist voter must become a reader of the Daily Worker!

The District Executive Committee of District 2 calls upon every member of our Party, every militant worker and every sympathizer, to become a subscriber to the Daily Worker. The Daily Worker must be strengthened by increasing its circulation until it grows into the mass organ of the class struggle in our district and throughout the country.

Air Mail Route From New York to Mexico

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—An air mail service between the United States and Mexico will be started on October 1, according to a statement by Postmaster General New who made the details public today.

The American part of the route will run from Laredo, Texas into San Antonio from where a Mexican line will take the mails to Mexico City, negotiating the trip in three days from New York to Mexico City. There will be direct mail connections between Mexico City, Queretaro, San Luis Potosi, Saltillo and Monterey in Mexico, and New York, Boston, Chicago and other large cities in the United States.

Air Derby Trains Pilots for Imperialist War

The cross-country air races now in progress are helping to train pilots and improve air machinery that will be found highly serviceable in the next imperialist war in which the United States will certainly not remain on the sidelines. Above are Harry Tucker, left, and Lee Schoenhair, right, standing in front of their Lockheed Vega plane in which they will take part in the non-stop division of the races.

LEWIS GUNMEN RESCUE KILLER

3 Mine Delegates in Critical State

shot three delegates of the National Miners' Convention. Delegates crowding into Pittsburgh to launch a real miners' union are grim and determined to end the situation which resulted in the murder of Frank Bonita in Wilkes-Barre and the Bentleyville shooting.

Delegates arriving from Bentleyville give graphic details of the shooting—murder, they call it, for they say the local doctor states that George Moran is dying in the Washington General Hospital, Washington, Pa., with three bullets through him, and that Carl Glovak's condition is critical. Theodore Glovak, his son, is badly wounded, but is expected to recover.

Lewis Spy.

The story they tell of the attempted assassinations is as follows: Louis Carboni is a Lewis spy, who pretended to be a progressive for a time. He is also strongly suspected of being in operators' pay, and has boasted of having $10,000 in the bank—money which no one ever made coal mining.

Carboni some time ago severed connections with all progressives, however, and openly fought the Save-the-Union movement. As president of the Bentleyville local of the U. M. W. A. he had a difficult time, for the majority of the local is for the new union. At the meeting Friday night the union men were determined to affiliate with the new union which the Pittsburgh convention will build.

Carboni put a henchman at the door, with orders to let no one go out, and announced that the U. M. W. A. and no one else ruled this hall. He gave the floor to no one but his own supporters, who were almost all paid supporters of Lewis also.

One of Carboni's men, named Robb, launched into an insulting tirade against Carl Glovak, a progressive, and a delegate to the convention. When Glovak arose to answer, Carboni felled him with a blow over the head with a chair. Delegate George Moran, who was elected constable by the workers of Bentleyville, told Carboni he was under arrest. Carboni thereupon drew a gun and started shooting, first three shots at Moran, then at Glovak, and then at Glovak's son, who came to his father's assistance. He turned swiftly on Adam Getto, another delegate to the convention, and, placing his gun squarely over Getto's heart, snapped the trigger, but there was no ammunition left. By this time other miners had disarmed Carboni and he was led to the Burgess.

Shield Carboni.

But curiously enough the Burgess was gone. Also, a coal and iron policeman refused to arrest Carboni. And then 12 Lewis gunmen turned up and demanded that Carboni be delivered over to them. The miners were unarmed and had no choice. There is a rumor that as soon as the scene is properly prepared, Carboni will be formally surrendered to the authorities for whitewashing.

Miners say that with the blood of Frank Bonita, delegate to the convention, scarcely dry on the floor of his own house, the shooting of delegates Goerge Moran, Carl Glovak and Theodore Glovak at a meeting in the Bentleyville local union by a Lewis spy is a challenge that they cannot overlook. They will answer it by streaming from the remains of the U. M. W. A., in which officials are supported by murder of members, and build the new miners' union to be formed by this convention in Pittsburgh, a union which the rank and file miners will run for the benefit of every mine worker.

FRANCO-BRITISH PACT CONTINUES

England to Strengthen Allegiance

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—While the government is anxiously awaiting the return of Secretary Kellogg from Paris in order to frame a note to the British government in regards to the Franco-British naval pact, reports both from London and Paris deny that the British are ready to drop the naval pact on the objections of Washington.

London reports indicate that not only does the government intend to continue the naval agreement, but in the event that the United States government will voice its objections, new means will be found to consolidate the Franco-British entente. The British government still declares that the pact was impelled by the desire to see the Geneva disarmament conference escape from the deadlock on naval disarmament. The Unifed States government has already voiced its objection to limitation of large sized warships and the unlimited production of smaller and more effective craft, which is provided for in the Franco-British accord.

U. S. AND BRITISH GIVEN FREE HAND IN COLOMBIA OIL

New Oil Laws Passed by Puppet Gov't.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 9.—Full private property rights and complete freedom in the development of the oil lands are given foreign companies, notably American and British, in the new Colombian oil legislation which passed the national senate and chamber of deputies on the first reading.

The $100,000,000 invested by United States oil interests in Colombia find their chief competitor in the British interests. The new legislation invalidates the "emergency" oil laws which aroused much opposition from the American companies and also provides for the easier penetration of foreign capital in the exploitation of oil by allowing American and British participation in national oil companies.

National oil reserves were made out of the Casanare Plains and the Uraoa regions by the same legislation, but development of these regions are to be delayed until the government decrees that exploitation is to be begun.

The Barco concession to two American oil companies, which was cancelled by government decree, will be included in the national reserves.

CONVICT 2 STEEL STRIKERS IN OHIO

Workers Continue to Violate Injunction

strikers in Rumanian Hall was packed to capacity. The meeting, one of the most enthusiastic since the strike began, was interrupted when five deputy sheriffs broke into the hall and nabbed Judson amidst jeering and shouting. He was held in jail incommunicado overnight. Yesterday morning he was released under $500 bond.

Hundreds of strikers on the picket line each day is the answer the workers have given the steel corporation. The steel barons' injunction and the arrests of strikers have strengthened the ranks of the men.

Violating Injunction.

Strikers are openly violating the injunction which decrees that no more than four workers can "legally" picket the plant.

A special injunction has just been issued forbidding Judson from speaking or walking in the vicinity of the steel mill.

Company Sagging.

Evidence that victory for the men is near is seen by the fact that during the past few days company attorneys have been making overtures to the lawyer for the strikers for negotiation and settlement of the strike.

Boston Cloak and Dressmakers Enthusiastic for New Union, Correspondent Writes

STRIKE OUT OF SYMPATHY FOR OUSTED WORKERS

Sigman Visits Boston; Trip Is Failure

BOSTON, (By Mail).—The month of August was a month of great [illegible] in Boston. The conference of shop chairmen and committees called by the National Organizational Committee, which took place on Aug. 21 was so successful that the International clique leadership fell into a panic.

For days did this clique contemplate the breaking up of the conference by intimidating the workers, warning them against going to the conference and threatening with discharge. At the end, shop after shop disregarded their orders and came to the conference. Fifty-seven shops, which represent about 75 per cent of the garment industry of Boston responded to the conference.

The spirit of this conference was one of, enthusiasm, devotion and hope. Every worker present felt that he is contributing and he is ready to contribute all the time for the building of a new and powerful union. The speeches, the actions taken all breathed with new constructive readiness to build.

The mass meeting of Cloak and Dressmakers held on August 28 where hundreds of workers endorsed the decisions of the conference to build a union of cloak and dressmakers was another knock to the international clique. The new union is now the subject of discussion on every corner and every place where cloak and dressmakers gather.

This constructiveness and spirit of enthusiasm has also been transmitted to the shop. Shop after shop is telling the business agents of the International that they refuse to recognize officers who were afraid to have an election; they refuse to recognize a union which practices discrimination, yellow dog contracts and machine control, and the international is powerless against the determination of the membership to build their union.

The policy of terrorizing the workers thru the imposing of fines and thru discharges from jobs met also with failure in Boston. Solomon [illegible], who was fined by the chairman of the membership meeting with five dollars for making a remark to the dislike of the chairman never paid this fine. The cloak and dressmakers of Boston realized that the imposing of fines by a chairman of a meeting was a challenge to the entire membership; they accepted the challenge and when brother Solomon was discharged from the job per order of the self-appointed Joint Board officialdom the cloak and dressmakers came to the picket-line to his defense. In the case of the Cohn and Jacobson & Worthmore, where one of our workers was discharged, twenty-seven out of the thirty operators in the shop went down in sympathy with her. This shop was the greatest surprise to the clique. A shop where the former president of the Joint Board and a former vice-president of the International are working, a shop where the workers have taken little interest in the work and life of the union, expected that not a word would be said in the defense of the discharged workers, but they were mistaken. The workers of Cohn and with the discharged worker and only Jacobson came down in sympathy after two days of persuasion and intimidations did the clique succeed in getting some of the workers to go back to work. Today there are eighteen of the workers out on strike and the strike is as lively as ever.

The Boston cloak and dressmakers are not ready to fight for the international. The most die-hard right wingers realize the injustice committed by the international clique all thru these years. They also know that if a fight starts in the shops the pressers, the cutters and every other worker in the shop is going to suffer and they refuse to take up the fight for the international against their own brothers whom they know as the best union men and women.

The determination of the workers to build their union, the answers that the business agents receive from the workers in the shops, the shop-meetings held every night in the headquarters of the N. O. C., the response on the picket-line in the defense of the locked out workers—everything is working against the clique, a terrible demoralization is [illegible] in their own ranks. Every worker, right or left, feels that the fight which the international started in Boston, is not a fight for the good of the cloak and dressmakers of Boston, and the latter are, therefore, [illegible] in taking up the fight against their brothers and against themselves.

This situation was quickly reported to the president, Mr. Sigman. He rushed to Boston to save whatever can be saved. He was present at the last meeting of the Joint Board, where the members told him what they think of him and his [illegible]. His visit did not change the situation. The Boston cloak and dressmakers do not see any reason to fight their brothers. Realizing his failure, Mr. Sigman is now forced to send his best "friend" Breslaw to save the situation. Mr. Breslaw is due here soon. Whether he will succeed, remains to be seen; we are confident, however, that the cloak and dressmakers who have learned from the experience of the New York workers realize that a fight against their brothers in the shops means a fight against themselves; we are confident that they will not fall into the trap set for them by the Sigmans, Shlessingers, Breslaws and the rest of the clique. The Boston cloak and dressmakers are determined to build their union.

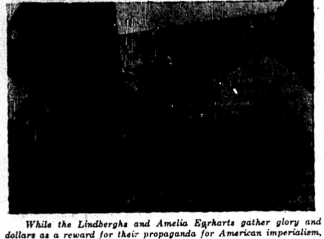
Air Mail Pilots Risk Lives, Get No Glory



While the Lindberghs and Amelia Earharts gather glory and dollars as a reward for their propaganda for American imperialism, air mail pilots risk their lives daily without ever getting their names into the newspapers unless they happen to get killed. Such was the fate of Pilot Paul Wheatley of the giant Fokker air mail plane, whose ruins are shown above. The plane crashed at Pocatello, Ida., killing Wheatley and six passengers.

POLICE TERRORISM OF NEGROES IN HARLEM

By GEORGE PADMORS.

"Three thousand Negroes in Harlem are ready to go to jail. We are ready to make any kind of sacrifice for freedom," was the militant ultimatum issued by E. B. Knox, acting president of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, to the Tammany hall "cossacks", who have launched a campaign of police terrorism in Harlem.

Despite every effort to suppress the growing militancy among the Negro masses, especially those elements which assemble at the open air street meetings to hear speakers inform them as to the only way for emancipation, through their organized strength and power, the patrolmen are openly interrupting speakers and breaking up meetings under the dirty pretence of regulating traffic.

This form of terrorism has become so pronounced that today certain speakers are looked upon as "marked men" and every effort is being made by the blue-coated bullies to frame them up.

Among these militants are, William Grant and Pedro Suner. Because of their open radicalism, the police have succeeded in getting them involved in the case of Clarence Donald, a victim of police brutality which nearly led to a riot in Harlem, some weeks ago.

Near Riot in Harlem.

On the evening of July 22, 1928, a man named Clarence Donald, 36, living at 328 Seventh Ave., went to the home of one Zerlena Clavis, 559 Lenox Ave., near 139th St., where it is said, a dispute took place. She raised an alarm and Donald ran to the street where he was chased by Policeman Kuberl.

Donald, seeing that he was covered by the constable, raised his hands to surrender. At this time another policeman, named De Stella, came to the assistance of Kuberl and while Donald had his hands up started to beat him brutally with his night stick.

This savage and cowardly act drew the attention of passersby who protested against the police conduct. A woman shouted, "Shame on you, the police have no right to be beating up an unarmed man like that!" As she said these words, De Stella turned away from Donald and made an attempt to slap the woman.

Her male companion immediately rushed forward and landed the officer a square blow in the face, throwing him to the ground.

Stabs Donald.

By this time, Charles Brown, a detective, got an alarm and hurried to the scene. He drew his pistol but the crowd which had gathered prevented him from using it, by closing in on him. He then pulled out a knife with which he stabbed Donald, who was struggling to free himself from the grip of Kuberl. No sooner had this act been committed than the crowd became infuriated and began to land blows on him and patrolmen Young and MacFadden, who had joined the fray.

Somebody telephoned the 135th St. station and Captain Burnell, with a squad of men rushed to the scene where they attacked the crowd with their fists, feet and night sticks.

Armed With Machine Guns.

There were about 150 officers armed with machine guns, service pistols and rifles. The fire department assembled engines across the street and warded off the crowd with volumes of water, while the ambulance attached to the Harlem hospital hurried to and fro with wounded civilians who were felled by the police clubs.

As the fight progressed, thousands of Negroes congregated at the corner of 138th street and Lenox avenue and took up the cause of the civilian element against the police, who were indiscriminately beating up men, women and children. While the struggle was going on, Donald was hurried off to the 135th street station in an automobile where he was beaten so badly that he had to be carried to the Harlem hospital for treatment on a stretcher.

The Hearing.

The case against Donald was first called on July 31st, but was adjourned until August 14th when he was sentenced to 10 days by Magistrate Dodge at the Heights Court. This trial was a typical farce to which workers are daily subjected.

Donald was able to offer three witnesses who refuted the charge of disorderly conduct, but the judge accepted the complainants' word and convicted the prisoner. The trial was a real Tammany "burlesque" with the poor Negro as the "scapegoat."

Sunner, one of Donald's witnesses, having dared to deny the charges of Patrolman Young was immediately arrested after he left the stand and charged with assault.

Torture Grant.

The same thing happened to Grant, who told the court he saw Patrolman De Stella on the night of the riot wound Patrolman Kuberl with a kick in the groin which he had aimed at Donald but missed.

This charge enraged the police so that they were determined to take it out on Grant. They took him to the Wadsworth ave. station and later to the 123rd street station where he was beaten up unmercifully and burned with cigar ends and matches, in an attempt to get him to make "a confession."

The next day they charged him with robbery and brought a white taxi driver, named Herman Ellis, a police "stool-pigeon", to swear that Grant had robbed him on the morning before the riot. Grant was brought before Magistrate Bushell in the Harlem court and placed on $5,000 bail.

Interviewed in the lock-up, Grant said that he was the victim of a frame-up. "Some weeks ago, I had to report a cop named Blankey of 135th street station to Police Commissioner Warren and Inspector Ryan for breaking up my meeting. They are therefore trying to get me in jail so as to keep me from talking to my people."

Attorney John Smith, 26 Courtland street, who represented the men told the court that the arrest of the witnesses was the most high handed and outrageous intimidation he had ever heard of.

Protest Meeting Called.

The Negro masses in Harlem are in a state of revolt against this open and flagrant campaign of police terrorism. All sections of the population, even the most reactionary elements, are voicing their protest.

Richard B. Moore, national organizer of the American Negro Labor Congress, when interviewed stated that his organization has recently issued an appeal to various organizations and prominent race leaders to stage a monster protest meeting in Harlem and to organize the broad masses of the workers to continue to fight vigilantly against this unwarranted police assault, which the authorities are carrying on to crush the militant spirit of the Negroes, so as to make them easy pawns for capitalist exploitation.

DEMAND MISSIONARIES SKIP.

APIA, British Samoa, Sept. 8.—The withdrawal of white Christian missionaries from British Samoa has been demanded by the Mau, native radical political society.

The organzation has also decided to take no notice of the order of a special British commission which would prevent all members of the Mau from holding office.

MAIL CARRIERS ARE DRIVEN 12 HOURS A DAY

Spies Watch Men at All Times

(By a Worker Correspondent)

May I call your attention to the greatest imperialistic, slave-driving, speed-up system that ever existed? I refer to the U. S. Postal System, under the control of politicians and administered according to their own whim. For instance, the recent expose at Biloxi, Miss. Merit and seniority are supposed to be the main factors for advancement. However a politician can overcome these obstacles for the benefit of his man.

Substitute carriers, when appointed, must themselves buy a complete uniform and all incidentals. Their time is no longer their own. They are soldiers in a huge slave army at the beck and call of their superiors, controlled by the magic of the "for the good of the service." Sub-carriers are required to be in attendance, on shifts at times of about 12 hours, regardless of whether there is work to be done or not. Skillful manipulations of schedules do this.

Mail carriers in small stations, which territory is being rapidly "improved," are required to make that extra effort of loyal American citizens, in maintaining schedule in face of adverse conditions. Having no recouse but to follow instructions even after a refusal of help was given, the mail carrier is forced to miss a few streets of his delivery and if caught is severely punished. Sometimes a hint is given a mailman by times a hint is given a mailman by the Superintendent to do so, should he be caught he is "hard ridden" by the same superintendent. If he does not take the hint the superintendent will "lay" for him.

The postal service has, I believe, the greatest system of espionage. Inspectors, foremen, appointed from the ranks according to the strength of their political affiliations, spy upon the men. Spying galleries are found in many stations; some are disguised as ventilators.

COAST FUR UNION WANTS CHARTER

Wants Affiliation to New Union

LOS ANGELES (By Mail).—The six-month-old furriers' union here, at a membership meeting held recently unanimously adopted a resolution to request a charter from the new international fur workers union recently established in New York.

The resolution, signed by the local union secretary, J. Sonnenshien, states its position, as follows:

"Whereas: The fur workers of the city of Los Angeles have organized themselves into a union; and

"Whereas: In organizing they thought it best to join with their brothers in other cities of the United States and Canada; and

"Whereas: They have tried their best to get a charter from the now defunct International Fur Workers Union of the United States and Canada; and

"Whereas: There is in process of formation a New International Fur Workers Union, that is assuming the duties and responsibilities of the defunct International Fur Workers Union; and

"Whereas: The New International Fur Workers Union is ready to unite all existing fur workers' locals working in the trade and is willing to issue a charter to the local in Los Angeles; therefore

"Be it resolved: That this local of the Fur Workers Union of Los Angeles at its regular meeting assembled on August 27, 1928, heartily endorses the action taken by the locals in New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Toronto and elsewhere to organize themselves into one International Fur Workers Union in the United States and Canada; and

"Be it resolved: That we join the New International Fur Workers Union, as one of the progressive locals, and demand that we be issued a charter so that we may take part in the effort to build the New International Fur Workers Union; and

"Be it further resolved: That we send to the provisional executive committee, who are empowered to act for the international, for this charter; and

"Be it further resolved: That we publish this resolution in any of the labor press that may be willing to print same, and to all locals that are now affiliated with the provisional executive committee."

of the Soviet Union.

All of these resolutions were read before the entire convention, and in the Resolutions' Committee report, it was recommended that the resolutions on child labor, for the organization of the unorganized and for the release of Tom Mooney and W. K. Billings be unanimously adopted. The other two received a non-concurrence, which was followed by a long discussion, after which a vote was taken with the following results: On the Recognition of the Soviet Union, 5 voted for and 64 against. On the Labor Party, 11 voted for and 62 against.

William F. Hearing, left wing delegate, in announcing his candidacy as Vice-President for the Federation, was to withdraw his candidacy in the threat that a resolution would be introduced condemning him for his connections with the Communists. Hearing refused to withdraw, and just before the voting took place there was whispering all over the hall, "Don't vote for Hearing, he is a Communist." In spite of this, Hearing received 41 votes, out of 105.

A resolution signed by the "socialist" delegate from Bridgeport by name Brewster, was introduced condemning, in an indirect way, Hearing and his associates.

No attempt was made to endorse Smith, for president.

J. W. Moore was again elected as the president of the federation, with his henchman Eagan, as Secretary for the State.

No concrete proposals for the organization of the 89 p. c. of the unorganized workers in this state were made.

Chopin Operetta Heads New Productions of the Week

IN CHOPIN OPERETTA

Odetto Myrtil, one of the principals in "White Lilacs," a romantic play with music, based on the life of the great composer, Frederic Chopin, which will open tonight at the Shubert Theatre.

THIS evening, at the Shubert Theatre, the Shuberts will present "White Lilacs," a romance with music, based on the life of Frederic Chopin. Guy Robertson, Odette Myrtil and DeWolf Hopper are the principal players. Others include Allan Rogers, Grace Brinkley, Ernest Lawford, Charles Croker-King and Maurice Holland. Harry B. Smith adapted the book from the German of Sigurd Johannsen and also wrote the lyrics. The music is by Karl Hajos. Many of Chopin's compositions are interpolated.

"The High Road," Frederick Lonsdale's new comedy, will open tonight at the Fulton Theatre with a cast headed by Edna Best, Frederick Kerr, Harbert Marshall, Alfred Drayton, H. Reeves-Smith and Hilda Spong.

Max Marcin will bring his new production, "Trapped," a melodrama which he wrote in collaboration with Samuel Shipman, to the National Theatre Tuesday. The cast includes Felix Krembs, John Miltern, William Ingersol, Calvin Thomas, Janet McLeav, Edward Woods and Mary Robinson.

Myron C. Fagan will present his own play, "The Great Power," at the Ritz Theatre, Tuesday night, with a cast headed by Minna Gombell and John T. Doyle, and including Alan Birmingham, Helen Shipman, G. Davidson Clark, Conway Wingfield and Walter Walker.

The Shuberts have decided to advance the premiere of their new musical farce, "Luckee Girl," to Saturday evening, September 15, at the Casino Theatre. "Luckee Girl" is an adaptation by Gertrude Purcell of the French musical farce, "Un Bon Garcon." The music is by Maurice Yvain, lyrics by Max and Nathaniel Lief. The cast includes Billy House, Irene Dunne, Irving Fisher, Harry Puck and Josephine Drake.

MARY BOLAND GOES THRU "HEAVY TRAFFIC" AT THE EMPIRE LIKE A FIRE ENGINE.

Critics predict a short life for "Heavy Traffic," now at the Empire Theatre but the presence of Mary Boland in the cast guarantees it a merry one, until the end of the first act. The play is by Harry Richman out of Frohman to use the vernacular of the race track.

Mary Boland, who played the leading role in "Women Go On Forever" brings weight and vivacity to the story of a fickle siren who is afflicted with kleptomania; she looks with a proprietary eye on every pulchritudinous male that comes within range of her vision. Mrs. Malcolm West is the mansnatcher who is able to indulge in her amorous predilections by virtue of a philosophical husband who looks on matrimony as only something a little more binding than a marriage engagement during a spring vacation.

This lassez faire attitude on the part of Mr. West may have an ulterior motive after all, a suspicion that does not seem altogether groundless when the siren's spouse falls in love with the sister of his wife's latest acquisition.

This animadversion brings on the usual complications which seem to have imposed too heavy a strain on the playwright. Despite the ability of Miss Boland to sustain interest in spite of an author, the audience is more inclined to yawn than to chuckle after the curtain falls on the first act.

Miss Boland displays as much knowledge of human nature as if she owned a string of boarding houses in the thespian belt.

A. E. Matthews, much to the regret of the clients had only scanty opportunity to display his histrionic prowess. Others who stood up well under the ordeal of supporting Miss Boland are Reginald Mason, Edward Crandall, Robert Strange and Leo Carroll.

As an effort to amuse the population it is one third successful.

Nicaragua Jingo Lauds U.S. Marine's Gun Rule

Adolfo Benard, conservative candidate for president of Nicaragua, arrived here yesterday on the Spanish Royal Mail liner Manuel Arnus, with a statement deriding the influence that Sandino, revolutionary leader of the Nicaraguan workers and peasants, has had on the elections.

Toward the United States, he assumed an attitude of complete servility, praising the marine rule of the U. S. imperialists which has killed hundreds of Nicaraguans on native soil.

YOUNG WORKERS AT C.M.T. CAMPS GET AN EARFUL

YWL Distributes Many Bulletins

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Members of the Young Workers (Communist) League in the Citizens' Military Training Camp in Fort Sheridan, have published a bulletin, "Camp Holiday Rebel," which was distributed by mail to about 400 Citizens' Military Training Camp students.

The "Camp Holiday Rebel" exposed to the CMTC students the role of the CMTC and the preparations for a new war. It urged the students that since they are already in the CMTC camp, to utilize their military knowledge in the interest of the working class. Through this bulletin the students got the Communist position on war and militarism, and were urged by the league members to fight for the workers against the bosses.

All the CMTC students who came from factories with the idea that the CMTC will give them a vacation became immediately disillusioned during the first week of their stay in the camp.

As a result of our Communist agitation which created some demoralization in the camp, drilling during the last four days was completely abandoned. In order to counteract the influence of the Communist League the camp authorities forced the CMTC students to sign a pledge of allegiance. At first the students refused to sign, telling openly to the officers, that they signed for war, but after two hours the authorities succeeded to force the students into submission and made them sign the pledge under the threat that they will receive dishonorable discharge and inform same to employer—which means they will lose their jobs. Upon the finish of camp, the students who came from factories said that this is the last time that they will go to camp.

Silk Union Members Reject Demand of Officials to Merge With United Textile

PATERSON RALLY BACKS MOVE FOR NEW MILL UNION

Spirited Meeting Hears Albert Weisbord

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 9.—After a membership meeting that dragged far into the night, the members of the Associated Silk Workers Union voted overwhelmingly to reject the plan of the union administration to merge the Associated with the United Textile Workers Union of the American Federation of Labor.

Despite the pressure exerted by the officialdom, led by Fred Hoelsher, the members remained steadfast in their determination to keep themselves from being swallowed up by the reactionary U. T. W. Militants at the meeting advocated the sending of official delegates to the convention called by the Textile Mill Committees in New York September 22 and 23.

As a result of the decision reached at this meeting, the officialdom's plan to carry through a fake amalgamation scheme with the defunct A. F. of L. Union has been definitely spiked. Sentiment runs strong in the union for a joining of forces with the T. M. C., which, workers state, is the only living force in the industry today and which is honestly trying to organize the hundreds of thousands of textile workers.

Five Hundred Hear Weisbord.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 9.—Members of the Associated Silk Workers Union, of the Textile Mill Committees and even unorganized dye house workers from all over town, to the number of 500, attended a mass meeting of the T. M. C. here Friday evening, with Albert Weisbord as the principal speaker. Weisbord had come to speak about the New Bedford textile strike and about the coming convention of a new textile national union scheduled for New York on September 22. The meeting was held in Carpenters Hall, Van Houtan St.

More workers turned out to this meeting than did to the largely advertised meeting of the Associated Union itself. When the meeting was opened it was found that the officialdom of Associated and of the United Textile Workers were in the hall.

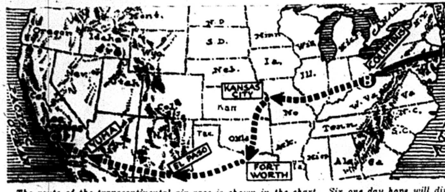
Calls for Delegates.

Weisbord severely criticized the officials of the existing small unions in Paterson. He called on the workers of the existing unions in Paterson to see to it that delegates were sent to the national convention to be held in New York City September 22 and 23 at Irving Plaza, Irving Place and 15th St., New York City. At the same time delegates were to be elected from the mills directly.

applause and enthusiasm that greeted the remarks of the secretary of the National T. M. C. were such as to insure that Paterson will be well represented at the national convention and that soon a real drive will be started by the T. M. C. in Paterson for the organization of the unorganized there for a real struggle.

On September 15 he will speak at the special Textile Relief Conference in New York City. On September 16 and 17 he will be in Utica and Amsterdam, upper New York textile centers. This brings matters to the time of the convention itself.

How Fast Can the Army Fly Planes From Coast to Coast



The route of the transcontinental air race is shown in the chart. Six one day hops will divide the long route and demonstrate to the militarists how fast bombing planes can safely be rushed from one coast to the other. YANKEES CRUSH A'S TWICE; REGAIN LEAD

(By United Press)

The New York Yankees arose from their slump yesterday and administered a sound double beating to the ambitious Athletics from Philadelphia, 5 to 0 and 7 to 3, thereby gaining a one and a half game lead in the hotly contested American League pennant race.

Connie Mack, who hasn't piloted a winner since he broke up the immortal $100,000 infield in 1914, brought his stalwarts into New York this afternoon in possession of a half game lead over the Yankees, and the prospect of a double-header between these two teams attracted more than 85,000 baseball fans to the Yankee Stadium.

Behind the steady pitching of George Pipgras, the Yankees took the first game of the afternoon's bargain bill, 5 to 0. Pipgras kept the Athletics' hits well scattered and they never threatened.

The second game, however, provided one of those thrills which makes baseball the game that it is. The score was tied, 3 to 3, when the Yankees came to bat in their half of the eighth inning. They quickly filled the bases and then it was that long, silent Bob Meusel, one of the most colorless players in the game, came to bat.

As the 85,000 fans raised their voices in a cheer, Bob stepped into the role of a hero and smote the ball far into the stands for a home run, scoring three mates ahead of him and cinching the game, 7 to 3, for the New York Yankees.

Boston Art Club Fires Radicals; Appoints Old Fogies in Their Places

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—The Boston Art Club, an organization which has held exhibits since 1850, when it was first formed, has fired the Art Committee in charge of exhibits for the past few years because it is "too radical."

In its place, a committee composed of Alvan T. Fuller, executioner of Sacco and Vanzetti, who has gained much repute among the fascist Massachusetts intelligentzia since the murders; Herman Dudley Murphy, one of the conservative "photographic" artists group, and several other out-of-date painters, have been appointed as the committee in charge.

MINERS' STRIKE LEADERS GIVEN EVICTION NOTICES

Avella Strike Leaders Thrown Out by Co.

AVELLA, Pa., Sept. 8.—The following eviction notice has been served upon the four miners who led the strike in the Avella section, William Hallam, Pete Harvey, John Parks and Joseph Sivers. The National Miners Relief Committee is taking care of moving these miners into other quarters.

"To Joseph Sivers, and his wife:—

You are hereby notified to quit and remove from the premises now occupied by you, being House No. 128, situated at Penobscot Mine, Jefferson Township, Washington County, Pennsylvania, which you hold as a tenant under Avella Coal Company, within seven (7) days from the service of this notice, as the said Avella Coal Company desires to have again and possess the same.

Avella Coal Company,
By AUGUST CANNAZI,
Superintendent."

QUICK WATSON, THE BUG-HOUSE.

LONDON Sept. 9 (UP).—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, speaking before the spiritualist congress here tonight, said the transfiguration of Christ before the disciples was simply a "mediumistic materialization."

Nothing Can Stop the Miners' Onward March.

The criminal attack of the armed thugs of John L. Lewis, and company detectives, led, protected and supported by the police of Pittsburgh, upon the Convention of the new Miners' Union Sunday will have the effect of pushing forward the movement of the coal miners of this country to the point where the defeat of Lewis and the coal operators will be decisive and certain.

Lewis and the scab operators thought they could frighten the coal miners of this country!

Lewis and the scab operators are fools to think so. The coal miners cannot be beaten.

Lewis' thugs and the operators attacked and made a small civil war upon the great Pittsburgh convention—not lightly and idly, but because they were compelled to do so under the conditions from their point of view. They were compelled to attack with reckless force and complete disregard for the formalities of "law" precisely because the coal operators and their flunkey Lewis know that this convention will effect the organization of the most powerful union in the western half of the world if it goes through with its program. This knowledge forced Lewis and his bosses to cast aside all pretenses of "law and order" and to try to smash the movement before it is too late. The great nation-wide advance of the mine workers had to be met by Lewis if he was to function any longer as the operators' chief union-smasher. Lewis knows that it means his ruin as a parasite upon the backs of the mine workers if the new national Miners' Union is formed. The operators know that it is the end of their dream of a universal scab coal industry if the new union is formed in the hands of real men instead of Lewis and the Cappelinis, Fishwicks and Fagans.

The action of the workers in going forward with the formation of the new union—called forth the more extreme act of the operators, their detectives and "labor" leaders.

But the bosses and the scab leaders are mistaken in one thing. They do not realize that their desperate action will only result in calling forth still more courageous and determined actions of the mine workers. Throughout the United States the enraged coal miners will give in no uncertain terms their answer to the new crime of Lewis. The locals of the wrecked United Mine Workers will be shaken into realizing what Lewis' "partnership between capital and labor" is leading to when his henchmen march between company detectives and city police to attack the great convention of the Mine Workers.

Increased support of the New Union will result.

The thing that Lewis and his bosses do not understand is that the further the fight is carried and the more the masses of coal miners are stirred up—the more surely the [illegible] of mass determination to organize the industry will rise and overwhelm the scab forces trying to stop it.

We do not say that Lewis and the powerful rich coal operators "did all of their stuff" on Sunday. On the contrary, we know that, not only Lewis and a few company detectives and city police, but the whole power of the State of Pennsylvania, the States of Ohio, West Virginia, etc. and the whole power of the capitalist government of the United States are at the disposal of the scab coal operators. But we also know that not even these forces will be enough to keep the workers from organizing when the fight proceeds in such a way that the workers are conscious of its meaning.

The coal operators and their allies, the Lewis gang and the Pittsburgh police, went further in this outrageous assault than any of them had gone before. Not even the murders that the Lewis gang committed in Illinois, Eastern Pennsylvania, Western Pennsylvania and elsewhere were as desperate as the actions culminating on Sunday. Only Friday night two delegates were shot down by a Lewis agent immediately after their election by their local union to the Convention. Campbell, Reilly and Lillis died on the streets of Pittston, Pa., shot down in broad daylight by machine-gun fire at the hands of Lewis henchmen. Countless loyal coal miners have been slugged and jailed at the hands of the Lewis gang before.

But these desperate deeds and those even more extreme that may be expected will not stop the union.

This little "civil war" against the coal miners shows the nature of the capitalist state.

In the past few days both of the big capitalist political parties and their candidates have gone through the form of endorsing in empty words the right of the workers to organize. But this small military action against an orderly national convention shows that the capitalist spokesmen lied. Every power will be used against the workers when the workers really move to have an organization controlled by themselves in a great basic industry. In this case no political party except the workers own class party—the Workers (Communist) Party—will stand by our class. This violent action against the workers is a forecast of the fact that American capitalism will go at least as far as the government of any of the most reactionary countries of Europe at its worst.

But no power can or will stop the coal miners.

These are the finest quality of proletarians ever developed in this country.

They will fight on.

We are firmly convinced that they will now launch an even more successful Union than would have been seen if the foul crew of scabs had not attacked the convention.

Workers of America! Workers of all countries! Stand by the mine workers in this crisis!

On to the New Union!

[illegible] of the fact that the democratic party has long denounced the [illegible] tariff as conducive to the [illegible] of "monopoly," Mr. Pittman, chairman of the Democratic [illegible] Committee at the Houston convention is quoted by the N. Y. [illegible] of Aug. 2, 1928 (democratic [illegible]) as follows: "Democratic [illegible], says Mr. Pittman, has been [illegible] an evolution since 1900. [illegible] growth of Southern and [illegible] industry 'the theory of low [illegible] has been abandoned. The [illegible] now stands for maintenance [illegible] standards of wages of labor [illegible] duties which will allow 'all industries to prosper without [illegible] destruction from foreign [illegible] . . . Now the main purpose [illegible] Pittman's remarks is plain: [illegible] in the renaissance of [illegible] interests that may feel [illegible] The Wilson Tariff Bill [illegible] and the Underwood [illegible] Wilson have given [illegible] to these business [illegible] they have no need for [illegible]

In the early days of the republican party, it still had something to offer the agricultural interests, which were at that time quite powerful. The Homestead Act was the purchase price for the culmination of the alliance between the grain growers of the Northwest and the Eastern industrial interests. But today the republican party openly flouts and spurns the farming interests and refuse to do anything for them as shown at the last national convention. We are witnessing therefore a process in each of the two major parties, whereby the petty bourgeois are being crushed more and more under the heel of the industrial and financial interests of the Northeast. While it is true that LaFollette for a time raised considerable ructions in the republic party on the wave of agricultural discontent, and while it is true that this wave of discontent will again surge upward as the crisis in agriculture sharpens again, yet we must agree that at present time the Norris, Borah, LaFollette, Brookhart, and the rest of the so-called farm bloc are distinctly out of the running as far as any dominant influence in the party is concerned. Under the caption: "Why the Farm Bloc is Impotent," the N. Y. World of June 12, 1928 brings this out quite clearly in these words, "The farmers of the Mississippi Valley are quite incapable of imposing their will upon the republican party. . . . It is an illusion, one of the persistent illusions of American politics, that the farmers of the Mississippi Valley are a great power in the land. . . . The simple truth is that the disaffected region is too weak in population, in delegates and in electoral vote to dominate the republican party. . . . The control of the republican party is securely lodged in the hands of the industrial faction."

Are we fighting the right danger? No one can charge the Central Committee with being guilty of overcaution and conservatism in leading the Party work. The Central Committee has provided for the immediate expulsion of any Party member who refuses to violate an injunction. In the fight against the injunction, particularly in the coal strike, many scores of our members have been jailed. The same has occurred in the national picketing and street demonstrations in which our Party has participated vigorously and which have very often been led by our Party.

Only the other day our Central Committee was compelled to repudiate a proposal by one of the opposition leaders in America, Comrade Swabeck, to refuse to build a new union in the textile industry because the reactionary United Textile Workers—the blackest type of reactionary union we have—has issued a statement that it wants to organize the unorganized. We have been fighting against the Right danger in Minnesota, where supporters of the opposition said that the discipline of the labor party is as high as the discipline of the Communist Party, and where these comrades insisted on supporting the bourgeois politician, Shipstead, for the U. S. Senate.

In the anti-imperialist work, we fought the pacifist errors of Comrade Gomez, an opposition delegate.

In the mining campaign, we have fought the Right errors committed in the anthracite by the opposition spokesman, Papcun.

And in the question of the progressives, it was the Central Committee which saw to it that where we made unity with the progressives we did not give them the leadership.

Our Central Committee very properly sharpened its position towards the socialist party. Much has been made here of the so-called opportunist attitude of our Party towards the socialist party.

The minutes of our Political Committee, December 14, 1927, show that this outrageous opportunistic crime (of sending under special circumstances for special confidential purposes some very reliable comrades into the socialist party) charged against the majority of the C. E. C. if it is at all to be considered an error, was participated in wholeheartedly by our opposition leaders in an even more aggressive and aggravating manner than that proposed by the majority.

Much noise has been made by our oppositionists here in reference to the Panken matter as another opportunistic crime of the Central Committee. Not only did the supporters of the opposition of the New York District Executive Committee unanimously vote for the policy in the Panken election, but in the Polcom meeting of October 27, 1927, Comrade Foster made a motion which was typical of the worst of opportunistic errors our Party has committed in its relations to the socialist party. The motion thus proposed by Foster was rejected. It reads as follows:

"That the policy of the New York D. E. C. in giving qualified support to Panken the S. P. candidate for judge) was incorrect. The Party should have approached the S. P. with general proposals for the establishment of a united front labor ticket in the New York elections, based on a minimum program."

The C. E. C. of our Party has been charged with opportunism by the opposition because of the wrong step it took in sending an open letter to the S. P.

It is clear from the minutes of Polcom, Nov. 7, Nov. 25 and Dec. 7, 1927, that though the Central Committee as a whole was responsible for this mistake, yet the opposition did more than its share in having the Party commit this error. The Party has repeatedly pointed out the anti-proletarian and pro-capitalist policies of the S. P.

On April 9, before we received the last letter from the Presidium of the Comintern, we find the following motion in the Polcom:

Motion by Mr. Lovestone:

"That the Party issue a statement not addressed to the S. P., but an official statement to the workers on the S. P. convention."

In the May Plenum Resolution, our Party elaborated in detail its sharpened policy against the S. P. Comrade Bittelman has said here that he and the opposition as a whole admit and correct their errors. What he should have said was that the entire opposition repeat it errors.

Up to the May Plenum the differences in the Party were not brought up in any sharp way. The differences that existed were chiefly between Comrade Bittelman on the one hand on the trade union question, and the majority of the Central Committee, inclusive of Foster, on the other hand. A similar relationship occurred on the proposal of Comrade Bittelman on political strikes in our every-day agitation.

On the very day before the last Plenum was opened, all comrades were agreed that no political resolution was required for the session. Comrade Cannon and Bittelman even made motions to this effect. These motions were unanimously agreed to. Obviously until very recently the present opposition in our Party did not see any Right menace.

I want to say a few words on Comrade Losovsky. He says we rejected the Profintern resolution. He says we have made a united front with the Right wing of the German Party in opposition to the Profintern. Comrade Losovsky's imagination is working overtime.

What are the facts regarding the so-called rejection of the Profintern resolution? First of all, Comrade Foster presented the resolution on trade union work at the May C. E. C. Plenum which we voted for. Secondly, Johnstone presented an ultra-factional document as the report of the Profintern Congress delegation which we rejected and which not even Comrade Losovsky would have us accept. Thirdly, we carried a motion endorsing the Profintern resolution. Fourthly, the charge made by Comrade Losovsky yesterday that the cable to the Trade Union Educational League Conference, the Left Wing Conference, caused discontent in the Central Committee, is unfounded. Although Comrade Foster put his opposition to the contents of this wire—yet we published it and long before we received this advice for the organization of the unorganized we adopted the following motion:

Political Committee, November 2, 1927:

"The T. U. E. L. in order to establish working relations with the unorganized masses shall build up a special connection with the workers' clubs, shop committees and other groups in the organized plants and cities. Into all groups and leading committees of the T. U. E. L. there shall be included representative elements from the unorganized plants and in the respective industries and localities."

As to the ridiculous charge of Losovsky that we have made unity with the Right Wing in the German Party, Comrade Losovsky—"people who live in glass houses should throw no stones." Is your criticism of the German Right Wing correct? We endorse it 100 per cent. Why do you make these charges without quoting us as you quoted your case against the Germans?

Was there no criticism of the Profintern resolution by us? Of course there was! By whom? Especially by Comrade Foster about whom you are so silent—in the May Plenum Trade Union resolution. Foster criticized it also in an 18-page letter to Comrade Losovsky. In July Comrade Foster wrote an article against the criticism made by Comrade Losovsky against us.

Comrade Losovsky, without the slightest basis of fact, has been attacking our Party in a most shameful manner and charging it with not doing any work in organizing the unorganized. Our Party has done considerable work in this field, despite the slanderous campaign of Comrade Losovsky.

I myself have some disagreements with certain features of the Profintern resolution. In this matter I also want to register a sharp disagreement with Comrade Pepper, who said he agrees with this resolution of the Profintern 99 per cent.

The comrades might ask, why is it that Comrade Losovsky is so bitter and prejudiced against our Party? The answer is the following: For years we have conducted a vigorous fight against him to compel him to revise the program of the T. U. E. L. (the American Left Wing) which provided for a long time the exclusion from its ranks of any worker who did not accept first of all the proletarian dictatorship.

When we consider the effort it took from us to defeat Comrade Losovsky on this point, there comes forcefully to our attention the fact that Comrade Losovsky has no right whatsoever to talk of another comrade as a "muddler of two continents." The weakness of the Profintern is the leadership of Comrade Losovsky, who has been making a muddle of nearly everything he has touched.

At the IX Plenum Comrade Losovsky introduced a resolution on the American trade union question in which there was not a single word about the need for Communists working with the existing A. F. of L. unions. The American delegation to the IX Plenum introduced a counter-resolution in which it laid the greatest emphasis on the organization of the unorganized, but at the same time said it is necessary to continue and increase the work of the Communists in the A. F. of L. Comrade Losovsky fought against this amendment bitterly, but was overwhelmingly defeated—in fact, Comrade Foster refused to vote for the position of Comrade Losovsky on the policy to be followed by our Party in the mining campaign.

Obviously, Comrade Losovsky acts in a factional, prejudiced manner against our C. E. C. I am of the opinion that Comrade Losovsky has for some time functioned as one of the primary forces instigating factionalism.

In recent months the Party has done much work in organizing the unorganized. Several thousands of our Party members have been expelled from the trade unions. Our Party has developed a vigorous, energetic strike leadership policy. What we need is advice and criticism, and not vilification from Comrade Losovsky.

Comrades, I want to say that despite the very sharp criticism made by . . . (Interruption, the chairman announcing the end of Comrade Lovestone's time. One minute granted to finish).

The Congress should not misjudge the situation. Our Party will not be thrown into a faction fight despite the vigorous efforts of our opposition to camouflage, develop poisonous smoke screens and to stampede our membership into a suicidal faction war. Our Party has fought the Right danger. We have made a proposal here for a special amendment to the theses proposed by Comrade Bukharin on behalf of the Russian delegation, to instruct the American C. E. C. to continue and intensify its fight against the Right danger.

The Party needs peace. We are in the midst of big campaigns—the mining campaign, the election campaign and the campaign to organize the unorganized in a number of industries. There is a possibility of peace because despite all the errors, all the hesitation, all the slowness of our opposition, they are more and more coming closer to the correct line of the Comintern, to the policy followed by the C. E. C. Therefore we insist that the opposition should dissolve its bloc (Foster-Cannon). We request that the C. I. should reject the unfounded charge of Right Wing levelled against the C. E. C. We insist that the C. I. should once and for all put an end to the factional opposition to the C. E. C. The American Party realizes the gravity of the situation. We are prepared to do everything in our power to maintain the unity of our Party and to carry on the tasks such as are confronting us in developing our work amongst the Negroes, fighting against imperialist war on Nicaragua, organization of the unorganized. With the help of the Comintern and under the leadership of the Comintern, we will move forward to a united mass Communist Party in America.

CHARLES (Whiskers) Hughes has been unanimously elected a member of the World Court which is a sort of scullery to the League of Nations. Thousands of one-hundred per cent Americans hug the delusion that "we" are not in the League, but Wall Street knows better. While not officially in, Charlie will see to it that Morgan's interests are taken care of thru the World Court. WILLIAMS J. LYONS, president of the Newark Building Trades Council and business agent for Newark Bricklayers' Local No. 3, is reported to be the victim of a kidnapping stunt during which he was tortured with a hot poker and hanged by his thumbs in an effort to extort $100,000 from him. Those who will doubt the credibility of the story on the grounds that it is inconceivable that a labor leader should be worth so much in dollars, might read William Z. Foster's, "Misleaders of Labor."

T. J. O'Flaherty

LYONS owns a restaurant in Newark and it is rumored that a ransom fund was collected for him, the total raised reaching the sum of $10,000. Lyons is wealthy and served a prison term at Trenton in 1923 for operating a gambling house. The New Jersey Federation of Labor recently voted to endorse Al Smith for president. The convention also distinguished itself by putting "canned music" on the unfair list, tho William Green, president of the A. F. of L. is upholding class-collaboration on the movietone at the Roxy Theatre, in Manhattan.

YOU can always depend on a labor faker to pick on a fake issue to fight against with his mouth. A cur barking at the moon is an example of useful endeavor compared to the antics of a trade union body bleating against new developments in the cinema. To expect the New Jersey State Federation of Labor to tackle the organization of the unorganized industrial workers in that state would be like expecting the House of Morgan to come out for the Communist ticket. The labor movement in New Jersey is about the most graft-ridden and spy-ridden in the United States and its official leaders have as much in common with the exploited workers as a fox has with a chicken coop.

THE regular and irregular members of the Daily Worker editorial staff are not in the habit of passing taffy to each other, but I must hand a bouquet to my next column neighbor Fred Ellis for his cartoon showing Mrs. Knapp going to "jail." It appeared in last Friday's issue. It says half a dozen columns on capitalist miscarriages of justice.

MRS. KNAPP stole tens of thousands of dollars, yet she is treated with the consideration given to Harry Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny who were able to get away with a couple of states. Mrs. Knapp may feel bored before her thirty day term in her boudoir has expired, unless big-hearted Al pardons her in the meantime. But as we said before had she swiped a bottle of milk for her thirsty poodle dog, she would now be defending herself from savage cockroaches in a filthy jail. The moral of this story is, that robbers who know their onions should join either the Democratic or Republican party before starting out to get rich quick, and then take care not to be caught at petty larceny.

SCARCELY had Mrs. Florence Knapp parked herself comfortably in her flowered suite in the sheriff's home, at Albany, than the candidate for attorney-general of Massachusetts addressed an open letter to Governor Smith demanding that he take steps to end the notorious "Albany baseball pool" which is reported to have flourished in the shadow of the capitol. The political thieves are certainly rattling each other's skeletons. As a matter of fact the pool operated in Hudson and not in Albany and only the blind in New York's officialdom were unaware of its location. Those who did not profit by it were too busy, getting theirs from some other source of graft.

NEW MINERS UNION FORMED!

Keller and Dawson, New Bedford Leaders, Ousted from United Textile Convention

MILITANTS BARE STRIKEBREAKING OF U.T.W. CHIEFS

McMahon, Campos in Frenzied Attack on T. M. C.

Oust Passaic Delegates

Comes on Eve of Plans for Real Union

Eli Keller and Ellen Dawson, among the leaders of the present New Bedford strike and of the Passaic struggle of 1926, were yesterday arbitrarily excluded from the convention of the United Textile Workers' Union which opened in the morning at the Great Northern Hotel here. Officials of the union who ordered the ouster did not even trouble to offer an explanation for their actions, despite that both Keller and Dawson are accredited delegates from Locals 1618 and 1619 of the Passaic U. T. W.

The entire morning session of the convention was devoted to eulogies interspersed with hymn-singing in memory of S. A. Conboy, the late union secretary, and the afternoon session was given over to villification of the Textile Mill Committee in which the two ousted progressive delegates are taking a leading part.

Plan Sell-out.

The expulsion of Keller and Dawson from the convention comes simultaneously with the bitter fight which the 28,000 New Bedford textile workers are waging against the U. T. W. to sell out the struggle which is now in its twenty-second week. It also comes on the eve of the formation of the new national textile workers' union which will be organized at a convention to be held in New York City on Sept. 22-23.

PLAN FOR MINE RELIEF MEETING

Watt to Speak at Big Meet

While the delegates of the rank and file miners continue their convention at Pittsburgh to build a new Miners' Union despite the police and Lewis thug terror, preparations are being speeded in New York City to make the monster Solidarity Mass Meeting on Thursday evening, Sept. 20, a tremendous demonstration of the workers of this city in support of the thousands of coal diggers who are throwing off the yoke of the treacherous Lewis leadership.

The meeting, which will be held at Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., under the auspices of the National Miners' Relief Committee, 799 Broadway, and the Shop Delegates' Conference for Miners' Relief, will have as its chief speaker John Watt, chairman of the National Convention Arrangements Committee and one of the leaders

New Bedford Textile Pickets and Organizer

New Bedford textile strikers are now in the twenty-second week of their grim struggle against the mill bosses, and they are as determined to win as ever as was demonstrated overwhelmingly by the parade and mass meeting held last Saturday under the auspices of the New Bedford Textile Workers Union of the Textile Mill Committees. Above, organizer addressing strikers.

BOSSES ADMIT POWER OF TMC

Employers, AFL, Push Sell-Out Plans

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 10.—Feeling against the attempt to betray the strike by granting a speed-up system to the mill owners, has risen to such a great pitch since the two anti-sellout demonstrations of the Textile Mill Committees, that the columns of the capitalist press here are compelled to admit their doubts as to whether a "settlement" with the A. F. of L. officials will result in a return of the textile workers to the looms.

First the picketing demonstration of hundreds of strikers at the New Bedford Hotel, where the bosses and the Textile Council leaders were in conference, and then the tremendous parade demonstration of 35,000 strikers and sympathizers on Saturday, showed conclusively that the capitalist press far understate their "doubts."

Not only has the great "no compromise" movement, begun by the T. M. C., taken hold among the vast majority of the 28,000 strikers here, but even the membership of the Textile Council who have not as yet severed their relations with the A. F. of L. union, frankly declare that they will fight Batty and his gang in their locals.

Speed-Up Plans.

The first full membership meetting of the Cotton Manufacturers Association held in many months will take place tonight to consider Batty's offer to settle the strike if the bosses would exchange the wage cut for the Frieder Plan, a speed-up system whereby the workers will produce much more for a pay smaller than even the wage cut pay.

Realization of Batty's impotence barons negotiating committee gave interviews to the press, which de- in getting the strikers back to work, is, however, dawning on the mill, owners, and their action at tonight's meeting is expected to reflect this knowledge. Hitherto, the mill

BRIAND ATTACKS USSR AT GENEVA

Delivers Vicious Speech at League Meet

GENEVA, Sept. 10.—A bitter attack on the Soviet Union which has constantly advocated complete disarmament, marked the speech of Foreign Minister Briand of France at this morning's session of the League of Nations assembly.

Commenting sarcastically on the joining of the pact to "outlaw" war by the Soviet Union, he did not stop to answer any of the trenchant criticisms that accompanied the Soviet note of adherence.

He said: "While this country's signature has been placed on the anti-war pact, renouncing war of aggression, I do not know if it has renounced another kind of war which some regard as 'holy war.' Some think they and they alone understand and trust and they desire to impose their views on other countries by force of arms. 100 MOTHERS STRIKE

Won't Send Children to Distant Schools

Rebelling against the tyranny of the petty officialdom of the New York school system which compels children to go long distances over dangerous street crossings in order to get to school, 100 working class mothers gathered at the corner of S. Third Street and Briggs Ave., Brooklyn, in front of Public School 50 and demonstrated against the efforts of school authorities to eject their children from that school.

The mothers, grouping their children about them, declared that they would not send their little ones to other institutions to which they had been transferred. These are at long distances from the children's homes, they pointed out, necessitating crossing streets where trolley cars and hit-and-run drivers place the children's lives in constant danger.

BIG COMMUNIST VOTE EXPECTED DESPITE JINGOES

Signature Drives Exceed Hopes in Many States

Miners Rally to Party

Fascists, Bosses Put Obstacles in Way

The great industrial state of Ohio and two southern states, Kentucky and Tennessee, are now on the Communist ballot, bringing the total up to nineteen.

The comrades in Ohio collected 20,000 signatures tho only 14,500 were required. The signatures were all collected by voluntary effort, the comrades visiting the homes after working hours and also collecting at the shops during lunch hour.

Expect Big Vote.

Ten thousand of those signatures were collected in Cleveland alone. The steel cities of Youngstown and Warren contributed a good percentage of the necessary names.

A heavy Communist vote is expected in the mining region of Ohio where the bituminous strike was recently called off by John L. Lewis. Owing to the activities of the Communists during the strike the miners are very sympathetic to the Party and many of them joined up.

5 Southern States.

In addition to Tennessee and Kentucky there are now on the ballot in the south, Texas, Arkansas and Maryland. The Communist ticket was never before on the ballot in those states.

The National Election Campaign Committee now claims that the Communist ticket will be on the ballot in thirty-five states instead of the thirty originally set as a goal. With two months more to go before election day, the Party has five more states on the ballot than it had four years ago at the end of October.

As the Communist campaign is developing strength, the authorities in several states are beginning to put on the screws and in the west fascist organizations like the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars are protesting the appearance of the Communist ticket on the ballot.

In Nebraska and Kansas those patriotic societies, acting as the tools of the employers are attacking the Workers (Communist) Party, and in conjunction with the authorities trying to throw the ticket off the ballot.

Oehler Under Arrest.

In Kansas, Comrade Hugo Oehler, the district organizer and several other comrades were arrested for holding meetings in front of the Cudahy Packing Company plant. The International Labor Defense is looking after the legal rights of these comrades.

The secretary of state for Nebraska has granted a hearing to the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars on their protest against permitting the Workers (Communist) Party ticket to stay on the ballot. The hearing is set

CALL FOR END OF FACTIONALISM

U. S. Negro Presides at Red Youth Congress

(Wireless to the Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 10.—Bucharin reported on the results of the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International at the twelfth session of the Young Communist International which was held under the chairmanship of Philipps, American Negro.

The Congress adopted the resolution approving the decisions of the World Congress of the Communist International and adopting its decisions and program as a basis for the work and decisions of the Young Communist International Congress.

The resolution assures the Communist International of the unshakeable loyalty of the Young Communist International above all in regard to the war danger and the the defense of the Soviet Union. "Under the banner of Lenin the Young Communist International will lead the masses of working youth to victory."

The resolution was greeted with storms of applause and the singing of the International.

The Congress then elected Agitation and Propaganda, and Organization Commissions.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 10.—The eighth session of the Congress of the Young Communist International continued with the following speaking: Szuets, Hungary; Contreras, Mexico; Rossing, Bulgaria; Gallopin, France; Ackermann, Latvia; Don, United States; Matagu, China; Kaplan, United States; Vorings, Greece; Marlot, Canada, and Sulimov, Korea.

Contreras declared that American imperialism has penetrated Latin-Ameria. "The youth and children are being terribly exploited," he said. "The youth represent an active factor in Sandino's movement. The fight against clericalism is important as is also enlightenment work among the young workers. We intend to found an anti-imperialist militia as a defense organization."

National Organization Launched; Greatest Enthusiasm of Delegates Representing All Coal Mine Fields

Sheriff Again Orders Meeting to Disperse But Not Before Miners Have Completed Historic Task of Convention

Watt Is Named President; Boyce, Negro Miner, for Vice-President; Weisbord Receives Ovation for Textile Workers

By JACK LEE.
(Special To The Daily Worker.)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—The New National Miners' Union which is to unite the forces of nearly one million bituminous and anthracite coal diggers of America for the coming era of struggle against the oppressor coal barons was born here today. The union with the greatest tradition of militancy and heroism in American labor history, built through the life sacrifice of hundreds of coal diggers, in the end, torn apart and finally wrecked by the treacherous policy of the Lewis machine, was reborn here today under a new form, a rank and file leadership with a program of battle which promises a new era for the courageous miners.

Evading the continued onslaughts of the police and the Lewis gangsters who yesterday raided the first meeting of the convention, over seven hundred delegates met hastily at the Workers Center at East Pittsburgh last night to carry out the second and successful session at which the full plans for the new union were formulated. Meeting again this morning the business of launching the new organization was all but completed when it was again interrupted by police and the sheriff of Allegheny County, who ordered the delegates to disperse and issued a proclamation forbidding the further holding of meetings.

While these sessions were in progress further developments were reported following the fascist raid yesterday by the combined forces of the Pittsburgh police, who led an army of over two hundred Lewis thugs in a raid on the first session of the convention at Labor Lyceum Hall. Three miners were held for the grand jury on $1,000 bail each. Fines were levied on over a dozen others including Pat Toohey, Freeman Thompson, Anthony Minerich, Andy Plechady, and others. Over fifty others were released. Some are still unaccounted for.

The fines were paid by the International Labor Defense in order that the delegates might return to the convention to carry on its business. Rough handling was made of the miners in jail by the police. Treatment was necessary for a number in the hospitals.

Textile Delegates Greeted.

Fraternal delegates from the striking New Bedford textile workers to the mine convention were greeted amid the greatest enthusiasm last night. Speaking before the convention, this afternoon, Albert Weisbord, well-known militant leader of the textile workers, received an ovation from the coal diggers, who cheered the glorious fight of the battling New Bedford mill operatives. A vote of solidarity and support to the new union of the textile workers was carried unanimously.

At the meeting last night it was voted to submit the constitution of the new union to the membership for ratification and amendment. Among the unique and characteristic provisions of the new constitution is one providing that the salaries of officers and wages of minor officials must be based on the pay received by rank and file miners, and members of pit committees, which are also to become grievance committees. Complete democratic procedure throughout its provisions marked the constitution.

Provisions are contained for the easy recall of officers and members of the executive board. Mine districts will later be remarked for better organizing purposes, but for the present the existing district markings will be maintained.

A strong and nation-wide organization campaign will be launched. "The Coal Digger" was adopted as the official organ of the new union. Every new member is to take a six months' subscription.

The convention voted for the abolition of the check-off now going to the discredited Lewis group. De-

JUDGE ATTACKS JAILED MINERS

"Red Baiter" Upbraids Delegates

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Pennsylvania "justice" ran true to form here today as the 112 miners taken in the police and Lewis gangster raid on the mine convention were arraigned before Magistrate Orie.

Disregarding the evidence in the case and the almost unprecedented violations of all so-called civil liberties by the police, the judge began immediately to upbraid the delegates for their militancy and branded them as being "Reds," and a "menace to our government."

Miners pointed to the attitude of the judge as a further confirmation of the obvious cooperation between the Lewis machine, the police and coal operator justice to prevent the organization of a real union.

3 Held for Grand Jury.

Three of the mine leaders were held for the grand jury on rioting charges. A number were fined $25 each. About fifteen were fined $5 each. Many of the delegates arraigned this morning appeared with their heads bandaged and bearing other marks of the slugging by police and Lewis thugs. Despite the obvious criminality of the gangsters the few of them arrested were immediately discharged by the judge.

The miners were closely questioned on their political and industrial beliefs by the magistrate. "These Reds need investigation," the judge declared openly. "Every man who cannot prove his citizenship will be turned over to the government authorities for investigation. Perhaps some of them will be deported," he warned.

MINOR, WHITEMAN WILL START TOUR

Will Talk in Cities Up-State

The opening shot in the up-state campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party will be fired in Poughkeepsie on Friday, September 14, at an open-air meeting to be held in the evening, at which Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and Communist candidate for U. S. Senate; Lovett Fort-Whiteman, Communist candidate for Comptroller, and H. Gordon of the Young Workers (Communist) League, will be the principal speakers.

The Poughkeepsie meeting will be the initial one of a number to be held in the major cities of New York state during this first campaign tour to be arranged by the Workers (Communist) Party. On September 15 the second meeting will take place in Albany, at the northwest corner of State and Crown Sts., after which Minor, Whiteman and Gordon will speak at Troy, at Domino Hall, 22-24 Fourth St., on Sunday, September 16.

Schenectady will be the scene of the fourth meeting, on Monday, August 17, at the Turner Hall, 837 Albany St.

Much interest has been stirred up among up-state workers by the advance announcements made by the

LITERACY DRIVE IN USSR

2,000,000 Young Workers Pledge Aid

MOSCOW, Sept. 10 (UP).—Every one of the two million "Komsomols" or young Communists, has been pledged by their organization to undertake to teach at least one person, in his own family or outside, to read or write.

This is but one phase of a renewed campaign just announced to reduce illiteracy in Russia.

In the early years of the Soviet revolution, leaders of the new government declared their determination to end all illiteracy before the tenth anniversary of their assumption to power. This ambition is still within at least 20,000,000 persons of achievement, according to offical statistics.

About 6,000,000 of the illiterates, it is estimated, are under 25 years old. Illiteracy is especially high among the minority nationalties in the Caucasus, Siberia, and other outlying sections. The one exception is the Jewish population which has fewer illiterates than any other race in the Soviet Union.

F. L. Fur Misleaders, Bosses Plan to Wreck Philadelphia Local; Workers Mobilize

ALL STOPPAGE FOR MASS RALLY THIS AFTERNOON

Boston Workers Win Skirmish With Fakers

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Workers engaged in the fur manufacturing industry here are rallying all their forces for an impending struggle which may terminate in a general walkout because of a threat of their employers to break their contract with the union and sign a fake agreement with the reactionary officials of the A. F. of L. Fur International. To this end a mass membership meeting will be held today at 4 p. m. in Boslower Hall, 7th and Pine Sts.

Mass Demonstration.

The setting of the time for four o'clock in the afternoon was done with the express intention of "demonstrating to employers that if they wish production to continue in Philadelphia fur factories they had better halt any plans they have about cancelling agreements and signing scab compacts with the A. F. of L. fakers," according to a union statement.

Edward F. McGrady, A. F. of L. agent in charge of the drive to destroy unionism in the industry, had been discovered by S. Bert, left wing union manager, while he was plotting with the bosses in the office of a leading manufacturer. Soon after this followed an announcement from the employers association that they intended to sever relations. The reason for the attacks on the local was its recent decision to join with the New York union in their drive to build a real furriers' national organization.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 10.—The first attempt of the International to launch a struggle against the Boston Furriers' Local, which had joined in the movement to build a new union, failed miserably when the workers carried thru a short and victorious strike against a firm which decided to break off relations with the local union.

Strike Short But Effective.

Agents of the A. F. of L. came into Boston last week and approached one of the larger employers here with promises of permitting him open shop privileges if he would join them in fighting the local. The employer, A. Rubin, agreed. Then followed a declaration to the union that the firm of Rubin no longer considers its contract with them valid. This was followed up by an immediate cututting of wages, and lengthening of hours.

The workers answered by a strike that lasted no more than four hours before it was won, along with a wage increase.

NORTH, NANKING CONTINUE WAR

HONG KONG, Sept. 10.—Fighting between Nanking and northern war lords continues and the Nanking forces have seized Tong Shan, endangering the position of Chang Chung-Chang in Shantung, where he established an independent position after the death of Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian dictator, and the retreat of the northern troops north of the Great Wall.

Tong Shan is near Tsinan, capital of Shantung, and the northern army apparently has succeeded in slowly encircling Chang Chung-Chang. The latter may be obliged to follow the example of thousands of disbanded northern troops and move north.

It has been reported, however, that hang Chung-Chang was in a strong position in Shantung and determined to resist the encroachment of the Nanking war lords. It is believed that his confidence results from Japanese support.

Within the democratic party, we witness the same process going on. Slowly but surely men like Bryan, with his confused petty-bourgeois theories, McAdoo, the representative of the big farming, cattle and wool growing interests of the West, representative also of the cotton growing interests of the South, are cast aside. The democratic party, which has been historically the party of the petty bourgeois, and has catered more directly to this class, is sloughing off this impedimenta and is demonstrating its full capacity to serve the industrial and financial interests of the Northeast, of Wall Street. In the words of Wilson's platform, "We must now remove, as far as possible, every remaining element of unrest and uncertainty from the path of the business men of America, and secure for them a continued period of quiet, assured and confident prosperity."

One might naturally ask, "Why does the capitalist class maintain two parties? Think of the expense, inefficiency, wasted effort, confusion, etc." Professor Arthur N. Holcombe, in his book "The Political Parties of Today" makes the following enlightening reply, "That system (the bi-partisan system) has certain incontestable advantages along with its obvious defects. It diminishes the violence of social strife arising out of all the various conflicting interests of the people. . . . The very evasions of contentious issues and concealments of grounds for social friction, which so many critics condemn, form a part, and no small part, of the services which the major parties render."

What is the future prospect for the two party system? In the days when the LaFollette movement was at its height, Mr. Frank A. Munsey, one of the leading spokesmen of the republican party made the following prediction: "In the early days of the Republic they (the republican and democratic parties) represented distinct and positive ideas. But with these great fundamental ideas converted into history there are no longer any big outstanding issues between them that have any place in our politics. There are, to be sure, many small points on which the republican and democratic parties differ, today. It is their business to differ, to create differences, to work up issues, without which they would cease to exist as political parties. It is the business of each party to oppose and to fight the acts and proposals of the other party. While this political jockeying has been going on since the great old issues disappeared, a new issue has developed that now divides all America into two political camps, as yet without political names. They are the radical camp and the conservative camp, and within each camp there is a wide range of thought and feeling. Some day, and not a very distant day at that these two groups will evolve into organized political parties with names that signify what they stand for."

Some Prospects.

What are the forces making for the merger of the two old parties into one conservative party as against a so-called radical party? What will be the nature of such a radical party? One of the factors making for a merger is the general tendency toward merger in the field of industry and finance. But the capitalist class will not forego lightly the advantages gained from the bi-partisan game of buncombe. Only under the threat of some rising spectre which menaces its interests, will it consolidate its forces for more effective defense. Will that force be a party of farmers? That is unlikely. The present demoralization of the agricultural elements, the La Follette defeat does not forecast a very speedy recovery in that direction. The drift of population from the farms to the cities particularly in the South will tend to weaken them still more. The future lies in the hands of the proletariat, which has given numerous recent proofs of its fighting spirit and militancy in the miners' struggle, the New Bedford strike, the needle trades fight, etc., and a greater resistance of the unorganized workers. The close and open identity of the two major parties with business has never been more evident. The prospect of severe struggles against capitalist rationalization expressing itself in the form of wage cuts, speed-up and union smashing will be a strong educative force, in which the government will again and again show the true character of the major political parties, and will bring to the fore emphatically and forcefully to the workers their interests as a class.

Never have the workers had a better opportunity to see before them the complete identity of the two major parties with Big Business The so-called new political alignments of this or that magnate, the superficial reasons given such as "prohibition" or "personality," and the equally hostile front of both parties to both labor and farmers, these facts offer our party an unusual and splendid opportunity to be the most powerful factor in exposing the lie behind the sham of the bi-partisan system.

On the basis offered by the present developments in American politics, the Workers (Communist) Party stands out clearly as the only party which speaks for the workers. The socialist, party with its appeal to liberals and the petty bourgeoisie, with its ignominious withdrawal from the path of the class struggle, has proven its utter bankruptcy and futility as a party of the working-class. The Workers (Communist) Party in the 1928 election campaign is the one party which clearly and without reservations puts forth the slogan of "Class against class," and rallies the workers to fight politically against their exploiters with the same determination and solidarity which they have so frequently displayed in the struggle on the industrial field.

Export Trade of Soviet Union—Egypt Grows; Cotton Chief Import

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 10. According to statistical figures of the eastern chamber of commerce of the Soviet Union, the turnover of trade with Egypt for nine months of the fiscal year (October-June) amounted to over 33,000,000 roubles, having surpassed corresponding figures of the last year.

The USSR is importing from Egypt cotton and exporting to Egypt oil products, flour, sugar, coal, etc.

WORKERS CLUBS AID RED FUNDS

Followers of Trail Contribute

With the election campaign reaching a more intense stage thruout the country, marked by "whisper" campaigns and a monotony of scandals in the capitalist parties, the Red Campaign waged by the Workers (Communist) Party is daily growing more productive of donations by workers' clubs to the Communist war chest. The followers of the Trail Club, an organization of workers which takes regular weekly excursions into the country of billboards surrounding New York, recently collected from its members the sum of $37.25 while on an excursion up the Hudson.

Other workers' organizations responded to the appeal issued by the District 2 Election Campaign Committee. Workmen's Circle Branch 84 of Plainfield sent a donation of $5 to the campaign fund and the Tomashover Branch 106, Workmen's Circle of Paterson, N. J., contributed last Saturday.

Previous donations made to the Red Campaign fund by workers' organizations are numerous. The Finnish Cooperative Trading Cooperative Association donated $25; Ukrainian Workers' Club, $69.25; Staten Island Finnish Workers' Club, $10. Through the Jewish Bureau of the Workers (Communist) Party, the Coney Island Workers' Club donated $16; the National Workers' Alliance, Branch 3, gave $15; the Brownsville Workers Youth Centre donated $10; and the Young Workers Social Culture Club of Brownsville gave $5.

aggressive war, but the effect is just as bad."

In the same speech he very vigorously assailed the views of Chancellor Mueller of Germany and criticized his position on national minorities and the reduction of armaments. Briand side-stepped the national minority issue by declaring that "the question must not become a lever to shake the confidence of peoples in their governments in the work of the league for peace."

Many Reservations for World Tourists Visit to the Soviet Union

Reservations for the forthcoming visit to the Soviet Union are coming in rapidly, M. Goodman, manager of the World Tourists, Inc., 69 Fifth Ave., announced yesterday.

"There is a great deal of interest," Goodman said, "in the tour which we are arranging, especially in view of the fact that the party will arrive in the U. S. S. R. in time to witness the Eleventh Anniversary of the October Revolution."

The entire trip will consume 35 days, and the party will leave on the fast S. S. "Mauretania" on October 17. Free Russian visas are guaranteed by the World Tourists.

KELLER, DAWSON EXPELLED FROM UTW CONVENTION

Expose Strikebreaking Misleaders

appeared before the convention to report, they recommended that Dawson, Keller, and John Di Santo be denied seats as delegates.

Di Santo is a delegate from Local 1623, Passaic, and was marked for exclusion because of his militancy. It was only after Keller rose to protest at being denied the right to represent his union, and after he had demanded reasons for his exclusion, that McMahon, U. T. W. president, assigned John Campos of Fall River, Mass., to state "reasons."

"Young Workers Party."

Campos launched into a vicious attack against the two delegates, who, he said, were members of a dual union. "I, as an official of the U. T. W., was almost mobbed by the textile workers due to their propaganda," he said. McMahon then contributed to the attack of the progressives, by assuring the convention that he is not afraid of "red scares," but that Keller and Dawson are both members of the "Young Workers Party" which holds meetings at 799 Broadway. "Dawson," he added, "is also secretary of the "International Defense League' which is also red."

Particularly hysterical did McMahon become every time he mentioned Albert Weisbord, Passaic strike leader. "Weisbord quit you," he shouted, despite the fact that the U. T. W. had made public demands that Weisbord leave Passaic before they would admit the Passaic locals into membership in the U. T. W. McMahon delivered himself of the prize gem of the day when, in talking about Passaic, he lamented, "these workers had the juice squeezed out of them; I was handed a squeezed lemon when we took the Passaic locals in."

Instead of defending themselves against the "accusations," Keller and Dawson launched into an attack against the U. T. W. officials. After insisting that they could be members of the U. T. W. and at the same time be adherents to the program of the T. M. C., which they termed a militant organization movement, the progressives branded U. T. W. leadership in New Bedford as nothing short of strikebreaking.

Refutes Slander.

Keller pointed out that when the T. M. C. entered the New Bedford strike the conservative union there had been outside the U. T. W., and that he had a right to enter the struggle under those circumstances. "Only after the leaders of our union joined hands with the Textile Council there in its reactionary policies, did we fight the U. T. W.," Keller said. He then assailed Campos for his open declaration to the Fall River workers to scab while the T. M. C. was leading a strike there. He charged Campos with giving direct aid to the brutal police terror against the strikers. As for McMahon's liking for "juicy" workers only, Keller declared that this fact is already known, not only to the Passaic workers, but ever-growing circles of textile operatives.

After a strenuous but fruitless attempt on the part of the machine to fasten an excuse for expulsion on John Di Santo, and after a speech by Di Santo, in which he condemned the absence of democracy in the organization, the McMahon machine railroaded the exclusion of Keller and Dawson. Gus Deak, president of the Passaic local, and Di Santo remained as delegates.

2 Officials Indicted in Street Graft Mess

Richard F. Walsh, a district superintendent in the street cleaning department, and Thomas Owens, a stable foreman were indicted yesterday by the Kings county grand jury of payroll padding and graft in the department.

Despite the fact that corruption in this department is known to be city-wide, thus far only about a half a dozen—and these minor officials—have been indicted.

Boro Park Red Week Features Contest for Ballot Signatures

Beginning yesterday and lasting thruout the week, a three-cornered contest will mark the signature drive in the Boro Park section of the Workers (Communist) Party. Preparations for an intensified drive to put the candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party in the 9th Kings County Assembly District on the ballot have been widespread and a lively competition is anticipated among the members of the Boro Park Section of the Communist Party, the members of the various Workers' Cultural Clubs and the members of the Women's Councils in the Boro Park, Brighton, Coney Island and Bath Beach sections.

The signature drive this week in Boro Park will be enlivened not only by the competition existing among the organizations as such, but also by the inner competition. Every Workers' Culture Club has challenged every other, the councils of the United Councils of Working-class Women are each sure of beating the record of their sister organizations, and among the Red Campaigners of Section 7 a spirited rivalry exists.

impending Minor-Whiteman tour. The workers have evinced their interest by questions asked the Red Campaigners who gathered signatures up-state to put the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot as to the platform of the Communist Party. The increasing number of wage-cuts to which up-state workers in the factories, foundries and railroads have been subjected has opened their eyes to the role played by the republican party, which has always claimed up-state New York as its own, and the anti-labor record of Tammany Al Smith is sufficient to show what the workers can expect from a democratic administration.

Lovett Fort-Whiteman, a Negro worker, will devote a part of his campaign talks to speaking of the problems of the Negro workers, the attitude of the capitalist parties to lynching and race segregation.

U. S. Military Forces in Nicaragua Protect Puppet; Ignore Many

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 10 (UP).—The newly organized constabulary quelled the first serious election outbreak late Sunday. The National Guard assisted in suppressing an attempt to storm the liberal party campaign office at Rivas.

Several persons were injured and four were arrested.

The rioting was started after a conservative party mass meeting which was held at Rivas. The crowd was aroused by speeches and finally moved on the liberal office and attempted to rush the doors. They were met by members of the constabulary and guards.

General Frank R. McCoy received a message today from Major Norman Randolph, electoral supervisor at Rivas, reporting the situation "well in hand." Reserves are held in readiness.

WORKERS WILL HOLD TEXTILE RELIEF MEET

To Show "The Crowd," Distinguished Movie

Thousands of textile workers demonstrated their solidarity with the textile strikers and their Mill Committees in the monster parade held in New Bedford on Saturday, while preparations were going forward full speed in New York for holding a mass conference for relief. The call has been sent broadcast by Local New York, W. I. R., to all labor unions and working class organizations. Where the delegates cannot be elected the call requests workers to send their representatives from shop unions, fraternal societies to the W. I. R. Relief Conference, Saturday, Sept. 15, at Irving Plaza Hall, and to make the conference a 100 per cent demonstration of solidarity with the 35,000 workers now engaged in a life and death struggle.

A delegation of textile strikers from New Bedford and Fall River will address the meeting. Textile workers from Paterson and Passaic are sending their delegations to greet the strike delegates, to hear Albert Weisbord relate the newest developments of the struggle, and announce the program for the coming convention to organize the new textile union.

Following the Relief Conference there will be two motion picture performances Saturday evening, Sept. 15 of "The Crowd" which has drawn large and enthusiastic audiences. All proceeds will go for the benefit of the textile strikers of New Bedford and Fall River. There will be two showings at the Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Ave., one performance at 3:45 p. m. and the other at 11:00 p. m. Albert Weisbord will speak before each showing.

Search for Missing Soviet Aviator

MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—All ships in the Siberian and Arctic regions have been asked to search for the airplane "Soviet North" piloted by Krasinsky, which left Anadir Aug. 13. The plane was reported last on August 19, going westward. Krasinsky was on an experimental flight across the Northern part of Siberia.

Second Conference for Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar This Thursday

All delegates to the last Daily Worker and Freiheit Bazaar which was held on August 28 must attend the second conference called by the Executive Committee for Thursday, September 13, at 8 p. m., at the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Sq.

It is hoped that all organizations which were not represented at the last conference elect delegates to this one, since the work for the First National Bazaar is in full progress, and much must still be done in the short time left.

AIM TO UNIONIZE N. Y. SHOE SHOPS

City-Wide Meeting to Be Held Tonight

Mobilization of the shoe workers of Greater New York for the organization of a poorly unorganized trade and also for the support of the striking workers in the Brooklyn shoe plant of S. Liebermann Co., is the program announced by the leaders of the Independent Shoe Workers Union. The first step toward this will be tonight's city-wide meeting of shoe workers at the union headquarters, 51 E. 10th St.

The entire working crew of the big Brooklyn factory are still solidly out on strike, and the spirit shown at their daily meetings demonstrates their determination to stay out until their demands are met. The workers ask that their general chairman be accorded immediate reinstatement, that the union be recognized and that union conditions be enforced. The dismissal of the chairman for union activities was the original cause for the walkout.

A meeting of all shoe workers living in Coney Island was held by the union yesterday in the Workers House, Mermaid Ave. The workers pledged their enthusiastic moral and financial assistance to the strike.

At the meeting tonight General Organizer Magliacano and the union president will render reports on the strike and on the general trade situation. Plans for the organization drive will then be formulated.

Hold Protest Meeting Against Kellogg "Peace" Treaty; French Police Arrest 800

THIRTY HELD AS FOREIGNERS IN OFFICIAL PLOT

Demonstration for the Communist Youth

PARIS, Sept. 10.—A total of 800 arrests was made by the Paris police on Communists and workers who met yesterday to protest against the Kellogg peace pact in a mass meeting outside the city. Thirty of the men were detained charged with possessing improper, or lack of identification papers. They will be held for deportation as foreigners, a favorite device of the Paris prefect of police, Chiappe, who was in charge of the police attack.

The mass demonstration scheduled to take place at St. Denis in the cordon rouge, the Red Belt which encircles Paris, was intended as a commemoration of the fourteenth anniversary of the Young Communist Youth organization in France, as well as a protest against the Kellogg pact.

Chiappe, who recently announced the perfection of a plan to abandon Paris in event of a workers' uprising and concentrate the counter-revolution in Versailles, had the three Communist speakers, deputy Garchery, and municipal councillors Joly and Gelis arrested at the St. Denis gate. They were taken to the police station and only after repeated refusals to answer questions were set free. The police admit that they were unable to learn anything from the prisoners.

The thirty workers who are being held on deportation charges were still in jail last night. While the police claim that they are foreigners this fact has not been established in more than a few cases. Following the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations in Paris in 1927, police prefect Chiappe used the same deportation proceedings to send a number of workers' leaders out of the country. It was charged at that time that not all those deported were foreigners, but the deportation proceedings were carried on by the police in secret.

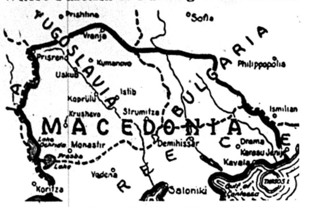
Where Fascism Is Pushing War Schemes



The Balkans showing the district of Macedonia and the contiguous districts of Albania, Jugo-Slavia, Macedonia, Bulgaria and Greece. Italy is running guns and ammunition into Albania and the recent elevation of Ahmed Zogu to the kingship is regarded as a triumph for the fascist government. In southern Jugo-Slavia, Bulgaria and northern Greece the Macedonians are demanding their autonomy. It is the plan of the fascists to utilize the differences in the Balkans to establish Italian control in the peninsula.

FACES DEPORTATION AND DEATH AS RED

VIENNA, (By Mail). — Seven weeks have now gone by since Dr. Peter Iskroff, a journalist, and formerly an executive member of the Bulgarian Young Communist League, was arrested in Vienna.

The Bulgarian police have been hunting him down since 1925; in 1926 he was finally obliged to flee the country, and in his absence was tried and condemned to death.

The excuses for his arrest in Vienna were that he had been seen talking to a Communist, and that he was in possession of a forged passport and a "bag full of Communist literature."

The Communist literature proved to consist mainly of the works of Marx and Engels, and the forged passport is not an unusual possession for a political refugee whose government has sentenced him to death. There are many refugees from the Balkans in Vienna, and unless the police get other instructions offenders quite frequently get no worse punishment for their irregular passports than three days' imprisonment.

Marxian Newspaper.

Iskroff is also alleged to have brought out a newspaper in violation of the Austrian press law, but even the reactionary journals which are trying to make the most of this have to admit that it was a publication dealing with Marxian theory.

The long detention of Iskroff can only have one meaning—that the Austrian authorities are planning to hand him over to the Bulgarian government. True the Vienna police have officially announced that the Bulgarian authorities have not filed any request for extradition, but there is nevertheless an acute danger that he will be deported to Bulgaria, where death awaits him.

Secret Arrest.

If it were only a matter of press and passport offenses, the Austrian government would not have held him in prison all these weeks.

His very arrest would have remained a secret but for the fact that the Austrian Red Aid with the support of the Communist press brought it into public notice.

The capitalist press is trying its utmost to make an affair of state out of the case in order to stir up public opinion against Iskroff and to pave the way, not only for his extradition, but for the denial of the right of asylum of other political refugees.

100 MOTHERS IN SCHOOL STRIKE

tem, was given as the reason for the transfer of 560 of the pupils of P. S. 560, all of them in Grades 4B to 8B, to other schools.

The women were bitter against the school authorities and the Tammany city administration which had refused to listen to their complaints. They declared that they would continue their strike against sending their children to distant schools even if they had to be kept out of school the entire term.

No Room For Children.

The strike of the 100 Brooklyn mothers was a dramatic incident serving to focus attention on the intolerable conditions which greeted parents and children with the opening of the 900 elementary and secondary schools of the city yesterday. Seventy thousand of the 1,050,000 pupils have no place to sit down and they will have to be put on part time. Practically all classrooms are greatly overcrowded, making it impossible for the 34,000 teachers in the New York school system to perform their work properly.

While Tammany Hall has been busy dividing up huge sums in graft, the crying need of new schools and more adequate facilities has been conveniently overlooked. Only one new building, the Theodore Roosevelt, in the Bronx, was ready to meet the greatly increased enrollment yesterday.

FIVE PRISONERS SLAIN BY GUARDS

5 Others Being Hunted With Bloodhounds

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—Five prisoners were shot down and killed and three others wounded by prison guards while making a break for freedom last night. Fighting desperately for their lives, five other prisoners managed to escape and are now being hunted with bloodhounds.

Fourteen prisoners in all, all of whom were working at the camp of the Angola state prison, took part in the jail break. Unable longer to endure the intolerable conditions at the prison and the brutal treatment they were subjected to at the hands of the guards, they made a surprise dash for freedom and compelled two guards to open the camp gates for them.

Guards and trusties of the prison gave chase and a gun fight ensued which was continued from two railroad launches. Five of the prisoners and one trusty were killed and three were wounded. The dead prisoners are Cleveland Owens, Stephen Beck, Jack Martin, Stanley Proctor and Arthur Kinchen. J. B. Broom was the trusty killed.

Prison authorities declare the five escaped prisoners who are now being hunted will be dealt with severely if caught.

BIG COMMUNIST VOTE EXPECTED

Signature Campaign Is Great Success

for September 17th. They admit that there is no legal objection to the Party being on the ballot, but that a Party that stands for the abolition of the capitalist system is "subversive."

Fight Jingoes.

In Texas, the assistant secretary of state rules the Party off the ballot, tho according to precedent and the law it has a legal right to stay on having complied with the state regulations governing the putting of a new party on the ballot. In all those states the Party organization is fighting back and the comrades are confident that they will defeat the aims of the reactionaries.

In New England, the local election committees are scrutinizing every signature presented for filing by the Workers (Communist) Party. A high percentage of the names are challenged. The tools of the mill owners in the textile cities are doing everything possible to prevent the workers from having a workers' party ticket in the election.

Bosses and Inspectors.

In Manchester, New Hampshire, the election innspector is head of the employment department of the Amoskeag Mills. Eight hundred of the one thousand signatures needed to get the Party on the ballot in New Hampshire were collected in that city which is controlled by the textile company. There is certain to be a hard fight to overcome the hostility of the Amoskeag-controlled election commission to putting the Communist ticket on the ballot.

William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for the presidency, started his nation-wide tour in behalf of the Communist election campaign with a meeting in the General Motors stronghold of Flint, Michigan on the afternoon of Sunday, September 9th, and in the Ford-dominated city of Detroit on the evening of the same day. Benjamin Gitlow, vice presidential candidate, opened his speaking tour with a meeting in the anthracite region on Labor Day which was given much publicity in the local press.

FRENCH AND U. S. INTERESTS IN RUBBER BATTLE

Predict Native Unrest as Fight Begins

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Reports from Liberia and French Senegal state that leaflets printed in the native dialects and urging the natives to resist American encroachments have made their appearance in the Negro republic.

Wireless messages attacking the American concessionaires are also said to have been broadcast on the west African coast.

While the purpose of these attacks is unquestionably an attempt on the part of the French rubber interests to discomfort their competitors in Liberia, one section of opinion here is alarmed over the effect which the propaganda will have upon the native tribes.

The opinion has found expression that disturbances may be expected in west Africa if propaganda of a similar nature continues.

Both French and American officials express themselves as concerned over this latest turn in the rubber war which is rapidly developing between the rival interests in Africa. Neither would welcome a general outbreak among the natives, though each is willing to foment disturbances in the enemy's territories. The French, as the older and longer established interest, is at present the aggressor, but a number of indications suggest that a policy of reprisal will not be long in following on the part of the Firestone interests.

Meanwhile the natives are reported to be deserting the fields and enlisting in the Firestone plantations, lured by stories which agents of the corporation are spreading throughout Liberia. Some fear is being expressed for the staple crops, which are in danger of loss should the drain of land workers from the fields not be compensated by a parallel drift from the plantations once the rubber workers have been disillusioned. The Firestone Company is reported to have foreseen this eventuality and to have prepared an elaborate system for keeping the natives in the company's control whatever their will to leave the Firestone service.

of the new Miners' Union.

Watt will bring a report of the historic National Miners' Convention; he will discuss the militant program of the new rank and file union and tell of its plans to organize the quarter million unorganized miners who have been ignored by the Lewis machine. He will describe in graphic manner the sufferings and struggles of the miners and their families in the great 17-months' strike which was so shamefully betrayed by Lewis and his corrupt henchmen. And he will call upon the workers of New York to get behind the struggle to build a powerful new miners' union by supplying the means to enable the thousands of coal diggers, their wives and children who are in a destitute, semi-starving state to live and fight on.

In addition to Watt, other speakers, well known as leaders of working class struggles in this city, will address the meeting and call on the workers to join wholeheartedly in the campaign to furnish the relief necessary in order to build the new Miners' Union.

Invention Aids Military Naval Activity

Lieutenant C. B. Momsen, inventor, tells Admiral C. F. Hughes about his invention which, he alleges, permits divers to work at a depth of 110 feet without ill effects. Admiral Hughes gained notoriety thru his actions during salvaging of the F-4, navy submarine which sank off Massachusetts with a crew of two score men. At that time a garage owner from the middle west induced the admiral to show him the entire salvaging operations on the grounds that he was an expert on deep sea diving. Newspaper men discovered the hoax by asking a few simple questions.

HOOVER PLANS TO OUST WORK

Takes Personal Charge of Dirty Work

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Herbert Hoover, presidential candidate on the republican ticket, will hereafter take personal charge of his election campaign and has relegated Dr. Hubert Work, former secretary of the interior, to a merely technical role, it was learned here today. Work is now national chairman of the campaign.

While the real reasons for the assumption of personal power by Hoover are carefully disguised, it has long been apparent that the hard-boiled campaign strategists in the republican camp had become disgusted with Work's too easy going style. On the question of the whispering campaign which the republicans have launched broadcast in the attempt to defeat Al Smith, Work has been entirely too emphatic in his statements repudiating the campaign.

Again Work's announcements on the prohibition issue, virtually giving away the case, that there is no real issue between both hypocritical old parties, has also displeased the more shifty politicians.

BUILD SULPHUR MILL

ASKHABAD, U. S. S. R., Sept. 10.—A construction of a sulphur factory has been started in a central part of the desert Kara-Kum in Turkmenistan. The Karakum sulphur fields, containing pure sulphur, are considered as one of the best of this kind in the whole world.

GRANT PRIVILEGE TO R. R. C.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 10.—The government of the U. S. S. R. has decided to give to the Ussuriisk Railway the right to demand that the existing tariffs and the port duties on transit traffic shall be paid up in a foreign currency.

Negro Chosen.

John J. Watt, one of the outstanding militants of the union, was chosen president. William Boyce, a well-known Negro fighter, was chosen vice-president. Pat Toohey was elected secretary-treasurer. A general executive board, consisting of one member from each district, was named. Practically the full business of the convention had been carried out when a dozen Pittsburgh business men appeared outside the hall, headed by the sheriff, who ordered the meeting to disperse. The session adjourned in an orderly fashion, despite the continued provocation of the police.

Hold Miners For Grand Jury.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Three miners' delegates were held for the grand jury on one thousand dollars bail each charged with rioting following the vicious raid by the Pittsburgh police and Lewis machine gangsters on the first session of the convention to form a new miners' union. Over a score of others were fined. Fifty were released and a number of others are still unaccounted for following the unprecedented fascist dragnet set in motion yesterday in which over one hundred miners were taken in.

The three held for the grand jury are Thomas Wray McDonald of Pennsylvania, Mike Stenovich and Charles Fulp, a Negro delegate. Fines of twenty-five dollars each were levied against Anthony Minerich, Freeman Thompson, Thomas Oberland, Andy Plechaty, R. Silvert, S. Antonini, F. Pastuzak, A. Melley, R. Metsack, G. Condonglen, T. Yelish, J. Sever, J. Daly, J. Region, Wm. Farrini, S. Reno and others. A few received fines of smaller amounts. The International Labor Defense paid the fines in order that the delegates might return to the convention and proceed with its business.

The three held for the grand jury are being jailed immediately. Miners in jail were roughly treated by the police. Freeman Thompson was locked in a padded cell for agitating in behalf of the new union from his cell.

The attack by the police and the Lewis gangsters have made the coal diggers all the more determined to continue to bring the new union to a success despite the opposition of the coal operators police and the Lewis machine.

clared that no wage cut recall would be made under any circumstances, even if the Frieder plan was granted. The tremendous strike demonstrations, however, caused a change of front already.

T. M. C. Stronger.

Now the mill owners are openly expressing their belief in the "sincerity" of the council officials, and are ready to confer. The probable course of action, observers declare, will be to reach a settlement with Batty and then try to break the strike with the aid of the A. F. of L. officials and a newly intensified police terror against the T. M. C. picket lines.

The continually growing influence and prestige of the Textile Workers' Union of the T. M. C. received new powerful impetus in the last few days' developments. An obvious process of disintegration is easily evident in the ranks of the Textile Council. Many more members of that union joined the T. M. C. outright, and even those remaining show their disgust with their misleaders by threats of revolt in the U. T. W. locals.

The New Bedford Times, which strongly favors the Frieder plan, states:

"Some believe that the manufacturers would not agree to a settlement on this basis, because they have no assurance that such a settlement would be supported by the operatives themselves in spite of its approval by the Textile Council strike committee. Even though the specialization system, which has been advanced as the basis of settlement is not the system which is known as the speed-up, the operatives appear to understand it as such."

Soviet Government Experiments in Benzine

LONDON, Sept. 10 (UP).—An official of Russian Oil Products, Ltd., was reported today to have confirmed reports that the company has purchased 10,000 tons of benzine in California.

It was understood the benzine would be used in blending experiments in an attempt to create a new brand.

U. S. S. R. to Provide Transportation for Year's Record Crop

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—With a large crop of spring wheat and feed grains in the villages and prospects for winter wheat promising to bring the harvest to 13 per cent above the pre-war average, the Commissariat of Agriculture is now concentrating its efforts to provide adequate transportation of the crops from the outlying districts in Siberia and the Caucasus.

The peasants have been selling their grain in larger and larger quantities due to the increase of prices by the government and th has resulted in the accumulati large stores of grain in the vi cooperatives. Inadequate pro for storage demands that the be immediately transported.

10 Die in Sunday Aviation Crashes

Ten men were killed and 5 seriously injured in aviation accidents thruout the country on Sunday. The deaths were traceable directly to the propaganda campaign on the part of the U. S. military authorities, in cooperation with militarist aviation societies, now being carried on in an attempt to stimulate interest of youth in aviation, and thus trap them into becoming part of a reserve aviation corps for use in imperialist war.

Two students in Otterbein, Ind. high school were killed when a plane in which they were passengers crashed. Two amateur aviators died in a crash in Sioux City, Iowa.

abor Misleader, Mayor of Sioux City, Issues Order to Bar Communist Tag Days

"YOU ARE TRYING TO PUT US OUT OF BUSINESS"

Thus Faker Describes Communists

(By a Worker Correspondent)

SIOUX CITY, (By Mail).—We have got a new mayor in Sioux City—none other than Mr. Martin, president of the Trades and Labor Assembly.

The Sioux City branch of the Workers Party sent a committee of [illegible] to ask Mayor Huff for a permit to hold a tag day on Labor Day [illegible] miners' and textile workers' relief, and as the Trades and Labor Assembly had charge of the Labor Day parade, Mayor Huff told them they would have to see Martin, president of the assembly. "That was after due invcatigation of course."

When the committee finally got a hearing with Martin, the first thing he asked them was, "Are you a Communist organization."

And when the committee told him it was, he said, "Do you suppose we would give a permit to an organization that was trying to put us out of business?"

Then he said, "Why did you pick on Labor Day for your tag day when we have a crowd and a speaker out there. You are just trying to antagonize us."

Of course he takes his orders from Green, Woll and company and we knew exactly who he was talking for.

If the tag day had been for Lewis' outfit everything would have been hunky dory.

Its sure pretty rich when we've got to ask a lackey of Green for a permit to hold a tag day. Why not can the mayor and let Martin run the city. The mayor is out of town half the time anyway.

P. S. You will notice they were wise enough to know we were trying to put them out of business. They are educated to that extent anyway.

CALL NORTHERN RELIEF PARLEYS

ill Strike Aid Being Gathered in Cities

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 10.—An appeal to labor organizations of this city, to participate in a conference which will launch a relief campaign for New Bedford's 28,000 textile strikers, was issued Saturday by the local section of the Workers International Relief. The conference will be held Saturday night, Sept. 15, in the building of the Labor Educational Alliance.

All organizations of labor, sympathetic to the anti-wage cut struggle of the heroic New Bedford mill workers are urged to elect delegates in time to attend the conference.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 10.—The Workers International Relief is issuing a call for a conference, Sunday, Sept. 30, at 2 p. m. at the Credit Union Hall, 62 Chambers St. Workers fraternal, trade union and sympathetic organizations are invited to the conference which is [illegible] for the purpose of assisting textile strikers of New Bedford. Ways and means to help and encourage the New Bedford workers in their brilliant struggle will be discussed by the delegates here.

In the call to the meeting, the W. I. R. asks that at least two delegates from each organization be immediately elected or appointed, and their names and addresses be [illegible]ded to the Boston office at 5 [illegible] St., Room 205.

After a description of the urgency of the strikers need for relief both in food and clothing, the W. I. R. asks in its call that advance checks be forwarded as soon as possible to the above office.

Relatives of Those Murdered by Fascist Swear Vengeance

VIENNA, Sept. 10 (UP).—A dispatch from the Tirana correspondent of the newspaper Obzor at Zagreb today said a new blood feud had been sworn against Zogu of Albania.

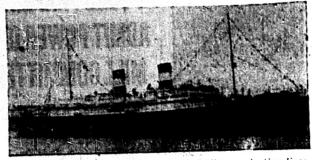
The dispatch said the relatives of Leach Grela, mayor of Halia Biker, an opponent of Zogu who was murdered a few days after Zogu was proclaimed king, has sworn to avenge the death.

It was recalled here that upwards of 800 Albanians in the last two years have sworn to kill Zogu at the first opportunity, in revenge for the death of relatives.

IMPERIALIST FLIGHT.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Sept. 10 (UP)—Capt. Charles Kingsford Smith and George Ulm left in their Trans-Pacific monoplane Southern Cross at 5:30 p. m. today on a flight to New Zealand. They were accompanied by T. H. McWilliams, radio operator and H. A. Litfield, navigator.

Seamen Slave In Fascist Vessel



The motor ship Augustus, of the Italian navigation lines, is the largest of its type in the world, as well as the largest vessel flying the Italian flag. The seamen, however, are bound hand and foot by the fascist seamen's laws which prevent the men from organizing any effective resistance to their oppressors.

THE STRUGGLE OF THE ESTHONIAN WORKERS

As a heritage from tne czarist Russia Esthonia received a number of more or less big factories including the "Krengolmskaya Manufactura," one of the biggest textile factories, the Narvas clothes mill, the gigantic Russian-Baltic shipbuilding factory a. s. o.

But most of the giants are either stopping or they work a 10-20 per cent quota. This is explained by the fact that since the Soviet-Esthonian frontier was traced the Esthonian industry was deprived of the Russian market and that owing to the low level of its production she can not beat the competition on the west European market. The Esthonian capital is, however, not capable to reorganize the production of its factories. As for the interior market of the country, it can not absorb even half of the production of these factories. This is why most of them are stopping, their machinery becomes old, the tools are rusty, the plants half destroyed and from one year to the other the chances of the restitution of their former potence are becoming less and less.

The working hands which had been left idle outside these factories do not find any employment not only in the towns but in the country and form a part of the enormous army of the unemployed. The worker of the town does not go to the village as the Esthonian boss peasants and landlords are pressing out the last farthing of energy of the poor agricultural workers for a miserable pittance of food and an infinitesimal day pay. And therefor lamentable as the situation of the unemployed is in the towns the labor exchange is unable to satisfy the demand of the country for working hands. The industrial stoppage was a great blow against the Esthonian working class. Its trade organizations are powerless and can not practically give much help to its members. The Esthonian worker earns monthly not more than 20 rubles worth. And only highly qualified metal workers, of whom there are so little in Esthonia and the workers of the printing trade earn something like 40-50 rubles per month. It stands to reason that even this "big" sum is hardly sufficient to assure an assistance to the family of the worker.

It is but natural that under these conditions the Esthonian worker is susceptible for revolutionary ideas. This made the dominating rich peasant parties in Esthonia to introduce a whole system of cruel terror in the country.

After the memorable revolt of the Esthonian workers of December 1st, 1924, martial law was introduced in the country being in force even now in the greatest part of its territory and particularly in the industrial centers. Any attempt of the working class to refuse obedience involves a persecution of the military tribunal. According to Esthonian statutes 10 per cent of the whole population are held in state prisons. The majority of the delicts being of the category of political offense.

This regime is truly characterized by a recent trial of a number of working women who were condemned to many years of imprisonment with hard labor for membership in the IRR organization. In particular, one of these women was severely punished for having acted in commission of the IRR as intermidary at sending food parcels to political prisoners.

Nevertheless the Esthonian proletariat is firm in defending its rights. Not quite long ago the Esthonian tailors were on strike and, although their organization is not a strong one, they succeeded in securing full satisfaction of all their demands by the owners. The textile workers of Narva have likewise demanded some small raise in wages a few weeks ago. As the factory owners refused to comply the working women took up passive resistance and won.

It is two months now that the heroic fight of the Esthonian printers is lasting. They have created a strong and firm trade union which was the first among all Esthonian trade unions, to force the owners, some years ago, to enter collective wage agreements extending to all the 600-800 members of the union. Now this trade union has engaged a new strike war against the owners of printing houses aiming at a raise in wages that would create conditions of work corresponding to those of the west European printers. In the collective wage agreement, however, there was a provision according to which the union was obliged to give two months' notice to the owners before the beginning of any strike. This term was sufficient for the owners to recruit the necessary state of blacklegs and as a matter of fact they have secured practically on the day following the declaration of the strike a regular issue of the papers and periodicals. As blacklegs they have used journalists, administration workers of the printing houses and a great number of unemployed intellectuals most of whom are quite unable to find employment in the country or have such low income that they willingly go over to the printing trade which according to their judgment pays quite well. The recommencement of work in the printing houses was a great blow to the strikers as it has deprived them of the moral effect which the strike undoubtedly would have if the papers could not have appeared for a considerable time. Besides the renewed work of the printing shops is making a bad influence upon the strikers who are now afraid of the possibility of a lost fight which under the Esthonian conditions means voluntary unemployment for a long period of years.

Not quite long ago a meeting of the contesting parties was organized upon the initiative of the strike committee. It gave, however, no practical results as the owners of the printing shops made quite unacceptable conditions. They demanded immediate and unconditional return to work and besides refused the reconclusion of the collective wages agreements. They alluded to the fact that a month later or so they will be no more in need of the services of the strikers at all, and what is more, they compiled "blacklists" of the strikers which were sent to the border countries in order to deprive the workers of the possibility of finding employment even there. The workers refused to accept these conditions. The strike is continued.

ELDERLY NEGROES HELD AS SLAVES

Forced to Toil for Bootleggers

(By a Worker Correspondent)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., (By Mail).—Appearing at the prohibition office here before Director Alvin J. Howe, Marcus and Mary Burt, an elderly couple, told a sensational story of an island in the Mississippi River, 60 miles from here, on which more than 500 people were held as slaves, forced to work for a group of Caucasian bootleggers, and of the beating to death of four enslaved inhabitants who displeased the island's masters.

The Burts had been in slavery for a year, they said, and escaped by smuggling themselves in a rum running boat, then dropping into the river in the night and swimming to the Tennessee shore, after which they made their way to Memphis.

Hold All as Peons.

The couple told officials here that the inhabitants of the island had been reduced to a half savage state by the bootleggers. They were forced to manufacture liquor, the output of which amounted to approximately 10,000 gallons a week. Beatings were numerous, they said, and offered to pilot officials to four unmarked graves on the island where the bodies of men beaten to death had been buried.

German Ambassador to Moscow Dies in Berlin

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—While on a temporary visit here the German ambassador to the Soviet Union since 1922, Count Brockdorff-Rantsau, suddenly died yesterday from a fit of apoplexy.

The ambassador had taken part in the negotiations with the Soviet Government which resulted in the renewal of trade relations under a new treaty. He also headed the German delegation to Versailles in 1919, but resigned the foreign office portfolio a month later because he opposed the acceptance of the treaty.

YOUTH CONGRESS DISCUSSES MANY LEAGUE ISSUES

Describe New Methods of Organization

tionalization on American young workers. "Rationalization has caused a leftward movement among the young workers," he said. "The American Young Workers League must liquidate fractionalism and fight unitedly against fractionalism in the Party."

Kaplan dealt with the problems of the Workers Party and declared that the most important question for the Party was the ending of fractionalism.

Mariot described the progress made in Canada in anti-militarist work.

Wider Criticism.

At the ninth session Gorkich made the closing speech. "The discussion failed to deal with numerous questions," he declared. "For instance, the children's movement, work in mass organizations, preparation for illegality and fluctuation of membership. Self-criticism in the Leagues must be increased. Organizational questions must be dealt with in connection with political questions. The political influence of the Leagues is more important than the number of members. Red Aid work must be improved and more attention paid to the small Leagues. League reporting must also be improved." Gorkich's speech was greeted by applause.

Chitarov then spoke. "The discussion showed the fundamental unanimity," he said. "The chief enemy remains the socialist youth international. Criticism of the Young Communist International was necessary and welcome. The work will be improved. The Congress must end the fractional struggle in the American League and establish unity of basis with the Comintern policy.

"The reason for the membership standstill is insufficient carrying out of decisions. The discussion has laid the basis for the development of the League into Bolshevist mass organizations." Applause greeted Chitarov's speech.

Tenth Session.

The tenth session opened with Lovery, of Italy, as chairman. Leibbrandt, of the Executive Committee of the Young Communist International, spoke on agitprop methods.

"The discussion showed," he said, "that the Congress unanimously favors the introduction of new working methods. These methods must be adapted to youth ideology. The work must be based on the social situation of the youth and the political character of the youth movement must be maintained. The present factory group work is insufficient and must be supplemented by Sunday sessions, hikes, Sunday schools, etc.

"The local organizations must support the work of the factory groups. Meetings and celebrations must be made more interesting for the young workers with music, theatricals, etc., though all these things must have topical political significance. New members must not be overloaded with work, but must be given some work to keep them interested. Light athletics must be encouraged and young workers' clubs organized. The new methods have dangers, but these can be avoided when the methods are always connected with political questions."

Don, of the United States, was the first discussion speaker and described the methods of the American League, the formation of circles, clubs for soldiers and sailors, etc.

Novakova, of Czecho-Slovakia, and Massie, of Britain, also spoke.

Geminder was chairman of the eleventh session. The discussion of Liebbrandt's speech continued. The following spoke: Becker, Germany; Pavlov, Soviet Union; Hellmut, Germany; Sokolev, Soviet Union; Boiko, Bulgaria; Runov, Soviet Union; Schaelicke, Young Communist International Publishing House; Sikin, Soviet Union; Rudin, France; Nikolai, Greece; Victorovich, Poland; Lovira, Italy, and Matagu, China.

Schaelicke said: "New methods must also be adopted in our publishing activity. Most of our publications are minutes of congresses, reports, etc., which few read. We must publish more interesting and educational literature, tendencious stories for the youth, etc. Literary evenings must be arranged to discuss our new publications, etc. Altogether more attention must be paid to publishing work which is politically very important."

Liebbrandt then made the closing speech.

Soviet Union Pensions Widow of Iron Worker Who Challenged Astor

LONDON, (By Mail).—Mrs. James Morton, widow of the Liverpool ironmoulder who went to Leningrad in answer to Lady Astor's challenge, to work under the same conditions as Russian workers, sailed from London for Leningrad on Friday.

She has been paying a short visit to England, but, on board the Soviet steamer, "Ushar," she expressed pleasure at the thought of return to the Soviet Union.

She herself receives a widow's pension of £2 5s. a week, while £3 5s. a week is to be paid for the upkeep and education of her two young children until they reach the age of 18.

BUILD BIG AIR PORT IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 10.—It has been decided to construct an airport in Moscow where there are meeting at present airplanes of three airlines: Moscow-Berlin, Moscow-Irkutsk and Moscow-Baku-Teheran.

A suitable area of land will be alloted for the airport near the Central Military Aerodrom.

Construction will be started with the erection of a building for the aero-station which will include a hotel, restaurant with a winter garden, post office, radio station, custom house, cabinet of aeronavigation, kino, etc. The work of the construction will be commenced from the spring of the next year.

POLITICIANS AIDING THE BOOTLEGGERS IN SOUTH

By ART SHIELDS
(Federated Press).

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (FP). Sept. 8. Nowhere in the United States, probably, has the prohibition issue brought more bunk into the political campaign than in the southern states.

Rival politicians assume that the south is pretty dry today, where in fact it is wet. Bishop Cannon of the methodist episcopal church south is appealing to the voters in behalf of Hoover, who will keep the south dry—as though it were dry; and Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and ex-secretary of the navy, is asking for support of Smith on the theory that he will not make the south and the rest of the country wet. Meanwhile, citizens who yield to the noise of this controversy are forgetting fundamental issues that challenge all thoughtful persons in the south—to wit, the gouging by the power companies, denial of the right of workers to organize in the manufacturing industries and on some railroads, and the price fixing practiced by the "Big Five" tobacco companies who buy one of the two chief money crops of the farmers.

Liquor sells plenteously throughout North Carolina at one Dollar a pint; in some parts of South Carolina it is reported selling at 50 cents a pint. Hotels, gasoline filling stations and other public places are the points of retail distribution. Thus, while the writer was in camp at an auto park near Durham, he was kept awake several nights by auto parties supplied at a nearby gasoline station with a fluid derived from corn.

Bootleggers, if they are not in with the right people, occasionally are convicted, and serve time in the road gang. But these incidents do not affect the supply nor the price of liquor.

WORKERS IN FALL RIVER FIGHT FOR MOONEY-BILLINGS

Local Labor Defense Holds Meet

(By a Worker Correspondent)

FALL RIVER, Mass. (By Mail). Mooney-Billings Branch of the International Labor Defense met last night at the headquarters of the Textile Mill Committee, 381 Columbia St., Fall River, Mass. The meeting was well attended and much enthusiasm was shown as indicated by the business done.

It was decided that the branch meet regularly every first and third Sunday morning at 10 at the above address.

R. Martin, A. Resantes, M. Olviera and C. Motta were elected as delegates to the New England conference.

The literary agent, Jesse Troy, reported that he had sold 83 copies of the "Labor Defender." A. Olivira was elected assistant literary agent and it was voted that the "Defender" be placed on sale at ten different stores suggested by the members present.

A committee consisting of A. Abrantes, J. Fraitus, A. Resantes, T. Silviera and M. Oliviera was elected to make arrangements for mass meeting under auspices of Mooney-Billings branch of the I. L. D. in Fall River was elected. The meeting is to be held after the New England conference with at least one speaker of national reputation attending.

representatives of trade unions and fraternal organizations of Bath Beach, Borough Park and Coney Island. The conference will take place at 1373 43rd St., Brooklyn.

The work of mobilizing the New Jersey workers for the bazaar will be launched tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at a conference at 93 Mercer St., Newark. Delegates of workers' organizations in Newark, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Plainfield, Stelton and Roselle will be present. The New Jersey workers are determined to make a good showing at the bazaar, those in charge of this conference declare.

While these conferences are getting under way, reports are being received daily at the office of the Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee, 30 Union Square, from points as far west as Seattle of active preparations of workers thruout the country to insure the success of this great bazaar of their labor press. Articles are being collected and booths arranged by both individuals and organizations and all signs indicate that last year's bazaar will be greatly surpassed.

"Chauve-Souris" and Moissi Play Here in November

MORRIS GEST is ready to embark on his first fully active season in two years, in association with his partner F. Ray Comstock, according to an announcement sent out yesterday.

While in Salzburg, Gest completed arrangements whereby Max Reinhardt will come to New York to direct the company to be headed by Alexander Moissi in a production of Tolstoy's "The Living Corpse" ("Redemption"). This production, which will be made in association with Edgar Selwyn, is designed to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the great Russian playwright and novelist. The same play, by the way, has been chosen, Gest reports, by the Moscow Theatre for its own contribution to the Tolstoy centennial on its home stage this fall. Reinhardt will contribute a number of his ablest actors to support Moissi in the production here. The engagement is for eight weeks, opening in New York, and including six or eight other cities. The date of the premiere will be announced later.

Arrangements have been made for the first Canadian and American tour of the Stratford-upon-Avon Festival Company. The Board of The Shakespeare Memorial Theatre will begin on Monday, October 1st, in Montreal. The tour will continue across Canada to Vancouver and Victoria and down the Pacific Coast through Seattle, Tacoma and Portland to San Francisco and Los Angeles, then returning East.

Nikita Balieff, the Russian creator of Chauve-Souris and his troupe will come to New York in November with a company largely recruited from new sources, in an intimate revue, distinctly different in type from his previous productions in this country.

A new spectacular Reinhardt pantomine season is promised season after next, as well as the American production of a musical play, "Beautiful Women," by Ossip Dymow in which Reinhardt is interested. These negotiations will be carried further during Reinhardt's stay in New York before proceeding to California to begin work on his supervision of a motion picture by himself and Hugo von Hofmannsthal, starring Lillian Gish.

Gest also announces that a new production of "The Miracle," is to be sent across the continent on a tour of cities which did not have the spectacle in previous seasons.

Needle Trades Leader Endorses Working Youth Conference Here September 29-30

NEW YORK LABOR URGED TO BACK MEET HERE SOON

It Will Aid Workers, Zimmerman Says

Charles Zimmerman, Manager of the Dress Department of the Joint Board of the Cloak and Dressmakers' Union of the National Organization Committee, in a statement yesterday declared himself to be heartily in favor of the Working Youth Conference of Greater New York to be held on September 29 and 30, at Labor Temple, Second Ave. and 14th St.

"The great task of organizing the unorganized youth of the United States will be greatly enhanced by the forthcoming conference," Zimmerman said. Declaring himself to be pleased that so many progressive unions have already endorsed the conference, the needle trades leader said that the meet will be a "means of approaching the hundreds of thousands of young workers with the message of militant trade unionism."

Zimmerman said he was glad to approve the Working Youth Conference and add his name to the lists of unions that have already endorsed it. The Independent Shoe Workers, United Umbrella and Handlemakers, locals of the Knitsgoods Workers, the Tuckers and Hemstitchers and Millinery Workers have already endorsed the conference.

RAIL STRIKE IN PEKING DISTRICT

Nanking Prohibits All Walk-outs and Unions

(Int'l. Press Correspondence)

PEKING, (By Mail).—The workers and the railwaymen of Tchan-Sin-Tsien, the first station south of Peking on the Peking-Hankow line, have gone out on strike. The workers demand an increase of wages and the right to reform their forcibly dissolved union.

In line with the general policy of the Nanking regime to prevent the organization of unions the local civil and military authorities of Shanghai have published an ordinance prohibiting the declaration of strikes or the formation of new trade union organizations without the permission of the government or the Koumintang.

The ordinance declares among other things: "We draw the attention of the capitalists once again to the fact that they have no right to treat the workers badly or to dismiss them without good cause. The employers and the workers must strive to arrive at a mutual understanding and cooperation. All striking workers must immediately come to an agreement with the employers and resume work.

SOVIET EXPORT OF COAL SHOWS HUGE INCREASE

Don Anthracite Used Thruout World

MOSCOW, USSR., Sept. 10. — According to information of the Trust "Donugol" the export of the Don anthracite abroad greatly increased lately. Thus its export to France for the period of seven months of current operative year (October-April) was 20 per cent higher than English import on anthracite to France. The selling of Soviet anthracite in France is realized on a monopolist basis according to the contract of "Donugol" with one French firm. As it is reported from "Donugol" the demand for the Soviet anthracite in France notwithstanding its great import surpasses the supply.

In Italy where "Donugol" is acting about three years, the Don anthracite is also in a great demand.

In Greece and Turkey the Don anthracite is purchased mostly for filling the ship's bunkers.

Lately inquiries came for the Soviet anthracite from Switzerland, Denmark, Argentine, Canada and other countries.

The works which are at present carried out in the Don basin for construction of sorting and coal breaking machines will allow to issue a better kind of anthracite on the export market.

GIANTS WIN TWO; GAIN ON CARDINALS

The Giants yesterday took a double-header from the Boston Braves, 4-1 and 11-0. Fitzsimmons easily held the Braves in check, allowing but 7 hits in the first game. Bob Smith, once an outfielder, pitched fine ball for Boston, but did not get Fitzsimmons' support. The second game was a walk-away for the Giants. Genewich allowed the braves but 3 hits. Boston used Delaney, Edwards, Clarkson and Boggs in a vain effort to halt the Giant sluggers. The Giants gained a game and a half on St. Louis, whom Cincinnati beat, 7-2. The Cubs held second place despite being beaten by Pittsburgh, 7-5.

WEAVERS STRIKE IN RHODE ISLAND

75 Workers Demand Wage Raise

WARREN, R. I., Sept. 10.—Seventy-five weavers and helpers employed in the Warren Narrow Fabrics Co., walked out on strike recently due to the refusal of company officials to grant the men a wage increase and also to rehire a number of weavers who were laid off because of an alleged slackness.

The strike forced a complete closing down of production in the plant, and although the employers show a willingness to "talk business" on the question of the wage increase, the strikers refuse to return because the management declares its unwillingness to capitulate on the question of taking back to work the dismissed weavers.

17 Persons Killed in Train Smash-up

VIENNA, Sept. 10 (UP).—Reliable reports from Prague tonight said 17 persons had been killed when the Paris-Budapest express collided with a freight train.

A false signal was blamed for the accident.

The trains were running at about 40 miles an hour near the railway station of Saitz, near Lundengurg. At least 33 persons were injured.

The Czechoslovakian minister of railways went to the scene in an airplane.

Take Over Brooklyn Company

Acquisition by the United Light and Power Company of the American Light and Traction Company to form one of the largest utilities combines in the country was made public yesterday in a statement of profits which revealed an increase of over $4,000,000 of the consolidation over that of last year.

Negotiations have been conducted in secret between the Koppers and Mellon interests and have only recently been completed as a result of which a half billion dollar merger has been affected. The new consolidation follows close upon that of the Brooklyn Edison Company with the Consolidated Gas Company, a billion dollar merger.

The Brooklyn Borough Gas Company which is 90 per cent owned by the United Light and Power Company furnishes gas under perpetual franchise to the thirty-first ward of Brooklyn, the suburbs of Coney Island, Manhattan Beach and other sections. Other United subsidiaries are located in dozens of states throughout the country. The new consolidation further strengthens the hold of the Mellons in the public utility fields.

Only a Fighting Union Can Live in the Coal Industry

The voice of the Dictatorship of the Capitalist Class was heard through the mouth of Sheriff Brown of Allegheny County, who in the name of the law ordered the national convention of the New Miners' Union to disperse.

This "democratic" government, basically an iron dictatorship of the capitalist class, appears as a "democratic" government as long as it is not necessary in the interests of the capitalist class to show the iron fist. But when the vital interests of the ruling class demand it, the capitalist government appears in the role of an unlimited power, independent of "laws," "guarantees" and "legal procedure." The government for two days, and within one city, suddenly showed itself as a naked dictatorship. The coal miners and the steel workers have seen this often before. But the case this time is especially clear.

By learning the nature of government—learning that the state power is in all cases merely the organized power of one class for the purpose of suppression of another class by every instrument including persuasion, trickery and force and violence, the mine workers will begin to understand better how they can conduct their struggles more effectively.

Is there already some evidence that the coal miners are learning this lesson? Yes, the fact that the putting of the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot in Pennsylvania and Ohio was largely the work of the coal diggers of those states, is evidence that the coal miners have learned much from the exposures of capitalist government as unlimited violence of the employers against the workers.

There is still more to be learned from the action of the Pennsylvania authorities in attempting to suppress the Miners' Convention.

Not all workers have been clear in the past what the policy of the capitalist class and its government would be in regard to trade unions. Would the biggest capitalist employers in the basic and decisive industries adopt consciously a unified policy of complete and frank outlawing of all pretense of organization of the workers? Or would they adopt a policy of maintaining a sham of workers' organization under the employers' control, to act as a preventive of real organization by the workers themselves?

John L. Lewis and the bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. in their entire plan of action, adopt the latter of the two theories—the theory that the employers will consent to maintain permanently some sort of "union" organization to act as a subtle and powerful police force against the mine workers, to prevent strikes, break up all wage movements and to detect and expel any coal mine worker who may show signs of rebellion against conditions.

Recent events in the coal mining industry show that the mine operators even refuse to accept the scab "unionism" of John L. Lewis & Co. Accepting Lewis' "co-operation between capital and labor" until it had helped them to destroy the union, they then announced that they were "through with the U. M. W. of A." and would outlaw all forms of organization. Other corporation heads have long ago declared that company-unionism was no longer useful in controlling labor, and that the danger of workers' capturing even a company union made it best not to play with such things.

The coal operators will make use of Lewis and the officials machinery of the U. M. W. of A. in many more cases. Lewis' gangsters were still active with the police and company detectives in the bloody attack upon the Miners' Convention. The coal operators will still use this shell of organization as long as they can make it useful as a strikebreaking machine against the mine workers.

But the official shell of the U. M. W. of A. is forced to act so openly as a strikebreaking machine that it is compelled to expose itself.

The effectiveness of the Lewis strikebreaking machine in still deceiving some considerable numbers of mine workers, is the measure of its continued usefulness to the operators. A vigorous campaign of the New Union that was formed at Pittsburgh can solve this question.

The coal operators will use what tools they find handy. They will use Lewis and Sheriff Brown, separately and in combination, or anything else which may at the moment serve their purpose.

But one thing is sure: The dominant forces of American capitalist industry are aiming consciously for the complete elimination of unionism and every form of substitute for unionism—in the great basic industries.

The mine owners, and the finance-capitalist overlords most vitally interested, are determined to stamp out all semblance of unionism in the coal fields. Their sheriffs say so. Their guns and their cossacks say so.

These facts taken in conjunction with the experience in which the United Mine Workers crashed to its ruin under the efforts of Lewis to make it serve the capitalist mine owners and at the same time keep the confidence of the mine workers, go to show that already in the coal industry at the present time no weak union can live. The crisis in the industry compels the workers to fight or accept unbearable suffering. They fight. The union that keeps their loyalty will have to fight for them.

The great events in the mining industry, and above all the splendid national convention at Pittsburgh which founded the new Union, show that the only Union that can live in the coal industry is a militant fighting union.

Such a union has been founded. It is up to the mine workers themselves to build the magnificent structure which its broad base demands: One million coal miners must be reached! Build the new Union!

American Cooperative Movement

By GEORGE HALONEN

There is a tendency in the cooperative movements of the capitalist countries to "reform" this movement to make it an adjunct in the body of the capitalist system; and this attempt is being done although the cooperative movement is basically a proletarian movement. The economic interest of the exploited has created this movement, and this interest still demands it to be a movement to fight the battles of the working class.

Although the cooperative movement in America is relatively weak, the question of the character of the movement is of utmost importance for its future growth. Thus a step to undermine the working class character of the American movement is not to be ignored, but on the contrary should put all progressive cooperators not only on guard but also to enthuse them for further struggle for a genuine proletarian cooperative movement.

Middle Class Elements.

It is very significant that the Consumers Cooperative Services of New York and the Franklin Cooperative Creamery of Minneapolis are the cooperatives who have instigated a referendum on "Neutrality" among the affiliated societies of the Cooperative League of U. S. A. The social composition of the membership of these two cooperatives is not a proletarian one. The Consumers Cooperative Services has a chain of cafeterias mostly in non-proletarian districts of New York City. The Franklin Cooperative Creamery, although a cooperative organized as a direct result of a strike, has been losing its original working class fighting spirit by expanding with the help of middle class elements and private shop keepers.

These two cooperatives have submitted the following resolution to a referendum:

"Resolved that in the interest of harmony and unity, the Cooperative League hereby directs, by action of its constituent societies, the exclusion from discussion at its congresses of these two fields of divisive, controversial opinion:

1. Communist, socialist, and other political or economic theories.

2. The attitude cooperators and the cooperative movement should take toward such other political or economic programs and movements.

And Be It Further Resolved that the Board of Directors be authorized and instructed to apply this resolution and to define what constitutes such divisive or controversial discussion.

We are living in a class society in which the production relations determine the division of the people into different classes in accordance with their specific economic interests. Altho all are consumers, only a part of them owns and controls the means of production and by virtue of this ownership this part, the capitalist class, exploits the working class. Naturally the economic interests of these classes are different and this constitutes the basis of the struggle between these classes.

The cooperative movement, being a broad movement of those whose economic interest demands a change in the present system of society, cannot ignore these class alignments. To pretend to be "neutral" would in reality mean the supporting of the capitalist class.

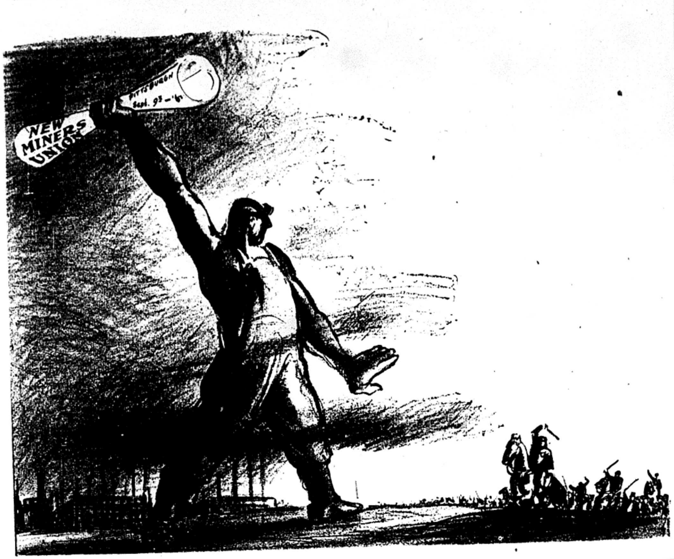
THE UNION CAN'T BE STOPPED

By Fred Ellis



On United States Imperialism

Comrade Pepper Analyzes Position of Labor Movement in United States

The following speech was delivered by Comrade John Pepper at the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International. It analyzes the position of American capitalism and the nature of the sharpening class struggle in the United States.

Comrades: the American comrades who spoke here took a somewhat critical attitude towards the thesis of Comrade Bukharin, I have to state that these comrades spoke only in their own name. In the name of the American delegation I am authorized to state that the American delegation fully agrees with the thesis of Comrade Bukharin. Small wonder that these comrades criticized the thesis of Comrade Bukharin—they had a very good reason to do that. They have an estimation of the present world position of American imperialism which differs fundamentally from the estimation given by Comrade Bukharin.

It is necessary to mention here that on the same day the thesis of Bukharin was distributed another document was distributed in the Anglo-American Secretariat of the Comintern called "The Right Danger in the American Party," signed by Comrades Bittelman, Foster, Cannon, etc. This document is not without significance for the discussion of the VIth World Congress on the international situation because it contains a basically different analysis of American imperialism and its role in the general world situation from that expressed by Comrade Bukharin in his speech and thesis.

Outstanding Features.

The outstanding features of the thesis are the following:

1. The continuing ascendancy of American imperialism.
2. The shifting of the economic centre of gravity from Europe to America.
3. The growing expansion and aggressiveness of American imperialism, the growing disproportion between the economic growth and power of American imperialism and its lack of colonies and its "insufficient" military preparedness.
4. The export of American capital was and is the basis for European stabilization of capitalism.
5. The very technical progress and increase of forces of production serve to increase the inner contradictions and outer conflicts of American imperialism, to sharpen the class struggle and the resistance of the working class.

This is the line of Bukharin's thesis regarding the world role of American imperialism.

The line of the document of the American comrades is a basically different line from that expressed in the thesis of Comrade Bukharin. I cite first the follwoing sentence:

"An analysis of the degree of rightness of these contradictions will show that American capitalism is about to reach the apex of growth."

The document says that it is an erroneous conception for American Party is erroneous because it is based on the growth of American imperialism instead of emphasizing the diminishing reserve powers of the same:

"This follows from a correct analysis of the diminishing reserve powers of American capitalism."

The document asserts that the American Party has "a different conception of the position and present phase of American capitalism," and it defines this conception as follows:

"The main emphasis upon the tendencies making for the growth and power of American capitalism."

The document says that it is an erroneous conception for the American Party to lay the main emphasis upon the tendencies making for the growth of American capitalism and dubs the estimation of the American Party "a dangerously opportunist conception."

These quotations prove sufficiently that there is a deep-going difference between the estimation of the thesis and the "document" of some American comrades. Comrade Stalin just a few days ago in Leningrad contrasted the ascending star of American imperialism to the setting star of British imperialism, and characterized America as the country of the gigantic growth of capitalism. It is unquestionably one of the thesis and the "document" of Comrade Bukharin's thesis that the whole world situation as regards imperialist powers revolves around the world hegemony of American imperialism. The world hegemony of American capitalism is today the axis of all capitalist relations in the world. An oversight of that amounts to political blindness. Not to emphasize that implies a basically different line.

Important Antagonisms.

Those comrades who maintain that American imperialism is already in its general decline, are afraid that if we analyze facts as they are and estimate realities as realities, if we state that there are still possibilities of growth of American capitalism—then we deny possibilities of increased outer and inner conflicts for American imperialism. This conception is gravely erroneous. Quite the contrary is the correct position. The very fact that American imperialism is growing, that its economic power is increasing with such unheard of speed is the basis of most important antagonisms within the capitalist world. Not the "diminishing reserve powers," but the economic world hegemony of American imperialism is the basis of its conflicts with British imperialism. The disproportion between the growing economic power of American imperialism on the one hand and the lack of colonial possessions, the lack as compared with the colonial empire of Great Britain and with the powerful British navy or the huge French Army is the real source of present-day imperialist conflicts.

The statement that the reserve powers of American imperialism are already diminishing is not borne out by the facts. How can one say that the reserves of American capitalism are already exhausted knowing the fact that just recently a large section of the American continent, the so-called solid South is being industrialized? America still has huge agrarian territories which in the first time in her history are becoming centres of highly centralized modern industry. The agricultural crisis is one of the sore spots in American capitalist economy. The source of the agricultural crisis is the growth of industry, trustification, the speedy progress of technique. Another sore spot in American capitalism is the crisis in the coal and textile industries. But again facts prove that the basis for these partial crises is the very technical progress and particularly the shifting of the centre of gravity of these industries to the south where cheaper water power and cheaper labor power can be obtained.

Imperialist Resources.

American imperialism still has gigantic resources and possibilities to grow. Facts show that the present economic depression is characterized by the following tendencies:

1. Trustification is asserting itself with irresistable power. Consolidations of railways, big combines and mergers in all industries are the order of the day. The special feature of the present situation is that not only individual corporations merge into trusts but trusts are already merging into veritable super-trusts.

2. A process of centralization similar to that in production is going on in the field of distribution. We failed so far to give a thorough analysis of this entirely new process of trustification of distribution. For the first time in the history of the capitalist world are we facing the phenomenon of trustification of distribution which creates a powerful material basis for socialism in future America.

How is it possible for these American comrades to have such a wrong conception of the estimation of American imperialism?

1. These comrades confuse the present depression which is a temporary phenomenon with the basic and general decline of American imperialism. They overlook the fact that the very rapid growth of American imperialism is responsible for the growing antagonism between America and other imperialist countries. They do not understand one of the most important thoughts of the thesis of Comrade Bukharin, according to which the main feature of the present situation is the growing inner and outer conflicts of imperialism based on the technical reconstruction and growth of capitalism. This is the special feature of the present situation in contra-distinction to the post-war crisis. American capitalism never needed any stabilization because it never suffered from a post-war crisis in the same sense as European capitalism.

3. The third source of the erroneous conception is the mistaking of a special acute decline of American imperialism for those elements of decline which are present in the imperialist development of all capitalist countries, such as the export of capital, the growth of parasitic elements, a rentier class, etc. The presence of these elements in not equivalent to an absolute decline of American imperialism, but it means the growth of contradictions in America capitalism.

4. Another source of the misunderstanding is the erroneous interpretation of Lenin's definition according to which imperialism is generally the period of decline of capitalism. But Lenin never said that the period of imperialism excludes the growth of capitalism or the rapid growth of capitalism in individual countries.

Imperialist Limitations.

Summing up: American capitalism still has possibilities to grow, it did not reach the apex of its growth, it still has huge reserve powers. At the same time we have to emphasize that American imperialism has its limitations, that it is necessary to analyze these factors which make up for the eventual downfall of American imperialism. What are these limitations?

1. The aggressive imperialist policies of the United States are creating many complications in world politics and it is inevitable that these complications will reflect themselves in the internal situation as well. The very aggressiveness of American imperialism calls for a growing resistance on the part of the other imperialist powers and of the Latin-American countries against U. S. imperialism. The imperialist aggressiveness of the U. S. makes necessary the building up of an extensive navy and army which means growing instability, increasing taxation, growing discontent of various strata of the population and growing resistance of the masses against imperialist aggressiveness.

2. The very technical progress of industries calls for partial crisis which stir up broad strata of workers. The industrialization of the south spells unemployment, wage cuts, insecurity of living for hundreds and thousands of workers in New England. The crisis in the mining industry serves as the basis for a fomentation among the huge masses of coalminers. The technical progress in agriculture, the very fact that in 1925 there were 200,000 and in 1927 already 700,000 tractors in use makes hundreds of thousands of farmers "superfluous" and creates a critical situation for large sections of the farming population of America.

3. The centralization and bureaucratization of the U. S. government is making headway all the time. The government is in a growing degree becoming merged with the apparatus of the trusts.

4. The inter-dependence between American capitalism and world capitalism manifests itself in a growing degree. The decay of European capitalism must affect the fate of American imperialism also.

5. America does not enjoy the same monopolistic situation as Great Britain did for decades. America has to face other powerful imperialist countries to compete with and therefore we can foresee that American imperialism will not be in the position to bribe large sections of the American working class for many more years.

6. Other limitations of American imperialism are: the existence of the U. S. S. R., the growing revolt of the colonies, and the growth of the revolutionary proletarian movements in Europe.

Hassell Expedition Reported Stranded

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 10 (UP).—The Greenland administration department announced today that a radio message from South Greenland reported the motorboat carrying Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, rescued Rockford, Ill., fliers, and their companion, Professor Hobbs of the University of Michigan expedition, to Greenland, had struck a rock and sank four miles from Simiutak at the mouth of the Simiutak Fiord last Thursday.

Told You So

THE London Daily Herald learns that the British government has decided to drop the secret Anglo-French naval pact because of the opposition of the United States. If this is true, "Nervous Nellie" Kellogg did not waste the time he spent playing golf in the Irish Free State. Austen Chamberlain is recovering from the effects of the secret pact, on an ocean liner bound for the southern part of the western hemisphere. Lord Cushendon, is recovering from the strain of silence imposed on him at the ceremonies attendant on the signing of the "anti-war" treaty in Paris and Lord Birkenhead, alias "Galloping Smith" is holding down the British Foreign Office in the absence of those two nervous gentlemen. If Smith ever has an attack of nerves it will not be due to enforced silence. He is as noisy as a whelp in a barrel.

AS additional proof that the Kellogg treaty is an instrument of peace, we offer free of charge to the socialist party, the Carnegie Peace Foundation, Nicholas Murray Butler, the Sulgrave Institute, and the recent German maneuvers in East Prussia. Fifty thousand troops participated, with representatives of all the leading military powers in attendance with the exception of England and France.

EDWARD S. HARKNESS, a Standard Oil Republican, dropped $10,000 into the Al Smith campaign fund treasury the other day and got his picture into the Morning World. If this picture does him justice the writer would not care to meet him on pay day. Harkness would certainly never make good as a taxi driver, for the good reason that no solvent traveler would give him instructions to drive to any destination except a police station. Yet it is possible that Mr. Harkness is a Rotarian, reads the American Mercury and has a good word to say for his mother. P. S. Harkness is a Republican by birth and force of habit.

SOMETHING terrible is in the air in placid Philadelphia.. It is nothing less than the suspicion that the police department is in cahoots with the bootleggers. The head of the city detectives has already been suspended and nothing can save him from a lot of embarrassment except perhaps a drive against radicals on the ground that they are undermining the integrity and diluting the patriotism of the workingclass population of Pennsylvania.

WILLIAM V. (Big Bill) DWYER, the ex-bootleg mahatma, who was recently paroled from Atlanta because of ill-health is again active in social life. You cannot keep a fellow like "Big Bill" out of business. A grateful friend is said to have handed the big boy a check for $500,000 on his return from the hoosegow. With this trifle Dwyer is reported to have organized a Hockey club and got himself elected treasurer.

GAMBLING KINGS, bootlegging barons, oil sultans, confidence wizards and bank presidents do not seem to have much difficulty in getting out of jail. In fact they have a much harder time getting in. But let a militant labor leader find himself on the wrong side of a penitentiary key hole and only a miniature revolution can get him out. Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings in California and the Centralia boys in Washington have been locked up now from eight to twelve years and the state authorities seem to be just as determined as ever to keep them imprisoned.

THE writer was reminded forcibly of the relationship between the police and the petty bourgeoisie recently after he was gypped out of four dollars by a cashier in a Third Avenue restaurant, which shall be named "Hell Gate" instead of the real name. When this customer indicated that the cashier was in danger of getting a crack on the button, he was challenged to call a cop. This he did not do, fearing that the first officer of the law he ran into, might be fondling a sealed envelope.

G. O. P.'s, Democrats Fear Communists in Poughkeepsie Debate

The Communist Party section at Poughkeepsie held its meeting without the participation of the republicans and democrats, who had been invited to debate with the Communists. No reason was given for their failure to attend, but it is generally supposed that they were indisposed.

Young students tried to break up the meeting of the 400 workers but failed after a miserable showing. The speakers were Si Gerson, Milton Weich, Rose Smith and others. A collection towards the election fund of the Communist Party was taken up and some applications for membership in the Party were obtained. The next meeting will take place next Friday.

BOSSES & BATTY TRYING TO MEND A. F. OF L. FENCES

Is Preliminary Step in Attempt to Break Big Mill Strike

Strike Lines Tighten

Council Rank and File Joining T. M. C.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 11.—In order that the approaching sell-out agreement expected to be reached soon between the mill bosses and W. E. G. Batty, secretary of the A. F. of L. Textile Council, should not appear too blatant, a little play was staged here today with Batty as chief actor. The manufacturers' association "made a proposal" to Batty yesterday that the workers accept the wage cut and in addition to that permit installation of the Batty-endorsed Frieder speed-up system. Taking his cue, Batty issued a statement refusing "unconditionally" to accept the bosses' demand.

This is recognized by the workers here as an attempt on the part of the employers to assist Batty in regaining at least some of the following the Textile Council had lost to the Textile Mill Committees.

At the full meeting of the employers organization, held till a late hour last night at the Wansutta Club, representatives of all the 56 mills tied up by the strike signed the statement demanding both the wage cut and the speed-up system. Even the "progressive" elements among the bosses, as the Batty [illegible] them, in several public statements, Batty and his numer-

Conference for Giant Press Bazaar Will Be Held Tomorrow Night

The Executive Committee of 25 elected at the last Bazaar Conference which was held on August 28 is calling all delegates to a second conference to take up the tasks of the Grant Press Bazaar which is only three weeks off. All the delegates from Workers Party Units, Labor and Fraternal Organizations that were present at the last conference are urged to attend the conference tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square.

The Executive Committee urges all organizations that were not represented at the last conference to send three delegates.

Barred by Misleaders

Elt Keller, general organizer of the New Bedford Textile Workers Union of the Textile Mill Committees, and general manager of the district council of textile workers of the United Textile Workers of America, Passaic Local 1618 of which he is president. Keller has just been excluded from the National Council of the U. T. W. in New York City on the grounds that he was a member of the "Young Workers Party," which does not exist, and of the Textile Mill Committees. Ellen Dawson, an organizer of Textile Mill Committees, secretary of Local 1619 of the U. T. W., was excluded at the same time.

WORKERS CHEER FOSTER AT MEET

$165 Is Collected in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 11.—Five hundred enthusiastic workers listened intently while William Z. Foster, Communist presidential candidate, called on them to support the election campaign program of the Workers (Communist) Party at Bahn Frei Hall here last night.

Foster's appearance in the hall was the signal for a tremendous demonstration which lasted several minutes. The workers responded generously to an appeal for contributions to the Communist campaign fund and $165 was collected. A large number of Party platforms was sold and several membership applications were filled out.

CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT.

YUMA, Ariz., Sept. 11 (UP).—Edward Ballough, Chicago, was lap leader for the second consecutive day when he led the flyers in the Class B trans-continental air race into Yuma from El Paso, Tex., today. He arrived at 10.04 a. m.

RED ELECTION FUNDS NEEDED

Having succeeded despite obstacles that appeared insurmountable, in placing the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot in nineteen states, the National Election Campaign Committee must now fight to keep the ticket on the ballot in several of those states.

Since the Party had to be placed on the ballot by petition, having no legal standing, thousands of dollars had to be spent on organizers sent out to organize the drive for the collection of signatures.

Having complied with all the regulations for placing a new party on the ballot, despite the handicaps imposed by the capitalist governments of the states, the ruling classes in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas, are using every legal trick to throw out the Communist petitions.

Where the state authorities cannot do their dirty work under some legal pretense they are using the American Legion and other fascist organizations.

In the state of Kansas, our district organizer, Hugo Oehler and several active Party workers have been arrested, charged with a violation of the vicious criminal [illegible] law of that state.

THE NATIONAL ELECTION CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE INTENDS TO FIGHT TO KEEP THE COMMUNIST TICKET ON THE BALLOT IN KANSAS AND IN EVERY OTHER STATE.

Money is needed immediately for this purpose. Wire your contributions. If you are broke borrow. You never borrowed for a worthier cause. Collect everywhere—in shops, from your friends at your union meeting and fraternal organizations.

Send all funds ONLY to National Election Campaign Committee, Workers (Communist) Party, 43 East 125th Street, New York City, Alexander Trachtenberg, Treasurer.

The sections of the Workers (Communist) Party of District 2 are not lagging behind in the preparations for the great Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar which will transform Madison Square Garden on October 4, 5, 6 and 7 into a huge proletarian market center.

Four of the sections, 1, 2, 3 and 5, have already decided to have booths of their own at the bazaar and have begun collecting articles for them. Other sections of District 2 are holding conferences this week and will also make plans for aiding the bazaar. It is planned to mobilize every member of the Workers (Communist) Party in District 2, which includes New York City and New Jersey, in the preparatory Rust is also the inventor of the cotton picker with which he is shown in the picture, the first successful picker which farmers in general can afford to buy.

McMAHON PLEA TO BOSS' SOULS

Makes Vicious Attack on Militants

"Appeal to the soul of the people, to civic, social and fraternal organizations; appeal to bankers and business men for the forty-hour week," preached Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers Union, while he was delivering his report to the convention which last night finished its second day in the Great Northern Hotel.

The rest of McMahon's report, besides being a vicious attack on progressive forces in the textile industry, presented a picture of the almost complete decay of a so-called International organization. All that an elaborate and expensive organization apparatus of a union in the almost completely unorganized textile industry can boast about in two years is a gain in membership by a

RIGHT WING THUGS HELD IN STABBING

Gangsters Who Slash Butchers Under Bail

The holding of William Schiffrin without bail on a charge of homicide, and the continuation of the hearing of witnesses till Friday in 161st St. Magistrate's Court were the latest events developing out of the bloody battle between five right wing thugs of the butchers' union and Schiffrin, which ended in the death of the thug leader and the wounding of a second of the underworld squad, when Schiffrin fought back his assailants.

Testimony rendered by eye-witnesses who included passersby neighborhood residents, etc., was so overwhelming that Magistrate Dodge decided to hold three of the right wing thugs, who were caught on the scene of the battle with drawn knives, under bail of $1,500. They are Louis Katzman, Louis Posner and Hyman Zlotnikovitz. Two companions of Schiffrin, Max Kluger and Dave Newberg, who were isolated from him when the thugs attacked were also held under the same bail, to testify in Friday's hearing.

DELAY TRIAL OF OEHLER GROUP TO AID IN FRAME-UP

Prosecutor Seeks Time to Strengthen Case

Hand of Armour Co.

Criminal Syndicalism Is Charge

(Special to the Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 11.—In an obvious effort to get more time to strengthen its flabby case, the prosecution today asked for a postponement of the trial against Hugo Oehler, Workers Party district organizer, and seven workers held on a charge of having violating the state criminal syndicalist law. They were arrested upon the instigation of the Armour Company here at a Sacco-Vanzetti memorial demonstration on Aug. 22.

The defense has already presented its case, and with the prosecutor's request for the delay having been granted, he will present his argument on Sept. 24. Lawyers for the defendants today put in a motion to dismiss the indictments on the ground of insufficient evidence, and Judge Gates took it "under advisement."

The prosecution introduced in evidence copies of the Workers (Communist) Party platform; "The Life and Death of Sacco and Vanzetti," by Eugene Lyons; several copies of the "Labor Defender"; a leaflet, "We Stand Firm," issued by the Communist nucleus at the Armour plant; and copies of the Daily Worker containing special articles and photographs on Sacco and Vanzetti and a speech by Bukharin.

Two witnesses are being depended upon by the prosecution in its frame-up of the militant workers. These are Capt. Beety, of the Kansas City police, and R. R. Maiden, formerly second in command to the chief of the Colorado state police. Maiden is now a federal prohibition agent and strikebreaker. He came to Kansas City to help the Armour interests in their fight against the growing influence of the Workers Party in the west.

These two worthies, together with other company and state stool-pigeons, are exerting all efforts to railroad the eight workers to long prison terms. Workers thruout the city, whose indignation at the brutal police attack on the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting has not yet subsided, are incensed at the arrest of their comrades and have started a wide protest movement demanding that the eight workers be freed. The International Labor Defense is defending the workers.

Detailed plans for conducting the drive were enthusiastically discussed by the "Daily" agents, especially the arrangement made with the agitprop department of the District

Defends Anglo-French War Treaty at Geneva

GENEVA, Sept. 11.—Under cover of a plea for "disarmament" separate agreements and treaties between powers were advocated by Lord Cushendun, acting foreign minister of England, at this morning's session of the assembly of the League of Nations.

Declaring that each state "has a right to judge for itself the level of armaments necessary for its security," Cushendun stated that great difficulties would be met in the practical carrying out of disarmament, which, he thought, would never be fully accomplished because of the development of new means of warfare. By these he means especially air and gas armaments.

"New arms have been developed," he said, "especially in the aerial and chemical fields. That presents new difficulties. You can count guns, men and ships, but you cannot estimate the possibilities of these new arms, which are also imperative for commercial use and development."

As a solution of these difficulties Cushendun proposed separate treaties. He said, "It is necessary for states to reach agreements among themselves, owing to their different needs and their constitutional, parliamentary, geographical and other differences. That necessitates long negotiations."

In this way, it is generally

By JACK LEE.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 11.—"Lewis and his corrupt clique can no longer speak in the name of the coal miners. We call upon the rank and file in all fields to refuse to recognize any wage cut agreements signed by this discredited clique and to fight against the check-off thereby destroying the possibility of this group keeping the coal diggers enslaved to its company union."

In these ringing words the general executive board of the newly formed National Miners' Union today sent broadcast its message of encouragement to the thousands of coal miners throughout the country who are awaiting the outcome of the convention proceedings now winding up in this city.

Draw Up Constitution.

Today's session of the general executive board was concerned chiefly with completing work on the new union's constitution drawn up yesterday which will be submitted to the membership for ratification and amendment.

No more arrests of mine delegates took place today, following the two day reign of unprecedented terror on the part of the Pittsburgh police who Sunday carried out wholesale raids resulting in the arrest of over one hundred delegates. The Lewis gangster army is still following the convention delegates around the city in automobiles. Precautions have been taken to prevent further attacks by the Lewis thugs.

Moran Dies.

George Moran, Bentleyville militant miner who was shot last Friday by Louis Carboni, a Lewis hireling, has died, it was learned here today. Frank Kovac, who was fired on at the same time is still in a critical condition. Tony Calamari of Charleroi, who was Sunday beaten into unconsciousness by Lewis gangsters and whose life has been despaired of, is said to be slowly improving.

Portray Speed-up.

In a lengthy analysis of the present mine situation embodying a statement on policy adopted by the convention, the executive board of the new union has drawn up a record of the profits of the coal barons, a picture of the speed-up, the unemployment and starvation which the coal diggers are facing.

The statement calls attention to the systematic betrayal of the miners by the Lewis machine through the signing of separate districts and the abandonment of the Jacksonville scale resulting in the practical extermination of the United Mine Workers of America. "Lewis and his corrupt clique can no longer

Held Membership Meet Last Night

A manifesto was issued by a membership meeting of the fur workers held last night in Irving Plaza, 15th Street and Irving Place, which was addressed especially to all workers who were compelled to register with the scab A. F. of L. Joint Council, but who are anxious to resume membership in the Joint Board. A great obstacle to the joining of such workers has been the problem of becoming in good standing by payments of back dues.

The manifesto, voted for unanimously by the enthusiastic gathering, announced to the registered workers that the Joint Board is ready to cancel all arrear dues and that an up-to-date book can be obtained upon payment of the $25 tax levied by general decree soon after the big 1926 general strike.

All fur workers not yet members of the Joint Board are called upon to join up so that a more effective drive can be launched for the organization of the trade thru the new national union planned.

Tank Kills Girl in British War Maneuver

LONDON, Sept. 11 (UP).—An army tank ran over and killed a girl spectator during maneuvers near Camp Hill today.

The accident, first of its kind ever recorded, occurred while the Royal Tank Battalion was returning from a mimic battle. The tank emerged from behind a truck and crushed the girl while horrified spectators looked on. The victim's name was not learned.

ERECT TOLSTOY STATUE

Is a Symbol of New and Free Russia

Special Cable to The Daily Worker

MOSCOW, Sept. 11.—The Tolstoi celebration week began in the Soviet Union in the big theater where members of the Soviet Government, relatives of Tolstoi and foreign guests spoke.

Lunarcharsky in speaking on Tolstoi and the revolution analyzed Tolstoi's work from the Marxist standpoint and declared that the working class honored Tolstoi as a great artist but rejected his "non-resistance" theories as reactionary and Utopian.

Stephan Zweig, well-known German author who analyzed the effect of Tolstoi on European culture, was greeted with applause. The celebration concluded with the performance of Tolstoi's favorite pieces in music.

HARBOR STRIKE IN AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 11.—A complete tie-up of all Australian ports was effected today following the repudiation by the Waterside Workers Federation of the latest decision of the arbitration court.

The strikers declare that the decision of the arbitration court is not acceptable to them and that they will fight to the finish to secure its retraction.

Commerce is at a standstill in every harbor and the owners are already reported to be importuning the authorities to bring pressure to bear on the strikers to return to work.

LL STRIKERS TANDING FIRM, W. I. R. REPORTS

orkers are Grateful for Relief relief investigating committee ing into the living conditions of New Bedford and Fall River strikers yesterday reported despite the twenty-one weeks struggle the textile workers will out until victory, according to Beidenkapp, national secretary the Workers International Relief, acted as head of the committee.

Visit Workers' Homes.

"We visited scores of homes and each case the workers repeatedly that they will stand by the Mill Committee until the -cut notices are taken down and substantial increase in wages is ," Beidenkapp said.

"Take the case of Joseph Me-, a striker," the textile relief said. "Medeiros has worked the New Bedford mills ever since was a lad, twenty-five years ago. is married and has nine children. when he was working full time most he ever made was $20 a . He lives in three rooms, one which is a kitchen. Think of it— people in three rooms.

W. I. R. Helps.

"When we asked his wife how she managed to feed and clothe 11 people on $20 a week she smiled ly. A consumptive girl of 14, eldest, sat in a corner of one of miserable rooms and coughed fully.

"But when the magic words—Workers International Relief—was tioned, the faces of this unhappy tuguese family lighted up and Medeiros said in his native guage, 'If the relief committee us, we'll strike until we win.'"

As members of the committee left the house, Beidenkapp said, the little -year-old consumptive said, "Don't get my milk."

The Workers International Relief fighting hard to make it possible the heroic New Bedford and Fall River strikers to 'carry on,' Beidenkapp said in conclusion.

APTIST CHIEF IN GRAFT MESS

harge Treasurer Had Spent Funds on Girls

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 11 (UP). —An indictment charging embezzlement of $69,000 from the Southern Baptist Convention Home Mission Board was returned today against nton S. Carnes, former treasurer of the board, who disappeared August 15.

The indictment was returned by the Fulton county grand jury and officials in the office of Solicitor General John Boykin, of Fulton county, said it was only the first of a number of indictments expected to be returned as auditors continue their survey of the mission board's books.

Carnes left a shortage of approximately $1,000,000 when he disappeared, officials of the mission board claim. Much of the money was invested in Atlanta real estate and assets of nearly $20,000 have been turned over to the church by Carnes' family to help make up the shortage.

It was disclosed he aided two Atlanta girls in their moving picture careers. More than $13,000 has been paid the girls in the past year, it is claimed, and Carnes was to have received a percentage of their stage contracts in remuneration.

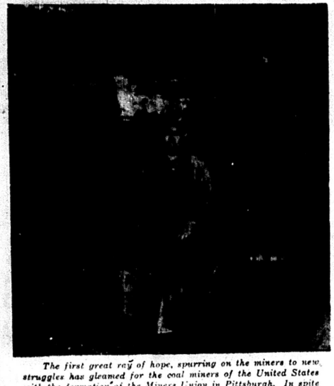
Two warrants have been issued for Carnes' arrest. One was sworn out last Friday by Dr. L. R. Christie, president of the board, and a bench warrant was issued today by Judge D. Thomas immediately after the indictment was returned.

Bond, in case Carnes is arrested, has been set at $50,000.

MOLDERS RAISE WAGES.

SEATTLE.—Molders raised their minimum wage to $7.50 a day after a short strike. The former minimum was $6.40, but several employers paid more than this rate. The average increase is 60 cents a day.

New Miners Union Is New Hope to Them



The first great ray of hope, spurring on the miners to new struggles has gleamed for the coal miners of the United States with the formation of the Miners Union in Pittsburgh. In spite of the terror launched against the rank and file delegates, the Lewis agents were unable to smash the Miners Convention. The police assisted the Lewis gangsters. Above, typical miners in the depth of a mine.

WATT TO TELL MINERS' STORY

Relief Meeting on September 20

With the formation of the New National Miners Union at the historic Pittsburgh convention and the launching of a campaign to unite all of the nearly 1,000,000 coal diggers in this country in one powerful, militant organization, the monster solidarity mass meeting to be held in New York City Thursday evening, September 20, becomes an event of unusual significance for every worker in this city and vicinity.

At this meeting, which will be held in Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., John Watt, first president of the new union, will appear to tell the workers of New York the story of one of the greatest events in the history of the American labor movement. Watt, who has been one of the outstanding figures in the fight for the miners against the unholy triple alliance of bosses, police and the corrupt Lewis machine, will bring a report of the great Pittsburgh convention, will describe the attack of the police and 200 Lewis thugs on its first session and will discuss in detail all the events leading up to the historic moment when the New National Miners Union became a reality.

Watt, who has fought side by side with the thousands of other rank and file miners during their desperate 17 months strike, will describe the terrible sufferings of the miners and their families, and their struggles against starvation, eviction and disease—struggles which are still going on. He will appeal to the New York workers to back the new union to the utmost by aiding the miners and their families.

Leaders of workers' struggles in other trades will also speak and bring the message of solidarity of all the workers in their fight against their oppressors.

Nine Planes Line Up for Non-Stop Flight Over U. S.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Sept. 11 (UP).—Nine of the first airplanes in the country were being tuned up here tonight for a flight only one plane ever has succeeded in making—a non-stop trip across the North American Continent from east to west.

Weather permitting, the planes will leave here some time between 7 a. m. and 5 p. m., Wednesday. No starting order has been arranged for the race, each plane taking the runway when ready to leave.

The favorite at the start is Art Goebel, who recently flew his Yankee Doodle plane from west to east across the continent without a stop

WILL CELEBRATE INT'L YOUTH DAY

20 Pioneers Graduate September 14

Over 20 Young Pioneers will graduate at the International Youth Day celebration this year, which will take place Friday, Sept. 14, at 8 p. m., in Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Place. These Pioneers, having received their training and education along working class lines, will now become young Communists and League members.

The Pioneer graduates will march up in a body to the platform, in their Pioneer uniforms, one of their number will speak in the name of the entire group, and they will be welcomed into the League by the chairman of the meeting, Carl Winters.

Besides the Pioneer graduation there will be quite an interesting program for the evening. The American Revolutionary Youth Chorus will sing and then the Sports Club will perform. There will be several violin selections by a member of the League. The speakers for the evening will be John J. Ballam, Philip Frankfeld, Morris Yusem, Ed. Welsh and Carl Winters, chairman.

Makes Corrections on "Unity Goes Over the Top for the 'Daily'"

Editor, the Daily Worker:

I hereby acknowledge the fact that I read, appreciated and enjoyed the story "Camp Unity Goes Over the Top for the 'Daily'" which appeared in last Saturday's issue of the Daily Worker. It would undoubtedly have been a fine report since it bestowed such high praise upon myself, and were it not for a few oversights on the part of the comrade who wrote it, the article would have been much better. Incidentally, the article was excellently written.

I hereby place the following corrections: David Siegel did not make himself "into a popular hero in gathering funds for the 'Daily." Instead of Comrade Siegel, the manager of the Unity Co-operative, this passage should have been read that: "Comrade Sheck, active comrade of the Freiheit Singing Society, made himself into a popular hero," etc.

Almost the same as to Siegel applies the reference to Comrade Sultan. The real driving force in the campaign for the "Daily" was the kitchen and dining room staff of the Unity Camp. They contributed the bulk of the sum of money raised, and they were those who successfully collected from the campers.

Comradely yours,

—WILLIAM ABRAMS.

ACCOUNTS WEEK FOR DISTRICT 2, WORKERS PARTY

Workers Party Roll to Be Taken

The week of September 24-31 is to be set aside as a week of investigation into the activities of every member of District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party, when a roll call will be taken of attendance and Party activities, according to a statement by John J. Ballam, acting district organizer. The statement follows:

"To all units in District 2:

"One of the fundamental principles of procedure in a Bolshevik Party is the strict accountability of every Party member, from the highest to the lowest. Therefore we have established a period from September 24 to 31, during which all units are called upon to examine the record of activity of every Party member and pass judgment in each case as to whether this record is satisfactory or not. The particular phases of activity which will be subject for review will be the following: 1. Good standing. 2. Attendance at unit meetings. 3. Payment of campaign assessment stamp. 4. Activity in union. 5. Activity in fraternal or auxiliary organizations. 6. Activity in shops. 7. Activity in the election campaign.

"With the increasing menace of the war danger, with the intensification of struggles in which our Party members are engaged, with the numerous and direct attacks upon our Party (Astoria, Bayridge, etc.), it becomes necessary to demand of our Party membership a stricter response to the tasks which are laid down by the leading Party committees. The critical period ahead demands that every Party member shoulder in a Bolshevik manner the full responsibilities which such membership entails.

"Every unit is instructed to carry on a complete roll of its membership during the week of September 24 to 31 for the purpose of checking up the activity of each member. In order to insure an accurate report on each Party member, every comrade must attend the unit meeting held during this week. All reports are to be sent to the District Office, to the section or sub-section organizer immediately after the unit meeting."

WORKING YOUTH RALLY FOR MEET

Shoe Workers Endorse Conference

Joseph Magliacamo, general organizer of the Independent Shoe Workers of Greater New York and vicinity, and H. Levine, the business agent of the same union, issued a statement yesterday endorsing the Working Youth Conference.

They said: "We, the Independent Shoe Workers of Greater New York and vicinity, were in the provisional committee from the very beginning. The Independent Shoe Workers is out to organize the industry 100 per cent in New York and vicinity, and we realize that we will not be able to do this without drawing the young shoe workers into the union.

"The Working Youth Conference, which will take place Saturday and Sunday, September 29 and 30, deserves the wholehearted support of every progressive and left-wing worker, not only in the shoe industry, but in all industries in New York."

Three Scabs Injured in Attack on Pickets

Three strikebreakers employed by the Reliable Suit Case Company of 335 Canal St. are said to have been injured when they attacked a number of pickets of the Suitcase, Bag and Portfolio Makers' Union.

The company is attempting to operate a non-union shop. Recently leaders of the union, against the will of the rank and file, secured an injunction against the company. The injunction expired on September 1 after which the firm renewed its union smashing campaign.

First Conference of the NeedleTradeCampaign Committee for Tonight

The first meeting of the Needle Trades Election Campaign Committee—elected out of the large mass meeting held on August 29th which was addressed by Benjamin Gitlow, Communist candidate for vice-president, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square, Room 601.

In a joint statement issued last night Rebecca Grecht, Campaign Manager of the Workers (Communist) Party and H. Sazar, Secretary of the Needle Trades T. U. E. L., urged all members of the Needle Trades Campaign Committee to attend this meeting. "A special opportunity exists for the carrying on of the Communist election campaign among the needle trades workers," the statement reads in part, "but if we are to take advantage of this opportunity we must, get to work now and lay plans for the work. Needle trades workers have through bitter experience learned that their industrial demands cannot be separated from the ticket they vote and the platform they support at election time."

BIG "DAILY" SUB CAMPAIGN OPENS

Great Enthusiasm at Agents Meeting

2, Workers (Communist) Party, for having speakers on the Daily Worker at every open-air meeting and campaign rally.

Thousands of attractive posters, advertising the "Daily," are being distributed throughout the city, it was reported. Systematic distributions in front of the large factories and union headquarters are being organized, with the co-operation of the Party units and with squads of Communist newsboys in various sections of the city.

Mass Distributions.

Mass distributions of the Daily Worker in working-class sections of the city are being conducted each day in order to acquaint New York workers with their own militant daily, it was announced at the meeting last night.

Speakers emphasized the fact that efforts must be made to build the Party press in the Negro sections in Harlem—that every reader must see that a copy of the paper is placed in the hands of his friends and shop-mates during the period of the subscription drive in order to gain them as readers of the Daily Worker.

Stage Play Broadcast by Television

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 11 (UP).—A new world of amusement was unlocked for the first time here today in an epochal demonstration of the first television broadcasting of a stage play, in which the images and voices of the actors went over radio in perfect synchronization.

Furthermore, they were perfectly received by a somewhat awe-struck audience of newspaper correspondents gathered as the guests of Station WGY of the General Electric Company and Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, consulting engineer of General Electric and chief consulting engineer of the Radio Corporation of America.

Makes Vicious Attack on Militants

merger with the independent reactionary union in New Bedford. And even this gain is now being lost because the New Bedford union has already lost more than two-thirds of the members that it had at the time of the merger by the defection of strikers to the ranks of the Textile Mill Committees.

Fat Expense Accounts.

Yesterday's entire session was almost completely taken up with the overwhelming wordy report of the president. A short but very telltale report of finances was rendered which besides proving how extremely well treated the officials are in the matter of "expenses," showed the impoverishment of an allegedly national organization. No discussion was held by delegates yesterday.

The expulsion from the convention of two militant delegates yesterday served notice that a trumpet call to battle against all progressive forces could be expected from the officialdom. The expected took place when McMahon launched a scurrilous attack on the T. M. C., on the left wing leaders' conduct of the great Passaic strike and particularly on Albert Weisbord its leader. This hysterical attack ended with the declaration that all Communists and their sympathizers would be rooted out of the organization.

The tremendous problem of organizing the more than a million unorganized and exploited mill operatives was considered far less important than an attack on those who have proven themselves the most sacrificing and the most devoted members of the union. The serious problem of perpetual unemployment in the industry, McMahon proposes to solve by "appealing to the souls of bankers and business men," delegates from the few militant locals bitterly remarked.

Condemn McMahon.

These progressive delegates also condemned McMahon's craven, if not openly traitorous policy on the injunction evil, which the textile workers suffer from to a very large degree. McMahon proposed that the union criticize the "abuse" of the injunction, and that it call for its more careful use.

Other interesting and amusing features of the session yesterday was the speech delivered by A. J. Muste, dean of the Brookwood Labor College. Muste cried bitterly at the injustice being done him by the A. F. of L. in charging his college with being a Communist hive. Particularly amusing was the slip made by Organizer Starr, who unwittingly testified that McMahon was lieing outright when he charged Weisbord with "quitting cold" the Passaic strikers. Starr in the beginning of his report of activities in Passaic began saying: "When we took charge after Weisbord had agreed to step out of the picture."

The finance report showed that despite the comparatively small salary pulled down by McMahon, namely $3,622 per annum, he was by no means suffering real want. His chops and soft quilts were paid for by an expense sheet totalling $5,895.50, thus leaving a plump margin to stow away, even if the figures given in the report are true. Other innumerable "traveling" organizers also received good treatment.

Right Wing Thugs are Held in Stabbing

ing the attack are developed as follows, according to testimony. Six members of the Butchers' Union were expelled from membership because of their demand that the finances of the union be investigated. The expulsion was followed up by an immediate attempt to remove them and all other left wingers from their jobs.

Thugs Attack.

In conducting this expulsion campaign, thugs were sent to the butcher shop of A. Oxman, 598 Prospect Ave., to order the employer to deprive Louis Lassowitz, left winger from his means of livelihood. The employer refused to heed the order whereupon the gangsters thratened the workers that if they came back later to find him still at work "he would be carried out."

Lassowitz then called up several friends of his and William Schiffrin and Max Kluger, butcher worker, came around to the shop to protect their fellow-worker from the right wing hirelings. On reaching the shop, Schiffrin and Kluger, finding no sign of the gang near the butcher shop, walked out on the avenue to go home. On reaching Beck St. and Johns Ave. they suddenly saw a large closed car pull to the curb and five of the six men in the car jumped out and rushed toward the two workers with drawn knives. Kluger had time to run, but not Schiffrin, who was forced against the wall of a building when he backed away.

Protests Himself.

Desperately trying to save himself from the ferocious onslaught of the five knife-wielding thugs, Schiffrin drew a penknife and swung it back and forth before him to keep off the rapidly closing circle of cutthroats.

Harry Silver, leader of the attacking squad, came in too close and received a wound above the heart, from which he died later in the Lincoln Hospital. Another of Silver's men received a cut on the arm when he, too, lunged forward with his knife.

Henry O. Kahn and Joseph Brodsky were the attorneys of the defendants, and Samuel Markewitz, notorious right wing hireling, was trying to frame up a murder harge against Schiffrin and his companions.

250 PLAYHOUSES FALL INTO LAP OF BIG COMBINE

Movement Is Spreading Thruout U. S.

A move toward the most extensive merger in the history of the theatre business was made yesterday, when Warner Brothers acquired a controling interest in the Stanley Company's chain of more than 250 theatres in the east.

While it was not announced officially, officials of the Warner Company yesterday admitted that the merger had "come to a head."

At the same time the giant theatrical octopus is negotiating with the Keith-Albee interests. Together the huge combine will total $250,-00,000, reaching its tentacles to all parts of the United States.

Movement Spreading.

That the merger movement will not stop here, but will spread into the vaudeville field, was also indicated yesterday. Rumors persist that the Shubert interests will be bought out in the present wave of financial amalgamation.

The Stanley Company, which is being bought out by the Warner Brothers, in addition to its great chain of movie houses, controls First National Pictures and is already associated with the Keith-Albee Circuit in New England.

GIRL PICKETS IN HUNGER STRIKE

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 11.—Mertice Hudson, eighteen years old, and Amanda Rittmer, twenty-one, both militants in the strike of the hosiery workers here, have gone on a hunger strike following their arrest Monday by police at the Allen-A factory during a demonstration of pickets.

Mertice Hudson has been arrested seven times for her strike activities. The charge against the pickets was disorderly conduct and both are being held under $50 bail.

Spanish Fascists Arrest More Than 300 in Raid; Army Reported on Verge of Outbreaks

REVOLT LOOMS IN CATALONIA; MANY IN JAILS

Allege "Plot" Aims to End De Rivera Regime

MADRID, Spain, Sept. 11.—The interior department of the Spanish government admitted today that orders for the arrest of members of an alleged conspiracy to overthrow the de Rivera regime had been issued last midnight. It was added that the police spent the remainder of the night searching the homes of suspected persons and carrying them to the police stations in taxicabs for further examination.

The police today refused to announce the number of arrests that had been made but intimated that it was in the neighborhood of 300.

This statement was made today following the official announcement that a new conspiracy to overthrow the existing government had been unearthed.

Officials of the government declare that the conspiracy had ramifications thruout the country and charge that the participants in the "plot" were enlisting the support of the soldiers in their cause and that large sections of the army are extremely discontented. Fear was expressed that disturbances among soldiers in many regions of the country may be expected.

A significant feature of today's disclosures is the extent to which the alleged conspiracy has spread in Catalonia. A revolt in this province, where unrest has been brewing for months, is foreseen as a not remote possibility of the present situation.

Many arrests are reported from Barcelona.

Reports of wholesale arrests came from the provinces, principally Catalonia, Valencia, Asturias and Andalusia. They included many radicals and soldiers.

OLGIN TO SPEAK AT RELIEF MEET

Master Film Will Be Shown Saturday

An urgent appeal has just come from New Bedford strikers to send shoes and clothing, particularly for the children, who have gone barefoot all summer in any old kind of makeshift clothes. They cannot go barefoot to school until they get clothes and shoes.

The Workers' International Textile Relief Conference on Saturday, September 15, will be called on to meet this emergency in addition to organizing for continuous support for the strikers.

Unions and fraternal organizations that have not yet sent in their delegates are requested to do so immediately, according to a statement issued by the secretary of Local New York, Harriet Silverman, urging organizations to make every effort to be represented in this important conference.

An appeal for relief will be made by Moissaye J. Olgin and Fred Biedenkapp at the conference. Olgin will also make an appeal at the motion picture performances to be held Saturday evening at the Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Ave.

Posters have been made for display by workers' organizations and may be had by calling at the office of Local New York, W. I. R., 1 Union Square, New York City, Room 604.

Hassell Reaches South Greenland

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 11 (UP).—Bert Hassell and Parker D. Cramer, American aviators, and Prof. W. H. Hobbs, of the University of Michigan expedition to Greenland, have reached Godthaab, the sheriff of South Greenland advised the Greenland administration department today.

The fliers, with Hobbs and three other Americans, were rescued from the mouth of Simiutak Fjord, where they landed after their motorboat hit a rock and sank, the message said.

He is shown landing at the Battery.

COMMUNIST INT'L CHOOSES EXECUTIVE

speeches of Gorkitch and Chitarov was continued under the chairmanship of Hrsel. The following spoke: Lippe, Norway; Miura, Japan; Jurr, Germany; Williamson, United States; Achja, Esthonia; Boiko, Bulgaria; Gross, Holland; Gregoriov, Soviet Union; Holmberg, Sweden; Mitrovitch, Yugoslavia; Williams, Belgium; Young, Executive Committee of the Y. C. I., and Wagner, of Czechoslovakia.

Williamson, of the U. S. A., said in his speech: "Rationalization and the increased exploitation of the youth in the United States of America caused a leftward tendency among the young workers. Despite favorable conditions the American League won neither politically nor organizationally. Immigration increased the masses of young unqualified workers and increases the supply of cheap labor power. Youth sections must be founded in the new unions. The influence of the bourgeois youth organizations is growing, but unfortunately an opposition movement does not exist. The percentage of young workers in the American League is falling, whereas the percentage of students is growing. Party leadership fails to see great alterations taking place in the U. S. A., and thinks the new line of the Communist International applies only to Europe. The result is right wing errors. The Y. C. I. policy is the only basis for struggle against factionalism. Increased attention must be paid to revolutionary movement in Latin-America."

The seventh session was presided over by Beniero and was devoted to a continuation of the discussion. The following spoke: Mamhud, India; Anderson, Finland; Andrevski, Poland; Tapsel, Britain; Leibbrandt, Executive Committee of the Young Communist International; Vassiliev, Soviet Union; Yakubovitz, Poland; Siegenthaler, Switzerland; Limanovski, Poland; Geminder, Executive Committee of the Young Communist International, and Ilinski, Soviet Union.

British League Gains.

Tapsel declared: "The Boy Scouts are organizing an international meeting next year. Our task is work among the delegations. The British League is gaining members, but the number of factory groups is diminishing. The reasons are the terror of the employers and the trade union bureaucrats, mass unemployment and lack of trained officials. Youth sections are being organized in the Labor League of Ex-Servicemen."

Gyptner was chairman of the eighth session. The discussion continued, the following speaking: Longe, Italy; Christenson, Denmark; Onofrio, Argentine; Schueller, Executive Committee of the Young Communist International; Milano, Uruguay; Bohl, Austria, and Pereira, Brazil.

Must Fight Reformists.

Schueller said: "The slogan of self-criticism must be issued in the Leagues. The change in the tactics of the Communist International would have been impossible without self-criticism. The Fifth Youth Congress must introduce methods more adapted to the youth. Hostile organizations, particularly reformist youth organizations, must be fought and our supplementary organizations extended. Bourgeois organizations can be best fought in connection with the war danger and the colonial question. Young Communist Leagues must retain their political character and introduce new methods."

The Congress was then greeted by a delegation of Leningrad working youth.

RECORD EARTHQUAKE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (UP).—A severe earthquake shock was registered on the University of Chicago seismograph today, the weather bureau reported. The first phase was registered at 6:41 a. m., lasting for 44 seconds, and the second phase five minutes later for the same duration. The bureau reported the shocks were 2,100 miles from Chicago and were continuing at 7 a. m.

NEW UNION IN CALL TO MINERS

Urge Organization in All Fields

speak in the name of the coal miners," the statement declares. "We call upon the miners to break completely with the Lewis machine and to join the National Miners' Union. We welcome the Negro miners into our ranks as our brothers as well as the white foreign born workers and pledge ourselves to fight for the equality of all these ranks of workers."

Fight Collaboration.

The program is a pledge to fight for the best possible working conditions for the coal diggers. Opposition to class collaboration is emphatically stressed. Endorsement is made of the issue of a Labor Party. Class solidarity with all other workers in their battles and a program looking to the complete emancipation of the workers is embodied in the policy of the new union.

Charles Fulp, a Negro delegate, who was beaten up by the Lewis gangsters and later arrested, together with Wray and Stanovich, two other delegates, were released this forenoon. All those arrested have now been released.

Fulp was fined $10 by the judge, who has throughout shown his prejudice against the coal miners. Fulp was beaten up by twelve gangsters who attacked the mine delegates before Hotel Monongahela last Sunday. Forty-seven stitches were taken in Fulp's head and body.

Fagan Leads Gangsters.

The gangsters were led by Pat Fagan, arch traitor and head of the Lewis District 5. Eight police watched the gangsters finish their job on Fulp. After they had departed, the cops pulled their guns on Fulp and placed him under arrest. He was held in jail for two days during which he received but one meal and two glasses of water.

Last night a thousand dollar bond offered for Fulp, Wray and Stanovich was refused by the magistrate intent on keeping them in jail. Today, however, they were released.

The attack on Calamari was led by John Buzzarilli, a Lewis subdistrict board member. Delegates to the convention who recognized Buzzarilli saw him jump on and kick Calamari just before the unconscious miner was dragged off to the patrol wagon.

Workers Protest Raids.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 11.—Indignation and mass protest against the "suppressive measures of the Pittsburgh police and hirelings of the Lewis machine for their attempt to disrupt the convention" for a new mine union was expressed in a meeting here at which several hundred workers attended.

The meeting which was called following the receipt of newspaper reports of the vicious raids of the Lewis gangsters and the police likewise protested against the "cold-blooded murder of Frank Bonita one of the delegates to the convention of the National Miners' Union," who was shot by Lewis hirelings several days before the opening of the convention. Al Schaap acted as chairman of the meeting and George O. Hanrohan as secretary.

A resolution recounting the acts of treachery of the Lewis machine and pledging support to the new national miners' union was passed enthusiastically.

HOUNDS SEEKING MEN

Vile Conditions Are Cause of Jail Break

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 11.—Bloodhounds proceeded along the Mississippi River this morning as prison guards followed the trail of two prisoners, the only ones of thirteen to make good their escape after a desperate break from the penal farm at Angola. The bodies of six were recovered after a serious fight. Seven wounded men were treated in the prison hospital.

Vile conditions, poor food and indescribable brutality on the part of the prison wardens is understood to have been the cause of the jail break.

Overpowering two guards and making a rush for sawed-off shotguns, thirteen prisoners were soon returning the fire of a prison posse in pursuit. Aubrey Kinchen and Jack Broom were killed before they got free of the walls. When the others reached the ferry they were overtaken.

The four shot after they had climbed into the river craft dropped overboard into the river and were drowned. Cleveland Owen, known for several previous attempts to free himself, was their leader. The others were Stephen Beck, Stanley Proctor and Jack Martin.

BOSSES, BATTY TRY NEW PLAN

In New Attempt to Break Strike

ous "socialist" aides constantly praised these "progressive" mill barons. It was to these that Council officialdom always addressed its appeals for collaboration and a mutual agreement on an "efficient" plan of production.

The tone adopted by the manufacturers in their statement of demands issued after their meeting last night and delivered to the head of the Citizens' Mediation Committee is the same one taken by the A. F. of L. union in their enthusiastic endorsements of the Frieder speed-up plan. The employers took the position that the speed-up plan is a concession to the strikers. Batty's position is the same.

The mill owners therefore said: "It will be expensive to install and require special supervision to maintain."

The unshakable determination of the masses of the 28,000 strikers to fight both the employers and Batty in their plan to break the strike by a sell-out, is being fortified as the members of Batty's own union see thru this attempt of the boss-Batty alliance to make them think that they would be making great gains by "winning" the Frieder speed-up system. The great majority of the council leadership openly declare their intention to join the T. M. C. adherants in their struggle to win the 22-week-old strike even if the wage cut notices are withdrawn.

New Bomb Blast in Kenosha

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 11.—The fourteenth in a series of bomb explosions occurred yesterday when a blast went off at the home of Alfred Gemmell. Gemmell's brother William, who lives with him is said to be one of the strikebreakers in the local hosiery mill now on strike.

The explosion like those previously set off is believed to have been set off by private operatives of the mill bosses who are known to be using this time-honored method in an attempt to discredit the strike.

PROPOSE LAWS TO SMASH INDIA LABOR UNIONS

Try New Method to Halt Strike Wave

LONDON, (By Mail).—The ever-rising revolt of the Indian workers, the strikes on the railways, in the cotton and jute mills, in Tata's iron and steel works have frightened the rulers of India, who are now going to add some "legal" repression to their well-known methods of shooting, imprisonment, etc.

Two bills will be introduced in the coming session of the Legislative Assembly which are both aimed directly at the workers' organizations. One, a Trade Union Bill, on the same lines as our own Act, but designed to cripple and fetter the workers even more rigidly. The other, a "Public Safety Bill," which empowers the government to "remove" Bolshevist agents from the country whenever they like.

The special purpose of this bill is to provide for the removal of British-born subjects of His Majesty from the British territory of India! It thus plays hell with all British constitutional theories, "rights of the subject," etc. Our rulers do not mind bursting "constitutionalism" wide open when it pleases them.

The reason for all this is that in the past it has not been difficult to prevent known "Reds" from landing in India; they are simply told they are not wanted. But to get them out legally was more difficult; thus George Allison's deportation form was marked "Aliens" in large letters.

Trade unionists who try to help the workers to organize for fighting will now be treated as "Bolshevist agents" and deported. In this the government will be helped by Right Wing leaders, such as Mr. Kirk, a "leader" of the Southern Indian Railway Union, who has declared: "Unfortunately it is true that the strike is due to the influence of Communists."

The bills are likely to go through the Legislative Assembly, where most of the Swarajist "opposition" are capitalists. Even if they do not, the government will "certify" them.

PARTY SECTIONS AID BIG BAZAAR

Bishop and Mrs. Brown Sending Articles work necessary to make the bazaar a success.

Many trade unions and sympathetic organizations are also actively working for the bazaar, while in every section of the country workers are collecting articles in order to make this the greatest proletarian bazaar ever held in this country. Among those who are busy with bazaar work is Mrs. William Montgomery Brown, wife of the heretic bishop, who is sewing articles that will be among the choicest numbers at the bazaar. Bishop Brown is also sending copies of his books which will be sold at the book sections of the bazaar.

The Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee, 30 Union Square, has emphasized the importance of this year's event, since upon its success depends the existence of the two fighting working class dailies. All workers are urged to bend their energies toward the goal of sending the bazaar over the top.

Slave Driver in Ceylon; Lipton

Frequently referred to in the capitalist press as a "true British sport and good fellow", Sir Thomas Lipton, who spends his considerable quantities of spare time racing British against American yachts, is better known to the Ceylonese workers as a slave driver. His huge fortune was amassed from the labor of Tamili workers on his tea plantations. There, for pitiable wages which keep them just above starvation line, the serfs of this "genial sportsman" cultivate and pick the tea—which brings him money to invest in yachts. Above, Sir Thomas Lipton, with Charles Levine, imperialist flier.

PAINLEVE MAKES MILITARY PLANS

To Build Armaments Across Europe

PARIS, Sept. 11.—While Briand was delivering his attack against the Soviet Union at Geneva and talking of "disarmament," war minister Painleve of France was viewing the army maneuvers between Metz and Strasburg, on his way for an extended tour of the northeast frontier where he is to make practical recommendations for the strongest line of fortifications Europe has ever seen.

Painleve will leave the maneuvers to preside at the conference of military chiefs and experts, which is to lay plans for the immediate start of work on the fortifications which will stretch from the North Sea to the Mediterranean. He is accompanied by chief of the general staff, Gneral Debeney, and General Fieilleneau, and by members of the senate and house of deputies army commissions.

To start work on this line of the most modern fortifications this year's budget has already assigned 200,000,000,000 francs for the building of forts, roads, railways, underground communications, batteries and redoubts.

Japan Favors British Naval Pact as U. S. Voices Disagreement

LONDON, Sept. 11 (UP).—It was announced at a meeting of the Japanese cabinet today that Japan welcomed the Anglo-French naval agreement, an exchange telegraph dispatch from Tokio said.

Japan considers the agreement a step towards world disarmament, the dispatch said. Premier Tanaka said Japan had unofficially notified the powers she welcomed the naval compromise, but had sent no formal reply, since the United States had not agreed to the agreement.

Assassin of Obregon Found to Be Sane; Will Be Tried Soon

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 11 (UP).—Six blood tests made of Jose De Leon Toral, assassin of President-elect Obregon, showed him to be entirely normal, it was announced today. Further tests of Toral's drawing, craftsmanship and other physiological examinations will be made next.

The prosecution is prepared to present its evidence against Toral and those accused with him of plotting the assassination, but the testimony is so voluminous that preparations may delay the trial until October.

22 KILLED IN ITALY

MONZA, Italy., Sept. 11.—Investigators were unable to explain today the accident which claimed 22 lives during the Grand Prix auto races here Sunday. Emilio Materazzi's machine suddenly leaped the ditch surrounding the track and crashed into the crowd behind a concrete wall. The ditch was eight feet wide and was considered one of the safest in the world for spectators.

RUMANIAN TRIAL OF 144 WORKERS AIMED AT LABOR

Banning of Unions Looming

(Red Aid Press Service)

BUCHAREST, Rumania (By Mail).—One hundred and forty-four accused workers will shortly appear before the military court in Klausenburg. The accused include the best known leaders of the working class movement, many union functionaries and workers. The charge is "conspiracy" and "action for revolt."

The real ground for the process is quite different. The action against the united labor unions has taken on an especially sharp form, above all in Transylvania where these organizations are strongly grounded. The beginning of this action was the mass arrests that have taken place for the last few months in Klausenburg, Oradea and Temesvar. Then followed mass arrests directed especially against the Workers International Relief, which was declared "dangerous for the state."

The names of the accused show best the real purpose of the government in this process. The president of the united labor unions, Kalman Mueller, the representative Eugen Rosvan, the editor of the workers' paper, Stefan Foris, well-known functionaries like Avramescu, Tordai, etc., are among them.

Tortures which drove one of the accused to suicide and the 40 day hunger strike of Stefan Foris were the introductions to this process.

It is hoped that the public expression of European workers will hinder the ending of this process in the destruction of the workers' organizations.

Worker Correspondent Tells of Attack on the Miners' Convention by Lewis Thugs

[illegible]ICE HELPED [illegible]NGSTERS; JAIL [illegible]NY MILITANTS

[illegible]wis Men Wear "Patriotic" Ribbons

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (By Mail).—[illegible] hundred hired assassins of [illegible] treacherous Lewis machine, [illegible] to the teeth, displaying red, [illegible] and blue ribbons, symbols of [illegible] loyalty, marched upon the [illegible] and file Miners' Convention [illegible] at Pittsburgh, slugging and [illegible]ing the delegates mercilessly [illegible] the aid of the local and state [illegible], who entered the hall and [illegible] up the convention.

Police and Thugs Together.

The police and the hired thugs of [illegible] corrupt Lewis machine arrived [illegible]neously at the convention [illegible]. While the police drove the [illegible] hundreds of delegates as[illegible] from the hall, the paid [illegible] of Lewis met them at the [illegible] or on the street with clubs and [illegible]jacks, felling the marked lead[illegible] of the rank and file miners.

[illegible] Calamere, progressive organizer, [illegible] the first attacked, being beaten [illegible] kicked while the police looked [illegible]. He was left unconscious in the [illegible] of the street, his head beaten [illegible] a bloody pulp, while the thugs [illegible]ued their bloody deeds. The [illegible] street outside the hall was a [illegible] mess, marked by the uncon[illegible] forms of progressive leaders. Calamere and others were rushed to [illegible] hospital. Calamere's condition [illegible] reported to be critical.

Frank Sepich, progressive of east[illegible] Ohio, was also badly beaten, [illegible] he managed to get into one of [illegible] rooms of the convention hall, [illegible] he was later found in a semi[illegible] condition by the police. [illegible] head was cut open in several [illegible] by blows from the Lewis [illegible]sters. Sepich was also taken [illegible] the hospital.

While the fight was going on out[illegible] the police searched the hall for [illegible] leaders. Tony Minerich, young [illegible] of the progressive miners, [illegible] located and immediately ar[illegible]. He was roughly handled by [illegible] police and when taken outside [illegible] the waiting police patrol a blood[illegible] yell arose from the hired [illegible] thugs who swarmed on the [illegible]walk.

Police Help Thugs.

The police did not arrest any of [illegible] Lewis thugs, but actually helped [illegible] in the slugging and carried [illegible] felled leaders to the patrol [illegible].

There was much excitement and [illegible]fusion when the rush was made [illegible] the hall. The Lewis thugs [illegible] marked by the "patriotic" rib[illegible] of red, white and blue. The [illegible]orities and the thugs attacked [illegible]body who wore delegate rib[illegible] and who did not carry the pa[illegible] emblem.

[illegible] was reported that many inno[illegible] onlookers received blows from [illegible] clubs of thugs. The city is full [illegible] "ten dollar assassins." All meet[illegible] places of the progressive miners [illegible] watched by these thugs and by [illegible] police.

Many more arrests are expected [illegible] police are combing the city for [illegible] progressive mine leaders.

Indications are that the rank and [illegible] miners will go through with the [illegible]vention and will assemble again [illegible] the convention hall tomorrow.

[illegible]ptist Home Official [illegible]rned Money Over "Movie-Struck" Girls

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 11 (UP).—[illegible] of the missing gold from [illegible] of the Southern Baptist [illegible] Mission Board was showered [illegible] two movie struck girls by Clin[illegible] S. Carnes, missing treasurer, [illegible] believed today.

Thomas Howell Scott, one of the [illegible] for Carnes' interests, said [illegible] two contracts had been found [illegible] the treasurer's private safe. They [illegible]ated that Carnes was to fi[illegible] the quest of Sonja Norida and [illegible] Lois Griffin for moving pic[illegible] honors. In return, when suc[illegible] was theirs, the two girls were [illegible] him back, plus interest.

[illegible]maged Ship in Tow

BOSTON, Sept. 11 (UP).—The [illegible] wasted lumber schooner Lin[illegible], reported in distress after col[illegible] with the Boston Collier Sew[illegible] Point six miles south-southeast [illegible] Cape Cod, was enroute to Boston [illegible] today.

[illegible] were that none of the [illegible] crew had been injured and [illegible] the schooner, while badly dam[illegible] was in no danger of sinking.

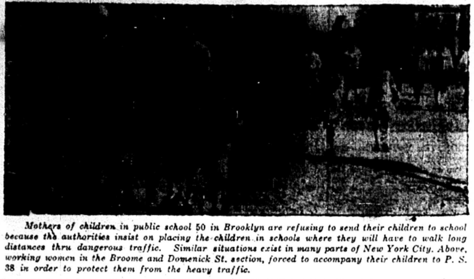
[illegible]FITS FOR MELLON.

[illegible]SBURGH, Sept. 11 (UP).—[illegible] Aluminum Company of Amer[illegible] declared its regularly quarter[illegible] today of $1.50 on preferred [illegible] payable October 1, to stock[illegible] of record September 15.

[illegible]HOONER IN DISTRESS.

[illegible], Sept. 11 (UP).—The [illegible] Navy Yard reported tonight [illegible] informed by the Chatham [illegible] of the Radio Corporation of [illegible] that the Schooner Lincoln [illegible] six miles south, south[illegible] of Cape Cod Light.

Mothers Forced to Take Children to and from School



Mothers of children in public school 50 in Brooklyn are refusing to send their children to school because the authorities insist on placing the children in schools where they will have to walk long distances thru dangerous traffic. Similar situations exist in many parts of New York City. Above, working women in the Broome and Domenick St. section, forced to accompany their children to P. U. S. GOVERNMENT IS TEACHING MURDER

By PEDRO GOTAY LOPEZ.

The United States has established throughout the different states, a very effective system of military training. The primary purpose of these military institutions is the teaching of mass murder to the younger generations. The students that enlist yearly in the C. M. T. C. or R. O. T. C. form a very important part of the long chain of lackies at the service of Yankee imperialism. They are the servile class, which, in a future war, will be obliged to defend the capitalist pirates of America.

In these camps the raucous politicians of the White House turn out yearly a large number of prepared men, taught to be unconscious mechanical slaves. They are fed with imperialist shallowness and hence, like damned slaves, are unable to rebel against their yellow masters.

The military authorities maintain that their chief motive in establishing these camps is the teaching of citizenship. But what kind of citizenship?

Lured by the brilliancy of a military career I myself was once a student in the R. O. T. C. of the University of Porto Rico, a senior candidate in the C. M. T. C. of Fort San Cristobal, a member of the National Guard and, later on, of the Reserve Corps. And to my own satisfaction I unmasked the so-called teaching of citizenship in military camps. The military text-books used in the C. M. T. Camps and universities say that the object of military training is to fight battles. In other words, to murder our brethren. So that the very government that, in a cynical output of fakery and sheer irony, is trying to outlaw war teaches murder to the youth of America, "the land of the free." And they called this citizenship.

Imperialist Bandits.

Yes, dear comrades, the right kind of citizenship that the imperialist bandits want to instil into the hearts of the young men. The dirty fakers say that capitalism is right, slavery a sane institution, and that the government at Washington is the best that man, aided by his capitalist god, can devise. (They say all this in their soporific lectures on citizenship). They take great pains to make the young soldiers understand that when a war breaks out every citizen should enlist in the army of the imperialists, ready to die, like a good boy, for the millionaires of Wall Street. All that is opposed to this curious kind of citizenship is foolery and downright treason. And who is hired to teach this grandiose lesson? A priest. Invested with all the authority of a minister of God this well-paid faker teaches murder. Rebellion against militarism, say the holy wiseacre, is rebellion against the Almighty. Thus making of their poor God a big millionaire, hater of the working class.

Camp life is spent in bayonet training, machine gun and rifle firing, trench warfare, etc. The program itself unmasks the feigned pacifist attitude of the degenerate mass murderers and their puppets. In the universities this program is enlarged. Students are obliged to enlist in the R. O. T. C. even in violation of their creeds. They are handled like a herd of cattle. The militarists believes that the students should be guided by their cicerones to save them from the abyss of knowledge and hence from becoming alert and rebellious. But in spite of this they rebel and throw away the bunk forced on them by priests. Now we can see the far-reaching effect of teaching the philosophy of class-consciousness to the young.

Class Struggle.

Hand in hand with the teachings of class struggle. The shallow-minded imperialists are preparing their greatest and, perhaps, final outbreak of thunder. It is very easy for them to declare war. They do not suffer. They have not to mourn after the event for they keep their sons in easy jobs, far away from the roaring of cannons. They have newspapermen to preach the poor murder the poor, to fire them with a flame of insane patriotism. Capitalist editrs, like politicians, gain millions in the big business of making war. And they are so debased as to trade with the life of men. They do not care. It is the poor who do the fighting, hungry and panting; it is poor women and children who are starved to death. War is declared for them, the enslaved class in modern society.

For the rich war is business. That is why it is easy for them to preach war.

But where are you, class-conscious fathers? It is for you to fight these evils. Train your sons to fight the society criminals, hiding between piles of golden dust in their sumptuous palaces of Wall Street and Washington. Let the young generation learn the evils of war when it is against the working class. Let them know that the only war in which they should take a hand is that which will try to liberate the workers from the oppression of world imperialism. After learning the truth, if they have any brains, they will rebel against the pirates of capitalism and the debased religious class that, in the name of a millionaire god, teach the young the destructive principles of mass murder.

thought, the British minister is preparing the way for other pacts and treaties, similar to the Franco-British naval pact, under cover of "good-will" and "peace." It is significant that neither in the speeches of Briand or Cushendun was there a single reference to a plan for complete disarmament as proposed by the Soviet Union, except when the former, in an extremely belligerent tone, yesterday referred to the "theatrical gestures" of the Soviet Union.

Powers Meet; U. S. Absent.

GENEVA, Sept. 11 (UP).—The Big Five—Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and Japan—met with Germany today to discuss Berlin's proposals for evacuation of the Rhineland.

The meeting was in the apartments of Lord Cushendun of England and was attended by Cushendun, Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, France; Foreign Minister Paul Hymans, Belgium; Vittorio Scialoja, Italy; Mineichiro Adachi Japan, and Chancellor Hermann Mueller, Germany.

The greatest importance was attached to the meeting, which started at 5 p. m. It was the first time the powers directly concerned had consented to discuss the Rhineland evacuation with Germany.

The way for the meeting was paved when Foreign Minister Gustave Stresemann of Germany visited Paris for the Kellogg treaty signing. The optimism which had prevailed in German circles since then, however, was dimmed considerably as today's conference started, by reaction to Briand's assembly speech of yesterday. The French diplomat dismissed in blunt terms Germany's claim that she is disarmed while the former allies are not. He insisted that Germany has a highly trained army of 100,000.

SHANGHAI MEN TO DELIVER PHONE BOOK DIRECTORIES

From 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. for $2

(By a Worker Correspondent)

BOSTON (By Mail).—I am a Bostonian and I had a fair taste of the "prosperity" that exists there. Being out of work for several months I thought I would try a bigger city. And the capitalist press tells us daily what a remarkable amount of prosperity we have in this country. Why, even Coolidge says so. I therefore felt sure that since Boston had nothing for me, certainly I would have good luck in New York.

"Lady Prosperity."

Here I spent more than three weeks looking for lady prosperity until one day I read an ad, "Men wanted to deliver telephone directories; paid daily." Several addresses were given. I went to 51st St. and 11th Ave. As I neared the place a man grabbed me by the shoulder and shouted, "Here is another one." Another man came to me, asked me my name and address, without bothering to learn whether I was merely a passerby or actually out for a job.

At that point I felt that Coolidge was correct. There is prosperity. Why, they actually shanghai men to work, so great is the demand. After they took down my name and address, they told me to start loading the truck. I asked how much I would be paid. They said two dollars and one and one-quarter cents. They explained my wondering, saying that I would be paid two dollars for the day and one and one-quarter cents for each old book returned. What could be sweeter?

I followed the men into the warehouse and found the bundles of directories that they loaded contained 14 books, Brooklyn edition. To say the least, it was very heavy. We loaded several trucks with from 3,000 to 4,000 books in each.

22 Flights Up.

The truck to which I was attached went to the dress district. The truck remained at one certain place. In order to deliver the directories we often had to walk several blocks to the place and there go up to the 22nd floor, or something very similar. Now and then, after some searching, I managed to find old directories to return.

At noon I noticed that no one was knocking off for lunch. I asked the foreman about lunch and he answered to go right ahead and eat if you wish. I asked some of the others why they were not going out to eat. Some said they weren't hungry, while others said that they didn't have a cent to their names.

When five o'clock came I thought that my shoulders would come off, they were so tired. At five-thirty I asked the foreman when we quit. He answered he would tell us when to quit. I began to speak to the men and asked them whether they didn't think that we had already done enough work between 7:00 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. and that there was no use doing more since even the commission was at that late hour not more than sixty-three cents per man. They said that if we should quit we wouldn't get any money at all. I told them not to worry but call it a day. Four of us quit.

The others kept on werking. When they came back for another load I talked to them again. When six o'clock came all of us had quit, against the foreman's will. We weren't through, however, because we had to put the old books, which were on the sidewalk, into the truck. At eight o'clock we were through. We were given the $2 per man, but were told to return Saturday for the commission.

I can't paint the picture as black as it actually was. They worked us like h—— and then fooled us with that commission. But I'm no writer, so I can't say it as I'd like.

I just want to close with a word of warning to the poor suckers who like the sound of working on a commission basis. It's nothing more than sound and you must work your body out before you can scratch enough money with which you might buy a couple of meals.

Now I'm in Boston again and a little gladder to be out of work with people I know, not as it was in New York.

SLAVE FOR STEEL TRUST 32 YEARS; FIRED; TOO OLD

Workers Must Organize to Fight Bosses

(By a Worker Correspondent)

GARY, Ind., (By Mail).—The worker Goodman is an old man. He is 57 years of age. He has been working for the United States Steel Corporation for the last 32 years.

He has been employed in different plants of the corporation. The poor slave worked as a scab in the great steel strike of 1919 in the Gary steel mills. Two years ago the corporation presented him with a steel medallion in recognition of his [illegible] service for the U. S. S. Corporation.

Since then he has been working in the police force (in the steel mill police force!). As such he worked last year in August day and night to protect the company's property from the Reds! You remember that at that time our Comrades Sacco and Vanzetti were murdered by the bosses. All his life this man has been trying to satisfy the bosses, thinking about his pension of $50 a month, which the company is supposed to give to every worker who works for 20 to 30 years continuously for the U. S. Steel Corporation. For he did not know that the steel mills are here not to pension but to rule the workers.

A couple of weeks ago he was discharged. No reason at all was given. He was simply told that he is unable to work even in the police force. It is true that he is a physical wreck. No man can work for 32 years in that hell and be strong and healthy.

After he was discharged the company sent spies to his house to get the medallion from him so that he could not prove his continuous service.

He is scared to give his case to the Gary lawyers. He is sure that every one of them is one way or another in the service of the corporation.

Last week he had to beat it from Gary. He went on his sister's farm in Ohio where he hopes to regain his health and to find some lawyer who will win the $50 a month pension for him.

That is a story for the steel workers to study. We must know that individually we are unable to get even what is due us by the rules of the United States Steel Corporation. One by one we are exploited when we are healthy and strong, but when nothing is left in our bodies they throw us out.

We must agitate, educate and organize ourselves into a strong union and united we can get what is due to us—the steel workers. They are built by us and the time will come when they will belong to the steel workers' union.

"Machinal" at the Plymouth

Hopkins Play Is a Treat for Lovers of Expressionistic Acting

IN "Machinal", now playing at the Plymouth Theatre, Zita Johann gives a portrayal of a young woman caught in the meshes of a life to which she cannot accommodate herself; a weak woman always rebelling but always finally submitting until in desperation she kills her husband, an act that was appreciated by the audience but which led his executioner to the electric chair.

Zita Johann

The play is by Sophie Treadwell and both the author and the producer were successful in presenting a picture of life that would not excite the admiration of anybody not having Rotarian blood in his veins.

Hopkins departed from the customary method of dramatic production by dispensing with superfluous scenery and depending for effect on the histrionic powers of the cast and the splendid lighting effect.

The story in brief is of a young woman who was employed in an office and was unfortunate enough to have the vice-president of the company fall in love with her. Being the only support of her mother she marrried the giggling, complacent, success expert.

Later on we find her in a restaurant or speakeasy where she makes the acquaintance of a singing sheik who boasted of the killing of an enemy in Mexico with a bottle filled with little stones. She became enamoured of the new acquaintance and accompanied him to his room.

In the last act of the play she is on trial for the murder of her husband and is found guilty of killing him with a bottle filled with pebbles. She goes to the electric chair, thus breaking the usual precedent on Broadway, where the heroine is almost always saved at the eleventh hour by a pardon or the sudden turning-up of the real culprit.

IN NEW FAGAN PLAY

Minna Gombell who stars with John T. Doyle in the latest Myron C. Fagan play "The Great Power" which opened last night at the Ritz Theatre.

The play is produced in two acts and several scenes. It holds one's attention from the beginning to the end and tho it may not be as big a revenue producer as some of these productions that strike below the belt, it is well worth the cost of a ticket to those who cannot be satisfied with dramatic hokum.

The young woman in "Machinal", whether her creator knows it or not reminds one forcibly of the fate of the middle class rebels against the grind of the modern industrial processes who resort to Mencken or poetry in their quest for an avenue of escape. But there is salvation in neither swamp. In fact they are doomed. (Here we shall leave them for the moment.)

Be that as it may, "Machinal" is well worth seeing and if there be any members of the New Playwrights Theatre solvent enough to pay the tariff or crash the box office, they might learn a few tricks in the art of production that would save much floor space in Cherry Lane.

The honors of the performance go in the order mentioned to, Zita Johann, the young woman, George Stillwell, her killable husband, Chas. Kennedy, the priest (who by the way is a former altar boy and is now a perfectly good atheist) and Jean Adair, the young woman's mother. The rest of the cast is good but too numerous to mention here.

1200 Mothers in Brooklyn Threaten to Call a General School Strike

CHILDREN FORCED TO GO TO MORE DISTANT SCHOOLS

No Seats Provided for 70,000 Pupils

Twelve hundred mothers in Brooklyn yesterday delivered an ultimatum to the Board of Education that they would go on strike to keep their children out of school unless action was taken this week to alter the recent reallocation of school assignments in the Williamsbridge district.

One hundred mothers went on strike on Monday, keeping their children from the schools to which they had been transferred by the school authorities, altho these schools were great distances away from the homes of the children. Under the new rule, children have been forced to travel unusually long distances thru dense traffic to reach the schools.

Many of the striking mothers picketed in front of school No. 150 yesterday.

An open air mass meeting of parents will be held this evening at the corner of Rodney and South Third Streets, Brooklyn, to acquaint mothers of the children affected by the reallocation of the strike plans.

When school opened thruout New York City on Monday, over 70,000 school children found themselves without seats. The usual attempt will be made to partially remedy this condition by part time sessions. Whereas increased facilities would have improved the situation, the part time plan has failed.

FALL BUSY AGAIN.

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 11.—The action of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, in leasing Quapaw Indian lands near Picher, Okla., to the Eagle-Picher Lead Company, was upheld today by Federal Judge F. E. Kannamer, who entered a decree for the company and dismissed complaints asking for the cancellation of certain mining contracts.

RUTH'S HOMER AIDS YANKS TO BEAT A'S

(By United Press)

Babe Ruth came to bat at the critical moment today, drove his 49th home run of the season over the right field fence, scoring Lou Gehrig ahead of him, and thereby the New York Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Athletics by the score of 5 to 3 in the third game of their crucial series for leadership in the American League.

The Yankees have now defeated the Athletics in all three games of this highly important four-game series and tonight are two and one half games in the lead.

It was a hard game for Lefty Grove to lose. He allowed seven hits and but for the one bad inning, the eighth, was never in serious trouble.

Henry Johnson took the mound duties for the Yankees and made a good job of it. He allowed seven hits but was a bit unsteady in the opening inning when the Athletics scored two runs. Haas was hit by a pitched ball with one out and Mickey Cochrane, Athletic catcher, tripled to left, scoring Haas. Al Simmons sent up a long sacrifice fly to Earl Combs in center field to score Cochrane. Following this inning, the Athletics were held well in check with the exception of the fourth when one more run was added.

Mickey Cochrane led the Athletic attack, hitting safely three times in four tries at bat, his triple in the opening inning accounting for one of the Athletics' runs.

The score was tied when Ruth came to bat at the climax of the Yankees' rally in the eighth inning. Up until that inning, the Yankees had been almost helpless under the pitching wizardry of Lefty Grove, ace of the Athletics' staff. Both Ruth and Gehrig had been struck out by Grove and neither had gotten a hit.

The Yankees had scored one run in the seventh on two hits and an infield out but they were still trailing, 3 to 1, when the Yankee half of the eighth came around.

First indication of trouble came when Grove couldn't find the corners and walked Combs. Koenig then beat out an infield hit and Combs went to third when Dykes pegged wild to first base trying to catch Koenig. With a man on third and first and none out, Grove let go a wild pitch and Combs raced across the plate.

The Giants won another doubleheader from the Boston Braves 11-6 and 7-6. Scott pitched the first against Cantwell and Greenfield of the Braves. Hubbel and Benton pitched for the Giants in the second and Cooney for Boston. The Giants took second place, displacing the Chicago Cubs, who won a game from Pittsburgh, 9-3.

TOLSTOY STATUE BANNED BY CZAR TO BE REPLACED

ulov, one of the best known Russian sculptors, and was presented to the city in 1913. But when an effort was made to place it on Muisky Square, a great protest was made by the religious elements. The rebellion of Tolstoy against a society dominated by a wealthy and decadent class and against the oppressive institution of the Orthodox Church was still fresh in the minds of the clericals.

They charged that it was a sacrilege to place an image of Leo Tolstoy, who had been excommunicated by the Orthodox Church, so near the Alexander Cathedral. Since the church was all-powerful in the czarist regime the government ordered the statue to be hidden.

During this week, when all of the Soviet Union will observe the centenary of Tolstoy's birth, the statue will be placed on Muisky Square.

For the Workers! Against the Capitalists!

Protecting the Holy Al Smith.

The clerical angle of Al Smith's candidacy for president may yet furnish the finance-capitalist government at Washington with a new approach to the problem of suppressing political propaganda of which it does not approve. The mailing of postcards said to convey someone's opinion of Al Smith has resulted in a movement to bar from the mails certain kinds of election propaganda that may be classified by capitalisit office holders as "scurrilous." We haven't forgotten that propaganda for the liberation of the working class has already been officially declared to be in the legal sense "scurrilous" and "obscene," and on that ground workers have already been jailed in several cases.

Postmaster General New says in connection with the postcards directed against Smith:

> "Scurrility should have no part in any political campaign nor should religion.
> "There are many reasons for opposing a candidate, but defamatory statements of this kind should not be among them. In the strongest way possible I wish to condemn such attacks on Governor Smith or any other candidate, and I shall do everything to prevent the mails from being a party to them."

We have said many times that Al Smith's real pope is not in Rome, but in Wall Street. The real menace of Al Smith comes from his character as a tool of American super-trusts and banking combinations. The effectiveness of the pope and all other religious instruments is preserved merely as they are tools for the befuddlement of the masses by the very sober heads of the oligarchy of finance-capital from which even the pope has to borrow money and ask favors.

But when a candidate of Wall Street enters the national political campaign obviously backed by clerical elements, and when at the same time a veritable Torquemadan censorship is proposed to stop any criticism of that candidate's clerical affiliations, it begins to look as though another means of handcuffing the working class movement is being sought.

There is nothing strange in the fact that Postmaster General New of the Teapot Dome cabinet undertakes to defend the candidate of the rival big capitalist party as an accompaniment to the move for further Tsarist censorship of political propaganda sent through the mails. It only goes to show that both the democratic and republican parties, with Al Smith and Herbert Hoover, represent the same financial oligarchy, and that their contest for office is mainly a contest of servants for employment by the one master. The only touch required to finish the picture is for the Reverend Norman Thomas, candidate for his own little capitalist party, to add his sanctimonious voice to the howl against "scurrility." Surely he will not lose the chance to defend "the opium of the people!"

The only real scurrility is the lying propaganda for capitalism, for the perpetuation of the filthy, criminal system of enslavement and exploitation, which all of the capitalist parties are conducting every day in tens of millions of copies of capitalist papers.

Read the Daily Worker and learn to understand your own working class movement for liberation, your own working class point of view which the capitalist class wants every excuse to suppress as "scurrilous."

And vote Communist.

Join your class party and fight for liberation from capitalism and all its "popes," both of finance and of superstition.

American Cooperative Movement

By GEORGE HALONEN.

It is not possible for a living, fighting movement to remain an outsider in the social struggle. This movement must consider and discuss different economic and political theories and determine its attitude towards the big problems of the working class.

The Congress Decision.

The Fifth cooperative congress held in Minneapolis on November 4-6, 1926, unanimously decided that:

"Whereas, the cooperative movement in its nature is primarily a working class movement against the present system based on profit, and

"Whereas, a change in the present economic system of society can be accomplished only thru the united action of the whole working class, therefore

"Be it resolved, that this Fifth National Congress in convention assembled at Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 4-5-6, 1926, declares the cooperative movement to be a part of the general labor movement, and that therefore the cooperative movement should seek the cooperation of all workers and farmers' movements for the benefit of the exploited toilers."

This official declaration of the Cooperative League of the U. S. A. very clearly states that the changing of the present system of society is such a big task that it requires the united action of the whole working class and that therefore the cooperative movement cannot be an isolated movement but must seek cooperation of all workers' and farmers' for the benefit of the exploited toilers.

The resolution now put for a referendum would prevent even discussion of all vital problems the solving of which would benefit the exploited toilers. Thus this referendum is not only an attempt to nullify the unanimously adopted congress decision, but also a move to isolate the cooperative movement from the labor movement.

The ultimate result of this would mean that the cooperative movement must become purely a business movement without any social meaning.

"Neutrality" Only a Phrase.

The most ardent proponents of this "neutrality" do not support their theory in practise. They are in politics, even in party politics. Instead of remaining "neutral" in party politics, they attack in most vicious way workers' independent political action, and especially one party, the Workers Communist Party of America.

The comment of J. H. Walker, a member of the Board of Directors of the Cooperative League, is a very typical one. Here's his "neutrality":

"Neutrality."

"I favor the resolution with one qualification and that is: The League should have the right to discuss and act on political matters to the extent of having the right to eliminate from its membership Communists and fascists. Regardless of what their open declarations are, by experience, I know that they have for their purpose the destruction of every movement that means betterment of the workers, except the Communist or fascist movements, through which they expect to usher in through revolution, a dictatorship, establish executives whom they select the same powers as the Czar had during his regime.

"I don't think those gentlemen should be permitted in the Cooperative Movement or in the Trade Union Movement, or in any other organization of the workers that has in mind, dealing with conditions as they are, and through the establishment of the organization the use of their economic and political powers and influence, solving their problems and making progress peacefully. From experience, I know that the matter of truth, honesty or humanity has no place in their program."

"Red-Baiting."

Thus this Mr. Walker wants to "eliminate" all "divisive and controversial questions" by "Red baiting" stuff. And he considers his lying, misleading statement as an example of the neutrality proposed in the referendum.

An attack upon Communists and their "political and economic theory" is not the only thing supposed to be within the scope of this "neutrality," but also attacks upon the whole working class are part of the "neutrality," and everything in behalf of the working class is considered "controversial and devisive."

Dr. Warbasse, the president of the Cooperative League, has in many of his writings declared that: "Most of the people in the world are workers, therefore most of the fools are workers. . . ." But Mr. Walker has nothing to say against this "economic theory."

Dr. Warbasse, who ardently favors "neutrality" in the cooperative movement, writes in the August issue of "Cooperation," the official organ of the League about political issues. Instead of refraining from "politics" as he requires others in in the cooperative movement to do, he presents in the official cooperative magazine his own personal "programs and theories."

And what does this apostle of "neutrality" propose to the Co-operators? First he states that "At present the matter stands about thus: knaves, fools and patriots vote for mammon; dreamers, philanthropists and reformers vote for socialism; gentlemen, philosophers and sages vote not at all." Then he, however, admits that "There is probably no such thing as good government, but there are governments that are better than others." Thus preparing a ground for a "better" government, he states this: "The Democratic Party has no more use for cooperation than the republicans have. But Mr. Smith, the democratic candidate, introduces something new. He is a Catholic; and the Catholic Church is honestly and sincerely in favor of Cooperation. Its leaders recommend cooperation to their people. It is the only religious organization which makes cooperation one of its principles and is active in its promotion. This is not a theory; it is a fact."

To boost Mr. Smith is "neutrality," to attack the Communists is "neutrality," but to explain that the cooperative movement must be a working class movement to fight the battles of the workers and poor farmers is "controversial and devisive."

This is the logic of those who want to rob the cooperative movement of its working class nature and who want to mislead the cooperators into the fold of capitalist politics and capitalist political parties, and to prevent the working class from building its own independent political party.

All progressive cooperators regardless of their religious or political views, should open their eyes and understand the true meaning of these "neutrality" maneuvers. The future of the American cooperative movement demands that it must first of all be a genuine working class movement. Under centralized capitalism the cooperative movement has no other alternative than to live and grow into a big social movement for the purpose of helping the exploited toilers.

On United States Imperialism

Comrade Pepper Analyzes Position of Labor Movement in United States

The following speech was delivered by Comrade John Pepper at the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International. It analyzes the position of American capitalism and the nature of the sharpening class struggle in the United States.

The second problem I want to elaborate upon is the question of radicalization and bourgeoisification of the American working class.

The same document of certain American comrades which I already quoted from errs in the estimation of the amount and volume of the radicalization of the American working class also. I have to give a few quotations:

"There is a general growth of discontent, militance and readiness to struggle among the semi-skilled and unskilled workers (the bulk of the American proletariat)."

Another passage:

"The progress of widespread and general radicalization is taking place in all industries among the most exploited sections of the workers."

The Labor Movement.

I have to state that these assertions of the document do not correspond with the facts. There is a certain amount of radicalization of the American working class, a radicalization of certain industries. There is a certain left trend among the unskilled workers, but we cannot say that that Left trend is general or nationwide, that it embraces the bulk of the American workers already. I am afraid that even in Germany, France or Great Britain, in those countries which show the most marked tendencies of the radicalization of the working classes—even there we cannot say today yet that the radicalization of the Left trend embraces the bulk of the working class.

It is interesting to note a remarkable contradiction: the same comrades who charge the Central Committee of the American Party, that it overlooks the general radicalization of the American working class, put forward the accusations here in Moscow only nine months ago, that the Central Committee of the American Party refuses to recognize that there is a powerful process of bourgeoisification of the American working class going on. I am of the opinion that the American Party had the correct position nine months ago stating that there is a marked tendency of the bourgeoisification of the American working class, but at the same time there is another tendency of radicalization of certain sections of the working class which serves as sufficient basis for mass Communist work.

Two-Fold Process.

I stated just a few days ago in the Profintern: Stabilization in Europe serves as the basis for the growth of reformism and the contradictions of stabilization create a basis for the growth of the Communist Party. The world hegemony of American imperialism serves as the basis for the further growth of American reformism and creates the possibilities for the further growth of the American Federation of Labor. On the other hand the contradiction arising from the growing power of American imperialism create possibilities for the growth of radicalization of the masses for the increase of the Communist mass movement.

I want to emphasize: it is a two-fold process and it amounts to political blindness to overlook one or the other side of it.

I would like to characterize certain special American features of the radicalization of the working class. I am of the opinion that instead of repeating here general phrases about the general radicalization of the bulk of the American working class it is our duty to try to give a concrete analysis of the volume, the limitations, the forms and the special features of the radicalization of America.

The limitations of radicalization at present which determine the amount of the leftward trend are the following:

1. The absence of big political issues between the capitalist parties.
2. Unlike 1924 there is no third party movement at this time.
3. There is no labor party movement on a national or mass scale at present.
4. The bulk of the American working class belong still at present to the old capitalist political parties. The twelve railroad brotherhoods which a few years ago were the backbone of an independent political movement of the American working class endorsed a few weeks ago Hoover as president. The American Federation of Labor, which in 1924 endorsed the third party movement of LaFollette will now endorse Al Smith, the candidate of the democratic party.
5. The socialist party of America ceased to be a proletarian party and the Communist Party of America is not yet a mass party. The American working class was not able to develop yet a mass political party which exercises an influence on millions of workers.

The above given facts show clearly the limitation of the radicalization especially the political radicalization of the American working class. The basic factor of the situation is—as stated in the political resolution of the May Plenum of the American Party—the analysis of the moods and actions of the masses of the unskilled and semi-skilled workers. We can state that there is a very significant amount of radicalization going on among the most exploited sections of the working class as proven by the struggles of the miners, textile workers and workers in the needle trades.

Special Features.

The radicalization in America has certain features in contradistinction to the radicalization in certain European countries. Germany's radicalization manifests itself on the political field and lags behind on the trade union field. The workers are willing to follow politically the Communist Party of Germany, but they are not willing to accept its strike leadership. In America the leftward workers are not yet willing to accept the political leadership of the Communist Party of America, but at the same time they accept in a growing degree the strike leadership of the Communists.

The problems of unemployment are among the fundamental problems of present-day America. Some comrades criticized here Comrade Bukharin that he did not pay enough attention to unemployment. I think it is an unjust criticism because Comrade Bukharin analyzed thoroughly the new kind of unemployment, the permanent growth of the industrial reserve army, the perpetual disemployment of hundreds of thousands and even millions of workers.

Some other comrades think that Comrade Bukharin's thesis on permanent disemployment, on the absolute decrease of the numbers of the working class in America, must lead to "opportunism." I think this is an unfounded and ridiculous charge. Tens of millions of workers permanently disemployed out of the process of production—that does not mean a harmonious development but it means a revolutionary situation. It is ridiculous to forget that those workers who are thrown out from the process of production, even if they do not produce, are still proletarian elements and human beings who want to eat, who will resist against starvation.

Sharper Struggle.

It is clear that the increasing sharpness of the class struggle and the growing resistance of the workers will not permit that capitalism shall push out the bulk of the working class from the process of production. On the other hand, we should note that capitalism is able to regulate to a certain degree this process. In America there is a prohibition of immigration which means that hundreds of thousands of foreign-born workers are excluded year by year from America. Again there is a possibility of emigration from America to other younger capitalist or half-capitalist countries. Again there is a possibility that the tendency to diminish the absolute numbers of the working class will again come temporarily to an end.

Anyone who denies the existence of this new phenomenon is polemising not against Comrade Bukharin but against the very facts. The facts about America speak a very clear and eloquent language. In 1927 the factories produced 26 per cent more than in 1919. During this same period the number of wage earners employed in manufacturing decreased by not less than 980,000. Eleven per cent fewer wage earners than in 1919 produced in manufacturing in 1927 26 per cent more products. In other words, each worker produced 40 per cent more. And the same tendency manifests itself not only in the factories, but in railroading, too. And this absolute decrease of the numbers of the working class went hand in hand with "prosperity," with rapidly increased production.

There is no other country at present which manifests such a marked tendency for merging state apparatuses and finance capital as the United States of America.

There are special historic reasons which explain the rapid and almost complete merger of trusts and state apparatus in America. It is not an accident that the whole history of America's political and economic development is responsible for the fact that this merging process, this trustification of the state apparatus, goes on in America more rapidly and thoroughly than in any other country.

In the other capitalist countries the centralized bureaucratic militaristic state apparatus of the bourgeoisie developed prior to the period of finance capital. Centralized bureaucratic state apparatus in America began to develop only in the period of imperialism hand in hand with the growth of finance capital and trusts. Further, America never had a system of feudalism as the European countries. The class struggle between the feudalists and the city bourgeoisie which gave rise to the bureaucratic centralized state apparatus in the hands of the monarchy never played any role in the history of America.

As late as in 1884 the number of federal employes in America amounted only to 13,780. In 1912, immediately before the war, the federal bureaucracy had already increased to 278,000. Today, in 1928, the federal bureaucracy numbers 559,138. The total number of government employes—(federal, state and local) is not less than three million today. A list of the leading men of the various branches of the American government reads like a list of the members of directors of trusts, banks and corporations.

Now comrades, I want to refer to the Right danger in the American Party. The document officially submitted to the Communist International and signed by some of the American leading comrades, calls itself "The Right danger in the American Party." Is there a Right danger in America? It must be so in such a powerful imperialist country with such a powerful labor aristocracy. Yes, there is a right danger and the American delegation is justified in introducing an amendment to that section of the thesis of Comrade Bukharin which deals with America. Our amendment reads:

"It is necessary that the American Party C. E. C. should continue and intensify its fight against Right deviations."

Told You So

T. J. O'Flaherty

SOME time ago this column had a little yarn about a reader of the Daily Worker who dropped his paper into a seat on a subway train with the object in view of having either a passenger or a member of the train crew pick it up. He was successful and it occurred to me that this is a very good way to bring the Daily Worker to the attention of the workers. A comrade who joined the Party recently tells me in a letter that he has followed this method since he first began to read the Communist daily. Others should please do likewise.

WHILE on the subject of the Daily Worker may we not again call your attention to the subscription drive now under way. We want 10,000 more new subscribers and this is the time to go after them. The masses are excited over politics and this is good for them. But it is not good for them to be fed on capitalist dope and the Daily Worker is the only revolutionary daily published in the American language that sets them right on questions of the day and shows them the way to go forward on the road to freedom from capitalism.

EVERY intelligent radical knows that the Daily Worker is published at a loss. Its advertising revenue is derived from ads from chiropractors, vegetarian restaurants, dentists and good-natured lawyers. At best this source of income cannot be but inadequate to meet the heavy expenses that are incurred in getting out a daily paper. There is a deficit that must be met.

THE Daily Worker deficit can be reduced to a minimum by building up a large circulation thru prepaid subscriptions. This will enable the Management Committee to increase the paper in size and—now it can be told—to keep the editorial and business office staffs in coffee and doughnuts and an occasional substantial meal. And the goal of 10,000 new subscribers set by the Management Committee in this campaign can be realized. Every member of the Workers (Communist) Party should become a subscriber as well as every Communist voter. Should this be accomplished we would have a circulation of at least 100,000 by the end of the year. But we are not utopians, and 10,000 new subs would make us quite happy.

IT is not necessary to tell you what the Daily Worker is doing in the class struggle. Suffice it to say that in every fight of the workers against the bosses the Daily Worker is on the firing line. And where the workers are passive it encourages them to fight in an organized manner because that is the only way the workers can win better conditions now and train themselves for the bigger fights to come. The Daily Worker is not merely a workingclass newspaper, that presents the workers side of the class struggle in its news columns, it is an organizer of the workers for battle against capitalism under the guidance and leadership of the Workers (Communist) Party.

ON another page you will see a sub blank and sub rates. Fill out the blank, send a check or money order along and the Daily Worker will be delivered at your door every morning by a letter carrier, who could not be better employed than distributing a Communist newspaper. Wall Street will elect its candidate in November. That is certain. But if the Daily Worker adds 10,000 new subscribers to its list, there will be joy in Red Square.

EDITORIAL fears of a great epidemic of corruption are being expressed in the capitalist press. The police are growing more corrupt daily. Not satisfied with their salaries they are fastening themselves on the payrolls of bootleggers and other followers of the golden calf. Their loyalty to the municipalities that pay their wages decrease in inverse ratio to the increase of the honorariums of the business men.

Williamsburg Red Week Will Begin This Saturday

Section 6 of the Workers (Communist) Party will launch an intensified Red Week Election Campaign next Saturday, which will last thruout next week and which is expected to result in a sufficient number of signatures to put the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot in the 6th and 13th Assembly Districts of Brooklyn.

Saturday night, Sept. 22, will be Red Night in Williamsburg, with open-air meetings to be held at the Grand Street Extension and Havemeyer Street; Ellery Street and Tompkins Ave.; and Graham Ave. and Varet Street corners. After these various Red meetings are concluded, all the speakers who spread the message of Communism will have a final wind-up meeting at the Grand Street Extension and Havemeyer Street.

The Williamsburg headquarters at 46 Ten Eyck Street will be open every day during the week after 6 p. m. and after 1 p. m. on Saturdays for those who will participate in the signature drive. Special emphasis will be laid on the distribution of the Daily Worker and other Communist literature by the Red Campaigners engaged in securing signatures.

BIG AUSTRALIA HARBOR STRIKE DESPITE GOV'T

Premier Threatens to Use Crimes Act to Jail Leaders

Tie-up Is Complete

Wool Growers May Call in Scabs

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 12.—Premier Stanley Bruce today threatened to invoke the crimes act to break the strike of the dock workers, which is tying up every port in the country.

The crimes act involves a year's imprisonment for organizers convicted of "agitation" and deportation of those not born in the Commonwealth. As many of the labor leaders are alleged to come from other parts of the British empire the government plans to make a drastic step towards destroying the strike in this way.

Reports from virtually every harbor in Australia tell the same story of a complete tie-up of shipping. Scores of vessels are lying idle in every large port.

The wool-growers of Australia, who are preparing to ship their crop, have announced their intention of employing strikebreakers and loading their wool on the idle vessels.

The present strike began following the refusal of the dockers to accept the award of the arbitration court providing for two pick-ups a day [illegible] of one.

The term pick-up is used to designate the employers' practice of hiring a shift of men from among the first applicants in the morning. The two-shift system would mean that workers employed in the morning would receive only half a day's wages, whereas under the one-shift system they would work all day.

BERLIN CABINET CRISIS LOOMING

Nationalists and Folks Party Bloc Seen

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (UP).—The nationalist party executive has demanded an immediate convening of the foreign relations committee of the Reichstag in view of developments at Geneva where Chancellor Mueller has been discussing evacuation of the Rhineland with France, Belgium, England and Italy.

The executive has recalled all nationalist members of the Reichstag to Berlin and it was believed the party is planning a drive to force Germany's retirement from the League of Nations.

Such action, it was said, might result in a domestic crisis since the folks party is disappointed by the Geneva conferences and might join with the nationalists.

Lodgings Needed for 250 Textile Delegates

Lodgings are needed for the 250 delegates to the National Convention of Textile Workers which will take place September 22-23, at Irving Plaza, this city. All workers who can accommodate one or more delegates for Saturday night, September 22, are urged to send their names and addresses to the Daily Worker, with information as to how many people they can accommodate and whether men or women.

Quick action is needed since the delegates are preparing to come. Help [illegible] make the textile convention a success and let us hear from you immediately!

Stinnes, Manipulator of War Bonds, Resigns

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (UP).—Hugo Stinnes, son of the late German industrialist, has resigned from the directorate of all German and foreign firms connected with the Stinnes interests, it was announced today.

Stinnes was arrested recently accused of trying to defraud the government through the manipulation of German war bonds.

"FORWARD" GUILTY OF BLOODSHED, IS CHARGE

Deepest hatred is expressed by the masses of workers in the Jewish labor movement at the socialist hierarchy in control of the United Hebrew Trades and its organ, the yellow Jewish Forward, whose programs against the left wing reached a climax in the flow of blood that resulted in the death of a right wing follower and the wounding of another, when they led a squad of six, armed with knives, against William Schiffrin, left winger.

Two years of repeated bloody assaults on left wing workers and their leaders were perpetrated by underworld thugs hired by the right wing officialdom with money received from the Forward, Jewist workers declared in their discussions of the case, which is practically the only topic of conversation. Now that gang is shouting for the blood of an honest worker who, single-handed and with his back to a building, defended himself against the combined attack of the six knife-wielders, who were sent to do their bloody work by the Forward crowd.

D'OLIER FEARED "BUMPING OFF"

Followed a Conference With Connolly Gang

"Somebody is going to be bumped off before this thing is over."

That is what William I D'Olier, sanitation engineer, told a close friend in connection with the $29,500.000 Queens sewer scandal, just a few days before D'Olier's body was found with a bullet through his temple near a cemetery in Maspeth, L. I.

Followed "Conference."

That D'Olier made this statement was sworn to yesterday by Edward C. Wallace, a personal friend of the sanitation engineer, and Gilbert C. Waldrop, the attorney of the slain man.

Wallace insisted that Connolly had had a "conference" with D'Olier a few days before he was killed. This statement sharply contradicts Connollys testimony that he had not seen D'Olier since July 3.

Pious denial of Wallace's statement was made by Connolly when he was informed of it yesterday.

"It's adding nonsense to nonsense," he commented blandly.

District Attorney Listless.

Waldrop further informed the district attorney, to whom he gave his deposition yesterday, that D'Olier attended a conference of "Connolly's friends" August 27.

The district attorney, thus far, has neglected to go into a thorough investigation of Connolly and his close associates during the week before D'Olier's death.

Albert Weisbord and Moissaye J. Olgin will speak. Fred Biedenkapp, national secretary of the W. I. R., will also address the conference.

Longshoremen Again Sold Out

Longshoremen along the eastern coast are today voting on a new wage contract which renews for another year the miserable wage of the present agreement expiring on October 1. Joseph P. Ryan, who is also president of the Central Trades and Labor Council, yesterday headed a committee which called upon Frederick C. Toppin, vice president of the International Mercantile Marine and leader of the bosses' union-haters, with a nominal demand for a 5 cents an hour increase. The proposal was promptly "rejected" by the bosses on the ground that "the condition of business does not warrant an increase." Thereupon completing the PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—The National Executive Board of the newly formed National Miners' Union continued its sessions throughout the day, finishing up the various tasks in connection with the launching of the organization.

In addition to the organization drive planned for all fields, the new union will hold a series of mass meetings in the various districts, at which reports of the convention will be made by the delegates who attended. It is planned to follow these meetings with conferences in each district, at which delegates will be elected from the local unions. MAT WOLL FUMES AT TEXTILE MEET

Boss Agent Splutters Hatred for "Reds"

Matthew Woll, professional red-baiter and A. F. of L. vice-president, unloaded his annual "red hunting" speech to the United Textile Workers Union convention in the Great Northern Hotel yesterday. At the same time he blandly offered "hope" as the only solution to the problem before American workers of being faced with the growing competition of European factories, established and enlarged by the tides of gold pouring into Europe by American capitalists.

Militant delegates at the convention, at the conclusion of Woll's speech, declared that the acting president of the National Civic Federation had inadvertently confessed that the Communists have the real solution for the problems of the workers which arise under the present system.

"A social fabric," they said, "that can bring down upon the heads of the workers untold suffering through unemployment caused by investments of capital in foreign factories, and which chokes the workers with their own production, ought to be destroyed."

Commenting on the boss-agent Woll's statement that the "Communists preach a philosophy of despair," militant delegates remarked that, in addition to it being untrue, it is far preferable to Woll's policy of continual betrayal of the workers.

Batty Also There.

Besides Woll's attack on the Communists, there was one by W. E. G. Batty, the secretary of the New Bedford Textile Council. Batty was furious at the "reds" and the work they did by gaining sole leadership

URGE WORKERS TO JOIN YOUTH MEET

Ballam Pledges Support of District

John J. Ballam, acting district organizer of Dist. 2, Workers (Communist) Party urged New York workers to attend the International Youth Day Celebration to be held here tomorrow evening at Irving Plaza, 15th St. and Irving Pl., in a statement issued last night.

The statement follows:

"The Workers (Communist) Party, District 2, feels that it is part of its revolutionary duty as the leader of the entire working class to explain its attitude on the working youth in connection with the growing war danger and in connection with International Youth Day.

"The young workers are one of the most exploited sections of the working class. The young workers are being constantly drawn into industry. At the same time, we find that the young workers are mostly unorganized, the wages of the young workers are low, the young workers are to be found among the unskilled workers, and at best, in the ranks of the semi-skilled. This is due to the development of machinery which eliminates the need of skill.

"The young workers offer the

N. Y. Candidates Will Speak Sept. 28

The first large election campaign rally to be held in New York this year—which will take place at the Central Opera House, 67th St. near Third Ave., on Friday evening, 8 o'clock, September 28th—will come at a time when workers thruout the country are carrying on an intensive fight against reactionary unionism and are forming new, militant unions in the basic industries.

The determination of workers who have long suffered the exploitation of their capitalist bosses working hand in glove with the bosses' political machines to break with corrupt, misleading "labor leaders" is well demonstrated at the mine workers' convention to form a new union, at which their program of organization was carried on despite the murder of delegates and the combined assault of thugs and state police carrying out the instructions of the Lewis machine.

Pioneers Flogged for Strike Activity

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 12.—While the reactionary-controlled United Textile Workers Union of the American Federation of Labor continues in convention, dividing its time between unseating militant delegates and "appealing to the souls of employers for improvement of working conditions," the thousands of textile strikers here are choosing delegates to the convention for a new national textile workers union to be held in New York City on September 22 and 23.

Today's developments on the attempt of the Textile Council and the mill owners association to come to a fake agreement for ending the strike are negligible since one of the chief actors in this strikebreaking play, W. E. G. Batty is now in New York attending the U. T. W. convention. No sooner did word reach Batty that Eli Keller and Ellen Dawson, two T. M. C. organizers, were unseated as delegates by the McMahon machine, than Batty and his immediate crowd thought it safe to go to New York.

The only direct event in the sell-out plot, was the statement issued by Charles Mitchell, chairman of the Mediation Committee that "the situation is too delicate for comment."

Campaign Committee of City Meets Tomorrow

A meeting of the City Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party will be held tomorrow at 8 p. m., at the Worker Center, at which problems in connection with the Red Campaign in this city

In a statement issued last night by Rebecca Grecht, District 2 Campaign Manager, all section organizers, section campaign directors campaign managers and other representatives of industrial fractions and industrial campaign committees are urged to attend without fail.

Call Is Issued for 1,000 Workers to Give Their Services to Drive

Trachtenberg, Campaign Committee Chairman, Outlines Plans to Build Party

Marking a new forward step in the development of the Workers (Communist) Party, the Central Executive Committee has issued a call for one thousand rank and file organizers and speakers to offer their services to the Party for a limited time during the election campaign, in order to bring the program of the class struggle into every industrial town and hamlet in the United States, as well as to the exploited farmers and to build the Party in thousands of places where no Communist organization exists at the present time.

Speaking in behalf of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party, Alexander Trachtenberg, chairman of the National Election Campaign Committee, declared that the election campaign offers the best opportunity ever presented to the Party to bring its message to the masses of exploited workers and farmers from coast to coast.

Communists Revolutionary Party.

"In the early days of the socialist movement," he said, "when that party based itself on the working masses, when it had as leaders proletarian rebels like Ben Hanford, the creator of Jimmie Higgins and Eugene V. Debs, before it deserted the class struggle and fell into the hands of shyster lawyers and preachers, socialist party members were imbued with the spirit of voluntary effort and every active member considered himself an organizer. Today the socialist party is a hollow shell without force or enthusiasm and the revolutionary tradition of the pioneering days of socialism in the United States has been inherited by the Workers (Communist) Party.

"The members of the Workers (Communist) Party today, unlike the few that still carry cards in the socialist party, are actively engaged in every struggle of the workers against the capitalists on the industrial field. They are building new militant unions to take the place of the industrial organizations of the workers that have been reduced to impotency and wrecked thru the treachery of crooked labor leaders, and organizing the working class in industries where the fossilized labor bureaucrats could not or would not essay the task of organization.

Must Reach Small Towns.

"Our comrades of the rank and file," Trachtenberg declared, "can be equally successful in building the Workers (Communist) Party. It is not necessary that they should be experienced orators. Every worker can tell his story and explain his point of view to another worker.

"Foster and Gitlow, the national standard bearers of the Party in the election campaign and the hundreds of candidates on the state tickets can only visit the principal cities. There are thousands of small towns scattered thruout the United States that are almost entirely populated by the working class, and in which there is no unit of the Workers (Communist) Party.

"The masses of workers are carefully watching the present election campaign. The well-informed class-conscious workers know from experience that both parties are enemies of labor, that both parties have issued injunctions to break strikes; that both parties wherever in power are equally willing to serve the capitalists and use the state forces to suppress the struggles of the workers.

"During the administration of Woodrow Wilson," Trachtenberg

FOSTER ASSAILS KELLOGG TREATY

"Camouflage for War of Imperialism"

The presidential campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party) has started with the opening of national campaign headquarters at 43 East 125th Street, and the sending of William Z. Foster, their presidential candidate, and Benjamin Gitlow, candidate for vice-president, on a nation-wide speaking tour. Scott Nearing, candidate for Governor of New Jersey, is on a tour of the South. He spoke last night at Baltimore and will address another meeting tomorrow at Richmond, on the Communist program of revolutionary struggle against the present economic and political order. The Communists have more speakers in the field than any other political party.

EUROPEAN LABOR GREETS MINERS

Cables Received From Militant Unions

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—Cables of congratulations and international greetings from miners unions of Belgium, Austria, and France were received by the National Miners Union whose sessions have been held here this week. All of them express hope and confidence that the new union means much to international labor. The officials of the old United Mine Workers of America showed scant concern to the coal miners' unions of other countries when they were in trouble, and for this reason European labor is doubly interested.

Thus the Regional Union of the nothern miners of France states that it "is following with the closest interest the evolution of the miners' movement in the United States towards fighting policies," and hopes for full proceedings of the convention. And the others are in like spirit: The letter of the Knights of Labor of Belgium declares the "hope that this conference will enable the miners to free themselves definitely from the worst bureaucrats in the world." The mine workers' opposition in the Austrian Federation of Mine and Mill workers states that "the strug-

All organizations who were not represented at the last conference are also urged to send two delegates to the meeting tonight.

CHUKHNOVSKY RESUMES SEARCH FOR LOST MEN

Makes Successful Flights as Italian Government Recalls Ships Giving Up Hunt

MOSCOW, Sept. 12 (UP).—The Russian aviator Chukhnovsky, who is accompanying the icebreaker Krassin on its search for the envelope crew of the dirigible Italia and the Roald Amundsen party, made one successful flight yesterday and has started another.

These are the first flights made on the present excursion of the Krassin.

On the first flight Chukhnovsky reconnoitered eastward from Cape North and finally returned to the Krassin. After a short rest he started another flight.

ROME, Sept. 12.—While the Soviet icebreaker Krassin ploughs the Arctic seas in search of the 12 men mysteriously swallowed up by the ice deserts of the north, announcement was made today by the Stefani News Agency that the fascist Italian government had decided to recall all its vessels now in the Spitzbergen waters.

Six Italian subjects, members of the so-called Allessandri party, are among the 12 men being sought. The other six are Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, and his five companions.

The announcement gave the unfavorable weather conditions as the reason for the abandonment of the search. It is planned to release the Norwegian icebreaker Braganza, which is under charter by the Italian government. The Citta di Milano, base ship of General Nobile, initiator and leader of the disastrous fascist expedition into the north, will leave Spitzbergen at the end of the week, the announcement stated.

The abandonment of the search by the Italian government leaves the Krassin, which already has rescued 16 men, as the only expedition persisting in the hunt for the lost men. Attached to the Krassin is the heroic aviator, Chukhnovsky, who has resumed his flights.

of the big New Bedford textile strike of 28,000 workers. "No good louts!" Batty fumed at the Textile Mill Committee leadership in a speech that nevertheless could not help admitting his organization's complete bankruptcy in that situation.

Deak Asks a Question.

This he did when, toward the close of his speech, in which he hemmed and hawed about alleged membership totals, Gustav Deak, delegate from a Passaic local, rose and quietly asked Batty how many came to his parade last Saturday and how many workers turned out to participate in the Textile Mill Committee parade demonstration. Deak was answered with the confession that the T. M. C. had more, but that there were many sympathetic organizations in the T. M. C. parade. He then declared that this Saturday's demonstration completely stripped from Batty and his Textile Council any pretentions to leadership in the strike. He pointed out that 1,000 people followed Batty while 35,000 massed behind the banners of the T. M. C.

Denounces Batty.

He also denounced Batty and his union for the betrayal he was engineering in New Bedford. The policy of sell-out to the bosses, by offering to sign an agreement granting the bosses a vicious speed-up system which would nullify a recall of the wage cut, was characterized by the Passaic representative as the policy that has made the U. T. W. into a rotten skeleton instead of a union.

URGE WORKERS TO JOIN YOUTH MEET

movement a fertile field for revolutionary activity because of their conditions. The young workers must be won for the working class. And the only way that the youth can be won is by the building up of its vanguard, the strengthening of the Communist youth movement, the degree of active support that the Party gives to the Young Workers Communist League.

"International Youth Day is being celebrated thruout the world. In every section of the globe, the Communist Parties and the Young Communist Leagues arrange joint celebrations on this occasion. International Youth Day was born in the period of imperialist war. Its tradition is one of struggle against imperialism. The Communist Parties must participate in this demonstration of the working youth against the present war danger, must help to mobilize the entire working class for a militant struggle against pacifist illusions and against the war preparations of the exploiters.

"For that reason there will be held in New York City a joint mass meeting on September 14th in the Irving Plaza Hall. Every class-conscious worker should be there as a sign of solidarity with the exploited toiling youth. The Party as a whole will have to pay more attention to the problem of the young workers and of giving greater support to our youth movement, which has done such excellent work in the last period. The Communist Youth League has participated in every political demonstration that the Party has organized in recent months. The League has done good work in the C. M. T. C's this summer in the New York district. Generally, the work of the League has improved much.

"Now it is up to the Party membership to develop the Young Workers (Communist) League still further, and for the Party units to help the League politically, morally and financially.

"Every Party member, every militant class-conscious worker, should attend the International Youth Day mass meeting Friday night."

DUNN TO SPEAK AT YOUTH MEET

Conference Important, He Says

Robert Dunn, labor economist and author of "American Foreign Investments" yesterday added his name to those of prominent trade unionists who have endorsed the Working Youth Conference of Greater New York to be held at Labor Temple, Second Ave. and 14th Street, September 29 and 30.

Dunn stated that "it would help the young workers considerably should the Conference be a success. It therefore becomes the duty of all interested in aiding the young workers to endorse and support it. I am glad to hear that trade unionists are heartily supporting it."

The Working Youth Conference is considered a big step towards the organization of the unorganized and greatly exploited working class youth in New York. It is a step to unite the youth with the adult workers and rally them for a struggle to better their conditions.

Philadelphia Gangs Busy in Bootleg War

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12 (UP).—Petty gang flare-ups, none of which ridded the city of members of its alcohol and machine gun traffic, continued to keep the city alert today.

While officials investigated a report that bootleggers were smuggling in grain alcohol from Porto Rico to replenish their lowered supply, gunmen entered the bottling establishment of Pasquale Livoy and attempted to atone for the shooting of one of their members Monday.

At that time Livoy had resented an attempt to "shake him down" and had killed one gunman and seriously wounded another in the ensuing gun fight. Today's attempt left him only stunned by the force of a bullet deflected by his watch.

were not the prejudiced story of friends of Schiffrin, but the exact testimony rendered by police making the arrests of both Schiffrin, two of his comrades and three of the right wing "knifing crew." They and the capitalist press, who certainly cannot be termed friends of the left wing, clearly showed that the six right wing agents had leaped out of an auto and rushed at Schiffrin and his friend. His friend fled, Schiffrin was hemmed in, and he decided to face his attackers. Harry Silver, leading the armed squad, received a wound from a penknife from which he later died.

To-morrow the hearing of the case will be continued in the 161st St. Magistrate Court before Judge Dodge. Schiffrin is held on a charge of homicide while his two companions and the three right wingers are out on bail of $1,500.

The case grew out of an attempt of the socialist officials of the Butchers Union, to deprive a left wing worker from his job because he had been a supporter of a demand to investigate the finance records of I. Korn, socialist head of the union.

These brutal methods of crushing the militancy out of the Jewish labor movement, which are resorted to by the right wing are condemned vehemently by the workers. A movement can already be seen developing, to drive out of the labor movement elements which use the weapon of depriving families of bread, and knifing attacks of workers in order to retain their control of the workers organizations.

During the last period of struggle against the socialists, the Jewish working class has seen A. Gross, fur union leader, barely escape death in a brutal attack by professional gangsters. Another Italian worker barely escaped murder.

Six Planes Start in Cross-Country Flight

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Sept. 12 (UP).—Speeding over carefully picked air lanes, some of which were made hazardous by cross currents, six planes tonight were safely on their way to Los Angeles and the completion of the final event of the National Air Derby of 1928.

Shortly before 6 p. m., a powerful Lockheed-Vega monoplane equipped with a Hornet 500 H. P. motor and carrying 587 gallons of gas, lifted itself from the field and headed into the west, the last of an entry list of nine, three of which were definitely declared out of the 3,450 mile race shortly after its start. In the cockpit were John P. Morris and William Thaw 2nd, both of Pittsburgh.

TEXTILE STRIKER LEARNS TO DIET

14 Year Old Daughter, A Miracle Cook

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 12.—Joseph Julio, a rank and file textile striker here yesterday told a representative of the Workers International Relief that his ability to withstand the rigors of the 22-week strike is entirely due to the miracle his 14-year-old daughter performs in the stewpot. When interviewed by a representative of the relief committee, Julio said, "You should see what my girl Victoria can make with the supplies the relief station gives her." Victoria is a dark-eyed Portuguese girl who smiled shyly as her father paid tribute to her culinary art.

A Worker's Life.

The Julios live in a ramshackle house on South First Street; the father is a widower and he and his eight children live in three rooms. His average earnings for the past two years have been $13 a week. His fourteen year old daughter has no time to go to school as she looks after her little brothers and sisters.

This family is typical of the thousands of striking families here and Fall River who are standing by the Textile Mill Committee in the fight to break the power of the treacherous American Federation of Labor textile union which is making breakneck efforts to betray the 22-week strike.

Appeals for Support.

Fred Beidenkapp, national secretary of the Workers International Relief, yesterday issued an urgent appeal for funds with which to continue feeding the 30,000 textile strikers in New Bedford and Fall River. "The next few weeks," Beidenkapp said, "will determine the outcome of the strike. It is the duty of all militant workers to make the utmost sacrifices to help feed these heroic workers."

BRONX ELECTION CAMPAIGN DINNER IS SUCCESSFUL

4th and 5th Assembly Districts on Ballot

At the end of a day's intensive signature drive the Red Campaigners of Section 5 of the Workers (Communist) Party, the Bronx, participated in a Red Banquet last Sunday evening at which Bronx Communist candidates spoke and which resulted in the collection of $100 for the Red Campaign Fund.

The banquet was the formal celebration for the putting across of the 5th Assembly District of the Bronx, and it turned out after the results of that day's activities had been checked up that in the 4th Assembly District also, enough signatures had been obtained.

At the banquet, which was held under the chairmanship of J. Yakovlieff, Section Organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party of the Bronx, several candidates on the Red Election ticket spoke on the issues and importance of the 1928 Elections. Among these were Rebecca Grecht, candidate from the 5th A. D. and Communist Campaign Manager of District 2; Samuel Liebowitz, candidate from the 24th Congressional District; Samuel Nesin, running in the 6th A. D.; Louis A. Baum and Philip Frankfeld, candidates from the 1st and 3rd Bronx Assembly Districts respectively.

Hoover Holds Confab With Mellon, Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (UP).—The part which President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will play in the republican presidential campaign apparently was discussed between them and Herbert Hoover during a conference lasting an hour and fifteen minutes today. Just what Coolidge will do in the campaign, however, remains a mystery.

EXPOSE GRAFTING BY JOB AGENCIES

Open Shoppers Become Suddenly Virtuous

Evidence of criminal practices on the part of private employment agencies continued to pile up yesterday at the hearing before the Industrial Survey Commission at the Bar Association building. The commission controlled by the republican legislature, is believed to be planning legislation looking towards greater control of labor and employment by big business and is making the "investigation" in order to prepare the ground.

Among the witnesses were Dr. John B. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation; John M. O'Hanlon, secretary of the New York State Federation of Labor, who has been working together with the open-shop commission in some of its programs; Miss Belle Downer, former examiner of the United States Employment Service, and others.

The evidence showed that the parasitic, private employment agencies work together with employers to hire, fire and rehire workers and then split the fees. Other employers hire girls as waitresses, but actually force them into prostitution. The most common practice is to take money from workers on the promise of a job which never is open.

REFUSE TO WORK UNTIL DEMANDS ARE FULLY MET

New Rule After Four Escape

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 12 (UP).—Twenty prisoners employed in the workshop of the Norfolk County jail here went on strike today because of a new ruling depriving them of a half hour recreation period.

The ruling was put in effect after the escape of four prisoners from the jail Sunday night. They sawed their way to freedom through the bars in a window in the jail dining room.

The prisoners were engaged in reed work. They refused to leave their cells unless they were accorded the recently rescinded right.

Prison authorities said the strike did not amount to "a row of pins" because other prisoners were only too willing to be permitted to leave their cells to work in the reed room.

Continue School Strike Until Parents Demands Are Met by Authorities

While Miss McCooey, associate superintendent of the Brooklyn public schools, and Dr. Baker, superintendent of the schools in the eastern section of Brooklyn denied that there was a strike because of overcrowded schools, inconvenient location, and traffic menace, mothers held two mass meetings last night at 8:30, one outside Public School No. 19 and the other outside Public School No. 50 at which it was decided to carry on the strike.

The mothers object to sending their children to overcrowded and far-distant schools and to the new assignment of pupils which has resulted in children of one family going to three different schools.

The mothers refuse to send their children to school unless the conditions are remedied.

mill owners even the city's public schools are, was sharply demonstrated this week when members of the Young Pioneers League and members of the Strikers Childrens' Club, were the subject of a vicious campaign of persecution for their activities in behalf of the strike.

Punishment for their affiliations ranges fro mpetty annoyances of the suspected children, all the way to open floggings. Afina Ellenterio, 11 years old, a pupil in the Ingraham School was first scolded for her membership in the Pioneers and then beaten till she fainted. "The official crime she was alleged to have committed was that of not knowing the location of Mississippi. Eliza Moura, Roosevelt Junior High School was punished for having the Pioneers insignia on her blouse.

Domingue Costello, ten, the son of a shoemaker who soles the shoes of strikers free, was held after school yesterday and beaten for wearing a Pioneer tie. Gangs of young roughs are being sent to start fights with the children picketing the homes of scabs. Manuel Bernado, 12 had his eyes blacked, and Louis Garcia, 12, was bruised.

In spite of all this persecution, however, the childrens' movement grows by leaps and bounds, in activity as well as numbers. Strikers' children, volunteered to join the Pioneers in a widespread distribution of the Young Comrade, official organ of the Young Pioneers of America.

Great enthusiasm was shown by the strikers from the Whitman Mill when they attended the meeting of their mill committee. Fred E. Beal was chairman and reported on the planned new union to be launched in New York on Sept. 22. Keller and Dawson, returned from the U. T. W. convention were occorded a spirited ovation. Thursday evening, the strikers from the Nashewena Mill are to meet. Friday the Soule Mill workers meet with the Acushnet and Potemska following soon thereafter.

French Miners Send Greetings.

From the Unitary Union of Northern Miners and Allied Trades of France comes the following message of solidarity and good-will over the signature of M. Morival, its secretary-general:

"Dear Comrades:

"The Regional Unitary Trade Union of the militant miners of the North of France salutes with joy the calling of the convention at Pittsburgh on the 9th of September, by the left wing of the American miners.

"It expresses the hope that the miners on that date will succeed in founding a real class-conscious union, one which will enable them to free themselves from the yoke of the traitor chiefs of the old union.

"The Regional Trade Union, which is following with the closest interest the evolution of the miners movement in the United States, toward real fighting policies, also hopes that the Pittsburgh Conference will send us the full proceedings of the Convention.

"Long live the American Miners Union, freed from Lewis and his clique!

"Long life the world wide united front of the miners!

"For the Regional Trade Union of the Miners of the North of France.

"The Secretary General,
—"M. Morival."

Belgium Workers Speak

For the Federation of the Knights of Labor of Seraing, Belgium, Jules Blavier, secretary, writes:

"Seraing, Aug. 7th '28.

"Dear Comrades:

"On the occasion of the Convention called at Pittsburgh by you left wing American workers,

"We send fraternal greetings to all the miners and also to the New American Miners Union.

"We hope that this convention will enable the miners to free themselves definitely from the worst bureaucrats in the world.

"Liberated from this check and strong in their new hope the miners will go forward in the struggle, and devote their lives to throwing off the chains of capitalism.

"For the Federation of the Knights of Labor of Belgium.

"The Secretary,
—"Jules Blavier."

Austrian Miners' Greetings.

Through Franz Koritschoney, the left wing miners of the Austrian Federation of Mine and Millworkers, whose headquarters are in Vienna, write: "We militant mineworkers of Austria, who are struggling against the reactionary bureaucrats greet with enthusiasm the great step of our American colleagues.

"More and more have the conservatives of our country given up their pretence of following the 'left' progressive tradition and adopted the class collaboration program of the A. F. of L. The struggle of the fighting American mine workers against their reactionary officials and bureaucrats give us also a lead. Long live the militant miners' union! Long live the six hour day! Long live the solidarity of the workers of the world!

"With fraternal greetings,
—"Franz Koritschoney, Member of Executive Committee."

Aluminum Workers Are Paid Low Wage

WASHINGTON. — Female workers in the manufacture of aluminum utensils are paid as low as $14.69 a week, according to the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics.

A study of 32 plants in seven states show that weekly earnings for male and female workers average $25.68. Full-time weekly hours average 52½, but the time actually worked average 50 hours. The comparatively few molders are the highest paid employes, their full-time weekly earnings average $41.37 None of these workers are organized.

Crisis May Force Tory Cabinet Reorganization Chamberlain 'Too Sick'

LONDON, Sept. 12 (UP).—A reorganization of the cabinet, including the resignation of seven ministers for reasons of health, will take place before the 1929 elections, the Daily Telegraph reported today.

The newspaper said it understood the following would retire: Sir Austin Chamberlain, the Earl of Balfour, Sir William Johnson-Hicks, W. C. Bridgeman, the Marquis of Salisbury, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister and Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland.

FRENCH WORKERS PRESS ON BRIAND

Charges War Preparation Against USSR

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Briand's speech at Geneva in which he stressed the need for military defense against a war which he charged was being prepared by the Soviet Union, resulted in many comments here, the most important of which was the denunciation of the militarist policy of the French government by the Communist press.

The criticism pointed out that French military and naval costs were rising, that new preparations were being made, especially in the new line of fortifications stretching across Europe, the construction of airplane bases, and the perfection of chemical means of warfare.

When Briand charges the Soviet Union with "fostering a class war" and claimed that military strength was necessary not so much for national defense but for protection against the "menace," the Communist press charges that was only an excuse for further preparations for an offensive war against the Soviet Union, and for the perfection of a strike-breaking and counter-revolutionary organization of military and naval strength.

By trying to discredit the Soviet Union by his references to "theatrical gestures" Briand is only trying to draw the attention of the French masses from the significance of its class struggle and the sincere and whole-hearted desire of the Soviet Union for peace, the press said.

On the other hand, semi-official government papers like the Temps, commended Briand on his stand at Geneva, especially against the German demand for evacuation.

JAPANESE TORIES PLAN OFFENSIVE

TOKIO, Sept. 12.—Many charges of bribery and other underhand methods punctuate the comment here on the complete dissolvency of the opposition party, Minseito, which leaves Baron Tanaka in power and his policy towards Manchuria and the Nanking regime intact.

The first move in this series of government maneuvers took place on August 1 when Takejiro Tokonami seceded from the opposition group and threatened to form a third party, which weakened the opposition (Minseito). Well informed observers charge that this move was inspired by the government group and that the further disintegration of the Minseito was brought about by cash bribes.

This clever maneuvering has resulted in the maintenance of the policy of military aggression in Manchuria and enmity to the Soviet Union. The Minseito, in event it had attained power, would perhaps have adopted a less "militantly aggressive" policy but one essentially based on the protection of the Japanese "interests" in Manchuria.

MOLDERS RAISE WAGES.

SEATTLE.—Molders raised their minimum wage to $7.50 a day after a short strike. The former minimum was $6.40 but several employers paid more than this rate. The average increase is 60 cents a day.

OPERATORS REFUSE CUT.

ST. LOUIS.—Motion picture operators have rejected a 10 per cent cut proposed by St. Louis owners. Negotiations continue.

OIL INTERESTS END INDIA WAR

Price-cutting Cut Too Many Profits

LONDON, Sept. 12.—After the price war between Dutch Shell and the Standard Oil in India, in which it was found that the Royal Dutch Shell undercharged considerable in order to win the eastern market from the United States, both companies are now charging exorbitant prices, according to the report of an Indian board of inquiry?

At the beginning of the price war the Dutch Shell alleged that the Standard had bought oil from the Soviet Oil Syndicate which rightfully belonged to it, on the basis of pre-revolutionary claims.

It is generally believed that the two oil companies, after their recent conference in England, had, among other things, decided to give up the price-war because of its damaging results. According to the board of inquiry, the excess charged by the oil companies would amount to about $20,000,000 above the ordinary economic prices.

DRIVE TO HELP MILL CHILDREN

Open W. I. R. Station in New Bedford

A relief station to feed the children of the textile strikers is soon to be opened in New Bedford by the Workers International Relief. The Mothers' League of New England is launching a special campaign for its support. The Hebrew Bakers' Local 45 has taxed its members with fifty cents per capita, making a sum of about $125 which is to go toward the initial expense of the children's station. Two food stations, at the north and south end of New Bedford, are maintained by the Workers International Relief. It also conducts soup kitchens in Fall River.

Increased relief activity is reported in Boston and vicinity. Jeannette D. Pearl, field organizer for the W. I. R., is visiting and addressing organizations, enlisting sympathy and support of workers and friends. At a special meeting of the Carpenters' Local 157 a dollar tax per member was levied. The president, A. Roosar, advanced a check of 200 on account, and promcheck of $200 on account, and promsoon. Generous donations have been made by the New York and Independent Workmen's Circle of Boston, W. S. & D. B. F., American Austrian Benefit Society, with promise of help from several other organizations.

The board of directors of the Community Church, after listening to report of the New Bedford situation, assured Miss Pearl of their sympathy with the need for relief and offered to start a relief drive in support of the W. I. R. relief kitchens.

Imperialists Discuss Occupation of Rhine at Session in Geneva

GENEVA, Sept. 12.—Five representatives of big powers met here today to discuss the question of the evacuation of German land occupied by allied troops and to formulate a common platform to present to the United States government that would combine the question of the evacuation of the Rhine with that of war debts.

Previously Briand of France had declared that evacuation would not take place without some form of repayment. The French delegation, supported by the British, has demanded as a form of remuneration that the railroad and industrial securities of Germany be marketed abroad, that the allies control the German frontier and that there be no talk of a German-Austrian political union. By a united platform the European powers expect to have the United States government reduce or cancel the war debts in return for the German securities.

With characteristic seclusion nothing was said of the results of the first conference, but a long series of negotiations are thought necessary before the powers concerned will agree to a common platform.

144 ROUMANIAN PEASANTS AND WORKERS TRIED

Government Witnesses are Police Spies

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 12. The Rumanian government yesterday began the trial of 144 workers and peasants on charges of spreading Communist propaganda, according to reports from Klausenburg.

Against these defendants the government has marshalled more than four hundred witnesses, many of whom, according to statements of the workers, are police spies and government agents.

The evidence in the case is comprised in several volumes of closely printed matter.

In spite of the strictness with which the Rumanian censorship has endeavored to keep the less savory details of the arrests from leaving the country, stories of unbelievable cruelty and tortures in the Rumanian jails have frequently found their way across the frontier and into the stories of correspondents.

Many of the defendants in the present trial have been held in prisons for months following their arrest on charges which, at times, are no more serious than the possession of a book declared illegal by the authorities or an accidental world. In many cases the arrests can be laid to local jealousies and informing for revenge.

SPANISH POLICE ARREST 60 MORE

Papers Carry No News of Raids

MADRID, Sept. 12 (UP).—Extraordinary precautions have been taken by police and military authorities to suppress any disorder at tomorrow's ceremonies celebrating the fifth anniversary of Premier Primo De Rivera's regime as dictator.

Any disturbance will be put down quickly. Officials, however, were confident that a plot to overthrow the De Rivera rule had been broken thoroughly by more than 360 arrests here and in the provinces.

This morning's papers, due to censorship, did not carry a line about the miscarried plot, which was discovered Tuesday. All that was printed was the announcement that De Rivera was conferring today with the ministers of interior and justice and the chief of police about preparations for tomorrow's ceremony, which will draw 50,000 visitors to Madrid.

Sixty additional arrests at Valencia were reported today by Captain General Castro Girona, but on orders from Madrid they were made by civil police instead of the military. General Girona, as military chief, added that no indication was seen of disturbances in Valencia.

GERMAN MINERS THREATEN STRIKE

Soft Coal Diggers Get Small Pay

SENFTENBERG, Germany (FP). —Soft coal miners of this district are preparing to strike in October for the eight-hour day. Now they are working 9½ hours.

The strike, it is expected, will be short but exciting. Last year the coal diggers struck for a wage increase. Officials with polished boots, riding breeches and canes soiled manicured hands to help strikebreakers. Despite elaborate police protection for the blacklegs, the organized miners won—although 10 pfennigs was the extent of their victory. That is about 2½ cents American.

Average wages are now about 30 marks a week, or $7.50. That figure also represents just about the purchasing power of 30 marks. Competition of badly paid Polish miners depresses German standards. German miners live barely on the subsistence level, denied many ordinary articles of diet deemed essential in America. Among these are butter, eggs and milk. Cheap meats, sausages, vegetables and dark bread constitute the digger's diet.

American coal operators haven't much to learn over here. Miners live in company houses in a company town. The company owns the store, hotel, bakery, church and other buildings.

OFFSPRING SHAMES PAPA.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 12 (UP). A. O. Guy, son of Rev. J. W. Guy, superintendent of the South Carolina anti-saloon league, was fined $200 and sentenced to four months in jail today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of violation of the prohibition law.

Torn from German Prisons by Workers

A group of class war prisoners leaving the infamous Sonnenburg jail following their release under the provisions of the German amnesty act. The freed prisoners were received enthusiastically all over Germany by the German working class elated at its success in delivering its fighters from the hands of the capitalists. A number of the prisoners will go to the Soviet Union to recuperate from the sufferings they underwent in jail.

VOLUNTEER ARMY AIDS IN RED ELECTION DRIVE

said, "Mitchell Palmer, attorney general, got out his infamous injunction against the miners and under the Harding regime the notorious Harry Daugherty got the Wilkerson injunction out against the striking railroad workers. The reactionary leaders of the American Federation of Labor have conveniently forgotten the strikebreaking roles played by both parties, and are now scrambling for position on the bandwagons of the democratic and republican parties.

"But the workers who went thru these strikes, who were clubbed, jailed and blacklisted, who lost their working conditions and suffered reductions in wages as a result of those injunctions, have not forgotten. The lessons of those struggles have been engraved on their memories and they are willing to listen to the program of the Workers (Communist) Party which calls on them to organize industrially and politically, and points out that only thru militant struggle can they hold whatever gains they have made in the past, win further concessions from the bosses in the future and prepare for the final overthrow of the capitalist system, and the establishment of a Workers and Farmers' Government, which will build a new society and free labor from the chains of the present slavery, the constant fear of unemployment, the horrors of war, and other evils of capitalism."

Trachtenberg announced that all these comrades who have machines, whether they be flivvers or second hand Packards, will be asked to loan them to the Party during this organization drive. Every vehicle capable of eating up space will be pressed into service. Comrades who cannot secure other means of locomotion will hike from town to town. The National Office of the Workers (Communist) Party will provide all the necessary campaign material, leaflets, membership cards, collection blanks, sub blanks for the Daily Worker and other Communist organs.

Members who are ready to offer their services are urged to get in touch immediately with the National Office of the Workers (Communist) Party at 43 East 125th Street, give their names and addresses, their Party connections and all other necessary information, tell where they would prefer to be sent and how much time they can give to this work.

Comrade Trachtenberg made it clear that the National Election Campaign is not merely a campaign to roll up a large vote for the Communist ticket, but that it is primarily a campaign to build the Party, to establish it on a national basis and thereby multiply its influence among the masses. It is not only a campaign of functionaries as is the case with the socialist party election campaign. The revival of the pioneer spirit among the members of the only revolutionary working class political party in the United States is a guarantee that the Workers (Communist) Party is destined to fulfill its historical role in America, which is to organize and lead the masses for the conquest of the land and machinery which they now use for the profit of the ruling classes in return for a bare existence, and to place political power exclusively in the hands of the workers and farmers.

While the socialist party is mobilizing ministers of religion, professional journalists, bourgeois college professors and shyster lawyers, the Workers (Communist) Party is mobilizing the working masses. In this work, the class conscious women in industry will be called on to volunteer, the members of the Young Workers (Communist) League will be asked to place their energy and enthusiasm at the disposal of the Central Executive Committee, Negro radicals will be sent into the south to bring the message of Communism to the persecuted and exploited black workers in the factories and on the farms and Communist agitators will go into the farming regions to organize Party branches.

"In this campaign," Comrade Trachtenberg concluded, "every member of the Party must become a Party builder. Those who can leave home and work for awhile are expected to volunteer immediately for this interesting and politically important task."

CREW, PASSENGERS SAVED.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 12 (UP).—The lives of seventy passengers were endangered when fire broke out yesterday in the hold of the Ward liner Monterey off the Port of Progresso, a wireless to the newspaper Excelsior said today.

REFORMISTS ASK "OPEN DOOR" FOR ARGENTINE OIL

Block Nationalization Project

BUENOS AYRES, Argentina, Sept. 12.—The proposal to nationalize all oil lands met with a setback when a coalition of the minority parties, including the conservatives, "socialists" and anti-personal radicals decided to obstruct any discussion of the plan in the chamber.

The bill calls for the expropriation of all oil lands including those held by private and foreign interests and would effect British and American oil companies who have the principle concessions in the Argentine. The largest United States interest is held by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The minority bloc can obstruct the discussion on the proposed legislation by absenting itself from the chamber, thus preventing a quorum which is necessary for any discussion of new laws.

The Argentine produces about 1,372,000 tons of crude oil, of which only 800,000 come from the national reserves, the remainder being supplied by the foreign investors. In order to fulfill the fuel need Argentine must import about 850,000 tons. Between the oil interests in the country itself and the companies that export to Argentina, a virtual control over the fuel supply is exercised by the foreign interests.

The "socialist" and conservative bloc stand for an open-door policy for foreign oil exploiters.

BROACH'S "EXPENSES" ARE TOTALLED BY ELECTRICAL WORKER; $1,794 IN A MONTH

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Electrical workers who are interested in learning what becomes of the money paid into their international office will be rewarded by looking over the quarterly report of the office.

I have before me now a copy of the report covering the months of April, May and June, 1928. We glance over the receipts and go to the disbursements, the money paid out.

At the head of the list—J. P. Noonan, April salary $700. Wow! Seven hundred bucks! Say, wire-pullers, how long do you suppose a man retains his working class viewpoint on a salary of $700 a month?

Setting the average dues at four dollars, it takes dues from 175 wiremen to buy papa Noonan his salary. And one more feature is that it comes regularly every month. Winter and summer he never has to ask for it or wait till the boss gets in a check from a job. No worry about unemployment here, boys. Year round job.

Next on the list comes a man with whom the electrical workers of New York are well acquainted. H. H. Broach—April salary $441.66. Not so bad, but a little farther along comes a notation: H. H. Broach—$300 for New York difficulty. What difficulty? Putting over his dirty work on Local 3? Then comes an item of $203, expenses to March 31; then $222, from March 31 to April 7; then $220 for the New York difficulty. Difficulties come high in New York. Then $201 from April 7 to April 14, and again $206.75 from April 14 to April 21, making a total of $1,794.41 taken out of the treasury by Broach in one month the month of April, 1928.

Is Broach using our money to fight his battles against us? Use your own judgment. Is it any wonder that the fat-boys try to keep the per capita coming in regularly? By golly, it has to come in pretty regularly to keep them in limousines and porter-house steaks. If they were real honest to god union men they would work for the scale and expenses. The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers is a working class organization, not a millionaires' club. All our initiation fees go to the international office. Why not go fifty-fifty with the local union and build it up instead of piling up big surpluses for these birds to use fighting their battles against us and providing fat jobs for themselves as heads of insurance companies and the like? Where is the benefit of the rank and file? Do we get a reduction in dues out of the profits of our investments? Do we get insurance any cheaper than from the other companies? No.

Think it over, wire-pullers, and determine that these fellows shall come down to earth. They are away out of touch with us. They have lost the workers' viewpoint and look upon us as the capitalists do, as poor saps to be exploited and bled to the fullest extent.

Steel Workers Must Push Organization Thru U. S., Correspondent Says

00,000 SLAVES IN MOLTEN HELLS; 6,000 ARE IN UNION

Big Corporation Buys Up Officials, Police

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (By Mail).—The steel workers of this country stand as an unparalleled example of the need of organization. For of all the workers in the country who are supposed to have some skill in their work they have a smaller membership in the organized membership of the American Federation of Labor, in proportion to the number employed in the steel industry, than any other body within that organization. Of all the skilled and semi-skilled craftsmen in this country which the officials of the Federation claim control there are less members in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers, and more non-union and open shops in which no members of the Iron and Steel organization can be found than in any of the other branches in which the many thousands of workers are employed. In the whole industry in the country there are working, when the industry is running at capacity, about six hundred thousand skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workers and out of that vast whole it is doubtful if there are six thousand bona fide steel and iron workers in the Amalgamated Association.

Open Shop.

The steel mills of the country, both Bessemer and open hearth, are notorious for their lack of organization, notwithstanding the fact that the men are exploited under the most inhuman speed-up system. The blast furnaces of the country have been open shop and non-union throughout the history of their existance as part of the huge iron and steel trust, and even earlier than the formation of the trust, the men who worked in the blast furnaces were mercilessly exploited, thru long hours, in the exhausting heat fro the barest existance wage. The trust have ruthlessly used their private army of coal and iron police, and their espionage system of stool pigeons, and private detectives, to keep out any organizers and break up any attempt to organize these [illegible] workers. No union has ever been permitted to get a foot hold in the steel mills or the blast furnaces of this country since the Homestead strike.

Not even in the great effort of 1919 when Bill Foster made one of the most determined attempts to organize the steel workers was the organization allowed to take deep root in the mills, by the officers of the steel trusts thruout the country. In that strike they used every force at their command to break up the union, before those in charge were allowed to consolidate the ranks of those who had joined the new union. Of course to these efforts of the Garey's must be added the open and secret sabotage of this work by the reactionary officialdom of the American Federation of Labor, who did their best to see that no organization was allowed to get a start in the steel mills and blast furnaces of the trusts.

Divisions of Workers.

One of the difficulties that must be faced in the organization of the steel workers will be that this industry is divided into a great many different kinds of fabrication plants as well as into many different kinds of production plants. The organizers of the steel workers must reckon on going into tube mills, pipe mills, rail mills, rod mills, nail mills, mills where they turn out armour plate for battleships, tin and sheet mills where they turn out the metal for the bodies of automobiles and trucks, and many other plants in which the steel workers are employed and in which we must carry on in our organizing campaign.

Steel in City Politics.

The steel trusts have learned a lesson in their numerous campaigns against the workers for the open shop, that it would be well if the workers would take to heart. They are always found buttressed in the numerous political offices in the towns where their plants are operated. In Homestead, Braddock, Rankin, McKeesport, McKees Rocks and the other small boros and towns in and around Pittsburgh, taking this city as an example, every office of any note is in the hands of some tool of the big corporations. In Woodlawn, a suburb of Pittsburgh, the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation control the entire town. The intern church movement exposed in one of their reports on the conditions of the steel workers, that the police of Pittsburgh who had beats in and near steel mills were paid during the 1919 steel strike $150 per month by the big steel corporations, exclusive of their regular pay as city policemen of the city of Pittsburgh. This accounts in part for the many meetings which could not be held in any of the towns in and around the Pittsburgh district. They were paid by the mill barons to see that their interests were not interfered with and they delivered the goods as every organizer in the steel campaign can testify. The steel corporations enter the campaigns and have their tools in office so that when trouble comes they are ready to beat up, arrest, jail and send to prison those who would interfere with their "business" by organizing their slaves.

Politics In Organizing Game.

This phase of any effort on our part to organize the steel mills is not to be overlooked for it is a big problem and one with which we are confronted at every turn in our work. The gun of the thug and gangster when backed by the advice of the rulers in steel—"to go the limit and we will protect you and see that no harm befalls you no matter what you do"—has caused many a militant organizer to slow up in the steel owned towns of the country. These thugs and gangsters are hired in every big industry not only in times of strke but in the days even when there is no evidence of trouble they can be seen strutting about the mill yards with colts strapped to their belts. They know the mayors and burgesses are owned and are the tools of the big trusts and if they bump off some organizer of the workers they will be protected. Hence we must make this a very concrete part of our work among the iron and steel workers and go into the political game witih the deliberate intention of wresting out of the hands of the steel barons this potent weapon which they use so effectively in suppressing the right of free speech and public assembly.

Militarists Watch Transcontinental Non-Stop Flight

American militarists are paying close attention to the swiftness with which it is possible to rush bombing planes from one coast of the country to the other. Blazing the trail for them are the transcontinental hops which have been occupying the flying world for some weeks past. The latest bait to lure fliers along the transcontinental route is a purse of $22,500 for the first non-stop flight from Roosevelt field to Los Angeles. Above, the Bellanca monoplane which George Haldeman, who crossed the Atlantic with Ruth Elder, will pilot. Below, the plane belonging to Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, wife of the Wall Street financier. TO SHOW 'THE CROWD"

Great Film at Labor Temple Saturday

"THE CROWD," by John V. A. Weaver (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer) which created a sensation when it was shown at the Astor Theatre last spring, will be shown for the benefit of the New Bedford textile strikers next Saturday evening, Sept. 15, at the Labor Temple, Second Ave. and 14th St.

Albert Weisbord and M. J. Olgin will speak before each performance at 8 p. m. and 11 p. m.

Here's what Robert Wolf, author of "Springboard," who was cinema critic for "Sovietskoe King" of Moscow, said about "The Crowd" when it was first shown:

"This is the first really great American film-drama—a movie, it seems to me, quite worthy to rank with 'Potemkin,' 'Variety,' 'The Last Laugh,' 'Ballet Mecanique,' the best of Chaplin and the other few first-rate achievements of the screen.

"I do not quite see how 'The Crowd' escaped creating a sensation among both the intellectuals and the radicals here.

"'The Crowd' in a quiet and unassuming way is so revolutionary that if the police knew their business they would arrest King Vidor and John V. A. Weaver. Its moral is: Can anybody make a success in America? Y-e-s. . . try and do it! It is the first direct attack upon the great capitalist myth. . . 'The Crowd' is the story of a disillusioned white-collar slave. Out of the vast mass of commercial workers that is downtown New York, Vidor and Weaver have picked two, John and Mary, any two of the clerks and stenographers that you would hit at at the noon hour from a Broadway office-building window with a brick.

". . . 'The Crowd' is an artistic expression so detached, so skilful, so restrained, that it is difficult to find words adequate to praise it."

Makes Corrections on Expulsion of Lesco

The Daily Worker has received the following statement from the District Executive Committee, Workers (Communist) Party of Ohio, relative to the expulsion of Steve Lesco from the Party:

In its statement on the expulsion of Steve Lesco from the Party the District Executive Committee of District Ohio made a few errors in regard to happenings at the meeting of the District Painters' Council, which are corrected in the following.

The progressive who was beaten up was not attacked directly in the office of the union, but was taken into the men's room of the building and assaulted.

At the meeting of the District Painters' Council no charges were preferred against the progressive. The council appointed an investigating committee without any charges being preferred. Isaacs was a member of the investigating committee and altho the progressive was given no trial whatever, Lesco reporting for the committee recommended his expulsion from the council. This was done.

The above facts do not alter the situation, nor the decision of the District Executive Committee on the expulsion of Lesco. The facts themselves justify more than ever the expulsion of Lesco from the Party.

Another sentence in the statement of the District Executive Committee needs a little elucidation. Today the masses of the American workers are not yet prepared to join a revolutionary party. This is due to their illusions about American "democracy" and to the fact that they still have some faith in the capitalist parties. How shall they be made to feel their class positions? How shall they begin to think and act as a class—as workers? Only if they are weaned away from their support of the capitalist parties and form a party embracing the broad masses of the workers—a Labor Party.

This party will be a class party, only in so far as it will have a labor platform and will put up candidates of the working class. But this party will be limited in its possibilities, for its program will not contemplate a change in the capitalist system. It will be a party made up of workers endeavoring to secure more rights for the workers under the present system.

The Communists have no illusions about a Party of this character. The Communists will help to wean the workers away from the capitalist parties and do everything possible to accelerate this process. But only a complete change of the capitalist system by overthrowing it will really help the workers. Revolutionary workers join the Workers (Communist) Party who are prepared to fight for this change.

PACKARD AUTO WORKERS FIRED FOR SICKNESS

Department Boss Is Called Bully

(By a Worker Correspondent)

DETROIT, Mich., (By Mail).—Some red-blooded workers should go to the Packard plant in Detroit and organize a union because htis plant is a slave-driving outfit, especially certain motor departments.

There is a bull boss there named Smith, who never speaks to anybody who works under him except when he wants to holler his head off telling the men that they work too slow.

If we want to find out something or ask him something he never answers our questions. He just bawls us out good and proper.

There we work from fifty cents to fifty-four cents an hour. If a answered that he gets too much already. The bull tells him that he'll get a cut in wages not a raise. I've known men working there for three years and they are still getting fifty cents an hour.

I've asked the big bully about the bonus and he says that we did not make any bonus. They don't want anybody to know too much, the less a man knows the better for the boss. If a man is a little educated he is no good to them, he knows too much.

The bosses' system is never to talk to the slaves, just be rough to them, don't tell them anything.

If a man stays at home a day because he is sick and comes back to work the next day, he gets a good bawling out and may get fired too. If a man gets a raise in wages he gets only two cents an hour more.

One man told the bull that he wanted to go home because he was sick. The bull told him to go ahead and stay home altogether. He told him never to come back to work no more.

Parden me for my bad writing because I have no time to go to school under this system. They want you to work hard till you die, then you get promoted. I started to work when I was nine years of age and still I am a slave.

I am a disabled ex-serviceman and reader of The Daily Worker.

—N. R.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The worker who wrote the above piece of correspondence asks his fellow workers and the editors of his class paper to pardon his "bad writing." There is nothing to pardon. As a letter describing conditions in the Packard shop and the slavery of the workers there, this is very good writing! If there were words misspelled in the original letter, the writer tells why: "I started to work when I was nine years of age and still I am a slave." The Worker Correspondent does not care about swell English. Write the best you can and we will do the rest.

Edwin Burke Comedy to Open On Monday at Maxine Elliott

NEXT Monday night Patterson McNutt will present "This Thing Called Love," a new comedy by Edwin Burke, at the Maxine Elliott Theatre with Violet Heming and Minor Watson as the featured players. The supporting cast includes Malcolm Duncan, Juliette Day, Ruth Garland, Bruce Elmore, J. H. Brewer, Henry Whittemore, Enid Romany and Josephine Lewis. This is McNutt's first Broadway production since he sponsored a revival of Ibsen's "Ghosts" with Mrs. Fiske as the star. He is the co-author of "Pigs," a success of a few seasons back.

RUTH LYONS.

In "Night Hostess," Philip Dunning's play of Broadway night life at the Martin Beck Theatre.

"Young Love," by Samson Raphaelson, author of "The Jazz Singer," goes into rehearsal today and is scheduled for an out of town opening prior to its Broadway showing.

"In Abraham's Bosom," the Pulitzer prize play by Paul Green, will have four performances at the Provincetown Playhouse before it leaves for an extended road tour. Performances begin on Friday evening, September 21, and end with the Sunday evening performance.

William Crimmins has replaced Al Roberts as the Uncle Tom of the troupe in "Eva the Fifth" at the Little Theatre.

Robert Long is the latest addition to the cast of "Possessions," which is now in rehearsal. The play is due here next month.

SOVKINO COMEDY BOOKED FOR CAMEO THEATRE.

The Film Arts Guild announces the American premiere of the first Soviet comedy at the Cameo Theatre which has been tentatively titled "The Three Moscow-Teers." This Sovkino production is the first attempt at cinema humor by the Sovkino studios and has had a tremendous success in Europe. It relates the stories of two young men modelled on the style of Huckleberry Finn, who have created an invention which does away with hand labor in the making of wooden packing boxes. The attempts of the packing box manufacturer to frustrate their efforts to bring their invention to the attention of the Soviet authorities is replete with comic situations and indicates that the Russians are quite adept in the matter of unique "gags."

On the same program will be "The Shanghai Document" which, while ostensibly a news reel scenic, gives one the feel and throb of life in this amazing Chinese metropolis better than any previous production. Its direction by J. Slokh and photography by Leo Stepanov has been acclaimed by the European press as equal to the best to be found in Russian productions. This program will come to the Cameo Theatre about the first week in October.

Ben Gold, Fur Leader, Will Speak at Huge Mine Meeting Here on September 20th

JOHN WATT WILL TELL STORY OF BIG CONVENTION

Miners Send Solidarity Message to Needle Men

Ben Gold, head of the Joint Board, Furriers Union, who has played the outstanding role in the struggles of the furriers against the alliance of the bosses and the reactionary international clique, will be one of the speakers at the monster solidarity mass meeting on Thursday evening, September 20, at Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., which has been arranged by the National Miners Relief Committee, 799 Broadway, and the Shop Delegates Conference for Miners Relief.

Watt to Speak.

This is the meeting at which John Watt, who has just been elected president of the new National Miners Union, will bring a report of the historic convention at Pittsburgh, at which the new union of the rank and file was launched. Watt, who has been in the thick of the coal diggers' fight against their enemies, will describe the vivid details of the miners' desperate struggles with starvation, eviction and disease—a constant reality—and brings a message of solidarity with the fighting needle trades workers, the striking textile workers and the whole of the progressive labor movement.

In addition to Ben Gold, who is one of the outstanding leaders of left wing struggles in this country, others prominent in the battles of the progressive workers will speak and call on the workers of New York and vicinity to express their solidarity with the new miners' union by aiding the thousands of coal diggers and their families, who are still destitute and facing starvation. There will also be speakers representing the Youth Conference for Miners Relief and the Children's Relief Scout Groups, who will address themselves particularly to the youth and the children.

The huge solidarity mass meeting is expected to mobilize the militant workers of this city 100 per cent behind the new National Miners Union and to rally all forces to support the miners in the new struggles which face them.

NEW MINE UNION PLANS BIG FIGHT

sympathy to the family of the heroic coal digger. The delegates to the new union convention today passed a resolution saluting the dead miner who gave his life for the union.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—Tony Carbonari, delegate to the convention for a new miners' union, who was slugged by Lewis gangsters last Sunday morning, is still in the hospital in a very critical condition. One side of his brain has cleared of concussions, although he is still delirious, cannot remember anything and refuses to take any food.

The National Miners' Relief Committee has sent a doctor regularly to attend Carbonari, and as much as possible is being done to bring him around.

Hospital authorities announced that they have orders to turn Carbonari over to the police if he recovers. Police denial of charges that they deported numbers of mine delegates from the city have been refuted by delegates to whom information has come from those who were driven out of town.

FOSTER ASSAILS PACT IN DETROIT KELLOGG 'PEACE'

"Camouflage for War of Imperialists"

didates of the socialist as well as the republican and democratic parties, and their platforms, which he claimed avoid the real issues confronting the American people. He attacked the peace pact which Kellogg has just brought back from Europe, the imperialist and military preparations of the capitalist nations, their conspiracy against the Soviet Union, the exploitation of American workers and farmers, bourgeois democracy, discrimination against the foreign-born, Negroes and women, and told his audience that only the Workers (Communist) Party offered the worker a solution of these evils of the capitalist system.

Foster charged that the Kellogg Peace Pact is a "camouflage for imperialism, a smoke-screen behind which the rival powers are maneuvering for advantageous position in preparation for the inevitable conflict for domination of world markets." He predicted a war between the United States and Great Britain, and condemned the "capitalist conspiracy against Russia, whose very existence is a menace to the ruling class, an inspiration to workers everywhere to rise in revolution and set up a workers and farmers government."

The Communists are not in the political field solely to win votes, said Foster, but they frankly utilize the campaign to disseminate Communist propaganda. If Communists should be elected they would not hope to reform the present system and realize their radical program by parliamentary methods, but would utilize legislative bodies as forums, to mobilize the masses for revolutionary struggles against the capitalist class and its government. The Communist candidate condemned the socialists for creating illusions about the possibilities of using the ballot to capture and reform the present government and emancipate the working class. No Communist would become president, he said, until the government is a revolutionary Soviet with a Red Army to enforce the rule of the workers.

Auto Workers Exploited

In Detroit, Foster protested particularly against the ruthless exploitation of the automobile workers in that section. He attacked "Fordism," as a plan to speed up the workers and squeeze out more profits for the bosses. "Once the best paid of American workers, the auto-worker has suffered from wage cuts and a killing speed-up system which throws him on the scrap-heap at an early age."

Foster is best known for his leadership of the great steel strike of 1919. He has a long record of militantly radical activity, having been expelled from the socialist party in 1909 after nine years in its left-wing. He joined the I. W. W. which sent him to Budapest to a meeting of the International Trade Unions Secretariat. While in Europe he studied the labor movement there. Upon his return he helped in the organization of the now defunct Syndicalist League, and of the Trade Union Educational League in 1916. After a trip to Russia in 1921 Foster openly declared himself a Communist and has since been a target for the officials of the American Federation of Labor, for his activity in the left wing of the trade unions.

The campaign tours of Foster, Gitlow and Nearing will cover the entire country. Foster will speak in Butte tomorrow, in Seattle on September 16, Portland, September 19, San Francisco September 21, and in Los Angeles September 23.

BISHOP'S HOME RUN BEATS YANKEES, 4-3

(By United Press)

The Philadelphia Athletics turned the tables on the New York Yankees here this afternoon and won the fourth game of their critical baseball series for the American League leadership. The score was 4 to 3.

By their victory today the Athletics won one game and lost three in the four-game series and are now one and one-half games behind the Yankees.

Today's game, like two previous games in this series, was decided by a home run, this time by Max Bishop, Athletics' second baseman, who drove the ball into the right-field bleachers in the first half of the ninth inning with none on base and the score tied at 3 to 3.

Connie Mack sent the veteran Ehmke to the mound and Miller Huggins called on Waite Hoyt, mainstay of the Yankee staff since the injury suffered by Herb Pennock. Tony Lazzeri, although still suffering from an arm injury, was at second base for the Yankees.

In the eighth inning, with a one run lead, Ehmke weakened and was replaced by Orwoll, who was credited with the win. Something went wrong with Ehmke's right knee and he had difficulty in standing on the mound. In this inning the Yankees missed a golden opportunity to win the game. Combs was safe on an infield hit and Koenig singled, but Combs was out in attempting to reach third. Lou Gehrig then struck out for the second time during the game, Ruth was walked and Meusel was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Orwoll was then rushed to the mound and walked Lazzeri on four straight balls, forcing in Koenig with the tying run. Gazella then batted for Robertson and flied out to Haas.

In the ninth inning Mack sent Rube Walberg to the mound. Walberg had previously suffered defeat in the second game of the double-header Sunday, but today his effectiveness returned and with a one run lead, resulting from Bishop's homer, he was never in trouble. Collins walked, but Durocher, Combs and Koenig were retired in order, giving the Athletics the 4 to 3 victory.

FOSTER TO SPEAK IN CALIFORNIA IN RED CAMPAIGN

Begin Intensive Red Drive

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—With only three weeks time in which to gather 12,000 signatures on the nomination petitions, the entire Workers Party membership in the California district has mobilized to get the names of Foster and Gitlow on the ballot in this state, and to run Anita Whitney for United States Senator.

San Francisco and Oakland are in a race to see which can gather the most signatures, and each day Communist and left-wing workers are bringing hundreds of names into the Party headquarters. The largest hall obtainable in the city has been taken for the campaign mass meeting, Friday, September 21, at which William Z. Foster will speak. It is the Civic Auditorium, Larkin Hall, and this is expected to be the biggest Communist meeting ever held in San Francisco. Workers' delegations from Oakland, Berkeley, San Jose, and farmers' delegations from Petaluma and Santa Clara County are coming in to San Francisco for the Foster meeting.

The Daily Worker has received from Geneva a wireless telegram of the International Press Correspondence which reads as follows:

"The speech of Aristide Briand to the League of Nations Assembly contain some passages that are extremely interesting and which show the possibilities of the League of Nations as a rallying point for the united imperialist front for war against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

"Briand denied that armaments have increased since the inception of the League of Nations, and continued:

> "'There is one country which is no member of the League of Nations and where armaments with regard to both men and material are increasing, and which is proud of this fact.
> "'This country is prepared to make theatrical gestures for disarmament, and demands disarmament complete and absolute. This country has signed the Paris pact. It renounces war. What war? Past war which has spotted with blood all the pages of human history? Or war which led one people pursuing national aspirations to attack other people? This war is damned, but there is another sort of war which doesn't seem to be damned. This other form of war seems to be holy for this people and leads it to misuse its power everywhere. The effects of such war are not less bloody for peoples. If the delegates here failed to realise this truth they would not be doing their duty. I speak not to create hindrances but in order to show that certain fears are justified.'"

Other dispatches published in the capitalist newspapers here fully bear out the interpretation of the French foreign minister's speech as one directed toward consolidating the imperialist forces of the world for concerted military action against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, and using the League of Nations as the base for counter-revolutionary war against the peoples of France, Germany, England and other countries in the expected revolutionary working class upheavals accompanying the outbreak of imperialist war. This is the correct conception of the League of Nations. Briand is merely trying to develop a more frank expression of the essential character of the League of Imperialists which has been half-concealed under Wilsonian hypocrisy. The half-concealment of this imperialist character has been necessary in the past to enable the social-democratic flunkeys of the imperialists to dupe the working class into support of the League of Imperialists. But in the complex maneuvres of European governments against one another, the Poincare government felt that the sentimental hog-wash was being used against the particular interests of French capitalist imperialism. This is interestingly brought out by the Temps (the semi-official organ of the French government), which says:

> "The Minister of Foreign Affairs has said all that should be said at this moment when there is being carried on a certain campaign which tends to give a completely false note to the current peace efforts."

Referring tactfully to Briand as "the creator of Locarno, the initiator of the (Kellogg-Briand) pact against war," the Temps continues:

> "The German campaign for early evacuation of the Rhineland without any recompense in return, for immediate and general disarmament and for anschluss with Austria has created misunderstanding which it is vital to dissipate. No one can do this with more purpose, authority and clarity than M. Briand, the creator of Locarno, the initiator of the pact against war, the man who has worked with the greatest ardor for the rapprochement of peoples and the peace of Europe.
> "His discourse has brought great comfort to all true friends of peace. It can only have deceived those who are content with the equivocal and who have abandoned for a mirage certain absolute formulas which they wish to exploit for certain particular causes or revolutionary theories."

The crafty brain of Briand, the ex-"socialist," in carrying through the imperialist purposes of the French finance-capitalists, foresees the need of his capitalist masters to prepare the way for the imperialists to attack the Soviet Union and any working-class revolution which may be found to intervene in the imperialist war to which his policies lead. The masses must be psychologized to believe that the menace of war comes from the efforts of the exploited masses. Revolutionary war against imperialism and against imperialist war ("the transformation of imperialist war into civil war against the capitalist class") are the only means by which peace can be brought to the world. The crafty imperialist war makers would reverse the picture and make the less conscious masses think that revolutionary war is the source of war danger. Especially the fact that the socialist Union of Socialist Soviet Republics must be defended by the proletariat of every capitalist country, is transformed by this dirty political "apache" Briand into a claim that menace of war comes from the only great power on earth that stands as a bulwark against imperialist war and as a concrete realization of the only social system that can and will put an end to all war.

Black is white, up is down, water is dry and fire is wet, says Mr. Briand; so the Soviet Union which is the only power to propose complete and absolute disarmament is the one which initiates war.

This is another warning to the working class of the world. The world war is coming without doubt. It is uncertain only as to the time at which it will break out with unprecedented suddenness and ferocity. The working class must be prepared ideologically to play its part as the most courageous defenders of the Socialist Fatherland of the world's working class—the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. The imperialists will start the war which the working class of all countries must transform into revolutionary war against the imperialists.

The speech of Briand shows the criminal idiocy of pacifist illusions. It shows that not only the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics is justified in being "proud" of its Red Army of free workers and peasants, but also the workers, farmers and colonial peoples of the whole world must be proud of the Red Army which belongs to all of us and will be the active champion of the oppressed of all countries in their struggles for liberation.

CAMPAIGN CORNER

Money is coming in for the Communist Campaign Fund in all languages. The Campaign Corner Editor is a one hundred per cent American, in the sense that he knows only one language and a half and those indifferently. But he can read the dollar sign in any language. It [illegible] Esperanto. Kate Schatz, of the Bronx, also of the Camp of the [illegible] of Nature, sends the sum of $[illegible] with the best wishes of the contributors. If those sympathizers [illegible] on a thick coat of tan for protection from the elements in winter as well as in summer we may have another contribution before the votes [illegible] to fly in November.

[illegible] receipt of this communication the editor of Campaign Corner [illegible] around the office for somebody to read the letter that accompanied the donation. Finally a Jewish comrade who could read his own language was located. The others could read almost everything else. But fancy my embarrassment when the comrade who essayed the task of translating it into South Boston Americanese stumbled at the dollar sign and could not hurdle his way over the figures until I had to give him a life. Verily indeed this is a topsy turvy world.

Here is another letter containing a check for $50.00. The campaign manager notes, "play up big" on the margin. The language is either Lettish, Lithuanian or Croatian. It doesn't matter. Fifty dollars is a lot of money. The money comes from Powhatan Point, Ohio, and I gather that it is the proceeds of a picnic held on August 26. I have reason to expect that when all the returns are in that the comrades of Powhaton Point will send us $25.00 more. Am I right or wrong?

The picnic period is almost over and that source of revenue for the $100,000 Communist Campaign Fund has bumped into a closed season. The Campaign Corner editor has been informed that a favorite indoor sport between now and election day will be raising funds for the Communist election campaign by means of house parties. Comrades will gather informally at somebody's home, listen to a tune over the radio, have tea and cake, and then simultaneously decide to contribute something to the campaign fund. No expenses, everything will be velvet. Besides having an enjoyable evening the comrades participating in this kind of indoor sport will have the additional satisfaction of doing a worthy deed. An easy conscience is conducive to sound sleep.

On United States Imperialism

Comrade Pepper Analyzes Position of Labor Movement in United States

The following speech was delivered by Comrade John Pepper at the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International. It analyzes the position of American capitalism and the nature of the sharpening class struggle in the United States.

I consider it my duty to cite one outstanding example of the fight of the American Party against Right dangers. I think it is not without significance that the document which accuses the C. E. C. of the American Party of constituting a Right-wing, that this document does not contain one single word about the most important, the fundamental error the American Party ever committed. The Right-wing error I am referring to is contained in the election platform of 1924. The same comrades who accuse the American Party of being a Right-wing party had the leadership of the Central Executive Committee of the American Party in 1924. These comrades are therefore fully responsible for the policies of the election platform of 1924. This election platform reads as follows:

"The Workers Party declares itself in favor of the immediate nationalization of all large-scale industries such as railroads, mines, super power plants, and means of communications and transportation, and for the organization of the workers in these industries for participation in the management and direction of these industries industrialized, thus developing industrial democracy, until industry comes under the control of those who produce the wealth of the nation."

Repeat Mistake.

Comrades, this statement was written, introduced and propagandized by those comrades who are accusing the present Central Executive Committee of being a Right-wing leadership. It wants to develop "industrial democracy" today in the middle of capitalist society and fosters the illusion that industrial democracy can develop before the working class seizes power and takes over the control of state power and industries. I have to state that the same mistake was repeated two years later, in 1926, in the election platform of the Party, though in not such a bad form.

Two election platforms of the Party contained a policy towards the nationalization and workers' control which was here characterized by Comrade Bukharin as a step towards a social-democratic line. And yet, such a deviation, such a grave error, was never mentioned, never criticized, never noticed, never corrected by those comrades who signed the lengthy document called the "Right danger in the American Party" and who claim to have the monopoly of Leninist policy in the American Party.

Party Corrects Errors.

The mistakes of the election platforms of 1924 and 1926 were corrected in the last election platform adopted by our Party in May, 1928. The initiative to correct these grave errors did not come from those comrades who signed the document called "Right Wing Danger in the American Party," but from the Central Executive Committee which they accuse of being a Right wing.

The American Party does not want to cover up its mistakes. Read the resolution of the May Plenum of our C. E. C. on the Trade Union question. There is a ruthless criticism in it of all mistakes we have made.

No one can question that the present Central Committee was the one to notice the major error contained in the previous platforms of the Party regarding immediate nationalization, control of production and industrial democracy. The present program of action of the Party does not contain such grave deviations to the Right.

We hope the whole Congress will reject the charge that the present Central Executive Committee of the Party is a Right wing or has the Right wing policies. Especially is it unjustified to put forward such a grave accusation based on a fundamentally wrong analysis and estimation of American imperialism as it is given in the document of these comrades.

Between Two Imperialist World Wars

International Youth Day Must Serve to Tear Masks From War-Mongers

By MARTIN ABERN

International Youth Day comes at an appropriate time this year. The day set aside by the handful of revolutionary youth during the bitter and black days of 1916-1917, as a day of demonstration against imperialist war, occurs this year amid smoke-screens of false and misleading "peace" pacts and the militarist preparations that forebode a new imperialist war.

While these war preparations are proceeding apace, and new betrayals are being planned by the socialists and labor misleaders, it is necessary to tell and retell the story of the days that gave birth to International Youth Day and to point out the significance of the occasion.

The outbreak of the world war of 1914-1918 tore the corrupt bodies of the entire socialist movement to bits. The sores that had festered for years were burst open by the terrific catastrophe. The labor and revolutionary movement of Europe in particular was exposed as a body poisoned by the agents of imperialism within its ranks. It was a slow poison, administered for years before the war, and nurtured by the small bribes and special privileges granted the aristocracy of labor by their imperialist masters.

Collapse of Reformists.

Only a small section of the revolutionary movement rose to the situation properly. The only elements that opposed the imperialist war were the Russian Bolsheviks, the Italian socialist leadership (Maximilists), the Rumanian and Bulgarian left wingers, and varied groups in the Scandinavian and other countries; and, significantly, the young socialist movement added its voice to the militant denunciation of the "socialist" traitors who were acting as agents for the kaisers, czars, bankers and business magnates in recruiting cannon fodder among the working class and peasantry.

The revolutionary youth were among the first to reestablish international working class connections. The miserable collapse of the second international only served to brighten by comparison the splendid work of the revolutionary youth center which was established in Switzerland.

The youth bureau in Berne, with its periodical, "The Youth International," received the closest and warmest collaboration of the exiled Russian Bolsheviks. Some of the most noteworthy contributions on imperialism, war, socialist-jingoism and the like, by such men as Lenin, Bucharin, Zinoviev, Trotsky, Kollontai and other Russian revolutionaries of the time could be found in the pages of the "Youth International." And this collaboration was a fruitful one in more than one respect, for the articles of Lenin in particular helped to burn away the last remnants of pacifist and petty-bourgeois illusions that still hovered over the revolutionary youth elements who were so anxiously and bravely striving to struggle against imperialism, the war, and the social patriots.

Set Aside Youth Week

It was while the trenches were flowing with working class blood, to the chants of praise sung by the "socialist" renegades, that the youth bureau in Berne issued a call to the revolutionary young workers and peasants throughout Europe to set aside the first week in September, 1915 for broad, militant demonstrations against the imperialist war and the treason of the social democrats. The voice of the revolutionary youth was the first on a Europe-wide scale to be raised in harmony with the Russian Bolsheviks, the German Spartacists led by Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, and the reds in other lands.

This great tradition, sprouting from the seeds of struggle, and forcing its way through the weeds of treason, has been properly carried down to this day. It is an occasion when the working and peasant youth of all countries demonstrate their hatred and opposition towards the imperialist wars of their master class. It is a special opportunity for the rallying of all of the toiling youth to the banner of struggle against imperialist war by enlisting on the side of the proletariat in the war of the class that continues every day. It comes during the election campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party which gives an added opportunity to the young militants. It is the warning of the militant youth to the imperialists that they will continue a revolutionary war against the reaction even if an imperialist slaughter should be going on at the time.

What more fitting occasion for International Youth Day demonstrations could be desired than the present? Military, naval, aerial, and industrial war preparations are going on throughout the capitalist world with unprecedented feverishness. The United States is planning a colossal navy and industries are being organized for two-minute transformation into war factories. There is a growing increase in points of friction between England and the United States, between the United States and Japan, between France and Italy, between the imperialist powers and the colonial peoples, and between world imperialism and the workers' fatherland, the Soviet Union. The struggle for world markets, for colonies, for "places in the sun," for world supremacy, has never been sharper than at this time, and the storm clouds of war have rarely been heavier.

New War In Making.

Precisely at such a time are the imperialist rogues attempting to hoodwink the masses in preparing them for "service." Innumerable "scraps of paper" are being signed with great solemnity by the "wise" diplomats. "Peace" has been proclaimed time and again at Versailles, at Genoa, at Laussane, at Locarno, at Thoiry, and now at Paris with American imperialism taking the lead. The more 'peace pacts" signed the nearer approaches the day of war.

International Youth Day must serve to tear the masks from these hypocrites and war mongers. They must be exposed as the mass murderers of the working class and peasant youth. Especially must the socialists be placed in their proper niche as at times open or concealed agents of the imperialist war lords. These renegades are continuing the tradition of the socialists of 1914. Norman Thomas supports the anti-Soviet Kellogg pact. Boncour helps to militarize working class France. Herman Mueller supports the navalism program of German imperialism. MacDonald bombs Chinese workers for his British masters. The Russian Mensheviks join the imperialist clamor for intervention against the Soviet Union.

Two Traditions.

Theirs is a tradition of despicable betrayal and they follow it consistently. Ours is a tradition of revolutionary anti-imperialist and anti-militarist struggle which received its baptism in war and revolution. It is a tradition which the youth best demonstrates on International Youth Day.

GANGSTERISM is on the run again in Chicago, according to a committee of prominent jurists, who have collected over $150,000 to clean up the town. I dare say crime will travel fast as long as the chasers get their pay regularly. There is a lot of spending in $150,000. The rule of "Big Bill The Builder" is said to be tumbling down and gunmen are reported moving their arsenals to Detroit, Philadelphia and other virgin cities.

BUT doubts spring eternal in the human breast and this department is skeptical, thanks to the newspapers. We read, for instance, that Scarface Al Capone, who manufactures beer and politicians in the Windy City, lost one of his best men in a gang shooting a few days ago. Al is a pious man, as befits one who admits that he loves his wife and children, so he knelt by the bier of the dead beerlegger and asked Jehovah to do the right thing by him. Then Al returned to his fortress, protected by a battalion of his Cicero Guards.

SO rampant has crime become in Chicago that even the deity has gone highway. We are indebted for this information to a reader who sent in a clipping from the Sunday sermon page of a newspaper, with the startling headline: "God Waylays Sinner." Like a footpad who leaps out of a dark alley on a pedestrian suspected of carrying home his pay envelope to a waiting and anxious wife,' Jehovah, not content with taking his toll from the rest of the world, has the poor taste to invade Chicago, thus throwing a monkey wrench into the machinery of the crime commission and robbing Al Capone of a chance of getting what rightfully belongs to him by virtue of his daring and his artillery.

THE American marines in Nicaragua are still doing their duty. Apparently the Nicaraguans vote as they shoot, so, despite the best laid plans of the Coolidge administration, they insisted on voting against American imperialism. The American marines painfully and regretfully unlimbered their rifles and shooed them away from the poles. If the marines manage to finish their bulleting in Nicaragua by November they may be able to help out, making change when the ballots are being exchanged in the United States on election day.

AN amnesia victim, whose first name is David—if his memory can be trusted—was found wandering in Greenwich Village recently. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where he will soon come to the conclusion that his name is Jonah. A psychoanalyst or a floor-walker would lose his memory in that joint. Should a guest be suspected of mental deficiency his test is a Chinese newspaper, provided he is not a Chinaman. Should an Occidental shake his head and admit that the language is Greek to him he will be lodged in the mental defective ward, but, should he ask for his laundry, he is placed in a padded cell. David would have been more fortunate had he run into King Benjamin of Benton Harbor.

OLD-FASHIONED drinking will soon be a thing of the past if those whose slogan is "Down With Liquor" hearken to the advice of G. E. Marchand, the wonderman who made his fortune before '37. This philanthropist is bringing his message of good cheer to an insolvent world through a big advertising campaign and public lectures. "How would you like to have $1,040 EXTRA every year for LIFE?" he asks. The vote is unanimous. Now what is the secret?

"EYE DRINKING," says Mr. Marchand, "is the new scientific principle through which you can get the money-making secrets 22 times faster than the old-fashioned method. The path from the eye to the brain is 22 times as broad as the path from the ear. It is through eye drinking that Mr. Marchand can give you coaching that you can use at once—to advance at once. It is through eye drinking that thousands have been enabled to break away from the dull routine jobs and attain unexpected heights of success. It is through eye drinking . . ." Well, that's enough. The eye-ball has supplanted the high-ball. "Drink to me only with thine eyes," is no longer a dry phrase. It has a kick to it. If it isn't one thing it is another in the life of the poor bootlegger.

Illinois Miners Vote Overwhelmingly to Repudiate the Lewis-Fishwick Wage Cut

MANY THOUSAND INDICATE WILL TO HOLD RANKS

Miners Believed to Be Following Decision of Convention

Vote Is Four to One

Predict Other Fields Will Follow

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 13.—Voting overwhelmingly to repudiate the wage cut agreement entered into between the Lewis-Fishwick machine and the coal operators, two of the largest districts of Central Illinois today showed their determination to maintain their living standards at all costs.

Incomplete reports gave the Springfield vote as 2,071 against and 555 for the new scale; but it is thought likely that the real vote was far more greatly opposed to the agreement by which the Lewis-Fishwick machine is seeking to complete its sell-out of the miners.

In the Taylorsville district 2,645 votes were reported against and 1,394 for the wage cut. Here again the actual vote is believed to have been more overwhelmingly opposed than the report would indicate.

In repudiating the Lewis sell-out, the mi[illegible] believed to have reacted t[illegible] decision made by the convention of the new National Miners Union to fight against the wage-cut agreements which the Lewis machine has inaugurated since its official abandonment of the Jacksonville scale several months ago.

MINOR TO SPEAK AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Communist Candidate Starts Tour

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Starting an election campaign tour which will take him into the most important industrial cities of New York State, Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and Workers (Communist) Party candidate for U. S. senator, will address the workers of Poughkeepsie at 8 p. m. tonight at the corner of Market and Main Sts.

Hyman Gordon, of the Young Workers (Communist) League, will also speak at this open air meeting.

Great interest has been aroused in the Communist election campaign among the workers here. That the growing class consciousness of the workers has become a real force is evidenced by the campaign which the bosses have started against "Red agitators," in which they are being actively supported by the boss press. A leading role in this campaign is being played by the De Laval Separator Company, whose more than 1,000 viciously exploited, miserably underpaid slaves have begun to show signs of awakening to their interests.

Meetings that have been held outside the plant and distributions of the Daily Worker have met with an enthusiastic response from the workers. The company in its effort to counteract this influence and

FOSTER IS GIVEN BIG WELCOME AT ST. PAUL MEET

Is Striking Contrast to Freeze-Out for Thomas

Exposes Kellogg Pact

Red Candidate Riddles Boss Parties

By PAT DEVINE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 13.—A procession of automobiles, draped in red and carrying Communist signs, welcomed William Z. Foster, presidential candidate on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, on his arrival here last night to address a mass meeting in behalf of the national election.

The cordial greeting that met Foster was in striking contrast to the coolness with which the Rev. Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate, was received when he arrived here last Saturday.

Workers Crowd Hall.

The German-American House where Foster spoke, was crowded to capacity. The audience was 100 per cent working class and applauded frequently while the speaker exploded the prosperity claims of the republican party, exposed the hollowness of the promises made to the workers and poor farmers by Al Smith, scored the socialist party for having deserted the class struggle, with being as hostile to the Soviet Union as the big capitalist parties, with having formed a united front with the labor bureaucracy against the left wing in the trade union movement and in general with having hauled down the red flag of revolt against capitalism and hoisting in its place the white flag of surrender.

Foster stressed the outstanding difference between the election campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party and of the parties of capitalism. "Our campaign," he declared, "has for its object the rallying of the masses of workers and exploited farmers for the struggle against capitalism. The Communists insist that the conditions of the exploited masses cannot be permanently improved under the present system, so they propose to abolish it and build up a socialist society on its ruins.

Workers Must Fight.

"The Workers (Communist) Party does not believe that the ruling classes will surrender its power over the economic lives of the masses without a struggle. History has

DISCLOSE FACTS OF MINE MURDER

Eye-witnesses Report on Moran Killing

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BENTLEYVILLE, Pa., Sept. 13.—From eyewitnesses to the shooting last Friday of George Moran, Charles and Theodore Glovak, militant miners and delegates to the convention for a new miners union, has at last come the full details of the affair which has ended in the death of Moran.

Louis Carboni was president of the Bentleyville local. Some time in the past he had been posing as a progressive, but was soon suspected of being both an operator's detective and a Lewis spy. He had placed ten thousand dollars in the bank which he certainly did not get by mining coal. Carboni when he saw his stool-pigeon activity exposed, came out in the open against the Save-the-Union movement and against the National Miners Convention in speeches, and in articles in the press. He exercised his usual iron terrorism over his local union, with threats of gun play and

REFUSE BAIL TO SAVE UNION FUND

17 Year Old Textile Strikers Arrested

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 12.—Charges of assault and battery were preferred against Joe Costa and A. Francis, two seventeen-year-old strikers who were arrested yesterday in the neighborhood of the Paige Mill. They had accosted a scab on his way to work and inquired if he knew that a strike was in progress. A fight ensued resulting in the arrest of the two young strikers.

A representative of the International Labor Defense, coming to jail later to bail the boys out, was told by the prisoners that they preferred to stay in jail overnight in order to save the union the eight dollars bond fee.

Brooklawn Park, was crowded with three thousand strikers who came to the meeting called today by the Textile Workers Union of the Textile Mill Committee. Over one hundred English members and former members of the A. F. of L. Textile Council also attended the meeting.

Enthusiastic applause greeted every pointed remark condemning the Frieder Plan, a speed-up system endorsed by the A. F. of L. union in their efforts to sell out the great question of the wage cut.

The most unanimous determination in a strike situation is being manifested by the tens of thousands on strike against the attempt of Batty to put over a sell-out by granting employers the Frieder system. The speed-up, even with the wage cut rescinded would leave the mill operatives in a worse condition than that which prevailed when the cut notices were posted.

Pioneers to Graduate

Will Be Held at the Irving Plaza Hall

International Youth Day will be celebrated at a mass meeting to be held at Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Place, tonight at 8 o'clock. At the meeting, which is being jointly arranged by the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers League of District 2, speakers will stress the imminent war danger, and point out the importance of the working class youth in industrial and revolutionary struggles.

Celebrations Thruout World.

The attack on the Young Workers League and the arrests of many of its members will be dealt with. The fight against imperialist jingoism will be the central point of the program, it is announced.

The meeting tonight is one of many held in various cities of the United States and working class centers thruout the world as part of the 13th anniversary of International Youth Day.

The program tonight will be an elaborate one, it is announced. A feature will be the graduation of 20 Young Pioneers into the Young Workers League, to the strains of the Youth Chorus, which will make its initial appearance tonight. In addition will be a special program arranged by a Youths Sports Club.

Speakers.

Speakers will include John J. Ballam, acting district organizer of District 2, Workers (Communist) Party; P. Frankfeld, acting district organizer of the League; Morris Yusem, representing the N. E. C. of the League; Ed. Welsh, a young Negro worker; a girl worker, and a representative of the Young Pioneers. Carl Winters will act as chairman.

LABOR FAKER IN ELECTION FRAUD

Plays Tricks in Sell-out of Workers

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 13.—Theodore N. Brandle, labor faker extraordinary, bosses' agent, strikebreaker and union destroyer heads a list of 1127 names of those who are accused of violating the New Jersey election laws by registering as a member of one capitalist party and voting in the primaries of another. The name of Brandle along with those of the 1,126 others has been submitted to Attorney General Katzenbach by the Case Legislative Investigating Committee at the conclusion of the hearing before the committee today.

Brandle's treacherous practice of leading workers into support of capitalist parties is brought to attention by the little game of double-crossing one capitalist party for the benefit of the other.

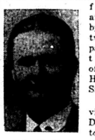
Brandle, who is one of the prominent democratic politicians of New Jersey, was among those who voted in the republican box. Brandle is one of the strongest supporters of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, vice chairman of the National Democratic Committee, who has several times been on the verge of exposure for various grafting activities.

Hague is one of the chief supporters of Al Smith for the presidency as is Brandle.

Farm Leader, Inventor, Is Red Candidate

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WEATHERFORD, Texas., Sept. 13—Neither the great masses of the American workers nor the hundreds of thousands of impoverished farmers have anything to gain by supporting the two old, corrupt parties and the twin candidates of Wall Street, Hoover and Smith.



John D. Rust

This is the conviction of John D. Rust of this town, candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party for U. S. senator from Texas.

"Only the Workers (Communist) Party, which has the fundamental approach to the problems of the great masses, represents their interests. The platforms of the republican, democratic and socialist parties are based on the program of perpetuating the present system of exploitation. The program of the Workers (Communist) Party—the program of the class struggle—aims at the overthrow of the present system and the substitution of a Workers' and Farmers' government."

Rust is a native Texan mechanic and skilled operator of big farm machinery. He is a veteran of the World War and took an active part in organizing the Workers Party in Kansas City. He is also the inventor of the cotton picker, the first successful picker which farmers in general can afford to buy.

WILL JOIN MOVE FOR NEW NAT'L TEXTILE UNION

A. F. of L. Organization Branded a "Mill Boss' Company Union"

Laud T.M.C. Movement

McMahon Fumes at the "Daily Worker"

Branding the United Textile Workers' Union of the American Federation of Labor as "an organization that is now serving the mill owners as a company union," four delegates, acting in behalf of six local unions, walked out of yesterday's convention session in the Great Northern Hotel, signified their complete severance with the reactionary U. T. W., and declared their intention of participating in the convention called by Textile Mill Committees for the establishment of a new national union of textile workers. The T. M. C. convention will be held here on the 22 and 23 of Sept. in Irving Plaza Hall.

The break came when Gustav Deak, organizer of the U. T. W. locals in Passaic, tried to answer the furious tirade delivered by President McMahon against the Daily Worker for the comments in its news columns on the large expense accounts chalked up by McMahon and his shoal of organizers.

Attacks Reactionaries.

Deak rose to speak and was immediately met with a barrage of shouts to "sit down or I'll throw you out," from McMahon, who was in the chair. When the protests of Deak and many other delegates that he be permitted to speak were unheeded by McMahon, Deak decided to take the floor. Deak launched into a slashing attack on the reactionary policies of the U. T. W. officialdom in Passaic and in New Bedford now, declaring that the bureaucrats were trying to break the 22 week old strike, and continuing to show, despite the incessant interruptions, that the textile workers in this country had nothing more to expect from McMahon and Co., and from the skeleton of an organization from which he derived a living, Deak denounced the U. T. W. fakers for unseating Ellen Dawson and Eli Keller on the first day of the convention here, and declared that he was authorized to speak for the locals they represented.

The statement follows:

"We, the undersigned delegates to the Convention of the United Textile Workers of America, representing Locals 1644, 1619, 1623 of Passaic, N. J., and Local 1615 Silk Workers of New York and Local 55, Knit Goods Workers of New York, hereby withdraw from this convention, and declare to the convention that the membership as a whole of the locals we represent will sever its affiliation with the United Textile Workers.

We are forced to pursue this course because we are convinced that the U. T. W. is no more than a company union, serving the interests of the employers rather than those of the workers, and in support of our contention we cite the following:

U. T. W. Betrayal.

Although the textile industry is in as bad condition as any in the country and is rapidly becoming worse due to wage slashing, lengthening of hours, and increasing speed-up, the U. T. W. officialdom has done nothing to organize the unorganized workers, except on paper. We submit that the U. T. W. is following the general policy of the A. F. of L. in failure to organize the unorganized and its lack of militancy in union leaders, as for instance the treachery of President Lewis of the United Mine Workers, the corrupt leadership of the A. F. of L. in the garment workers and furriers unions—in all three of which the militant workers have broken away from their leaders and are organizing new unions.

In the Passaic situation we cite the rejection by the U. T. W. officials of Albert Weisbord, militant

Illinois Miners Vote Overwhelmingly to Repudiate the Lewis-Fishwick Wage Cut

MANY THOUSAND INDICATE WILL TO HOLD RANKS

Miners Believed to Be Following Decision of Convention

Vote Is Four to One

Predict Other Fields Will Follow

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 13.—Voting overwhelmingly to repudiate the wage cut agreement entered into between the Lewis-Fishwick machine and the coal operators, two of the largest districts of Central Illinois today showed their determination to maintain their living standards at all costs.

Incomplete reports gave the Springfield vote as 2,071 against and 555 for the new scale; but it is thought likely that the real vote was far more greatly opposed to the agreement by which the Lewis-Fishwick machine is seeking to complete its sell-out of the miners.

In the Taylorsville district 2,645 votes were reported against and 1,394 for the wage cut. Here again the actual vote is believed to have been more overwhelmingly opposed than the report would indicate.

In repudiating the Lewis sell-out, the mi[illegible] believed to have reacted to [illegible] decision made by the convention of the new National Miners Union to fight against the wage-cut agreements which the Lewis machine has inaugurated since its official abandonment of the Jacksonville scale several months ago.

MINOR TO SPEAK AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Communist Candidate Starts Tour

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Starting an election campaign tour which will take him into the most important industrial cities of New York State, Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and Workers (Communist) Party candidate for U. S. senator, will address the workers of Poughkeepsie at 8 p. m. tonight at the corner of Market and Main Sts.

Hyman Gordon, of the Young Workers (Communist) League, will also speak at this open air meeting.

Great interest has been aroused in the Communist election campaign among the workers here. That the growing class consciousness of the workers has become a real force is evidenced by the campaign which the bosses have started against "Red agitators," in which they are being actively supported by the boss press. A leading role in this campaign is being played by the De Laval Separator Company, whose more than 1,000 viciously exploited, miserably underpaid slaves have begun to show signs of awakening to their interests.

Meetings that have been held outside the plant and distributions of the Daily Worker have met with an enthusiastic response from the workers. The company in its effort to counteract this influence and

FOSTER IS GIVEN BIG WELCOME AT ST. PAUL MEET

Is Striking Contrast to Freeze-Out for Thomas

Exposes Kellogg Pact

Red Candidate Riddles Boss Parties

By PAT DEVINE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 13.—A procession of automobiles, draped in red and carrying Communist signs, welcomed William Z. Foster, presidential candidate on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, on his arrival here last night to address a mass meeting in behalf of the national election.

The cordial greeting that met Foster was in striking contrast to the coolness with which the Rev. Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate, was received when he arrived here last Saturday.

Workers Crowd Hall.

The German-American House, where Foster spoke, was crowded to capacity. The audience was 100 per cent working class and applauded frequently while the speaker exploded the prosperity claims of the republican party, exposed the hollowness of the promises made to the workers and poor farmers by Al Smith, scored the socialist party for having deserted the class struggle, with being as hostile to the Soviet Union as the big capitalist parties, with having formed a united front with the labor bureaucracy against the left wing in the trade union movement and in general with having hauled down the red flag of revolt against capitalism and hoisting in its place the white flag of surrender.

Foster stressed the outstanding difference between the election campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party and of the parties of capitalism. "Our campaign," he declared, "has for its object the rallying of the masses of workers and exploited farmers for the struggle against capitalism. The Communists insist that the conditions of the exploited masses cannot be permanently improved under the present system, so they propose to abolish it and build up a socialist society on its ruins.

Workers Must Fight.

"The Workers (Communist) Party does not believe that the ruling classes will surrender its power over the economic lives of the masses without a struggle. History has

DISCLOSE FACTS OF MINE MURDER

Eye-witnesses Report on Moran Killing

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BENTLEYVILLE, Pa., Sept. 13.—From eyewitnesses to the shooting last Friday of George Moran, Charles and Theodore Glovak, militant miners and delegates to the convention for a new miners union, has at last come the full details of the affair which has ended in the death of Moran.

Louis Carboni was president of the Bentleyville local. Some time in the past he had been posing as a progressive, but was soon suspected of being both an operator's detective and a Lewis spy. He had placed ten thousand dollars in the bank which he certainly did not get by mining coal. Carboni when he saw his stool-pigeon activity exposed, came out in the open against the Save-the-Union movement and against the National Miners Convention in speeches, and in articles in the press. He exercised his usual iron terrorism over his local union, with threats of gun play and

17 Year Old Textile Strikers Arrested

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 12.—Charges of assault and battery were preferred against Joe Costa and A. Francis, two seventeen-year-old strikers who were arrested yesterday in the neighborhood of the Paige Mill. They had accosted a scab on his way to work and inquired if he knew that a strike was in progress. A fight ensued resulting in the arrest of the two young strikers.

A representative of the International Labor Defense, coming to jail later to bail the boys out, was told by the prisoners that they preferred to stay in jail overnight in order to save the union the eight dollars bond fee.

Brooklawn Park, was crowded with three thousand strikers who came to the meeting called today by the Textile Workers Union of the Textile Mill Committee. Over one hundred English members and former members of the A. F. of L. Textile Council also attended the meeting.

Enthusiastic applause greeted every pointed remark condemning the Frieder Plan, a speed-up system endorsed by the A. F. of L. union in their efforts to sell out the great question of the wage cut.

The most unanimous determination in a strike situation is being manifested by the tens of thousands on strike against the attempt of Batty to put over a sell-out by granting employers the Frieder system. The speed-up, even with the wage cut rescinded would leave the mill operatives in a worse condition than that which prevailed when the cut notices were posted.

With these ringing words the historic Pittsburgh convention announced the launching of the new miners' union on the ruins of the old one destroyed by the Lewis machine and set in motion the machinery which will unite the nearly 1,000,000 coal diggers in this country in one powerful, militant organization.

The steps that led up to the formation of the new union, the fight against the triple entente of the bosses, police and John L. Lewis and his cut-throat hirelings, the desperate struggles of thousands of miners and their families against starvation, eviction and disease, and the tense moment of the huge epoch-making Pittsburgh convention—all this will be vividly described to the workers of New York by the first president of the new National Miners' Union, John Watt, at a huge Solidarity Mass Meeting Thursday evening, Sept. 20, at Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave.

The meeting, which has been arranged by the National Miners' Relief Committee, 799 Broadway, and the Shop Delegates Conference for Miners' Relief, will mobilize the workers of New York and vicinity in support of the new miners' union and of the thousands of coal diggers, their wives and children who are face to face with starvation.

In addition to Watt, who will be the main speaker, leaders of workers' struggles in other fields will appear to pledge the solidarity of the workers of New York with the fighting miners. These speakers will include Ben Gold, general organizer of the Joint Board, Furriers' Union; Gladys Schechter, organizer, Millinery Workers' Union; Hyman Korets, general manager of the organization department, Cloak and Dressmakers' Union; Harold Williams, secretary of the Negro Committee for Miners' Relief; a speaker representing the Youth Conference for Miners' Relief and one from the Children's Relief Scout Groups.

TAILORS DOWN SIGMAN SCHEME

'Settlement' Rapped in 700 to 3 Vote

Despite the presence of Morris Sigman, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, the membership of Ladies Tailors Local 38, at a mass meeting in Bryant Hall late Tuesday night, rejected by 700 to 3, the right wing proposal that the employers be given permission to dismiss workers indiscriminately. This action forced the right wing officialdom of the local to go back to the employers negotiators for a new agreement and tell of the membership's decision. Tomorrow evening another mass meeting will be held, where the Sigman officials will report on the result of their trip.

At then negotiation for the new agreement the employers organization, taking advantage of the deterioration of the strength of the union due to the neglect and incompetency of the right wing officials, had the spunk to demand the right to discharge 10 per cent of their employees, and also those whom they judge to be guilty of "insubordination, and a slow worker. After the battery of "expert negotiators" Morris Sigman and Morris Hillquit, corporation lawyer, had met many days with the employers, they finally came to the members and advised acceptance of the clause they demanded.

MILLER TO SPEAK IN PORT CHESTER

J. O. Bentall Will Start Tour

Bert Miller, organization secretary of District 1, will speak at two election campaign rallies on Saturday, September 15th, in Port Chester, New York and Stamford, Connecticut.

The Port Chester meeting will take place at 6 p. m. in the center of the city, a special permit having been secured for the purpose.

The Stamford meeting will be held at 8 p. m. the same day on the Town Hall steps. This place is used by the republican and democratic parties once every three weeks respectively. The socialists were after the same position but were not on the job quick enough and lost out.

Both meetings are arranged by Comrade Mitchell, acting district organizer of District 15.

J. O. Bentall, Communist candidate for governor speaks in Scandinavian Hall, 701 State St., Erie, Pa., at 8 p. m., September 15th. If the weather is favorable, Comrade Bentall will speak in Perry Sq., South Park Row and Peach St.

Bentall will speak in several cities along the lake shore on his way to Minnesota where he is booked for a six-week tour.

TOOHEY PLEDGES FIGHT FOR UNION

Attends Funeral of Slain Miner

ready to be buried with him," said Glovak.

Long Procession of Mourners.

A terrific rainstorm subsided a half hour before the funeral but in spite of the storm more than nine hundred mourners, organized delegations of nine local unions, marched in the procession. Local women's auxiliaries, youth organizations, Miners' Relief and the National Executive Board all sent wreaths. President Watt of the National Miners' Union was master of ceremonies and Patrick Toohey, secretary, was the principal speaker.

Organizer of Children.

Many children and representatives of children's organizations attended the funeral. Moran was admired by all the miners' children as he was one of the leaders in creating children's organizations.

State troopers hovered around the outskirts of the crowd, but this time attempted no attack.

Entertain Carboni.

Carboni, the murderer of Moran, is technically under arrest, but instead of being in jail, as is always the case with militant miners under arrest, is being well cared for in a hospital in Washington. A wife of one of the local miners says that Carboni's wife boasted that five were meant to be killed at the union meeting. Glovak says that Pete Gulik, Lewis sub-district board member, threatened him with "something worse than a frame-up," several days before the shooting.

The National Executive Board adjourned last night. The next regular meeting will be held in three months.

U. S.-Welsh Tinplate Combines Agree on Market Exploitation

SWANSEA, Wales, Sept. 13 (UP)—Details of an American-Welsh tinplate manufacturers' agreement were published here today, allocating the world's tinplate markets.

The agreement was for the purpose of securing if possible, the freedom of the United States from Welsh competition in certain export markets of the world where Americans have immense capital invested. A similar agreement probably will be made with Germany shortly, it was said.

In return for the concession, American tinplate manufacturers agree to refrain from Wales' prewar markets in Europe.

Pick Up Piece of Wing in Tromseo Channel

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 13 (UP).—A piece of an airplane wing, identified as belonging to Roald Amundsen's Latham plane, was found in the Tromsoe Channel today.

Its position was believed to indicate that Amundsen and his party were forced down soon after they left Tromsoe last June to search for survivors from the dirigible Italia.

SHIP BLAST KILLS FIVE WORKERS

(By United Press)

SOUTHPORT, N. C., Sept. 13.—The coast guard cutter Modoc today sought the 7,000-ton tanker Shreveport, converted by an explosion yesterday into a burning mass with four bodies aboard. Thirty others of the crew were rescued, but one man died later. Four others were treated at a hospital here.

While the Modoc hunted the flaming ship 125 miles off shore here the twenty-nine survivors described the accident.

Captain S. A. Simmons, of Baltimore, said the tanker was proceeding empty from Philadelphia to Texas. Suddenly the decks bulged, there was a great flash, then an explosion, and wreckage began falling about the now burning steamer.

The Shreveport was owned by the Cities Service Transportation Co. of New York.

Speakers' Conference Tomorrow at 2 O'clock

A conference of all open-air speakers of District 2, Workers (Communist) Party, will be held at the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square, tomorrow at 2 p. m.

M. J. Olgin will speak on "The Soviet Union and its Relation to the Election Campaign" at the conference, which is arranged by the Agitprop department of the district.

KELLOGG AGREES TO BIG WAR BILL

"Peace" Pact Takes Second Place

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (FP).—When Secretary of State Kellogg returned from his Paris and Dublin trip, he went immediately into conference with President Coolidge. Then he talked with Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee. After that, the unofficial report went around that the administration had made a deal with the big navy lobby in the senate, whereby the 16-ship naval construction bill would first be passed and then the Kellogg treaty for renunciation of wars of aggression would be ratified.

Fifteen cruisers and one airplane carrier are to be built, at a cost of $274,000,000, under the terms of the pending bill, which has passed the house and has been somewhat amended in the senate committee. One amendment by Senator Hale's committee is being fought by the organized labor lobby. It seeks to permit naval officers to purchase from private non-union firms about half the work that will go into the eight ships that are to be built in government yards. All the private yards are non-union.

One primary reason for Kellogg's agreeing to let the naval construction bill have the right of way over his treaty is that Senator Swanson of Virginia, who threatened trouble over ratification, is interested in getting the ship contract for yards at Newport News and the Norfolk navy yard as quickly as possible.

SHOE STRIKERS STILL OUT SOLID

Union Holds Section Meeting Sunday

Stolidly determined to stay out on strike till their demands for recognition of the union and reinstatement of active unionists, are granted all craftsmen employed by the S. Lieberman Shoe Co. in Brooklyn, continue to picket the plant with increasing vigor. Widespread support is being marshalled by the workers organization, the Independent Shoe Workers Union of Greater New York, in a series of meetings still being held. This Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. a section membership meeting of Harlem unionists is to be held in the Hungarian Workers Home, 350 E. 81st Street.

In addition to taking up the question of supporting the men on strike in Brooklyn, this meeting, as the others did, will occupy itself with the coming organization drive of the union. Organizers Magliacano, the union president and other speakers will address the meeting. Last Sunday shoe workers in Coney Island met in section meeting.

The anti-union employer has already confessed the fact that the strike hurts where strikes hurt bosses most, and agreed to see the union leader in conference. On hearing the demands of the union, he refused to accede the men's demands, hoping that the break off of negotiations would discourage the strikers.

DE LEON LAUDS WORKING YOUTH MEET, SEPT. 29

Conference to Take Up Vital Tasks

Solon De Leon, labor economist, yesterday endorsed the forthcoming Working Youth Conference to be held at the Labor Temple, Second Ave. and 14th St., on September 29 and 30.

In a statement, issued through the arrangements committee of the conference, De Leon said:

"One of the most striking shortcomings of the labor movement in America is the fact that the young workers, the Negro workers and the women workers have not yet been organized. The organized section of the working class is limited more or less to the skilled and well-paid workers. The great masses of the worst exploited, the harshly treated, the much abused, the low paid, workers have not been organized.

"The officials of the A. F. of L. have repeatedly shown their unwillingness, or inability, to organize these masses of workers. Tens of thousands of these unskilled and semi-skilled workers are ready to become organized. The young workers especially, who constitute a large percentage of these unskilled and unorganized workers, have shown their ability to fight side by side with the adult workers when they were organized. They have shown, in instances, their readiness to be organized. Since there is no one else to do the organizing, the left wing must get on the job and do it.

"The Working Youth Conference is a step in the direction of organizing the unorganized young workers. It should receive the greatest possible support from all militant workers. This first step will have to be followed up with many more steps, until we succeed in accomplishing the task of organizing the young workers."

painters and a large number of progressive groups.

"This conference will meet the challenge of the textile trust and the reactionary labor misleaders, who are determined to break the strike," Harriet Silverman, secretary of the New York branch of the Workers International Relief, said yesterday.

Following the conference, delegates and hundreds of New York workers are expected to view the showing of "The Crowd" at Labor Temple, Second Ave. and 14th St., tomorrow night. M. J. Olgin and Albert Weisbord will speak before each performance, at 8:45 p. m. and 11 p. m. The entire proceeds will go to the New Bedford and Fall River textile strikers.

DUBINSKY BROKE MOVES OFFICES

Cutters League Grows in Membership

Dubinsky and his Cutters' Local 10, one of the strongest pillars of reaction in the Jewish labor movement, and Morris Sigman's right-hand man in his pogroms on the cloak and dressmakers in New York, are bankrupt, was the charge made by Organizer A. Horowitz, when he reported yesterday to the crowded meeting of members of the Cutters' Welfare League, which adheres to the National Organization Committee for a New Cloakmakers' Union. The meeting was held in the headquarters of the N. O. C., 16 W. 21st St., and began promptly at 6 last night.

To substantiate this charge, Horowitz called attention to the recently published charge that the "rich and all-powerful Local 10," (according to Bubinsky) is compelled to vacate its independent headquarters on 14th St. and move into the right wing Joint Board building. It was also pointed out at the meeting that Dubinsky tried to cloud the impression which he recognized such an event would inevitably create, came out with a boisterous announcement to the effect that no one should suspect that his Local 10 is bankrupt, but that the only reason he is moving from the very comfortable 14th Street offices, where they have been for nearly 10 years, is for "convenience."

The meeting last night also voted unanimous approval to the request of a committee sent by those arranging the big Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar in Madison Square Garden, October 4, 5, 6 and 7. A committee was elected to assist in making the bazaar a success. A motion was also carried to request the organization's executive board to buy tickets.

The league leaders reported on the work to date. The organizer reported on the complaints he had attended in the shops. The report on membership drives show that many new members are signing up with the League every week.

'SOCIALISTS' ASK FOR INJUNCTION

Sigmanites Beg Aid of Massachusetts Judge

union. Another hearing is scheduled for the coming Monday.

The new union, tho recently launched, has already acquired the allegiance of the workers in nearly every ladies garment manufacturing shop in this city. The sudden and complete stoppage of dues payments to the Sigman union by the members, and the simultaneous growth in membership of the new local section of the National Organization Committee, caused the Boston Sigman machine to beg for aid from the employers which was promptly forthcoming from a number of bosses.

The firm of Cohen and Jacobson, was among the first to dismiss the most militant among its employees. This was answered by the workers by an immediate walkout. The new union declared the shop on strike and it has been tied up ever since, with regular picketing going on in full force. The injunction was specifically applied for to halt this strike, and to stop picketing.

In the injunction application the "socialist" officials and their boss ally, went to great lengthy detail in trying to prove to the Massachusetts judge that the N. O. C. is a "red" organization, which is causing friction between the company union and the employers association. Another "socialist" gem is the clause in the injunction application, which states that the defendants, the officers of the N. O. C., are trying to break up the International Ladies Garment Workers Union thru "violence" and "threats to kill!"

The writ application names in its papers, Julius Portnoy, N. O. C. treasurer, Emma Yaninsky, N. O. C. organizer, W. Weiner and A. Shapiro, local leaders, and all other union functionaries.

SLUGGED FOR MILITANCY; MAY DIE AS RESULT

Mine Relief Appeals for Aid for Him

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13.—For thirty-six hours following the attack on the miners' convention by Lewis thugs and Pittsburgh police, Anthony Calamari, the mine leader of Charleroi, who was most seriously injured, hovered between life and death in a state of unconsciousness. At the present moment he is walking about fretfully, his memory entirely gone, and refusing all food. The National Miners Relief Committee has procured special medical aid for him.

Calamari has taken an active part in the strike since the beginning, and has been organizing the miners, urging them not to return to the mines individually, but in an organized manner.

Brutally Attacked.

When Calamari approached the Labor Lyceum, Sunday morning, his convention delegate badge pinned to his lapel, the thugs fell upon him, breaking three blackjacks over his head, throwing stones and every conceivable missle at him. The gallant miner fought back as long as he could, but was soon overpowered, and fell unconscious.

Then the thugs kicked his head and shoulders, and dragged him up the street. When the delegates in the hall who had repulsed the attackers and closed the doors of the hall to open the convention, saw this through the window, they threatened to charge upon them unless the attack upon Calamari ceased. The thugs drew away from the unconscious miner.

Rushed to Hospital.

The delegates had succeeded in fighting off the attackers and were seated in the hall when the police arrived. Calamari was rushed to the Passavant Hospital while the police cleared the hall.

The doctors say that Calamari's condition is very serious. The National Miners Relief Committee is doing its utmost to help him. Calamari was a member of the Relief Committee of Charleroi, and his ruddy, smiling face and witty tongue were well known to the relief committee staff. Whenever Calamari came to the headquarters, he would get to work, folding news releases or bulletins or whatever other work there was to be done, until the order for groceries for Charleroi was ready.

Appeal For Help.

The miners throughout the Monongahela and Allegheny Valleys know Calamari as a loyal leader. The National Miners Relief Committee is doing its utmost to save Calamari's life. Funds are needed to pay doctor's bills, and take care of the stricken striker's family. All contributions should be sent directly to the relief headquarters, 611 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Bulgarian Authorities Seize 15 Workers in Terror Wave; One Commits Suicide

BELIEVE CRISIS IN CABINET IS BEHIND SEIZURE

Liapchef Forms New Ministry

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 13.—In what is believed to be an effort to distract public attention from the cabinet crisis government agents yesterday arrested fifteen workers charged with participating in a Communist conspiracy.

The men were rushed to the police station where they were held incommunicado while the government newspapers made official announcement of the discovery of a conspiracy.

Complete censorship conceals the occurrences at the police headquarters but it is known that at least one prisoner was killed himself either by rushing to an unguarded window and hurling his body into the street below in order to escape prison torture or by being thrown by the police.

The government is charging the workers with terrorist activities and claims that $7,000 had been received by them from Vienna during the month of August. This is denied by others in close contact with the arrested men.

It is the opinion in many circles that the government's action is the result of a decision to strike two blows at one time against a group of militant workers and in order to turn attention from the serious crisis in the ministry.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 13 (UP).—Premier A. Liaptcheff has formed a new ministry which includes all the members of the old cabinet except the minister of railways. A cabinet crisis arose over charges implicating cabinet members in the recent Macedonian disturbances.

befudd[illegible] minds of the workers so as to make them submit to all sorts of exploitation hired the notorious stool-pigeon O'Brien to stand on street corners for a week and tell the workers fairy tales about the glorious conditions they were living under.

Beaten in Debate.

A debate was arranged between O'Brien and Richard Moore, secretary of the American Negro Labor Congress, which was attended by a huge crowd of workers. O'Brien was miserably beaten and the De Laval Company finally dispensed with his eloquence, finding that it had no effect on the workers.

More recently Theodore H. Miller, works superintendent of the De Laval plant, came out with a statement in the Poughkeepsie Eagle-News, a reactionary boss sheet, that there is a great dearth of skilled tool makers and that the city should teach the children a skilled trade. In this way the separator company would be provided with cheaper skilled labor. This statement was made despite the fact that there are hundreds of skilled workers walking the streets. The tool makers employed in the De Laval plant are, moreover, wretchedly paid.

Workers Not Fooled.

These devices of the De Laval company seeking to camouflage the real issues that are involved so as to keep the workers and their families permanently chained to the De Laval exploitation system, are being seen thru increasingly by the workers. Hundreds of them will turn out tonight to hear Minor and Gordon point out to them the true path of their liberation.

Interest in the Daily Worker among the Poughkeepsie workers has grown to such an extent that definite stations where the paper will be sold every day have been established. These stations are: Albrecht, 88 Jefferson St.; W. Kelly, 64 Church St.; Demask, 520 Main St.; F. Wetmore, 125 Main St.; M. Betros, 541 Main St.; McCabe, 39 Catherine St.; Satz, corner Market and Main Sts.; P. Alexander, 229 Main St., and Rimaldi, 67 Main St.

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock Minor will speak in Albany at the corner of State and Pearl Sts. The rest of his itinerary is: Sunday, Sept. 16, Troy, Domino Hall, 22-24 Fourth St., 3 p. m.; Tuesday, Sept. 18, Schenectady, Turner Hall, 837 Albany St., 8 p. m.; Wednesday, Sept. 19, New Century Auditorium, corner Hopper and Genesco Sts., 8 p. m.; Thursday, Sept. 20, Syracuse, Labor Temple, 309 S. blackjacking, to try and prevent it from continuing in the Save the Union movement.

Gang Ready.

At the meeting Friday night, Sept. 7, Carboni was in the chair and had his gang of Lewis supporters posted about in the hall. Delegates to the National Miners Convention elected previously were there, but Carboni was trying to force the local to rescind its action to attend the convention.

A man named Robb, a Lewis agent, arose and in a vicious, sneering tone of voice began to slander Charles Glovak, a delegate to the National Miners' Convention. The gang had special reasons to hate Glovak, for he had formerly been deluded into following Carboni, and had only recently found him out and exposed him to the membership.

Hit with Chair.

Glovak protested, took a step toward Robb, and the latter while standing on the platform at Carboni's side, picked up a chair and smashed Glovak over the head with it. At the same time, Carboni shouted something in approval of the act, and pulled a blackjack with his left hand.

Then George Moran, elected constable by the miners of this township, placed Carboni under arrest. Carboni had his right hand in his pocket all the time, and without drawing the gun there (afterwards found to be a .32 calibre revolver) he reached around and shot three times at Moran, two bullets through the abdomen and one in the hand.

Moran sank quietly back to a seat but did not fall. Carboni turned swiftly to Charles Glovak and shot him in the abdomen and groin. The hall was in great confusion, Carboni was dashing down the aisle toward the door all the time, his gangsters were interfering with efforts to catch him. He neared the door, which was blocked by Theodore Glovak, son of the man just shot, and himself a delegate. Another shot for Theodore, who fell, leaving the passage open.

Killer Tries For Getto.

But Carboni wanted to kill again before leaving. He saw Adam Getto, a delegate, and placed the muzzle of his pistol directly over the man's heart. There was one cartridge left, but it missed fire, and Adam closed with the murderer; the two of them rolled locked together all the way down the stairs to the street door.

Getto and another miner led Carboni, who was calling his followers by shouting, "They want to murder me," to the burgess' house, where they met not them burgess, but a deputized watchman who had until recently been a coal and iron policeman. The policeman refused to arrest Carboni. Lewis gangsters appeared and took Carboni away from the two unarmed miners.

leader of the Passaic workers and the failure of MacMahon to gain the confidence of the workers, because of his collaboration with the bosses and other strikebreaking agencies. The failure on the part of the officials of the U. T. W. to carry on a militant fighting policy, and agreeing with the bosses to blacklist militant workers and leaders of the Passaic strike. When the mill owners were making a drive against the union, reducing wages, introducing speed-up systems and insurance schemes, MacMahon and the Executvie Council of the U. T. W. were fighting the leadership of the local unions instead of stepping out militantly with a fighting program against the attacks of the mill owners.

In New Bedford, where 28,000 of our fellow-workers are striking against a 10 per cent wage cut, the U. T. W. leaders are cooperating with Batty, who is negotiating with the bosses to effect the betrayal of the strikers. There the strike was called actually against the will of these same corrupt leaders, and at this very moment they are considering submitting to the so-called Frieder plan, which would not only break the strike but would worsen conditions and lessen wages for the strikers.

Official Scabbing.

In Fall River also, where the Textile Mill Committees were urging the workers to strike against their 10 per cent wage cut, and in support of the New Bedford strike, Thomas MacMahon and Compos in their speeches urged the Fall River workers to remain at work, even while their work constituted actual scabbing on the New Bedford strike. The Textile Mill Committees alone are putting up a real militant struggle for the workers in these centers, and are responsible for the remarkable strength which the New Bedford strike has after 22 weeks.

The stand of the U. T. W. is plainly outlined by President MacMahon, who in his speech yesterday urged the "organization" of the workers on a class-collaboration basis of appeals for support to church organizations, clubs, manufacturers' associations, etc. The expulsion of Eli Keller and Ellen Dawson, militant leaders of the Passaic struggle, who have well proven their loyalty to the textile workers, is indicative of the drive made by the officials of the U. T. W. to rid the union of all honest, fighting elements.

Based on the above enumerated points and on others too numerous to mention in a brief document of this nature, we hereby sever all connections with the United Textile Workers, and call upon all textile workers everywhere to follow the only militant leadership in the field, that of the Textile Mill Committees, and to participate in the formation of a new national textile union, led by honest militant workers representing the rank and file of textile workers throughout the country.

last five years through his corrupt machine, nullified the democratic provisions of the organization, stole elections at will and sought to silence all opposition by expulsion and intimidation.'

"And we agree with Brophy when he says:

"'I condemn the policy of terrorism pursued by the paid gansters and so-called organizers who would set aside the right of assembly by mob action. The bankruptcy of ideas of the United Mine Workers officialdom is plainly evident when it encourages violence as a menace of obtaining their end.'

Murray, Reactionary.

"'The attempt of Phillip Murray to justify such a disregard of the constitutional right of the freedom of assembly by saying the United Mine Workers stand was motivated by the desire to defend the United States Government is nothing but rank hypocrisy. The action of his gang on Sunday was nothing more nor less than fascism.'

"The difference between us and John Brophy is that he doesn't know what to do about it and we are doing something about it.

"Brophy would have us remain handcuffed in the company union that is all that is left of the United Mine Workers of America. We know that all good union men can and will rally to the National Miners Union, which has a policy of struggle against the evils Lewis surrenders us to, and has a democratic constitution such as Brophy says he desired for the United Mine Workers of America.

Gangsters Not Union Men.

"No power in the world can make union men of the gangsters and Lewis officials who attacked our convention last Sunday, and as long as we let Lewis count the votes he cannot be voted out of union office.

"So our plan is to go ahead with a real miners' union, and leave Lewis to stew among his paid organizers, his thugs and gunmen which is all he will have left.

"What union does Brophy propose for the 300,000 men who have been forced out of the union by Lewis, unless we take them in?

"What union does Brophy offer 300,000 more men Lewis has always refused to organize into the U. M. W. A.?

"What does Brophy propose? He gives no plan but surrender.

"We will never surrender."

NAVARRE REBELS AGAINST REGIME OF DE RIVERA

2,000 Jailed; Include Communists

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 13 (UP).—The provincial assemblies and all minor officials of the Navarre country, comprising the provinces of Navarra, Alaava, Viscaya and Guipuzcoa, have resigned, advices received here today said.

The resignations were in protest against the action of the Spanish directorate in taking over administration of publication and collection of certain annual taxes, in violation of ancient tradition and the autonomy of Navarre.

The local officials informed the government they could not now be held responsible for possible disorders.

BORDEAUX, France, Sept. 13 (UP).—Generals Lopez Ochoa and Aguilura, former minister of war, accused of complicity in the plot to overthrow the De Rivera dictatorship, have been arrested at Valiadolid, Spain, advices received here today said. The editors of the newspaper Democracia and others also were arrested.

Communists Also Jailed.

MADRID, Sept. 13.—The arrests made here during the last few days, and which amount to 2,000, were explained by the minister of the interior as a precautionary move intended to "eliminate the possibility of any unsympathetic or unpleasant demonstrations" during the celebration that begins today of the fifth anniversary of the regime of Premier Primo de Rivera, the dictator.

The police included in their roundup many Communists in Barcelona and Madrid, and although the government denied that the military were involved in the plot to overthrow the dictatorship, two generals and several soldiers were arrested.

LA LINEA, Spain, Sept. 13 (UP).—Sixty Free Masons and the correspondent of the newspaper El Sol were arrested today. Authorities gave no reason for the arrests.

La Linea is in the province of Cadiz, near Gibraltar.

REFUSE BAIL TO SAVE UNION FUND

turers was held several days ago to consider the Frieder speed-up plan, which was endorsed as a basis of settlement by W. E. G. Batty, Textile Council head. They, too, came out with a decision endorsing the speed-up but at the same time demanded that the ten per cent cut should stand, thus giving the Batty gang an opportunity to make a "categorical refusal." This was made, in the opinion of the vast majority of the strikers, in order to give Batty an opportunity to accept when bosses finally agree to accept the speed-up plan.

A mass meeting of strikers will be held this afternoon, according to an announcement made a few hours ago from T. M. C. headquarters. Particular stress will be placed by the speakers on the vicious character of the Frieder plan.

FOSTER CHEERED AT SAINT PAUL RALLY

given ample proof of the truth of this contention. Even if it were possible for a majority of the workers and poor farmers of the United States to vote for the abolition of capitalism at the polls in November the ruling classes, with their command of the armed forces of the state, would never permit the masses to take over political power peacefully. The right of the ruling classes to exploit the masses for their own profit can only be taken away from them by the might of the workers and exploited farmers in great mass struggles for the capture of political power

"Therefore, the Communists in this election campaign not only urge the masses to vote Communist, but also to organize into militant industrial unions, into radical farmers' associations, to join the Workers (Communist) Party, under the leadership of which the broad struggles of the masses will be co-ordinated for the overthrow of capitalism."

Scores Farmer-Labor Bureaucrats.

Foster dealth at length with the farmer-labor party movement in Minnesota, one of the strongholds of that movement. He denounced the reactionary labor bureaucracy and the fake progressives who betrayed the workers and farmers into the hands of the capitalists and made of the farmer-labor party a pawn in the game for their own material advancement.

The Workers (Communist) Party, Foster declared, was the driving force behind the movement to break the masses away from the capitalist parties through the farmer-labor party movement, but through the hostility of the reactionaries in the farmers' organizations and the trade unions and through the sabotage of the alleged progressives, the heart was taken out of the movement and it is now only a hollow shell

The Communists never held that the workers and poor farmers could emancipate themselves from capitalism by means of a farmer-labor party. This is the task of the Communist Party, which carried in its platform a program of action for the every-day struggles of the masses and puts forth as the final aim the overthrow of the capitalist system and the capitalist government and the establishment of a Workers and Farmers government which will have the historical task of building the socialist society. He called on the workers and exploited farmers to join the Party.

Exposes "Peace" Pact.

Foster flayed the fake Kellogg anti-war treaty, which he branded as a "camouflage for imperialism, a smoke screen behind which the rival powers are maneuvering for advantageous positions in preparation for the inevitable conflict for domination of world markets." He predicted that the rivalry between England and the United States carried the seeds of another war which would make the last world war pale into insignificance.

The speaker declared that the heart of the war danger was the conspiracy of the capitalist powers against the Soviet Union, the first revolutionary government of workers and farmers in history. The conditions of the masses in the Soviet Union are improving yearly by leaps and bounds, he said, while the conditions of the workers in every struggle in the United States. The raid on the organizing convention of the National Miners Union in Pittsburgh, by the police, acting in conjunction with the Lewis machine, was additional proof of the united front between the coal operators and the leaders of the U. M. W. A., as well as an indication of their panic over the determination of the rank and file to substitute militant struggle against the emother country in the world are growing worse.

While trade union membership in the capitalist countries is falling, he said, over ten millions of workers are now lined up in the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions, almost as many as the entire membership of the International Federation of Trade Unions, with headquarters at Amsterdam.

Militancy Rises in U. S.

Foster declared that a new wave of militancy was developing in the United States. He pointed out that the organization of the National Miners Union, to take the place of the wrecked United Mine Workers of America, marked a new and revolutionary forward step in the class ployers for the policy of class collaboration followed by Lewis and company.

In the textile industry, the speaker declared that the mill workers were organizing for the purpose of building a new union to replace the unofficial company union that is run by MacMahon of the United Textile Workers. Foster told of the great struggles in New Bedford and Fall River and urged his hearers to give their unstinted support to the fighting textile workers and the miners.

"There is no fundamental difference today," the speaker said, "between the republican and democratic parties. Both are now completely dominated by finance capital. The nomination of Al Smith on the democratic party ticket marks the official taking over of that party by Wall Street. The campaign director of Al Smith is John J. Raskob, of General Motors, one of the outstanding enemies of trade unionism in the United States.

"Leading the Hoover drive for the presidency are equally notorious enemies of labor, headed by the Mellon interests, Henry Ford and other apostles of the open shop.

Stresses Negro Question.

"The Workers (Communist) Party is now on the official ballot in 19 states, Foster told his audience and the National Election Campaign Committee expects to have the Communist ticket on the ballot in at least 35 states on election day. As a result of Foster's speech several new applications for membership in the Party were received."

One of the most important issues before the American working class today is the Negro question, Foster said. Not only in the South but throughout the country the Negroes are suffering from racial discrimination as well as from industrial exploitation. The white workers must put the protection of the Negro masses on their order of business. They must fight the discrimination against Negroes in trade unions. Racial prejudice is one of the most effective weapons of the capitalists for weakening the power of the workers to fight effectively for their interests as a class. He scored the capitalist parties for their sanction of the lynching of Negroes, segregation and other discriminations and declared that the Workers (Communist) Party was the only Party that had a program with a revolutionary solution of the Negro roblem.

VENIZELOS WON ELECTIONS WITH TERRORIZATION

Communist Literature Was Banned

(Red Aid Press Service)

ATHENS, Greece (By Mail).—The huge election campaign of Venizelos is a surprise to no one who rightly understands the meaning of "free voting." The abrogation of proportional representation was the introduction to this free voting, the worst sort of terror accompanied its carrying out.

A few examples: Shortly before the voting the Communist Party printed its election program. The edition of 50,000 copies was confiscated by the police. The members of the election committee who carried the program with them were arrested. On the intervention of the election commission it appeared that the copies were confiscated under the law forbidding the transportation of Communist literature. The Communist Party, however, had placed a legal list on the ballot.

In Niacussa the workers Nopas and Patritsoupulos were arrested because they had posted opposition placards. They are still in jail. In Volos on the charge of election propaganda the worker Andreas Tabalis was exiled for one year to the island of Jos and Nikolaus Tsakiris to Folegandros.

In Saloniki numerous Communist leaflets and placards were confiscated. The legal election campaign meeting that was called for August 5 was forbidden by the police.

In this way it was not difficult to gain a large majority in the elections.

Soldier Correspondent Tells of Bad Food, Bad Conditions, and Bad Pay in Army

MEN DESERTED CONSTANTLY AS NO WAGES CAME

Refused Coffee in Cold Winter Weather

(By An Army Correspondent)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (By Mail).—On September 7, 1925, I was out of work, tired and discouraged, and when I came across an army poster I was ready to do anything foolish. There was a sergeant there and he jumped right on my neck and told me what a good chance there was in the army for a young man like me. I fell for that bunk, and what a fool I was to believe him. Well, I joined. I have regretted it ever since.

They sent me to Fort Ethan Allen, in Vermont. There they threw a uniform at me. The breeches were as baggy as h—— and the coat was too small. It was a misfit all over. Three days after I was inoculated and my arm was stiff for two days and I was compelled to work. They said it was to exercise the arm. The rules say that you are supposed to rest for twenty-four hours, but they don't care. They do as they want. They are the boss and they tell you, too. Two weeks after I was there, a notice was put up that General Brown was coming to inspect barracks and for eight days and nights we worked from seven in the morning to eight at night, and then another bunch worked until morning to get through. We worked all day and we could not sleep at night because there was so much noise and we were so tired. That went on for eight days and when we were through and the general came he found fault with everything and over 70 of us got h—— and K. P. for a week.

That discouraged us a lot and that night 21 soldiers deserted. They never came back while I was there and they never found them. We went on guard from 4:30 to 4 the next day, two hours on and two hours off, and, let me tell you, two hours was too much in winter. Sometimes it was below zero and when we asked for coffee they would laugh and say: "What the h——, you think you are home; you are in the army now." That would send some more boys over the hill, that is, they would desert. Every day three or four would go over the hill, never to come back. They said they would sooner go to the guard house than go back, and I believe it, too.

The grub was none too good. When we did get something that was good we did not get enough of it. Any little thing that we did we got K. P. for two or three weeks, and that was that. They were the boss. We had nothing to say about it. If you did, another K. P. you would get, so it was no use to kick about anything. A dog's life is what I call it. In May they sent us to [illegible], about 70 miles away. We had to hike it, too, with two horses and a pack to take and cannon to clean. When we got there our clothes were all dirty and we were a mess. The meals were rotten, a handful of beans and a slice of bread and we were lucky to get that some times, and when we did get it it was full of grass and oats.

It was 15 miles to town and they said that we could not go there for smokes. They said that they would get them for us. Well, the Y. M. C. A. came there with the smokes, and they soaked us good for them. They soaked us 20 cents for Bull Durham. It only cost them 15 cents for two bags, and they soaked us 20 cents. That is what I call rotten. We staid there for five weeks, and 27 men left over the hill. Well, if they had staid five weeks more, the whole d—— troop would have left.

When we got back to the Fort eight more left. Well, the captain started to get kind of worried. He wanted to know what was the matter. One of the boys, who was getting discharged, went to the captain and said that if the boys did not get better food and more of it, and that if we did not do less work, that some morning he would wake up and find the army over the hill as the rest had gone. The captain got wise and after that we got things a little better for about two weeks, and then things went back the same. I got discharged six days after that and I was d—— glad to get out of that hole. I wrote to a buddy of mine there and asked him how things were, and he said that things were as tough as before.

All the time I was there, when I asked the boys if they were glad that they joined, they would say: "I must have been drunk when I signed for this hole."

Let me give you the amount of things that we must get and pay for out of $21 per month. We have to get our uniform cut to fit us. That costs $6; five cans of shoe polish, 75 cents; two boxes of tooth paste, $1; laundry, $2 per month; 2 bottles of brass polish, 70 cents; two sets of brass buttons, $1.25 per set; uniform pressed every week, 50 cents, $2 per month; overcoat pressed, 50 cents per week, $2 per month; shaving cream and razor blades, $1.50 per month; milk, 10 cents a pint, or $3 per month; $7 in canteen checks.

Well, figure it out; the first month's pay is not enough to pay the bills, as you can see for yourself. I never had more than two or three dollars after paying my bills. Sometimes I owed them money. Sometimes the boys would not get paid for two or three months and then, discouraged, they would go over the hill.

The pay is $21 per month.

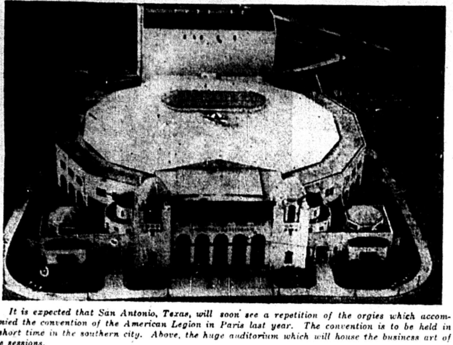
Where American Reactionaries Will Plot Against Labor



It is expected that San Antonio, Texas, will soon see a repetition of the orgies which accompanied the convention of the American Legion in Paris last year. The convention is to be held in a short time in the southern city. Above, the huge auditorium which will house the business art of the sessions.

LOW WAGES FOR WOMEN WORKERS

Toil Under Miserable Conditions

(By a Worker Correspondent)

READING, Pa. (By Mail).—The Bureau of Statistics in the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs announced that of the 40,793 workers in Berks County 26,643 are male and 14,150 female. This means that for every two men employed in Reading and vicinity there is more than one woman, and the indications are that the proportion will continue to increase in the future as it has in the past.

The theory that women are in industry for only a short time and that their earnings are of no great significance because the family is dependent upon woman not as a wage earner but as a home keeper does not hold water.

The simplification of production through the process of rationalization of industry and the introduction of efficiency schemes widely opened the doors into industry for women. The result is that millions of women are today engaged in almost every branch of industry and represent a very important section of the working class.

Nevertheless their wages still are based on the old, unfounded theory that they have no family responsibilities as wage earners, with results disastrous to the life and health for the maintenance of which they are responsible, and opposite results for the employers, enabling them to secure greater profits.

Wages 50 Per Cent Lower.

In spite of the fact that the women workers, in many instances, work even under worse conditions than the male workers (longer hours) performing the same kind of work in quantity as well as in qual- almost 50 per cent lower than that ity, their wages are, nevertheless, of the male workers.

This is clearly illustrated by the following facts: The 40,793 workers, men and women, in Berks County received last year a total income in wages of $49,971,900 and of this amount 26,643 male employes were paid $37,319,600 while 14,150 female workers received only $12,652,000.

This means that while the male worker in industry received slightly more than $1400 a year average, or about $23 per week, the woman worker received slightly more than $893 per year, or about $15 a week. $15 per week is the approximate weekly wage, according to official figures of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs, for a woman worker in the city of Reading and vicinity. $15 for 50 and 55 hours of work under most miserable working conditions.

Women Not Organized.

Such a condition can be accounted for only by the fact that there is a complete lack of organization of the women workers in industry. The trade union officials have at no time attempted to organize the thousands of women in industry in Reading. And the women in Reading constitute today a considerable portion of unorganized workers. The socialist party and the officials of the Federated Trade Council who are to make believe to organize the unorganized workers [illegible] but in reality to build [illegible] prestige of the socialist party [illegible] collect votes for the coming presidential elections, will meet with considerable resistance on the part of the Reading working women in November at the ballot box.

RESPONSE TO RED FUND DRIVE GREAT

Side by side with the drive of the Workers (Communist) Party to put its candidates officially in nomination on the ballots of the various states goes a drive for a campaign fund to make effective the preliminary work of going on the ballot.

The response to the call for a campaign fund to put out campaign literature, tours, speakers and organizers, build the Party and carry the revolutionary Communist message to all corners of the country is growing. Greater interest is daily being manifested in the National Election Campaign being carried on by the Workers Party, and this is proven by the growing number of contributions.

Herewith the National Election Campaign Committee reports an additional one hundred and fifty contributions received in the early days of the drive.

If you are not listed on this honor roll you have not yet done your duty to build up the $100,000 Communist Campaign Fund.

PITTSBURGH IWW STOPS MINE AID

Prevent Worker Who Wanted to Give

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (By Mail).—There is a small, decaying I. W. W. group in Pittsburgh who claim to be "left-wingers." In reality, they are just as reactionary as their officials are. They had a picnic on August 12, at Kladler Farm. The writer of these lines was there and paid admission. While there I tried to get permission to collect on lists for Miners Relief and Defense. The manager said that he had no objections, but that he did not think that anyone would contribute.

The first worker I approached gave fifty cents. He was preparing to sign his name on the list, when the same manager ordered the collection stopped. When asked for the reason, he refused to give it. So, this is how the Pittsburgh I. W. W's are willing to help the miners who are carrying on a heroic struggle for the last 18 months or so.

Bulgar Irregulars Battle Greek Troops

ATHENS, Sept. 13 (UP).—An all-night engagement between Greek troops and a band of Bulgarian Comitadjis (irregulars) was reported here today.

The Comitadjis tried to cross the border and finally were repelled by the troops after a long fight, a dispatch said. Casualties occurred on both sides.

TOUGH WINTER IS AHEAD, ELECTRIC WORKER WARNS

Urges Men to Beware Broach's Gift of Gab

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Electrical workers, awake before it is too late. Beware of Broach the self-proclaimed Mussolini of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The union will go on the rocks if the progressive element does not get busy.

When this bird Broach came to town to organize and clean up Local 3, he saw he would have a hard job to get control of the local and be crowned as Little Caesar. So he planned five locals to separate the members.

Ask him today for five locals. Why, he wouldn't even want two, because if there were two he would be terribly beaten with his clique.

Terrorism.

I believe that the rank and file is against him but they are terrorized by fear of losing their jobs. They would not be able to attend meetings if they spoke their real mind.

Before Broach and his collection of animals came into power, he had a committee of 100. They were always meeting separately planning how by hook or crook to capture Local 3. These meetings were absolutely illegal.

I asked a member about the high dues. He said, "I will have to cut my throat to meet them now." I asked him why he didn't get up at the meeting and protest against the high dues. He answered that that would be the end of him. But if this member had an ounce of spunk in him, and another and another had followed him at the meeting, Little Caesar Broach would have been beaten on his increase in dues.

The Old Yelp.

This man Broach, this hypocrite, said about four months ago that there would be no increase in dues. But lo and behold—$21 for three months! I predict that before he leaves town the dues will be around $100.

The average member in the last 18 months only made an average of about $30 or $40 a week. Brothers, prepare for a tough winter. This apartment house owner and sneak Soloman on the meal ticket of the disorganizing committee of Local 3. Was he as crooked as a ram's horn when he was a delegate? This bird raises the old hue and cry: The Communists, the Communists! Every corrupt and dirty misleader of labor uses the "Reds" to cover up his tracks.

But I have found out that the Communists are better than the crusaders of old. They are in the forefront of all labor's struggles and they call a spade a spade.

Brothers, beware of this sneak Broach and of his gift of gab. Behind his talk are weapons to destroy the union and your conditions what few you have.

Brothers, get together, spread the news, if necessary let us have a meeting of our own since the officials and Broach bar the members from the meetings. Spread the Daily Workers, the only real labor paper in America today. If we do this we will be able to dislodge Broach and his collection of animals. Keep up the fight. Don't be apathetic. This is your bread and butter. Your very existence depends on the union.

"Good Boy" at Hammerstein's Seems to Have Golden Future

"GOOD BOY," musical child of Arthur Hammerstein, is going to help papa a lot, for "Good Boy," newest musical play at the Hammerstein Theatre, has a bright, yea, even golden future.

Arthur Hammerstein

It is tuneful, lively, gay, beautifully dressed and has even the added advantage of a moving stage and the use of motion pictures. It is lavishly done and you're likely to enjoy it as the other night's crowd did, even though it is only a batch of tinsel-covered nonsense.

It seems there is a plot to this play to hang the music on. Maybe you have seen this plot before. Horatio Alger wrote 50 or 500 books on this plot. They still teach it to children in the schools as the gospel truth. And so it is. It seems a bright boy came from Butlersville, Arkansas, to make Barrymore look foolish. He flops as an actor, but with all the golden opportunity laying around loose in this country he makes a couple of million or so at something else at about 10:45 at the end of the second act. You just can't keep a good man down. It seems that in New York making millions is easy. Everybody makes them but this poor sap reviewer. He and 120 million other people.

But that's only the plot. If you don't let that bother you and allow yourself to forget class lines for the classy ones you will spend an enjoyable evening. "Good Boy" is tuneful. "I Wanna Be Loved" is sung so persuasively by Helen Kane (a right handsome persuader) that half the town will be singing it soon or I don't know my radio.

Charles Butterworth and Eddie Buzzell cut comic capers and get away with stories that aren't generally told by good boys. The chorus is composed of good girls: attractive, lively, capable and splendidly interwoven throughout the evening's festivities.

The effects achieved with the aid of the moving stage are splendid. The settings never tire, the show is speeded up and it brings a breath of originality that has been sadly lacking in this so-called featherweight entertainment.

Leave all reason behind you when you see this one and think to her only with thine eyes. If you do you are likely to enjoy the show.

The book of "Good Boy" is by Otto Harbach, Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd, and Henry Myers, and the music and lyrics by Herbare Stothart, Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby.

BROACH DICKERS WITH BOSSES ON ENDING LABELS

Predict Little Caesar Will Get His

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Recently fifteen fixture manufacturers joined hands and organized the Building Trades Employers' Association, paying $1,000 each. This was done in an attempt to create a united opposition to Local 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Among other projects for lowering the workers' standards of living were the following:

1. An equal concession to the smaller manufacturers similar to that granted by Broach to the larger manufacturers—namely the abolition of the union label on all fixtures.

2. Demand a blanket agreement to deal with them collectively and not as individuals. This agreement to expire in January when the slack season begins so that it will be impossible for the workers to obtain improved conditions or even retain their old agreement.

At the last regular meeting of Local 3, Broach stated that he had had a conference with Norman of the Building Trades Employers' Association regarding the fixture label situation. Norman demanded that men hang all fixtures regardless of the label.

The question has been referred to the Building Trades Council. In all probability the Council will vote in favor of Norman who really controls the Council and soon the label will disappear completely from all fixtures.

As the union will be unable to control the fixture situation on the job an immediate speed-up system by the bosses will follow. This will naturally result in further unemployment.

The Little Caesar will soon feel the firm kick in the pants of the infuriated workers. Labor fakers of his type sooner or later get their deserts.

Workers (Communist) Party, District 2, Issues Call for "Negro Week" Sept. 17-23

BALLAM URGES FULL SUPPORT OF MEMBERSHIP

Negro Speakers Will Address Units

The week beginning Monday, September 17, to Sunday, September 23, inclusive, will be "Negro Week" in District 2, Workers (Communist) Party, John J. Ballam, acting district organizer of the district, announced in a statement issued yesterday.

Each unit will hold a discussion upon the Party's Negro program and platform during that week. Negro speakers will be assigned to lead this discussion in as many units as possible.

Urge Special Drive.

"The purpose of Negro Week," says the statement, "is to concentrate the attention of each unit on the Negro problems, so that all comrades are alert to the utilization of all possible Negro contacts. In unions where we have an influence a special drive should be made to draw in Negroes. Connections should be made with groups of Negroes in various trades (elevator runners, porters, building trades, needle trades, laundry, longshoremen, etc.).

Our open-air meetings should emphasize the problem. Efforts should be made to distribute the Party's special leaflet on lynching. These can be ordered through the District Office.

Need Full Support.

"The fullest support must be given by every comrade to the drives for the support of Negro work. The Negro work is an opportunity and a test for our Party, which is the Party of the oppressed Negro masses. The response of the Negro workers in giving signatures and in open-air street meetings is most encouraging. They are coming to our Party by scores. Let each comrade do his utmost to further intensify this campaign which must win thousands of Negro workers for our Party.

"Negro Week will wind up with a dance at 161 Lenox Ave., Saturday, September 22. Comrades should avail themselves of this opportunity to show their solidarity with the Negro workers."

ZOGU RECOGNIZED AS KING BY U. S.

Is Set Up as Albania Ruler by Fascisti

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Recognition of the new Albanian government of King Zogu was announced at the state department today. King Zogu formerly ruled Albania as Ahmed Bey Zogu until he recently proclaimed a monarchy with himself as king. Zogu has been set up as king by the Mussolini fascist government, by whose support he was able to overthrow Fan Noli, former head of the Albanian government.

Using Albania as a base, extensive preparations to stir up an inter-Balkan war are reported as being made by the Italian fascist government.

JAILED GREEK WORKERS URGE HUNGER STRIKE

Demand Full Amnesty for Militants

(Red Aid Press Service)

ATHENS, Greece, (By Mail).—Forty working class prisoners in the jail of Kawalla threatened to declare a hunger strike unless a general amnesty was granted and the exiled workers, deported because of strike and anti-Venizelos activities, were permitted to return, the message was sent to the Greek government. The telegram follows:

"For over two months we 40 workers have been in prison. After we had been beaten by the police until we bled we were thrown into jail where we have been forgotten. The investigation draws itself out and has not brought any results. The investigation should be turned upon the police officials who are responsible for the incidents of the strike for which we are charged.

"The amnesty promises of the government are soap bubbles and contradict the growth of the white terror. Under such conditions the voting cannot be designated as free voting. We raise our protest against it. We demand the immediate liberation of the prisoners, the return of the exiles and a general amnesty.

"We declare that we, in case that our demands are not met, will declare a hunger strike, for which the government will be responsible.

"In the name of 40 prisoners in Kawalla:

"Fostiras, Zafirin, Casteratos, Apostolu, Chrysestomu."

GIANTS GAME AND A HALE BEHIND CARDS

The Giants scored a double win over the Boston Braves yesterday, and, as the St. Louis Cardinals took a beating from the Chicago Cubs, McGraw's men advanced to within a game and a half of the National League lead.

Benton pitched for the Giants in the first, and allowed the Braves 9 hits. The score was 12 to 2. Brandt, Greenfield and three other pitchers were used by Boston.

The second game was a tougher one for the Giants to win. They won, however, 7 to 6. Genewich and Faulkner, for New York, opposed Delaney and Hubbel in the box.

St. Louis took a 6 to 1 lacing from Chicago. Blako allowed only four hits. Mitchell pitched for the Cards.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

National League

New York, 12; Boston, 2 (1st).
New York, 7; Boston, 6 (2nd).
Brooklyn, 10; Philadelphia, 0.
Chicago, 6; St. Louis, 1.

Lodgings Needed for 250 Textile Delegates

Lodgings are needed for the 250 delegates to the National Convention of Textile Workers which will take place September 22-23, at Irving Plaza, this city. FASCIST REGIME IN THE UNITED STATES IS SEEN

Senator Makes Report After Europe Visit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (FP). Senator Elmer Thomas, democrat, of Oklahoma, on his return from Europe, where he traveled over the Soviet Union and took part in the interparliamentary union sessions in Berlin, declared his belief that America is drifting toward a fascist dictatorship.

This dictatorship, he said, would be due to the concentration of a large proportion of the national wealth in the hands of a few. It would be based upon the model set by Mussolini in Italy, but would naturally develop social conditions like those in czarist Russia. In turn, it would force the people to overthrow the dictatorship in much the same way that the Russian people overthrew and destroyed their former regime and old ruling class.

Visiting Italy last year, Senator Thomas was impressed by the absolutism of Mussolini's rule. This year he went to Russia to see what he now calls the opposite type — a government run by and for the masses. All other governments, he said, are in the middle ground between these two.

Urge Workers to Give Support to Int'l. Youth Day

phase of the capitalist system the workingclass youth are playing a leading role. And it is the workingclass youth thruout the world who suffer most for their devotion to their class. Thousands of young workers and peasants are now rotting in the jails of fascist Italy, Hungary, Poland and other capitalist countries. In this country too, the land of 'democracy,' young workers have been attacked and jailed and at this very moment John Porter, Young Workers League organizer and textile strike leader, is serving a sentence of two and a half years for his activities in the New Bedford strike.

"In the struggles of the young workers, as well as of the older workers against the attacks and frame-ups of the capitalist courts, the International Labor Defense has always stood forth as the great weapon striking blow after blow in defense of all workers, young and old, of every trade, color and nationality. It is the duty of the workingclass youth and particularly of the Young Workers League to do everything possible to strengthen their only defense organization and to join more intensively in the fight to free the class war prisoners in this country.

"The New York Section of the International Labor Defense, which has defended young workers of this city on many occasions, calls upon the young workers to make International Youth Day the occasion for increasing this activity and for building and strengthening the I. L. D."

International Youth Day.

During the first imperialist war, when millions of the youth and young manhood of the earth were being slaughtered in behalf of the capitalist powers, the first International Youth Day was observed. Born out of the catastrophic conditions of the war and as a protest against the wholesale destruction of human life, the movement from the first involved a mighty struggle against imperialism, characterized by audacious demonstrations in the very strongholds of the war mongers.

But at the same time it was also characterized by certain limitations—demands for struggles against all wars, a lack of understanding of revolutionary wars, campaigns against military training, pacifist illusions—limitations that were inevitable when we consider the social democratic ground upon which the movement first struck roots. The lessons of that war and of the Bolshevik revolution in the land of the former Russian Czars had a profound effect upon the youth movement. In the years that have passed since 1915, when International Youth Day was first celebrated, the half measures have given way and today, in a period of preparation for another imperialist world war, the movement is strongly imbued with the revolutionary teachings of Lenin. The propaganda for boycotting military training has given way to revolutionary determination to fight to turn the weapons placed in the hands of the armed forces by the imperialist masters upon those same war mongers and their governments.

Of special significance to the youth of America is this International Youth Day that is being observed throughout the United States during the next few days, occurring, as it does, at a time when the imperialist powers of the United States through its Kellogg pact and other maneuvers is endeavoring to place itself in the very forefront of the world reaction. One of the major tasks of the revolutionary youth movement is relentlessly to expose the malignancy of the "peace" offensive of American imperialism, to show that the Kellogg pact is but the culmination of a whole series of aggressive acts by the Wall Street government calculated to displace British imperialism as the leader of the political reaction of the world. The peace pact is only a prelude to the next world conflagration wherein will be placed before the youth of the world, amidst the thunder and lightning of a world war, the question of dying like dogs in behalf of the imperialist bandits, or following the revolutionary Leninist line of turning the imperialist war between nations into a civil war against capitalism.

Tonight at Irving Plaza Hall, 15th Street and Irving Place, the working class youth will celebrate International Youth Day, and within the next week there will be a whole series of demonstrations throughout the country.

Let this day be utilized further to intensify the agitation against pacifist illusions, against the miserable lackeys of imperialism in the ranks of the socialist party who preach pacifism to the masses and who are the worst enemies in the labor movement of the working class. Let it be a day for an intensification of revolutionary organizational work in the ranks of the armed forces of the imperialists, of organizational work in the industries, particularly the war industries of the country, so that when again the first blast of the trumpets of war sounds there will be countless thousands of young workers that will rush to their posts of duty and begin preparations for the revolutionary upheavals that must inevitably rise out of such a war.

Al Smith, Drunk or Sober.

The reptile capitalist press, particularly that section of it that supports the democratic party candidates in this campaign, is in a frenzy of indignation in response to the latest crude publicity stunt pulled off by the Al Smith forces. A certain letter alleged to have contained statements that Smith was "disgustingly drunk" at a New York State fair and said to have been written by a Syracuse gossip to a West Virginia gossip is the cause of the frenzy.

The letter, however, has mysteriously disappeared. No one knows what happened to it. But the vague rumors regarding its one time existence furnished the Smith publicity forces with an opportunity for "refuting" the "lie" in a manner calculated to appeal to maudlin sentimentality.

Smith's forces induced a republican politician to issue a statement to the effect that on the date Smith is accused of having been drunk he was sober. In fact the republican politician declared he did not even suspect that the democratic candidate for president had even one drink. Thus, in place of discussion of political issues we have piffle, instead of meeting the problems that face the masses of the country we are surfeited with drivel.

The question of the degree of drunkeness of Smith on the occasion mentioned or at any other time or place is not a burning issue and only the veriest dolts will consider it such. Furthermore a candidate or a Party that dared to discuss real issues would never sink to the level of replying to backstairs gossip, say nothing of inventing it as was obviously done in this case so that the public could read about the alleged trenscendent virtues of a candidate in the daily press.

Such devices only emphasize the deliberate policy of both the republican and democratic parties of evading issues that press for solution, such as unemployment, the danger of imperialist war, recognition of the Soviet Union, the right of workers to organize and strike, and the use of injunctions against labor.

The one party that places before the working class the real political situation and offers a solution for the ills from which the exploited workers and farmers suffer is the Workers (Communist) Party.

We discuss political issues, but we also realize that individuals personify certain definite tendencies and it is certainly laughable to see the defenders of Al Smith feign indignation because he was accused of having been drunk. One who was spawned in that cesspool of vice, corruption, gangsterism, hoodlumism and prostitution known as Tammany Hall and is now annexed to the Morgan financial interests as well as being a darling of the Roman religious machine, itself always a vicious tool of reaction, certainly cannot be expected to pass for what the sentimentalists call a paragon of soberness and virtue. We expose the political role of the capitalist politicians and the parties they represent in order that the workers may come to hold them in contempt and we also expose their debaucheries as symbolic of the class corruption they represent.

Al Smith, drunk or sober, is a dangerous enemy of the working class.

Just as Norman Thomas or Herbert Hoover, sober or drunk, are enemies of the working class.

They are lackeys of capitalism—all.

The Crimes of a "Labor Boss."

Mr. Theodore N. Brandle, the "labor boss" of the Jersey City building trades unions, who utilizes his position to smash trade unions, break strikes and make money for himself as head of a structural steel builders' association, "labor" bank president and real estate operator, is reported as being in trouble with the law.

The trouble won't be much. Mr. Brandle is rich. He is an enemy of the working class, and a half of his business activity is that of destroying the labor movement; so we are sure the law of the capitalist state has no snares for him.

But what is the crime said to be charged against Brandle? Registering as a democrat and voting republican! We shall not get excited about the little trick played on one capitalist party for the benefit of another.

What is the real crime of this peddler of the workers' blood?

Brandle is a vicious enemy of the working class not only in his mercenary operations in the trade unions, but also for his foul trade of inducing workers to vote for their class enemies in either or both of the capitalist political parties. And this is a crime for which he will not be punished by any capitalist court. This is his real crime.

Throw out the parasites and swindlers of the working class within the labor movement!

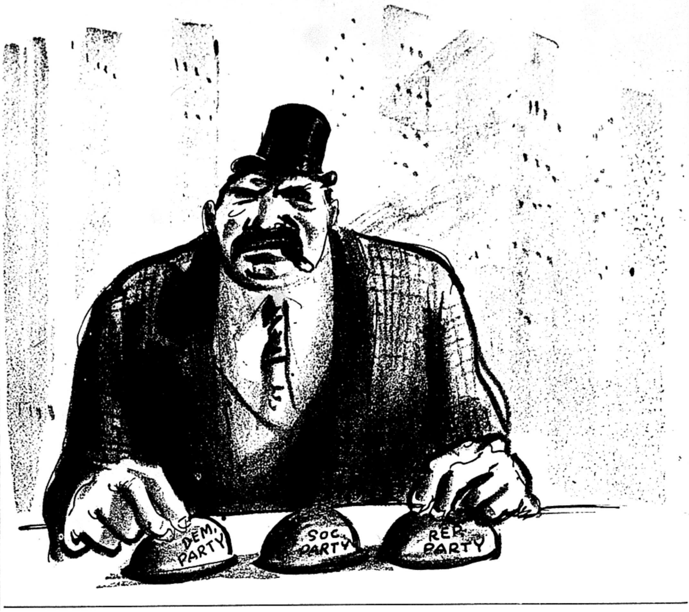
THE OLD SHELL GAME

By Fred Ellis



Role of Revolutionary Youth

By P. FRANKFELD

Youth Day Organized 13 Years Ago to Fight Against Imperialist War

September 3, 1915, the first International Youth Day was celebrated. September 3, 1915, Europe was in the throes of an imperialist war. Millions of workers and young workers from England, France, Germany, Russia, and other countries, were being maimed and killed on the battlefield. These workers and young workers were fighting the war of the allied imperialist bandits against the German imperialist robbers.

The working class of Europe was helped to this slaughter by the actions of the social-democratic parties, who supported, respectively, their "own fatherlands." The Second International became a pliant and willing tool in the hands of the imperialists.

Role of Revolutionary Youth.

The revolutionary youth leagues, however, did not fall in line and support the imperialist war. The revolutionary youth leagues, which Liebknecht had helped to organize, fought against the policy of betrayal of the social-democratic parties. The Socialist Youth International, organized in Stuggart in 1907, with the activve participation of Karl Liebknecht, was always in the left in the parties. The reasons were, firstly, that the young workers were one of the most exploited sections of the working class. This the social-democratic leaders refused to understand. They represented the interests of the aristocracy of labor workers. They refused at first to even consider the question of organizing a revolutionary youth movement. They saw in the youth a source of revolutionary energy and a source of struggle against their opportunism. How well their expectations were fulfilled!

Fight Militarism.

The second reason was the fact that from the very beginning of the socialist youth movement it followed the revolutionary leadership of Liebknecht. Liebknecht was a steady opponent of capitalist militarism. Liebknecht imbued them with a spirit of struggle against capitalism and capitalist militarism. When the betrayal came in 1914, and when Liebknecht, Luxenbourg Lenin, and the rest of the Russian Bolsheviks fought against the Second International, it was to be expected that the revolutionary youth would do the same.

With the aid of Liebknecht, the Berne conference of the socialist youth leagues was organized. There the slogans of Liebknecht of fight against the imperialist war was adopted. Although the slogans adopted were not the slogans of Lenin—of turning the imperialist war into a civil war of the classes, yet, in substance, the Berne conference condemned most categorically the actions of the Second International; called for a militant struggle against the imperialist war, and went to the length of deciding to hold open mass demonstrations of the youth as a sign of protest against the imperialist war.

Thirteen years later, in 1928, in France several days ago, 800 Communists and Young Communists are arrested for holding an I. Y. D. demonstration. Thirteen years after 1915, in America, the masses of young workers are being prepared both ideologically and actually for the next world war. At the same time that half a billion dollars is appropriated for military purposes in a period of one year; at the same time that 36,000 young workers and students complete their education in "citizenship" in the capitalist military training camps, when the R. O. T. C., the National Guard, the dozens of semi-military and military institutions are being crowded by young workers who are attracted to them, at the same time the representatives of the Wall Street government are signing fake peace pacts in Paris.

Hypocritical Pacts.

The Kellogg "peace" pact bears the same relation to the present situation that the Hague Peace Tribunal bore to the last world war. It is an attempt to give the masses a false sense of security. It is a smoke screen to hide the feverish preparations that are being made for the next war. The antagonisms between the leading imperialist powers wax stronger. The intrigues amongst themselves and against each other shows the nearness of the next war, and the whole falsity of the Kellogg "peace act". The naval accord between France and England is an indication of that, and America's uneasiness about the accord shows that America is on guard against British imperialism and watches closely its every action.

These pacifist slogans and phrases are the greatest enemy of the working class. The false sense of "security" of the masses today will make them easily pliant tomorrow when the war comes. Pacifism must be taught that it is in the in- working class and the working class and working youth must be made watchful; must be put on guard; mus tbe taught that it is in the interests of the working class to learn the use of firearms during this period of active war preparation; so that when the next war comes; the workers will be able to turn the imperialist war into a war of emancipation of the working class.

13 Years Experience.

The revolutionary youth movement of today well understands its tasks. It has the experience of 13 years behind it. The Young Communist Leagues inherited those revolutionary traditions of the Berne conference of 1915. The Communist Youth League of America, is learning and has participated in the preliminary work of mobolizing during this period and educating the working youth to its mission. The Communist Youth League has carried on a real struggle against the various forms of capitalist militarism—and that is still only the beginning.

Mass Meeting, September 14.

The Young Workers Communist League of New York will celebrate the 13th anniversary of IYD by holding a mass meeting in Irving Plaza. This will take place the 14th of September, Friday night, at 8 p. m. The League will draw the lessons of its summer work in the CMTC's. The League will explain its attitude towards capitalist wars. The League will help to mobolize masses of young workers against the growing war danger, against the possible fight against the Soviet Union on the part of the imperialist war powers; prepare the youth to be ready to defend their socialist fatherland, "Soviet Union", teach the young workers their duties in the next world war.

This International Youth Day will be made into a youth celebration in the fullest sense of the term. The program, the speakers' arrangements, etc., have that objective in mind.

Young workers and working class students. All class conscious workers will be in Irving Plaza Hall, Friday night, Sept. 14th, to participate in the IYD celebration.

The Communist Campaign in California

By WM. SCHNEIDERMAN.

Three Weeks to Get 12,000 Signatures; Fight Johnson, Fake "Progressive"

The Party is entering the election campaign in California under exceptionally difficult conditions.

The election machinery of the state is so organized as to make it almost impossible for a working-class party to get on the ballot. The only way that we can get Communist candidates on the ballot this year is by running them as independents, and our campaign must be so organized that the workers will understand that these candidates are the respresentatives of the only working-class party in America. The Party is given the short period of three weeks to gather 12,000 signatures to place Foster, Gitlow, and Anita Whitney on the ballot.

California is a traditionally republican state. Senator Hiram Johnson has led the so-called "progressive" wing of the party, which was in conflict with the more reactionary elements led by the Los Angeles Times and the open-shop Industrial Association. The A. F. of L. leaders in the state therefore had a good excuse to support Johnson and the republican party as long as he controlled it. Johnson, the jailer of Mooney and Billings, was a "friend of labor."

Unmask Johnson.

But recent developments have unmasked Johnson and the misleaders of labor in their real role. A political bargain was struck, whereby Johnson agreed to support Hoover in return for the united republican support of the state for his own reelection to the senate, and peace reigned in the happy family of the republican party. We now witness the spectacle of Johnson, the Los Angeles Times, and the Industrial Association receiving the political support of the California labor movement. Those labor officials who balked at supporting Hoover, are out for Tammany Hall's Al Smith.

The socialist party in California, at its recent state convention in Los Angeles, showed how politically and organizationally bankrupt it really is. In the fight to free Mooney and Billings, in the campaign against the vicious Criminal Syndicalist Law, in the Hands-Off-China campaign in San Francisco, in every workers struggle in the state, the socialist party was either silent or gave direct and indirect support to the enemies of the working-class. In California it has even less of a working-class base than in other parts of the country.

Fight Exploitation.

It is left only to the Communist Party to enter this campaign on a working class basis. The invasion of the open shop in the once-strongly-organized sections, the exploitation of woman and child-labor in fruit and cotton picking, and in the packing and canning industries, the double exploitation of the Negroes, Mexicans, Chinese, Japanese, and Filipinos, the war-clouds on the Pacific Ocean, and the general worsening of the conditions of labor in California are immediate issues which we can link up with the Communist program of organizing and leading the workers' struggle against the capitalist system.

The recent State Nominating Convention has nominated the following candidates which we are trying to place on the ballot, in addition to the presidential and vice-presidential candidates, Foster and Gitlow: For U. S. Senator, Anita Whitney; for Congress, Congressional District No. 10 (Los Angeles), Mary Ostrow; for 29th State Assembly District, Emanuel Levin, (San Francisco); 26th Assembly District (San Francisco), James Butler; Assembly District 36 (Oakland), J. Reed; Assembly District, 39, (Oakland), H. Davidson, a Negro worker; Assembly Dist. 40 (Berkeley), M. Shannamon; Assembly District 45 (San Jose), Cora Wilson; Assembly District 66 (Los Angeles Arthur Dick.

Told You So

NO doubt about it, this is a land of opportunity. John Coolidge, son of Cal the Fisherman, walked into the office of the president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and got a job at $30 a week. Not bad for a start. What a corking salesman this young lad must be! If he ever gets into the "right off the boat" business he will clean up a fortune unless he mistakes a prohibition agent for a customer and not merely a consumer. On top of his good luck in landing a job it is rumored that Miss Trumbull, daughter of the governor of the state of Connecticut, will soon make the announcement that she intends to marry the young. He doesn't even have to esk.

WHILE on this interesting subject of golden opportunities, the whereabouts of Mr. Osborne Wood, son of the late Ivory Soap governor of the Philippine Islands may be of interest to our readers. While in the islands with his father, young Wood made millions of dollars on the stock exchange. He had inside dope of course and his conduct became so scandalous that congress indulged in some wild language over it. Wood came back to New York, whoopeed himself into an asylum from there to Paris and Monte Carlo and returned almost penniless.

BLOOD will tell. So young Osborne went to work at something or other, according to his press agent. Evidently he did not make a howling success at the business since we did not hear of his being elected president or marrying the daughter of the head of the firm. A few days ago Osborne was discovered by the state militia of New Mexico digging coal, so they took him into their ranks and made some kind of a general out of him. You cannot keep a good man down in a coal mine.

A NEWSPAPER reporter's job is not all beer and skittles as a rule. But it is said that every rule has its own exception and so it is with a reporter's job. George Farrand of Bergen county, New Jersey, a city hall reporter for the "Jersey Journal" of Jersey City, testified at a hearing regarding the corruption in Mayor Frank Hague's political machine that he had been on the city payroll for seven or eight years at $5.50 a day. This means $33 a week in addition to his remuneration from the "Jersey Journal." When asked what he did in return for this honorarium Farrand confessed that he answered the telephone whenever he happened to be around the office.

ONE could write columns on the opportunities that exist here for the ambitious poor boy, who feels that he can be president if he only tries hard enough. Some say that accident has a good deal to do with progress along the road to high station. There are people who believe that Calvin Coolidge would now be defending bootleggers in Boston or still collecting bad debts on a 25 per cent commission basis in Vermont, had not Murray Crane, the G. O. P. boss taken an interest in him. And if the Boston policemen had not gone on strike in 1919 he might never have been vice-president. And had the late Warren Gamaliel been a little more careful about his shell fish, Cal might never have gotten into the White House.

HOWEVER, we suggest to the four million unemployed that follow in Mr. Coolidge, Jr.'s footsteps even if they take them into the offices of railroad presidents. It would be a great boost for the Hoover campaign if the Coolidge job-hunting success could be repeated four million times. "A job for every willing worker" would blow the froth off Al Smith's alcoholic promises. But as they say in burlesque, "Well—what the 'ell?"

THE mystery surrounding the death of William D'Olier, one of the leading actors in the Queens Sewerpipes drama, is deepening and the plot is thickening. The experts are in doubt as to the manner of his death. The moral forces of the sewerpipe borough, to wit, the "outs," are of the opinion that he was murdered. The inside boys are of the opinion that he committed suicide. There is a clue, but it only adds dye to the death riddle. His clothing was torn when taken to the hospital. Was it torn before he died or afterwards? As, that is the question. The surgeon who examined the body declared: "I cannot recall seeing any tears in the clothing when I arrived there." We are willing to bet that there will be many tears shed before the real story of the sewer scandal is known despite the old adage: "Murder will out."

ILLINOIS MINERS WILL REPUDIATE LEWIS WAGE CUT

Thousands Indicate Will to Maintain Solid Ranks

Vote Is Four to One

Predict Other Fields Will Follow

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 14.—Voting overwhelmingly to repudiate the wage cut agreement entered into between the Lewis-Fishwick machine and the coal operators, two of the largest districts of Central Illinois today showed their determination to maintain their living standards at all costs.

Incomplete reports gave the Springfield vote as 2,071 against and 555 for the new scale; but it is thought likely that the real vote was far more greatly opposed to the agreement by which the Lewis-Fishwick machine is seeking to complete its sell-out of the miners.

In the Taylorsville district 2,645 votes were reported against and 1,394 for the wage cut. Here again the actual vote is believed to have been more overwhelmingly opposed than the report would indicate.

In repudiating the Lewis sell-out, the miners are believed to have reacted to the decision made by the convention of the new National Miners Union to fight against the wage-cut agreements which the Lewis machine has inaugurated since its official abandonment of the Jacksonville scale several months ago.

TORNADO BRINGS DEATH IN WEST

Dozen Killed, Scores Injured

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Sept. 14 (UP).—Ten persons were killed, more than forty injured and property damage of more than a million dollars was done by two tornadoes that struck northeast Nebraska and southeast South Dakota late yesterday, a re-check showed today.

JUGOSLAV JAILS 281 MILITANTS

(Red Aid Press Service)

BERLIN, (By Mail).—A record of the Jugoslav white terror against workers and revolutionists was published in a recent number of the Zagreb newspaper "Zastita Gevjeka" (People's Defense). The statistics cover the first half year of 1928.

In Jugoslavia, during this time, 1669 people, who had 1974 dependents, were arrested. They were in jail for a period of 46 years, 2 months and 13 days. One hundred and thirty-two were sentenced, 9 of which to death. Of these five were already executed.

The remaining 123 people were sentenced to 371 years, 10 months and 21 days of prison.

Besides these 27 people were murdered on political grounds, 94 are missing and 203 exiled for a collective period of 884 years.

Seventy-one persons carried out hunger strikes which amounted to a period of 293 days.

From the first half year there remain 31 persons in jail awaiting trial while investigation is going on.

On July 1 there were 281 political prisoners with a collective sentence of 1028 years.

The last two months has brought a tremendous leap in these statistics.

RED YOUTH CONGRESS VIEWS COLONIAL WORK

(Wireless to the Daily Worker.)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 14.—A report on the work in the colonies by Fokin, of the Executive Committee of the Young Communist International, marked the thirteenth session of the Young Communist Congress, which opened under the chairmanship of Zam, of the United States.

"The national revolutionary movement plays a role which is a supplementary force for the world revolution, but during the course of its development," Fokin declared, "it plays a directly revolutionary role. The task of the Young Communist International is to win the masses of the working youth in the colonies.

Leagues in Colonies.

"Leagues exist in most colonies, but only in China is the League a mass organization. The working conditions of the youth in the colonies are terrible and a basis exists for the Communist youth movement. The young Communists must also win the left wing of the intellectual youth. The national revolutionary youth movement only develops where no basis exists for Young Communist Leagues."

Ferrat, of France, then made the co-speech, chiefly concerning the Latin-American countries. "Intensified class struggle in Latin-America caused insurrections led by the petty bourgeois, which, however, was incapable of carrying the revolution to its logical end. The proletariat must therefore win hegemony.

Work Among Peasants.

"The situation of the working youth is bad," continued Ferrat, "and the conditions of the working young peasants are worse. Our tasks in Latin-America are the creation of supplementary mass organizations, particularly among the

GITLOW SPEAKS IN PITTSBURGH

Lewis Tools Come to Break Up Meet

PITTSBURGH (By Mail).—Among those present at the election meeting of the Workers (Communist) Party, at which Benjamin Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate, spoke, were Pat Fagan, reactionary president of District 5, of the United Mine Workers, and Robertson, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor. Both appeared to have come to attempt to break up the meeting.

Fagan and Robertson were the leaders of the gang of 300 Lewis thugs brought to Pittsburgh last week to aid the police to break up the convention of the National Miners Union. Had not the meeting hall been so packed with militant workers, there is no doubt that the labor misleaders would have attempted to break up the meeting.

Gitlow pointed out the situation of the workers, and particularly of the miners, and the struggles they have been carrying on in order to improve their conditions. He showed how the reactionary Lewis administration has sold them out, with the aid of the courts and police.

I. Amter, district secretary of the Party in Ohio, dealt with the danger of war, and pointed out that while Kellogg went to Paris to sign a treaty to "outlaw" war, the U. S. congress appropriated $2,200,000,000 for war purposes.

Three Workers Die in Coast Oil Blast

FIGHT THE REACTIONARIES!

In Nebraska the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars have protested against the filing by the secretary of state of the petitions of the Workers (Communist) Party ticket.

These fascist organizations, acting under the direction of the capitalists, admit that the Communist ticket cannot be LEGALLY thrown off the ballot. But they claim that since the Communists are opposed to the capitalist system, they have no MORAL right to be on.

The "immorality" of the Workers (Communist) Party lies in the fact that it would rob the capitalists of their LEGAL right, held by FORCE, to rob the workers and exploited farmers of the fruits of their labor, and thru their ownership of the machinery of production and distribution, the right of the millions of unemployed to have access to a means of livelihood. The Communists propose to make the workers and farmers owners of all land and machinery and place them at the throttle of a government apparatus of their own.

This is why the capitalists, their government apparatus and fascist auxiliaries seek to prevent the Workers (Communist) Party from bringing the message to the widest possible circles of workers, by means of the election campaign.

This is why they are trying to throw the Party ticket off the ballot in violation of their own laws.

The secretary of the state of Nebraska has appointed a date for a hearing on the protests made by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The Workers (Communist) Party will fight to the bitter end against this attack. This fight will cost money.

This is a challenge to every rebel worker in the United States. We are calling on the workers to supply us with the sinews of war to wage a victorious fight against the enemies of labor. This call must be answered IMMEDIATELY.

Send in your contributions. Do not hesitate to wire funds, because the need is urgent.

POLICE RESUME TERROR IN MILL STRIKE; JAIL 11

Attack Mill Pickets

Strikers Rally Forces to Fight Betrayal

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 14.—Pointing definitely to a new police terror campaign to be launched because the A. F. of L. mill boss sell-out is about to be put across, two young girl strikers Marian Botelho and Zermaine Madieros, while walking home from a strike committee meeting, were brutally handled by Sergeant Velho who held warrants for their arrest.

Zermaine Madieros was struck heavily across the breast and Marian Botelho had her arm severely twisted and scratched, causing it immediately to swell.

Joseph Costa, a young striker was again arrested on a warrant at 1:30 this afternoon, charged with entering a schoolroom and making derogatory remarks about the American flag and swearing allegiance to the Red Flag.

Evidence obtained to date proves that the whole story is a fabrication by the police who are seeking every excuse in order to obtain warrants. Further investigation is being made in this case.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass Sept. 14.—The temporary dormant police terror is developing swiftly into full force again, as the mill owners realize that the strikers are overwhelmingly opposed to the A. F. of L. speed-up and sell-out plan. Nine pickets of the Textile Mill Committees were arrested this morning for picketing the Paige Mills and are lodged in jail on charges of "parading without a permit."

Casmiero Lamieras, eight times arrested for his activities as picket captain, called on the pickets at the Paige Mills early yesterday morning to reform their line for a final march to the T. M. C. headquarters.

When Sergeant Velho ordered him to disperse his line, Lamieras answered by taking the head of the line with John Cordiera and marching in picketing formation. By this time an augmented police force charged and broke the line only to see it reform again. Velho made the first arrest, and after 50 police reserves had been called out the other strikers also were taken to jail.

Later in court, fines of $20 each were levied and when the union attorney appealed, bail as high as $600 each was demanded.

Miners Recognize Gang Leading Attack

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—A Check-up by delegates to the convention for a new miners' union disclosed the fact that a large number of Lewis officials were among the gangsters and sluggers who attacked the first session of the convention last Sunday.

Gang Is Here.

Frank Hughes, International Organizer; Joe Angelo, International Organizer (not Joe Angelo of the National Miners Union); Heartneady, President District No. 17; Studdard, District No. 31, (West Virginia); Bussarilli, Sub-District Board Member, William Hynes, Sub-District Board Member; John Dramarich, Field Worker, District No. 5; Thomas Robertson, District No. the Pennsylvania State Federation 5, Organizer, and Vice-President of of Labor; Bozo Damich, International Organizer and his son.

'SOCIALISTS' ASK FOR INJUNCTION

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 12.—Driven by desperation to any means to stem the successful march of Boston's cloak and dressmakers in the establishment of a new union there, the right wing Joint Board, under the leadership of "socialist" officialdom, joined the firm of Cohen and Jacobson in applying for an injunction to notorious Massachusetts courts against the organizers and functionaries of the new

USSR RESCUERS HUNT AMUNDSEN

Five Soviet Aviators Lost in Siberia

MOSCOW, Sept. 14 (UP).—The final search for Roald Amundsen and his five companions and the six men of the dirigible Italia envelope party started today and if it fails the twelve explorers will be given up as lost.

The steamship Krassin, which rescued so many members of the Italia crew and their rescue parties and which now is engaged in a last search for the Amundsen and Alessandri parties, has been ordered to return to Russia within a fortnight.

The last reconnoitering route will be in the region of Seven Islands to Victor Island and thence eastward.

Chukhnovsky, the Russian aviator, will make airplane reconnoiters over the region. Today he was held up by bad weather.

Meanwhile the Italia relief committee, formed when the polar dirigible went down in the arctic, organized an expedition to search for a group of five Russian aviators who are lost in the Arctic.

The Soviet airplane "Soviet Sever" started on August 19 on a flight from Vladivostock to Leningrad. The route lay directly across the snow capped Arctic region. Since the start no word has been heard of the plane.

The relief committee directed the Soviet ice cutter Astrakhan, carrying two airplanes, to proceed to the area between North Cape, Caicutina, Guba and Wrangel Island where it is believed the plane may have landed. The airplane base will be organized at Anadir.

The Astrakhan is expected to reach Anadir within 20 days.

Daily Worker Asks Readers to Send All News Without Delay

Many news stories are received by the Daily Worker which do not appear in print because they arrive too late. This is due to the fact that correspondents often wait several days after a meeting or an affair has been held before they send in the report of it to the Daily Worker. It is impossible to print such news in a daily paper.

The editorial department of the "Daily" has now on hand a number of examples of such stories. One is a report of a Young Workers League Conference in Hancock, Mich. Tho this conference was held Aug. 26, the report of it was not mailed until Sept. 10.

If stories like these are mailed immediately or if they are sent by air mail, they will arrive in ample time to be published in the Daily Worker.

The Daily Worker requests all its readers to cooperate with it in its effort to present all the important working class news on time by telephoning or mailing all news without delay and wherever possible using air mail.

Workers Party Goes on Ballot in Massachusetts, New Hampshire; Red Ticket Now Filed in 21 States

Workers in Strike Centers Rally to Support of Communist Ticket

Signatures Gathered in Spite of Terrorism by Officials in Both States

By ALEX BAIL

(Dist. Organizer, Dist. 1, Workers (Communist) Party)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 14. Massachusetts and New Hampshire have been added to the long list of states where the workers and exploited farmers have raised the banner of Communism in this election campaign, and succeeded despite the many obstacles placed in their way by the ruling classes, in collecting the number of signatures necessary to qualify the Workers (Communist) Party for a place on the official ballot.

The members of the Party in those two states worked hard to add Massachusetts and New Hampshire to the nineteen states already in the red column. They are determined that Rhode Island will be the next state in New England to go over the stop.

Strike Centers Respond.

Despite numerous difficulties such as holding up certification of signatures by some city election authorities and flat refusal to certify signatures as in Peabody, we finally succeeded in filing with the state election authorities 1500 certified signatures or 500 more than actually needed to place the Party on the ballot. The most important fact in the collection of signatures was the enthusiastic support received by the Party in New Bedford and Fall River where our Party has been leading thousands of textile workers in a struggle against the mill barons.

Defeat Terror Move.

In New Hampshire, the Party filed over 1200 signatures with the secretary of state. There, as well as in Massachusetts, we encountered difficulties, the election inspector in Manchester being employment director of the Amoskeag Mills and that corporation's senator in the state house at Concord.

While collecting signatures on the streets of Manchester, Comrade Sidney Bloomfield, New England Campaign Manager for the Workers (Communist) Party, was arrested and ordered to get out of the city. This terrorism, however, only had the effect of making our comrades work harder to accomplish the task of getting the Party on the ballot in this great industrial state.

In addition to placing the national ticket on the ballot in New Hampshire, the Party is running comrades Henry C. Iram for governor and Fred B. Chase for senator. Both are veterans in the class struggle, Chase being at one time state secretary of the socialist party of Massachusetts.

The fact that the Party is on the ballot in Massachusetts is of great significance. In the state where Sacco and Vanzetti were murdered, our Party comes forward with an indictment of the whole frame-up system of exploitation. In the state

TYPOGRAPHICAL OFFICIALS KILL 40-HOUR WEEK

Annual Meet Defeats 3 Militant Proposals

CHARLESTOWN, S. C., Sept. 14.—Working fast in order to crush all opposition, the annual convention of the International Typographical Union, packed with handpicked trusties of the Morrison-Howard machine, defeated by large majorities three progressive resolutions which would have given a fighting edge to the union's policy.

A resolution introduced by the New York delegation, which includes a number of well-known militants, calling for a 40-hour week, was overwhelmingly voted down. The I. T. U. bureaucracy thus went on record against any lightening of the toil of the thousands of printers which would at the same time have gone a long way towards remedying the widespread unemployment that exists in the industry.

The machine also squashed a proposal to permit local unions to call a strike without the approval of the Executive Council. The convention further hogtied the rank and file by defeating a resolution to permit local unions to strike without first notifying the International president when a boss refuses to arbitrate.

TEXTILE RELIEF MEET TODAY

New York Unions Send Delegates

A large number of New York labor unions and fraternal orzanizations are responding to the appeal for relief for the 28,000 New Bedford textile strikers by sending in pledges of support and credentials for delegates who will attend the Workers International Relief Conference, to be held at Irving Plaza, 15th St. and Irving Place today at 2 p. m.

Included among these organizations are the bricklayers, printers, bakers, boot and shoe workers, garment workers, furriers, carpenters,

Miller, Padmore Speak at Meetings

The Workers (Communist) Party, District 15, has arranged election campaign meetings thruout the district. One will be held in Port Chester, N. Y. today at 6 p. m., and another today at 8 p. m. at the Town Hall steps, Stamford, Conn. The speakers will be Charles Mitchell, District Organizer of the Party and Bert Miller.

Hartford is arranging a series of meetings for George Padmore, who is now touring the state of Connecticut for the Workers Party. These meetings will be arranged in the thickly populated Negro workers section of Hartford on Saturday and Monday, September 15-17.

After this Padmore will visit New Haven and Stamford, where similar open air meetings will be arranged for among the Negro Masses.

VIENNA WORKERS SCORE FASCISTS

Reactionaries Plan to March on City

(Wireless to the Daily Worker)

VIENNA, Sept. 14.—To meet the provocative action of the fascist organization, the Home Defense Corps, which is mobilizing from 18,000 to 60,000 of its armed members for a march on Weinerneustadt, a suburb of Vienna and industrial center, on October 7, the Executive Committee of the Communist Party of Austria issued an appeal to the workers to prepare counter-measures against the fascist parade.

The appeal calls on the workers to elect delegates in the factories for a national congress to prepare a general mobilization of the Austrian working class against the fascist provocation.

VIENNA, Sept. 14.—Workers in the suburbs of Vienna are preparing a huge demonstration for October 7, which will serve as a counter-move and means of protection against the Austrian Home Defense Corps, a fascist organization, which is planning to march on Vienna on that date.

The estimates of the fascist numbers run from 18,000 to 60,000 and all of them will probably be armed, although they also go under the name of the "Pacifist Peasant Party."

The fascists plan to march upon Vienna. The workers term this move a direct act of provocation.

TOOHEY PLEDGES FIGHT FOR UNION

Attends Funeral of Slain Miner

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13.—Standing at the grave of George Moran, militant miner of Bentleyville, who was assassinated by Louis Carboni, a spy for John L. Lewis, the secretary of the new National Miners' Union, Pat H. Toohey, urged the necessity of the miners joining the new union and a continuation of the fight in which Moran lost his life.

Calamari, Progressive Mine Leader, Is Still in Danger After Lewis Thug's Attack

RIM FACTS OF MINERS' BATTLE TO BE RELATED

Watt, Gold to Speak at Relief Meet

"Faithful to our great tradition, we, the delegates assembled at this convention, representing the rank and file coal miners, finally and completely repudiate the Lewis machine and resolve to build the new union, the name of which shall be the National Miners' Union."

With these ringing words the historic Pittsburgh convention announced the launching of the new miners' union on the ruins of the old one destroyed by the Lewis machine and set in motion the machinery which will unite the nearly 1,000,000 coal diggers in this country in one powerful, militant organization.

The steps that led up to the formation of the new union, the fight against the triple entente of the bosses, police and John L. Lewis and his cut-throat hirelings, the desperate struggles of thousands of miners and their families against starvation, eviction and disease, and the tense moment of the huge epoch-making Pittsburgh convention—all this will be vividly described to the workers of New York by the first president of the new National Miners' Union, John Watt, at a huge Solidarity Mass Meeting Thursday evening, Sept. 20, at Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave.

The meeting, which has been arranged by the National Miners' Relief Committee, 799 Broadway, and the Shop Delegates Conference for Miners' Relief, will mobilize the workers of New York and vicinity in support of the new miners' union and of the thousands of coal diggers, their wives and children who are face to face with starvation.

In addition to Watt, who will be the main speaker, leaders of workers' struggles in other fields will appear to pledge the solidarity of the workers of New York with the fighting miners. These speakers will include Ben Gold, general organizer of the Joint Board, Furriers' Union; Gladys Schechter, organizer, Millinery Workers' Union; Hyman Koretz, general manager of the organization department, Cloak and Dressmakers' Union; Harold Williams, secretary of the Negro Committee for Miners' Relief; a speaker representing the Youth Conference for Miners' Relief and one from the Children's Relief Scout Groups.

TAILORS DOWN SIGMAN SCHEME

'Settlement' Rapped in 700 to 3 Vote

Despite the presence of Morris Sigman, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, the membership of Ladies Tailors Local 38, at a mass meeting in Bryant Hall late Tuesday night, rejected by 700 to 3, the right wing proposal that the employers be given permission to dismiss workers indiscriminately. This action forced the right wing officialdom of the local to go back to the employers negotiators for a new agreement and tell of the membership's decision. Tomorrow evening another mass meeting will be held, where the Sigman officials will report on the result of their trip.

At thes negotiation for the new agreement the employers organization, taking advantage of the deterioration of the strength of the union due to the neglect and incompetency of the right wing officials, had the spunk to demand the right to discharge 10 per cent of their employees, and also those whom they judge to be guilty of "insubordination, and a slow worker. After the battery of "expert negotiators" Morris Sigman and Morris Hillquit, corporation lawyer, had met many days with the employers, they finally came to the members and advised acceptance of the clause they demanded.

MILLER TO SPEAK IN PORT CHESTER

J. O. Bentall Will Start Tour

Bert Miller, organization secretary of District 1, will speak at two election campaign rallies on Saturday, September 15th, in Port Chester, New York and Stamford, Connecticut.

The Port Chester meeting will take place at 6 p. m. in the center of the city, a special permit having been secured for the purpose.

The Stamford meeting will be held at 8 p. m. the same day on the Town Hall steps. This place is used by the republican and democratic parties once every three weeks respectively. The socialists were after the same position but were not on the job quick enough and lost out.

Both meetings are arranged by Comrade Mitchell, acting district organizer of District 15.

J. O. Bentall, Communist candidate for governor speaks in Scandinavian Hall, 701 State St., Erie, Pa., at 8 p. m., September 15th. If the weather is favorable, Comrade Bentall will speak in Perry Sq., South Park Row and Peach St.

Bentall will speak in several cities along the lake shore on his way to Minnesota where he is booked for a six-week tour.

ready to be buried with him," said Glovak.

Long Procession of Mourners.

A terrific rainstorm subsided a half hour before the funeral but in spite of the storm more than nine hundred mourners, organized delegations of nine local unions, marched in the procession. Local women's auxiliaries, youth organizations, Miners' Relief and the National Executive Board all sent wreaths. President Watt of the National Miners' Union was master of ceremonies and Patrick Toohey, secretary, was the principal speaker.

Organizer of Children.

Many children and representatives of children's organizations attended the funeral. Moran was admired by all the miners' children as he was one of the leaders in creating children's organizations.

State troopers hovered around the outskirts of the crowd, but this time attempted no attack.

Entertain Carboni.

Carboni, the murderer of Moran, is technically under arrest, but instead of being in jail, as is always the case with militant miners under arrest, is being well cared for in a hospital in Washington. A wife of one of the local miners says that Carboni's wife boasted that five were meant to be killed at the union meeting. Glovak says that Pete Gulik, Lewis sub-district board member, threatened him with "something worse than a frame-up," several days before the shooting.

The National Executive Board adjourned last night. The next regular meeting will be held in three months.

SWANSEA, Wales, Sept. 14 (UP). —Details of an American-Welsh tinplate manufacturers' agreement were published here today, allocating the world's tinplate markets.

The agreement was for the purpose of securing if possible, the freedom of the United States from Welsh competition in certain export markets of the world where Americans have immense capital invested. A similar agreement probably will be made with Germany shortly, it was said.

In return for the concession, American tinplate manufacturers agree to refrain from Wales' prewar markets in Europe.

SHIP BLAST KILLS FIVE WORKERS

(By United Press)

SOUTHPORT, Sept. 14 (UP). —The coast guard cutter Modoc today sought the 7,000-ton tanker Shreveport, converted by an explosion yesterday into a burning mass with four bodies aboard. Thirty others of the crew were rescued, but one man died later. Four others were treated at a hospital here.

While the Modoc hunted the flaming ship 125 miles off shore here the twenty-nine survivors described the accident.

Captain S. A. Simmons, of Baltimore, said the tanker was proceeding empty from Philadelphia to Texas. Suddenly the decks bulged, there was a great flash, then an explosion, and wreckage began falling about the now burning steamer.

The Shreveport was owned by the Cities Service Transportation Co. of New York.

KELLOGG AGREES TO BIG WAR BILL

"Peace" Pact Takes Second Place

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (FP). When Secretary of State Kellogg returned from his Paris and Dublin trip, he went immediately into conference with President Coolidge. Then he talked with Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee. After that, the unofficial report went around that the administration had made a deal with the big navy lobby in the senate, whereby the 16-ship naval construction bill would first be passed and then the Kellogg treaty for renunciation of wars of aggression would be ratified.

Fifteen cruisers and one airplane carrier are to be built, at a cost of $274,000,000, under the terms of the pending bill, which has passed the house and has been somewhat amended in the senate committee. One amendment by Senator Hale's committee is being fought by the organized labor lobby. It seeks to permit naval officers to purchase from private non-union firms about half the work that will go into the eight ships that are to be built in government yards. All the private yards are non-union.

One primary reason for Kellogg's agreeing to let the naval construction bill have the right of way over his treaty is that Senator Swanson of Virginia, who threatened trouble over ratification, is interested in getting the ship contract for yards at Newport News and the Norfolk navy yard as quickly as possible.

SHOE STRIKERS STILL OUT SOLID

Stolidly determined to stay out on strike till their demands for recognition of the union and reinstatement of active unionists, are granted all craftsmen employed by the S. Lieberman Shoe Co. in Brooklyn, continue to picket the plant with increasing vigor. Widespread support is being marshalled by the workers organization, the Independent Shoe Workers Union of Greater New York, in a series of meetings still being held. This Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. a section membership meeting of Harlem unionists is to be held in the Hungarian Workers Home, 350 E. 81st Street.

In addition to taking up the question of supporting the men on strike in Brooklyn, this meeting, as the others did, will occupy itself with the coming organization drive of the union. Organizers Magliacano, the union president and other speakers will address the meeting. Last Sunday shoe workers in Coney Island met in section meeting.

The anti-union employer has already confessed the fact that the strike hurts where strikes hurt bosses most, and agreed to see the union leader in conference. On hearing the demands of the union, he refused to accede the men's demands, hoping that the break off of negotiations would discourage the strikers.

DE LEON LAUDS WORKING YOUTH MEET, SEPT. 29

Conference to Take Up Vital Tasks

Solon De Leon, labor economist, yesterday endorsed the forthcoming Working Youth Conference to be held at the Labor Temple, Second Ave. and 14th St., on September 29 and 30.

In a statement, issued through the arrangements committee of the conference, De Leon said:

"One of the most striking shortcomings of the labor movement in America is the fact that the young workers, the Negro workers and the women workers have not yet been organized. The organized section of the working class is limited more or less to the skilled and well-paid workers. The great masses of the worst exploited, the harshly treated, the much abused, the low paid, workers have not been organized.

"The officials of the A. F. of L. have repeatedly shown their unwillingness, or inability, to organize these masses of workers. Tens of thousands of these unskilled and semi-skilled workers are ready to become organized. The young workers especially, who constitute a large percentage of these unskilled and unorganized workers, have shown their ability to fight side by side with the adult workers when they were organized. They have shown, in instances, their readiness to be organized. Since there is no one else to do the organizing, the left wing must get on the job and do it.

"The Working Youth Conference is a step in the direction of organizing the unorganized young workers. It should receive the greatest possible support from all militant workers. This first step will have to be followed up with many more steps, until we succeed in accomplishing the task of organizing the young workers."

painters and a large number of progressive groups.

"This conference will meet the challenge of the textile trust and the reactionary labor misleaders, who are determined to break the strike," Harriet Silverman, secretary of the New York branch of the Workers International Relief, said yesterday.

Following the conference, delegates and hundreds of New York workers are expected to view the showing of "The Crowd" at Labor Temple, Second Ave. and 14th St., tomorrow night. M. J. DUBINSKY BROKE MOVES OFFICES

Cutters League Grows in Membership

Dubinsky and his Cutters' Local 10, one of the strongest pillars of reaction in the Jewish labor movement, and Morris Sigman's right-hand man in his pogroms on the cloak and dressmakers in New York, are bankrupt, was the charge made by Organizer A. Horowitz, when he reported yesterday to the crowded meeting of members of the Cutters' Welfare League, which adheres to the National Organization Committee for a New Cloakmakers' Union. The meeting was held in the headquarters of the N. O. C., 16 W. 21st St., and began promptly at 6 last night.

To substantiate this charge, Horowitz called attention to the recently published charge that the "rich and all-powerful Local 10," (according to Bubinsky) is compelled to vacate its independent headquarters on 14th St. and move into the right wing Joint Board building. It was also pointed out at the meeting that Dubinsky tried to cloud the impression which he recognized such an event would inevitably create, came out with a boisterous announcement to the effect that no one should suspect that his Local 10 is bankrupt, but that the only reason he is moving from the very comfortable 14th Street offices, where they have been for nearly 10 years, is for "convenience."

The meeting last night also voted unanimous approval to the request of a committee sent by those arranging the big Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar in Madison Square Garden, October 4, 5, 6 and 7. A committee was elected to assist in making the bazaar a success. A motion was also carried to request the organization's executive board to buy tickets.

The league leaders reported on the work to date. The organizer reported on the complaints he had attended in the shops. The report on membership drives show that many new members are signing up with the League every week.

'SOCIALISTS' ASK FOR INJUNCTION

union. Another hearing is scheduled for the coming Monday.

The new union, tho recently launched, has already acquired the allegiance of the workers in nearly every ladies garment manufacturing shop in this city. The sudden and complete stoppage of dues payments to the Sigman union by the members, and the simultaneous growth in membership of the new local section of the National Organization Committee, caused the Boston Sigman machine to beg for aid from the employers which was promptly forthcoming from a number of bosses.

The firm of Cohen and Jacobson, was among the first to dismiss the most militant among its employees. This was answered by the workers by an immediate walkout. The new union declared the shop on strike and it has been tied up ever since, with regular picketing going on in full force. The injunction was specifically applied for to halt this strike, and to stop picketing.

In the injunction application the "socialist" officials and their boss ally, went to great lengthy detail in trying to prove to the Massachusetts judge that the N. O. C. is a "red" organization, which is causing friction between the company union and the employers association. Another "socialist" gem is the clause in the injunction application, which states that the defendants, the officers of the N. O. C., are trying to break up the International Ladies Garment Workers Union thru "violence" and "threats to kill!"

The writ application names in its papers, Julius Portnoy, N. O. C. treasurer, Emma Yaninsky, N. O. C. organizer, W. Weiner and A. Shapiro, local leaders, and all other union functionaries.

SLUGGED FOR MILITANCY; MAY DIE AS RESULT

Mine Relief Appeals for Aid for Him

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—For thirty-six hours following the attack on the miners' convention by Lewis thugs and Pittsburgh police, Anthony Calamari, the mine leader of Charleroi, who was most seriously injured, hovered between life and death in a state of unconsciousness. At the present moment he is walking about fretfully, his memory entirely gone, and refusing all food. The National Miners Relief Committee has procured special medical aid for him.

Calamari has taken an active part in the strike since the beginning, and has been organizing the miners, urging them not to return to the mines individually, but in an organized manner.

Brutally Attacked.

When Calamari approached the Labor Lyceum, Sunday morning, his convention delegate badge pinned to his lapel, the thugs fell upon him, breaking three blackjacks over his head, throwing stones and every conceivable missle at him. The gallant miner fought back as long as he could, but was soon overpowered, and fell unconscious.

Then the thugs kicked his head and shoulders, and dragged him up the street. When the delegates in the hall who had repulsed the attackers and closed the doors of the hall to open the convention, saw this through the window, they threatened to charge upon them unless the attack upon Calamari ceased. The thugs drew away from the unconscious miner.

Rushed to Hospital.

The delegates had succeeded in fighting off the attackers and were seated in the hall when the police arrived. Calamari was rushed to the Passavant Hospital while the police cleared the hall.

The doctors say that Calamari's condition is very serious. The National Miners Relief Committee is doing its utmost to help him. Calamari was a member of the Relief Committee of Charleroi, and his ruddy, smiling face and witty tongue were well known to the relief committee staff. Whenever Calamari came to the headquarters, he would get to work, folding news releases or bulletins or whatever other work there was to be done, until the order for groceries for Charleroi was ready.

Appeal For Help.

The miners throughout the Monongahela and Allegheny Valleys know Calamari as a loyal leader. The National Miners Relief Committee is doing its utmost to save Calamari's life. Funds are needed to pay doctor's bills, and take care of the stricken striker's family. All contributions should be sent directly to the relief headquarters, 611 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

British and French Army Staffs View 400 Planes Maneuvering on 500 Mile Front

RIAND MARKED USSR AT GENEVA AS BOMB TARGET

More Proof of Franco-British Alliance

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The French government is massing 400 of its army airplanes in a mimic attack on Paris, following the example of its ally, Great Britain, while Sir Hoare, minister of aviation of Great Britain, and a staff of British and French army and aviation officers are looking on and making observations with a view towards perfecting the offensive and defensive abilities of the French air force.

At the same time the French minister of war and the leading members of the general staff are holding conferences along the northeastern and eastern frontiers of France with the purpose of perfecting plans for the immediate construction of a line of fortifications of the most modern type, that will stretch from the North to the Mediterranean Seas.

Eye on U. S. S. R.

The French planes are divided into two armies, and as Foreign Minister Briand, just returned from the League of Nations assembly in Geneva, where he spoke of "disarmament" and accused the Soviet Union of preparing for war against the capitalist world, is sitting in conference with his cabinet, the planes are staging a mimic battle.

The most modern methods of destruction are being experimented with. Squadron upon squadron of fast-motored and bomb-loaded planes circle over a front of fifty miles, maneuvering against an "imaginary" enemy, whose name has been indicated by Briand at Geneva.

The Next War.

The inhabitants of Paris and the peasants in the outlying districts do not need very much imagination to be able to picture the war of the near future.

Fortifications Strong.

PARIS, Sept. 14 (UP).—Minister of War Painleve has returned from a personal inspection of the eastern frontier fortifications with renewed confidence in France's plan of defense and with proposals for concentration of work on the "nerve centers" of the eastern border.

In an interview the war minister revealed an "ingenious method" on which the northeastern, eastern and southeastern frontier defenses are based.

"The plan is based on an unusual method which unites the best advice of specialists of different countries," he told the United Press correspondent, "taking into consideration the methods of a continued frontier or separated regions or intensive concentration of strength in certain spots."

Machine-Gun Fire.

"There are certain regions which I visited on my trip that are covered with bristling underbrush. These sections will be so arranged that, on a minute's notice, they may be fortified with machine guns and protected by barbwire.

"Such regions are virtually ready for use today if the need should arise. They need only the installation of garrisons when the time comes for their protection."

Recent accounts of French fortifications and plans for the future developments indicate that the country is to have the greatest line of defense from the northeastern coast to the Alps that ever was known.

It will be an extensive line of fortifications and secondary bases and—by the time for withdrawing the French troops from Germany—the French frontier will be so firmly guarded that authorities believe not even the most modern war machine could dent it.

Auto Workers Learn Red Platform

ition of Soviet Russia, war danger, etc.

The Election Campaign Committee is determined to have Communist speakers in all of these factories thruout the auto industry in the city of Detroit and as well as the vicinity of Detroit. The platform of the class struggle is being sold at the factory gates and is received very favorably by these workers. Workers will be made conscious of the fact that only the members of the Workers (Communist) Party and the left wing in the labor movement will [illegible] the big open shop industry. It is becoming clearer to these thousands and hundreds of workers in the auto industry that the labor bureaucracy is playing the game of the capitalist agencies to mislead and sell out the interests of the working class.

WORKERS PARTY ON BALLOT IN 21 STATES

where the workers feel the full brunt of capitalist dictatorship, the Party raises the banner of Communism and calls for the establishment of a workers government—a Soviet Government.

G.O.P. Aids Mill Barons.

The prospects for our Party are bright indeed. Tens of thousands of textile workers have seen police and troops massed against them in an effort to drive them back into the mills under starvation wages. The republican administration in the state and the democratic administration in the various cities have used the state machinery to the fullest extent against the workers and for the mill bosses. Persecution, mass arrests, long prison terms, anti-picketing decisions and brutal third degree methods have been the lot of the fighting textile workers in New Bedford and Fall River.

The merging of the socialist Party with the trade union bureaucrats in New Bedford and Fall River and their joint effort to sell out the workers by foisting on them a vicious speed-up system has done much to expose the true reactionary character of the socialist party. The masses of textile workers are looking to our Party for leadership on the economic and political fields.

Mary Donovan Hapgood, candidate for governor on the socialist party ticket is trying to cash in politically on her connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee, a liberal outfit that refused to participate in a mass movement for the defense of the two framed workingclass leaders, spurned every offer for a United Front of labor, but instead lined up with bourgeois politicians and professors, expecting that thru wire-pulling and the influence of "conservative public leaders" the political hangmen in control of the government apparatus of Massachusetts would free the men they had doomed to die because of their activities in behalf of the workingclass.

Bankrupt politically and numerically, the socialist party which was part and parcel of this criminal conspiracy against Sacco and Vanzetti, in the refusal to arouse the masses against the frame-up, is now playing its customary political confidence game, putting Miss Donovan forward as a workingclass leader to catch votes in the election campaign. The class-conscious workers of Massachusetts who rallied behind the Workers (Communist) Party and the International Labor Defense in the great mass struggles under Communist leadership to snatch Sacco and Vanzetti from the jaws of death will turn a deaf ear to the siren pleas of the Socialist Party candidate for governor.

Aid Strikebreakers.

The socialist party in New England is lining up with the strikebreaking bureaucrats of the New Bedford Textile Council who are waging war on the rank and file of the mill workers under the leadership of the Textile Mills Committees. Miss Donovan speaks from the same platform with the labor fakers, leads their picket lines, under police protection, denounces the Left Wing leadership of the strike and helps to distribute leaflets charging the foreign-born workers with dragging down the standard of living of the "American" workers.

The socialist party of New England today is merely a competitor—tho a weak one—of the republican and democratic parties for the favor of the ruling classes.

The Workers (Communist) Party not only raises the banner of the class struggle during the election campaign and all the year round. Its stand on behalf of the striking textile workers in the New Bedford and Fall River, as well as during the fight to save Sacco and Vanzetti has convinced every rebel worker in New England that it is the only political party entitled to the support of labor in the elections.

In the shoe industry, also, our Party is making headway and has good possibilities of firmly entrenching itself. The existing reactionary unions have failed miserably not only in putting up a struggle against the worsening of conditions and the speed-up which has permanently disemployed some 75,000 shoe workers, but they have even failed to hold on to what conditions the bosses had been willing to give the union members. This has resulted in widespread dissatisfation. A broad secession movement has begun, centering in Lynn. Almost all the locals have seceded from the Boot and Shoe Workers Union. There, a center is being created from which will grow a powerful, national shoe workers' union which fights for the interests of the workers.

In the Needle Trades.

Also in the needle trades as well as other industries large masses have been convinced of the correctness of our program and are rallying around our Party. The coming months of campaign period will bring ever larger masses of workers in support of our militant class struggle program.

Besides the presidential ticket of Foster and Gitlow, the Party has also placed a full state ticket in the field headed by Chester W. Bixby, militant shoe worker of Haverhill for governor.

The following comrades were also placed for other state offices: United States Senator—John J. Ballam; for Lieutenant Governor—John Corbin, of Worcester, a stationary engineer; Secretary of State—Harry J. Cantor, a printer; Treasurer—Albert Oddie, of Brockton, one of the leading Left Wingers in the shoe industry; Auditor—Eva Hoffman, woman worker and organizer of the New England Federation of Working Women; Attorney General—Max Lerner, of Worcester, moving picture operator.

The list of presidential electors follows: Hobart Riley, Robert Zelms, William Janhonen, John Louko, Henry Gage, George Kraska, Emma P. Hutchins, Joseph Ginsburg, Sholom Reinstein, Alolph Suihkonen, Joseph Goldberg, Harry L. Cann, John Hurwitz, Elsie Fultur, Alexander Taraska, Nathan G. Kay, Stephen Puleo and Boris Kleid.

Benjamin Gitlow, Communist candidate for vice-president of the United States is scheduled to speak in Boston on October 31, in Haverhill, November 1, and in Fall River, November 2.

BAZAAR WORK ENLISTS MANY

Organizations Gather Articles for Booths

ers has been called in the office of the National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee, 30 Union Square, for Tuesday immediately after work.

The umbrella workers will also have a booth where umbrellas and parasols of various prices, styles and colors will be on sale.

Coney Island, Bath Beach and Boro Park are determined not to lag behind other sections of the city. At a meeting of delegates of various workingclass organizations it was decided to have a booth at the bazaar that will vie with the best. The organizations have already begun collecting articles for the booth.

Local 22, International Ladies Garment Workers Union which will have a booth of dresses, is gathering all its forces for bazaar work. A committee has been appointed which is present every night at local headquarters, 16 W. 21st St. to receive articles and reports. The committee urges all members of the local to get busy making dresses, selling tickets and collecting names for the Red Honor Roll.

Other organizations, as well as individual workers thruout the country, are also not letting any grass grow under their feet. "The Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar must be an overwhelming success," is the general feeling.

ZAM PRESIDES AT RED YOUTH MEET

They Take Up Colonial Question

peasant youth, the strengthening of the Anti-Imperialist League, increase the work of the fractions in the mass organizations and increase anti-militarist work."

Rust, of Britain, also made a co-speech on the colonial question. "The work for the support of the revolutionary movement in the colonies is progressing. The most important Leagues for colonial work are the British, French, American, Dutch and Italian. Special educational courses must be organized in the Leagues concerning colonial work. A direct connection must be established with the colonial Leagues or improved where connection already exists. It is necessary to send comrades from imperialist countries for work in the colonies.

League Colonial Department.

"Propaganda work among the troops sent to the colonies is extremely important. A sharp fight must be conducted against colonial policy of the social democracy which assists the imperialists. Special colonial departments must be formed in the central committees of the Leagues."

Mahmud, of India, was chairman of the fourteenth session. Pioneer, of China, made another speech on the colonial question. "The Chinese piay a great role in industry and, in consequence, also in revolution. The working conditions and exploitation are terrible. The students played a revolutionary role formerly, but are now only partly revolutionary. Terror caused the Chinese League to lose members. The correct Bolshevist policy is now adopted in China. The Communist youth took a prominent part in the Canton insurrection. Despite the terror the organization is maintained intact.

"The chief tasks are to strengthen the League, build supplementary mass organizations, win leadership of the peasant youth and co-operate with the party to win the Chinese workers for the victorious revolution." (Great applause.)

U. S. League and Colonies.

Phillips, of the United States, opened the discussion, saying, "The American League has commenced colonial work and sent comrades to Mexico, distributed leaflets among the troops sent to Nicaragua and China, etc. Work in the Philippines must now commence. Work among the Negroes has also commenced but is very insufficient. Work must be performed in Liberia, Haiti, etc., where great masses of industrial proletarian youth exist."

The following then spoke: Miura, of Japan; Schueller, of the Executive Committee of the Young Communist International, and Ford, of the United States.

Ford discussed the progress of industrialization in Africa. "The Young Communist International must adopt the policy laid down by the Red International of Labor Unions for work among the Negroes. The Young Communist International must also work together with the Secretariat for work among the Negroes."

Revolutionary Students.

The following speakers were: Muniabazir, Tanutuva and Spence, of Britain; Fentinmin, of China, and Harvey, of the United States. Harvey said: "We must pay more attention to the revolutionary students in the colonies. South American states are semi-colonial and therefore important for revolution in case of war. The workers' sport movement in the colonies must be strengthened. Anti-militarist work in the army must be performed, particularly in Hawaii and Cuba. The Leagues in the motherlands must co-operate in the colonial work."

Ricardo, of Argentine, spoke and then Haywood, of the United States. Haywood said: "The American League must increase its work among the Negroes. Important slogans must be equal rights and votes for Negroes. Special methods are necessary for Negro work. The American League must form special departments for Negro work."

Masuth, of the Soviet Union; Lopez, of Mexico, and Sulimov, of Corea, then spoke. The Colonial Commission was then elected.

MANY KILLED AS TORNADO SWEEPS OVER PORTO RICO

Report Thousands Are Homeless

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 14 (UP).—Many lives have been lost in the tropical hurricane which devastated this island yesterday. The property loss will reach millions.

Death, suffering and destruction was spread through the entire island. It was impossible today even to begin to approximate the loss. All communications were disrupted.

What may have happened in the interior of the island is painful to thing of. Hospitals in this area were unroofed and 80 per cent of the families are without shelter.

The water supply of San Juan and surrounding cities has been cut off.

Famine and disease threatens them.

First indications of the seriousness of the tornado that swept over Porto Rico were received today as the French Cable Company lines were partly restored.

The first messages from San Juan said that "ruins are all over" and that the storm was so great that an automobile being used to run messages to the French cable office, could not venture out because of the storm's force.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 14 (UP).—The National Observatory announced at 10 a. m. today that the central part of the tropical hurricane was off the Northern Coast of the Dominican Republic at that hour.

The announcement said the observatory was unable to give the direction in which the storm was traveling, but that Eastern Cuba was in no danger.

WINNEBAGO, Neb., Sept. 14 (UP).—The tornado which swept northeastern Nebraska yesterday virtually wiped out Winnebago. Eight persons were killed and a score more injured.

Nearly every building in Winnebago was damaged, many homes being demolished. Property damage in this section of the state will run into the millions, it was estimated today.

Under the auspices of the Food Workers Section of the Trade Union Educational League, an election rally for the support of the platform and candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party will be held on Friday, September 21st, 8 p. m. at the Manhattan Lyceum, 66 4th Street.

200 Workers Escape Death by Burning as Ship Cargo Explodes

The lives of more than 200 seamen and stevedores were endangered when a cargo of nitrate of soda exploded and tore a hole in the steamship Aconcagua, moored at Harrison Street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. The cotton stored in the ship immediately caught fire and the 12 men working in the hold barely escaped with their lives.

Nitrate of Soda, subject to explosion by spontaneous combustion is handled by the stevedores and seamen without any precautions being provided. The soda ignited spontaneously and the whole ship was soon ablaze endangering buildings and workers along the docks.

FRENCH AIRPLANE FORCE PERFECTED FOR FUTURE WAR

British War Minister Aids Maneuvers

PARIS, Sept. 14.—While talk of useless disarmaments continues the French aerial authorities, following the lead of their British ally, will start aerial battles over Paris tomorrow morning in which 400 airplanes will participate and at which British experts will be present.

The maneuvers will continue for 48 hours, observed by the keen eye of Sir Samuel Hoare, British air minister, and a group of high-ranking British and French army officers. A theoretic attack on the city will be staged with the purpose of discovering weaknesses in the defensive as well as the offensive abilities of the French air force.

Many observors here point to these maneuvers as the further proof of the Franco-British alliance, which has many more implications than have been made public.

Labor Faker Dead

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 14 (UP).—James Duncan, a former vice president of the American Federation of Labor, died at his home here today after a long illness.

He was president of the Granite Cutters' Association and had long been identified with labor activities. Duncan opposed William Green for the presidency of the A. F. of L. following the death of Samuel Gompers.

KILLED IN WAR MANEUVRES.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 14 (UP).—Cadet Gaynor Tostein, 23, Racine, Wis., was killed and Cadet Sheldon B. Yoder, Almont, Mich., was saved by his parachute at Kelly Field today when the planes they were piloting in practice military maneuvers collided approximately 7,000 feet from the ground.

TOLSTOY---A REBEL ARTIST OUT OF PAST

By SOL AUERBACH.

"I renounced the life of my class, for I had come to confess that it was not a real life, only the semblance of one; that its superfluous luxury prevented the possibility of understanding life, and that in order to do so I must know, not an exceptional parasitic life, but the simple life of the working classes, the life which fashions that of the world, and gives it the meaning which the working classes accept. The simple laboring men around me were the Russian people, and I turned to this people and to the meaning which it gives to life."

Leo Tolstoy wrote this in "My Confessions," the book which marks the pivot point of his development, written after a brave and frank scrutiny of the life and ideas of his class and himself. He had come to that point in his life when such a serious and sincere nature as his own could no longer tolerate the meaningless and parasitic life of the Russian nobility. He had asked himself two questions: What is the end of all this pleasure seeking, this meaningless hopping from one pleasure to another, this continual life of passive acceptance without questioning of purpose and good? In this he saw nothing but decadence, death, decay, a palatial edifice of glass pleasures built upon the backs of the masses.

From the first question it was but a step to the second: If this life of personal pleasure means nothing, is useless, how then can I be of use to society? It is one thing to see the insignificance of the individual in the complex structure of society; it is quite another to substitute for the meaningless and decadent ideology of a parasitic class an all-embracing, healthy and constructive way of looking at things. In the masses Tolstoy saw a daily life of struggle and suffering, an existence rooted in the very soil of Russia, massive, bulky, sturdy as an oak, pushing out its branches and generating its sap in spite of the oppressive weeds of a czarist regime, and the sun-dimming painted windows of the church.

In a certain sense we can say that Tolstoy was class conscious and took his stand with the masses against the "noble" oppressors of czarist Russia. With the formulation of his point of view Tolstoy renounced the culture and institutions of his class. The art of what we would call the bourgeoisie was to him decadent, swimming in the juices of its own decayed body. He saw in it only a refined way of expressing "the feeling of pride, the feeling of sexual desire, and the feeling of weariness of life." Contrast this culture with the simple handicrafts and life of the working and peasant masses and one sees the difference between a life that will build the culture of the future and a life that is building its own coffin. "Free the slaves of capital, and it will be impossible to produce such refined art."

Although Tolstoy in one sense was class conscious—in a negative way by his denunciation of the life of a parasitic ruling class—he was not possessed of that class consciousness which is constructively revolutionary. His was the point of view of a rebel artist not of a proletarian revolutionist. His whole reaction to the miserable social conditions of Russia was that of a highly sensitive and realistic individual. In the Russian peasant he saw a patient acceptance of his lot, a chronic passivism, a restraining quietism, a deep religious sense. So great was Tolstoy's desire to achieve peace of mind in a life that served some purpose that he accepted these traits as a part of his philosophy, incorporating the bad nature of the Russian masses as well as the good. If he had been a more penetrating social philosopher, he would have seen that these traits were only transient and temporary, that they had been instilled into the masses as a means of defense against centuries of oppression. But Tolstoy's change was so emotional and so extreme, his desire to live the life of the masses so great, that he committed the fault that he had charged to the art of the ruling classes — he placed the beautiful above the "good." The simple words reputed to Christ and their docile ineffective acceptance by the toiling masses who sought relief in dreams when it could not be obtained any other way, was beautiful to the soil-rooted mind of Tolstoy. He preached passivism, simple religion, brotherhood of man, and sonship in God.

But while he failed in setting up an independent social philosophy of action—in his case inaction—his all-embracing view and his serious and persistent realism have made him one of Russia's greatest novelists. Between the covers of any of Tolstoy's books one can see the whole of Russian life of his day. He could dig into life and knew how to sort his findings in such a way as to give to his readers that intimate touch, that actual feel of people's lives that only great novelists can achieve. When he turned his gaze upon Russia he saw it all. His individual characterizations are masterpieces. His writing is lacking in meaningless "aesthetic" effects, he writes simply and directly, his words seems to be in direct contact with the lives of the people he pictures. Living through his sentences, you can see the pleasure-seeking nobleman, the more serious, groping, questioning, self-distrustful man of leisure, wandering through a life without purpose or aim. There is the peasant, toiling, living his simple life interspersed with sins and momentary pleasures, the army officer, the countess, the lovelorn aristocrat moving unalterably towards her doom. Always the troubles and problems of the masses, their toiling life used everywhere as a backdrop to the aimless life of the nobility. The petty officials, the bureaucrats, that drab curtain of the mind—the church, the oppressive hand of the czarist regime; his was a complete and realistic picture of the Russia of the czars. His view was wide, understanding, sympathetic, filled with social content.

Tolstoy stands as a great man of the past, a heritage of czarist Russia to the masses of the Soviet Union.

II.

A new spirit prevails in Tolstoy's land today. The centenary of the birth of one of old Russia's greatest novelists sees a workers' and peasants' government in power, the eyes of the working masses turned in the direction of a new ideal, the concentrated energy of its best men—directed towards the construction of a classless and just society. Czarist Russia has died. A new society and culture has taken its place.

Tolstoy himself said that the masses understand good art, that no training is needed to understand it. And the Russian masses have understood this master out of the past, in whose works are incorporated so much of their own experiences and suffering. The workers' and peasants' government has devoted the entire week to the celebration of the hundreth year of Tolstoy's life.

The Tolstoy jubilee committee has been working on the centenary celebration for the last few years. The celebration which has taken place in the Soviet Union during the last week is symptomatic of the spirit of the new society. Throughout the land the masses attended meetings and special performances where his life and work were described and some of his plays shown. The significance of Tolstoy the artist and Tolstoy the man was discussed and clarified. For on both scores, to a great extent, does Tolstoy belong to the masses of the Soviet Union. As a social rebel, denouncing the society of classes and its oppression of the laboring masses; as a great writer, one of the best of the old Russia. And the Soviet Union, contrary to the belief of its enemies and the viciously inacculate writer in last Sunday's New York Times, has not destroyed or renounced all that belonged to its ancestor. It has destroyed what is bad out of the old Russia and taken the good for its own use. That is always the privilege of a new society, and it can accomplish great things by a rational and good choice.

This celebration has not simply used the birth of Tolstoy to honor a dead statue, but has used it to educate the masses, to further instill the impetus for constructive work in the building of a socialist state. What greater honor could have been given to Tolstoy than to build a modern school dedicated to him in his village of Yasnaya Polyana, where children born in a new state will be trained in the principles of Communism. Or the building of a modern hospital and clinic to look after the health of the peasants in that vicinity where he wrote his novels. What could be more symptomatic than this honoring of a great novelist of Russia's past, of the unbreakable impetus to push ahead, to educate, to build a thriving and healthy culture on the basis of a healthy social organization.

Enemies of the Soviet Union abound. There is a hostile capitalist world. But the Soviet Union uses its heritages of the past, creates new means, patiently continues it constructive work, carries on its own educational and cultural activities, is making out of itself the forerunner of a new world and a new international society. To the masses of tomorrow belong all the positive achievements of yesterday and today. The Soviet Union is collecting achievements out of the past to combine with its own achievements and safeguard them for the masses of the world. Tolstoy is one of the achievements out of the past and he has been adopted for the future.

STORY OF RAILROADS

For Kids Who Ask No Questions

THE STORY OF THE RAILROADS—FOR NICE CHILDREN THE STORY OF TRANSPORTATION. Jeanette Eaton. Harper & Bros. $2.

Reviewed by WALT CARMON.

IN this attractive booklet for children, on a single story thread are beaded all the modes of transportation from the canoe of the Indian to the airplane. All of it is a most elementary scientific explanation in a fashion a child could not help but enjoy.

Unfortunately, the book is not as scientific in its explanation of the vital forces that prompt invention and scientific research. Nor is there added a word as to the part they play in our lives nor the world we live in. At times this limitation of the book is even amusing. For instance: the reason all cities do not have subways is that "it takes a great many people riding every day and paying out thousands and thousands of fares all the time to pay back to the city all it has spent to build these underground railroads." To the city? And after the people have paid and paid until they have paid in full? Then what? And why?

In one of the stories in "Fairy Tales For Workers' Children" by Herminia Zur Muhlen there is a little boy who is forever asking questions. He wants to know "why?" about everything. This youngster would prove a most uncomfortable one to the author who glibly skips over each step in the progress of transportation with a most unsatisfactory "because people wanted to go faster." Alright. Why? And what people?

The book opens a vision of a real service that could be performed for workers' children in another book on the subject which would answer every why of transportation progress. Why industry grew with the discovery of steam and electric power; why these made necessary new inventions; why trade expanded and how modern transportation brings the things that workers produce to foreign markets. Children will find no answer to questions like these here, tho the book is not without merit.

It is profusely illustrated in a nice fashion in keeping with the text. There is nothing in it to jar the Sunday school sensibilities of the most conservative teacher. It is a perfectly safe book. It is not as good as could have been written and as you will guess from this description (and price) it is not written especially for workers' children.

'White Lilacs' Chopin Operetta Opens at the Shubert Theatre

OF all the weaknesses with which genius is afflicted the greatest is supposed to be conceit. The narcissus complex is seen at its best in "White Lilacs", now playing at the Schubert Theatre with the noted funster and husband DeWolfe Hopper in a leading role. If Mr. Hopper's contribution to the evening's entertainment was confined to his little curtain speech between the second and third acts that alone would be worth the price of admission provided one could afford $5.50 for an orchestra seat.

The much-married Hopper however did not romp off with the lion's share of the honors. Those went undoubtedly to Oddette Myrtil who gavé an impersonation of the famous George Sand, that should please equally well an addict of the Ziegfeld Follies or a steady customer of Theatre Guild productions.

The operetta is based on the short-lived love affair between the great composer Frederick Chopin and Miss Sand. This critic is of the opinion that Guy Robertson in the Chopin role exhibited more prowess in wooing the famous love-novelist than tickling sweet notes from the piano. It must be admitted that his task was easy. Miss Sand fell for him like a cloud burst. Miss Myrtil however kept the eyes and ears of the audience busy and tho at times she seemed to be scanning the seats for a missing angel, and paying more attention to the bald heads in the front row than to the sensitive Chopin, her formance more than atoned for any deficiency in the piano playing.

Great men came into George Sand's life simply to be smitten, with two exceptions, her publisher and a singer named Luselle. The publisher, played by Hopper, was about as artistic as a floorwalker and the singer had room in his heart for only one love and that he lavished on himself.

Others who contributed to the gayety of the evening were Ernest Lawford as Heinrich Heine, and Charles Croker-King as Meyerbeer. Heine, Meyerbeer and the publisher are good for lively small talk while George Sand is resting between tricks or changing from male attire to the rather generous female covering of other days. We can imagine the envy of would-be authors in the audience as the lady turned out a novel with a few saratches of her pen, between spasms of emotion, while the silence of the country atmosphere was broken by the crowing of roosters and the lowing of cows.

Among the impressions the visitor takes away from "White Lilacs" is that the life of a genius is spent between fits of melancholy brightened by briefs doses of exhiliration, also that artists spend most of their moments boosting their own stocks. Such people are beloved by all the world excepting their unfortunate mates.

Incidentally a Hopper gag is worth recording. It is about the monkey who sighed when he ran into a revived ancient: "This is my own, my native gland."

The operetta is from the German original of Sigurs Johannsen, book and lyrics adapted by Harry B. Smith with music by Karl Hajos. It is jazzed up to suit the machine age.

FORSEES A STATIC WAGE-SLAVE UTOPIA

A THEORY OF THE LABOR MOVEMENT By Selig Perlman, Ph. D. Macmillan Co. 1928.

Reviewed by JOHN L. SHERMAN.

THE mind of the American bourgeoise is coming of age. This is the explanation of the rapidly accumulating storehouse of conjecture and reflection upon the social process and the labor movement. The early history of the labor movement in the United States and even of social development itself is astonishingly devoid of theory. Events followed so rapidly on the heels of one another that there was no pause for thought. Reflection follows upon the conflict with obstacles. When the going is fairly unhampered there is but little call for the action of the "mind." The question "Whither?" is a product of struggle. The mind of the American business class is beginning to mature.

It is necessary to examine the new theories of the labor movement and of the social process against the background here suggested. Only against such a curtain will their true perspective be seen.

Before the war, labor was militant, now it is cooperative. This was the testimony of W. Jett Lauck so-called labor economist, at a hearing before the American Bar Association last winter. The same estimate—probably even the phrase was filched—was made by Evans Clark in his review of "Labor Dynamics" by J. B. S. Hardman and others in the New York Times.

Now, it is, of course, not true that "labor," by which they mean the official labor movement was militant before the war. What is true and significant in this statement is that the officialdom of labor before the war still maintained the pretense of militancy; that now it has consciously abandoned even the gesture of struggle and has taken over officially the policy of "cooperation" with the employers.

The value of Prof. Perlman's book is that it carries out to its conclusion the logic of the position adopted by the new school of theorists. Of course, Mr. Hardman will not "accept" all the conclusions drawn by the learned professor of the University of Wisconsin. Calhoun, Saposs Muste and the others of what might be called the "left wing" of the class callaborationists, would seek a middle ground between out and out class collaboration and the "dogma" of the class struggle; yet the very method of their approach to the labor struggle, the so-called pragmatic attitude of which they are so fond, forces them finally and "in the long run" to ACT as if the struggle were not even in existence. It then remains only for Mr. Perlman to come along with his conclusion that there is no struggle at all. The fight against theory and dogma completes itself with the adoption of a theory insipid and shameful.

"Twenty years ago," Perlman confides, "the author of this book like most of his college generation in Russia professed the theory of the labor movement found in Marxian classics. . ."

Fortunately the spirit, of which the professor later makes much of led him to America. "By an unusual stroke of good luck the author joined the research staff of Professor John R. Commons." Then the light dawned. Perlman learned "the method of deducing labor theory from the concrete and crude experience . . .of sweat shop bosses 'scabs,' strikers, merchant capitalists and manufacturers."

And what is this new empirical theory in which, as he boasts, "the Hegelian dialetic nowhere occurs nor is cognizance taken of labor's 'historical mission'?"

The worker is and will ultimately remain only "job conscious." He has none of those ultimate aspirations which comprise "the faith of the revolutionist." The trade union leader alone best understands the road for labor to travel for he sees the worker as he really is and must be, seeking nothing higher than to secure the essentials of life and aspiring only to climb towards "a civilized level of existence for ones self and ones dependents." (Page 200).

"There are, and by and large three basic economic philosophies," Perlman says, "the manual laborers', the business men's and the intellectuals'. . .

"In an economic community there is a separation between those who prefer a secure, though modest return—that is to say a mere livelihood—and those who play for big stakes and are willing to assume risk in proportion. The first compose the great bulk of manual workers of every description. . . while the latter are, of course, the "entrepeneurs, and the big business men . . ."

The worker, we are told is instinctively aware of his own shortcomings, he is aware of his own inate inferiority and "this scarcity consciousness has always been typical of the manual worker." The business man, 'on the contrary, is an eternal optimist."

All the errors of the intellectual (by whom he means the revolutionist) arise out of his failure to understand what is really on the worker's mind. So the intellectual, the Marxist, is not actually the social scientist, he professes to be but a dealer in abstractions, unable "to withstand an unrush of overpowering social mysticism."

The pragmatist sees that there is really a "parity of the classes" in society that there is an emerging "spirit of cooperation" by which the struggle of the workers is to be decided rather than by the force of numbers.

There is really no basis for the theory of sharpening class struggle. Labor is developing towards a "stable job consciousness." Capitalism is developing from a "demand and supply capitalism to a welfare capitalism."

And what is the outcome of this new and pragmatic insight?

"In a nutshell the problem of American unionism today is, first, how to dispel the hostility of the employer." This can best be accomplished through the spirit of cooperation.

Finally we have the logical conclusion and perspective of this theory of the labor movement. Labor will become "institutionalized" "The likelihood of that spirit of cooperation developing in unionism increases in the measure that its position in industry approaches a security rooted in institutionalism."

Yes, this means the company union! And this is the final outcome of heroic pragmatism: the permanency of the company union!

It would be gratutitous to point out that these gentlemen really have not the faintest perception of the real nature of the social process going on; they fall to se that what they call "labor" cannot be understood apart from its dynamic relations to the whole social system; that the pragmatic method however desirable as a tool can never of itself lead to scientific insight.

But even their own pragmatic method confutes them: The bosses almost without exception (and not less and less so, but more and more so) reject "the spirit of cooperation" which the good pragmatists urge upon labor alone!

Does anyone seriously believe that the coal barons, the textile lords, the steel kings are really "falling for" this good-will hokum? Anyone who pretends to know what is going on in the labor movement who believes this is already in a bug house needing only the pragmatic test to verify the fact.

In a nutshell "cooperation" is meant only for the workers. The bosses have their own good methods in the class struggle which they have no intention of abandoning.

Soviet Union to Film Scenario in Mongolia

THE "Belgoskino," the state film company of the Ruthenian Soviet Republic, has sent three expeditions to Mongolia to film a scenario in the Siberian city of Werchneudinsk, with a political plot built around a descendant of Chingis-kan, the Mongolian conqueror, according to a report to the Department of Commerce by Trade Commissioner George R. Canty, in Paris recently.

The report contains a detailed description of current developments and plans in the motion picture industry and Europe.

The "Belogskinio" has considerably expanded its production and recently transferred it to Leningrad where a new studio will be build. The company has just completed a new film entitled "In a Large Town" directed by Auerbach and Donskoj. The film is a description of two tendencies among working youth.

Gardin, manager of Sovkino, has been engaged by "Belgoskino," and is now at work on a film on Chinese life, it is announced.

The Soviet film industry, according to the report, has lately produced a large number of satirical films on various aspects of life in the U. S. S. R. "Don Diego and Pelageja," produced by Mejrabpem-Rouss, is meeting with considerable success. Sovkino has now completed another film of this sort, entitled, "The Chinese Mill" (directed by A. Lewischin).

IN "LUCKEE GIRL."

Doris Vinton is one of the principals in the new musical show "Luckee Girl" which is scheduled to open at the Cameo Theatre tonight.

Workers (Communist) Party, Issues Call for "Negro Week" Sept. 17-23

BALLAM URGES FULL SUPPORT OF MEMBERSHIP

Negro Speakers Will Address Units

The week beginning Monday, September 17, to Sunday, September 23, inclusive, will be "Negro Week" in District 2, Workers (Communist) Party, John J. Ballam, acting district organizer of the district, announced in a statement issued yesterday.

Each unit will hold a discussion upon the Party's Negro program and platform during that week. Negro speakers will be assigned to lead this discussion in as many units as possible.

Urge Special Drive.

"The purpose of Negro Week," says the statement, "is to concentrate the attention of each unit on the Negro problems, so that all comrades are alert to the utilization of all possible Negro contacts. In unions where we have an influence a special drive should be made to draw in Negroes. Connections should be made with groups of Negroes in various trades (elevator runners, porters, building trades, needle trades, laundry, longshoremen, etc.).

Our open-air meetings should emphasize the problem. Efforts should be made to distribute the Party's special leaflet on lynching. These can be ordered through the District Office.

Need Full Support.

"The fullest support must be given by every comrade to the drives for the support of Negro work. The Negro work is an opportunity and a test for our Party, which is the Party of the oppressed Negro masses. The response of the Negro workers in giving signatures and in open-air street meetings is most encouraging. They are coming to our Party by scores. Let each comrade do his utmost to further intensify this campaign which must win thousands of Negro workers for our Party.

"Negro Week will wind up with a dance at 461 Lenox Ave., Saturday, September 22. Comrades should avail themselves of this opportunity to show their solidarity with the Negro workers."

COOLIDGE, OTHER JINGOES FIGHT FOR A BIG NAVY

Use Franco-British War Pact as Excuse

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14. — Following a discussion between President Coolidge, Secretary Kellogg, and Wilbur, secretary of the navy, on the Franco-British naval pact, it was announced that the navy will urge the passage of the fifteen-cruiser bill now pending before the senate naval committee.

Much consternation has been felt in Washington over the naval pact, which has been kept secret, and which is interpreted by naval experts here as a move against the United States being prepared for the Geneva disarmament conference, which is to meet in some indefinite time in the future. Much fear is also felt over the virtual control of the Atlantic and eastern waters which would result by the pooling of the British and French forces and the protection of their mutual interests.

Conferences will take place during the course of the week between the secretary of the navy, naval experts and admirals, Kellogg, Coolidge and Borah. The discussion of the 15-cruiser bill and the Kellogg-Briand pact to "outlaw war" will most probably be the chief questions for discussion at the next session of the senate.

U. S. S. R. Aids Visits of Americans, World Tourists Declares

There are many difficulties in the way of the tourist desirous of entering the Soviet Union, according to Milton Goodman, manager of World Tourists, Inc., 69 Fifth Ave., authorized Russian travel agency here.

"All persons, whether American citizens or not, are being accepted as tourists to Russia, provided they have not participated in counter-revolutionary activities against the Soviet government," said Goodman yesterday.

Group visas, he said, are assured each tourist by Rusturist, official Russian tourist department, which organization agrees to secure extension of visas for members of World Tourist parties desiring to remain in Russia after the completion of their tour in order to visit friends and relatives. Separate individual visas to enter Russia alone, apart from tourist groups, will not be granted except under unusual conditions and then only by special arrangement.

"All groups of tourists sent over by World Tourists," Goodman said, "are accompanied while in the Soviet Union by guides speaking both English and Russian who aid in sightseeing and travel tours. This interpreter and guide service is free," Goodman said.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14.—While the largest bloc in the congress is supporting Emilio Portes Gil, secretary of the interior, as its candidate for provisional president of Mexico, newspapers report that Aaron Saenz, governor of Nuevo Leon, will be a candidate at the regular elections in 1929.

International Youth Day.

During the first imperialist war, when millions of the youth and young manhood of the earth were being slaughtered in behalf of the capitalist powers, the first International Youth Day was observed. Born out of the catastrophic conditions of the war and as a protest against the wholesale destruction of human life, the movement from the first involved a mighty struggle against imperialism, characterized by audacious demonstrations in the very strongholds of the war mongers.

But at the same time it was also characterized by certain limitations—demands for struggles against all wars, a lack of understanding of revolutionary wars, campaigns against military training, pacifist illusions—limitations that were inevitable when we consider the social democratic ground upon which the movement first struck roots. The lessons of that war and of the Bolshevik revolution in the land of the former Russian czars had a profound effect upon the youth movement. In the years that have passed since 1915, when International Youth Day was first celebrated, the half measures have given way and today, in a period of preparation for another imperialist world war, the movement is strongly imbued with the revolutionary teachings of Lenin. The propaganda for boycotting military training has given way to revolutionary determination to fight to turn the weapons placed in the hands of the armed forces by the imperialist masters upon those same war mongers and their governments.

Of special significance to the youth of America is this International Youth Day that is being observed throughout the United States during the next few days, occurring, as it does, at a time when the imperialist powers of the United States through its Kellogg pact and other maneuvers is endeavoring to place itself in the very forefront of the world reaction. One of the major tasks of the revolutionary youth movement is relentlessly to expose the malignancy of the "peace" offensive of American imperialism, to show that the Kellogg pact is but the culmination of a whole series of aggressive acts by the Wall Street government calculated to displace British imperialism as the leader of the political reaction of the world. The peace pact is only a prelude to the next world conflagration wherein will be placed before the youth of the world, amidst the thunder and lightning of a world war, the question of dying like dogs in behalf of the imperialist bandits, or following the revolutionary Leninist line of turning the imperialist war between nations into a civil war against capitalism.

Tonight at Irving Plaza Hall, 15th Street and Irving Place, the working class youth will celebrate International Youth Day, and within the next week there will be a whole series of demonstrations throughout the country.

Let this day be utilized further to intensify the agitation against pacifist illusions, against the miserable lackeys of imperialism in the ranks of the socialist party who preach pacifism to the masses and who are the worst enemies in the labor movement of the working class. Let it be a day for an intensification of revolutionary organizational work in the ranks of the armed forces of the imperialists, of organizational work in the industries, particularly the war industries of the country, so that when again the first blast of the trumpets of war sounds there will be countless thousands of young workers that will rush to their posts of duty and begin preparations for the revolutionary upheavals that must inevitably rise out of such a war.

Al Smith, Drunk or Sober.

The reptile capitalist press, particularly that section of it that supports the democratic party candidates in this campaign, is in a frenzy of indignation in response to the latest crude publicity stunt pulled off by the Al Smith forces. A certain letter alleged to have contained statements that Smith was "disgustingly drunk" at a New York State fair and said to have been written by a Syracuse gossip to a West Virginia gossip is the cause of the frenzy.

The letter, however, has mysteriously disappeared. No one knows what happened to it. But the vague rumors regarding its one time existence furnished the Smith publicity forces with an opportunity for "refuting" the "lie" in a manner calculated to appeal to maudlin sentimentality.

Smith's forces induced a republican politician to issue a statement to the effect that on the date Smith is accused of having been drunk he was sober. In fact the republican politician declared he did not even suspect that the democratic candidate for president had even one drink. Thus, in place of discussion of political issues we have piffle, instead of meeting the problems that face the masses of the country we are surfeited with drivel.

The question of the degree of drunkeness of Smith on the occasion mentioned or at any other time or place is not a burning issue and only the veriest dolts will consider it such. Furthermore a candidate or a Party that dared to discuss real issues would never sink to the level of replying to backstairs gossip, say nothing of inventing it as was obviously done in this case so that the public could read about the alleged trenscendent virtues of a candidate in the daily press.

Such devices only emphasize the deliberate policy of both the republican and democratic parties of evading issues that press for solution, such as unemployment, the danger of imperialist war, recognition of the Soviet Union, the right of workers to organize and strike, and the use of injunctions against labor.

The one party that places before the working class the real political situation and offers a solution for the ills from which the exploited workers and farmers suffer is the Workers (Communist) Party.

We discuss political issues, but we also realize that individuals personify certain definite tendencies and it is certainly laughable to see the defenders of Al Smith feign indignation because he was accused of having been drunk. One who was spawned in that cesspool of vice, corruption, gangsterism, hoodlumism and prostitution known as Tammany Hall and is now annexed to the Morgan financial interests as well as being a darling of the Roman religious machine, itself always a vicious tool of reaction, certainly cannot be expected to pass for what the sentimentalists call a paragon of soberness and virtue. We expose the political role of the capitalist politicians and the parties they represent in order that the workers may come to hold them in contempt and we also expose their debaucheries as symbolic of the class corruption they represent.

Al Smith, drunk or sober, is a dangerous enemy of the working class.

Just as Norman Thomas or Herbert Hoover, sober or drunk, are enemies of the working class.

They are lackeys of capitalism—all.

The Crimes of a "Labor Boss."

Mr. Theodore N. Brandle, the "labor boss" of the Jersey City building trades unions, who utilizes his position to smash trade unions, break strikes and make money for himself as head of a structural steel builders' association, "labor" bank president and real estate operator, is reported as being in trouble with the law.

The trouble won't be much. Mr. Brandle is rich. He is an enemy of the working class, and a half of his business activity is that of destroying the labor movement; so we are sure the law of the capitalist state has no snares for him.

But what is the crime said to be charged against Brandle? Registering as a democrat and voting republican! We shall not get excited about the little trick played on one capitalist party for the benefit of another.

What is the real crime of this peddler of the workers' blood?

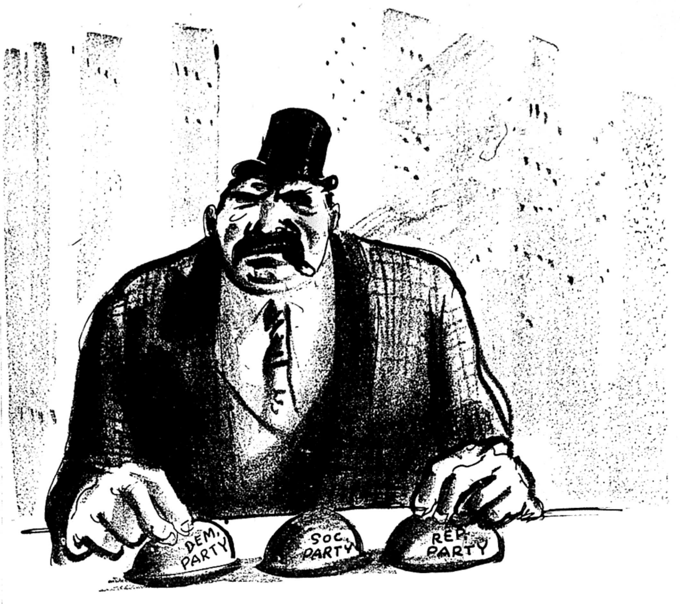
Brandle is a vicious enemy of the working class not only in his mercenary operations in the trade unions, but also for his foul trade of inducing workers to vote for their class enemies in either or both of the capitalist political parties. And this is a crime for which he will not be punished by any capitalist court. This is his real crime.

Throw out the parasites and swindlers of the working class within the labor movement!

Vote for your own working class party—the Workers (Communist) Party!

THE OLD SHELL GAME

By Fred Ellis



Role of Revolutionary Youth

By P. FRANKFELD

Youth Day Organized 13 Years Ago to Fight Against Imperialist War

September 3, 1915, the first International Youth Day was celebrated. September 3, 1915, Europe was in the throes of an imperialist war. Millions of workers and young workers from England, France, Germany, Russia, and other countries, were being maimed and killed on the battlefield. These workers and young workers were fighting the war of the allied imperialist bandits against the German imperialist robbers.

The working class of Europe was helped to this slaughter by the actions of the social-democratic parties, who supported, respectively, their "own fatherlands." The Second International became a pliant and willing tool in the hands of the imperialists.

Role of Revolutionary Youth.

The revolutionary youth leagues, however, did not fall in line and support the imperialist war. The revolutionary youth leagues, which Liebknecht had helped to organize, fought against the policy of betrayal of the social-democratic parties. The Socialist Youth International, organized in Stuggart in 1907, with the activve participation of Karl Liebknecht, was always in the left in the parties. The reasons were, firstly, that the young workers were one of the most exploited sections of the working class. This the social-democratic leaders refused to understand. They represented the interests of the aristocracy of labor workers. They refused at first to even consider the question of organizing a revolutionary youth movement. They saw in the youth a source of revolutionary energy and a source of struggle against their opportunism. How well their expectations were fulfilled!

Fight Militarism.

The second reason was the fact that from the very beginning of the socialist youth movement it followed the revolutionary leadership of Liebknecht. Liebknecht was a steady opponent of capitalist militarism. Liebknecht imbued them with a spirit of struggle against capitalism and capitalist militarism. When the betrayal came in 1914, and when Liebknecht, Luxenbourg, Lenin, and the rest of the Russian Bolsheviks fought against the Second International, it was to be expected that the revolutionary youth would do the same.

With the aid of Liebknecht, the Berne conference of the socialist youth leagues was organized. There the slogans of Liebknecht of fight against the imperialist war was adopted. Although the slogans adopted were not the slogans of Lenin—of turning the imperialist war into a civil war of the classes, yet, in substance, the Berne conference condemned most categorically the actions of the Second International; called for a militant struggle against the imperialist war, and went to the length of deciding to hold open mass demonstrations of the youth as a sign of protest against the imperialist war.

Thirteen years later, in 1928, in France several days ago, 800 Communists and Young Communists are arrested for holding an I. Y. D. demonstration. Thirteen years after 1915, in America, the masses of young workers are being prepared both ideologically and actually for the next world war. At the same time that half a billion dollars is appropriated for military purposes in a period of one year; at the same time that 35,000 young workers and students complete their education in "citizenship" in the capitalist military training camps, when the R. O. T. C., the National Guard, the dozens of semi-military and military institutions are being crowded by young workers who are attracted to them, at the same time the representatives of the Wall Street government are signing fake peace pacts in Paris.

Hypocritical Pacts.

The Kellogg "peace" pact bears the same relation to the present situation that the Hague Peace Tribunal bore to the last world war. It is an attempt to give the masses a false sense of security. It is a smoke screen to hide the feverish preparations that are being made for the next war. The antagonisms between the leading imperialist powers wax stronger. The intrigues amongst themselves and against each other shows the nearness of the next war, and the whole falsity of the Kellogg "peace act". The naval accord between France and England is an indication of that, and America's uneasiness about the accord shows that America is on guard against British imperialism and watches closely its every action.

These pacifist slogans and phrases are the greatest enemy of the working class. The false sense of "security" of the masses today will make them easily pliant tomorrow when the war comes. Pacifism must be taught that it is in the in- working class and the working class and working youth must be made watchful; must be put on guard; mus the taught that it is in the interests of the working class to learn the use of firearms during this period of active war preparation; so that when the next war comes; the workers will be able to turn the imperialist war into a war of emancipation of the working class.

13 Years Experience.

The revolutionary youth movement of today well understands its tasks. It has the experience of 13 years behind it. The Young Communist Leagues inherited those revolutionary traditions of the Berne conference of 1915. The Communist Youth League of America, is learning and has participated in the preliminary work of mobolizing during this period and educating the working youth to its mission. The Communist Youth League has carried on a real struggle against the various forms of capitalist militarism—and that is still only the beginning.

Mass Meeting, September 14.

The Young Workers Communist League of New York will celebrate the 13th anniversary of IYD by holding a mass meeting in Irving Plaza. This will take place the 14th of September, Friday night, at 8 p. m. The League will draw the lessons of its summer work in the CMTC's. The League will explain its attitude towards capitalist wars. The League will help to mobolize masses of young workers against the growing war danger, against the possible fight against the Soviet Union on the part of the imperialist war powers; prepare the youth to be ready to defend their socialist fatherland, "Soviet Union", teach the young workers their duties in the next world war.

This International Youth Day will be made into a youth celebration in the fullest sense of the term. The program, the speakers' arrangements, etc., have that objective in mind.

Young workers and working class students. All class conscious workers will be in Irving Plaza Hall, Friday night, Sept. 14th, to participate in the IYD celebration.

The Communist Campaign in California

By WM. SCHNEIDERMAN.

Three Weeks to Get 12,000 Signatures; Fight Johnson, Fake "Progressive"

The Party is entering the election campaign in California under exceptionally difficult conditions.

The election machinery of the state is so organized as to make it almost impossible for a working-class party to get on the ballot. The only way that we can get Communist candidates on the ballot this year is by running them as independents, and our campaign must be so organized that the workers will understand that these candidates are the respresentatives of the only working-class party in America. The Party is given the short period of three weeks to gather 12,000 signatures to place Foster, Gitlow, and Anita Whitney on the ballot.

California is a traditionally republican state. Senator Hiram Johnson has led the so-called "progressive" wing of the party, which was in conflict with the more reactionary elements led by the Los Angeles Times and the open-shop Industrial Association. The A. F. of L. leaders in the state therefore had a good excuse to support Johnson and the republican party as long as he controlled it. Johnson, the jailer of Mooney and Billings, was a "friend of labor."

Unmask Johnson.

But recent developments have unmasked Johnson and the misleaders of labor in their real role. A political bargain was struck, whereby Johnson agreed to support Hoover in return for the united republican support of the state for his own reelection to the senate, and peace reigned in the happy family of the republican party. We now witness the spectacle of Johnson, the Los Angeles Times, and the Industrial Association receiving the political support of the California labor movement. Those labor officials who balked at supporting Hoover, are out for Tammany Hall's Al Smith.

The socialist party in California, at its recent state convention in Los Angeles, showed how politically and organizationally bankrupt it really is. In the fight to free Mooney and Billings, in the campaign against the vicious Criminal Syndicalist Law, in the Hands-Off-China campaign in San Francisco, in every workers struggle in the state, the socialist party was either silent or gave direct and indirect support to the enemies of the working-class. In California it has even less of a working-class base than in other parts of the country.

Fight Exploitation.

It is left only to the Communist Party to enter this campaign on a working class basis. The invasion of the open shop in the once-strongly-organized sections, the exploitation of woman and child-labor in fruit and cotton picking, and in the packing and canning industries, the double exploitation of the Negroes, Mexicans, Chinese, Japanese, and Filipinos, the war-clouds on the Pacific Ocean, and the general worsening of the conditions of labor in California are immediate issues which we can link up with the Communist program of organizing and leading the workers' struggle against the capitalist system.

The recent State Nominating Convention has nominated the following candidates which we are trying to place on the ballot, in addition to the presidential and vice-presidential candidates, Foster and Gitlow: For U. S. Senator, Anita Whitney; for Congress, Congressional District No. 10 (Los Angeles), Mary Ostrow; for 29th State Assembly District, Emanuel Levin, (San Francisco); 26th Assembly District (San Francisco), James Butler; Assembly District 36 (Oakland), J. Reed; Assembly District, 39, (Oakland), H. Davidson, a Negro worker; Assembly Dist. 40 (Berkeley), M. Shannamon; Assembly District 45 (San Jose), Cora Wilson; Assembly District 66 (Los Angeles Arthur Dick.

Told You So

NO doubt about it, this is a land of opportunity. John Coolidge, son of Cal the Fisherman, walked into the office of the president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and got a job at $30 a week. Not bad for a start. What a coming salesman this young lad must be! If he ever gets into the "right off the boat" business he will clean up a fortune unless he mistakes a prohibition agent for a customer and not merely a consumer. On top of his good luck in landing a job it is rumored that Miss Trumbull, daughter of the governor of the state of Connecticut, will soon make the announcement that she intends to marry the young [illegible] He doesn't even have to ask.

WHILE on this interesting subject of golden opportunities, the whereabouts of Mr. Osborne Wood, son of the late Ivory Soap governor of the Philippine Islands may be of interest to our readers. While in the islands with his father, young Wood made millions of dollars on the stock exchange. He had inside dope of course and his conduct became so scandalous that congress indulged in some wild language over it. Wood came back to New York, whooped himself into an asylum from there to Paris and Monte Carlo and returned almost penniless.

BLOOD will tell. So young Osborne went to work at something or other, according to his press agent. Evidently he did not make a howling success at the business since we did not hear of his being elected president or marrying the daughter of the head of the firm. A few days ago Osborne was discovered by the state militia of New Mexico digging coal, so they took him into their ranks and made some kind of a general out of him. You cannot keep a good man down in a coal mine.

A NEWSPAPER reporter's job is not all beer and skittles as a rule. But it is said that every rule has its own exception and so it is with a reporter's job. George Farrand of Bergen county, New Jersey, a city hall reporter for the "Jersey Journal" of Jersey City, testified at a hearing regarding the corruption in Mayor Frank Hague's political machine that he had been on the city payroll for seven or eight years at $5.50 a day. This means $33 a week in addition to his remuneration from the "Jersey Journal." When asked what he did in return for this honorarium Farrand confessed that he answered the telephone whenever he happened to be around the office.

ONE could write columns on the opportunities that exist here for the ambitious poor boy, who feels that he can be president if he only tries hard enough. Some say that accident has a good deal to do with progress along the road to high station. There are people who believe that Calvin Coolidge would now be defending bootleggers in Boston or still collecting bad debts on a 25 per cent commission basis in Vermont, had not Murray Crane, the G. O. P. boss taken an interest in him. And if the Boston policemen had not gone on strike in 1919 he might never have been vice-president. And had the late Warren Gamaliel been a little more careful about his shell fish, Cal might never have gotten into the White House.

HOWEVER, we suggest to the four million unemployed that follow in Mr. Coolidge, Jr.'s footsteps even if they take them into the offices of railroad presidents. It would be a great boost for the Hoover campaign if the Coolidge job-hunting success could be repeated four million times. "A job for every willing worker" would blow the froth off Al Smith's alcoholic promises. But as they say in burlesque, "Well—what the 'ell?"

THE mystery surrounding the death of William D'Olier, one of the leading actors in the Queens Sewerpipes drama, is deepening and the plot is thickening. The experts are in doubt as to the manner of his death. The moral forces of the sewerpipe borough, to wit, the "outs," are of the opinion that he was murdered. The inside boys are of the opinion that he committed suicide. There is a clue, but it only adds dye to the death riddle. His clothing was torn when taken to the hospital. Was it torn before he died or afterwards? As, that is the question. The surgeon who exam[illegible] body declared: "I cannot r[illegible]ing any tears in the clothing when I arrived there." We are willing to bet that there will be many tears shed before the real story of the sewer scandal is known despite the old adage: "Murder will out."

STRESS NEED FOR NEW MILL UNION AT W. I. R. MEET

Weisbord Emphasizes Importance of New Bedford Strike

138 Delegates Present

Formulate Plan to Aid Textile Strikers

The necessity of the formation of a new textile union for the exploited workers in the industry throughout the United States was the major point of most of the speeches delivered at the Textile Relief Conference of the Workers International Relief, held Saturday afternoon at the Irving Plaza Hall. One hundred and thirty-five delegates, trade unions, fraternal organizations, workers clubs, workmen circles, women organizations and shops were present.

Decisions on the work of the conference were passed unanimously. They included plans for a big tag day in October, a Workers Song Festival, the formation of a New York City clothing and shoe station, house-to-house collections for textile strikers relief, and the sending of collection lists and speakers to union and other labor and fraternal organization meetings.

Albert Weisbord, militant textile workers leader, spoke after the opening of the conference. He stressed the importance of the New Bedford strike, the need for a new union and the necessity of holding a Textile Mills Committee Convention soon.

Fred Biedenkamp, national secretary of the Workers International Relief, emphasized the necessity of a huge national Workers Interna-

Big Communist Rally September 28

The candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party who will speak at the first large election campaign rally to be held in New York this year at the Central Opera House on September 28 at 8 p. m. will expose the political role played by the so-called "progressives" who with the socialists backed the candidacy of Robert LaFollette four years ago.

With the formation of the "Progressive League" by heads of the LaFollette movement, with the express purpose of campaigning for Al Smith, the delineation of the political forces becomes clearer. More clearly than ever is brought out the identity of the socialists; the "progressives," following a vacillating policy with regards to affiliation with either the socialists or democrats, bring home to workers the essential fact that as far as the workers are concerned there is

McGARRY FORCES FIRED BY LEWIS

Miners Had Deserted "Opposition"

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SCRANTON, Sept. 16.—Eight members of the so-called insurgent group headed by Frank McGarry, who was named president by the Brennan-Harris forces at a convention held about two months ago, were Friday night expelled from the United Mine Workers following a seven-hour session of the Lewis-Boylan executive board. The charge against them was disloyalty to the organization for having formed a dual union.

Included with McGarry are John Hermansen, vice president, and Walter Harris, secretary-treasurer of the so-called insurgent group and five members of their executive board.

Unprincipled Opposition.

The McGarry - Brennan - Harris forces refused to take any stand on principle against the corrupt Lewis machine and sought to become the administration for Lewis. Due to this policy which went contrary to the known sentiment of the vast majority of the rank and file miners, the membership rapidly deserted the McGarry forces.

The so-called McGarry opposition rose to power because it earlier had cooperated with Alex Campbell, the heroic Pittston mine leader who was murdered because of his fight against the Cappellini machine in District 1. McGarry capitalized his connections with Campbell and united with the Brennan group to form a so-called "opposition" to the Cappellini machine. The Mc-

"DAILY" DRIVE IN HARLEM STARTED

1,000 Copies Will Be Distributed Each Day

A mass canvass of Harlem for the purpose of getting new readers for the Daily Worker in its Election Campaign Subscription Drive for 10,000 new readers, will be inaugurated today, when 1,000 copies of the Daily Worker will be distributed to the Negro workers in the vicinity. This distribution will be continued daily for the entire week.

The distribution will be supervised by S. Kreiger, of the business office of the Daily Worker, and will be the first big scale attempt of the militant daily to attract the attention of the great masses of exploited Negro workers.

Kreiger will have as his assistants a committee composed of members of the Harlem section of the Workers (Communist) Party. These workers will rally and are expected to be a big and powerful factor in the work of popularizing the only real fighting workers' papers in the United States among the exploited Negro masses.

MINERS' UNION ISSUES POLICY

Adopt Militant Plan of Class Struggle

EAST PITTSBURGH, Pa.—The first convention of the National Miners' Union which met here September 9-10, worked out and adopted the following statement of the policy the new organization expects to pursue in its efforts to make the coal fields fit for a miner to work in, raise wages, shorten hours, and block the open shop drive and the treachery of the U. M.W. A. machine.

The deep crisis in the coal industry has become ever more acute. The ranks of the hundreds of thousands unemployed miners are swelling with the rapid advance of labor saving loading machines, conveyers and mechanical devices. A terrific speed-up system is being put into practice.

While the profits of the coal operators have grown into staggering figures, the misery and want among the coal miners is appalling. Yet the operators pursuing their

REFORMIST BETRAYAL

Austria Socialists Fighting Peasants

(Wireless to the Daily Worker.)

VIENNA, Sept. 16.—What seems to be the beginning of the complete betrayal of the interests of the Austrian tenant farmers is indicated as the congress of the social democratic party opened here on Saturday.

Articles in the social democratic "Arbeiterzeitung" and "Abend" hint that the congress will decide to partly abandon the tenant's protection law. The "Arbeiterzeitung" points to the difficult situation in the provinces and declares that "alteration" in the tenants protection law is inevitable.

The Abend declares openly that unless the next elections bring a social democratic majority, which contingency is unlikely, the social democracy will no longer oppose the reduction of the tenants' protection measures.

The party congress delegates are almost exclusively officials, as the workers have been sifted out in carefully prepared district conferences. A big attack of the right wing, under the leadership of Renner, is expected.

STORM IN PORTO RICO KILLS 100

Tornado Sweeps Over Florida Coast

SAN KUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 16 (UP).—With communication service only partly reestablished, estimates of damage in last Thursday's hurricane began to reach the capital today, adding a large number of deaths to the disaster of ruined crops and demolished homes.

More than fifty persons were killed in Cayey and the island of Humacao, it was reported, and the toll is expected to be greatly increased by information from the interior region. Conservative estimates placed the damage at more than $50,000,000.

Cayey, which is twenty-five miles southwest of here, reported at least thirty persons were killed in that vicinity and more than 100 seriously injured. Advices from the island of Humacao placed the death toll above thirty-five and indicated more might die.

Officials here were of the opinion that at least 100 persons were killed on the entire island but full information will not be available until roads and communication lines are restored.

Ponce suffered terrible destruction, it is known, but no details were available tonight.

POLICE BROWBEAT TEXTILE STRIKER

Costa Kidnapped, But Later Released

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 16.—In an attempt to lay the basis for a Red hysteria drive, police officers yesterday virtually kidnaped Joseph Costa, a young textile striker, and worked for hours in a vain effort to force admissions from the boy of his "subversive activities."

Costa, who last Friday was arrested on a framed-up charge of invading a public school, "desecrating the American flag" and "swearing allegiance to the Red Flag," was seized by Federal Immigration Inspector John G. Harberg, who, together with two "dicks," nabbed the young striker immediately after the hearing on his case, which was postponed to Monday morning.

Costa pleaded "not guilty" to the charge and although Prosecutor Raphael Berracini attempted to block the postponement of the hearing the demand was finally granted.

Costa, who is a courageous militant, could not be intimidated. Even when Harberg produced a pair of handcuffs and threatened to beat him up, Costa maintained his composure.

Finally, after all efforts to force Costa into admissions of guilt had failed, he was released.

Workers Theater to Meet Tonight; Plans for Many Plays

The first meeting this fall of the Workers Theatre will take place tonight at the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square, Room 34, at 8 p. m.

Arrangements will be made to start work on several plays on working class subjects, written by active members during the summer. Boris Glagolin, well-known Russian director, will work with the Workers Theatre.

NAVAL OFFICER ATTACKS YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

San Francisco Jingoes Furious as Sailors Get Leaflets

Police "Investigating"

Leaflet Urges Defense of Working Class

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 16.—The militarist authorities in San Francisco, thrown into a furore by the distribution of over a thousand leaflets by members of the Young Workers (Communist) League to sailors of the Pacific Fleet during its recent visit to San Francisco, have begun a campaign of suppression of all Communist activities in the city.

Captain Black, jingo in command of the U. S. S. California, yesterday sent a letter to Mayor Rolph, demanding that the activities of the Young Workers (Communist) League be investigated in connection with the distribution of these leaflets, which were received by sailors on board every one of the 47 warships in the Pacific Fleet while moored in San Francisco Bay.

Jingoes Hold "Lectures."

So panic stricken were the naval officials, that "lectures" were hurriedly arranged on board every ship. In these lectures the militarist officials urged that the sailors "pay no attention to the Bolshevik literature" that they had received. An attempt at intimidation was seen in the announcement by the jingo speakers that the War Department of the United States was "investigating the matter."

Immediately after the receipt of the letter from Captain Black, Mayor Rolph issued an order to the police department of San Francisco, commanding them to investigate the activities of the Young Workers (Communist) League, with the purpose of taking drastic action

FOSTER TALKS TO BUTTE WORKERS

Militant Miners Hail Communist Message

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BUTTE, Montana, Sept. 16.—Here on the battle ground of some of the most bitterly contested labor struggles in American history, the home of the strikebreaking Anaconda Mining Company, the industrial city that once sent its flaming message of revolt east and west thruout the country, William Z. Foster, presidential candidate on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket spoke Thursday night to a rapt and enthusiastic audience on the program of class struggle in the National Platform of the Communist Party in election campaign.

It was in Butte that the slaves of the copper kings revolted under the leadership of the I. W. W. in its fighting days.

It was in Butte that the heroic Frank Little was taken from his bed at night by an army of hoodlums under the direction of the Anaconda Mining Company and hanged

Progressive Workers of Building Trades Hold Electiond Rally

Under the auspices of a progressive group of building trades workers, an election campaign rally will be held on Saturday, October 6th, at the Labor Temple, 243 East 84th St. The meeting is scheduled to open at 2:30 o'clock.

The issues of the campaign from the workers' viewpoint will be discussed by speakers and the role played by both the republican and democratic parties as the eager tools of big business will be exposed. Workers will be urged to vote and work for a working class platform and working class candidates for office, under the emblem of the Hammer and Sickle.

Several candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party are expected to be present to address the meeting as well as well-known militants among the building trades workers.

Harlem Straw Vote Reveals Negro Workers Rallying to Communist Election Drive

120 LEFT WING BUTCHERS MEET FOR NEW UNION

Pass Resolution for the Defense of Framed Militant

Score Knife Committee

Charge Corn Intends to Levy $25

One hundred and twenty butcher workers, all members of the militant group of the Hebrew Butcher Workers Union, who were expelled by the corrupt leadership, dominated by Corn, last night gathered at the Stuyvesant Casino, Second Ave. and Ninth St., for the purpose of organizing a real militant workers union among the butchers that will be free of the corruption and gangsterism now rampant in the yellow right-wing-controlled leading clique.

A resolution, passed unanimously by all of the 120 workers present, reiterated the stand of the expelled members that Shiffrin, now in jail under charges of manslaughter, had been attacked by Corn's "knife committee," and that he had been forced to fight the entire five attackers with his back to the wall, while they all brandished butcher-knives.

Warn Workers Against Corn.

It warned the workers in the union against Corn's intention to levy a tax of $25 on each member, and urged them to protest against this tax. Going on to define their stand in the attack on Shiffrin, the resolution closed with a pledge that every possible effort would be made in the defense of Shiffrin to prevent his being framed-up by the right wing gangsters and sent to prison.

While the meeting was in progress, a crowd of the right wing knife-wielding gangsters gathered outside on the streets and attempted to start a riot, with the intention of blaming it on the militant left wing workers assembled in the hall. Finally, Corn, one of his assistant gangsters and several policemen broke into the meeting room, intending to reate a riot among the workers present. The workers stood their ground, however, and not only prevented the rest of the gangsters gathered outside from entering the hall, but ejected Corn and his protecting gangster from the meeting room.

Corn, in an assertion which he made later in the evening, charged that he had been struck while in the hall. This, however, was denied by the left wing workers present.

During the meeting the progressive group of the Bakers Union donated the sum of $500 for the defense of William Shiffrin. Two hundred dollars were given in cash and $300 more promised within the next few days. The Delicatessen Clerks followed suit with $100 in cash and a pledge of $400 more within the week. Among the militant left wing butcher workers themselves, $1,900 was raised to free Shiffrin.

Among those who addressed the meeting were Werner and Teitlebaum of the expelled group of the Butchers' Union; Bronsky, Okun and Weiss of Bakers' Union, and D. Vacker of the Grocery and Fruit Clerks' Union. Malamud acted as chairman of the meeting.

Large Audiences Greet Red Speakers at the Numerous Campaign Rallies

Workers Party Platform on Negro Question Impresses Workers Thruout Country

A decided trend on the part of the Negro voters towards the Workers (Communist) Party candidates is seen in several straw votes taken within the last fortnight on the streets of Negro Harlem.

Openly resentful at the consistent treachery of the republican party, aware of the traditional enmity of the southern democrats, who would be in control of the country in the event Al Smith is elected, and remembering the betrayal of the colonial peoples by the socialist parties, the Negro workers are welcoming with open arms the aggressive election campaign the Workers Party is waging in Harlem to elect three militant Negro leaders on the Party ticket, headed by William Z. Foster for president and Ben Gitlow for vice president.

Speaking to a huge crowd of Negro workers last Tuesday night at Lenox Ave. and 134th St., Richard Moore, Workers Party candidate for congress in the 21st Congressional District, after devoting an hour to a graphic exposure of the treacherous role of the bosses' parties and their socialist allies, called for a show of hands. To his call for those who would vote the republican ticket in the coming eletion to raise their hands, not a single hand was seen. The call for a socialist showing of hands met with the same lack of response, while the call for a democratic showing netted just three hands of persons who had not yet recovered from the virus of the Al Smith gaff. The call for those who would vote for the Workers Party met with quite a different response, however. There was a spontaneous raising of hands, followed by hearty applause.

This same method of taking a straw vote is being followed by Edward Welsh, candidate on the Workers Party ticket for assemblyman in the 19th Assemby District, and by other speakers, and meets with practically the same results.

And not only in Harlem is this trend of Negro workers towards the Party observable, but throughout the country. The Negro workers

NEGRO WEEK IN DISTRICT 2 BEGINS

Workers Solidarity Dance to Wind Up

This week is Negro Week in District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party. It will be marked by discussions on the problems of the Negro workers and by an effort to raise funds to push the Party's Negro work.

Negro comrades will be assigned by the district agitprop department to lead the discussion in as many units as possible. Where Negro comrades are not available the units will select one of their own members to lead the discussion.

Collections are to be taken up in all units for the purpose of financing our Negro work. These collections must be sent to the district office immediately. Contribution lists will be distributed to each member and all must try to get contributions from their shop mates and Party sympathizers for this most important work. Subscription blanks for the Party's Negro press will also be given out and each comrade must take a year's subscription in order both to support the work and to keep himself properly informed upon the problems and outlook of the Negro workers.

Negro Week will wind up with a Workers' Solidarity Dance in Harlem. Tickets for this dance will be sent to all the units and all comrades are asked to buy tickets and attend this dance in a demonstration of the solidarity of black and white workers.

Secretaries of all units in the district meeting on Monday night are asked to call at the district office to make sure of getting their instructions for Negro Week, contribution lists, tickets, etc.

Hoover Will Speak in Newark Tonight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Herbert Hoover, republican candidate for president of the United States, will make a two-day campaign visit to New Jersey. His first stop is Newark where a torchlight parade is to be staged in the evening after a day spent engaging in the customary stupidities of a presidential candidate.

In Newark it includes laying a wreath on the Washington monument, a visit to the birthplace of Grover Cleveland, a guest at a republican reception. After the parade he will deliver his first speech in an armory hall.

It will be broadcast by a large hook-up of the stations allowed to exist under the autocratic domination of Hoover's department of commerce.

POLICE BREAK UP OPEN AIR MEETING

Napoli, Red Candidate, Speaks

Police Saturday broke up an open air meeting of the Workers (Communist) Party at 116th St. and First Ave. at which Napoli, Workers Party candidate for state senator was speaking. Napoli was assailing the democratic and republican parties as tools of big business, when someone in the audience, said to have been a member of the American Legion, began to interfere. The fascist walked away and returned with two policemen, who ordered the meeting to stop. The audience of about 100 workers were angered by the action of the police.

TWO GIRLS WIN HUNGER STRIKE

Arrested for Picketing Knitting Mills

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 16.—Amanda Rittmer, and Mertice Hudson, two young mill strikers are free here today as a result of a hunger strike which they carried out in protest against repeated arrests by local police for their activities on the picket line.

The last arrest occurred eleven days ago during a demonstration of locked out workers of the Allen Knitting Mills. Both girls went to jail refusing to accept bail and have forced their release through a hunger strike.

Progressive Forces Planning Strong Fight at Carpenters' Convention September 29

UNIONS SEND IN 200 REPLIES TO LOCAL CIRCULAR

Progressives Stand on Militant Program

Indications of a growing revolt against the reactionary administration of Wm. L. Hutcheson, president of the Carpenters' International Union, was seen here by progressive members of the organization following reports received by the Defense and Reinstatement Committee of former Local 376.

Nearly 200 replies favorable to the appeal sent out by the committee to union locals throughout the country have been received, it was announced by Morris Rosen, former president of Local 376. Rosen is to present the appeal of the local before the coming convention of the International to be held at Lakeland, Florida, September 29.

Outgrowth of Reactionary Drive.

The Defense and Reinstatement Committee of Local 376 was formed following the country-wide drive four years ago by the Hutcheson administration against all progressivism within the union ending with the destruction of the local. The appeal by the local which came before the Indianapolis convention of the International four years ago was railroaded by Hutcheson at its closing session in one of the stormiest scenes in the history of the organization.

Since then resentment against the policies of betrayal carried out by the Hutcheson machine has been spreading. Recently, the Defense and Reinstatment Committee of Local 376 sent out a review of its case to several thousand locals throughout the country. To date, nearly two hundred replies have been received by Nathan Rosen, secretary of the committee, 174 Grafton St., Brooklyn. Thousands of copies of the appeal have been sent to many of these locals at their request for distribution among their members.

Many in Direct Support.

Among the replies are numerous letters declaring direct support of the appeal of Local 376. Others indicate that they will instruct their delegates to fight to give Morris Rosen a hearing at the Lakewood convention. A third group, evidently not wishing to declare themselves at this time indicate that their delegates would like to meet Rosen during the convention to discuss the issue further.

The replies both as to character and number are considered of the greatest significance by progressive carpenters.

Rosen, who ran for president against Hutcheson four years ago, predicted that there would be a strong progressive opposition to the machine at this year's convention.

Progressives Gaining.

"The issues which the progressive carpenters are rallying around are becoming increasingly more vital for our trade," Rosen declared. "Non-union conditions are spreading. No less than 75 per cent of the building trades workers are today working below the scale. We find a progressive loss of job control by the workers, lowering wage levels and the increasing use of non-union materials. In our International, in spite of the fact that the use of non-union trim is prohibited by our constitution, the officers of the organization wink at the practice and workers who protest against the violation are removed from the job."

The burning issues of the trade Rosen stated are organization of the unorganized, amalgamation of the building trades unions, reinstatement of expelled members and locals, elections and conventions every two years instead of every four as at present, rank and file control of the organization.

The progressives will make a much better showing this year than in the past, Rosen predicted, owing to the fact that they are much better organized.

IMPERIALISTS IN GENEVA CONFAB

Talk About Rhineland Evacuation

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—After the conclusion of the third conference of the five leading imperialist powers here on plans for Rhineland evacuation negotiations, it was announced today that the discussions had been satisfactory and that an agreement had been reached.

The official communique said the following points were decided upon:

First, official negotiations on early evacuation of the Rhineland will be opened on the request of Chancellor Herman Mueller of Germany.

Second, necessity for complete and definite settlement of the reparations problems, including the constitution of a committee of financial experts for that purpose.

Third, acceptance of the principle of constituting a commission of verification and conciliation to control the Rhineland after evacuation of troops.

The negotiations will be carried out through diplomatic channels, it was announced, and the composition, operation, and duration of the commission will form the subject for negotiations between the governments of France, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and Germany.

WORKER SLUGGED BY LEWIS'S GANG

Steel Slave Mistaken for Coal Digger

By W. J. WHITE.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—Three Lewis gangsters attacked George Talevsky, a steel worker, in East Pittsburgh while he was returning home from work. They proceeded to beat him up under the impression that he was a coal miner. Passersby seeing the man attacked by the gangsters went to his rescue and saved him from being seriously beaten up.

The Lewis gang were under the direction of Jack Hasson, of New Kensington, one of the paid Lewis thugs in Allegheny Valley. The sluggers, whose names are John Arcure, Ray Spatti and John Donnelly, were held on a charge of attempted murder on a bond of $1,000 each. The bond was furnished by the discredited United Mine Workers organization.

MINERS CARRIED ON WHILE JAILED

Watt to Speak on New Developments

When 120 delegates to the National Miners Convention at Pittsburgh were thrown into jail after the convention had been attacked by the police and 200 Lewis thugs, they showed their fighting spirit by holding an all-night session in jail. They conducted the business of the convention; chose the new union's name; the National Miners Union, and adopted the constitution—all behind the bars of the boss-dungeons.

This was only one of the dramatic incidents of the great Pittsburgh convention that will be described to the workers of New York by John Watt, the first president of the new National Miners Union, at the huge Solidarity Mass Meeting in Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., Thursday night.

Watt, who has been in the forefront of the coal diggers' struggles, will deliver an official report of this epoch-making convention.

Supplementing Watt's talk will be speeches by other leaders of workers' struggles. Two leaders of new union movements among the needle trades workers, Ben Gold, general organizer, Joint Board, Furriers Union, and Hyman Koretz, general manager, Organization Department, Cloak and Dressmakers' Union, will bring a message of solidarity of the needle trades workers with the fighting miners. Other speakers will include Gladys Schechter, organizer, Millinery Workers' Union; Harold Williams, secretary of the Negro Committee for Miners' Relief and speakers representing the Youth Conference for Miners' Relief and the Children's Relief Scout Groups.

Several thousand workers are expected at this big solidarity meeting which is being arranged by the National Miners' Relief Committee, 799 Broadway, and the Shop Delegates Conference for Miners' Relief.

Working Women's Bazaar Committee Makes Plans at Meet

The Bazaar Committee met on Thursday evening, Sept., 13th, in the central office of the Council of Workingclass Women.

Gertrude Gordan, chairman of the bazaar committee, recommended that the committee subdivide itself and visit various councils in order to emphasize the importance of doing everything possible to help make the bazaar a success.

The following procedure for the councils was decided upon: At the next regular meeting of the council a special day should be set aside for the purpose of collecting articles, names for the honor roll, and ads.

tional Relief Organization, accompanying his appeals with graphic descriptions of the New Bedford strike, showing the need of the militant striking workers.

Harriet Silverman, secretary of the New York Branch of the Workers International Relief, spoke on the need of forming a permanent New York organization to function all the year round to raise aid for developing struggles between the workers and the big industrial barons. Her proposals for a plan of work were also delivered to the delegates present.

The Resolutions Committee elected unanimously after a vote of the delegates present, is made up of the following workers: Pogano, of the Bricklayers Union, local 1; Deak, of the United Textile Workers Union, Passaic District Council; Liebowitz, of the Furriers Joint Board; Buckenberger, of the Lower Bronx Workers Club; I. Gordon of the Bronx Youth; Pine, of the Furriers; Ostrow, of the Architectural Iron and Bronze Workers; Wildhorn, of the Office Workers Union; Bulatkin, of the Hotel Workers, and Baum, representing the Photographers Union.

TO EXPOSE SMITH IN RED CAMPAIGN

little to choose between the two. A vote taken from the democrats and given to the party of the petty business men is a case of out of the frying pan into the fire.

At the Central Opera House rally on the 28th of this month, the speakers of the Workers' (Communist) Party will have something to say on Smith's being the "friend of the working man," as both democrats and "progressives" claim—with tongue in cheeks. The "progressives" who are backing Smith now seem to forget Smitth's campaign against the needle trades workers of New York as well as his collaboration with traction interests to rob the workers out of millions of dollars in increased fares and his failure to meet the needs of the unemployed.

Communists candidates scheduled to speak at the Central Opera House on Friday the 28th are Wm. F. Dunne, Robert Minor, Rebecca Grecht, Juliet S. Poyntz, Lovett Fort Whiteman and Philip Frankfeld. William W. Weinstone, District organizer of District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party will preside. A nominal admission charge of twenty-five cents will be made to defray the cost of the hall. Indications are that this will be the largest Communist election rally ever held in this city.

RIFKIN FORCED OUT OF OFFICE

Goes Way of All Fake Progressives

Following a vote of non-confidence in the committee which had charge of the recent Trufood strike of which he was chairman, Louis Rifkin, president of Local 1, Waiters' and Waitresses' Union, resigned from his office as president of the organization at the meeting of the union held last Thursday.

Criticism of Rifkin, begun by the left wing several months ago, paved the way for his final defeat, although left wing followers refused at the same time to support the group of reactionaries under the leadership of Lehman, who led the last attack on Rifkin. Rifkin resigned under fire.

Criticism against him by the left wing was based on the strike strategy and settlement, which was carried thru in the most modern class-collaboration style, ending with Rifkin's proposal that the end of the strikes be celebrated with a banquet including judges, lawyers and bosses as honored guests. The proposition for this was defeated; and instead, a committee was appointed to investigate the expenditure of funds. The reactionary machine led the attack against Rifkin having opposed all organization work. The strike committee's refusal to account for over $7,000 led to the non-confidence vote.

Rifkin was elected to office on a united front progressive ticket, although he has always been criticized by the left wing.

Wall St. Al Smith to Leave for Tour in Kenny's Coach

ALBANY, Sept. 16.—Travelling in a private railway coach owned by a millionaire stock jobber and loanmonger, William F. Kenny, the democratic candidate for president, Al Smith, will start on his western tour in a few days. A group of politicians will accompany him on the trip.

Former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska will be with the gang until they reach Omaha and then his place will be taken by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, the copper trust senator from Montana, a candidate for re-election.

Wheeler was the candidate for vice president on the LaFollette third party ticket last presidential election but has recanted and is now one of the main supporters of the entire imperialist policy of the Wall Street wing of the democratic party. He voted for the adherence of the United States to the world court and supports all the reactionary measures in the senate of the republican-democratic Wall Street coalition against even the middle class liberals with whom he identified himself a short time ago.

MUELLER SENT OFF.

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—After a heated debate in the German cabinet, and indications of the instability of the present social democratic reich, Chancellor Mueller left for Geneva to continue the evacuation-war debt negotiations. The cabinet, after many hours of discussion approved Mueller's policy.

PLAN PICNIC OF T.U.E.L. SATURDAY

To Celebrate Formation of New Union

The Trade Union Educational League Picnic, which was postponed from August 25, because of rain, and which will be held Saturday afternoon, September 22, at Ulmer Park, Brooklyn, will lose nothing because of its postponement, according to a statement by the T. U. E. L., issued last night and addressed to all left wing workers of the city. The statement urged their attendance and announced that many more events have been arranged which were not scheduled for the former date. The statement reads, in part, as follows:

"This year more than ever before the progressive workers of New York have cause for celebration. The past year has marked the growing militancy of workers, increased the vigor of their fight against both the exploitation of the bosses and the treachery of the right wing union officials, and, above all, has seen the birth of the new union movement in the needle trades. It it fitting that all left wing workers get together to celebrate their victories—won through the active leadership of the T. U. E. L. groups in the unions."

The festival of the left wing workers will be enlivened by many events, including poetry readings by Michael Gold, A. B. Magil and others; eating contests, etc. Ulmer Park may be reached by taking the B.-M. T. West End train to 25th Ave.

WORKERS FORM NEW DRESS UNION IN PHILADELPHIA

Police Arrest Workers for Picketing trade coming to seek information. All these workers continually show their interest in the new union.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—Strikes have already been declared in six dressmakers' and eight cloakmakers' shops. Workers are constantly picketing in front of the buildings.

The Philadelphia police, pursuing their usual tactics against left wing workers, have arrested two pickets who were peacefully walking up and down the picket line.

Both arrests took place at the Brownstein shop, located at 41 North 11th St. The pickets arrested were Esther Miller and Pauline Goldberg.

Pauline Goldberg was beaten up by the wife of a scab and then arrested by the police on charges of disorderly conduct. The scab's wife claimed that she was the boss of the shop. Immediately after hearing this, the manager of the Sigman union rushed to court to defend her.

This fact, according to the militant strikers, conclusively proves that the interests of the Sigman clique are tied up with those of the bosses.

The militant and progressive dress and cloakmakers, however, are determined to fight to a finish, despite the provocative tactics of the Sigman clique, which is alarmed at the inroads being made into their ranks by the new organization.

Kellogg Fears Franco-British Naval Pact

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Due to the Franco-British naval pact and the threat against the United States sea power implied in it, official opinion here has expressed itself to the effect that the United States government may not join the disarmament conference that may take place in Geneva during the course of next year.

The union of the two large powers' governments in the naval accord will not produce very favorable results as far as the United States government is concerned.

Rosario Strike Spreading to Buenos Ayres as Workers Fight for Their Demands

CITY EMPLOYES JOIN WALK-OUT DESPITE THREAT

Companies Failing to Resume Service

ROSARIO, Argentina, Sept. 16. — As the strikers here still refuse to go back to work after months of resistance that tied up the second largest port in Argentina, the strike threatens to assume general proportions by spreading to Buenos Ayres, the capital and largest port in Argentina.

In spite of the orders of the municipal authorities that the companies resume telephone and street-car operation, the firms have thus far failed in maintaining service by the use of strikebreakers, due to the effective resistance of the pickets.

The city workers are also threatening to join the strike on a demand for higher wages, in spite of the announcement of the minicipal government that they will be immediately fired and replaced by strikebreakers if they continue in their demands.

The port of Rosario is still tied up and thousands of tons of grain await shipment. The street car strike was originally called when the company refused to re-hire Communist and anarchist workers whom it had discharged.

FOSTER TALKS TO BUTTE WORKERS

Militant Miners Hail Communist Message

from a trestle until he was dead. During the days when the revolutionary spirit was high, Butte was an armed camp. Pacifism had no place among the red-blooded workers of the copper mines.

In those days the editors of the Butte Bulletin sat at their type writers with their guns within reach. There were many casualties in this bitter class conflict and all the casualties were not on the side of the battling miners. It was no uncommon thing to read in the Butte Bulletin that another company gunman was found dead in such and such a place. Bill Dunne was arrested many times and in constant danger of assassination by the tools of the copper trust.

The militant spirit is not dead in Butte. The workers who attended the Foster meeting made that quite clear. They applauded the uncomprising note of class struggle in his speech, and showed that the spirit that defied all the power of the mighty Anaconda was ready to be harnessed into a disciplined battle against the copper kings, the Republican and Democratic parties an the whole capitalist system.

Speed-Up System.

The Butte miners are in the grip of a speed-up contract system that is almost unbearable. The workers have no protection against the terrible grind. Anaconda is getting out more ore than it formerly produced with double the present force. The I. W. W., once powerful in this region, is dead.

Foster's audience listened attentively while the speakers told of the organization of the National Miners Union, to take the place of the corrupt and bankrupt United Mine Workers of America betrayed and wrecked by John L. Lewis and his reactionary machine. He told of the preparations now being made by the textile workers to organize into one big industrial union under militant and progressive leadership, a union that will fight the bosses for better conditions instead of begging for favors from them.

Foster Explains Program.

"The program of the Workers (Communist) Party," Foster declared, "calls for the complete overthrow of the capitalist system, and the establishment of a Workers and Farmers Government to supplant the present Wall Street state apparatus that is used to crush the workers and keep their noses at the capitalist grindstone. In the Soviet Union, the workers and peasants, in the fact of a hostile capitalist world are building up a socialist society and doing it with success. The American workers and poor farmers must do the same thing. There can be no permanent improvement in the conditions of the exploited producing classes until they have political power in their own hands, dispossess the parasitic masters of land and industry, and operate the machinery of production and distribution in the interests of the workers. This is what they are doing in the Soviet Union. This is what the workers and subject peoples of all the world must do. The workers and peasants of the U. S. S. R. have blazed the way."

Stormy applause greeted Foster when he denounced Senators Walsh and Wheeler, one a well known agent of the Anaconda Mining Company and the other an alleged progressive now campaigning for Al Smith, the Tammany reactionary. There is no difference between Wheeler and Walsh he pointed cut and the workers must give both the cold shoulder. He asked the members of the audience who were not already members to join the Workers (Communist) Party and join in the struggle to organize the workers and poor farmers in the United States for the fight against the capitalist system.

Imperialist War Danger.

Foster called attention to the grave danger of another imperialist war that confronts the workers of all countries. The capitalist powers, while quarreling among themselves look on the Soviet Union as their enemy. This is the heart of the war danger, he said.

"He declared that the Soviet Union was the fatherland of the workers and peasants of all countries and the workers must be prepared to defend the Soviet Union.

Foster attacked the republican and democratic parties and their candidates, declaring that both were equally anti-labor. Both were backed by Wall Street and had as their campaign managers and advisor the leading open shoppers in the United States.

Raps "Socialists."

The Socialist Party, he declared, had repudiated the class struggle and is now just another party of capitalism, supporting the imperialist League of Nations, the world court, the Kellogg anti-peace fraud in the guise of an anti-war treaty and other imperialist institutions [illegible]

Norman Thomas, the socialist presidential candidate who spoke recently had a very poor meeting, the apathy of the audience being in striking contrast to the enthusiasm displayed by those who came to hear the Communist candidate.

Foster left Butte for Tacoma, Washington, his next stop on his nation-wide tour in behalf of the election campaign.

ing Al Smith and other democratic candidates is nothing less than jumping from the frying pan into the fire. It means political insanity and suicide for the Negro worker, as for the white worker as well.

In rushing madly into the ranks of the democratic party in their disgust at the open treachery of the republicans, Negroes are forgetting that the democratic party is the traditional enemy of the Negro race. Bishop Ransom, Marcus Garvey, and now the Reverend Carruthers are leading their brother Negroes in this mad rush to destruction. The arguments you and your colleagues advance to justify your support of the party of slavery, peonage, disfranchisement, and lynching are so weak and witless that I wonder that you dare to make them public.

You explain that "Negro applicants for jobs in Washington have been high-hatted" and that the Ku Klux Klan is doing everything in its power to elect republicans. You are very well aware that democrats have consistently barred Negroes from political positions—this is the unbreakable law in the south, and it is very seldom that it is broken in the north. How many Negroes have been appointed to office by Al Smith? The merciless dictum of Carlyle, "the Negro is useful only as a servant," is the rule of democrats and republicans alike. Surely you cannot be ignorant of the open determination of such Negro-hating democrats as Carter Glass, Heflin, Hoke Smith, et al, to keep the Negro in his place as hewers of wood and drawers of water.

Moreover the Ku Klux Klan divides its support between the major parties which are alike dominated by the oppressors and exploiters of the Negro and white workers whose class interests are identical. It should be perfectly plain to every thinking Negro that only by defeating both of the corrupt old parties of finance-capital can his interests and the interests of his white brother-worker be protected.

[illegible] intelligent vote in the present election is a vote for the only party that stands upon a clear-[illegible] platform of full economic political and social rights for the oppressed Negro race, the only party which carries on a militant fight for the abolition of the whole corrupt system of class and race exploitation—the Workers (Communist) Party.

Whether the democrats or the republicans win, the Negroes and every other oppressed group loses—the working class loses, for its interests are diametrically opposed to those of the big corporations without whose support neither Smith nor Hoover could hope to win.

The Workers (Communist) Party demands abolition of race discrimination, segregation of Negroes, Jim Crow laws, laws which disfranchise Negroes, which forbid intermarriage, which prevent Negro children from attending public schools. We demand a federal law against lynching, equal opportunity for Negroes, and equal pay, abolition of all restrictions in trade unions against Negro membership, and aboliition of the convict lease system and the chain gang, and of discriminatory practices in courts.

What is your answer to that? You have none because you are a lick-spittle politician in the service of a reactionary party.

Sincerely,

(Signed) RICHARD B. MOORE,
Director of Negro Dept., Workers (Communist) Party Candidate For Congress, 21st Congressional District, New York.

LOS ANGELES TO HEAR FOSTER

Bosses Starting Open Shop Drive

LOS ANGELES (By Mail).—The workers of Los Angeles will be given a chance to hear the message of one of the leading opponents of the "open shoppers" on September 23, when William Z. Foster, the Workers (Communist) Party candidate for president, will speak here. A huge turnout for Foster, a large vote for the Workers (Communist) Party, and a beginning of the real fight against the open shop.

The largest industry in Los Angeles, in point of view of production and payroll, is the motion picture industry. This industry also is the only one where any appreciable organization has been effected. The movie worker may be considered the best paid of all the workers in this city. Significantly enough, the workers in the movie industry, the stage hands, carpenters, electricians, etc., are better organized than all other industries in this city.

This fact seems to have been the cause of a concerted campaign now on in Los Angeles to break the organization. The Los Angeles Times, the leader and mouthpiece of the labor-hating "American Plan," open-shop bosses, is leading this fight. In a vicious editorial in the September 9 Sunday edition the Times characterizes the whole attack. Following are some of the statements from the Times:

"The progress made by the American Federation of Labor in the unionization of the great Los Angeles motion-picture industry is one to give great concern to supporters of the open shop and to all who appreciate its vital importance to the welfare of free American industry, not only here but everywhere.

"Much more is at stake than merely the control of the film-making business," and here the American plan bosses let the cat out of the bag. They are afraid that the unionization process will spread to other industries, to their shops.

There can be only one answer by the workers to this provocation from the Times and that is a determined counter-attack. Against the open-shop slogan of the Times and the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles, workers must fight for unionization of all the industries of Los Angeles and of southern California. These must not be vacillating, compromising, craft unions; but fighting, uncompromising, class-conscious organizations. That is one of the most effective answers to the challenge of Harry Chandler, the Los Angeles Times and the "open-shop principle."

NEGROES TURN TO WORKERS PARTY

Straw Vote Favors the Communists

were rather aloof at first, the Negro comrades report. The attitude was that the Workers (Communist) Party was "just another white people's organization," and the Negroes are rather skeptical of white people and their organizations. They have cause to be. But it was soon driven home to them that the Workers (Communist) Party was not a white people's party, but a party of all the workers, black and white. Speakers of their own color told them the truth about the Workers (Communist) Party, and told them how twenty-four Negro workers had sat in the National Nominating Convention of the Party, participating in all important committees, acting as chairman of some of these committees, and helping to draft a program of action for the oppressed masses of America, white and colored. And they learned that many Negro workers have been nominated on the Party ticket, and that a Negro, Lovett Fort-Whiteman, was nominated for comptroller in New York state. That Negro workers have been nominated by the Party even in the southern states.

Platform Impresses Them

In addition, they have been greatly impressed by the Party platform and its bold, vigorous denunciation of lynching and other crimes against Negroes. Its utter fearlessness in voicing their demands for full equality: economic, political, social; for abolition of all Jim Crow distinctions in the army, navy and civil service; for equal opportunities for employment; equal pay for equal work, etc., have convinced them that the Workers (Communist) Party is a genuine friend and fearless champion.

Further informed that militant fighters of their own race, like Richard Moore, Lovett Fort-Whiteman, Edward Welsh, etc., are high in the councils of the Workers (Communist) Party, that the Negro has representation on the highest bodies of the Party, they were made to realize that the Workers (Communist) Party was their Party, in a genuine sense, and in the same way that it is the Party of all the oppressed and exploited workers of America. The result is that many of them not only decided to vote for the Party but became members as well. Hundreds of copies of the Party Platforms have been sold so far in Negro Harlem, and it may be safely predicted that the sale of the platform in this section will run into the thousands before the campaign is over.

Negro in Revolt.

In the meantime, the revolt of the Negro workers against the treacherous republican machine threatens to throw into a panic the group of petty-bourgeois Negro leaders whose power to maintain its luxurious mode of living depends upon its ability to lead the Negro masses into the political camps of their enemies. These masses are refusing to follow the old leadership blindly as in the past, but are beginning to challenge their ability and disinterestedness.

In their desperate effort to stem the revolt from the old parties of the rank and file, the Negro henchmen of these bankrupt parties are attempting to divert the Negro masses from scrutiny of the record of these parties, with the false arguments that the campaign is based upon the individual rather than on the party. This in itself is a confession that the records of these parties do not warrant the Negro workers voting for them. This in itself is an additional and forceful argument why the Negro workers should vote for the Party of the working class, the Workers (Communist) Party.

Cooperative Bakery in Los Angeles Grows

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—The "Co-op" Bakery at 2708 Brooklyn Ave., long a center of the revolutionary workers movement in Los Angeles, has decided upon a further expansion.

The Cooperative Consumers League has arranged to purchase the corner lot next to its own building for the price of $15,300. Within the immediate future a large modern Co-operative Cafeteria will be built there to add another link to the growing chain of revolutionary co-operatives in this country.

PUPPET QUEZON BACKS STIMSON IN PHILIPPINES

Defends Imperialism of U. S. Government

MANILA, Philippines, Sept. 16. "Outside capital is necessary, and must receive proper inducement", declared Senator Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, in a speech before the congress yesterday in which he defended Governor-General Stimson's plan for an economic policy that would benefit the American landowners at the expense of the native peasants.

Attempting to win the native landowners to the side of the American program, Quezon predicted that the plantations and industries developed by the American capitalists would eventually become the property of the Philippines.

In an effort to ward off the storm of criticism aroused by Stimson's policies in the Philippines, the senator praised the governor-general very highly, stating that "he accepted the position inspired by a high sentiment of duty and moved by the noble ambition of honoring his own nation through serving the interests of our people."

While advocating complete serviency to the American regime and to its policy towards the island, Quezon, at the same time, held out hope of "independence" and promised that in some future date, after United States capital had firmly embedded itself, independence would come.

against any further anti-militarist activities that the League might try to carry on among the armed forces on the Pacific Coast. The first steps following this order were taken when plainclothes men visited the headquarters of the Workers (Communist) Party at 1212 Market St., in an attempt to discover the identity of the leaders of the distributions.

Expect Repression Soon.

According to a statement of the San Francisco branch of the Workers (Communist) Party, all these activities on the part of the police undoubtedly mean that repressive measures will soon be taken against the leaders and members of the Young Workers (Communist) League.

Undaunted, however, by the police activities, the League has continued its anti-militarist activities. When the fleet continued on its journey and stopped in the San Padro Harbor, the sailors were again met by members of the Young Workers (Communist) League distributing anti-militarist literature.

The leaflet distributed in San Francisco reads in part: "Sailors! Workers In Uniform! Fight Against Capitalist Wars! You left the factories, mines, and farms, or the unemployment market to 'Join the Navy and See the World.' You are workers, and yet the Wall Street government is using you against the workers and peasants of China and Nicaragua, who are fighting to free themselves from the rule of the big capitalist powers. Tomorrow they will use you to fight the workers of other countries, and especially the Soviet Union; or, if necessary, to do strike-breaking duty against our fellow-workers in America. Do not be a tool of the bosses, but use your training to defend the working class. Join us in the fight against imperialist war!"

night in all its sky darkening, destructive fury.

Grave anxiety prevailed for lives and property.

Terrific winds, sweeping rains and seas of awe inspiring height brought fear to the thousands who dwell in towns and cities which dot the shore line—in winter time the playground of eastern America.

Richard W. Gray, meteorologist of the United States Weather Bureau at Miami, warned that the disturbance far exceeded in intensity the disastrous hurricane of September, 1926, which swept Miami and the interior of Florida with appalling loss of life and property damage in the millions.

From Daytona Beach, 250 miles southward to Miami, the gravest danger apparently existed, with the hurricane center placed by the weather bureau near west Palm Beach, a city with summer population of 20,000.

NOTED USSR SCHOLAR TO LECTURE HERE

Professor Waldemar G. Bogoras-Tan, head of the department of ethnography of the University of Leningrad, has arrived in the United States to participate in the Congress of Americanists to be held in New York City September 17-22. Professor Bogoras-Tan, one of the world's leading authorities in the field of anthropology of the inhabitants of the polar regions, was formerly connected with the Museum of Natural History in New York and has for the past 30 years been in close contact with American anthropologists engaged in studying the peoples of the Arctic circle both in North America and in Asia.

Professor Bogoras-Tan devoted many years of his life to the revolutionary movement in Czarist Russia, being at one time an active member of the Narodnoe Voli (People's Will). For these activities he was exiled by the imperialist Russian government to the extreme northeastern section of Siberia, near the polar wastes. During his ten years of exile he made extensive researches among the natives of these regions. Since the 1917 revolution he has been occupying important educational posts under the Soviet government.

Works With Minorities.

For the past few years he has been engaged principally in organizing the work of elevating the cultural and economic status of the northern tribes in Russia. The Northern Institute in Leningrad, which was founded four years ago by the Northern Branch of the All-Russian Central Executive Committee and of which he is the director, is doing notable educational work among the "lesser" northern tribes who in Czarist times were considered only as objects of exploitation insofar as they were given any notice at all. Many of the tribes were almost completely exterminated. The new school is attended by 300 students of 42 nationalities, who are given a four-year course, during which they are supported by the government. Some of the students come from a distance of 7,000 miles to attend the school and spend many months in traveling, on foot, reindeer, dog-sled and other conveyances before reaching the railroad. Many have never eaten bread nor seen a horse. The training at the school equips them for work as instructors of their tribes, to which they return upon the expiration of the course.

Last year the Soviet government expended $1,500,000 for educational and scientific work among the northern nationalities. During recent years 65 schools have been opened and 50 highly qualified graduates of Prof. Bogoras-Tan's courses at the University of Leningrad are devoting their energies to raising the cultural and economic level of these primitive people.

Prof. Bogoras-Tan will remain in the United States for several months after the close of the congress for the purpose of giving a series of lectures.

HONOR TOLSTOI

MOSCOW, Sept. 14.—The hundredth anniversary of the birth of Leo Tolstoy was observed in his home village of Yasnaya Polyana yesterday by the dedication of a modern school and hospital, in the presence of his relatives, peasants of the vicinity, and Tolstoy scholars and admirers from over the whole world.

Lunacharsky, Commissar of Education of the Soviet Union, at the unveiling of a statue of the great writer, explained the significance of his life and work, paying tribute to him as a far-seeing realistic artist, and a rebel always sincerely seeking for truth, but also pointed out that his policy of resistance and pacifism could not apply to the exploited masses.

acking House Workers Know Communists Fight for Them, Says Correspondent

SSES, POLICE RYING TO FRAME OHLER, OTHERS

Workers Party Rouses Workers to Union

(By a Worker Correspondent)

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (By Mail).—With the hearing for Hugo Oehler, Nelson S. Yocum, E. B. Eastwood and Sam Kassis, charged with the violation of the Kansas State Criminal Syndicalist Law, starting Monday, 1 p. m., at the state court house, there are practically no new developments in the case of the packing interests against the Communist Party.

While only these four are indicted for the violation of the syndicalist code of the state there are six others who are charged with vagrancy and against whom other charges such as the syndicalist law or of a similar character will be brought. The persecution and the frame-up of militant workers and Communists was carefully planned by the company and government officials. When the raid on the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting, which was held under the auspices of the International Labor Defense, at Shawnee Park in Armourdale, Kansas, the police had about a dozen spies, stool-pigeons from the packing houses, and detectives all clad in overalls, planted in the crowd. At the same time higher company officials and police in plain clothes, headed by Beatty, captain of the police force, were hiding during the meeting in the bushes.

When the meeting was finished this aggregation reinforced by fifteen policemen in uniform descended upon the meeting and began the arrests.

Oehler and E. B. Eastwood were the first ones to be arrested, then Kassis and Nelson S. Yocum, while the stool-pigeons began to round up the audience. Among the arrested were mothers with their children, who were released after a protest. It is important to note that Beatty referred the protesting mothers to the company official who evidently was conducting the raid. The police were careful to exclude American born workers and arrested only those who looked like foreign-born workers. When the arrested were brought to the jail they were charged with vagrancy and released under a $500 bond. Meanwhile the police, the county and district attorneys, were busy in formulating the charges.

On Thursday afternoon it became known that Hugo Oehler, district organizer of District 10 of the Workers (Communist) Party, and Nelson S. Yocum, E. B. Eastwood and Sam Kassis were indicted under the criminal syndicalist law.

Hugo Oehler made a tirade against the government in which he said that Sacco and Vanzetti were murdered by the capitalists and their government, and that the workers must organize in order to prevent further recurrences. This is seditious, according to the hard-boiled government officials, who received their education while in service of the Armour Company. Then, according to police statements, Oehler urged to have the conditions reversed and have the laborers kill the capitalists. It is evident that the stool-pigeons of the Armour Co. will testify to statements that Oehler never made and on the basis of his speech at the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting they will try to railroad him.

More "Crimes."

E. B. Eastwood, who is secretary-organizer of the Kansas City branch of the International Labor Defense, is also indicted on the same charges. His crime consists in making an announcement after the meeting of some picnics and other I. L. D. affairs. So this is termed assisting Hugo Oehler in organizing, teaching, preaching sedition, violence, etc., against the government. Sam Kassis, a member of the I. L. D., was, according to the police, distributing the Labor Defender, the official organ of the I. L. D., and other I. L. D. literature. This, too, is a seditious act against the government.

The Packing House workers who were arrested at the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting in Armourdale are now being urged to turn state evidence against Hugo Oehler and the others. If they fail to do so they will be faced with the prospect of being arrested on the charge of belonging to the Communist Party and will also lose their jobs.

Meanwhile the persecution of the Communist Party and other militant workers is the most "going" subject of discussion, not only among the Packing House bosses, but also among workers in other industries.

The workers know that the Communists are persecuted because they are fighting for the interests of the workers against those of the bosses. Particularly do the Packing House workers feel and resent this attack. They know that the attack against the Party was undertaken and directed by the packing house interests because the Party was the active factor in rousing the workers towards the need of a union.

MINERS' UNION ISSUES POLICY

greed for more profits have followed a policy of closing so-called unproductive mines, speed-up production, cutting wages, establish the open shop and exterminate the union. In this the operators have found complete support from their criminally corrupt tools—the Lewis machine.

Old Union Smashed.

In district after district the union has been smashed. Working conditions have been lost. The number of unemployed coal miners has grown to over 200,000. In complete collaboration with the coal operators the Lewis machine pursued this reactionary policy of trying to drive these 300,000 unemployed coal miners out of the industry. This in face of a situation where unemployment prevails everywhere.

The corrupt Lewis clique sold out completely to the "open shop" drive of the coal operators. Strike after strike was defeated by their treasonable policies of serving the bosses. They divided the miners against themselves by signing of separate agreements. First by signing up some of one company's mines while permitting the rest to operate "open shop," next by signing separate districts, leading to the criminal isolation of the Pennsylvania and Ohio strikers while the other districts were taken out of the fight. Lastly, this corrupt clique completed its dastardly wrecking policy by abandoning the Jacksonville scale, cutting wages in Illinois and Indianapolis, betraying the Pennsylvania and Ohio strike and entirely destroying the union in those fields.

Agents of Bosses.

These black reactionaries and bosses' agents who comprise the whole of the Lewis machine nationally, and in the various districts have wrought a terrible destruction. The United Mine Workers has now been practically completely exterminated. The desperate efforts still made by the Lewis machine to hang on to the check-off in Illinois and a couple of other isolated spots is just an attempt to maintain their exorbitant salaries. The result of the last wage agreement there for the rank and file coal miners is a drastic wage cut and the shackles of a company union.

Thruout the past labor history of this country the coal miners can show a splendid record of militant struggle for working class organization. The unbreakable solidarity and unconquerable fighting spirit which made possible the building of a once great union still lives. We will build again where the traitors have destroyed. Faithful to our great tradition we the delegates assembled at this convention, representing the rank and file coal miners, finally and completely repudiate the Lewis machine and resolve to build the new union, the name of which shall be the National Miners' Union.

Repudiate Wage Cut.

John L. Lewis and his corrupt clique can no longer speak in the name of the coal miners. We call upon the rank and file in all the fields to refuse to recognize any wage cut agreements signed by them. Fight against the check-off and thereby destroy their hope to keep you enslaved to the company union. Break completely with the Lewis machine and join the National Miners' Union.

We solemnly declare to use every ounce of our energy to fight to the last to remove every obstacle to build an organization to comprise the whole of the rank and file coal miners. An industrial organization taking into its membership all men employed in and around the mines, except the bosses. Within our ranks we welcome the colored miner as well as the white, the foreign born miner as well as the American. We pledge ourselves to fight for complete equality for all, in every respect, regardless of race or nationality.

Importance of Negro Workers.

The Negro miners are an important part of the workers in our industry. They must be brought into our union, drawn into full participation in every sphere of activity and leadership. Ours is the fight to unite all coal miners under the banner of one great organization for the protection of our common interests.

Our object shall be to fight ceaselessly to secure the best possible wages and working conditions obtainable through our organized power. Only through struggle have we gained in the past, and we declare our unalterable opposition to class collaboration. Our policy will be one of militant struggle to win our rightful demands.

For a Labor Party.

In the attacks by the operators upon our standard of wages and working conditions, in all past strikes, clubbings, jailings or detective ambushing have been our lot. Courts and police and all the forces of the government have been against us regardless of whether the republican or democratic party were in control of administration. We therefore declare in favor of a policy of independent political action by the workers through a Labor Party.

In all industries of the country today, the standard of living of the workers are being attacked, wages reduced and the speed-up system intensified. The employers are pursuing their open shop drive. The basic industries are unorganized. Yet the mood for struggle of these workers is growing. The National Miners' Union declares as its policy to assist these workers in their struggles against the employers. To assist them in organizing into new militant unions. Class solidarity against the attacks and exploitation of the capitalist employers is our slogan. To promote it is our object. We declare that we will spare no efforts to extend this class solidarity to embrace all the workers of the world, to strengthen them in the struggle for complete emancipation from capitalist exploitation.

200 Students From Far North Attend Leningrad School

LENINGRAD, Sept. 16 (UP).—One of the strangest schools in the world has been functioning in this city since 1926. It is the so-called Northern Faculty, whose 200 students, about 40 of them women, represent 31 different nationalities inhabiting the frozen northernmost reaches of European and Asiatic Russia.

Laplanders, Samoyeds, Tungus, Ostyaks and so on—some of them tribes whose very existence has been discovered only recently—have sent daring members to taste this Russian culture of which the white men from warmer climes have told them. Many of them had to travel for two months or longer by reindeer and dog or floating in diminutive punts to get to the Leningrad school.

BOSS HECKLES SHOP PLUMBERS

"Step on It," Is His Speed-Up Order

(By a Worker Correspondent)

In the plumbing shop of Marks and Schleck, in the Bronx, the plumbers are forced by the bosses to speed up on the job.

Mr. Marks, the senior partner, is continually heckling the workers. His favorite expressions are: "Get the work done," "throw it up," "step on it," "are you a cripple?" "I can do twice as much," "if you can't work faster get the h—— off this job." All of these brilliant remarks are taken by the plumbers as they are meant, and they continually try to work faster.

It is impossible for the plumbers on this and other jobs to appeal to the local union; the misleaders of labor immediately call up the boss on the telephone and arbitrate the matter so that later when this delegate appears there are no differences between the workers and the boss.

What is necessary for the plumbing trade is to organize job committees to protect the plumbers and helpers of the American Association of Plumbers Helpers.

SPEED UP OF CAR MEN IS CAUSE OF MANY ACCIDENTS

Lay Off Many; Risk Is Motorman's

(By a Worker Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, Ohio (By Mail).—A vicious plan of speed-up and staff reduction is now being inaugurated in this city by the local traction interests, the Cleveland R.R. Co. who own the sole rights of transportation in the city and suburbs. The new plan was put into effect on the 10th on Euclid Ave., the "Broadway" of this city.

Articulated or two car trains mounted on three trucks, with an aisle connecting the cars to allow passengers to pass from one car to the other, have been introduced. Under the old system two conductors were necessary to operate a two-car train, but the new cars will require only one. At present a conductor rides on the rear car instructing the passengers how to use the treadle doors with which the new cars are fitted. Afterwards, the company declares, when the car riders are acquainted with the new machinery only one conductor will be necessary. This means that a considerable number of the men will be thrown out of employment to swell the large numbers that are already roaming the streets of this "city of homes."

Motormen's Risk.

Along with the new cars comes the announcement from the company that five minutes will be cut off the running time on the Euclid Ave. line.

This is going to be a dangerous procedure, especially for motormen as it is almost impossible at the present to make the schedule time owing to the volume of traffic and the large number of automatic traffic signals that the carmen have to contend with. Lately many serious accidents have occurred owing to the high speed at which motormen have been forced to operate the cars, on an eight mile stretch of Euclid Avenue, three-fourths of which lies in the busiest section of the city. This running time is only forty-five minutes from about 7 p. m. to 5 a. m. What with a stop at every second block, and traffic signals that only alternate every thirty-five or sixty seconds, and an inspector hiding behind a telegraph pole with a watch in his hand, you can easily imagine the risks a motorman has to take to keep the car on time and keep his job. The schedules are O. K.'d by the city traction commissioner Mr. Ballou, who works hand in hand with the R. R. company in speeding up the men,

Insurance Gag.

A group insurance and retirement benefit plan proceeded the speeding up. The insurance plan was introduced following the declaration of the supreme court of Ohio declaring unconstitutional the closed shop contract then existing between the Carmen's Union and the R. R. Co. after the local courts had declared legal an award of twelve cents per hour increase in wages granted by an arbitration board. This was in 1924. Since then the R. R. Company has done everything possible to lure the men away from the union. Free smokers, free concerts, free picnics, free dental treatment, and now free uniform caps have been given to the men, all paid for out of the nine and seven cent fares that are being wrung out of the car riders, the great majority of whom are workers.

During all this time neither the officials of our local union or our international have done anything to help the membership. In fact they conspired with the R. R. Co. and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of New York to put over the insurance plan on the men. Under the insurance plan the workmen have no legal guarantee whatever, nothing but vague promises by the R R. Company. "The R. R. Co. reserves the right to change, alter, or amend the plan any time," and for that they deduct $2.50 per month, and permit us no say in the matter except to withdraw, which by so doing you lose 70 per cent of the money that had been deducted, and perhaps get the "air" into the bargain. Time pemitting, I hope to write some more letters about the conditions of the Cleveland R. R. workers and the class collaboration activities of our local and international union officials.

CALIFORNIA RED DRIVE STARTS

Foster, Gitlow, Whitney on Ballot

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—Though suffering from a belated start, the campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party is now in full swing. About 1,000 names have already been obtained for the petitions for putting Foster and Gitlow on the ballot, while a similar number have been obtained for Anita Whitney, the Communist candidate for U. S. senator.

Boris Susman and Arthur Dick, candidates for the state assembly in the 66th and 73rd Districts respectively, are expected to go on the ballot without great difficulty.

The opening gun of the Los Angeles campaign was fired Tuesday evening, Sept. 4th, when Comrade Anita Whitney of Oakland, candidate for U. S. senator, spoke to an enthusiastic mass meeting at the Walker Auditorium. Over four hundred dollars were raised from the collection for the campaign.

The names and addresses of nearly 18,000 voters who declined to state their political affiliations, as well as about 1,500 who registered "socialist," are being canvassed to sign the Communist petition blanks.

Los Angeles will also have a number of nationally prominent speakers, such as Foster and Gitlow, speak at mass meetings. There will be a large number of open air meetings arranged, not only in Los Angeles, but also in the surrounding cities and towns.

PLUMBER HELPER DELEGATES SENT TO CONVENTION

Unions Organized in Several Cities

(By a Worker Correspondent)

The yearly national convention of the United Association of Plumbers, Steamfitters and Gasfitters will be held at Atlantic City, N. J., beginning Sept. 17.

The American Association of Plumbers' Helpers will send a delegation to this convention. Brothers C. E. Miller, M. Helfand, M. Singer and S. Rothenberg were elected as delegates.

A mass meeting of plumbers' helpers will be held prior to the departure of the delegates to Atlantic City on Wednesday, Sept. 5.

Word has reached us from Chicago, Ill., that the plumbers' helpers there have organized a union.

In Philadelphia, the Plumbers' Helpers Union is making great headway. A delegation will be sent to the United Association Convention.

Our hopes are not based on any conventions. Only by organizing strongly on the jobs can we achieve our aims.

Plumbers' helpers come to the mass meeting. Bring your fellow helpers along.

Mill Workers Realize Old Labor Organizations, Led by Misleaders, Do Not Aid Them

SEES WORKERS READY FOR NEW TEXTILE UNION

Organizer Reports on New England Tour

That the textile workers everywhere are ripe for struggle and will respond eagerly to the call for a convention to organize a new union issued by the National Textile Mill Committees is the opinion of John Di Santo, Passaic textile worker, who has just completed a tour of New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut textile centers for the Textile Mill Committees. Di Santo was one of the delegates to the United Textile Workers Convention, who was there to represent one of the six local unions which broke away because of the U. T. W.'s reactionary policies.

"Everywhere conditions for the workers are growing more and more rotten," Di Santo stated yesterday in an interview with the Daily Worker representative. "Everywhere speed-up, long hours and unemployment are the order of the day. The U. T. W. and the A. F. T. O. are doing nothing to relieve these conditions, and everywhere the workers are completely disgusted with the leadership of these organizations. The new union will certainly go over big in New England."

In Lawrence, where the multiple loom system prevails, Di Santo found the workers in the Pacific mill running 105 Draper automatic looms. This compares with 90 looms in Nashua, N. H., which is already a large number. Terrible unemployment has cursed the city of Lawrence for several years. Lowell, Mass., is left a desert through the removal or closing down of its mills. The tendency of the Massachusetts mills to move either south or to Maine is becoming greater with the inducement of longer hours and cheaper labor in these centers. Maine has now offered a 50 per cent cut in taxes as a bait to manufacturers to move there. The 60-hour week for women as well as men prevails in Maine, while Massachusetts is still "hampered" (from the bosses' point of view) with the 48-hour law for women.

A pay envelope of a dye worker in the American Printing Company in Fall River, Mass., for 55 hours' work shows the enormous sum of $13.91. Another worker's envelope contained $19 and some change for 60 odd hours' work. Child labor is abundant throughout New England, Di Santo claims. Not only legalized child labor of from 14 to 16 years, but the employment of children younger than 14 is also common.

Di Santo's tour has helped to insure a representation from New England centers for the national convention to be held on September 22-23 at Irving Plaza, New York City. Delegates have been elected from the following centers, from mill committees and workers clubs: Manchester and Nashua, N. H.; Lowell, Lawrence, Salem, Taunton, Fall River, New Bedford, Holyoke, Chicopee Falls, Easthampton, Mass., and Shelton, New London, Norwich.

NEARING SPEAKS IN DELAWARE TOWN IN TOUR

First Time Red Speaker Talked There

For the first time in its history the ultra-conservative town of Newark, Delaware was visited by a Communist speaker when Scott Nearing addressed a crowd of approximately 137 people at the Opera House on Monday evening, Sept. 10.

"You will have to face the Communist ideas and movement in the next few years and in the campaign of 1928," was the challenge laid down by the noted economist. "There is no essential difference between the democratic and republican parties," said the speaker," for both dwell on insignificant peculiarities of the candidates and ignore the really important issues such as the concentration of wealth and the submergence of the working class while they differ in no essential way on the issues they do deal with.

"Union membership has decreased by a third since the war and many unions are in a precarious position," Nearing continued. "Production has increased two-fold since the war but of the enormous profits all but a few per cent has been made by a few concerns while wages have not increased and have in many industries decreased. Thus the working class is faced with the need and the desirability of forming strong unions. The Workers Party aims to organize these unions."

"In the international field the United States finds itself the dominant nation due to its wealth and to its loans and investments abroad." Outlining this situation Nearing discussed the possibilities of war which he said were quite likely to be stirred up in several different ways."

GEHRIG, KOENIG HIT HOMERS; YANKS WIN

(By United Press)

The New York Yankees retained their half game lead in the American League race Sunday by defeating the St. Louis Browns while the Philadelphia Athletics were winning from the Cleveland Indians.

Home runs by Gerhig and Koenig helped the Yankees beat the Browns, 7 to 5.

Lefty Grove pitched the Athletics to a 7 to 1 victory over the Indians, allowing but four hits.

The Yankees collected 12 hits off Blaeholder and Wiltse. The Browns made but six hits off Johnson and Zachary, but three Yankee errors aided them.

The Athletics bunched six hits with two errors in the sixth inning to score six runs and drive Shaute from the mound.

McGARRY FORCES FIRED BY LEWIS FROM THE U. M. W.

Many Meetings Choose Convention Delegates

Garry forces gave lip service to the fight against the contractor system but showed its true character when it refused to make any fight against Lewis. This did not save them from expulsion by the Lewis machine which, carrying out the policy of the coal operators, is determined to root out all opposition.

New Union Has Correct Plan.

Anthracite miners see in this event another confirmation of the correctness of the policy of the newly formed National Miners' Union whose leaders from the start condemned the unprincipled activities of the Brennan-McGarry group.

The National Miners' Union is planning a meeting in District 7 in the near future which will initiate a drive in the anthracite. One union of the anthracite and the bituminous miners is the policy of the new union, rank and file control by the coal diggers and a militant struggle against the coal operators as against the policy of betrayal which is the program of the Lewis machine.

Labor Defense Groups Show Great Activity; Autumn Revel Oct. 27

With the conclusion of the summer months, many of the branches of the New York Section of the International Labor Defense, 799 Broadway, have taken a new lease on life and are showing increased activity. Membership campaigns have been started on a broad scale and increased attendance is reported at meetings.

Lectures on topics of workingclass interest and social affairs are also being arranged by many branches. A drive for subscriptions to the Labor Defender has been started and is meeting with success.

All I. L. D. branches have also begun preparations for the annual Autumn Revel of the New York organization, which will be held in Webster Hall, 119 E. 11th St., on Saturday evening, October 27. It is planned to make this one of the most colorful affairs that the I.L.D. has ever held.

Loans to the Soviet Union

The loan mongers of the world are evincing extraordinary interest in the possibility of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics being able to absorb huge amounts of investment capital. The reason for this sudden interest in prospects for future Soviet loans is the demonstrated ability of the Bolshevik government to meet German demands for loan payments months before they fall due.

The financial world was astonished to learn that during the first business week of September 21,000,000 marks worth of gold was sent into Germany from Soviet sources. This transaction had been preceeded by a large number of smaller shipments of gold from the Soviet Union into Germany. For a time the financial world was unable to ascertain the motive for such a gold movement and so their experts on statistical analysis began to delve into the problem. What was the motive of the Soviet Union in shipping such amounts of gold?

The answer was soon forthcoming. The gold shipments that culminated in the 21,000,000 marks movement were for the purpose of placing sufficient gold in German banks to cover the first payment of German government guaranteed credits, amounting to 80,000,000 marks ($20,000,000). It has been ascertained that the total amount that will fall due between October and January 1929, is already in the hands of the German bankers.

This fact is a staggering refutation of the professional traducers of the Soviet Union who have carried on a persistent propaganda to the effect that the Bolsheviks could not meet the payments on these loans. The lie factories of Paris and Riga, as well as Kellogg's propaganda mill at Washington, and Matthew Woll's Civic Federation liars, will have to invent new slanders against the U. S. S. R.

American financial writers are now speculating upon the volume of future loans that will flow to the Soviet Union.

With gold again moving from London to New York the question of disposing of the enormous gold supply in the United States becomes more complicated. Since the Soviet Union is able to absorb a tremendous volume of credits, this question inevitably forces itself to the very forefront in financial circles. It is a certainty that credits will be granted, with or without recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States government.

Let no one imagine, however, that because credits will be extended the loan mongers are any more friendly to the revolution than before. They will remain, as before, the relentless enemies of the workers' and peasants' government. In fact, they will endeavor to utilize their loans for counter-revolutionary purposes. The Berlin correspondent of the New York Evening Post, speaking of credits to the Soviet Union says:

> "Many persons think the Soviets ought to buy finished articles for consumption, which can be bought on short term credits, instead of machinery, which requires long-term credits. . . . It is understood from very reliable sources that it is possible, if the Russians are willing to accept large short-term credits, Americans are ready to participate with the Germans in placing considerable sums at their disposal."

While appearing as merely a technical question of finances, the distinction between short-term credits for articles calculated for immediate consumption and long-term credits for machinery is of the greatest political significance. Short-term credits mean that the banking capitalists will place at the disposal of the Soviet Union only those credits that will enable the Bolshevik government to purchase the finished products of the industrial capitalist countries—hoping the Soviet Union will become a mere market for the absorption of such commodities and will be dependent for its needs upon the capitalist world. Long-term credits mean placing at the disposal of the Soviet Union money that will enable the government to continue its policy of socialist construction by establishing its own industries—its own machinery of production.

The greatest need of the Soviet Union is not merely the machinery of light industry that will enable it to produce textile and other commodities for immediate sale and consumption. Its greatest need is the establishment of heavy industries; industries that produce the machinery of production for the lighter industries.

That is the road over which the Soviet Union is travelling toward the construction of socialism. The loan mongers of the world know this and will try to market the products of their home industries and prevent the development of Soviet industries.

But the Soviet Union that has faced the bullets of the imperialists and defeated their mercenary legions on its own soil, that has known how to deal with the spies and saboteurs of the enemy, will also meet and defeat the intrigues of those who try to utilize credits to the detriment of the revolution. They will, of course, not refuse short-time credits, but never will the Soviet Union permit itself to be placed in a position where it is dependent for industrial commodities upon the imperialist bandits who, at the very moment they grant credits, will conspire against the workers' and peasants' government. The progress of the Soviet Union on the road to socialism is a guarantee against the imperialist plotters.

Furthermore, the class conscious workers of the capitalist countries who are the only real defenders outside the Soviet Union of their socialist fatherland will continue their fight against the imperialists whether they grant long or short-term loans, knowing full well that conspiracies, in one form or another, against the Soviet Union will cease only when capitalism falls before the world proletarian revolution.

Paris — Two Weeks After the Kellogg Pact

The swindle of the Kellogg pact as an alleged preventive of wars is emphasized by the aircraft maneuvers at Paris, less than a fortnight after the signing of the document by various nations. The maneuvers at Paris were, like all similar exhibitions, intensive propaganda for ever greater armaments.

British and French army staffs viewed the performance and made observations "with a view towards perfecting the offensive and defensive ability of the French air force." It is particularly significant that a mock airplane attack on Paris was managed in such a way that had it been real it would have completely destroyed most of the city and the general staff itself. The inevitable conclusion to be drawn from the Paris performance is the necessity for doubling and trebling the air forces as well as the anti-aircraft forces. Let no one think for a moment that such maneuvers before staffs of officers from other powers reveal to them the real condition of the military forces, even though they may have a joint entente against other imperialist powers.

The presence of the British did, however, also emphasize the new Anglo-French entente that first took the form of a naval agreement between the Baldwin-Chamberlain tory government and the Poincare-Briand imperialist government.

While the sham air fight was going on in Paris the puppet president at Washington, Cal Coolidge, and his antedulivian secretary of state, "Nervous Nelly" Kellogg, were still trying to conceal their fury at the Anglo-French naval agreement which was consummated in defiance of the naval arms policy of the United States.

Within a short time we may expect similar sham battles off the coasts of the United States which will "reveal" the fact that all the sea coast cities may easily be destroyed, as an excuse for our own jingoes to demand armaments that will surpass those of any other nation.

This frenzied preparation for another imperialist war, the logical inevitable result of the contradictions generated on a world scale, is the outstanding political problem of the day, yet as far as the campaigns of the democrats, republicans and socialists are concerned, this fact is utterly ignored.

It is only the Communists that face the reality of the situation and wage a determined struggle against the war-mongers. All those workers and farmers of the United States, who will be the victims of the next world slaughter, should rally to the support of the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party and help wage a fight against imperialism and all its agents—the Herbert Hoovers, the Al Smiths and the Norman Thomases.

Housing Vital Problem of Negro Workers

Exploited by Sharks; Face Exorbitant Rents; Slum Conditions; Segregation

By RICHARD B. MOORE.
(Candidate for Congress, 21st Congressional District, Workers (Communist) Party.

One of the most vital problems which the Negro masses face is the problem of housing. How very vital, in fact, how actually menacing this problem now is will be realized when it is known that the record of the death rate in cities shows that Negro children are dying from two to eight times faster than the children of other races. This frightful mortality, this slaughter of the innocents, is due directly to the terrible housing conditions imposed upon the Negro masses under the present oppressive capitalist system which is based upon rent, interest and profit.

Rent profiteering, overcrowding, unsanitary and beastly conditions are at their worst in the segregated districts where Negroes are compelled to live. Unable to move out of these miserable ghettos, the Negro masses are forced to pay the most exhorbitant and outrageous rents for houses in every state of dilapidation and lack of sanitation. They are the prey of the greedy landlords and grasping capitalists who literally suck the life-blood out of them.

Negroes Jim Crowed.

Exploited at the point of production where they are paid the lowest wages for the most taxing and menial labor, Negro workers are set upon at the point of consumption by rent hogs and landlord sharks who take advantage of their segregated condition to gouge and bleed them to death. Terrible indeed is the plight of these workers caught in the meshes of this vicious and lethal system of profit-making and rent-gouging. Impoverishment, degradation, disease, and death—this is the terrible toll which Negro workers are forced to pay under this vicious system which yields ill-gotten gain and blood money to a few capitalist parasites.

Negro Landlords Just as Oppressive

It is a fact worthy of special note and full of great significance that Negro landlords and real estate agents are ready participants in and active supporters of this vicious system which pauperizes, degrades, and crushes the masses of the Negro race. It is an undeniable and weighty fact that Negro landlords and agents are no more considerate of the purse, safety, health, and lives of Negro tenants than any other landlords.

Indeed, it is to be observed that Negro real estate agents have been a very active class in increasing rent. They are exceedingly active and skillful in the business of persuading landlords to put in Negro tenants at doubled rentals. What does it matter to them what these tenants do, or how they live in order to pay these oppressive rents? What does it matter to these Negro agents and landlords whether black babies live or die? Only one thing matters with them as with all landlords and capitalists of whatever race, and that is profit.

Profit For Landlords—Slums For Workers.

The higher the rent, the greater the commission, the larger the gain. And again, the less coal burned, the fewer repairs made, the greater the profit. So rents are raised, steam heat and hot water are hardly to be obtained, and repairs and sanitation are neglected by black as well as by white landlords and agents. With results for the masses of these workers that are terrible to contemplate. Destitution, degeneration, disease, and death, these are the tragic results. When measures are introduced for the protection of tenants or for the improvement of housing conditions, such as the extension of the Emergency Rent Laws, and the Dwellings Law Bill which were brought before the New York legislature this year, it is seen that black and white landlords unite in the fight to defeat them. They line up together on the basis of their class interests as capitalists to kill laws which would help to abolish fire-traps and disease-breeding slums, laws which would improve in some slight measure the standards of safety and health in the homes of the masses. They ought as one to wipe from the statute books any laws which afford tenants and workers the slightest legal basis for a fight against "unjust, unreasonable and oppressive rents." The Negro landlords and agents, like the others, protect their class interests, their profits, they fight against the interests of the oppressed Negro masses who are being crushed into the dust.

Workers Fight the Slum System.

It is the workers' and tenants' organizations that are found fighting for the protection of the workers, black and white.

The American Negro Labor Congress sent telegrams to the governor and legislature of New York State, demanding the passage of these laws. The Harlem Tenants League sent resolutions and delegates along with the representatives of other tenants' leagues and labor bodies to fight for the protection and the welfare and lives of the masses of the people.

Lessons.

The lesson of this situation is plain and pointed. It is clear before our eyes. The fight to reduce higher rents and to clean up the vile conditions which menace the health and survival of the Negro workers will have to be waged against the bitter opposition of both black and white landlords who fatten upon these vicious and murderous conditions. The Negro tenants and workers of other races, will have to carry on this necessary struggle for the salvation of the black and white workers.

The Only Solution—Communism.

They must build strong tenants' leagues and powerful labor unions as their essential and effective instruments for this vital struggle. They must organize politically to defeat the parties of the capitalists and the landlords, the republican and democratic parties. They must defeat likewise the socialist party, the treacherous party of the small business men and yellow liberals who have forsaken the class struggle and who fail to fight for the interests of the workers. They must build and support the Party of the class struggle, the Party of the workers, farmers, and tenants which fights militantly against the system of rent-profiteering and capitalist exploitation—the Workers (Communist) Party.

Under the banner of this militant proletarian party the black and white tenants and workers must fight for the abolition of the capitalist system of rent, interest and profit which is responsible for their oppression and degradation. They must fight for the establishment of a workers' government under which the means of life—land, houses, factories, mills, mines, etc.—will be owned and controlled by all the workers under the system of Communism, which alone can solve the problem of housing, of labor, etc., and guarantee a decent life for all the masses.

In the present election campaign the duty of the oppressed Negro and white workers and tenants is clear. It is to support wholeheartedly the only party which fights for a program of housing and labor in the interests of the masses, the Workers (Communist) Party.

The program of the Workers (Communist) Party on housing demands:

1. Abolition of all laws which result in segregation of Negroes. Abolition of all Jim Crow laws. The law shall forbid all discrimination against Negroes in selling or renting houses.
2. Municipal fixing of low rents for workers. Rent for wage earners should not amount to more than 10 per cent of their wages.
3. Municipally built houses should be rented to the workers without profit.
4. Immediate enactment of state laws providing for abolition of the right of eviction by landlords against wage earner tenants.
5. Compulsory repair by the landlords of all working class homes in bad condition.
6. Immediate establishment by municipalities of homes to shelter the unemployed.
7. Municipal aid to workers' building cooperatives.

(Editor's note):

This article by the candidate of our Party for congress in the 21st congressional district exposes the terrible housing conditions existing in the Jim Crow quarters where Negro workers are forced to live by the vicious racial caste system which capitalist society maintains. Similar conditions are to be found in all working class districts.

In "prosperous" America the workers, black and white, are forced to live in slums and hovels, but in Soviet Russia, where the workers rule, the best houses are occupied by workers and "the building of homes for workers is an essential part of the whole constructive program of the Soviet government which spends millions yearly to erect houses for wage earners."

The oppressive nature of the capitalist government of America is clearly to be seen in the callous disregard of the lives of the masses of the people by the capitalist politicians who killed the Dwellings Law Bill, and other such measures. The fight against this capitalist exploitation and degradation of the workers is and must be carried on against the bitter opposition of both republican and democratic parties. This was brought into bold view in the struggle over the Dwellings Law Bill. One of the most militant fighters for the protection of the tenants and workers in that struggle was the candidate of our Party, Richard at all the hearings at Albany. We B. Moore, who as president of the Harlem Tenants' League, appeared quote in part from one of his speeches exposing before the legislature the oppressive housing conditions:

"If the legislature were conversant with the terrible housing conditions now existing, and if it were moved by considerations for the health and welfare of the people, it would pass this bill forthwith. The dreadful conditions among the masses will be realized from the pathetic fact that we have mothers appearing in court with children whose fingers and cheeks have been eaten by rats because rapacious landlords refuse to make repairs. The issue which this legislature is now called upon to decide, the issue now squarely before it, is whether the richest state of the richest country in the world cannot find enough resources, cannot provide a housing code which will provide sufficient light and air and which will compel standards for the protection of the health and lives of its citizens.

"The landlords have raised the cry of confiscation. It must be answered that millions of dollars of slave property were confiscated in order to abolish chattel slavery. But the issue is not now confiscation. We have not yet come to that again. There is not a single confiscatory provision in this Dwellings Law Bill which requires only the barest minimum standards for health and safety. As a matter of fact, this bill does not begin to require what is really necessary for the protection of the masses. Against this false cry of confiscation, we raise the true cry of murder, for the lethal conditions under which the masses of people are now compelled to live amount to murder. To the gentleman who quoted from the decalogue, "Thou shalt not steal," we reply, that there is another commandment which is still more binding, "Thou shalt not kill."

"I ask this legislature not to be overawed by this display of the landlords who have packed this hearing. The millions of the people demand the passage of this law. They are the fewer here for the reason that even now at this hour they are toiling and sweating and grinding to produce the profits and rents which these oppressors squeeze out of them. But these workers are watching to see whether this legislature will sacrifice the health and lives of its citizens to the greed of oppressive profiteers. They will judge and act accordingly."

The capitalist politicians of both the republican and democratic parties killed this bill. The workers and tenants should learn from this that they must support the party of their own class which alone can be depended upon to fight for their vital interests. This party is the Workers (Communist) Party. Vote Communist! Join the Workers (Communist) Party!

'Labor' Laws Are in Interest of Bosses

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Labor laws are supposed to be in the interests of the workers. So say the state and federal authorities. Well, man, they are on paper, of course.

In the construction of new buildings hoists are used for carrying up materials. No people are allowed to ride on them. Recently I saw men riding on them because they wanted to save time. In one place the boss also saw this but as usual didn't give a damn.

Workers, see that the safety laws are enforced. If we do not protect our lives, who will? It is up to us.

Told You So

A BIG fat, oil worm has finally turned Harry Sinclair who has been kicked around like the "Ole hound dawg" for several years is now on the inside of the boot. You all heard of the scandalous way in which this patriot was treated for his patriotic action in becoming a party of the second part to an oil deal, which relieved the navy department of a state full of oil. Big hearted Harry agreed to shoulder the burden.

WELL, Harry lost several pounds of excess avoirdupois and perhaps a million dollars in legal fees before he was finally absolved of sin. But a true patriot will never rest until he has given his country convincing proof that his heart only palpitates for two worthy purposes, namely love and patriotism. When the time came for the oil Ameer to file his income tax report he lopped off a couple of millions from his taxable income, which he claimed was lost to him thru bad luck with the horses, a few bad debts and sundry items amounting to half a million.

HAD Sinclair succeeded in convincing the internal revenue department of the truth of his tale he would have saved $250,000—almost enough to buy the next administration. And he might have succeeded but for the cupidity of two internal revenue agents who tried to hold him up for $35,000. Rocking with indignation, Sinclair got in touch with the competent authorities, who had the agents arrested with the dough. Harry broke into the press and is now eligible for a cabinet position. Evidently he learned something from the Teapot Dome scandal.

THE arrival of Aimee McPherson in town, on her way to England, cannot help attracting the attention of prospective business men to the field of religion as a fertile source of income. Aimee has found it that way. In one respect it resembles the insurance business. One can start without much capital. The customer bears all the expense and unless he dies too soon he is certain to be all velvet. There is another resemblance. Insurance, though encouraging thrift, thrives on the thriftless, who are more inclined to spend their savings than to bank them for a dying day. Religion, while warring on sin, would go to bed supperless only for the jolly old sinner.

AIMEE is going to England to save the Anglo-Saxons from beer and sin. The English are between the devil and the deep sea, alright. They must choose between Aimee and Pussyfoot Johnson. Wise people always pick the lesser of two evils. Pussyfoot, in addition to being a chronic snooper, is a confidence man. He passes off a glass eyeball for the real article. Since Aimee faced a jury in her kidnaping trial and learned from experience that short skirts are more effective in softening the male heart than the most eloquent address from learned counsel, she has compromised with Satan by giving her calves the air. But by meeting the sinners halfway she brings in the customers. Pussyfoot is too old-fashioned. He persists in looking at sin straight with his eye.

THE Workers (Communist) Party is now on the ballot in twenty-one states, with several other states almost ready for filing. This is a splendid accomplishment for a young party with only one election campaign behind it. In the heyday of the socialist party it was only on the ballot in 41 states. But for the "traditional" socialist voters, who have gone to sleep since the war, the socialist party would not get enough votes in this election campaign to fill a high hat. Al Smith has stolen Norman Thomas's campaign thunder and a considerable chunk of the LaFollette vote of 1924, which the socialists then claimed for themselves, will divide between the democratic and republican parties.

WHILE the Workers (Communist) Party was incurring the wrath of the capitalists and the labor fakers by participating in the struggles of the workers for wages and working conditions, and leading the left wing struggle in the trade unions, the socialist party was busy slandering the Communists and assisting the reactionary labor leaders in ousting the militants. They expected that this treacherous policy would win them the support of the trade union bureaucracy. But this is not Europe, where the social democrats are either running the government for the capitalists or are in a respectable opposition. The labor bureaucrats, being "practical" persons, do not see any sense in sticking their economic necks into the Rev. Norman Thomas's halo. They prefer the more juicy honors of the capitalist parties.

2,000 ILLINOIS MINERS STRIKE AGAINST WAGE CUT

Many Are Dead and Injured, Hundreds of Families Homeless in Florida Hurricane

DEATHS MOUNT IN PORTO RICO STORM DISASTER

Thousands of Peasants Homeless; Great Suffering

Many Mad of Hunger

Great Destruction Is Reported

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 17.—A large number of persons are dead, and hundreds injured as a result of the hurricane which swept across Florida, according to fragmentary reports from the storm-swept east coast today.

West Palm Beach, across Lake Worth, was believed to have been the hardest hit on the basis of these reports. Hundreds of injured and homeless were crowded in temporary hospitals and shelter.

The entire section is without light, power, gas and sewerage facilities, and suffering is obviously greatest in the working class districts.

The food problem was reported especially serious in West Palm Beach.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 17 (UP).—Late reports placed the death list in the Florida hurricane at twenty-seven. Eleven persons, including eight Negroes, were reported killed in the area south of west Palm Beach.

A report that fifteen persons were drowned at Lake Okeechobee reached the United Press in a roundabout manner from Tampa. But with wires in their present condition it was impossible early tonight to accurately check the reports.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 17. (UP).—Porto Rico has been devastated. Hundreds of thousands have been made homeless by Thursday's hurricane.

Thousands of country people are walking the streets of the partly-wrecked towns, begging for food. Some have gone mad from hunger and terror.

Communications have not been restored, but apparently no part of the island escaped. A hundred houses were destroyed in San Juan and the same in most cities. Some towns were heaps of ruins, notably Las Piedras and Yabucoa.

Destruction Everywhere.

No trains are running and no telegraph lines have been established yet. Automobiles move with extreme difficulty over roads choked with debris. Road gangs are work-

CALL PARLEY TO HELP SCHIFFRIN

Worker Organizations Will Meet

A preliminary conference of all working class organizations has been called by the Progressive Butchers and the Grocery Clerks Union for tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the main hall of the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square, it was announced yesterday.

The official call to the conference has already been sent to all labor unions, labor fraternal oranizations unions, labor fraternal organizations to send delegates to the conference, the purpose of which will be to launch a vigorous campaign to secure the release of this militant worker who is in danger of being sent to prison for many years.

A special appeal was made by the committee to the various defense committees already in existence to come to this conference.

Schiffrin is now under a charge of homicide for defending his life against a squad of five "committeemen" sent by the right wing Butchers' Union, who attacked him with knives. The leader of the squad was killed when Schiffrin defended himself with a penknife.

Textile Pickets Fight On Despite Police Terrorism

Scenes like the above are daily occurrences in New Bedford, where 30,000 textile workers are on strike for a living wage. Pickets are shown being attacked by police. Despite police brutality, workers are determined to fight bosses to the end.

The textile workers, dissatisfied with the misleaders of the U. T. W., will build a new militant union. The convention will be held in New York, Sept. 22nd.

NEW CONFERENCE ON RAIL WAGES

Misleaders Work for Sellout

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (UP).—Representatives of 70,000 railroad conductors and trainmen of 55 western railroads were expected to meet with a federal board of mediation here today in a renewed effort to settle a wage dispute which has been the subject of unsuccessful conferences for more than two weeks.

Sessions of the contesting parties failed to result in an agreement early this week. The case may go to President Coolidge, it was indicated today. The train service em-

CLOAK CHAIRMEN MEET TOMORROW

Boston, Philadelphia Hold Rallies

All shop chairmen and shop delegates in the cloak and dress manufacturing industry here will meet at their monthly conference tomorrow evening immediately after work in Webster Hall, 119 E. 11th St., according to the announcement made public from Joint Board headquarters last night.

The status of the organization drive, its results to date, and its extension to all sections of the industry, are to be the chief topics of the discussion at tomorrow's conference. Tentative plans for work have been drawn up by the executive board of the Shop Chairmen's Council, as the monthly conferences are called.

Section 5 to Hold Membership Meeting

A meeting of Section 5, Workers (Communist) Party, will be held tonight at the section headquarters at 2075 Clinton Ave.

Matters of vital importance will be discussed.

Police- Drive Auto Thru Red Election Meet

PATERSON, Sept. 17.—Driving their car right thru a hundred or more workers, police last Friday night broke up an open air meeting of the Workers (Communist) Party.

After bullying the committee in charge of the meeting, the police said that they would not allow any more meetings on that street corner and instructed the chairman to appear before the chief of police the next morning.

The brutal chief of police, John Tracey, famous for his treatment of Paterson workers in a decade of class struggle, was visited by a committee from the Young Workers (Communist) League. He told the committee that they were "interfering with traffic" on that corner and would not be allowed to meet there. Boasting about his ability to handle "labor troubles," he would give no permission for a meeting on a different corner and referred the young workers for such permission to Captain Murphy, "who," the chief said, "is in charge at night, and whose wishes I don't want to override."

ISSUE DUES CALL TO FUR WORKERS

Thousands Pay Strike Tax to Build Union

The decision of the recent membership meeting of the Joint Board Furriers Union on the cancellation of dues arrears for all fur workers not in good standing, reported here recenty, was broadcast thruout the entire fur manufacturing district yesterday in a printed manifesto distributed by the thousands.

Great Response.

Inquiries at the headquarters of the Joint Board show that since the decision on the dues question was made, many hundreds of furriers who had not as yet joined the left wing Joint Board, took advantage of the decision and came to make payments on the $25 tax levied after the victorious strike of 1926.

The manifesto distributed yesterday declares that all workers, registered and unregistered and even

ENDORSE RED TICKET

N. Y. Food Workers Back Foster, Gitlow

The platform of the Workers (Communist) Party and William Z. Foster and Ben Gitlow, Communist candidates, were overwhelmingly endorsed by the Hotel and Restaurant Branch of the Amalgamated Food Workers at a special meting held last night at the union headquarters 133 W. 41st St.

Only two of the workers present refrained from endorsing the Communist ticket. One of them, a member of the socialist party, abstained; the other an admittedly republican worker, recommended consistently enough that the branch endorse Smith.

Leading Communists and members of several food trade unions will speak at a food workers election rally Friday evening at the Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East 4th St., it was announced.

SWEDEN ELECTS 6 COMMUNISTS

Social Democrats Lose Thirteen Seats

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 17.—Six Communists gained seats in the second chamber and the social-democrats lost thirteen seats preliminary results of the elections indicate.

The results for 212 out of the 230 seats show: conservatives, 67; peasants party, 25; liberal, 3; social-democrats, 84; Communists, 6. The conservatives gained 8 seats and the peasant party 3.

The city of Stockholm will hold its elections on Friday to fill the eighteen seats still vacant.

STRIKERS' HAIL MILL CONVENTION

Batty Begs for Chance to Sell Out

BULLETIN

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 17.—The decision of the mill owners association in favor of the speed-up system as well as the ten per cent cut, which was again announced, was met with a pleading appeal to the bosses by W. E. G. Batty of the A. F. of L. Textile Council. Batty is trying to convince the mill owners that he is still able to sell out the strike.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 17.—Rallying of picket forces to meet the approaching sell-out attempt of the A. F. of L. union and the selection of delegates to attend the New York convention that will launch a new national textile workers' union, are the central problems occupying the New Bedford strikers as they enter the 23rd week of struggle against the owners of 56 mills here.

Hold Big Rally.

The huge mass meeting yesterday in Saulniers Lot, discussed chiefly the coming convention, which opens in New York on Sept. 22. Concrete evidence of the seriousness with which the strikers consider this important step in their own struggle can be seen by the response to an appeal by union secretary Eulelie Mendes for money with which to pay the fare of the delegates chosen. No sooner was the call issued when scores walked forward with their contributions of small silver. Not considering the amounts donated and pledged by sympathizers and many British workers there, the coins alone made a total of $95.66. Every meeting of strikers for the past few days has devoted considerable time to a discussion of the approaching convention.

HOOVER BOASTS OF PROSPERITY AS JOBLESS LISTEN

Red Auto Procession Brings Message to Newark Workers

Give 10,000 Circulars

Hoover Thugs Attack "Red Essex"

NEWARK, Sept. 17.—Flaunting the picture of increasing prosperity of big business before the eyes of thousands of workers who listened to him here and before the millions who probably tuned in on the radio, Herbert Hoover tonight delivered a studied bid for the vote of the American workers. Although the speech was devoted to the "labor question," he glossed over or evaded the struggles of the workers in many industries for a living wage and the unemployment question.

In his speech Hoover cleverly disguised the unemployment issue with the camouflage that the several millions who he admitted had been thrown out of work through the introduction of "efficiency" methods, had been "transferred to our filling stations, our garages, our hotels and our restaurants."

The speech which was taken to be a sort of counter move to the recent Al Smith bid for the vote of labor was filled with the usual Coolidge-Hoover statistics attempting to prove that the republican party had brought about if not exactly the millenium was at least on the way of its realization.

The protective tariff, Hoover extolled as one of the pillars of prosperity. The laws restricting immigration he referred to as "the necessary and natural companion piece of a protective tariff." Admitting the lowering status of the farmers, he offered no suggestion for its cure beyond the obscure statement that "one of the large opportunities for the further improvement of labor lies in the further improvement of agriculture."

On the question of injunctions he repeated the Al Smith evasion practically in so many words, that "it is necessary to impose restrictions on the excessive use of injunctions."

Praises Labor Fakers.

He praised the labor fakers indirectly for their class collaboration policies and their "efficiency" unionism and for accepting "the fundamental fact that greater efficiency * * * is the road to cheaper costs, lower prices," and again commended them for having "joined in repelling * * * subversive movements."

While Hoover and his cohort of super-politicians paraded up Broad St. and through Sussex Ave., Newark, early last night, in a line of expensive limousines, a counter-parade was being held by workers of Newark under the direction of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Led by the redoubtable Red Essex, with George Pearlman, veteran of the New York and New Jersey signature collection tours, at the wheel, almost 50 cars, old clanking Fords, outworn Chevrolets, bedraggled cars that wheezed and groaned under the strain of motion, wended its way through Broad St., Broome St., Mercer St., Clinton Ave., Kinney St., Washington St., and Central Ave. to the Essex Armory, after having left the Newark headquarters of the Workers (Communist) Party at 93 Mercer St.

In each little car were packed five, six, seven and even ten workers, crowded inside, hanging on to the running boards, sitting across the fenders. Each worker had prepared for the occasion with a noise-producing instrument; horns and rattles announcing the path of the Communist parade for blocks ahead.

Tied to the backs and sides of the cars in glaring black and red lettering, were signs reading:

"Vote Communist"; "Hooverism means Injunctions and Police Rule for the Workers!" "Hoover and Smith are candidates of Wall Street. Vote for a Workers' Ticket, Vote Communist!" "Vote for William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow, the candidates of the Party of the Class Struggle!"

While the ramshackle cars were noisily cutting their way through

Old Unionist Slashed

Because he was making a plea for unity and democracy B. Chazinoff, whose membership book in Ladies Tailors' Local 38 carries the ledger number 1, was brutally assaulted by Louis G. Rea, Sigmanite official, as he was concluding his speech from the Bryant Hall platform, at a membership meeting last week. Doctors at the New York hospital, where Chazinoff was taken to by members later, found it necessary to take three stitches in the cheek before the wound was closed.

BUTCHERS BUILD THEIR OWN UNION

Leave Corrupt United Hebrew Trades Fakers

No longer able to endure the corrupt officialdom, whose tight clutch on union machinery the membership could not dislodge because of a terror instituted by depriving family men of their jobs and beating up those who protested, a majority of the members of the Butcher Workers Union of the socialist-controlled United Hebrew Trades, yesterday officially severed their relations with that organization and announced the formal launching of the Progressive Butcher and Chicken Workers Union. This was decided upon at a meeting of the seceding members in the headquarters of Grocery Clerks Union, 220 E. 14th St.

To Form Real Union.

At the meeting which came to a close late last night, the speakers showed that they are not splitting an established labor organization, but they are supplanting the "gold mine" of a few socialist reactionaries, with a real organization that will organize the trade and fight to improve the conditions of the workers.

"Between 400 and 500 workers belong to the right wing union in a trade consisting of many thousands," declared the speakers, citing additional proof of corruption by pointing out that H. Korn, the right wing manager, was mulcting the few hundred members out of a salary of $125 per week, added expenses and an automobile to boot.

The beginnings of the breaking away from the rotted United Hebrew Trades organization came recently when several members were expelled for the crime of being

Officials Pass Buck for Subway Wreck

Officials for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company testifying at a hearing in Homicide Court yesterday into the responsibility for the Times Square subway wreck which on August 24 caused the death of 18 and the serious injury of scores of others, sought to divert attention from obvious guilt of the company itself by propounding theories of the possible guilt of some of its employees.

Arthur L. Hess, superintendent of signals, for the company, repeated the earlier theory that "man failure" had caused the wreck. Thus far no one has brought out the fact that the company in failing to replace obsolete material, to repair defective rolling stock and by working its employees inhuman hours so they become overstrained, is responsible not only for this wreck but for numerous others which have occurred during the past few years.

MASS RESENTMENT RAGES OVER NEW VOTE STEAL BY LEWIS-FISHWICK MACHINE

Frank Farrington, Exposed Crook, Endorses Treachery of Harry Fishwick

Coal Diggers Strike Following Overwhelming Vote Against Wage-Cut Sell-Out

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 17.—The seething revolt of the Illinois miners against the last betrayal of the Lewis-Fishwick machine in signing up for a wage cut followed by the referendum steal just put over by the machine broke out today when over two thousand miners went out on strike against the accumulating treachery of the officials.

The miners employed at the Capitol Mine of the Peabody Coal Company struck in a body after a discussion among themselves this morning. They had voted overwhelmingly to reject the wage cut put over by the Lewis-Fishwick machine and have been enraged to the breaking point since the announcement by the officials which clearly showed that a steal had been put over.

Crook Endorses Traitor.

Frank Farrington, former president of District 12, who was exposed as being in the pay of the Peabody Coal Company and is now one of its chief directors, recently issued a statement printed in a Belleville daily paper in which he praised Harry Fishwick and attacked the new miners' union. The endorsement of the crooked Farrington of the treacherous Fishwick is taken as another confirmation of the utter sell-out which the Lewis machine is putting over.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 17 (UP).—More than 2,000 Illinois coal miners in three separate fields walked out of collieries today, refusing to work under the new "Chicago agreement," which reduced the scale of day workers from $7.50 to $6.10 per day.

Six hundred miners in the Springfield district, 675 in the Peoria district and 1,000 in the Belleville district refused to accept the scale adopted last week by a referendum vote of the 90,000 miners in the state, and walked out.

Miners throughout the state reopened today, re-employing several thousand.

Miners Strike in a Body.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 17 (UP).—Six hundred coal miners working at the Capitol Mine, owned and operated by the Peabody Coal Co., went on strike today.

The men refused to work under the terms of the Chicago scale which provides $6.10 a day for day workers. This scale was accepted last week through a state-wide referendum vote.

The men had been working for $7.50 a day, the terms of the old Jacksonville wage scale.

In the miners' referendum last week the miners of the Springfield district cast a heavy vote against the new scale.

After talking the matter over this morning the miners decided to go home.

U. S. S. R. VESSEL FINDS 6 MISSING ARCTIC FLIERS

Intended to Explore Siberian Coast

MOSCOW, Sept. 17. — The six Soviet aviators missing since August 22, who were bound on an Arctic trip of exploration, were rescued by the Soviet steamship Staropol, a wireless message from the ship states.

The aviators had started on the plane, Soviet of the North, from Vladivostock in a tour of investigation over northern Siberia on the fringe of the Arctic circle.

The airplane was wrecked during a storm near Kolyuchin Bay, Siberia, and the six aviators walked more than 200 miles over a desolate and frozen expanse to the coast where the Staropol picked them up.

The aviators had intended to fly along the edge of the Arctic circle to Leningrad, investigating and making records of the little known stretch between the Bering Sea and Leningrad.

Volunteers, Lodgings, Desired for the Textile Convention Here Soon

The arrangements committee for the convention for a new national textile union issued a call yesterday, asking all sympathetic workers to volunteer to assist at the sessions of the convention to be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 22 and 23.

At the same time appeals to all who can accommodate one or more delegates with lodging during the convention, were issued by the committee. Over 250 delegates are expected from many parts of the country, and this problem is most pressing. All who want to assist in the formation of a genuine textile workers' organization are urged to register their names and addresses with I. Zimmerman, at the office of the local section of the Trade Union Educational League, Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square.

DENTAL WORKERS ISSUE CALL FOR RENEWED FIGHT

Expose Role of Yellow Daily Forward

The dental mechanics of New York City and vicinity started to organize about two and a half years ago. The formation of our union was proceeding very slowly as in our first steps we met with very hard tasks. In the early fall of 1928 the executive board decided to engage a professional organizer, as the membership impatiently demanded some action. Some of the executive members mentioned the name of P. P. Cosgrove as an efficient organizer. We knew him only by a few speeches he delivered at our previous mass meetings. A committee of ours met Cosgrove at the office of the Amalgamated Food Workers, and at this conference he accepted our proposition, and arrangements were made that he take office on March 15th. None of us knew about his affiliations, as it was of no interest to us, neither did he show any particular inclinations or dislike to any political parties. He was on the job as trade union organizer only.

Under the leadership of Cosgrove our activities took a faster tempo, and some preparations were made for a coming struggle (later we found that these preparations were not sufficient). At our executive meetings in the early days of May, 1928, we decided to call the strike before the slow season came on. A letter was sent out to the employers for recognition, but the time [illegible] was too short and the letter was ignored.

May 15th, at a mass meeting a strike vote was taken and it was unanimously decided to declare a strike. May 16th the strike was on and in a few days we succeeded in tying up about 85 per cent of the industry. In the first days of the strike we laid a policy not to settle with individual employers, as we considered a settlement with the association as a body of greater advantage to the union.

The fight took a bitter turn. Our pickets were arrested and beaten up; hired stool-pigeons were planted in our ranks by the bosses to carry all the information possible from the headquarters to the office of the association. But the spirit of the strikers was very good. They learned their lesson now, no sacrifices were too big to accomplish the aim of organization. But here we received a painful blow. Our organizer disappeared, without giving us any notice or information of his whereabouts. For a few days we were in fear of a complete failure, but the spirit of the rank and file who went out on strike so enthusiastically encouraged us and we immediately formed a strike settlement committee, under the chairmanship of a devoted rank and filer.

Settle 125 Shops.

We also had at our command a group of progressive dentists who devoted lots of time and energy in helping us carry on the fight. We opened individual settlements, and in a few days we succeeded in settling about 125 shops with about 800 mechanics going back to work under union conditions.

Meanwhile the slow season began and we could not break the stubbornness of the rest of the bosses. Different plans were introduced and we all agreed that the only way out was to join the A. F. L., the parent labor organization. But we found that while on strike we cannot obtain the direct affiliation of the A. F. L., and we decided to apply for a local charter in the I. J. W. U., as:—

1) These two trades have some minor points in common.

2) Through this affiliation get the channels open to organized labor for moral and financial support. (Later we found out that here too we were too optimistic.)

Brother Beardsley, general secretary of I. J. W. U., came down to our meetings, helped us keep up the spirit of the men and served us in advisory capacity, as how to bring this struggle to an end. The charter was granted to us, and negotiations were started with the bosses. We did not get any results and decided to call off the strike temporarily, and send our men back to the jobs in an organized manner. Most of our men got their jobs back, and only because of the exceptionally dull season this year, we have about fifty men on our unemployment list. We expect to place them back as soon as the busy season begins.

The strike was over. Considering our inexperience, and the disappearance of Cosgrove in the middle of the strike, our membership was gratified by the accomplishments—an enlarged membership to about fifty per cent, forty per cent working in settled shops, a strongly crystallized sentiment towards organization and readiness to sacrifice while building. These were the results of our first strike. Now was the time to start slow but constructive organizational work in order to bring in the rest of the men in the trade into the union and unionize the industry 100 per cent.

We laid our plans and prepared for new activities, and here, unexpectedly, we met with a severe attack upon the union by the Daily Jewish Forward. On August 22 we found on the front page, in a little box, an article full of false and misleading statements about our union. Our executive board immediately sent out a letter to the Forward, asking to correct this harm done to us by printing our letter with the real facts. Our letter was ignored. We recollected that in the beginning of the strike a committee of ours appealed to the editor of the Forward for some publicity and moral support, but they were flatly refused. The same thing happened again. No attention was paid to our letter and only on September 6 we find an article concerning our union, this time signed by our international secretary. The heroic struggle and accomplishments of our rank and file are minimized, again the labor organizations and public are misinformed about our activities. We object to the attempt of the Daily Jewish Forward to inject issues foreign to our union into our ranks.

In the name of the entire membership, we hereby declare that we are interested solely in building a powerful union of dental mechanics and that our union is open to every one working in our trade, regardless of his or her political or religious affiliations or of their attitude on social questions.

Mr. Cosgrove is condemned by every worker in the trade for his treacherous desertion in leaving his entrusted position at the most dangerous moment. We are disgusted with the attitude of the Forward, which seeks to make political capital out of the difficulties in our union, and this can only result in dividing and thus weakening our union in the same manner that an organ of employers would do.

Trusting that you give this publication worthy attention, we remain, fraternally yours, H. Posner, chairman; H. Pinkson, secretary; per S. K.

Executive Board of Dental Laboratory Workers Union, Local 84, I. J. W. U., affiliated with A. F. of L.

We are hereby enclosing the letter that we sent to the Forward in answer to their attack on our union.

Daily Jewish Forward,
175 East Broadway,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

In your publication of August 22 we note an article concerning our union. This article makes allegations which are utterly untrue.

The Dental Laboratory Workers Union has to a certain degree successfully concluded their struggle against the employers. To state that one thousand families depending upon dental mechanics are in need now is indeed a misstatement of the truth.

We have succeeded in organizing 75 per cent of the workers in this industry. We have also succeeded in unionizing approximately 65 per cent of the industry. Only 50 dental mechanics belonging to our union are on our unemployment list in our office at 96 Fifth Ave., where all the information about our activities can be obtained. One of the main reasons for this number of unemployed is the exceptionally dull season this year.

On or about the beginning of our struggle, we have made an appeal for assistance to you. You have failed to render us this assistance, moreover you have refused us any co-operation at all.

It is indeed surprising to us that at this late date, many weeks after our struggle has ceased and when our union is in the midst of another organization campaign, for you to publish such derogatory statements. As a labor organ you should have referred to our local office or to the office of the International Jewelry Workers Union, of which we are a part, about the facts in our trade.

In the spirit of fairness, we ask you to publish this communication in the same space allotted to your article so improperly conveying misleading and false information, and expect you to print this letter of ours in the next edition.

Fraternally yours,
H. FOSNER, Chairman.

These conferences will be held regularly at specified periods, for the full participation of rank and file representatives in the work of replacing the corrupt Sigman union with one operated by and for the interests of the waist and dressmakers.

Representatives of the National Organization Committee central offices in New York will attend the conference to assist in launching the organization drive contemplated.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—The right wing's official signal of hysteria, namely, their application to Massachusetts judges for an injunction to save their scab union from being destroyed by the membership, who are swiftly rallyng behind the recently launched local of the new cloakmakers' union, will be the subject of discussion at a mass meeting of Boston cloak and dressmakers called for Wednesday evening, immediately after work in Scenic Auditorium, 12 Barclay St.

Ask Pals To Help!

In addition to calling the attention of needle trades workers thruout the country to the spectacle of "socialists" applying for injunctions against workers, the meeting will serve the purpose of consolidating the gains already made and will also secure the participation of the rank and file in the movement to build a real union of the Boston ladies' garment workers.

elected by the membership to conduct an investigation of the union's finances. With expulsion not sufficient, the "socialist" Korn sent gangster squads to remove the expelled militants from their jobs.

Mass Meet Soon.

The secession sentiment was very sharply precipitated, however, when a gang of right wing committeemen came armed with knives to remove a worker from the job. In this case the armed squad had attacked a friend of the victimized militant, and the friend, William Schiffrin, had defended himself, causing the death of the knife-squad leader.

The leaders of the new union movement declared yesterday that a mass meeting will be called in the near future for the butcher workers, where an organization drive will be launched and where elections of permanent officers will be held. The date will be announced later.

In the statement issued by last night's meeting, it was announced that members of the right wing union can join the new union without payment of an initiation fee. Workers hitherto non-union will pay an initiation fee of five dollars.

MISLEADERS AIM TO BLOCK DRIVE AT ORGANIZATION

Workers Held Under Heavy Bail

Cooperating with two restaurant employers in a frame-up against members of the Unity Waiters' Association, officials of Local 2, Waiters of Brooklyn, yesterday effected the arrest of five workers of the Association who have been held on excessive bail charged with picketing.

The five workers involved are Sam Langland, Max Mironberg, Izzie Bantzman, Philip Saffern, and Dave Siegal, all of whom were arrested on charges of picketing. Bail was set at $500 each, with an additional $300 added for Mironberg, who in addition was charged with attempted assault.

Siegal, who is secretary of the Unity Waiters, was not picketing at all but who after the arrest of the others went to the Coney Island court to see how much bail would be needed and was himself arrested.

"Offense" of Picketing.

The charge of picketing was made by the proprietor of the M. and Z. Delicatessen and Restaurant, 6714 Bay Parkway, Brooklyn, while the charge of attempted assault came from the business agent of Local 2, Waiters, who had put a Local 2 picket line in front of Margulies Restaurant, 6618 Bay Parkway, without consulting the Unity Waiters, who had an agreement with the house. When Mironberg protested, the business agent called the police and had him arrested at the job, where he has been employed the past two months.

At the M and Z, the Unity Waiters had called a strike in protest against the proprietor's recently putting a Local 2 Waiters sign in the window, after having had an agreement for the past year with Unity. Local 2, it was learned, had agreed that the Unity Waiters could stay on the job so long as the Local 2 sign was permitted on display, but officials of this local refused to consider negotiations with the Unity Waiters for a joint organization drive and failed themselves to make any such drive.

To Fight For Organization.

The Unity Waiters Association was organized over a year ago with the view of improving the job conditions of its members, all of whom had appealed in vain for admission into either of the A. F. of L. waiters' unions, Local 1 and Local 2. In the two Brooklyn restaurants where the arrests took place, the Unity Waiters had succeeded in gaining a six day week, 10 hour day, at $18 wages, instead of the 7 day, 12 to 14 hours work under open-shop conditions, with wages ranging from $10 to $15.

Both local 2 of Brooklyn and local 1 of Manhattan have repeatedly fought the efforts of the Unity Waiters to organize the trade.

HOOVER TALKS ON U. S. 'PROSPERITY'

Communists Hold Big Counter Demonstration

the streets of Newark, members of the Young Workers League, gathering from all parts of the state, and using the Hoover entrance as the pivot point for their activities, distributed over 10,000 leaflets, denouncing both Hoover and Smith as candidates of the money interests that are now engaged in the suppression of the workers led by Sandino in Nicaragua, and in China, the Phillipines and in other imperialist militarist activities throughout the world.

While Hoover was delivering his series of fabrications on the unemployment situation in the United States, the Communist automobiles continually circled around the armory, throwing leaflets among the crowds of white and Negro workers outside the huge hall.

At one point in the auto procession, a crowd of drunken hoodlums, each wearing Hoover buttons and bands, attempted to attack the workers in the cars. A group of them succeeded in tearing one of the signs off a car. Immediately the Red workers jumped out of the autos and meeting the attack with double force, drove the hoodlums away.

Throughout the demonstration, over a thousand police, city patrolmen, state troopers and National Guardsmen surrounded the Armory and the streets leading up to it.

The reception in Newark of "the man who had sat in the oil-smeared Harding cabinet and kept his mouth shut" was quite cold and inimical. When he arrived at South Station at 7 p. m. less than 200 people were there to greet him. The persons who lined the streets sparsely were there merely thru curiosity, and booed Hoover as he passed. A stand which had been erected in front of the city hall was left unused thru lack of a sufficient audience.

Spanish Fascist Dictator Sends Greetings to Walker, Fascists' Friend

Miguel Primo De Rivera, son of the fascist premier of Spain, presented the greetings of his father to Mayor Walker, Tammany grafter and friend of all fascists. Walker has received similar greetings from Mussolini, another arch enemy of the workers.

HUGE RED RALLY HERE EEPT. 28TH

At the first huge campaign rally of the Workers (Communist) Party this year, to be held at the Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., Friday evening, Sept. 28, the thousands of workers are expected to jam the doors to hear the state and local candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party.

"Despite unemployment to the official extent of four million, waves of strikes, unprecedented exploitation and speed-up of workers, wage cuts and union smashing, the republican spokesmen continue to blow 'prosperity' bubbles. Andy Mellon's latest clay pipe product will not diminish appreciably the attendance at the Central Opera House on the 28th of the month," said Rebecca Grecht, district campaign manager, in a statement yesterday.

"Merely because the republican platform asserts that 'today American labor enjoys the highest wage and the highest standard of living throughout the world' does not melt the clubs of the police on the picket lines. Neither does the republican claim that the American worker 'is paid a wage which allows comfort for himself and dependents' atone for lay-offs and wage cuts and make the 'prosperity' pill easier to swallow on an empty stomach.

"Precisely because the republican party in its platform pledges itself to maintain the present standard of living for workers and because its democratic rival pledges itself to the same program, through its strikebreaking candidate, Smith, whose activities in the neddle trades strike in New York are notorious, will large masses of New York workers attend the Workers (Communist) Party campaign rally on the 28th."

TOURING IN THE U.S.S.R.

Many Visiting First Workers Republic

A fascinating account of a voyage along the Volga and some of the cities on the route is contained in "Seeing Russia," an illustrated volume by E. M. Newman.

Nizhni-Novgorod is described as a throbbing city in spite of the fact that the fairs for which it was famous under the czars has been abolished by the Soviet Government. "Nizhni," says the writer, "has maintained itself in a position of importance from a remote and vitally interesting past. It is Russia's great gateway to the East, and was established as early as 1912, becoming the capital of a large manufacturing district."

As in Moscow the Kremlin is the great center and heart of the city, as well as its protecting fortress. Upon the hill where it is situated, one obtains a view of a beautiful country, the Volga river, the confluence of the Oka and Vezloma, and the broad fields that stretch away towards the Urals.

"Here," says the author, "is a fine place in which to wander about with no particular destination in view, merely absorbing the atmosphere and observing the people.

"The Kremlin should be visited. It is enclosed within a wall sixty-five to one hundred feet in height and having eleven towers.

"From the Kremlin we go to Alexander Garden, an artificial terrace overlooking the river, and halfway down the slope to the Petcherski Convent." In the convent library may be found some interesting records of the brutal reign of Ivan the Terrible, Newman reports.

Tour Is Planned.

Nizhni-Novgorod is but one of the many cities of interest that may be seen by the visitor in the Soviet Union.

A tour which will take in many cities of the U. S. S. R., including Leningrad and Moscow, and which will give the traveler an opportunity to see many scenes of interest in the Soviet Union is now being arranged by the World Tourists, Inc., 69 Fifth Ave. The next party, which will arrive in the Soviet Union in time to witness the Eleventh Anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, will leave on the "Mauretania" October 17.

Resignation of Rifkin, Now Seems, Has Been Temporarily Postponed

L. Rubinfeld, secretary-organizer of Waiters and Waitresses Local 1, after telephoning the Daily Worker yesterday that the news item printed in yesterday's issue concerning Louis Rifkin's resignation as president was untrue, refused to clarify the situation.

Rifkin's resignation was made in the form of an open announcement from the chair, following a union session lasting until 5 a. m. Friday morning, at which time the meeting adjourned in disorder. Rifkin's announcement of his resignation came after a vote of non-confidence in the strike committee of which he was chairman and which recently concluded settlements of five strikes, three at Trufood restaurants, one at the Elkwood, and one at the Exchange Buffet, Seventh Ave. and 21st St. It was the settlement at the latter place, on strike for over a year, that caused the chief attack when right wingers charged that the proprietor's attorney had received several thousand dollars to effect a settlement.

Whether Rubinfeld's announcement that Rifkin did not resign means that these so-called "progressives" have patched things up with the right wing remains to be soon.

N. Y. JOINT BOARD ISSUE DUES CALL TO FUR WORKERS

Thousands Pay Strike Tax to Build Union

Joint Board members now behind in dues payments, can become members in good standing and retain their former ledger numbers if payments will be made on the $25 tax. This offer, the bulletin states, is limited until Oct. 15. After this date full arrears will have to be paid by applicants, who will also then be considered new members.

Urged to Aid Fight.

The manifesto appeals to the fur workers to rally to build up the left wing Joint Board for a drive to regain all union conditions. The working standards in the fur industry were destroyed by the right wing and A. F. of L. when they carried on a two-year campaign to establish a dual scab union called the Joint Council. The uncompromising struggle of the Joint Board against this agency of the employers has, however, resulted in its complete annihilation. The union is now trying to re-establish union conditions by recruiting membership among those who were forced out of the union by a terror of police, bosses and right wing thugs.

Grocery Clerks' Union Gets Larger Offices as Organization Grows

Announcement that the offices and meeting rooms of the Grocery and Dairy Clerks Union have been removed to larger quarters was made yesterday by its officers. The new location will be at 220 14th St. The union's executive board is scheduled to hold the first meeting in the new offices tonight at 8 o'clock.

The need for more spacious quarters for the union made itself more and more pressing as the union grew tremendously as a result of their organization activities in the three branches of the trade. The last general strike of the union was in the retail fruit stores, when many new members of a formerly unorganized trade were taken into the organization. The remarkable growth of this organization was recorded despite the most vicious strikebreaking opposition from the leaders of the United Hebrew Trades from whom they seceded.

Industrial Production in Soviet Union Has Made a Big Increase, Report Revea

AVERAGE WAGES RISE AS STATE ECONOMY GROWS

More Prosperity Than Last Year

MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—Increase in the average monthly wage of workers together with an increase in the state industries marked the development of the industries in the Soviet Union according to the latest figures of the State Planning Commission.

The wholesale production of the Soviet big industries amounted in July to 718,900,000 rubles as against 578,700,000 rubles in July of last year and for the ten months of the current year (October to July) it amounted to 8,015,000,000 rubles.

Following the provisions of the State Planning Commission that every increase in the production of the industries would be followed by an increase in the salaries of the workers, the average monthly wages of the workers increased from 64.32 rubles in July of last year, to 70.17 rubles in July of the current year.

The production of fuels and minerals also saw a commendable increase for the month of July as compared with July of last year. Coal, oil, cast-iron, iron-ore, cotton yarn were produced in greater quantities for the month than for the same month last year.

As a measure of the increasing prosperity of the workers and peasants figures on the money in circulation can be taken. The general sum of circulating money on August 1 of this year amounted to 1,718,000,000 rubles as against 1,443,000,000 rubles on August 1 of the last year.

Jugoslav Oppressors Recognize Mussolini's Albanian Czar, Zogu

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 17. Ignoring the protest of Croatian and Dalmatian peasants, workers and students, and in spite of the anti-fascist demonstrations that have been taking place throughout the land the abbreviated government at Belgrade has decided to recognize the new Albanian monarchy created by Mussolini.

The government announced that "Jugoslavia found no political or juridicial objection and has no desire to meddle in Albania's internal affairs."

GROWING INFLUENCE OF DAILY WORKER

By LOUIS SISSELMAN.

It is great encouragement to a comrade in the field to see the growth in influence of the Daily Worker. This is especially noticeable in the steel and mine regions in the western part of Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio. I can firmly say that the present campaign of the Daily Worker will go over the top. One has but to come into these regions and realize the bluff of Coolidge prosperity.

Workers in the steel regions earn the miserable sum of 27 to 40 cents per hour. The speed-up system and the spy-system is organized to the highest extent where the bloody rule of the steel trusts prevail.

P. O. with Bosses.

The Post Office is directly connected with the company and any worker receiving the Daily Worker stands a chance to lose his job. In spite of all these difficulties workers responded to the Daily Worker cheerfully, have subscribed to the Daily Worker, in many cases secretly, for they recognize the Daily Worker as the mouthpiece of the oppressed workers.

I have witnessed miners receiving a bundle of Daily Workers in one of the barracks, they were so eager to look at it as starving children are when they receive food. I have met many workers on the road who never heard of the Daily Workers before but when they looked at it they liked it at the first glance and were approached to subscribe to it.

20,000 Signatures.

In many cities where we had no connections before, contacts were established through the Daily Worker. Many readers of the Daily Worker did their share in getting the 20,000 signatures that were required in the State of Ohio. Organizations for the Daily Worker were established such as Daily Worker Builders Clubs and Committees. This was the case in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and Youngstown, Ohio.

In Toledo, Ohio, the comrades have succeeded in raising a fund of $100 to enable 50 comrades to get a three months subscription to the Daily Worker and then these 50 workers will become regular subscribers. These do not include the new subscriptions that were obtained there.

In Buffalo, New York, for instance, besides the 20 new subscriptions that were obtained, a committee was organized to secure enough articles to form a Buffalo booth at the Freiheit and Daily Worker Bazaar in New York.

In, Rochester, New York a conference will be called soon to take up ways and means to build the Daily Worker. At this conference many organizations will be represented.

Distribute "Daily"

The Daily Worker is distributed there at the special noon-day meetings that are held in front of the big Northeastern Electric Co., the large Eastman Kodak factory and other huge industrial enterprises, the workers are eager to get it. The best elements of the working class are interested in the Daily Worker.

I met class conscious Negro workers who were more than glad to receive a copy of the Daily Worker, and are handing them over to fellow workers.

Negro Workers Active.

A Negro comrade in East Liverpool, Ohio is a Daily Worker agent and doing very good work. In Warn, Ohio, where a Negro comrade is a Daily Worker agent in spite of the oppression and terrorism that he is confronted with from the mill barons, he does splendid work for the Daily Worker.

On the whole it can be said that it only requires the devotion of the comrades in every part of the country; that there is a great field for the growth of the Daily Worker, so that it becomes the actual mouthpiece, the collective organizer and educator of the workers in this country, and able to counter-attack the poisonous dope of the capitalist press. At the same time it will pave the way towards our campaigns for the organizations of militant trade unions, for the campaign against war and for the rebuilding of a workingclass revolutionary movement in this country.

believe that prohibition makes for greater efficiency of workers and employers who think that bootleg liquor is destructive of labor efficiency.

Both groups are only interested in the question as it effects the labor power of the worker, he stated, and prohibition is a piece of class legislation to which the Communists are bitterly opposed—"whether Smith or Hoover is elected makes no difference, the prohibition question will not be solved. It is only utilized to work up a semblance of competition between candidates, to stir up public interest in a campaign in which there is no actual difference on any real issue, as both parties are dominated by the same masters."

Minor characterized as trivial and hypocritical the campaigns being conducted by the two old parties, and denounced the endorsement by the American Federation of Labor of their candidates as a "betrayal of the workers." The socialist party, of which Minor was once a member, he described as an ally of the bureaucracy of the trade union movement, for "creating the illusion that the corrupt capitalist system can be reformed and the socialist commonwealth realized by peaceful means."

Clerical Jailed; Four Killed in Train Wreck by Mexican Reaction

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—Charged with having conspired to overthrow the government and with violating the religious laws, a catholic priest, Mateo Chavez, and others were arrested by military authorities of Guadelajara.

At the same time four trainmen were killed and several passengers injured when a band of counter-revolutionaries tore up the rails on the Mexico City-Guadalajara line and wrecked an express. Those killed were the engineer, two firemen and an express messenger. The railway workers have declared that they will refuse to run the trains unless adequate protection against the counter-revolutionaries is given.

this meeting. All laid great stress to the importance of resuming mass picketing as an answer to the Batty sell out plan. They then talked of convention arrangements. Meetings of individual mill committees were still being held for the election of representatives to the convention, the speakers also stated.

Local papers announce that they expect J. Sullivan, president of the mill owners' association to issue a statement on the secret meeting of that organization, held recently. It is expected that the mill bosses will come out with an announcement that they are ready to negotiate for a settlement with Batty. This means that the sellout, whereby the bosses will be granted a speed-up system that means less earnings for the mill workers, is imminent momentarily.

"No settlement is valid without our union. The intended Batty 'settlement' will be rejected by the overwhelming masses of strikers and even by a majority of Batty's own membership," was the defiant message carried in a statement to the press by the Textile Workers Union of the Textile Mill Committees. The statement also declared: "We shall keep fighting for a victory, and we are certain that the majority of Batty's union will join the other thousands of workers in a struggle against a betrayal of their struggle.

More than a hundred strikers successfully carried through picketing demonstrations before the gates of the Paige Mills despite attempts of the police to break them up. Three times the lines of strikers were compelled to reform in picketing formation. Strenuous attempts are being made by the owners of this plant to reopen their plant.

With the aid of straw bosses and lesser superintendents, borrowed from other mills, the Paige factory planned to resume operation of the looms. The bitterly stubborn picketing of the strikers here, despite the many arrests, has to date prevented the turning of a wheel in this large plant.

Casmiero Lamieras, the oft-arrested picket leader, was thrown from his bicycle as he came riding up to the Paige plant picket line. He resumed his activities, however, despite these attempts to maim him.

Over two thousand mill workers in [illegible] joint espionage system of the bosses, the United Textile Workers and the American Federation of Textile Operatives, and came to attend a mass outdoor rally called by the Textile Mill Committees, where the question of the new union convention was to be taken up. The rally was held during an outing of the T. M. C. to the Swansea Woods.

Enthusiastic applause was the greeting given to the announcement of the speakers that the convention in New York will launch a real national organization of textile workers.

This union will be unlike that of Campo's of the U. T. W. and of Tansey of the A. F. T. O. This union will fight for the workers and will not work for the bosses' interest, was the remarks of the speakers, received with tremendous applause.

Guliiermo Esteves, commissioner of the interior, returned from a difficult trip through part of the island today and estimated the total damage at more than $100,000,000.

There is no way of estimating the number of dead and injured, without resorting to guesswork. From authentic reports that reached here, however, it was apparent that at least 200 were dead. Reports received by the United Press from half a dozen points showed a tabulation of 132, and the list undoubtedly will grow when other points are heard from.

Observers See Planned Betrayal.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The expected maneuver on the part of the officials of the union conductors and trainmen to block the demands of the men for wage increases has been made.

These officials are again sitting in more or less secret mediation with representatives of the employers notwithstanding the overwhelming vote of the men for strike action and in spite of their own repeated statements that there would be no more of the interminable conferences by which the railroads have succeeded in postponing action for over two years.

Only further mass pressure on the part of the workers can prevent a certain betrayal, which observers declare the union officials and the railroad magnates are even now working out.

One of the oldest tricks of bosses in order to make the speed-up of the workers faster is to run contests. An old variant of this dodge is the typewriting contest. NEARING TOURING STATES OF SOUTH

Demands End of Race Exploitation

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 17.—Scott Nearing, who is touring the south in the interests of the Workers (Communist) Party, spoke here Thursday evening, presenting the Communist viewpoint on national issues and outlining the revolutionary platform of his Party.

Nearing, a well-known economist who was expelled from the University of Pennsylvania for his radical views, made an appeal for the support of Negroes and other oppressed groups. He said that the Negroes who fled from the south have been as "ruthlssly exploited in the industrial cities of the north." The demands of the Communists, he pointed out, include abolition of all race discrimination, segregation, disenfranchisement, discrimination and also the enactment of a federal law against lynching, and equal opportunities for Negroes with equal pay.

Nearing predicted "an inevitable war between the United States and Great Britain, as the outcome of their rivalry for domination of world markets, so essential to the 'prosperity' of modern imperialist nations. While the United States and Great Britain are now co-operating in the loot of China, together with Japan, this situation has in it the germs of future conflict on the Pacific."

Nearing, who is candidate for governor of New Jersey, will make a tour of all the principal cities of Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania during the election campaign.

Negro Debators Show Communism Is Solution of Oppressed Workers

Before a large audience, a debate on the subject "Resolved that Communism Is the Only Solution for the Oppressed and Exploited Negroes," was held last Sunday evening at the St. Marks Church.

C. Phillips, for the affirmative, pointed out that Communism is an international movement based upon the oppressed masses both at home and in the colonies. He said that the Communist Party was a true revolutionary party, and the only party which could free the Negroes, together with the workers of the world, from oppression. He also pointed to the fact that three Negroes were on the Communist Party ticket and that for the first time in the history of American labor, a Negro had been elected vice-president of a union,—referring to the election of William Boyce as vice-president of the newly organized National Miners' Union.

180 POLITICAL PRISONERS FACE DEATH IN JAPAN

Anti-Monarchist Acts Charged by Govern't

(Red Aid Press Service)

TOKIO, Japan (By Mail).—The law passed in Japan providing the death penalty for anti-state and anti-monarchist propaganda has a special importance, since in the near future a large number of processes against persons who have carried on anti-government and anti-monarchist propaganda will take place.

In April of this year it is known that mass arrests have taken place in Japan, 385 arrests being reported in the newspapers. Of these 180 were held in jail. The arrested are charged with anti-state and anti-monarchist propaganda.

With the new law passed providing death for such activity these prisoners face certain death.

arpet Worker Exposes "New Departure," Scheme of Bosses for Further Slavery

G WAGE CUTS FOLLOW IN WAKE OF THE SYSTEM

'Worker Council' Other Plan of Owners

(By a Worker Correspondent)

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (By Mail.)—Several weeks ago the most skilled workers of the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Co. went out on strike for an increase in wages, stayed out about a day or so and suddenly went back to work again, but the next day the company announced a ten per cent cut in the wages of all the workers in the mill, excepting those that were on strike. The next day the latter got an increase in wages of from five to ten per cent. Which means that the company cut the wages of 80 per cent of the workers in the mill and increased the 20 per cent, thus dividing them one set or craft against the other; and finally introduced the "New Departure," which is quite well explained in the enclosed clipping.

This "New Departure" is being followed by all of the bosses around this part of the country, including Hartford, New Britain, Middletown, etc.

The U. S. Rubber Co. in Hartford the other day announced the formation of a "workers council" in the plant. The way this company is proceeding is by selecting three of its "stools," to be proposed to the workers, to vote for and "elect" them as "their representatives" to meet with three of the representatives of the company to form the so-called "workers council" in the plant. A seventh member to the council is to be appointed by the board of directors. These schemes are being introduced by the bosses, and the limitless exploitation is going on while the so-called leaders, or rather misleaders, of labor are meeting in New London, and instead of conceiving plans how to organize the 98 per cent of the unorganized workers in this state, they are harping about "this firm being unfair to labor," that "hair tonic be-on the black list, etc.," which all goes to show that they are like dogs under the master's table barking for crumbs.

CHARLES MITCHELL.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The scheme, related in the clipping, which appears below, by which the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Co. plans to form a "workers council" of stools cannot receive too careful attention from every worker. Similar schemes, under this or other names, are being employed wholesale throughout the United States to delude and further control the workers, in the interests of class collaboration, that is to say, in the bosses' interests.

Notice the bait at the end of the third paragraph.

A NEW DEPARTURE

The Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Co. announces a new plan of conducting business which is an innovation as regards employe participation in the management of the company.

Three separate groups have been established, a works council, a foremen's council and an advisory board, each with definite activities in regard to improvement of working conditions, bettering manufacturing methods and generally promoting a spirit of co-operation, harmony and good fellowship throughout the plant.

In addition to the three groups, a suggestion system also is to be installed, providing for boxes to be placed about the mill in which employes are to deposit signed suggestions on any matter pertaining to plant problems. Cash rewards are promised for suggestions which result in manufacturing economies of improved quality.

Here is the novel plan as it has been worked out and is ready for the great experiment.

Membership in the works council shall be limited to workers only. That is, no one in a supervisory capacity shall be eligible for membership in this group.

So far as is possible, representation in the works council shall be on the basis of one representative for every seventy-five employes in a department. Where small departments make this impossible, the employes of several rooms shall be considered as one unit, so as to make up the required number.

In order to get the organization started, the overseers have appointed temporary members from their respective departments. These temporary members shall comprise the works council until the first regular election has been held. It should be thoroughly understood that although these members have been arbitrarily appointed, as soon as the organization is functioning smoothly, membership in it will be possible only by election.

The advisory board shall be appointed by the management of the company, and shall consist only of the several departments.

The purpose of this body shall be to adjust points of issue upon which the works council and the foreman's council might not agree, and any other executive matters that may come before it.

The statement says in part: "It is the sincere wish of the management of your company that every employe in the plant will enter into this program with a hearty spirit of co-operation, for it is only in this way that effective work can be done and the fullest benefits derived. Let us all take advantage of this opportunity to share in the management of the plant in which we earn our livelihood."

Mayor Pays Visit to Fascist Friends; Jobless Starve, Mayor Revels

Mayor Walker paid a visit the other day to his fascist chums aboard the Italian motor liner Augustus. Walker is shown above in the center, helping the fascist officers of the ship to squander the money wrung from the Italian workers slaving under the Mussolini terror.

CLUB MEETS NEED OF THE JEWELERS

Is Welcomed; Growth Is Rapid

(By a Worker Correspondent)

When the Jewelry Workers Welfare Club was organized five months ago, it was confronted with the difficult task of drawing in the demoralized, disorganized jewelry workers who by now were getting tired of being called repeatedly to union mass meetings which always resulted in a fizzle.

But in spite of the prevailing conditions the organization of our club was welcomed immediately by the workers and it has had a healthy steady growth since.

Need for Club.

The few affairs that we have had in this short period of activity have proved to the most pessimistic of us the great possibilities and great need of such an organization.

Still the growth of our club, altho it is a social mutual aid club, has greatly alarmed the right wing jewelry bosses of Local 1, International Jewelry Workers Union. Upon learning of the existence of the club, they immediately called together their fellows and passed an illegal resolution condemning the club as a dual union. And they then proceeded to expel illegally all the most active members of the club who happened also to be the most active members of the union.

They were so sure of the demoralizing effect of their terror that the president predicted that "at the next dying meeting the club will automatically disband." He pointed to the successful elimination of the former general - secretary, Abe Greenstein, by Local 1 and the International and predicted the same fate for the club.

Allege Greenstein Was Corrupt.

That there is no comparison between the two cases does not appear to Beardsley and Co. They don't realize that Abe Greenstein was a corrupt, unscrupulous individual who was hated by all the progressive elements in the International. Now it is Mr. Beardsley, who was then in the opposition, who uses Greensten's dirty tactics and is in turn despised by all progressive elements. But their desperate tactics only make matters worse for them. Already some of their supporters who even voted to outlaw the club, have broken away from them, joined the club and are among its active members.

While the Beardsley crowd in desperation commit blunder after blunder, the club grows in numbers and influence. We are already arranging a ball and concert for November 3, at New Webster Manor.

We appeal to all jewelers not to hesitate but to join the club and help to build up an organization of jewelry workers that will raise the jewelers from their present chaotic state of mind into class conscious workers.

It is also up to the members to take advantage of the present favorable sentiment among the workers and to draw them into the club in greater and greater numbers.

All jewelers should also get into the Union and see to it that we clean Local 1 of the clique that is retarding its growth. Demand a new organizer, a new executive board, instead of the hand-picked deadheads. Demand the re-instatement of the expelled members and the activization of all elements willing to work to build up a strong union.

Beardsley and his clique would not and could not build the union. They must go! —S. C.

ITALY PREPARES FASCIST FORCES

Largest Army; Strong In Aviation

ROME, Italy, Sept. 17.—Mussolini's government has entered the world race in armaments, well in the lead, having during the last five years attained a status with the first class powers in aviation and chemical warfare, maintained one of the largest armies n Europe and has rebuild its old navy and added considerably to its naval forces.

Its ship-building program for the year 1927-28 includes two cruisers of 10,000 tons each, twenty swift destroyers, 15 submarinnes varying from the large cruising type to the smaller swift type, a school ship and other smaller craft. During the last year three submarines and one cruiser were launched. This building program follows in its general lines the program of the British and French navies, who are also building small effective battleships instead of the old-type large and clumsy warships.

The airplane building fury here is already too well known to need further description, for Italy is ranked among the first of the aviation powers. Besides the regular army, the National Fascist Militia, numbering 300,000 men, is being kept in constant practice by numerous maneuvers, and is used also for the suppression of "rebellious" elements at home.

"END OF ST. PETERSBURG" AT PLAYHOUSE

This week the Playhouse Theatre in Chicago is presenting the latest wonder film from the studios of Soviet Russia, "The End of St. Petersburg."

This film is a wonderful realistic record of the entire crash of the Old Russian government. Pudowin the director has taken for his chief figure a bewildered youth, who goes to the city and becomes part of the great overturn. But the hero of the picture is really the mass of Russian workers and farmers. The story is told violently, in sharp flashes, lashing at capitalism with irony and hate. The film catches the restlessness of a whole sullen people in the chaos of revolution.

COOLIDGE BACKS 15-CRUISER BILL

Enters Competition After Kellogg Pact

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—While naval officials are stating that the Kellogg pact "is one thing and the navy's needs are another," and President Coolidge has declared that the United States navy bill will continue in its construction program in spite of the Franco-British naval pact, certain interests here are beginning to propagandize for the passage of the 15 10,000 ton cruisers bill.

The Franco-British naval pact restricts the construction of 10,000 ton cruisers while allowing freedom in the construction of smaller and speedier craft, which is not in accord with the policy of the United States navy. The bill will provide for the construction of 15 large cruisers during the course of three years.

In discussion among officials here it was emphasized that despite their signatures to the Kellogg treaty to "outlaw war" Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy are not slowing up their programs of naval construction.

LABOR FAKERS WAX FAT, IGNORE KODAK WORKERS

Green Is Guest of Open Shop Boss

(By a Worker Correspondent)

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (By Mail).—With slight opposition, Governor Al Smith, one of Wall Street's candidates for president, recently received the formal endorsement for the president of the United States by the 65th annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor assembled here. In this action, organized labor of New York State was again mislead and betrayed.

"Opposition Steam-Rollered."

When the resolution endorsing Governor Smith was voted upon, there were about half a dozen "noes." Edward Walsh and Theodore H. Freese, Rochester delegates of the Typographical Union, asked for a division of the vote. President Sullivan, veteran labor faker, rejected this demand with the remark that "I see and I hear that the vote is overwhelming."

"Then we ask to be recorded in the negative," shouted Walsh and Freese, who support the republican machine. But President Sullivan quelled the uproar by pounding the gavel while other resolutions were being railroaded through. Resolutions favoring the recognition of the Soviet Union and amalgamation of craft unions were rejected by the labor fakers.

Pay Raises For Fakers.

Pay increases of $1,000 each was voted to John Sullivan, president and John M. O'Hanlon, secretary-treasurer. This brings their salaries up from $7,000 to $8,000 a year.

At the opening session, President William Green of the A. F. of L., lauded the candidate of Dupont and Rascob as "the great friend of the labor movement." This was part of his "prosperity" hokum.

Mr. Green "forgot" to mention the great nation-wide offensive of the bosses which is fast wrecking everything worth while in the A. F. of L. Not once did he mention the struggle of the miners, the textile workers, and needle trades. He readily dispensed with the problem of organizing the unorganized workers, by denouncing them in the following words: "Those who are on the outside, working 10 and 12 hours a day, have only themselves to blame, because they are working a greater number of hours than are included in the recognized working day."

"For Efficiency and Speed-Up."

"High wages and greater production go hand in hand and combine to make a high standard of living." Mr. Green does not wish to be reminded about the wage-slashing campaign that accompanies increased production in every big industry—in mining, textile, steel, and others.

"This is a golden age," Green continued, when referring to the present high productivity of labor. He urged greater productivity for every worker.

Distribute Kodak Shop Paper.

Every one of the 600 delegates to the state convention was handed a copy of the latest issue of the "Kodak Worker," organ of the Communist nucleus in Eastman's plants. A special letter appearing on the front page was addressed to the delegates of the A. F. of L. state convention.

The letter cites the betrayals by the A. F. of L. leadership of trade unions and calls for their removal. It also points to the millions of unorganized workers in auto, steel, rubber, and other plants that the A. F. of L. willfully refuses to organize, and calls upon the workers to support the Communist Party program for such work and in the coming elections. President Green, in his opening speech, indirectly referred to the Kodak Worker and other shop papers published by Communist factory groups as not being representative of the sentiment of the American worker. The fact that the Kodak Worker provoked such an attack vindicated the real position of this Communist factory organ.

To give further proof that capital and labor can travel arm-in-arm William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, broke away from the convention sessions to be the guest of Mr. George Eastman, "Kodak King," notorious open-shopper of the city. Mr. Eastman is the virtual boss of this town having recently forced the city-manager form of government on to the city because it enables him to more efficiently control the local government. The present city manager is a former Eastman employee.

The luncheon took place at Mr. Eastman's home, 900 East Ave. Accompanying Mr. Green were several other labor fakers of the A. F. of L.

While Green dined and wined with George Eastman, one of the Eastman plants, Camera Works, recently discharged 65 metal polishers, members of the A. F. of L. with whom the company had a verbal agreement. The men were receiving 94 cents an hour and were discharged and others rehired at about 55 cents an hour. The Eastman Kodak Co. is pursuing a similar policy in other departments. Eastman, the symbol of reaction and the open shop, welcomed Mr. Green and his fellow labor fakers into the city.

The Old Fashioned Gangster Is Revived in "Trapped"

THE gangster who subsidizes grand opera and reads the American Mercury, the cop who lectures on behaviorism and the banker who knows enough to get in out of the wet, have given way to their professional ancestors, of the fierce mustache, scanty vocabulary, epileptic movements, and half-wit innocence, in the melodrama called "Trapped" by Max Marcin and Samuel Shipman at the National Theatre.

As a work of art it is eminently successful in creating the choicest aggregation of dumbells that ever deserved to starve with hunger. The hokum is so plentiful that it keeps the audience constantly wondering what piece of idiocy is going to turn up next.

None of the characters has enough intelligence to qualify for a job as trained ram in the Chicago stockyards. The play is an insult to the holdup profession and had Mr. Shipman dared to present his libel in Chicago, he would be well advised to buy a bulletproof vest from Mr. Goldberg of Philadelphia before visiting the Windy City. After all there are things that even a patient gangster cannot put up with.

A wealthy banker was happy in the possession of much money and a daughter. A group of kidnappers on the lookout for business, picked on him. Unless he came across with two hundred and fifty grand, they would slice the flapper into sandwich meat and present her to him in a sack. A messenger in the employ of the fond parent's bank was induced to call for the swag. A police inspector, who evidently knows what an adult moron looks like, complicates things by mistaking the young man for a bandit. The young man conducts himself as if he had just arrived by air mail from Sleepy Hollow. His imbecilities helped the inspector play his jackass role with inimitable skill. Taxi drivers, butlers and more taxi drivers appear, much excited, a state that did not communicate itself to the audience. With the aid of the inspector and the young bank messenger the flapper gets kidnapped, but thanks to a 100 per cent American in the gang and the half-wittedness of the bank messenger, the gangsters made a sorry mess of the business and wound up by getting pinched—just like that.

Up until the last moment the audience would be justified in believing that the police inspector was the head of the kidnapping gang, but that may be due to reading the newspapers.

The Americanism of one of the gangsters breaks out when he refuses to sanction the murder of the kidnapped fraulein saying: "This is a dirty foreign business anyhow." You see the gang was mostly composed of Sicilians.

The outstanding character in the play is Felix Krembs as the gang leader, who is over six feet and well mustached. Calvin Thomas, the 100 per cent American who showed reform tendencies after he had become muscle-bound cutting up bodies, Edward Woods as the bank messenger, John Miltern as the inspector and William Ingersoll as the banker, are entitled to their pay.

DUNCAN, A. F. L. OFFICIAL, DIES; PAL OF GOMPERS

Was of Old School of Misleaders

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 16.—The death of James Duncan, former vice president of the American Federation of Labor and close pal of Samuel Gompers last Friday, marks the passing of the old line of labor misleaders who founded the Federation and who for a generation directed the organization along the lines of careful and limited collective bargaining.

Duncan, like his close associate Gompers, was always a bitter enemy of progressivism and militancy which they attacked with the customary epithets about "Reds." At the same time these old misleaders differed from the present more open labor traitors who rule the Federation, in carrying on a struggle against restrictive legislation which threatened labor and against the company union.

Duncan was president of the Granite Cutters' International Union. In 1924 on the death of Gompers, he sought to become president of the Federation. Because the new group of younger and more aggressive misleaders voted him down, he threatened to resign. He retired in 1925. He was seventy-one years old.

John Watt, Ben Gold and Other Militant Leaders to Speak at Big Mine Meet Thursday

WORKERS OF NEW YORK WILL HEAR OF CONVENTION

Watt Will Tell Story of New Union

With only two days remaining, preparations are being speeded to make the big solidarity mass meeting at Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., on Thursday night, one of the greatest demonstrations ever held in this city.

Workers throughout the city are eagerly waiting to hear John Watt, first president of the new National Miners Union, give a report of the historic Pittsburgh convention. He will call upon the workers of New York to launch a campaign that will enable the miners to keep up their fight to build a strong union of the rank and file.

Another leader in the struggle of the workers for a real rank and file union, Ben Gold, general organizer, Joint Board, Furriers Union, will also speak and bring a message of solidarity with the fighting miners. Other speakers include Hyman Koretz, Cloak and Dressmakers Union; Gladys Schechter, Millinery Workers Union; Harold Williams, secretary of the Negro Committee for Miners Relief, and representatives from the Youth Conference for Miners Relief and the Children's Relief Scout groups. They will pledge the support of the workers of New York and the working class youth and children to the fighting miners.

The National Miners Relief Committee, 799 Broadway, and the Shop Delegates Conference for Miners Relief are arranging the meeting.

INDIA TEXTILE STRIKE STRONG

(Red Aid Press Service)

LONDON, (By Mail).—In Sholapar, the province of Bombay, the struggle in the strike of the textile workers has become sharper in the last few days. As the London "Times" reports, it came to various conflicts between the strikers and the strikebreakers, since the pickets have carried on an energetic resistance to the breaking of the strike.

Many arrests have taken place. The strikers are reported to have decided to ignore the orders of the police.

Gov't Admits Bad Conditions of Negroes

WASHINGTON, Sept. [illegible]—Inadequate educational, health and economic opportunities for the Negro workers in the United States are admitted by the bureau of education. This admission by the education department comes soon after a similar admission in regard to the American Indians.

There are only 48,000 Negro teachers in the country. Upon this group rests the task of teaching 5,000,000 Negro school children.

YANKS AND GIANTS BOTH WIN GAMES

(By United Press)

The Yankees gained a half game on the Philadelphia Athletics in the American League pennant race Monday by defeating the St. Louis Browns, 12 to 2, while the Athletics were idle. The Yankees now lead the Athletics one full game.

In the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals maintained their two game lead over the New York Giants by winning from the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 2. The New York Giants defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9 to 2, and the Chicago Cubs won from the Boston Braves 15 to 5.

Carl Hubbell held the Pirates to seven hits while the New York Giants found Brame and Blankenship for fourteen to win the 9 to 2 decision. Home runs by Mel Ott and Jimmy Welsh in the fourth inning accounted for four New York runs. Pie Traynor accounted for the two Pittsburgh runs by a home run with a man on base in the sixth inning.

Jim Bottomley, St. Louis Cardinal first baseman, hit a home run in the seventh inning with High and Frisch on bases to give the Cardinals a 5 to 2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. The Phillies tied the score at two all in the sixth inning only to have the Cardinals come back and score three runs on Bottomley's homer in the seventh. Willoughby relieved Caldwell in the seventh and held the Cardinals hitless.

ELECTION RALLY OF FOOD WORKERS FRIDAY EVENING

Will Hear Platform of Workers Party

The last two weeks of the drive for signatures to put the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot in New York finds the total number of signatures thus far secured to be 10,000, or approximately two-thirds of the total number required.

The response of the membership in New York to the signature drive has been exceptionally good, according to Rebecca Grecht, district campaign manager, who, in a statement last night, urged all campaign directors of the city not to let up in the intensity of the signature drive. "In order to complete the task which we began so well it is necessary that we procure 2,500 signatures for each of the remaining two weeks of the drive," she said.

Red Sunday in Williamsburg.

Sections 2 and 3, the backbone of the signature drive in the city, will mobilize next Sunday in Williamsburg to put across the Fourteenth and Sixth Assembly Districts. The candidates here are George Primoff and Herbert Zam.

According to A. Bimba, organizer of the Williamsburg section of the Workers (Communist) Party, if the Red Squads of Sections 2 and 3 obtain as many signatures in Section 6 as they obtained in Harlem on Sept. 9, both assembly districts will be put across with a safe margin.

BALBOA, C. Z., Sept. 17 (UP.) George M. Hanson, United States consul at Colon, died today of heart disease.

One Tobacco Worker Killed; Many Injured as Truck Hits Train

HAZARDVILLE, Conn., Sept. 17 (UP).—One tobacco worker was killed and two others seriously injured when a truck they were riding was cut in two by a train at Davis' Crossing, three-quarters of a mile North of Hazardville depot, today.

Adam Moresky, 17, died at the depot shortly after the accident. Joseph Starno and Anna Koneski were taken to the hospital. Starno was the driver. All were of Somerville.

CHICAGO LEADS IN "SUB" DRIVE

Build the "Worker" Drive Growing

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Chicago, with forty-five subscriptions to its credit, has forged ahead in the inter-city contest to build the circulation of the Daily Worker. Detroit, recently in the lead, is a close second with thirty-eight.

With the campaign beginning to gather momentum, cities thruout the country are reporting excellent results. Toledo rendered an excellent account for itself yesterday, by sending in eight subscriptions.

The results of the build the Daily Worker drive are evident in New York City where the circulation has increased by 300 in the last two weeks. All forces must be mobilized to intensify the campaign.

Hoover Evades All Issues

The speech of Herbert Hoover at Newark Monday evening did not differ in the slightest from the consistent misrepresentation of the unemployment situation in the United States that has characterized the Mellon-Coolidge administration since the beginning of the crisis last year. Blissfully ignoring the real facts regarding unemployment, Hoover declared that the unemployed army was being again absorbed in industry. He stated that when the republican administration assumed direction of the government in 1921, "there were five to six million unemployed upon our streets," and added that the intervening period has been marked by the elimination of this army of jobless workers.

This is in flagrant contradiction to the known facts that place the present unemployed army at between four and five million.

In perpetuating the Coolidge myth of prosperity for all sections of the population, Hoover—the candidate of "rationalization"—declared that the "increased efficiency of our whole industrial machine" was responsible for it. There is no denying a great increase in industrial output, but to say that this was accompanied by an increase in the number of industrial workers employed is to resort to deliberate lying—an art at which Mr. Hoover is especially adept. Even a cursory survey of the reports of his department of commerce will reveal the fact that he is entitled to a high rating in the Ananias club.

One of the outstanding facts of American economic life is the pronounced decline in the number of workers employed in industry during the period of rapid development of the productive forces of the country. The statistics describing the decrease in the number of employed in the years 1919, 1925 and 1926, appeared in the "Annalist" of March 9, 1928, and are as follows:

	1919	1925	1926
Big Industries..	10,689,000	9,772,000	9,850,000
Mining	1,065,000	1,065,000	860,000
Transport (railways)	1,915,000	1,744,000	1,782,000

While this decrease of industrial workers was taking place, there was an increase of more than 25 per cent in the volume of industrial commodities produced. The year 1921, the year of depression spoken of by Hoover, is deliberately ignored and only those figures given for years of prosperity. Thus, it is clearly seen that the much-vaunted increased efficiency, the rationalization of industry, of which we hear so much from the Mellons, the Hoovers and their agents in the labor bureaucracy, (the Greens, the Lewises, the Wolls) results in a steady increase of unemployment even during the periods of greatest prosperity.

Likewise the statement of Hoover that wages will rise under such conditions is contrary to all experience. Increased efficiency means more unemployment, which in turn means keener competition for jobs, with a resultant fall in wages and a lengthening of hours for those who still remain employed.

The election of Hoover, the apostle of rationalization, or of Smith, whose advisors haven't even the brains to devise such sophistries as are used by the republicans, means for the working class a continuation of the process that has been rapidly displacing workers in industry even in the years of greatest prosperity.

Not only that, but in Mr. Hoover's speech at Newark we find an emphatic condemnation of any form of social legislation calculated to relieve the unemployed. He scornfully refers to "doles to the idle" as a "device of desperation," and flatly informs the workers that they need expect nothing from the government in the form of relief for unemployment. "Fear of old age and for the future of the family has been lessened through increased payments to the savings banks and the insurance companies and to our labor benefit societies," declared Hoover. Not one single word about placing upon industry the task of relieving the workers who have contributed to the unexampled prosperity for the capitalist class and who have been thrown upon the scrap heap of industry.

Speaking in New Jersey, where unemployment is rampant, where wages have been cut until the workers in desperation have waged long, bitter, militant struggles against the highly protected textile industry, Mr. Hoover had the audacity to praise the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill as beneficial to labor.

Like his rival old party candidate, the democratic party nominee, Al. Smith, the republican nominee was forced to pay a tribute to the militant fight of the left wing of the labor movement against the use of injunctions by declaring that "it is necessary to impose restrictions on the excessive use of injunctions." But like Smith, he is careful not to urge the abolition of injunctions against labor. So widespread has been the defiance of injunctions against labor that the capitalist politicians have been forced to mention these attacks against the very existence of the trade union movement. But both Hoover and Smith, while pretending to oppose what they call the abuse of the injunctive power, are in reality trying to save the injunction and the injunction judges from the wholesale contempt of the working class—Smith by speaking favorably of "necessary" injunctions and Hoover against their "excessive" use. Obviously they become necessary to Smith and his sponsors, the Raskobs of General Motors and the Owen D. Youngs of the scab-herding, strike-breaking General Electric, when the workers are likely to defeat the capitalists. As to Hoover, it is certain such injunctions as that issued against the miners of Pennsylvania by a republican lackey of the Mellon interests, Judge Schoonmaker would not be viewed as excessive.

In his Newark speech Hoover only dealt indirectly with the international situation; citing imports and exports and referring to the world's trade only as it was alleged to affect national economy. Boasting of the enormous exports of commodities and gold, and referring to the supreme position of the United States, Hoover was indeed the very personification of arrogant, vicious imperialism. Like all of his class, like all the ruling classes that have held sway in all the history of slavery, Hoover imagines the supremacy of his class will last forever. He does not appear to perceive that the continual strengthening of the position of American imperialism at the expense of the other imperialist powers, especially England and Japan, contains the germs of another world war. And even though he could perceive this fact he would not dare mention it in his campaign speeches for the simple reason that as long as capitalism exists there will be a continuous state of war or preparations for war—all periods of peace are but armed truces.

Only the party of the working class, the party of the proletarian revolution, the Workers (Communist) Party, has a program that will solve the problems facing the working class of the country. Only our candidates stand on a platform that meets the issues of unemployment, the use of injunctions and other means of oppression against labor. Not one other party aside from the Workers (Communist) Party has a program of social legislation that takes up the question of the condition of the working men, women and children. And the one Party that faces the issue of the danger of another world war and offers the only conceivable solution—the revolutionary solution—is the Workers (Communist) Party.

Appropriate Commemoration of Hamilton

It is eminently fitting that the republican politicians as well as the democratic patriots should pay homage to Alexander Hamilton on the opening day of "constitution week." Last Sunday the managers of Hoover's campaign placed wreaths on the tomb of Hamilton in Trinity churchyard.

The political puppets of the most malignant reactionary force in the whole world—American imperialism—tribute to the man who was the very incarnation of the counter-revolution that took place in the United States after the first war against England.

The adoption of the constitution by a secret, illegal conspiracy of business men and its imposition upon the colonies by organized terrorism, with Hamilton leading the reactionary forces against the ideals expressed in the Declaration of Independence, penned by the avowed Jacobin, Thomas Jefferson, signalized the definite consolidation of the forces of reaction.

Both democrats and republicans sing peans to Hamilton. The reactionaries of today pay homage to their prototype of yesterday.

NEW LONDON, Conn. (By Mail).—These printed words give the only account of a labor gathering held in this city. None of the capitalist sheets, giving as they do columns of space to the most trivial and petty "events" found the 43rd annual convention of the Connecticut Federation of Labor important enough to waste two lines of type on it.
